'Arafat subsequently arrived in Saudi Arabia, where he called for a "jihad" to liberate Jerusalem, according to reports by SPA. MENA reported that the PLO leader is likely to visit Egypt in October, and PLO sources cited by INA disclosed that 'Arafat will soon visit Moscow.

Algeria

Police forcibly dispersed demonstrators attempting to march on the U.S. Embassy on 25 September, according to AFP. The marchers, who were protesting the Beirut massacres, denounced Arab "silence and treachery" over the killings. A similar demonstration was dispersed the following day, AFP said.

PDRY

The PDRY and YAR must take further steps toward Yemeni unity through a fraternal and democratic dialogue, PDRY leader 'Ali Nasir Muhammad stated in a 25 September speech broadcast by Aden radio.

Iranian Pilgrims in Saudi Arabia

Saudi police broke up a gathering of Iranian pilgrims in Mecca on 24 September and arrested Iranian pilgrim supervisor Musavi-Kho'ini, Tehran radio reported. The Iranian Foreign Ministry issued a statement, carried by the radio, condemning the beatings and arrests of pilgrims and accusing the Saudis of violence and provocation to silence pilgrims who demonstrated against Israel and the United States. The statement called on the Saudis to allow such demonstrations. After several hours, Musavi-Kho'ini was released, but a number of other Iranians are still under arrest and 30 were wounded, IRNA claimed. In a statement carried by Riyadh radio, a Saudi Interior Ministry source confirmed that Saudi security forces had dispersed a gathering of Iranian pilgrims, asserting that the assembly had disturbed pilgrims and was a violation of the hajj and Saudi laws.

Iran-Iraq War

Khamene'i Speech -- Iranian President 'Ali Khamene'i, in a speech to troops in the western front, said Iran will not wait forever before reacting to the "conspiracy" of nations who want it to remain in a position of neither peace nor war, Tehran radio reported. He asserted that Iran has not yet taken the "last step" against Iraq because it respects efforts for a settlement, but that the Iranian position of "patience and silence" may change. Khamene'i affirmed that the battles will continue in defense of Iranian territorv and later told reporters that shortages and problems in the military have improved and that morale is still high, the radio said.

Hammadi Discusses War, Syria -- Interviewed by the paper ATH-THAWRAH on 26 September, Iraqi Foreign Minister Sa'dun Hammadi emphasized that if Iran carries out new attacks against Iraqi territory, Iraq will contact Arab nations to implement the Fes Arab summit resolution on Arab unity against an aggression. He claimed that Iraq continues to have the initiative in battle, especially in air and naval activities. He criticized Syria's support for Iran but reaffirmed that Iraq has tried to settle its differences with Syria.

Military Situation -- An Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio on 25 September claimed that 23 Iranians died from shelling in the central battle sector; IRNA and Tehran radio reports said that over 50 Iraqis were killed near Mehran and that part of the Al-Faw oil installations in Iraq were destroyed.

Pakistan

President Ziaul Haq described Pakistan's relations with the PRC as "excellent" and said he is hopeful that Indo-Pakistani relations will continue with the current positive trend. In an interview with the BANGKOK POST, Haq stressed that Pakistan is not receiving military assistance from the United States, but instead is only purchasing military equipment from the Americans. He said there is no question that the Afghan refugees in Pakistan will return to their country once Soviet troops leave, and appealed for more assistance from other countries for the refugees. Nuclear energy will be used for "peaceful purposes," he emphasized, adding that Pakistan has no intention of acquiring or manufacturing nuclear weapons. On domestic issues, Haq expressed satisfaction with the economic situation and said a representative Islamic government with election is the ultimate objective for his government.

GANDHI RETURNS FROM WEEKLONG USSR VISIT

BK261243 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Text] Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi returned to New Delhi this evening after a weeklong visit to the Soviet Union. She was received at the airport by her Cabinet colleagues, Congress-I leaders and workers and others. Talking to newsmen, Mrs Gandhi expressed the hope that her visit will help in further strengthening friendship and economic cooperation between the two countries.

About the Palestinian massacre in west Beirut, she said it was a most barbaric happening. Both India and the Soviet Union have condemned it.

About the Nonaligned Movement, she said it is very much relevant today. The movement has helped in lessening tension in many parts of the world, the prime minister added.

Arrival Statement

BK261624 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Excerpts] Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi returned to New Delhi this evening after a weeklong visit to the Soviet Union. Mrs Gandhi was welcomed by a large number of people, including her Cabinet colleagues, the Congress-I leaders on her arrival at Delhi airport. Talking to newsmen the prime minister stressed the need to make the Nonaligned Movement more effective to promote peace and harmony. She said the movement is more relevant in the present day world situation. She said the main purpose of the Nonaligned Movement is to lessen tension. There is, however, a need to bring about greater cohesiveness in the movement.

About her visit to the Soviet Union, Mrs Gandhi said it has helped in strengthening the existing friendship and enlarging economic cooperation between the two countries. She expressed the hope that the Soviet people now have a better understanding of India's policies and problems.

About the Soviet presence in Afghanistan, the prime minister said they are there because this is the way the Afghan Government feels. [sentence as heard] But why other rebels being helped with arms by some other countries, she asked? [sentence as heard] Such countries should be asked to stop helping the rebels. Mrs Gandhi said it is difficult to ask a government to remove someone who is helping them.

The prime minister was asked to compare her visit to the United States with her Soviet visit. She said the two were entirely different. But one thing, she said, both were good-will visits. India wants friendship with all countries. About the Soviet Union, she said: It has helped us in times of need and has also assisted us in our industrial development.

About the Soviet offer to set up a 1,000-mw nuclear power station in India, Mrs Gandhi said no decision has been taken so far. Mrs Gandhi described her visit to the city of Kiev as very interesting and said it is one of the most beautiful green areas she had ever seen. She said Indian people need to learn a lot from the people of Kiev. She said there is 20 meters of green patch for every citizen in that city.

AFP Report

BK261555 Hong Kong AFP in English 1434 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Text] New Delhi, Sept 26 (AFP) -- Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, who returned here this evening after a week-long official visit to the Soviet Union, said that no decision had been made on setting up a 1,000-mw nuclear power station in India with Soviet assistance.

At New Delhi's Palam Airport Mrs Gandhi told the press that the details of the Soviet offer to set up such a plant had not yet been worked out and would "be gone into by technical teams." The prime minister said the Soviets had expressed particular concern that the plant should be safe.

She said her visit was intended to strengthen the existing friendship and further widen the economic cooperation between the two countries.

Asked to compare her visit to the United States last month and the just concluded one to the Soviet Union, Mrs Gandhi said the two were entirely different. "One common thing is, both were goodwill visits," she added.

The prime minister pointed out that the Soviet Union had stood by India in its moments of need. It had been the first country to help India in its industrial development. "Today we seek friendship with all countries," she said.

This time or any time, her aim was only to increase goodwill between the countries, she said.

Replying to questions on the Non-aligned Movement, the prime minister said India had always worked for peace, disarmament and specially for nuclear disarmament. She said one of the movement's important tasks was to make the people more conscious of the danger involved in nuclear war. To be more effective, she said, it should raise its voice for restoring peace and harmony in the world.

On the Afghanistan issue, the prime minister said she had made known her views several times. She said the rebels in Afghanistan were being helped with weapons from other countries.

Asked about her comments on leftist parties in India, Mrs Gandhi said she made them during her talks with the Soviet leaders when she gave "a bird's eye view" of the political and economic situation in India. She added that her comments had also been prompted by the attitude of those parties on India's foreign policy. Mrs Gandhi said that if the Communist Party of India (pro-Moscow) thought that the Janata Party (considered rightists here) were more progressive than her Congress Party, it was for the world to think whether they were correct.

INDIAN COMMUNISTS REACT TO GANDHI CHARGES

BK251410 Hong Kong AFP in English 1314 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] New Delhi, Sep 15 (AFP) -- The Communist Party of India (CPI) today described as "unfortunate" Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's remark in the Soviet Union that it had ganged up with the rightists to weaken and destabilise her government.

The party took strong exception to her raising "such internal issues" with the Soviet leaders during her talks with them, the CPI Secretary General C. Rajeswara Rao told the press.

The HINDUSTAN TIMES daily reported today from the Soviet Union that Mrs Gandhi had discussed the matter with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrey Gromyko. She apparently wanted Moscow to discipline the Indian communists, the paper added.

Mr Rao said that no amount of "vituperative attack" by Mrs Gandhi would deflect them from fighting the anti-people and anti-democratic policies of her government. "We are for building a left democratic national alternative to the ruling party and not for a rightist alternative," he said.

Mr Rao said poverty, unemployment, inflation, corruption and police repression stalked the country as a result of the capitalist path that Mrs Gandhi was pursuing. "She is taking away the democratic rights of the people, the latest example being the obnoxious Bihar press bill," he said.

KHO'INI RELEASED AFTER SEVERAL HOURS' DETENTION

GF241610 Tehran IRNA in English 1600 GMT 24 Sep 82

[Text] Mecca, Sept 24, IRNA -- Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini, the representative of Imam Khomeyni to Mecca, Ayatollah Jannati, a member of the Council of Guardians, and Hojjat ol-Eslam Khatami, the Majlis deputy from Ardakan (in Yazd Province), were released today after several hours of detention by the Saudi police.

The arrests occurred after the police and the security forces rushed into the gathering cite of Iranian pilgrims and tore pictures of Imam Khomeyni and confiscated the Iranian national flag along with other written slogans.

The Iranian pilgrims along with many other pilgrims from Indonesia, Malaysia, Nigeria, Afghanistan, Turkey, Pakistan, Yemen, Iraq, the UAE; and Palestine, had mostly left the city and were marching to the sacred mosque here, to observe Friday prayers, shouting anti-Zionist and anti-American slogans but were later told to abandon their slogans in order to avoid police harassment. However, the Iranian pilgrims did distribute Imam Khomeyni's translated message on the occasion of hajj as they were being assaulted by police using batons, tear-gas and water cannons all along their route towards the sacred mosque.

In spite of the treatment by the police against the pilgrims, the marchers tried to maintain their orderly manner. However, cameras and tape-recorders of Iranian reporters were confiscated along the way and Saudi helicopters were seen flying over the scene of the march.

Before the release of the detained Iranians, the Iranian pilgrims had threatened to stage a sit-in at the sacred mosque until all of the detainees were released.

In today's incident 30 Iranian pilgrims were injured as a result of police brutality who are presently being treated at local clinics here.

Also a group of Iranian who were arrested along with the Iranian officials have been kept under detention and there has been no information concerning their whereabouts.

Foreign Ministry Statement

LD241802 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 24 Sep 82

[Foreign Ministry statement issued in connection with arrest of Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Kho'ini, head of the Iranian hajj mission, and other pilgrims in Saudi Arabia]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. These gentlemen supported the person who disgraced them so much and who then set fire to Beirut and southern Lebanon. Now people are not allowed to say "Death to Israel" in Saudi Arabia -- Imam Khomeyni.

Once again the terrorizing and crushing machine of Saudi Arabia has broken the orderly ranks of unity-seeking Muslims and, by creating an atmosphere of violence, provocation and threat, has to silence their anti-oppression and anti-Zionist cries and has tried to stop their united movement toward the unifying prayers of Muslims held in the security of the house of God.

In this confrontation a large number of committed brothers and sisters were injured, beaten and arrested. The brothers and sisters who were angry because of the violent attacks of the Zionist regime on the undefended and innocent Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut, which no doubt originated from the atmosphere of [word indistinct] and compromise resulting from the summit conference of reactionary Arab leaders in Fes, Morocco, intended to make their cries of protest at all these crimes and conspiracies heard in the sanctity of the holy ka'bah and, in unison with Muslims from other countries, they tried to demonstrate the glorious power of Islam before criminals and traitors.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran condemns the repeated difficulties made by the Government of Saudi Arabia for the pilgrims and Iranian officials and the acts of such oppressive policies, believing that the house of God belongs to all Muslims and is the trench of coordinated attack by the world's Muslims against the centers of world oppression. All Muslims in the holy shrine must prepare to confront the enemies of God by jihad and selflessness and, by exposing and fostering a united view and direction, thus come closer to His exalted presence. The compromise and silence of the reactionary leaders of Islamic countries toward the attacks launched by the enemies of God and Islam could thereby be foiled.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran considers the creation of oppression in response to the exposing cries of the pilgrims as a step toward the interests of imperialism and world Zionism. While expressing anxiety at the imposition of even more difficult conditions on Muslims in the future, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs asks the Saudi regime to leave the nation of Islam free to expose the crimes of Eastern and Western oppression, of usurping Israel and its supporter, the criminal America, and to create conditions which will enable the pilgrims to carry out the political and religious hajj ceremonies in a way acceptable to merciful God.

Kho'ini Condemns Saudi Behavior

GF250604 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] In relation to the rough treatment of the Iranian pilgrims by the police of Saudi Arabia, Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini, the representative of the imam for hajj affairs and supervisor of Iranian pilgrims, has issued a statement. In this statement, Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini harshly condemns the inhumane and anti-Muslim behavior of the security officials of Saudi Arabia toward the Iranian pilgrims.

In one part of this statement, pointing to the need for anti-imperialist and anti-Zionist combat, the imam's representative for hajj affairs says: Why should the Government of Saudi Arabia be more concerned with taking care of the peace of the United States and Israel than with the security of the pilgrims to the sacred house of God?

Another part of this statement says: The nation of Islam is awake now and has found its way and no power can stand against it. The Muslims, especially the brave and the martyr-producing nation of Iran, are determined to fight Israel and its boss, the United States, until they die. Instead of standing against the will of their nations, the governments should support them. They should be warned by the past because the help and aid of God is with the nations and His destruction and devastation is with the enemies of the nations.

Further Details

GF250849 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0700 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Kho'ini, the imam's representative and supervisor of the Iranian pilgrims, noted the stands of some of the Islamic countries' leaders toward the Zionist entity and said: The thing that arouses our astonishment and surprise is why some of those who claim to struggle against the Zionist entity refrain from condemning this entity and fear to see their nations join the movement of struggle against this usurping entity, even though the struggle against this entity is considered a popular duty? The peoples want to remove this cancerous tumor from among the Muslim countries.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Kho'ini, speaking to a group of correspondents in Mecca, added: Some of the Islamic countries' leaders who seek peace with the Zionist entity must know that the usurping entity will not be content with Palestine and part of the Lebanese territory. It will seize their countries one after another.

The imam's representative denounced the violent actions of the Saudi security men and police against the Iranian pilgrims in God's sacred house. He said: Such actions of the Saudi police please the United States and the Zionist entity.

RAFSANJANI SPEAKS ON IRANIAN WAR INTENTIONS

[Sermon by Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, provisional Friday imam of Tehran, during Friday prayers on 24 September at Tehran University -- recorded]

[Excerpt] Saddam and his supporters listen carefully: [Words indistinct] they must listen to what I want to say. Today, and if not today then in a few days, on every front our long-range guns will be able to bring up to 50 km of Iraqi territory under fire. [chants of "God is great" and other inaudible slogans] [passage indistinct]

You, Saddam's supporters, know well that we have these arms and guns at our disposal, that we have not yet used them and that at such a range they are only good for making holes. We have both guns and ammunition, and enough of them to cover every front. You know that Iraq's main centers are situated to the east of the Tigris and the Euphrates; even if we do not enter Iraqi territory we can make Iraq suffer from this point if we want. However, you know that we have no quarrel with the Iraqi people: We suffer to see that we have made an Iraqi Arab family homeless by a shell that we fired, and today we still practice patience and slowness on [word indistinct] front.

We want to fight to achieve our rights and throw Saddam and the Ba'th Party out of the region in such a way that will not make millions of Iraqi people homeless. This is the strategy and principle of our Islamic movement. We waited after the Ramadan Operation and took the world's news sources and commentators by surprise. For example, an American Orientalist said that the situation in Iran is such that although we can predict the Kremlin's future plans we cannot understand those of the leaders of the Islamic Republic, because we are unable to understand their standard.

If you were in our place, and held your guns aimed at Basra, you would shell the one million inhabitants of Basra, rendering them all homeless. If Saddam has one million refugees he will fall. We do not act in accordance with your standards. You are people who, in order to kick the Palestinians out of Lebanon, go to Lebanon and raid the camps and indiscriminately massacre civilian women and children, thus making the homeless Palestinians even more homeless. We do not do these kinds of things; that is why you are incapable of analyzing our actions. If you wish to analyze them, come and study the Koran first and then learn who a Muslim fights; read the history of Islamic battles to see what advice the prophet used to give when he deployed armies: [Words indistinct] do not pursue those who have fled, do not inflict a second wound on those who are already wounded, be careful not to ruin churches, do not fight those who do not fight you, do not throw mud into other people's water wells; these were the prophet's orders. We do not fight to rule, we fight for Islam and piety.

The reason we oppose Saddam [words indistinct] is that [words indistinct] this is a man who conspires together with Israel against the Muslims. We do not fight for no reason; we are still defending. Oh, you the so-called civilized world: Our Naftshahr is still in Iraq's hands, our western heights are still in Iraq's hands, and after 2 years the Iraqis are still extracting oil from our oil wells in Naftshahr, yet they say they want peace. If you are incapable of analyzing the situation in Iran come and acquaint yourselves with the Islamic culture and you will be able to analyze it. [Words indistinct] if one day we see that the opponent (?is not going to surrender) we shall release our shells. We will inform the Iraqi people and warn them to leave their houses; we shall tell them that we are coming, (?take their houses) and build them again when they leave.... [Rafsanjani is interrupted by the crowd chanting slogans]

The oppressive world's conscience is dead and following this death its senses have also died; its criteria are rotten oppressive standards, and it is a follower of force. Israel showed its teeth in the Palestinian camps in Lebanon, the weak and oppressed people voted for the Phalange Party, a party which is the main organization responsible for what happened in the camps. The oppressive world is like this. When our guns started roaring, when our star shells flew over Basra for one hour and illuminated everywhere, the policies of these Arab countries changed from those of the previous day. (?They follow) fear and force.

We do not want it to happen, but if we see you do not understand logic then we shall show our strength. We hope it will not come to this, that before we advance into part of Iraqi territory and achieve our rights in this way, before the destruction of Iraq they will give us our rights, put Saddam on trial and clarify the truth. We make no demands on any neighboring country, in the north, south or west of the Gulf. North of the Gulf belongs to us, Baghdad is situated in the west of the Gulf which belongs to Iraq; as soon as we reach our borders or [word indistinct] when the war is over, we shall not advance an inch beyond our borders. We shall never (?sacrifice) people's lives for territory, we do so only for virtue. You know this.

KHAMENE'I: NO CHOICE BUT TO USE FORCE IN WAR

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, our country's president and head of the Supreme Defense Council, accompanied by [Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi] the ground forces commander, toured the western fronts this morning.

Immediately after arriving in Bakhtaran, Mr Khamene'i left for the Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts by helicopter. While in Sar-e Pol-e Zahab, the president inspected the Islamic forces' concentrations and fortifications. During this inspection tour, commanders informed the president of the Islamic forces' situation as well as declared the Islamic combatants' preparedness to fight the aggressor enemy until final victory over the infidel force.

Later, the president attended a gathering in a military headquarters and addressed a large number of the Islamic combatants. In his remarks, the president stressed the Divine's blessings for the forces of Islam during the imposed war and said: As a result of cooperation, help and assistance existing between the nation and the armed forces and their combatants, no enemy can stand against you or against our nation. We knew and were aware of this fact right from the beginning of this imposed war. Today, too, we can see this trend and we look forward to seeing a much brighter future and horizon.

Continuing his speech, the president addressed the combatants of Islam and added: You should be assured that the effort you are rendering today is sacred and victorious. Not only will you expel the enemy from your territories, just as you have already expelled the enemy from the most important ones, but, God willing, you will cut off the aggressor's hand forever.

The president and head of the Supreme Defense Council added: We are prepared to counter any enemy. Of course, we are not warmongers, but at the same time we will not remain silent against warmongers. We are certain that the determining factor is faith, high morale and assurance upon the Divine's blessing and assistance, not so-called sophisticated and invincible weapons. The only sophisticated and invincible thing is human determination, which we possess. We have our hearts filled with faith in God. There is no weapon which can counter such a heart.

Elaborating on the reason for the forces of Islam assuming a stationary position at the battlefronts, the president said:

[Begin recording] The reason why we have not shown any urgency in taking the last step is because we respect the efforts directed at achieving our righteous and just rights. But this does not mean that we will continue to assume this position of patience and silence. We will take the last step; we will make the enemy regret its aggression. [chants of "God willing"]

Supporters of the enemy, those who helped our enemy with money, weapons and human resources, should know that we will not wait forever for the realization of their conspiracy in keeping us in a state of neither war nor peace. This is our right. It is our right to defend our rights and ourselves. If we ignore defending ourselves and our rights and do not give our enemy a lesson, history will never forgive us, this nation will never forgive us. Our revolution expects us to do our best, and to mobilize all our power and use and spend it, thus cutting off the hands of the enemies of this revolution and the hands of those aggressors who have stretched their arms to cut our revolution's red flowers. And we will do this. Along our long borders, from north to south, from areas where the enemy has invaded us, whether in the west, whether in the Ilam region or in Khuzestan, all these areas will remain to us as battlefields. From whichever area we consider necessary and/or decide upon we will enter [Iraq] and suppress the enemy. [end recording]

Following his tour of the fronts and talks with the combatants of Islam, Mr Khamene'i, the president, inspected Bakhtaran's Airborne Division base and the western operational headquarters respectively, and was briefed by the military commanders on the Islamic forces' positions and strategies for countering Saddam's defeated and aggressor forces.

The president later spoke to reporters on the aims of his tour of the war fronts.

[Begin recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. It is important for me to see our fronts from close quarters and to assess our forces' condition. As far as quality is concerned I must say that our forces enjoy excellent quality. They also have high morale and an appetite for offensives and to continue the fight and preparedness for successful operations. As I see it, our situation is fortunately very good. To compare with the past, well, we must confess that in the past we had a series of shorcomings and shortages. Fortunately, those shortages and shortcomings have been gradually reduced.

As far as morale is concerned there is no change. I visited these fronts before, about a year and a few months ago. The same state of high morale existed then, even though a major part of our territory was in enemy hands. The state of morale of our forces was excellent, as a result of which we now have our own territory in our hands, and our forces with their sacrifices and dedication have been able to recapture the lost territories and force the enemy to retreat across the border. Of course, we must realize that part of our territory is still in enemy hands; not everywhere is the enemy across the border. In certain places, although the enemy forces are across the border, they are stationed on heights, and we must continue with our efforts to expel them from our territories, especially from the strategic heights overlooking our territories, so as to recapture our lands.

As during the last Friday prayers, our dear brother, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani said, and I too had said before, Naftshahr is still in enemy hands and we must regain these territories. Of course, our task does not end there. During the past 2 years many of our rights have been spoiled and wasted. We must also get what is due us, as is our right, from the enemy. Of course, you know that this enemy only understands the rule of force. If this enemy could understand any other language except the language of force we would have not insisted on the use of force. But we have no choice but to use force on the battlefields and at the fronts in order to obtain our rights from the enemy. [end recording]

Mr Khamene'i returned to Tehran today.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUES ON WAR

1,057: 24 Sep Report

[Communique No 1,057 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Exchanges of artillery and heavy-weapon fire continued in the western operational areas of the country. These exchanges were heaviest in Sar-e Pol-e Zahab and Meymak. The heroic forces of Islam strongly returned the fire of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries, silencing their artillery and inflicting heavy losses on the aggressor Saddamist forces.

In the area of Panjwin, Iraq, the enemy sustained some losses as a result of the heavy fire of the Muslim fighters.

The results of the operations on the western fronts are as follows: the destruction of several enemy trenches and the silencing of sources of enemy fire; the prevention of the movement of Iraqi forces along the whole front; damage or destruction of a number of enemy tanks and vehicles; and killing or wounding of a significant number of Saddamist forces.

Sporadic exchanges of fire continued on the southern fronts. The fiercest of such exchanges took place on the fronts of the Ramadan Operation.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the heroic Muslim fighters returned enemy fire, preventing the movement of Saddamist units and inflicting heavy losses on them. The Islamic forces heavily pounded enemy concentrations on the other side of the Arvand Rud, inflicting heavy losses on the Ba'thist mercenaries.

On another front near Abadan, the heroes of Islam opened heavy fire on Saddamist enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, destroying an ammunition dump, three observation posts and two machinegun positions and killing a group of Saddamists.

The heroic city of Abadan was the target of long-range enemy fire yesterday. As a result, one house was destroyed and two of our dear citizens were wounded.

The Saddamist enemy's aircraft tried to violate our airspace yesterday but were intercepted and driven off by our Islam-defending forces.

[Communique No 1,058 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. While expressing our condolences on the anniversary of the martyrdom of the fifth star of the imams, Imam Mohammad Baqer, peace be upon him, a summary of the battle operations of the past 24 hours is hereby brought to your attention:

Exchange of fire continued yesterday in the western operational region and in Shur-e Shirin the exchange of fire was more intense. On the (Faradezh) heights and in the 59th region [as heard] a heavy exchange of fire continued. The results of the operations carried out by our forces are as follows: destroying a part of the Kan-e Sakht garrison in Iraq; stopping the activities of the engineering units of the Saddamist forces; silencing the enemy's artillery fire; and killing or (?wounding) a number of Iraqi military personnel.

In the southern operational regions, the combative forces of Islam consolidated and established their positions, carried out defensive operations and dispatched antitank squads. Several enemy fuel tanks, personnel entrenchments and warfare equipment were set on fire and destroyed by the fire of our heavy weapons on enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud.

During enemy mortar fire on residential districts of Abadan yesterday, a house was destroyed and part of a government building caught fire, injuring four of our compatriots.

On 22 and 23 September, a total of 21 Ground Forces personnel, and four Gendarmerie personnel of the Islamic Republic of Iran were martyred in operational regions. May their way continue. Their memories are dear to us.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

1,059: 26 Sep Report

[Communique No 1,059 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The situation at the fronts of the imposed war over the past 24 hours is brought to the attention of the dear compatriots:

Yesterday exchanges of artillery and heavy-weapon fire continued on the western fronts. In the Shur-e Shirin sectors, the exchanges of fire were more intense than in other sectors. On these fronts, the ground forces returned and silenced the enemy's fire and, by destroying some of their positions, prevented enemy movement.

On the southern fronts, the combatants of Islam bravely defended their sectors. They maintained their sectors and kept the Ba'thist forces of Iraq under total control, fortifying their own positions and continuing their defensive firing. Ambushes by antitank units dealt the necessary blows at the mercenary Saddamists. On each of the fronts, they destroyed several Saddamist trenches and weapons and killed several of their personnel.

During the past 24 hours, the navy and gendarmerie combatants on the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts brought enemy positions and fortifications on the other side of the Arvand Rud under fire, inflicting losses and casualties on the Saddamists. As a result of criminal Saddamist fire on the residential areas of Abadan, parts of a hospital and a house caught fire and a number of houses and a mosque were damaged.

The air force self-sacrificers and the ever-wakeful combatants of the antiaircraft units of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran repelled enemy aggressions on all the western and southern sectors and forced the invading enemy planes to flee.

On 24 September in a clash between the self-sacrificers of Islam and armed rebels in the (Takab Darreh Belah) region, 10 counterrevolutionaries were killed and 12 were arrested. Quantities of arms and ammunition fell into the hands of the forces of Islam during the incident.

In the Divan Darreh region, the forces of Islam, during a coordinated operation, arrested 16 rebels and killed 2 others. Quantities of arms, including two 50-caliber machineguns and a number of light weapons fell into the hands of the forces of Islam.

MUSAVI CHAIRS, COMMENTS ON CABINET SESSION

LD261636 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Text] The Cabinet held a session today chaired by Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, in which the current affairs of the country were reviewed. The prime minister, at the end of today's Cabinet session and after his meeting with the imam of the nation, gave an interview and answered questions put to him about different issues.

The prime minister, commenting on the outcome of the protests made by Muslims against the crimes committed by Zionists said: I think one of the greatest characteristics of the Islamic revolution abroad has been its exposing role. In this connection we have played this role before all other nations. The Islamic revolution, in order to restore the dignity of other nations, has played this part in full, and this will result in widespread awareness among Muslim nations, and will affect the [word indistinct] of governments throughout Islamic countries. He said: The most important weapon we have in our hands is the inclination and the will of the oppressed nations toward the Islamic revolution.

Mr Musavi, referring to relations between Saddam and the occupying regime of Al-Quds, said: Saddam has special relations with Jordan and other reactionary countries of the region and the Lebanese Phalagists, which in itself reveals the Ba'thist Zionist nature of Saddam's regime.

The prime minister, on the forthcoming trip by the delegation from the Islamic Conference, led by Mr Ahmed Sekou Toure, to mediate in the war imposed by the Ba'thist Zionist regime of Iraq on the Islamic Republic of Iran, said: We have repeatedly announced our conditions. Mr Sekou Toure, who is a qualified and good leader of Africa, is coming to see new realities in the region. Just as before, we will voice our views, since our conditions will not be hidden from the people.

SYRIAN ENVOY ON 'TACTICAL DIFFERENCES'

LD260228 Tehran IRNA in English 1936 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sept 25, IRNA -- "We do not have any differences with Iran on strategic issues but in tactics. It is natural that anyone [as received] has his own special way," said Syrian Ambassador to Tehran Ibrahim al-Yunis in an interview published here today.

He commented to the daily "ETTELA'AT" reporter that Syria's participation in the Fes summit was very effective in rejecting conciliatory proposals.

He added that Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad had exerted much efforts in the summit in order to prevent the Arab countries from reocgnizing the Zionist regime. "We will never recognize Israel," he said.

Al-Yunis also said that he did not sight any evidence of cooperation between the members of steadfastness front in relation to the Fes summit. "There exists no difference between the steadfastness countries, their delegations were in harmony with each other, but they did not have a unified position," he said. The ambassador added that his country "does not have any differences with Libya on this issue" and that Libya's boycott of the summit "was Libya's own business."

On the killing of Bashir al-Jumayyil, he said that Syria believed that the Zionist regime had committed the murder so that it could have an excuse for creating disturbances and to continue its presence in Lebanon. "For us personalities are not important. We want a national and independent government to take office in Lebanon," Al-Yunis said, adding that the Zionists should be dealt with force because "they do not understand any language but the language of force."

Lebanon-PLO

Ambush, Violations in Eastern Lebanon -- Brig Gen Sa'd Sayil, commander of the Palestinian-Lebanese Joint Forces and member of Fatah's Central Committee, was killed in an ambush by unknown gunmen during an inspection tour of PLO positions in Ba'labakk, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported citing WAFA.

Jerusalem radio said the "terrorists" violated the cease-fire by firing at IDF positions near 'Ammiq and Yanta in the southern Al-Biqa'.

Beirut Situation -- The third contingent of French troops and the second contingent of Italian soldiers disembarked at Beirut port on 27 September, Beirut radio reported. French and Italian units were deployed in and around the Palestinian refugee camps in preparation for the comprehensive deployment of the multinational force as soon as the Israelis withdraw and the U.S. contingent arrives, the radio said. Citing Israeli Chief of Staff Lt Gen Refa'el Eytan, Jerusalem radio said the IDF will leave Beirut port on 28 September but that according to an agreement with the Lebanese Army several IDF soldiers will remain at the airport. Eytan explained that the IDF needs the airport as long as it is deployed in Lebanon. The radio had said earlier that the IDF would evacuate the airport and deploy along a new line to the south.

Israel is coordinating its withdrawal with the Lebanese Army but is not participating in meetings with the multinational force representatives, Jerusalem radio noted. President Amin al-Jumayyil chaired a 27 September meeting of the multinational force liaison committee, which comprises U.S., French, Italian and Lebanese officers, according to Beirut radio.

Continuing its deployment in West Beirut, the Lebanese Army searched for suspected criminals and people carrying false identity papers, Radio Free Lebanon reported. The army also raided arms depots and printing presses, arresting a number of people, according to Voice of Lebanon radio. AFP reported earlier that the army arrested nearly 300 foreigners and expelled another 346 considered to be "undesirables" in a cleanup operation on 26 September.

'Arafat Interview -- PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat said in a CBS television interview that he is ready to hold a dialogue with the United States without preconditions and that he is also ready to begin negotiations on the establishment of a Palestinian homeland with all democratic Jews inside and outside Israel, Monte Carlo radio reported.

Saudi Arabia

Fahd Speech -- The Arabs will henceforth move in accordance with the Fes summit decisions and ensure their implementation, Saudi King Fahd told pilgrims in a speech transmitted by SPA. The Islamic nation should extend full financial, political and military support to the PLO, he said, and should take practical economic action to rebuild and reconstruct Lebanon. King Fahd also called for a speedy end to the Iran-Iraq war, urged the Soviet leaders to take into consideration the Islamic world's feelings on the Afghanistan issue and denounced the recrudescence of peripheral conflicts in the Muslim world.

Relations With PLO -- Information Minister Muhammad 'Abduh Yamani denied a reported claim by Fatah Central Committee member Salah Khalaf that Saudi Arabia gave "guarantees and undertakings" to the Palestinian fighters prior to their departure from Lebanon, SPA reported. However, a Palestinian source subsequently issued a statement carried by SPA affirming that Khalaf's remarks were inaccurately reported by news agencies, thereby creating the false impression that Khalaf was criticizing Saudi Arabia.

Israel

Other Phalangist Operations Permitted -- IDF sources cited by Jerusalem radio expressed fear that if an inquiry commission is set up to investigate the Beirut massacres, it will put the blame on the IDF and absolve the political level. The sources pointed out that the Beirut incident was not the first time political levels had instructed the IDF to allow Phalangists into an area. Citing examples, the sources said the IDF was instructed to allow Phalangists into Druze villages in Lebanon, which resulted in revenge killings.

New Civilian Administration Head -- Yig'al Karmon was appointed head of the civilian administration to replace Menahem Milson until a permanent replacement is appointed, Jerusalem radio reported.

Iraq

President Saddam Husayn told British papers that the Soviet Union has resumed arms sales to Iraq, Monte Carlo radio said.

Afghanistan

Delivering a speech on the occasion of 'Id al-Adha, President Babrak Karmal claimed that Afghan forces have dealt fatal blows to "counterrevolutionary bands" in the country. He asserted that most of these groups have realized that their efforts are in vain and said many Afghan refugees are returning to the country. He reminded those who had opposed the government that they may return to their homes free from punishment under the 1981 amnesty decree.

KARMAL SPEECH TO NATION ON AMNESTY, LEBANON

LD272042 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 27 Sep 82

[Speech by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, on the occasion of 'Id al-Adha -- place not given -- live or recorded]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Toiling and faithful compatriots: Allow me to offer my most sincere congratulations and best wishes on the occasion of 'Id al-Adha, on behalf of myself and on behalf of the party and state leadership of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan to yo the noble and Muslim people of beloved Afghanistan and to all toiling Muslims of the world, and to wish for the prosperity and happiness of all Islamic countries and Muslim people.

Sister and brother compatriots: As I have said previously, the celebration of 'Id al-Adha in our country is a mark of the deep faith and great interest of our faithful and toiling people in the great struggle on the path of justice and for the homeland, for the defense of peace, tranquillity, justice, prosperity and happiness.

This is especially important under present conditions when our homeland and our noble compatriots greatly need peace, solidarity and fraternal understanding. This is very important and vital so that we can pursue the construction of a new and just life in our ancient and proud homeland in unity.

The principles and teachings of the sacred religion of Islam ask all Muslims to work and live with one another in peace and tranquillity for the construction of their country and people. Your revolutionary state, with its truly humane thinking and profound belief in the great aspirations of humanity, will not spare any force and effort to maintain an atmosphere of peace, security, prosperity and tranquillity in the country.

In pursuing this humanitarian and progressive policy, our state and party has pursued the establishment of peace in the dear homeland. Fortunately, during the current year we have achieved great successes in this regard. As a result of the heroism and self-sacrifice of our proud armed forces, of party members, of the democratic youth of Afghanistan and of the toiling armed people in the resistance groups and the revolution defense groups, we have dealt shattering and fatal blows to the counterrevolutionary bands. The decisive majority of the counterrevolutionary bands have discovered that their actions are in vain and that the counterrevolutionary bands residing outside the country are faced with our compatriots who had been deceived by the enemy but who are now returning home is increasing. Those who had been hostile to their government have realized the truth about life in our society and about the policies of the party and government. They are also laying down their weapons and helping and cooperating with the government in peaceful work.

We once again declare that being aware of the conditions surrounding our deceived compatriots our popular state invites all of them to return to their homes to work and live peacefully. The decree of amnesty dated 18 June 1981 is still in force and is a guarantee for those of our compatriots who want to lay down their arms and cooperate with their government. According to this decree, these people will not only not be punished but all their rights and freedoms as equal citizens will be honored and protected.

Dear compatriots: Recently, the people of the world bore witness to the shameless crimes of the Israeli Zionists against Lebanon. The news of the criminal action of the [words indistinct] which resulted in the massacre of a total of 1,800 Palestinian women, old men and children, shook the conscience of progressive mankind and of all noble men. This event once again shows that aggressors should not be allowed to have freedom of action. The (?criminal) Zionist appetite must be subdued.

Responsibility for this shameless and inhuman action also rests on the shoulders of the U.S. imperialists who, by supplying weapons and aid, have rendered the Israelis capable of aggression and trampling the rights of the Palestinian Arabs and other Arab peoples. We fully support the Arab demand that U.S. aid to Israel be stopped immediately and that Israel be suspended from the United Nations. Furthermore, we consider the six-point Soviet initiative as the only just solution to the Middle East conflict. The legitimate rights of the people of Palestine, including the establishment of their independent state, is the key to the solution of the Middle East crisis.

Once again, we express our militant and revolutionary solidarity with the fraternal people of Palestine and Lebanon, and we demand the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Lebanon. We strongly condemn all criminal and inhuman actions by the Zionists and their American protectors.

In conclusion, I once again congratulate you on the arrival of the auspicious 'Id al-Adha. Greetings to all compatriots and all Muslims of the world, in particular the Pashtun and Baluchi brothers and the fraternal people of Asia, Iran and Pakistan. I wish them prosperity, progress and happiness.

PDPA DAILY CHARGES U.S. USE OF CHEMICAL WEAPONS

[Excerpt] The PDPA Central Committee daily, HAQIQAT-E ENQELAB-E SAWR, carried a commentary yesterday, entitled "Reagan's Chemical Warfare Program," which is presented to our listeners.

In the past, the United States has used thousands of tons of poisonous weapons against the people of the world, and even now is preparing for this kind of war. The people of the world know the facts that support this claim.

Some time ago, during the period when the bands sent in from outside were being crushed, chemical weapons manufactured in the United States were captured in Bamian Province by the DRA Armed Forces. The following was written on these weapons: Before using, familiarize yourself with the instructions in the enclosed envelope. Any violations of these instructions and recommendations from the U.S. Chemical Department [as heard] will have grave consequences.

The SRV representative in the UN General Assembly has submitted documents to that organization proving the use of large quantities of chemical weapons against the civilian population and their agriculture in the aggressive U.S. war against Vietnam, Kampuchea and Laos. The documents reveal that in the southern province of Vietnam, the United States used 100,000 tons of poisonous material -- in other words, 3 kg per person.

BK270626 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0600 GMT 27 Sep 82

[Text] According to reports, foreign troops in Afghanistan have again used chemical gas against the Afghan mujahidin in Lowgar Province, resulting in the deaths of more than seven people. HAQ INTERVIEWED ON FOREIGN, DOMESTIC ISSUES

BK260500 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 26 Sep 82 pp 5, 6

[Interview granted by President Ziaul Haq to The Chongkhadikit, editor in chief of the BANGKOK POST -- date and place not given]

[Text] The: Pakistan occupies a position of great strategic significance in the South Asian region. May I seek your views on the security concerns of this region, particularly those of Pakistan in the context of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan? What in your view are the Soviet objectives in Afghanistan and in South Asia?

Zia: Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan and the continued presence of its forces in that country inevitably brought about a qualitative change in the security environment of the region. It has raised fundamental questions about the very survival of the post-war international order based on principles of non-use of force and non-interference in the internal affairs of states, and has brought new security concerns for states neighbouring Afghanistan. We are convinced that if one great power seeks geo-strategic advantage in this manner it may provoke reaction from the other great power, thus leading to a vicious circle of super power rivalry that would inevitably imperil peace in the region.

As far as Societ objectives are concerned, it has often been argued that these are 'forward strategic' in nature, particularly as the Soviet Union has built military infrastructure and bases in Afghanistan. However, we have to take note of the commitments of Soviet leaders to withdraw Soviet forces from Afghanistan. I can only express the hope that we will be able to arrive at a comprehensive political settlement based on these commitments.

The: We in Thailand perceive a clear link between the Soviet policy in Indochina and its policy in South Asia. Afghanistan and Kampuchea would appear to be the two sides of the same coin. Do you share this perception?

Zia: The Soviet Union and Vietnam intervened militarily in Afghanistan and Kampuchea respectively with a view to determining the outcome of a purely internal conflict. Pakistan has consistently opposed all interference in the affairs of states and defended the inalienable right of each country to order its internal affairs in accordance with its own wishes. Pakistan adheres to its principled stand and hopes that foreign military intervention in both these countries would cease, enabling their people to determine their own political destiny.

The: Afghanistan has been the traditional invasion route to India. The Aryans, the Persians, the Greeks and others marched into India through the Khyber Pass. Would the Soviets follow the same path or would they stop at the Pakistan border? This is of critical importance because of all the invaders of the sub-continent the Soviets would appear to be the most dangerous.

Zia: We naturally hope that they would not only stop at the Pakistan border but withdraw their forces from Afghanistan. As a sovereign country Pakistan would do everything in its power to defend its territorial integrity if it ever came to such an eventuality. However, we remain hopeful that a comprehensive political settlement will be reached which would enable the Soviet Union to withdraw from Afghanistan in accordance with the commitments given at the highest level by Soviet leaders.

The: Thailand and Pakistan are facing a serious refugee problem although the dimension of your problem is much bigger than ours. What are the difficulties being faced by your government in looking after the refugees? What proportion of the economic burden is being shouldered from outside? Do you feel that the approximately three million Afghan refugees would become part of your population or eventually would return to their homeland?

Zia: Provision of sustenance and succour to millions of uprooted Afghan people is a task of gigantic proportions which calls for enormous resources. Despite our own economic constraints we are doing our level best to help the Afghan refugees.

Pakistan is contributing nearly half the amount which is being spent every day on their maintenance and upkeep. However, as the refugee exodus continues, Pakistan would require more assistance and help from friendly countries and international organisations to fulfill its humanitarian obligations.

The Afghan refugees have left their homes to escape untold miseries which have resulted due to continued foreign military intervention. These refugees have expressed their resolve to return to their country once foreign troops are withdrawn and conditions are created for their voluntary return. Therefore, the question of their permanent stay in Pakistan does not arise.

The: May I now invite your attention to Pakistan's relations with its other big neighbour China? What is the climate of relationship between Pakistan and China? How does your government interpret China's long term objectives in this region and their implications for Pakistan? As you would be aware some countries in Southeast Asia harbour serious misgivings over China's long term designs in our area. Does Pakistan entertain any such fears of China and if not for what reasons?

Zia: Pakistan enjoys excellent relations with the People's Republic of China. The climate of this relationship is characterised by complete trust and confidence which has facilitated mutually beneficial cooperation. China, like Pakistan, is against all forms of hegemony. We are convinced that China's policy in South Asia is based on the principles of peaceful co-existence. We are happy that India's relations with China are also moving in a positive direction. China has supported that development of good neighbourly relations and closer cooperation among the countries of South Asia. We welcome China's contribution to the strengthening of peace and stability in this region.

The: In the wake of the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan the Americans had offered an aid package which you had very...enlarged military sales and economic aid which was accepted. [sentence as published] Do you consider this assistance to be sufficient to prevent Soviet domination of your country? In this connection let me also invite your attention to the Indo-Soviet treaty which virtually amounts to a defence pact? How does Pakistan propose to balance out this military strategic Indo-Soviet relations in so far as its own security is considered?

Zia: First let me clarify that we are not receiving military assistance from the U.S. We are only purchasing some military equipment from the United States against cash payment and partly on credit obtained at market related interest rates. These modest arms purchases would only help replace some of our obsolete equipment.

The acquisitions would improve our defensive capability to a degree, but would not be adequate by themselves to guarantee our security. On the political plane we would continue efforts to improve our relations with India and to arrive at a political settlement of the Afghanistan problem which would ensure the withdrawal of Soviet forces from that country, so that Pakistan does not face the spectre of a two-front situation, or even a one-front war.

There is no doubt that the Indo-Soviet treaty contains elements that give it a security dimension, i.e. make it a virtual alliance. In recent years India has, however, de-emphasised that aspect and we hope it will revert to a genuinely non-aligned policy. On our part we are determined to contribute towards the improvement of the security environment by maintaining our own defensive strength and by building tension-free relations with neighbours.

The: How do you view the current status of Indo-Pakistan relations particularly with the return of Mrs. Gandhi to power? May I solicit your views on her recent visit to Washington? Would her visit alter the existing co-relation of forces in your region?

Zia: In the light of our continuing dialogue with the Government of India, I view the current status of Indo-Pakistan relations in positive terms, and am hopeful about future prospects.

Last year we proposed to India a non-aggression pact. India has recognized that the conclusion of such a pact will contribute to the peace and security in the region. Containing universally accepted principles of non-use of force or threat of force and resolution of differences exclusively by peaceful means, it will help create a climate of trust and confidence which will facilitate cooperation in various fields. What matters at this stage is that both countries are engaged in a dialogue with a view to improving bilateral relations.

Mrs. Gandhi's recent visit to Washington has helped improve Indo-U.S. relations. We favor friendly relations among all countries, and we expect other countries, too, to observe the principle of bilateralism and not seek to develop their bilateral relations at the expense of relations with Pakistan.

The: One has been hearing a lot about the development of a Pakistan nuclear programme. The public in Southeast Asia would be most interested to hear the views of the president of Pakistan on this important question. Both India and China have nuclear capability. How does Pakistan feel about this?

Zia: Pakistan has a modest programme of research and development in the field of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes which is essential to develop self-sufficiency in energy resources, since it is poor in fossil fuel resources. At the moment Pakistan has one of the lowest levels of energy consumption in the world. With the process of economic and social development the energy requirements of the country are increasing at a very fast rate. Pakistan has been most seriously affected by the increasing prices of oil. Our oil import bill has gone up from $84 million in 1972 (8 percent of foreign exchange earnings) to $1.5 billion in 1981, (60 percent of foreign exchange earnings) and could increase further. Such a large drain on our foreign exchange earnings is bound to retard our development plans and programmes.

If we are unable to develop alternate sources of energy particularly nuclear energy the problems of our economy could become unmanageable, and by 1985 or 1986, we might have to spend our entire export earnings on oil imports.

Fully committed as we are to the peaceful uses of nuclear energy we believe in the right of each state to have access to nuclear technology and to pursue scientific research and development in accordance with its own priorities. We have indicated on a number of occasions that we would be prepared to place our nuclear research and development programme under any safeguard arrangements provided they are applied universally and on a non-discriminatory basis.

We have no intention of acquiring or manufacturing nuclear weapons since we are committed to the concept of non-proliferation. We have supported measures for nuclear non-proliferation at the multilateral, regional and bilateral levels. For example we have advocated the establishment of nuclear weapon free zone in South Asia, the de-nuclearization of the Indian Ocean and provision of security assurances to non-nuclear weapon states against the use or threat of use of nuclear weapons. These initiatives enjoy a wide measures of support at the United Nations.

Bilaterally we had proposed a joint declaration by India and Pakistan renouncing the nuclear option, inspection of each other's nuclear installations and the signing of the non-proliferation treaty by both countries. These proposals have not been agreed to by India so far. We hope that in view of India's declared policy of not manufacturing or acquiring nuclear weapons that country will give serious consideration to these ideas.

As regards the nuclear capability of China you know that China made an unconditional pledge long ago not to be the first to use nuclear weapons under any circumstances. As such, non-nuclear weapons states have no cause to have any apprehensions about China's nuclear weapons capability.

The: Almost a decade ago Pakistan decided to sever its ties with the Commonwealth. Is there any likelihood of your rejoining the Commonwealth? If not, may I seek your views on the nature of the future relationship between Pakistan and the Commonwealth?

Zia: We believe that the Commonwealth is a useful organisation at whose gatherings subjects of overall concern to its members and the world community at large are discussed, which lead to a better appreciation of one another's point of view. Personal rapport, which leaders of the Commonwealth develop on such occasions, is a positive factor in easing tension in the world.

As you are aware, Pakistan is a member of the Organisation of Islamic Conference and the Non-aligned Movement, one of whose objectives is to work for the maintenance of peace and stability in the world. In this way they serve to supplement the efforts of the United Nations. The Commonwealth would provide us with another forum to make our contribution, however small, in this regard. We would, therefore, be happy to resume our membership if invited to do so.

The: Your country has played a vital role in the Islamic world particularly in the latest conflict between Iran and Iraq. May I request your views on this conflict and Pakistan's position with regard to it? I shall also appreciate a word on Pakistan's position on the Middle East problem and what is needed to be done to ensure real and lasting peace in that troubled region?

Zia: Pakistan has been deeply concerned over the continuing Iran-Iraq conflict not only because of the necessity for unity amongst the Muslim states and the developing countries but also because we have deep historical, cultural and religious ties with both of these states.

It is for this reason that Pakistan has played an active role in the peace initiatives of the Islamic Conference, in the first instance in my capacity as its chairman and later as a member of the peace committee. In view of our membership of the Islamic peace committee and friendly relations with Iran and Iraq, Pakistan has adopted a position of strict neutrality in the Iran-Iraq conflict. It has always been and will remain our endeavour within the Islamic peace committee to bring about a just and lasting settlement of this unfortunate conflict. In addition, Pakistan has taken several other initiatives to defuse this unfortunate conflict.

Pakistan's position on the Middle East problem has been consistent. We feel that a just and durable solution can be achieved only by taking into account and satisying the legitimate rights and aspirations of the Palestinian people. A vital element of such a solution is the restitution of the inalienable national rights of the Palestinians, including the right to a state of their own on Palestinian soil.

The principle of the inadmissibility of acquisition of territory by force also needs to be strictly observed in the Middle East region. Israel must be compelled to vacate all the Arab territories that she has under her occupation.

The: What are your views on the role and effectiveness of the Non-aligned Movement and Pakistan's contribution to the promotion of its objectives? Thailand and its ASEAN partners are trying to obtain friendly countries support for allowing Prince Sihanouk, the president of the recently established Khmer coalition, to address the non-aligned summit. Would Pakistan support such a move? In addition would your government continue its policy of support for Democratic Kampuchea now when Sihanouk has assumed its leadership and the influence of the Khmer Rouge has been considerably reduced, at least politically?

Zia: Pakistan is committed to the objectives of the Non-aligned Movement which emphasize non-interference in the internal affairs and safeguarding the territorial integrity and sovereignty of states, economic emancipation of the developing world, decolonisation and peaceful settlement of disputes. Pakistan is totally committed to preserve the non-bloc character of the movement.

But for the positive role played by the Non-aligned Movement, super power rivalry would have been far more acute and the threat to world peace would have increased correspondingly.

We would support the idea of Prince Sihanouk addressing the forthcoming non-aligned summit, since we believe that Democratic Kampuchea should be allowed to reoccupy its rightful place in the meetings of the movement.

Pakistan has consistently supported the Government of Democratic Kampuchea and would continue to extend its full support to the new coalition government.

The: Let me now turn to Southeast Asia. What is your assessment of ASEAN? Do you consider it a success? Does Pakistan recognise it as a distinct economic and political entity? What are your country's relations with ASEAN as a whole and with its individual members?

Zia: Members of ASEAN have maintained an impressive record of economic growth and achieved a significant degree of political cohesion in the last decade. The organisation can therefore be regarded as an unqualified success in both economic and political terms. Pakistan supports the aims and objectives of ASEAN as a regional organisation and maintains cordial relations with all the ASEAN countries. Our views on key issues, e.g. Afghanistan and Kampuchea, coincide. There is considerable scope for developing closer economic cooperation and increasing trade between Pakistan and the ASEAN countries. This aspect deserves more attention than it has received in the past.

The: You would be aware that since the past few years ASEAN has been holding a regular dialogue with the EEC, U.S., Japan, Australia, New Zealand etc. Would Pakistan respond favourably to an invitation by ASEAN to enter into a regular dialogue with it?

Zia: So far ASEAN has established a regular "dialogue relationship" only with other regional organisations and with some aid donor countries. However, Pakistan would be happy to hold a dialogue with ASEAN if invited to do so.

The: The South Asian countries have been making efforts to establish a forum similar to ASEAN. What in your view are the prospects of an early setting up of a South Asian forum? What are the hurdles being encountered and the prospects of their expeditious resolutions?

Zia: Regional cooperation among the seven countries of South Asia is a relatively new idea. So far we have carried out studies for cooperation in eight agreed areas, namely, agriculture, rural development, telecommunication, meteorology, health, transport, postal services, science and technology. Three meetings at the foreign secretaries' level have been held in this connection. At the last meeting held in Islamabad in August 1982 it was agreed that a meeting of foreign ministers may be held next year. We are still far from the stage of institutionalising cooperation on the ASEAN model. Objective conditions in the two regions differ. The main problems here are the existence of political disputes and the disparity in its sizes and the levels of development of South Asian states. A careful step-by-step approach is more likely to yield results in our region.

The: Now permit me to ask a few questions about the internal situation in Pakistan. Since assuming power in 1977 your government has achieved significant success in terms of political and economic stability. What do you envisage for the future? Would it be possible to maintain this stability over a period of time and what shape would the future political system of Pakistan take? I ask this question because we in ASEAN give a good deal of importance to the stability and security of Pakistan which, like Thailand, faces severe security constraints.

Zia: I am quite optimistic about the economic and political future of Pakistan. We have put the country on sound economic footings and given fresh and vigorous directions to its economic progress and development. During the past five years, our economy has recorded a growth rate of over 6 percent as compared to less than 4 percent in the earlier period of the decade. Similarly, there has been 9 percent increase in the industrial production and 4 percent in agriculture.

Our achievements in the agricultural sector are indeed outstanding. We have reaped record harvests of wheat, rice, cotton and sugar-cane and have become the net exporter of food. There has also been substantial increase in investments. I am confident that the future holds great promise for the economic developments of my country. We will continue making new breakthroughs on the economic front.

As for the future political dispensation of the country, I am committed to hold elections. It is not the aim of my government to prolong the martial law a day longer than necessary. We had to intervene to avert a civil war. We have been endeavouring all along during these past five years to develop democratic institutions. We are moving towards the ultimate objective of establishing a representative government step by step.

We have held elections to local bodies after a lapse of 15 years. These grass-root institutions are now well established and are functioning quite effectively. The Federal Cabinet has been expanded to include more civilian ministers. Advisory councils have been set up in all the provinces to assist and advise the provincial governments in their functions. A similar council, Majlis-i-Shoora, consisting of members from all parts of the country and all walks of life, has been set up at the federal level also. I sincerely hope that this process will continue and contribute positively towards the restoration of a representative government in the country, which is truly democratic, and compatible with Islamic values. We plan to establish an Islamic system of government in Pakistan befitting the Islamic principles and in turn with the Islamic spirit. It will be our endeavour to present before the nation a framework of a true Islamic state by August 14, 1983.

The: Pakistan like Thailand earns its foreign exchange through the export of primary commodities. The international market price of these commodities has been on the decline. Would you recommend the establishment of an organisation of rice exporting countries on the pattern of OPEC to augment their bargaining power?

Zia: You have asked an interesting question but it raises a number of issues:

Rice is not a homogeneous commodity. It is produced in various varieties. The price of each variety is determined by its own supply and demand. As an agricultural commodity, in certain cases, it is subject to the vagaries of the weather. The rice producers have limited control over its production. Consequently the quantity of rice available for export varies from year to year.

I might add that there are very few major rice importing countries. Rice importing countries have been known to become rice exporting countries in the recent past. I would, therefore, think that the question of the formation of an organisation of rice exporting countries deserves extremely careful handling. Instead of serving the interests of the rice exporting countries which I am sure you have in mind, any hasty move in that direction could have an adverse effect.

The: My last question, Mr President, pertains to Thai-Pakistan bilateral relations. In the 1960s relations between our two countries were very close. But over the years due to our regional pre-occupations we seem to have drifted somewhat apart. Thailand has become increasingly involved with ASEAN and Pakistan with the Islamic world. What do you think should be done to bring the two countries closer together in the political, military and economic fields?

Zia: Relations between Pakistan and Thailand have always been cordial. Our departure from SEATO and its eventual dissolution, and the separation of Pakistan's eastern wing have not diminished our interest in Thailand, which we believe occupies a very vital position in an important region of the world. We fully appreciate the positive influence that Thailand has all along exerted in Southeast Asia.

The burden imposed on us by the influx of Afghan refugees has, among other things, helped us better understand the problems faced by your country.

We admire the courage and sagacity of the Thai leadership and the people of Thailand who have successfully continued their march on the road to progress and prosperity in spite of the compulsions generated by a tense politico-strategic environment.

We see eye-to-eye on the question of Kampuchea. My government is grateful for the principled position adopted by the Thai Government on the Afghanistan issue. Our bilateral relations are progressing smoothly in all fields; visits are being exchanged at various levels, a number of Pakistani and Thai students are studying in each other's country, and efforts are being made to further expand trade and economic cooperation.

In view of the problem-free nature of relations between Pakistan and Thailand and the prevailing good-will, I am confident that tremendous scope exists for further strengthening these relations. In this regard I feel that the pride of place should belong to the economic sphere. I would like our people to learn from the entrepreneurial skills of the Thai businessmen. I would also like to see greater collaboration in the field of joint ventures. The only constraints that we have to surmount are those brought about by geography, which I am sure can be overcome with the establishment of adequate shipping arrangements.

OIL MINISTER SPEAKS ON EXPORTS, GULF SECURITY

GF262020 Shiraz Domestic Service in Persian 1500 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] Engineer Gharazi, the petroleum minister, accompanied by the minister for finance and economic affairs, Mr Namazi, and the mines and industries minister, Mr Hashemi, who is currently on a visit to Kohkiluyeh va Boyer Ahmad to investigate local problems, answered questions by correspondents in Yasuj regarding the security of the oil terminals, the scale of oil exports and the insurance rates of oil tankers and rate of oil production. He said:

With the advent of the Islamic Republic, the safety of the oil terminals and the security of the Persian Gulf was endangered by the United States and has been made safe by Iran. The imposed war was intended to disrupt security for the benefit of the United States but the fortitude of the residents and the employees of the oil industry on Khark Island foiled these plans and in the month of August-September we have been exporting 2 million barrels of oil daily, mostly to make the superpowers understand that the Government of the Islamic Republic is capable of maintaining its own security.

Mr Gharazi then referred to the rates of insurance of oil tankers and said: For a long time, conspiracies were being hatched endangering the stability of the Gulf region and insurance companies suddenly announced that the rates of insurance in the Gulf have [words indistinct] in comparison with the previous rates. This was a great loss which the oil buyers had to endure. In order to combat this plot, the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran immediately announced that we would insure the oil tankers in the Gulf, but the imperialist media announced that Iran's insurance is unreliable. Therefore, the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran handed over $300 million to the insurance companies for (?reimbursement) and thus we foiled this conspiracy as well.

Our petroleum minister added: I am certain that Britain will reduce the rates of insurance to lower than (?2 percent) and thus we will actively enter the field of international insurance.

In reply to a correspondent's question about measures taken with regard to reconstruction of war-stricken oil installations, he said that work has begun on the reconstruction of what has been damaged during the war and (?this work) will be completed shortly. [Words indistinct] production and the necessary installations, he said that they have returned to their prewar conditions.

COMMANDER EXTOLS TECHNICAL PROWESS OF AIR FORCE

LD252342 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] IRNA reports that the commander of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran described in an interview the success of the air force in the imposed war and also the creative ability of the air force personnel in repairing and manufacturing complicated systems. The commander of the air force referred to the good and advantageous points of the imposed war and said that, due to the round-the-clock efforts of the personnel of this force and the help of other units during the war, considerable progress has been made in connection with repair of aircraft parts, missile systems, radar, antiaircraft guns and communications equipment, whereas during the reign of the Satan, the American advisers would not allow our experts and technicians even to touch the equipment. He added that air force experts have also succeeded in making some of the parts which were difficult to repair. Steps are being taken to build the very complicated parts.

The commander of the air force emphasized in the interview that in spite of all the weapons put at Iraq's disposal by the East and the West, the Iranian Air Force is capable of going into action at any time and of carrying out its mission.

He added that our brave pilots have proved their real supremacy in dogfights and their operations and have established a leading place in the history of air operations.

In this respect, Iraq lost 36 aircraft in the Fath al-Mubin Operation whereas not a single Iranian fighter plane was damaged. In the Bayt al-Moqaddas Operation too, more than 61 Iraqi planes were downed but we only lost 4 planes, 2 of which crashed because of technical problems. These ratios are unprecedented in the history of air battles in the world since in such battles the natural ratio of damage is two to three [as heard].

The commander of the air force, commenting on the MiG-25 planes which have recently been put at the disposal of the blasphemous Iraqi regime, said that this plane, which gained a special reputation in the world has a speed nearly three times the speed of sound and it flies at a height of about 70,000 feet. However, as announced before, on Thursday, 16 September, we succeeded in downing one of these planes near Khark Island for the first time ever.

These are all signs that prove the real supremacy of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran over the Iraqi Air Force.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,060

[Communique No 1,060 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Felicitations of the day of Qorban 'Id ['Id al-Adha] to the imam of the nation and the martyr-nurturing people of Iran. May the day of unity of the Islamic Republic Armed Forces be blessed, a holy unity which has been realized by adhering to the principle of the vice regency of the chief theologian [velayat-e faqih] and has gained the greatest victories for the Muslim and struggling nation of Iran.

During the past 24 hours the victorious combatants of the army of monotheism stationed in the western operational region returned the enemy's fire and inflicted considerable damage and casualties on it. On all fronts in this region, exchange of fire continued sporadically; in Meymak, Qasr-e Shirin and Marivan, the fire was more intense.

The forces of Islam opened heavy-weapon fire and stopped enemy activities in (Valyabeh) and Khanom-e Shaykhan and prevented the movement of Iraqi military personnel.

Damage inflicted on the enemy on the western fronts includes the destruction of two personnel carriers, one machinegun and a number of individual and collective entrenchments; a group of Saddam's soldiers were also killed or wounded in these operations.

In the southern operational region, the Islamic forces continued pounding enemy positions and entrenchments. In this region, our combatants maintained their supremacy of fire and silenced the Saddamists' artillery fire, disrupted the activities of the enemy forces' engineering units, which were trying to extend their earthworks and dig trenches and canals, and destroyed part of the Iraqi forces' fortifications.

Yesterday the residential districts of Abadan came under the Saddamist criminals' heavy long-range artillery fire. Fire started in several parts of the town, martyring four of our compatriots and wounding seven others.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

POW'S DEMONSTRATE AGAINST IRAQI REGIME

LD262312 Tehran IRNA in English 1930 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sept 26, IRNA -- Thousands of Iraqi POWs, deportees and Iraqi Muslim mujahidin marched in the streets of Tehran this morning and called for the overthrow of the Iraqi regime.

The marchers, who gathered in front of the Majlis, were also accompanied by a large number of people of Tehran and refugees from the war-stricken areas. The demonstration was part of the special ceremonies being held during the war week. The fifth day of this week is called the "Day of Islamic Revolution of Iraq."

An Iraqi lieutenant, Abu Ahmad, from Batallion 33 of Brigade 60 of the Iraqi Army, speaking to the crowd of behalf of the Iraqi POWs, praised the humane treatment extended to the Iraqi POWs by the Iranians and called on the Iraqi Muslim mujahidin and Iraqi people to rise and overthrow the aggressor regime of Iraq.

The interesting feature of the demonstration was the presence of a number of Iraqi POWs who all looked happy and were in good health.

The demonstrators who were chanting slogans against the Iraqi and Zionist regimes, further more expressed deploration of the decision made in the recent summit conference of the Arab leaders in Fes, Morocco, and stressed that the dignity of Muslims could only be restored through arms and not conferences such as Fes.

The crowd also condemned crimes of U.S. imperialism and international Zionism against Muslims.

An Iraqi religious personality, addressing the crowd, called for the unity of all Muslims to counter the crimes of the U.S. He also condemned the savage massacre of the Palestinians in the refugee camps of West Beirut by the Zionist regime.

The Majlis deputy from Saveh, Central Province, Hojjat ol-Eslam Movahedi Savaji, addressed the demonstrators and referring to the Iraqi imposed war said that the people of Iran will continue to fight the Iraqi regime until it achieves final victory and regains its legititimate rights.

At the end of the demonstration a five point resolution was read in which it was stressed that they would exact revenge on the mercenary regimes of the region and that of Saudi Arabia in particular.

Similar demonstrations were held in various provincial cities including Ahvaz, Arak and Yazd. The Iraqi deportees and POWs took part in these demonstrations.

NVOI: EXPOSE 'PSEUDOCLERGY,' REVOLUTION'S FOES

TA241923 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 24 September carried a commentary, entitled "The Superficial Pseudoclergy Must Be Dispossessed." It said one of the common methods used by all the counterrevolutionary forces and the elements of imperialism in promoting the overthrow of the Islamic Republic of Iran and trampling on the gains of our nation's revolution is the creation of discord, division and a climate of discontent.

Difference in the upper echelons of the Islamic government is a reflection of the difference among the clergy in our society. The clergy in our society have never looked upon the acute problems of society in the same way. Even in the upper echelons of the clergy, there are persons who accept Islam within its religious framework only.

In the past, this faction of the clergy always supported the existing system. This sort of clergy have rightly been called court preachers and superficial pseudoclergy. They consider every measure for the benefit of the millions-strong masses as contrary to Islamic standards, and stick the Marxist label on every popular measure based on the principles of Islam of 'Ali.

Should these pseudoclergy be investigated one would see that the majority of these gentlemen are either landowners and capitalists or liberals and property owners. In this very plot by Qotbzadeh, we witnessed the features of some of the pseudoclergy. One of the aims of the counterrevolution and world-devouring America in Islamic countries is to exploit this faction of superficial pseudoclergy whose task is both to sow discord and division in the upper echelons of the Islamic government and to act as a divisive factor between the realistic clergy and all the true revolutionary forces.

Without identifying these pseudoclergy who are the foes of the revolution, and without revealing their true faces, the implementation of every fundamental measure by the Islamic government will face various problems, subversions and plots, as has been the case so far.

Lebanon

Beirut Security Situation, Camp Riot -- In view of U.S. unwillingness to deploy American multinational forces in Beirut until the IDF withdraws from all of its positions, Israel has decided to withdraw completely from the Beirut airport area, IDF radio announced. Furthermore, Israel will only be able to use the airport in emergencies and in coordination with Lebanese officials. In meeting Lebanese demands to leave the airport, Israeli official sources cited by the radio explained that it was decided to demonstrate flexibility with the Lebanese in the hope of normalizing relations. The Lebanese public works minister told Lebanese television that the airport will reopen to traffic on 30 September, Beirut radio affirmed. According to Voice of Lebanon radio reports, the first group of Israeli soldiers began leaving the airport area on 29 September while earlier the IDF withdrew from its positions around Beirut port and other areas as the French and Italian forces were deployed. Meanwhile, the radio said the U.S. contingent will arrive in Beirut on 29 September.

In another development, residents of the Burj al-Barajinah refugee camp asserted that the Lebanese Army sealed off the camp and arrested hundreds of Palestinian men, AFP reported; the Voice of Lebanon reported only that the camp was stormed by the Lebanese Army in search of arms and ammunition.

The IDF spokesman announced in a statement carried by ITIM that Israeli guards opened fire on and wounded eight Palestinian detainees in the Ansar prison camp in southern Lebanon after a riot broke out.

Syria's Talas on Invasion -- Addressing soldiers of the Syrian Arab Deterrent Forces (ADF) in Lebanon, Syrian Defense Minister Gen Mustafa Talas asserted that the Israeli invasion of Lebanon intended to destroy the PLO, remove Syrian forces and occupy all of Lebanon, Damascus television reported. Talas claimed that Syrian forces succeeded in preventing these Israeli objectives and in fact contained the Israeli invasion. He criticized the weak Arab response to the invasion and attacked U.S. policy for its lack of direction. Talas asserted that the ADF is in Lebanon to help that country regain its sovereignty.

Al-Jumayyil's Upcoming Travels -- Sources close to Lebanese President al-Jumayyil revealed that he will visit some Arab states to discuss relations and the presence of Syrian forces in Lebanon on a tour which will also include visits to the United States, Paris and the Vatican, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported.

Israel

Massacre Inquiry -- The Cabinet decided on 28 September to establish an inquiry commission in accordance with the 1969 Inquiry Commissions Act which will investigate "all the facts and factors relating to the atrocity perpetrated by units of the Lebanese Forces against the civilian population in Shatila and Sabra camps," the Cabinet secretary announced in a statement broadcast by Jerusalem radio. The Cabinet decided on this form of inquiry to put an end to the "baseless libels" alleging that the government has something to hide or is seeking to evade a full investigation, he said. The inquiry commission was given the widest possible terms of reference and will be able to decide who it wants as witnesses and what documents to ask for, he said in related remarks broadcast by the radio. Deputy Prime Minister David Levi likewise said in a statement broadcast by the radio that the Cabinet set no limits in any sphere, so that "everything is open to examination, the political echelon and the other echelon." To avoid further polarization among Israelis and foster national unity, the government also decided to cancel a Likud demonstration scheduled for 2 October, the radio noted.

Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres said in interviews with IDF radio and Jerusalem television that pressure from Israeli public opinion had forced the government to accede to the demand for an inquiry commission and that the Alignment still demands the resignation of Prime Minister Menahem Begin and Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon. Meanwhile, DAVAR affirmed that authoritative sources in Jerusalem consider Sharon's resignation "inevitable." During the Cabinet meeting several ministers criticized recent statements by the defense minister, Jerusalem radio said.

While Energy Minister Yitzhaq Berman announced he will not renege on his decision to resign, the commander of the IDF Staff College withdrew his request for leave and said he will continue to serve in his post, according to Jerusalem and IDF radio reports.

West Bank -- A curfew was imposed in Nabulus following riots in the old city, Jerusalem radio reported. In another incident, unidentified people inflicted heavy damage on a police station near Jerusalem. Meanwhile, 10,000 people attended the funeral of an Arab girl from Daburiyah killed during a demonstration on 27 September, the radio also noted.

PLO

In announcing the death of Fatah Central Committee member Brig Gen Sa'd Sayil, alias Abu al-Walid, as a result of an ambush, the Fatah Central Committee pledged revenge against his alleged Israeli killers and their agents, San'a' Voice of Palestine radio reported. KUNA said PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat arrived in Damascus to attend Sayil's funeral and to hold PLO meetings to discuss the assassination.

Iran

Iranian security forces opened up a pass near Mahabad which was controlled by "American mercenaries," killing 30 of them and capturing a large number of arms, Tehran radio reported.

EXPRESS VIEWS TECHNOLOGY PROTOCOL WITH USSR

BK281644 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 22 Sep 82 p 6

[Editorial: "Welcome Offers"]

[Text] The Indo-Soviet protocol on technological cooperation, signed on the eve of Mrs Gandhi's visit to Moscow, promises to reinforce relations between the two countries. The Soviet Union has made a major contribution in the past to the development of India's core industries by way of know-how, equipment and credit. The major emphasis in the latest protocol is on strengthening the steel sector, which is in urgent need of expansion and modernisation in the face of internal resources and technology limitations. The proposed steel plant at Daitari in Orissa has been in the doldrums since a turn-key agreement for it with a British firm fell through. Though belatedly approached, the Soviet Union has expressed willingness to help save the project. It is also favourably inclined to provide technology and credit for the second stage of the Vishakhapatnam steel plant, expansion of the Bhilai and Bokaro plants, and modernisation of the outdated Burnpur unit which has been incurring heavy losses.

Other significant schemes for which modalities of collaboration are to be worked out include a proposed alumina plant in Andhra Pradesh, use of sophisticated Soviet technology for sinking inclined shafts in coal mines, directional blasting, inland oil exploration, enlarging troposphere communication links, and laying 400 kv transmission lines. Attention has also been given to the problem of idle capacity and modernisation of major manufacturing enterprises set up with past Soviet assistance. The decision to make intensive use of plants at Ranchi, Dargapur and Hardwar, manufacturing heavy machines, mining equipment and power-generation systems respectively, has come none too soon.

Mrs Gandhi had, during her recent visit to the U.S. invited cooperation from governmental and private sector research establishments as well as from Indian scientists settled there in genetic engineering, oil exploration, electronics and computer technology. Details remain to be worked out. While cooperation in these and other frontier areas is of undoubted importance, it is necessary to ensure capacity and systems to absorb and update these newer technologies.

STATESMAN: REJECT SOVIET OFFER OF NUCLEAR AID

BK281152 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 26 Sep 82 p 8

[Editorial: "An Offer To Be Declined"]

[Text] Tarapur should have led India to take a generally sceptical view of all proposals for nuclear assistance from abroad. But the recent excitement and disappointment seem only to have aroused greater interest. Even Mrs Gandhi thought fit to confirm at a press conference in Moscow that the Russians had offered to build a 1,000 mw nuclear power plant in this country. Although she did not go to the extent of hailing this as a grand gesture of help, she did not indicate any reservations either. It might be diplomatically proper to go through the motions of due consideration, but there should be no doubt in New Delhi about the inadvisability of pursuing the proposal seriously. Any further idea of nuclear development with external assistance needs to be firmly discouraged; there would be no difference, if the source is the Soviet Union.

In fact, the Soviet offer may be especially unsuitable on technical grounds. India has had some experience of nuclear collaboration with the British, the Canadians and the Americans; whatever the disappointments in later stages of Canadian and American assistance there is at least some technical understanding on both sides. With the Russians, the Indian nuclear technologists would be on almost entirely new ground. The nature of the proposed plant, too, would be incompatible with the direction of the Indian nuclear power programme. It would again consist of enriched uranium reactors, while the immediate Indian plan is to rely on natural uranium. More important, it would be difficult to integrate a 1,000 mw plant with the existing transmission and distribution system in this country, and the difficulty would be much greater with a nuclear plant.

A still more important consideration is that a Soviet-built nuclear plant would be subject to the kind of safeguards which New Delhi has been so resolutely, and correctly, opposing. The Russians may not insist on full-scope safeguards, but not only would the plant itself be placed under stringent safeguards but these would almost certainly apply to its by-products as well. Indo-Soviet friendship has not made safeguards, including a pursuit clause, redundant for the heavy water the Russians have supplied for natural uranium reactors. There is no reason to believe that Mrs Gandhi's mission has brought about any change in Moscow's policy in this regard. The Soviet offer can only be a further distraction in India's already enfeebled endeavour for nuclear self-reliance and self-sufficiency. This is not an area in which technology, equipment or materials can be imported without compromising basic national aims. A great deal of confusion would be avoided if Moscow is politely told of India's inability to accept the offer before any further discussions take place.

RAFSANJANI CRITICIZES MUSLIM HEADS OF STATE

LD271200 Tehran IRNA in English 0923 GMT 27 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sept. 26, IRNA -- Majlis Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani today upbraided the heads of state of Muslim countries for remaining indifferently silent vis-a-vis the recent Zionist massacre of hundreds of Palestinians in Palestinian refugee camps.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani who was talking to a group of members of Muslim students association from various parts of the country here today also criticized the Saudi Government for "its brutal [words indistinct] with the Iranian pilgrims".

He reminded that Imam Khomeyni's representative Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini and pilgrimming Majlis deputies had been arrested and manhandled while they were shouting slogans "against the United States and Israel for its massacre of Palestinians."

He observed that while the Islamic Republic of Iran is at war with the Iraqi Government, it is providing lodging and every kind of aid to the thousands of deported and dissident Iraqis in Iran in keeping with the dictates of Islam.

The hojjat ol-Eslam urged the visiting students to prepare themselves for treading a "healthy political, doctrinal, and social" movement in order to ensure a society free from tyranny, injustice and discrimination.

KHAMENE'I CALLS FOR MEETING OF ISLAMIC LEADERS

GF281822 Tehran IRNA in English 1557 GMT 28 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sept 28, IRNA -- President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i today called for a meeting of the leaders of the Islamic countries to discuss the important issues confronting Islam and Muslims.

Addressing a gathering of ambassadors and charges d'affaires from Islamic countries, the president stressed that the Islamic countries should set aside their political differences in order to combine efforts for ensuring the rights of the Muslims, despite their geographical and historic differences.

"At a time when the Islamic world lacks a unified and versatile position towards these aggressions and attacks (against the Muslims in Afghanistan and Lebanon) there is no hope of being able to defend our innocent brothers in Afghanistan, Palestine and Lebanon, and if we can defend them, history will never forgive us, that as Islamic countries we are engaged in our own issues, and permit the Muslims to be the object of aggression by the aggressor powers," he said. [sentence as received]

In the gathering, which was held on the occasion of the Islamic festival of 'Id al-Qorban, the president added that (?events in Lebanon overshadowed the) happiness of Muslims on this day.

"We emphasise once again that today is the day that the Islamic nations, and in the forefront the Islamic governments, should act upon their historic responsibility against the occupiers and usurpers (of Islamic territories in Palestine and Afghanistan) so that at least history would speak well of them," Khamene'i further said.

Then the president called for an all out struggle against the Zionists and stressed that oil as well as reserves of Muslim countries in American banks along with propaganda, should be used as a weapon against the Zionists while at the same time the Muslim masses should be mobilised against the primary agents of these aggressions.

"It is appropriate that we should clarify the main enemy, meaning the defenders of Israel, the great Satan, America, to the Islamic peoples, for this reason that without the support of this tyrannical superpower, the Zionists would never disregard close to one billion Muslims and launch an aggression against an Arab country, which is a part of the Islamic nation, in front of their eyes," Khamene'i said.

KHAMENE'I URGES CONFRONTATION WITH 'OPPRESSORS'

LD281330 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0930 GMT 28 Sep 82

[Speech by President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i at Tehran University on 28 September — recorded]

[Excerpts] If we review and study the great events of the past year, to find which is the most important event for Muslims since the last festival, we come across two important and fundamental events. One is the continuation of the aggressive war against the Government of the Islamic Republic and the nation of Iran, which has always been backed by all-round assistance and support from the governments subservient to the United States in the region. The other is the sad, tragic and unprecedented mass slaughter of Palestinian and Lebanese Muslims in Beirut and the occupation of part of the great Islamic homeland by the usurpers of Palestine.

These two issues, although separate, trace back to one cause and one root, the domineering policies of the oppressive America, the great Satan, in the region and the cooperation and help of governments and powers, great or small, alongside America in order to protect its interests.

If we limit the issue to Zionism and the usurpers of Palestine, no doubt we would confine ourselves to [word indistinct]. It is true that the hand of the usurping Zionists is the corrupt and evil hand that creates most tragedies. But this hand is connected to a brain and a heart which our nation is struggling and fighting against and today that protector and supporter no longer makes any effort to keep its support hidden.

When Khorramshahr was retaken by the combatants of the Islamic Republic, an American official clearly stated -- and everyone heard him and understood -- that they were going to have a more active role in the Middle East in the near future. This more active role was the attack by their chained dog, Zionism, and the occupying regime of Palestine on Lebanon and the occupation of part of the great Islamic homeland.

We look at these two issues in the same light and believe that the same remedy would cure both situations. However, so far as part of this issue is concerned -- namely the attack on Iran by the puppet regime of Iraq -- we have acted according to this remedy and we have succeeded. Our recommendation is that the same remedy should be used for the other half, the other part of the problem. If today the world is not prepared to consider and act according to this remedy approved by Islam and the spirit of courage, freedom seeking and valiance, surely the future for Arabs and the Muslims and also the future of the occupiers and usurpers would continue as it has up to now, as it has for 35 years for Arab and Islamic countries.

The remedy we used was a very simple one. It was resorting to the strength of men and creating a core of human activities, a center of gathering for wills and motives by using the name and memory of God. Our nation went to war empty handed against well-equipped, well-armed and prepared forces that were not only prepared in advance but continued receiving assistance from governments subservient to America and those following counterrevolutionary policies. They are still receiving assistance, even now, despite the dark future awaiting the Baghdad regime. Some governments in the Persian Gulf cannot bring themselves to stop their aid to the regime, which they themselves do not approve of, in all sincerity, because it was bold enough to confront the forces of Islam. They continue their help even now.

Of course, I should add we see this aid, understand it and take it into account. We will never forget the behavior of the governments which have recently adopted friendly or unfriendly stances. The memory of our nation is strong and good. The power of our nation to confront these treacherous hands is everlasting and eternal. Therefore [shouts of "God is great," "Khomeyni is the leader," "Death to America," "Death to the USSR," "Death to the hypocrites"] we confront such forces. The East and the West, those claiming to be enemies of America and the governments subservient to America, are united in helping the regime whose only characteristic and advantage, from their point of view, is that it has waged war against the Islamic Republic and the Islamic revolution.

We have achieved one victory after the other and today we are on the verge of the final victory, which will be gained by the same means as all our previous victories. Today, when I see the morale of the soldiers, selfless personnel, revolution guards and all the other combatants, I realize that their morale is either the same as it was 2 years ago, after 2 years of hardships and difficulties, or is even better than 2 years ago. In my trip to the west of the country to visit these dear brothers I could see this point firsthand.

The nation, the imam and the responsible institutions have always made it quite clear that, following the victory of the Islamic revolution, its enemies throughout the world have always intended to annihilate and destroy this revolution of ours. We have never feared the enemy's attempts. We resisted when we were weak, when we were short of men. Today, thank God, our situation has greatly improved, both in terms of men and equipment; our forces have managed to maintain and repair our equipment. We have managed to make use of the same old weapons, the same technically faulty weapons. We worked on them, improved them and took them to the battlefields. Consequently, we mended our own old clothes, rather than borrowing new ones. [Persian proverb]

The region's governments and powers have proved that they are solely concerned with ruling a few more days and nothing else. They do not spare any thoughts for the Palestinians. Whatever they have said so far about the Palestinians has been aimed at misleading their own peoples. These governments are not prepared to confront America for the sake of the Palestinian nation. This was stated in the Fes summit, where the leaders -- the American lackeys -- as well as this treacherous Moroccan Hassan stated that we have to adopt a policy that will not give rise to any complaints by America.

The proposals on Palestine were all aimed at safeguarding America's interests, not the interests of the Palestinian nation. The fact is that a just and rational proposal concerning the issues of the region and Palestine does not require such lengthy debates. All it needs is one single clause, which would be acceptable by and compatible with the region's issues: Return Palestine to its owners.

Islamic nations throughout the Islamic world -- namely, 1 billion human beings -- must state their case today. They must condemn the occupation by Zionists; they must condemn the occupation and interference by criminal America and European powers in the Middle East. The Middle East is an Islamic region; it must be run by Muslims themselves. No one else has the right to interfere in it.

As a member of this nation, as [word indistinct] and spokesman for this nation, I declare that the Islamic Republic of Iran and the combative Iranian nation will not cease their struggle against American oppression and international Zionism. We are not going hide our feelings; we openly declare that ours is the same slogan as stated by our imam. The imam said: Israel must be destroyed. This is our slogan.

God grant us more resilience, bless our nation, awaken Muslim nations and remove the evil of dependent oppressors from them.

OFFICIALS COMMENT ON ROLE OF IRANIAN PRESS

GF281158 Tehran KEYHAN in Persian 15 Sep 82 p 3

[Excerpts] Education Minister 'Ali Akbar Parvaresh, Heavy Industries Minister Behzad Nabavi and Dr Kamal Gharazi, the official in charge of war publicity and IRNA, discussed their views about the press in interviews with our correspondents.

Seyyed 'Ali Akbar Parvaresh told our reporter: I have read a statement in the press, attributed to the imam, which is very strange. He said that if a newspaper has big headlines just to attract the buyer and in relation to this headline there are either no important facts written or there are no explanations, then this work is unethical and the money collected that day is illegal. We note that the Western press is like this. The politics of Western newspapers is based upon greed, so its work is done this way. But the press under Islamic law has a special character. The job of the press should be lawful and we know that if it is not lawful it is illegal.

By writing one sentence, the press can make one person or one group become friends or enemies. Since the press has such an important role, its action should be based on justice.

I believe that if all of the press could emerge from one center and responsibly write and distribute the news, then maybe the presence of that center would become a focus for unity for all the press. Of course, I do not believe the press should be all one unit. The press is the representative of the wants and thoughts of its readers and should have its own voice.

The minister of education continued: I want to point out that in the holy Koran the facts and the events are descriptive and after the Koran, Nahjolbalaqeh is a descriptive book of the events and times of Imam 'Ali. We can see that in these books instead of just writing the facts of events, they have been explained; this is a big role in society. The job of the press should be to relate the facts of news and events in a way that enables the reader to understand events. The work of the press is not to make the reader understand all of the facts. The work of the press is to introduce the facts and then let the reader analyze them.

The minister of education pointed to the prophetic work of the press and said: One of the most important jobs of the press is not to attract people to the events and news but to attract the news and events to the people. They should give the facts to the readers in a way that they can swallow and digest them, not letting the facts swallow the readers.

If we investigate, we can sincerely say that the imam has been the only one who has always followed a chain of events. It has been this way since 1969 when the imam's goal was to oust the shah. After choosing this line and making this decision he persevered. When he achieved the first goal in February 1979, he then went for his second goal, having an Islamic Republic Government in Iran and so on. This is the way press should work; it should choose its line and follow through.

At the end of the interview, the minister of education commented on contacts by officials with the press and said: I believe this contact depends on the atmosphere the press makes for that person. If that atmosphere is not a hostile one, then of course the official will talk easily, honestly and fully about a subject. In this honesty the problems and defects will show. If you give the official the right to contact you and correct a mistake he has made, then this kind of illegal action will be stopped.

Engineer Behzad Nabavi told our reporter: I think the press has a very large role. We have seen the atmosphere the press created before and after the revolution.

After the revolution, due to interference by leftists, monarchists and hypocrite agents, a kind of atmosphere was created that caused many problems for the Islamic Republic. Of course, in contrast, the press can play a positive and profitable role to help the government do its work. Education is an important role of the media and is very important to our revolution. However, the percentage of illiterate people in our country is very high and the literate ones do not read newspapers. Radio and television are the key information mediums. Unfortunately, the number of the people that pay attention to the press now is very low and we hope to be able to change this. I believe the press is one of the biggest pillars of the education revolution in the Islamic Republic. The educational change in our country is based on the righteous and legal work of the media.

We remember 2 years ago, before the start of the Cabinet of martyr Raja'i, most of the newspapers, with the exception of JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, were in the hands of counterrevolutionaries. It is the responsibility of newspaper reporters to introduce people to any faults and defects of officials; but, if the official has done something right, then the reporters should inform the people of this too. And if there is a comment on the work of an official, after expressing it, they should give that official an opportunity to respond. We should take care not to criticize a person in the Western style, without mercy. On the other hand, we should not follow the communist or the Eastern style of having only one radio, newspaper and television so that whatever they say is with the review and approval of the central committee of the party.

Criticism should not be made in order to increase the number of newspapers sold; the criticism should be deserved and truth should be considered. One thing the press can do is to invite a knowledgeable person to write about different problems in society and give theories and plans. They should discuss them for society and the government so they can be considered and implemented. Society needs plans and theories and the press can play a very important role in this position and make society think and discuss the problems deeply.

There are times when a newspaper wants to hurt the revolution and make problems for the government. Of course, then its political or ideological goal is unacceptable and the revolution will not accept this. On the other hand, there are times when our press discuss a problem in the right way, but without following any ideology or just having competition or counterrevolutionary goals in mind. They discuss defects in society and government honestly and provide answers to them too. These answers may be very important. When a responsible minister reads about the problems of his work in the newspaper, he should read about the way to solve them too. Anyway, the press does not attract people's attention but we should not lose such an important element so easily. The newspapers should make the minds of people work; it should make them work.

Dr Gharazi talked about truthfulness in the news and said: I want to note a few more points the press should follow. One of them is to reflect the truth in news and events. I hope we will never see the press hiding something everybody knows about. Then people will lose their trust in the press. They will say: These people are hiding the truth from us and are lying to us. Something everybody knows about and can see cannot be denied, but they are describing it differently. This will hurt the trustworthiness of the press.

We should not think that people do not know. People know everything very well; they are the ones who made the revolution. We should serve the people and put the true facts about daily events before them in the newspapers. We should not hide something thinking that people do not understand them well.

We in IRNA tried to change the form of the news coming from the Western media and put it in a new way. We took the facts of that news and put it in an Islamic and revolutionary way and then put it in the press.

In other kinds of newspapers this was not done. Sometimes the exact text of that news, expertly designed to deceive people, was published. Also a person can still feel that there is much attention given to the West. The belief that news coming from the West is therefore true still exists.

The press should remain free and should not become a pawn in the hands of a group or an individual. A newspaper should be a mirror reflecting the problems of society. This is a point that needs attention.

[Communique No 1,061 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpts] In His exalted name. Yesterday, on the western fronts, the exchange of artillery and heavy-weapon fire continued and in the border regions of Dasht-e Zahab it was even more intense than before. The results of the operations on the western fronts and the losses sustained by the Iraqi Ba'thist forces are as follows: One tank, 1 armored personnel carrier, 1 truck, several bunkers and foxholes, 2 observation posts, several light and heavy weapons were destroyed and more than 50 of Saddam's mercenaries were either killed or wounded. On these fronts, the activities of the proud combatants of the air force and of the army aviation units continued to be effective and commendable.

On the southern fronts and in the Ramadan Operation zones, exchange of fire continued between the victorious forces of Islam and the Saddamist mercenaries. The faithful heroes of Islam, guarding their defensive positions, inflicted losses on the Saddamist forces. On one of the fronts, the fighters of the gendarmerie killed 11 Iraqi Ba'thist servicemen and destroyed 1 of their boats.

During the past 24 hours the city of Abadan came under sporadic artillery fire from the Saddamist criminals. The fire damaged one hospital and a few houses. Two of our dear Abadan compatriots were wounded.

Air intrusions by the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries were utterly repulsed by our vigilant air defense forces.

AHVAZ-KHORRAMSHAHR RAILWAY RECONSTRUCTED

LD251430 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] Work for the reconstruction of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr railway, utterly destroyed by the Iraqi Zionist and Ba'thist aggressors during the imposed war, 25 km along the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr line was completed and made ready for use after about 106 days of consistent, round-the-clock activities by the selfless reconstruction crusade workers of the railway's ten regions.

Announcing this news in an interview with an IRNA correspondent, the official responsible for coordinating supplies to the staff headquarters of the reconstruction crusade of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr railway line expressed appreciation for the assistance given by Khuzestan's machinery bank and the Islamic committee of the Ahvaz truckdrivers trade union to the railway crusaders in placing at their disposal dumptrucks for the shifting of 200,000 cubic meters of special track ballast. It is noteworthy that the Islamic Republic of Iran's responsible railway officials had previously announced that the reconstruction of the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr railway track would be carried out and that the task was completed in 106 days.

'AMERICAN MERCENARIES' DEFEATED NEAR MAHABAD

LD281816 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 28 Sep 82

[Text] The self-sacrificing forces of Islam have mopped up Khalifeh village and (Meyda Pass) on the Mahabad-(Passeh) axis from the filthy existence of the counterrevolutionaries. Our correspondent of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran in Mahabad has sent us a report on these operations:

At dawn on 27 September, on the eve of the blessed feast of 'Id al-Adha and on the 5th day of war week, the brave fighters of Islam, composed of self-sacrificing members of the Guards Corps, Muslim tribesmen and the heroic personnel of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, with complete coordination, conquered Khalifeh village and (Meyda Pass), situated 30 km on [as heard] the Mahabad-(Passeh) axis.

After making their base there, they released one of the most important strategic positions from the grasp of the American mercenaries. In these operations, in which the counterrevolutionaries used all their strength in protecting the pass, more than 30 mercenaries were killed and a large number were wounded. After occupying enemy trenches, the fighters of Islam witnessed the mass flight of the American mercenaries. In the trenches of the assailants -- in addition to the enemy corpses -- large quantities of RPG,G-3 and Kalashnikov weapons, together with ammunition, as well as documents were discovered by the fighters of Islam.

The (Meyda Pass) constituted the most important supply route of the American mercenaries to Piranshah, (Naqadeh), (Passeh) and Sar Dasht and, in fact, could have been regarded as the jugular vein of the counterrevolutionaries.

In these operations two of the fighters of Islam, who fought with great courage from trench to trench against the counterrevolutionaries, were martyred.

IRNA REPORTS ON 'TERRORIST' ACTS IN TEHRAN

LD252110 Tehran IRNA in English 2016 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sept. 25, IRNA -- Six Muslim worshippers were wounded, two of them seriously, when two monafeqin [hypocrite] (MKO) [Mojahedin-e Khalq] terrorists fired their automatic weapons at a van carrying the group at the Azari crossing in downtown Tehran yesterday.

The attack was launched at 14:20 hours yesterday afternoon as the people were returning home from the weekly Friday prayers ceremony at Tehran University. The terrorists escaped on a motorcycle and are currently being sought.

During this month three bombs exploded at Tehran's busiest downtown areas, martyring more than 20 people and wounding over a hundred people. The police and other security officials blame the Mojahedin-e Khalq terrorist organisation (MKO) and monarchist groups for the bomb explosions, which are being supplied with Iraqi explosives and materials.

Many of the arrested members of the MKO and other terrorist organisations, including their high-ranking members, have consented to appear on television to speak about such blind inhuman activities. Only yesterday some 24 members of major terrorist organisations and other counterrevolutionary groups appeared on Iranian television condemning these terrorist acts, which they said were in line with the objectives of the U.S.'s aims of creating disturbances in the country.

OPPOSITION GROUP MEMBERS APPEAR ON TV TALK SHOW

LD250140 Tehran IRNA in English 1941 GMT 24 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sept 24, IRNA -- Twenty-four high ranking members of various counter-revolutionary groups, including professors, university students and reporters, took part in an unprecedented televised talk show.

They were members of the Central Committees of the Mojahedin-e Khalq terrorist organisation (MKO) and its Marxist-Leninist faction "Peykar", also the hardline Marxist-Leninist "Feda'iyan-e Khalq" organisation, high ranking members of the National Front party and prominent advisers of the fugitive ex-President Bani-Sadr.

One of the participants, Sa'id Rohani, was a member of the MKO before the break-up of the group into a "religious", and Marxist faction in 1974. He also co-founded a group known as the Marxist-Leninist faction of the MKO.

In 1971, Rohani hijacked a plane flying from Dubai to Tehran along with a number of other MKO members and in 1972 had been commissioned by the MKO to obtain the blessings of Imam Khomeyni, who was at the time in exile in An-Najaf, Iraq. The latter effort failed and during many briefing sessions concerning the group's ideology and activities in Iran, Imam Khomeyni stressed that the group's beliefs were based on Marxism and not Islam.

One other participant in tonight's programme was Sayfollah Kazemiyan, who had survived the bloody fueds which had been caused by the 1974 breakup. He was later appointed chief of supply operations of the MKO's "religious" faction.

Today's programme, which was the first part of the round-table talks which was coordinated by another member of "Peykar", Qasem Abedini, included comments from two Executive Committee members of the MKO.

They said that up to this period, they had "blindly" followed the deviated policies of the MKO and they had not had the time to analyse them because of pressures from within the group.

They also stated that the policies of the MKO were in line with the U.S. in all political, economic and cultural aspects and added that MKO's desire for creating chaos in Iran was in fact an effort to actualise the aims of the U.S.

In future episodes of this round-table discussion five advisers of ex-President Bani-Sadr and also the members of the National Front will speak about the stands taken by the National Front and the ousted President Bani-Sadr.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS RIFT IN RELATIONS WITH SYRIA

GF270904 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 0330 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Text] Informed political sources in Tehran have reported that relations between the Tehran and Damascus regimes have become cool once again. According to these sources, the main reason for this change is a congratulatory telegram that was sent by Hafiz al-Asad, the leader of Syria, to Amin al-Jumayyil, the newly elected president of Lebanon. The Tehran regime has been quoted as being opposed to the election of Al-Jumayyil as the president of Lebanon, and covers itself by saying that it supports the Muslims of Lebanon.

Iran has begun to attack and criticize the leaders of different countries, especially Hafiz al-Asad, the leader of the regime of Syria. According to various reports, all Lebanese Muslims have displayed happiness about the election of Amin al-Jumayyil as president, especially since he is well-known for being a moderate. For example, Nabih Barri, the military leader of the Amal organization [as heard], on 23 September sent a congratulatory cable to Amin al-Jumayyil, the new Lebanese president.

Informed Tehran sources are saying that, as expected, the criticisms of leading mullahs about the one roof and fair weather politics of Hafiz al-Asad are contradictory. While the newspapers of the [word indistinct] secular mullahs are openly criticizing the (?Syrian leader), the leaders of the [word indistinct] gang led by Mullah Hashemi-Rafsanjani praise him and call Hafiz al-Asad (?the friend and supporter of the regime). Political sources cite Hashemi-Rafsanjani's sermon during the Friday political show in which he praised the Syrian leader and, after attacking Saddam Husayn, said Al-Asad is a good man and is our supporter and Saddam is a bad one and is our enemy.

According to these sources, Hashemi-Rafsanjani, by saying this, wants to minimize the darkening of the relations between Tehran and Damascus and stop the further isolation of the regime. Meanwhile, the distancing of Hafiz al-Asad from the regime of the mullahs, which started with his meeting and talks with Saddam Husayn and continued with his display of friendship toward the new president of Lebanon, has had an effect on the leading council of the regime.

Sending Ahmad Iskandar Ahmad, the information minister of the Syrian regime, to Tehran to deceive the mullahs was not useful. Furthermore, after the reconciliation between Hafiz al-Asad and Saddam Husayn, the Syrian regime has decreased its pressure on the Syrian-Iraqi border and has erected new facilities on its border with Iraq as a preliminary measure for normalizing relations with Iraq.

ASH-SHAHID: BAHRAINI REGIME TERRORIZING MASSES

GF240646 Tehran ASH-SHAHID in Arabic 25 Aug 82 pp 18, 19

[Unattributed article: "In Bahrain, Is It the Security of the Citizen or the Security of the Regime?"]

[Text] The Al Khalifah rulers in Bahrain continue to oppress and terrorize the faithful Bahraini masses. The prisons continue to receive more dedicated young people. These people end up in these prisons because of barbaric and savage practices. Houses are still subject to searches and destruction by the gangs of the Al Khalifah ruling regime, although this agent regime boastfully announces that it cares about the security of the citizens or the homeland, while at the same time Al Khalifah is violating security and crushing the dignity of the homeland and citizens. The oppression, terrorism and continuous arrests that the Muslim people in Bahrain are being subjected to, are a continuation of the policy of the "big stick" of U.S. leaders, foremost of which is Reagan, who adopted the slogan of fighting "terrorism" in order to satisfy the despotic rulers and the reactionary regimes which face overwhelming popular resistance and revolution.

A short period has passed following the latest incidents -- the drama of the "plot" fabricated by the Al Khalifah rulers, which was accompanied by a wave of oppression and terrorism in addition to trying the faithful and dedicated young people, passing unjust sentences against them. The Al Khalifah authorities have launched a new large-scale arrest campaign against the unjustly treated Muslim people and launched horrible torture operations against prisoners. Well-informed sources in Bahrain indicate that the mercenaries of the agent Al Khalifah regime have recently undertaken nighttime house searches, arresting the inhabitants, including women and children. This policy is aimed at inflicting greater disgrace and humiliation on the Muslims. Moreover, the procession which took place on "Jerusalem Day" -- which the leader of the Islamic revolution, Imam Khomeyni, called for -- was subjected to savage suppression, besides which those who participated in this procession were sent to the cells of the ruling family.

Reports from the horrible Al Khalifah prisons indicate that the gangs of the regime practice the ugliest forms of torture against the dedicated young people being detained. So, in contradiction of international laws, the whips of the regime's torturers continue to lash the backs of the faithful mujahidin against whom the "fallacious" court issued its unjust sentences, which can be seen in the life-imprisonment sentences for 3 of them in addition to other sentences that range between 7 and 15 years of imprisonment for the others. This reflects the extent of the grudge which the Bahraini rulers have toward the rebellious Muslim masses and the challenge which the dedicated heroes show in the prisons of Al Khalifah. There is no [acceptable] explanation for the continuation of criminal acts perpetrated by the Al Khalifah rulers through the practice of torture against the detainees whose trial was, apparently, carried out in the regime's court and followed with the issuing of the unjust sentences. The only explanation for this is that the regime carries out the orders of its American overlords to liquidate the Muslim opposition which constitutes a serious threat to its throne and to the future of this and other such unjust regimes. Therefore, the authorities in Bahrain released the communist elements and this coincided with the step undertaken by the agent Saddam Husayn releasing communists, allying himself with them and giving some of them key posts in the government, at a time when Muslims and the revolutionary and the Islamic movement are subject to Israeli oppression and savage detention.

This step was undertaken by the Al Khalifah regime after ascertaining that Islam is more dangerous than communism, that Islam accepts neither bargaining nor truce vis-a-vis the conspiracy of the agent regime, and that the cunning game played by the left can be believed [as published] while the pious mujahidin -- the revolutionary Islamic principles in which they believe -- are unyielding in their stances. Certainly this can be seen in the pardon resolutions that were promulgated in most of the Arab Islamic countries beginning with Egypt, Morocco, Tunisia and ending in the Gulf. These resolutions were merely an action the United States has directed its agents to implement in order to confront the revolutionary Islamic movements, aimed at attacking and liquidating them. It seems that those who promulgated these resolutions are trying to kill two birds with one stone, but the wind does not blow as the ships wish! On the other hand, the campaign of arrest, oppression and liquidation in Bahrain coincides with the new conspiracy being perpetrated in Lebanon against the Lebanese and the Palestinians. It also coincides with the plot for preparing the ground for discussion of the Fahd plan at the Fes summit.

The tour undertaken by Moroccan Foreign Minister Boucetta to the Gulf countries has paved the way for this treacherous plan. It is aimed at crushing the Muslim Islamic opposition and striking at the rebellious masses. Therefore, the wave of terrorism and oppression taking place in Bahrain is part of the U.S. general and comprehensive plan aimed at striking at the revolutionary Islamic movement in the Gulf, in Bahrain and the [Arabian] Peninsula in particular, in accordance with U.S. Middle East strategy.

As we understand the U.S.-Al Khalifah conspiracy being implemented in Bahrain, its terrorist methods are aimed at [achieving] the following:

1. Liquidating the Islamic revolutionary movement and striking at the steadfast faithful masses.

2. To cover the ugly crimes it commits against the dedicated faithful, the regime gives some deceptive freedom to the communists -- and not to the Muslims -- in order to achieve its malicious goals designed to implement this conspiracy through this mean step which gives the appearance that the regime is democratic.

3. It is a means of paving the way for the implementation of U.S.-Fahd plan, following the Zionist invasion of Lebanon and the visit of the Moroccan foreign minister to the Gulf countries.

But, as we said earlier, the wind does not blow as the ships wish. Events have developed in the area in such a way that the people's Islamic consciousness has improved and the equations have changed so that the people will not let imperialism and its agents frivolously affect their fate and their holy places. A day will come in which the diabolical ruling families in Bahrain, the Peninsula, Kuwait and...will be toppled so that the sun will shine again on this area. [sentence as published]

NVOI APPLAUDS RECENT AGREEMENT WITH INDIA

GF261400 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 25 September carried a commentary entitled "We Cannot Put All the Third World Countries at the Same Pole." It said: One of the goals of our glorious revolution is to rid itself of economic, military and political dependence. One of the major steps toward this taken by the government is to establish close economic relations with India. Recent agreements signed in Tehran between India and Iran are an example of the timely and correct action of the Islamic leadership.

India, through its cooperation with the Soviet Union, has been able to show considerable growth in its industries and its overall economy. Some industries have reached the levels of the developed countries. Letters of agreement signed between the Islamic Republic and India open an interesting future of cooperation between the two countries.

We hope that the government will take serious steps to expand ties with India and other truly independent countries that have not linked themselves with military pacts with imperialism. This is important because some of the officials who are responsible for our economy, industry and technology stress reliance on the Third World countries. This means that as far as these gentlemen are concerned if a country is a Third World country and is also Islamic then we can blindly begin extensive commercial and economic ties with it. This is what some would base our actions on.

For example, Mr Tavakkoli, the minister of labor and social affairs, said that Iran would not purchase anything from the United States and is trying to replace economic ties with oppressive countries with Third World ones. Mr Tavakkoli and some of his colleagues have tried to place the socialist countries at the same pole as the imperialist world, led by the United States. Third World countries are not homogenous in terms of their growth and dependence. Of the three countries India, Turkey and Pakistan, which our country has established extensive ties with, only India is truly independent since it has no military ties and has not allowed any other country to establish a military base on its soil.

The same does not apply to either Turkey or Pakistan. We cannot say that our statesmen cannot see such realities. They see them very well. However, they cannot rid themselves from secularism, prejudice and the control of the pseudoclergy, liberalism and the imperialist mass media.

Lebanon

Multinational Force, Security Situation — U.S. Marines disembarked at Beirut port and landed at the international airport, according to Voice of Lebanon and Beirut radio reports. Citing French military sources, AFP said the multinational peacekeeping force will complete its deployment by noon 30 September.

The Israelis have been holding military maneuvers in the Al-Biqa' Valley, according to the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio.

In southern Lebanon the IDF increased its patrols in the 'Ayn al-Hulwah Palestinian refugee camp near Sidon after Phalangists killed a 70-year-old man, Jerusalem radio reported. Lebanese security sources cited by Beirut radio said the Israelis detained four armed men and handed them over to internal security forces in connection with the incident. Earlier, AFP reported that Palestinians in the same area accused Phalangist militia of killing four people and kidnapping several others on 26 September.

Political Situation — Noting that President Amin al-Jumayyil will shortly start consultations on the formation of a new government, Beirut radio said a prime minister will be designated by the weekend and decrees on the formation of the new government will be issued next week. The radio confirmed that Al-Jumayyil has accepted Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan's resignation but has asked Al-Wazzan and his ministers to continue in office until a new government is formed.

After his visit to the United Nations, Al-Jumayyil will travel to Washington and Paris but will not visit any other Arab or non-Arab state, according to Voice of Lebanon radio. Meanwhile, Beirut radio noted that Al-Jumayyil will formally open the crossing points between East and West Beirut on 30 September.

The Voice of Arab Lebanon radio, which is associated with the leftist Al-Murabitun movement, was heard to resume transmitting on 29 September. The radio reported that Al-Murabitun Command Council Chairman Ibrahim Qulaylat gave a press conference in the Al-Barbir hospital, where he is convalescing, in which he said the Al-Murabitun will deal positively with the new regime of President al-Jumayyil.

Israel

Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon told Qiryat Mal'akhi residents that he is responsible for Israeli actions related to the Beirut massacres, Jerusalem radio reported. Sharon said that if necessary he would put his position on the line. He declared that Israel is the target of anti-Jewish feeling and accused the U.S. administration of interfering in Israeli domestic political affairs. In remarks carried by the radio, he spoke of "character assassination" against Israel and said the purpose of this is to make Israelis accept "claims" such as the Reagan plan, which he rejected.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Menahem Begin declared that as prime minister he is ultimately responsible for any Israeli actions. Speaking at the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee, reported by IDF radio, Begin said lack of knowledge does not free him from responsibility and stressed that both he and the defense minister take this position. He claimed that the Alignment is trying to tie the government and the IDF to the Beirut massacre and referred to "political challenges" facing Israel, such as the "dangers" of the Reagan plan. Noting that Jordan's King Husayn reportedly is not prepared to speak with him, Begin said this was fine and Israel will continue to build settlements in Judaea and Samaria.

PLO

PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat participated in the funeral procession in Damascus of Fatah Central Committee member Sa'd Sayil, Damascus radio reported.

Saudi Arabia

Fahd-Sharon Meeting Denial -- Press sources in London cited by JANA alleged that Fahd secretly met with Israeli Defense Minister Sharon in London last June; a Saudi Royal Court spokesman cited by SPA denied this "baseless" report.

Fahd, Brezhnev Cables -- Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev sent a message to King Fahd on the occasion of Saudi National Day expressing respect for Saudi principles including that of noninterference, TASS reported. Riyadh television noted that Fahd had sent a cable of thanks to Brezhnev.

Iranian Pilgrims -- Iranian pilgrims marching to Mecca were confronted by Saudi police who attacked and arrested some of the marchers, Tehran radio claimed.

Iran-Iraq War

Iranian forces hit Iraqi positions near Basra, causing a fire at some Iraqi petrochemical installations, IRNA reported. According to AFP, the Iranian Interior Minister inspected a captured border position near Basra inside Iraq. Iraqi President Saddam Husayn also visited Iraqi positions near the front, INA said.

Iran

In a series of operations carried out on 23 September, a large part of the Mojahedin-e Khalq organization in Gilan Province was eliminated and 40 of its members were killed or arrested, Tehran radio claimed.

MINISTER DESCRIBES HEALTH CARE FACILITIES

LD271444 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1630 GMT 25 Sep 82

[Speech by Minister of Public Health Mohammad Mohammedi Nabi -- live or recorded -- date and place not given]

[Excerpts] The main objectives of preventative medicine programs consist of research and the prescription of practical measures in the area of public health problems, especially in the field of epidemic diseases, environmental health, living environment; maintaining the health of workers; increasing the level of immunity against five fatal diseases among children up to 5 years of age by general vaccination; and, finally, increasing the level of public health awareness and information.

After the new development stage of the April Revolution, despite the destruction and the creation of unfavorable conditions by counterrevolution ry elements, the department responsible for containing malaria and leishmania has striven to implement the program to contain malaria and leishmania quantitatively and qualitatively.

It is worth mentioning that, after the new development stage of the revolution, the institute for containing malaria and leishmania with the help of the World Health Organization and the friendly Soviet Government, drafted an emergency plan in addition to the existing one, which started operation on 21 March 1982. According to this plan, the distribution of medicine, the spraying of medicine, the dissemination of propaganda leaflets and monitoring of malaria in the first 5 months shows an improvement of 32.5 percent compared with the same period last year.

The participation of all party, government and social organizations and the active cooperation of people and the technical support of international organizations is of great importance in containing malaria and leishmania. We are sure that, in line with the instructions of the DRA Council of Ministers, all those organizations will help the Ministry of Public Health and will fulfill their national and conscientious duties.

In the control of epidemic diseases and in securing environmental health the provision of sanitary drinking water is of great importance. The Ministry of Public Health, in accordance with the international resolution to (?provide) water and sanitary services, and despite the savage destruction by counterrevolutionary elements, with the consistent help of the rural water department has reactivated a number of projects and has constructed some new projects. In the past 4 years the Ministry of Public Health has carried out construction work on 40 water distribution stations, the digging of 50 deep wells, the installation of 550 hand- and diesel-operated water pumps, the protection of existing wells and 80 engineering and sanitary services of various kinds in the capital and provinces of the country.

In accordance with the decisions of the international conference in Alma Ata, operational plans regarding the development of basic medical services have also been considered. In this respect, since the victory of the April Revolution these services have been arranged with regard for geographic, demographic and transport realities, so that all the population will receive basic medical services by the end of the period envisaged in the plan. To achieve this the number of primary medical centers must be increased to 330 and secondary centers to 314.

The friendly Soviet Union, in addition to its cooperation in sending specialists and technical personnel, has given a loan of R9 million on easy terms to the Ministry of Public Health for the construction of a Qonduz hospital, the creation of a blood bank and a central polyclinic with their necessary equipment and has also assisted us by supplying a quantity of medicine and machinery and by training medical personnel under various agreements.

Friendly Czechoslovakia has given us grant-in-aid equivalent to 10 million krone in medical equipment and accessories.

Also, friendly Bulgaria, Hungary and the GDR have given substantial aid to the DRA Ministry of Public Health. Friendly India has given valuable aid to the Institute of Pediatric Care and, following the discussions at the fifth and sixth commissions, it has promised, as grant-in-aid, to extend the pediatric hospital, and to construct [words indistinct] hospital and the maternity hospital.

With the budget of the Ministry of Public Health, international aid and the help of fraternal countries, according to precise calculations, the provision of health and medical services has increased by 250 percent since the victory of the April Revolution compared with the prerevolution period.

AFP REPORTS BOMB EXPLOSION IN RADIO STATION

BK281458 Hong Kong AFP in English 1428 GMT 28 Sep 82

[Excerpt] New Delhi, Sept. 28 (AFP) -- A bomb exploded in the radio Afghanistan building in Kabul last week, damaging the foreign language service studio, diplomatic sources said here today.

There was no report of casualties as the studio was unoccupied when the bomb exploded on September 19, the diplomats said. The sources could not say who planted the bomb, but Afghan dissidents here said they have reports from travelers saying that it was planted by a staff member who had joined the ranks of the Moslem insurgents fighting the Soviet backed government of Babrak Karmal.

There was, however, no independent confirmation of the report. The explosion apparently did not affect the foreign language service broadcasts, radio monitors here said.

Meanwhile, the diplomats watching developments in embattled Afghanistan said a residential area near the Soviet Embassy in Kabul witnessed night-long rocket fire on September 24.

The diplomats could not say who fired the rockets, but earlier reports confirmed that since the September 24 incident, the capital city had seen an increased Soviet presence on the streets. The diplomats also confirmed reports that Soviet and Afghan Government troops had withdrawn from the strategic Panjsher Valley, north of Kabul, and the [as received] taken up prepared fixed winter positions.

JALALABAD REPORTED UNDER DAILY ATTACK

PM281457 London THE DAILY TELEGRAPH in English 28 Sep 82 p 5

[Balram Tandon report: "Major Soviet Base in Afghanistan Attacked"]

[Text] New Delhi -- Pathan tribesmen opposed to Mr Babrak Karmal's Soviet-backed regime in Kabul have been pounding Jalalabad, chief town in southeastern Afghanistan, with shoulder-firing rockets and heavy machine-guns since the beginning of September.

According to South Asian diplomats who have missions in Jalalabad and recent Indian visitors there the main target of the Pathans is Jalalabad Airport, which they have attacked almost every day.

There have also been attacks on residential colonies, government officers, and police posts on the periphery of Jalalabad. Some of these were made with small automatic weapons.

Jalalabad is said to have the atmosphere of a beleaguered outpost. Indian visitors thought to be friendly by the regime and Russians are told not to venture beyond a one-and-a-half-mile radius of the city centre without armed escort. Jalalabad, according to most accounts by South Asian diplomats who have been there, is a major base for the Soviet occupation forces, and the airport is teeming with MiG Sukhoy fighter-bombers.

There are always planes in the air to keep an eye on the movement of Pathan lashkars (guerrilla bands) along the meandering tracks in the hills. Lorries and buses on the highway to Tokhkam, the village on the Afghan-Pakistan border at the head of the Khyber Pass, are invariably accompanied by armoured personnel carriers and even armoured cars. The carriers rumble through the city streets almost all through the day as well as night. The presence of Soviet troops is overwhelming in Jalalabad, and the occupation army is said no longer to maintain a low profile.

Switch of Targets

Sustained attacks on Jalalabad last week suggest a sudden switch of targets by the mujahidin resistance. There has been a corresponding fall in resistance activity in Kabul. Indian journalists allowed into Kabul and Jalalabad said that an eerie silence descended on both cities near dusk and that there was an atmosphere of fearful gloom after curfew began at 10 p.m. They also reported large numbers of askaris, members of the newly-raised armed communist party force, joining Soviet troops on night patrols. The askaris, mostly in their teens, were conscripts, and these gun-toting teenagers often seemed to be aimlessly wandering on the streets.

GUERRILLA LEADER ON 'DEADLOCK' IN WAR

PM291431 Stockholm SVENSKA DAGBLADET in Swedish 27 Sep 82 p 5

[Tom Hansson dispatch: "The Afghan War Cannot Be Won"]

[Text] Peshawar -- "(Murabahr Karmal)! Down with Karmal!" The cries fill the crowded meeting tent. Only men -- very old ones and young boys -- are present. Women are not allowed to take part. The young men, those able to bear arms, are on the other side of the border. They belong to the mujahidin guerrillas who have been fighting the Soviet invasion forces since Christmas 1979.

"Two hundred young men from our camp are now in Afghanistan. In a few weeks' time another group will cross the border," Mohammad said. Mohammad has just returned from a mission in Afghanistan. He and almost 128,000 other refugees live in one of the 11 camps which make up Barakay. The camps are in the Peshawar District, in Pakistan's Northwest Frontier Province, which, according to the government's estimates, has received 2.1 million refugees.

The province is wedged between the Afghan border and the Indus River and is an important starting point for the guerrillas' attacks into Afghanistan. The area is mountainous and the climate varies between severe cold and winter snow in the northern part and hot dry summer in the south.

Mohammad, like the majority of mujahidin members, is keen to stress the guerrillas' successes: "The majority of soldiers from the Afghan Government Army have deserted. Even many Soviet soldiers have come over to us. Only a small clique is supporting the Karmal regime, which is only in control of the larger cities."

Mohammad's words once again fill the tent with chanting. Morale is high and it is important to demonstrate this to visiting journalists. The young boys go on to wave Pakistani flags. The support from Pakistan is significant and sympathy for Ziaul Haq's regime is great. Outside the meeting tent different flags fly. Over the camp's burial ground colorful pennants flutter in the dry desert wind. Pennants with red bodies mark slain mujahidin members. Outside some of the camp's mud huts green, white and black flags hang. Here one of the six mujahidin groups, the National Islamic Front for Afghanistan, has its offices. A few hours by car from there, in the major city of Peshawar, is one of the front's main headquarters. Hasan Gailani, son of the group's leader, Ahmad Gailani, received me in the luxurious villa which the Pakistani Government has placed at the group's disposal.

As a leader of one of the moderate mujahidin groups Hasan Gailani is cautious in his evaluation of battlefield successes: "We find ourselves in a deadlocked situation," he said. "The Russians know they cannot win, and the same is also unfortunately true for the mujahidin. The only realistic thing is a political solution. But of course we cannot accept anything less than a total Soviet withdrawal."

According to Hasan Gailani, the Soviet Union has between 110,000 and 120,000 soldiers in Afghanistan. The Karmal government has 30,000 soldiers and the mujahidin have 150,000. But many are poorly armed and I only expect half to be able to take an active part in the fighting," he said. Total losses now amount, according to Hasan Gailani, to 500,000 dead or wounded Afghans. This figure includes 60,000 mujahidin soldiers. He estimated Soviet losses at 4,000 dead. "The help we receive from outside is a drop in the ocean, he said disappointedly. "We are fighting against a superpower, using arms we won from the same superpower. The problem is that even if we had the money to buy modern missiles, for example, we would have difficulty transporting them into Afghanistan.

A few blocks from Hasan Gailani's villa lies the International Red Cross hospital. Some of the refugees -- civilians and soldiers -- wounded in the fighting in Afghanistan end up here. Two surgeons work at the hospital, which with its little over 100 beds can take care of relatively advanced cases. "Bullet wounds, wounds from grenade fragments or mines are the most common," hospital chief and International Red Cross delegation leader David Delapraz says. "But many die on the long journeys while they are being transported here. It can take up to 10 days to get here, depending on where in Afghanistan they were wounded. It is particularly difficult in the winter. The heavy snowfalls in the mountains mean that many people do not reach us or the various mujahidin groups' own clinics."

Reports that the Soviet Union is using chemical weapons in Afghanistan surface at regular intervals. Recently a Soviet soldier who deserted to the mujahidin said that three types of combat gas are being used. David Delapraz was unwilling to comment on whether patients who are the victims of the claimed gas attacks are treated at the Peshawar clinic. "We do not ask the patients any military questions. The matter is a case for the United Nations alone."

It is difficult to get a real idea of the strength of the mujahidin guerrillas. Hasan Gailani's relatively cautious statements are also contradicted, ironically enough, by his own father. According to Ahmad Gailani, between 80 and 90 percent of Afghanistan has already been "liberated," including several large cities. "The mujahidin have 800,000 men under arms," he said at his headquarters in Islamabad. "If we only were given enough arms, we could mobilize ten million!"

According to Ahmad Gailani the establishment of a government-in-exile is an important goal, The formation of such a government, however, was prevented by the differences between the moderate and the fundamentalist mujahidin groups. "We want to build a united and credible front. This is important if we are to win international support. When we have won, the Afghan people must choose their own government. Without socialists. The latter had their chance and failed. That is why they had to call on the help of the Soviet Union."

Despite all the resolutions, international support has so far only been verbal. "We have asked the Muslim nations and several other countries to give us arms. I hope they will give us arms. It is their duty to do so!"

Despite the attempts to seem optimistic, Ahmad Gailani found it difficult to conceal his disappointment. When finally asked how often he goes into Afghanistan himself with the guerrillas, he sighs deeply: "Never. If I did that, the Soviet forces would direct their attacks at the area in which I was to be found."

ERSHAD REASSURES 'ARAFAT OF SUPPORT FOR PLO

BK281438 Dacca Domestic Service in English 0145 GMT 28 Sep 82

[Text] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt Gen H.M. Ershad has strongly denounced the Israeli and Lebanese forces' massacre of the Palestinians in West Beirut.

In separate statements for two leading Saudi dailies -- UKAZ and AL-MEDINA -- General Ershad urged the Islamic nations to forge greater unity and close their ranks and consolidate the Islamic solidarity to effectively solve the Palestinian problems.

The Bangladesh leader said that hundreds of his countrymen were killed while combating the Israeli invasion in south Lebanon. Some 300 to 400 Bangladeshi fighters had been captured by the Israelis, he added.

Earlier, during a meeting with 'Arafat, the PLO chief informed General Ershad that at least 7,000 innocent and unarmed Palestinians have been massacred brutally in Beirut recently. Yasir 'Arafat, during an hour-long meeting, dealt at length with the tragic events leading to the savage massacre of the Palestinians.

General Ershad, reassuring the PLO chairman of Bangladesh's fullest support, told him that our people are and will always remain with their Palestinian brothers in their struggle for a separate and independent homeland.

The two leaders, who are now in Saudi Arabia in connection with the performance of hajj, had a free exchange of views on various problems facing the Islamic world.

General Ershad also had a meeting with President Ahmed Sekou Toure of Guinea and discussed matters relating to Islamic peace committee, of which both their countries are members. The two leaders are to meet again in Jidda before the CMLA's departure for home.

DAILY URGES END TO 'FIREARMS EPIDEMIC'

GF270546 Karachi DAWN in English 24 Sep 82 p 9

[Editorial: "The Firearms Epidemic"]

[Excerpts] Discovery of a large cache of clandestine arms and ammunition from the residence of a foreign national teaching at the International School in Islamabad, following seizure of arms in a consignment of goods at the Islamabad airport, booked in the name of the same teacher, comes as another scary reminder of what would appear to be the firearms epidemic in the country.

Stray reports about "illicit arms" found by the police in its periodic block raids to flush out "anti-social elements" have only served as a backdrop to more dramatic seizures at various places in the country. A strong underworld seems to have developed, dealing in foreign arms, including sophisticated automatic weapons.

Inflow of small arms in Karachi is well established. A terrifying dimension of this potentially explosive situation is the induction of firearms into student politics. In campuses around the country, shots have ringed more loudly than slogans. Automatic weapons and small arms were recovered from the University of Karachi campus after a bloody clash last December. But the intensive police operation that followed did not succeed in stopping more shots from being fired at the campus, leading to the fourth death since February 1981.

As the threat of violence grows, the wide dispersal of firearms in the country is fraught with grave danger to public order and individual safety. The administrative failure that has allowed gun-running to flourish in the country needs to be probed. That firearms have been passed around despite the extraordinary martial law measures to curb violence is also to be noted. The police and the numerous intelligence agencies could not have been ignorant of the illicit trade in firearms at the initial stage of this epidemic.

Why were not the channels of the arms inflow blocked at the source? Why has the menace been allowed to grow to such frightening proportions? This certainly is a comment on the state of our law-enforcing agencies.

The question of what occasions the urge in a community to acquire arms illegally is difficult to answer very directly. But it is obvious that in times when an atmosphere of uncertainty prevails owing to the absence of a stable political order and when tensions are building up, political malcontents, adventurers and soldiers of fortune and those with a criminal bent of mind are tempted to get hold of weapons, each group for its separate reason. Thus, when the situation gives rise to a demand for weapons, illegal traffic in arms begins and a market comes into being. This may not be an adequate explanation for what is now happening, but it does throw some light on the phenomenon. This is the political or nonadministrative aspect of the matter and deserves serious study in the first place. As for the sources or channels of arms supply, identifying them is not an easy task. Some people are of the opinion that the mass influx of armed Afghan refugees may have been one source of the infusion of illegal weapons.

The second channel people speak about is the inflow of arms for terrorist activities. Terrorists trained abroad and armed by foreign sources have introduced the darkest patch in this gloomy situation. It is difficult to measure the threat that terrorists pose. In fact, they cannot operate with any success over a period of time in a general atmosphere of political tranquillity and contentment and in a situation where the public retains its confidence in the law-enforcing agencies. This erosion of confidence, supported by and also leading to criminal use of firearms, is the larger threat.

The manner in which the police have dealt with crime and subversive activities may be yielding negative results. The standard practice is to round up a large number of suspects instead of relying on intelligent methods of detection. Often it may be more rewarding to keep a suspect under surveillance than to arrest him. As many as 300 persons were detained for "interrogation" after the car blast at the Lahore airport and nothing is yet known about the actual culprits.

Mounting evidence of the existence and circulation of illegal arms clearly indicates the inadequacy of the official response to the problem. Further proof of this is the decision to issue arms licences to law-abiding citizens, to enable them to fortify their sense of security with a gun. But, in the final analysis, armed men cannot protect the values of a society. Criminals and terrorists holding the gun can be disarmed simply by the enforcement of the rule of law and by providing for the people's participation in matters that affect their lives, welfare and security.

KHOMEYNI ON IRNA'S ROLE, EXPORT OF REVOLUTION

LD291218 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Sep 82

[Text] Mr Gharazi, supervisor of IRNA, together with a group of officials from this organization, was received by Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, this morning. He briefed the imam on the affairs of the organization. Then Imam Khomeyni addressed the audience, saying:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The important characteristic of a news agency is its quality, since one that is close to truth and truthfulness encourages one to listen. In the Islamic Republic, all news, especially news about the war and the way the great governments treat the Iranian nation, should be communicated to the people in all honesty.

Today the world news agencies, press and media are interested in the affairs of Iran and are all waiting to find something so they can add onto it and distort it to damage the Islamic Republic. They carry fabricated interviews with biased people or pass wrong judgment on people in order to divert the people's attention.

One issue that is publicized and manipulated is the issue of revolution and Islam. It is obvious that if Islam expands, it will stop their (?work). When we say the revolution should be exported, this means that Islam should expand everywhere. We do not intend to embark on military interference anywhere.

I hope that IRNA will progress because of its characteristics. We -- you and I -- should realise that God is watching over us. We should carry out our duties and foil the efforts of the enemy. May God help us succeed in serving this nation, which has always suffered and been oppressed. May God heal your wounded and bless the martyrs.

Peace and God's benediction be upon you.

MUSAVI COMMENTS ON FOREIGN, DOMESTIC ISSUES

LD291506 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Sep 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, prime minister, held an interview with our reporters after today's Cabinet session and answered their questions on various issues.

Concerning recent remarks by President Khamene'i about convening a conference of heads of Islamic countries, the prime minister said: In fact the president wanted to point out one of the weaknesses of the Fes conference: The issue of the Islamization of the Jerusalem question and the occupied territories was not discussed. We should bear in mind that the only way to confront America and Israel is to depend upon the power of the faith of the people and nations and the unity and harmony that should be established among Muslims.

The Fes conference basically emphasized the racial issue, which is deviationist and useless in confronting Israeli aggression. It has been repeatedly pointed out that in view of the faith existing in the Muslim community, instead of being confronted with only one or two oppressed countries it should be confronted by the world's one billion Muslims. The day the Muslim nations and governments reach this conclusion will be the day that the hour of America and Israel's death in the region arrives.

Mr Musavi added: The invitation by our country's president to leaders of Islamic countries is in fact a new line toward Islamic nations in preference to Islamic governments which can be considered as a basis [for action]. The raising of this issue will certainly arouse the feelings of the Muslim nations toward their governments.

Concerning the scope of private sector activities recently approved in the Economic Council, Mr Musavi said: The Economic Council has devoted most of its efforts during the past few months to the planning and creation of economic infrastructure. Fortunately, (?despite the present difficulties), the Economic Council is at the stage of making these activities conform with Islamic principles. In my view, with the direct relations existing between the council and the instructors of the Qom religious seminary, returning to Islam and shar'iah will open a new path for us in this country in order to improve the economic situation. We expect this plan to be finally approved by the Cabinet during the next few weeks.

Concerning the favorable consequences of the approval of the private sector bill by the Majlis, the prime minister said: If we overlook some existing shortcomings, our country's economic situation is very good. This becomes very clear when we compare Iran with other countries. The fact that registration of new companies is almost more than in prerevolution days demonstrates that the people have a feeling of security concerning investment. This plan has strengthened the situation even prior to its implementation; it has facilitated the country's economic situation and it will make government policies clearer to the people. Certainly it will be a major assistance to us in moving toward economic self-sufficiency.

Concerning the effects of the revolution prosecutor's recent announcement about the identification of landlords and tenants, and rumors by hypocrites that this plan has been implemented for the sake of receiving tax from the people, the prime minister said: As head of government, I officially deny this rumor. Our self-sacrificing and heroic nation should be certain that the Government of the Islamic Republic will, as in the past, continue to present its policies clearly. If the government intended to take taxes we would have announced this matter openly to the people and made certain that the people could not refrain [from paying taxes]. There is no need for us to raise the issue of taxes in this way. The prime minister added: At the moment, our government is in a very powerful position and it has no need to resort to such tactics.

These rumors are spread by hypocrites who have been hard-pressed due to this policy.

According to our information, one of the hypocrites' greatest difficulties is shortage of houses. Naturally, if the people clearly support this decision, and we are sure that they will, the remaining remnants of these minigroups in the country will soon be destroyed.

AFP: NATEQ-NURI CROSSES INTO IRAQ ON INSPECTION

NC291355 Paris AFP in English 1342 GMT 29 Sep 82

[Text] Tehran, Sep 29 (AFP) -- Iranian Interior Minister Hojjat ol-Eslam 'Ali Akbar Nateq-Nuri on Monday crossed into Iraq to inspect the Zeid border post, northeast of the Iraqi oil city of Basra, it was reported here today.

Iranian forces captured the post, a fortress several kilometres (miles) across the border from the Ahvaz-Khorramshahr road, during the "Ramadan" offensive launched on July 13.

ETTELA'AT newspaper quoted the minister as saying that "as always" the moral of Iranian troops was excellent, and they were impatient to fight.

This was the first press report of a cross-border inspection by an Iranian minister.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,062

[Communique No 1,062 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Yesterday in the western operational zone, clashes took place in the form of sporadic exchanges of fire. Opening heavy-artillery and mortar fire, our heroic combatants hit the positions and fortifications of the Iraqi forces. While safeguarding and defending their own positions in that area, the forces of Islam opened fire on the assembly points and the supply axes of the aggressors. As a result, one enemy machinegun and three vehicles carrying Iraqi servicemen were destroyed and a number of Saddamists were either killed or wounded.

In the Sumar region and on the Meymak heights, the intensity of fire was great. However, our fighting forces silenced the enemy fire.

In the operational zone in the southern part of the country, Islam's powerful forces continued their efforts toward strengthening and defending the positions entrusted to them through an exchange of fire and the execution of reconnaissance and combat missions. Thanks to fire opened on enemy positions on the opposite bank of the Arvand Rud by our brave forces, enemy movements in that region were prevented and a number of squad trenches and weapons of the Saddamists were destroyed. As a result of these operations, a number of Iraqi military men were annihilated and another number were wounded.

Yesterday Abadan came under fire from enemy long-range weapons. Two housing units in that city were destroyed and several places were set ablaze as a result of hits by enemy mortars.

During the past 24 hours, thanks to ground-to-air fire by our forces and tactical moves made by the fighter aircraft of the Islamic Republic of Iran's Air Force, enemy air activities, whether border violations or aerial reconnaissance flights, were neutralized and the raiding aircraft were forced to flee.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

[Text] According to an IRNA report, as a result of firing by the forces of Islam on the Saddamist positions in the vicinity of Basra, part of the enemy's petrochemical installations were set on fire, damage was caused to these installations and a number of those deceived by Saddam were killed or wounded.

Also, in the past 24 hours, as a result of the effective and coordinated fire of the combatants of Islam on the southern fronts, an enemy vehicle carrying a 106-mm rifle and one mortar were destroyed on the border of southern Kushk and Shalamcheh.

IRAQI MIG'S VIOLATE KHORRAMABAD AIRSPACE

LD291726 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 29 Sep 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, at 1025 today five Iraqi MiG-25's violated Khorramabad airspace, but before managing to carry out any action they were faced with the antiaircraft fire of the forces based in the area and were forced to flee.

QOTBZADEH EXECUTION 'STEP IN REFINING REVOLUTION'

GF270717 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 18 Sep 82 p 1

[Editorial: "Lesson"]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. The execution of Sadeq Qotbzadeh can be analyzed by any individual or political group on the basis of their beliefs. Carter, who lost his chance for a second presidential term due to the Islamic revolution, and thus is angry at the revolution, was very upset when he heard the news of Qotbzadeh's execution. He called it "an action by the Islamic Republic of Iran to deprive its people of learned human beings and enlightened individuals!"

Bani-Sadr, who still considers himself the legal president of Iran, together with his legal prime minister [Rajavi] in a joint communique issued in mourning for Qotbzadeh -- read on Israeli radio -- made remarks similar to Carter's.

'Ali Amini, the well-known U.S. pawn and the former prime minister of the defunct shah, also said similar words.

It is natural that all those opposing the Islamic revolution and the enemies of Islam have become angry and upset because of Qotbzadeh's execution.

This is because he was one of the more effective and larger pawns heartily depended on by the world devourers and their agents for the overthrow of the system of the Islamic Republic, and as we saw, they had gone as far as the border of action in this great treachery.

Meanwhile, the supporters of the Islamic Republic, wherever they may be, will view Qotbzadeh's execution as another step in refining the revolution and removing traitorous elements who are a constant danger to the Iranian nation and to the independence and freedom of this republic.

We prefer to talk about Qotbzadeh's execution in terms of the entire Qotbzadeh issue since his arrival in Iran and the general issue of Qotbzadehs and their position with respect to the Islamic revolution and their treatment by the Islamic revolution. It is not correct to separate Qotbzadeh's execution from the moves he made from his arrival in Iran until his arrest for plotting a coup against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The review and analysis of the execution alone does not achieve anything nor is it possible to review Qotbzadeh minus his allies and protagonists. The names of Qotbzadeh, Bani-Sadr and some others, who can be classified as "those who came from the West" or "psuedointellectuals," became well-known since the arrival of the imam in Paris. This means that they were worthlessly minute particles who had no value in the Iranian nation. They were lit by the sunshine of the iman's presence and became of some value because of the imam. Yet later on it became apparent that they had no value.

This issue [Qotbzadeh's plot] clearly shows that the Islamic revolution gives all individuals the opportunity for action to show whether they are prepared to serve or be traitors. This is the reason why immediately following the victory of the revolution the leader delegated leadership positions to people who came from the same social strata as the families of Qotbzadeh and Bani-Sadr. However, this particular group showed by its actions that it cannot be trusted and that the revolution cannot count on it. Therefore, if the issue of Qotbzadehs is looked at as an event, we can conclude that the Islamic revolution has proved its tolerance of individuals connected with such events and that these people have forever registered their treachery in the history of this nation. This has become a great experience, not only for our nation, but also for all the nations with an Islamic revolution in their future. On the other hand, in relation to Qotbzadeh himself and on the basis of the above, we can state that Qotbzadeh was a lesson, as was Bani-Sadr and many others who had a similar fortune.

PROSECUTOR GENERAL COMMENTS ON JUDICIAL ISSUES

LD261326 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Excerpt] Mr Musavi-Tabrizi, Islamic revolution prosecutor general, in an exclusive interview given to a Central News Unit correspondent today regarding the replacement of Justice Ministry law with shar'iah said: This replacement, which is taking place on the strict and clear orders of the imam of the nation, is the judicial revolution and will be the fourth revolution in the Islamic Republic of Iran. The Islamic revolution prosecutor general also said: The replacement of justice laws with shar'iah is an issue needed by judicial matters and the imam's pioneering in this field pleased God and the nation. It should of course be noted that the Supreme Judicial Council has taken positive steps in this field, but the imam's move as usual brought a constructive change in this matter.

Regarding the cleansing of schools from the evil of the hyprocrites Mr Musavi-Tabrizi said: The past year should be considered as the year of cleansing schools, but we must be careful because this year the hyprocrites have not given up their intention either and it is the duty of the beloved pupils, the noble authorities, teachers and Islamic societies of schools to (?guide and be compassionate with) indifferent pupils and also those released from jails, some of whom used to be our naive youth, to ensure that the academic atmosphere is safe. He then asked those pupils who are members of Islamic societies and authorities to report to the prosecutor's office the slightest suspicious move by some pupils in connection with [anti-government] groups and those who have been released [from jail].

In connection with preventing hoarding and overcharging, the revolution prosecutor general said: We should bear several points in mind in this connection: First, popular responsibility for preventing hoarding and overcharging; second, the economic dimension and means of supply and distribution by the government; and, third, the penal and guidance dimension.

Regarding special guilds affairs courts and their role, the revolution prosecutor general said: In my opinion this court must feel more responsibility in order to prevent hoarding and to cut short the hands of the hoarders.

I believe that our enthusiastic young people, after returning from the fronts in complete victory, will not leave the hoarders and overchargers alone and will no doubt return the properties and [word indistinct] to their original owners.

SAUDI POLICE FAIL TO STOP PILGRIMS' MARCH

LD300510 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 30 Sep 82

[Text] Our correspondent in Mecca reports that after a 2-night stay at holy Muna, the Mecca pilgrims returned to holy Mecca yesterday afternoon to complete their homage. The report adds that the Iranian pilgrims, heading for Mecca from Muna, staged a march while chanting slogans against global oppressors. The march is reported to have been received with great enthusiasm by other Muslim pilgrims.

The Saudi police, trying to stop the march, attempted several times to attack the marchers and consequently arrested a number of Iranian pilgrims. However, faced with the marchers' resistance, they failed to stop the march.

The announcement also said the agreement was on a barter basis. The agreement was signed simultaneously with the fifth day of the anniversary of the war week, marking the Iraq imposed war upon Iran. ANZALI PORT STATISTICS -- A project to construct three new docks in Anzali Port will increase the minimum load-handling capacity of the port to 1.5 million tons. Recent work on increasing the capacity has increased current capacity to 1 million tons compared to the prerevolution limit of 400,000 tons. In Mordad [month ending 22 September], the port loaded 92,000 tons of goods and unloaded 80,000 tons. In the first 5 months of the current Iranian year, 134 commercial ships docked at the port, bringing goods to Iran. In the same period, the port has shown a profit of 380 million rials. This is an increase of 15 million rials compared to last year. [Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 18 Sep 82 p 9 GF]

EMBASSY IN KENYA REOPENS -- Tehran, Sept. 29 (IRNA) -- Iranian Embassy in Nairobi, Kenya, resumes diplomatic activities with the temporary appointment of Baqer Vali Beik as charge d'affaires there. Vali Beik was previously heading the Iranian Interest Section in that country as the diplomatic ties of the two were suspended by shah's regime in 1978. The defunct shah took the decision for the severance of the bilateral ties in support of Somalia. The two countries' official talks were held early this month when an Iranian delegation visited Nairobi. The Iranian delegation headed by Foreign Ministry's Afro-Asian desk's director Mohammad Hoseyn Lavasani expressed Iran's intention for the resumption of the diplomatic ties between the two countries. The Iranian and Kenyan officials agreed on the issue during those mutual talks. [Tehran IRNA in English 0925 GMT 29 Sep 82 LD]

Iran-Iraq War

Iranian joint military and security forces launched an offensive from the western sector of Iran, capturing strategic heights overlooking the Iraqi city of Mandali and reaching a point 100 km from Baghdad, an Iranian communique carried by Tehran radio announced early on 1 October. According to IRNA, the offensive was launched to free territory occupied by the Iraqis and to show Iraq that Iran will continue the fight until its conditions are met. In a statement carried by INA, an Iraqi military spokesman declared that Iraqi forces drove back the attempted Iranian advance in the central battle sector, although battles were continuing with "remnants" of the Iranian forces.

Lebanon

Landmine Explosion, Beirut Security -- A landmine explosion near Beirut International Airport killed one U.S. marine and wounded three others, Jerusalem radio reported; a Pentagon spokesman cited by the radio affirmed that the incident was an accident. The clandestine Voice of Arab Homeland radio alleged that the marine was killed by a U.S.-made cluster bomb which had been used by the Israelis. Meanwhile, the Lebanese Army and multinational forces continued their deployment by entering the Al-Ashrafiyah area of East Beirut, Beirut radio stated. However, AFP reported that the forces were blocked from entering this district by Phalangists and that informal talks were held between the officers.

Delivering a speech at a ceremony at the Museum crossing, President Amin al-Jumayyil declared that there is no longer an East and West Beirut, but instead a unified capital of Lebanon, Beirut radio reported. He said that all main roads will be reopened and thanked the multinational force participants for responding to the Lebanese appeal for assistance. Al-Jumayyil also attended a ceremony to reopen the airport to regular traffic, the radio noted.

According to HA'ARETZ, the IDF was able to detain only a few of the 2,000 "terrorists" who remained in West Beirut, although a large amount of arms had been collected.

Camp Security, PLO Fighters Return -- The IDF closed off and detained 60 suspects in the 'Ayn al-Hulwah Palestinian refugee camp near Sidon as a result of "terrorists" firing on refugees on 29 September, Jerusalem radio reported, adding that later camp life returned to normal. Beirut radio claimed that 1,500 Palestinians and Lebanese had been detained by the IDF as suspects. In another development, an order was issued that only IDF soldiers will be permitted to pass into southern or northern Lebanon at the Al-'Awwali bridge, Jerusalem radio reported. The report said this order includes Lebanese soldiers.

PLO "terrorists" who were evacuated from Beirut have returned to the Al-Biqa' Valley and Tripoli through Syrian lines, Jerusalem radio asserted. The report estimated that 5,000 "terrorists" are deployed in the Al-Biqa' alone.

Political Situation -- According to Monte Carlo radio, an informed source told the Lebanese news agency that one person has been arrested in connection with the assassination of President-elect Bashir al-Jumayyil. The source said this person revealed the names of others involved in the crime. Meanwhile, President al-Jumayyil resumed Cabinet formation consultations and received former Lebanese President Camille Sham'un, who said he had nominated someone for the post of prime minister, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. Earlier, Sham'un told a press conference that negotiations should be held with the Syrians and Israelis regarding the withdrawal of their forces from Lebanese territory, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon said. He also outlined a plan for an Arab-Israeli federal Palestinian state to be established in Palestine under a joint Arab-Israeli government.

'Ali-Habib Talks -- Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali told U.S. envoy Philip Habib in Cairo that Egypt insists on the immediate Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon regardless of other considerations, the Foreign Ministry spokesman cited by MENA stated. The spokesman said Habib was told Egypt is concerned about the internal stability of Lebanon and the security of its peoples. During the talks, Habib revealed that an agreement will be reached within the next few weeks on the total withdrawal of all foreign forces from Lebanon.

Radio Free Lebanon on Massacres -- A 30 September commentary by Radio Free Lebanon contrasted current concern about the massacre of Palestinians in Beirut with the world's apathy over the "fearful massacres committed by the Palestinians and other aliens against thousands of innocent Lebanese women, old men and children in Ad-Damur and throughout Lebanon."

PLO

Nayif Hawatimah, head of the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, declared that the upcoming meeting of the Palestine National Council will have to make some "courageous decisions" taking into account international and Israeli views to end the "endless" wars in the Middle East, KUNA reported, citing an interview by LE MONDE. Hawatimah said the first step should be the formation of a Palestinian state in the West Bank and Gaza coupled with peaceful negotiations with Israel. He disclosed that the PLO had already been meeting with various Israelis and affirmed that the PLO is ready to hold direct talks with Israel and other relevant nations for peace. He expressed support for the French-Egyptian UN proposal and said it ought to be adopted as a UN resolution, thus eliminating internal PLO disunity and "selfish" intransigence by some Arab countries.

PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat chaired meetings of the Supreme Military Council and the Fatah Central Committee, according to KUNA. San'a' Voice of Palestine radio reported that Palestine National Council Chairman Khalid al-Fahum met with the deputy chairman of the USSR Supreme Soviet Presidium in Moscow.

Israel

In remarks carried by Jerusalem radio, Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir told the UN General Assembly that the PLO should be expelled from every "self-respecting" state and international body including the United Nations itself.

The prime minister's office issued a correction to remarks Prime Minister Menahem Begin reportedly made to the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee on 29 September regarding his responsibility for anything that happened in West Beirut, IDF radio reported. Begin actually said, according to the correction, that he shoulders responsibility for "every decision made by any holder of national authority or by the entire Cabinet."

Citing Israeli sources, MA'ARIV's military correspondent asserted that the United States already knew on the Friday of the week of the massacres that civilians were being killed in the Palestinian refugee camps. The U.S. officials involved did not notify Israeli authorities at the time, MA'ARIV added. Furthermore, U.S. diplomats in Beirut pressured the Lebanese prime minister into not deploying his army in the camps. The correspondent concluded that the degree of U.S. responsibility for the massacre is therefore at least as great as that of the Israelis. Meanwhile, Jerusalem political sources cited by the paper expressed satisfaction with remarks made by U.S. President Ronald Reagan at his press conference, defining the remarks as "serious and sincere."

AFP ON WEAPONRY AVAILABLE TO AFGHAN REBELS

[Text] Islamabad, Sept 30 (AFP) -- After 3 years of resistance, Afghan guerrillas now appear to have a full armory of modern assault weapons but still lack the heavy artillery needed to turn the military situation in their favor against a vastly better-equipped Soviet expeditionary corps. That is the opinion of Western analysts who have noted in recent months that rebel forces have begun discarding their trusted Lee Enfields, left behind by the British colonial army in India, for a new generation of assault rifles.

Their armory now includes Soviet-made 7.62-caliber Kalakovs and Kalashnikovs along with the most recent and smaller-caliber AKS-74s, issued to Afghan Government and Soviet troops. Automatic rifles, heavy machineguns and light and medium-sized mortars complete the panoply of advanced weapons which 3 years ago were virtually unknown to the nomadic peasants who suddenly found themselves face to face with one of the most powerful armies in the world.

But leaders of the resistance, after once pleading for "weapons, any weapons," are becoming increasing selective, Western observers have noted. They are now asking for anti-aircraft cannon to shoot down Soviet MI-24 armored helicopters and mine detectors to cross defense lines erected around Soviet-Afghan outposts.

Rebel communiques report more and more Soviet helicopters and airplanes downed by guerrillas but Western diplomats here have remained sceptical of the claims. They say resistance forces do not have the equipment necessary to knock out armored helicopters or MiG fighters.

Even the Soviet ZK-1 antiaircraft guns, some of which have no doubt fallen into guerrilla hands, are no longer being supplied to Afghan frontier posts for fear they will be sold or delivered to the resistance, diplomats said. They said it was possible the resistance may possess a handful of Soviet SAM-7 missiles, as reported by travellers in the region, but estimate such a small battery would represent little threat to Soviet pilots who are used to bombing villages from high altitudes.

Western diplomats believe that since the summer most of the fighters' weapons have been seized from government or Soviet troops but acknowledge the existence of a complicated arms delivery network probably backed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Radio Kabul continues to insist the rebels are being armed by Chinese and American "imperialists."

Besides Soviet warplanes, the rebels' chief fear appears to be the Soviet "special commandos" who are trained in anti-guerrilla warfare and will not hesitate to track down their adversaries in the mountains. "These soldiers are different from the others," a rebel leader recently was quoted as saying. "They aren't afraid of death."

ERSHAD RETURNS FROM SAUDI ARABIA; REVIEWS TRIP

BK301424 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1205 GMT 30 Sep 82

[Text] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt Gen H.M. Ershad, now back home after performing hajj, has described the mission as successful. Talking to newsmen at the Zia International Airport on his return to Dacca this morning, he said besides performing hajj, he had very fruitful talks with King Fahd and other Saudi leaders.

The CMLA noted with satisfaction that the Saudi king is very much aware of our economic situation and gave the assurance of continued Saudi assistance to Bangladesh.

General Ershad said he extended an invitation to the Saudi king, which has been gladly accepted. The CMLA expressed the hope that the visit will take place soon. During his 8-day stay in Saudi Arabia, General Ershad also had fruitful talks with other Saudi leaders and noted businessmen. He (?informed) them of the favorable investment climate in Bangladesh. The CMLA said the Saudi businessmen expressed their willingness to invest in the brotherly country of Bangladesh. He said a delegation of Saudi officials and businessmen will visit Bangladesh soon to study the possibility of Saudi investment.

General Ershad told newsmen that the Bangladesh Government has now prepared projects worth $120 million under the $500-million assistance committed by the Saudi Government. More projects are under preparation to utilize the fund.

Replying to a question, General Ershad said important regional issues also figured during the talks with the Saudi king. He said King Fahd expressed the hope that good relations will be maintained among the countries in the region and all outstanding issues among themselves, particularly between Bangladesh and India, will be amicably resolved.

General Ershad said during his stay at (Arafat) he had a cordial and fruitful exchange of views with PLO Chief Yasir 'Arafat. He said the PLO chief narrated to him the harrowing tales of the tragic and barbarous massacre of innocent and unarmed Palestinians in West Beirut. 'Arafat expressed his heartfelt gratitude to the CMLA for the active role being played by Bangladesh in upholding the right cause of the Palestinians. He was particularly impressed by the heroic resistance put up by the Bangladeshi fighters along with Palestinians in meeting the Israeli attacks.

The CMLA assured the PLO chief of all kinds of assistance from Bangladesh in achieving the Palestinian goal. He said more Bangladeshis will be sent as and when necessary to fight shoulder to shoulder with their Palestinian brethren against the common Zionist enemy. 'Arafat is expected to visit Bangladesh in a month or two, the CMLA added.

SRI LANKA

AFP: AREA TENSE AS JAYEWARDENE VISITS JAFFNA

BK301232 Hong Kong AFP in English 1148 GMT 30 Sep 82

[Text] New Delhi, Sept 30 (AFP) -- Sri Lankan forces have gone on alert for President Junius Jayewardene's visit to ethnic Tamil-dominated Jaffna this weekend after an abortive bid to blow up a bridge in the area, Press Trust of India reports from Colombo said today.

The report quoted authorities in the Sri Lanka capital as saying there was "no change" in the presidential itinerary though they believe the explosion of crude bombs on Wednesday night could be a protest against the visit.

According to the report, the government-controlled media have spoken of "an unprecedented surge of anxious concern" for the 76-year-old ruling United National Party (UNP) leader who is making his first visit to the Tamil Province since his party took power in 1977 elections.

Mr Jayewardene has warned he would go on a "satyagraha" (hunger strike) on Sunday in Jaffna if the Tamil United Liberation Front (TULF) "resorts to dividing Sri Lanka."

The warning was issued by the UNP leader at the start of his election campaign in a majority Sinhala dominated area in the state.

Mr Jayewardene goes to Jaffna by helicopter as part of his campaign for a fresh mandate at the October 20 poll for a second term as president. But earlier plans for a ministerial entourage have been "cancelled following the attempt to mine the road," the PTI report said.

In the Tamil District seven organisations have called for a boycott of the visit to underline their complaint that Mr Jayewardene had not visited Jaffna in the wake of 1981 communal disturbances.

Significantly, the report said, important leaders of the TULF including its secretary general, A. Amirthalingham, who is the leader of the opposition in the Sri Lankan Parliament, have discreetly left for a foreign tour.

"I do not expect the president to say that he supports our cause," remarked Mr Amirthalingham prior to his departure for UK and Libya early this week.

TULF has publicly announced it would not participate or vote in the presidential poll.

Explaining in an interview to PTI his party's stand on the "non-participation" move, the TULF leader spoke of what he called an attempt to divide the Tamils by seeking a new mandate for Eelam (Tamil state). He asserted that the Tamils had already voted in 1977 decisively for Eelam.

His reference was to the campaign by All-Ceylon Tamil Congress whose leader Kumar Ponnambalam is one of six candidates at the October 20 presidential contest with the poll slogan: "A vote for me is vote for Eelam."

BOMBS EXPLODE IN TAMIL-DOMINATED REGIONS

BK291556 Hong Kong AFP in English 1543 GMT 29 Sep 82

[Text] New Delhi, Sept. 29 (AFP) -- Bombs exploded in the Tamil-dominated northern Jaffna regions of Sri Lanka last night, the Press Trust of India (PTI) said today.

Reporting from Colombo, the agency said the blasts damaged a bridge and were believed to be the work of a radical section of the Tamil community.

The bombings were believed to be in protest against a scheduled election tour of the area by President Jayewardene this week-end. There were no reports of casualties, PTI said.

Mr Jayewardene is running for a second term in (?office) in the presidential elections to be held on October 20.

The president, representing the ruling United National Party (UNP), is opposed by some half a dozen rival candidates from different opposition parties, including former Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike's Sri Lanka Freedom Party (SLFP). Mrs Bandaranaike herself, however, is barred from participating in any such elections.

The Tamil United Liberation Front (TULF), campaigning for an independent Tamil state to be carved out of the island republic, has called upon the minority community to boycott the coming presidential poll.

TULF NOT TO PARTICIPATE IN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

BK290912 Colombo SUN in English 20 Sep 82 p 1

[By K. Arsaratnam]

[Text] The Tamil United Liberation Front [TULF] yesterday resolved that they will not participate in the presidential election and will not vote for any candidate.

This decision was taken at the General Council meeting held behind closed doors at the party office in Nallur. The meeting was presided over by TULF President M. Sivasithamparam.

The General Council also decided that they would not support the Tamil Congress Candidate Kumar Ponambalam who, they claimed, had attempted to divide and split the "Tamil nation".

The council claimed that the "Tamil nation" has taken a decision to fight for the restoration of its lost sovereignty and to re-establish an independent secular socialist state of Eelam.

The council had resolved that since none of the political parties contesting the presidential election had fully accepted the right of this "Tamil nation" they would not participate in the election and would not vote for any candidate.

The General Council, which met in Trincomalee last month, decided that they would not field a presidential candidate. This earlier decision they said was based on the principle that "the Tamil nation seeking to liberate itself from Sinhala rule was not seeking to rule over the Sinhalese."

[Text] In His exalted name. The grateful nation of Iran is hereby informed of the situation at the imposed war fronts:

Exchanges of artillery and other heavy-weapon fire continued yesterday on the country's western fronts, with heavier exchanges in the Meymak region. The outcome of operations at those fronts included the destruction of several bunkers; the Iraqi mercenaries suffered a number of casualties, either dead or injured. The Islamic valiants succeeded in silencing enemy fire.

During exchanges of fire on the southern fronts, the self-sacrificing combatants of Islam silenced the Iraqi mercenaries' fire completely, halted the Iraqi forces' movements and operations and inflicted casualties on the enemy by dispatching combat patrols and tank units.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the valiants of the navy and gendarmerie mounted retaliatory fire on the Saddamists' fronts across the Arvand Rud, silencing the enemy's fire and destroying part of their positions and concentrations. During these operations, a number of Iraqis were either killed or injured.

During the past 24 hours, the criminal Saddamists continued to have the city of Abadan within their long-range shelling, injuring eight of our dear compatriots and destroying five houses.

Enemy aircraft aggressions yesterday were repulsed by the self-sacrificing air defense forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran. The invading Iraqi aircraft were forced to flee before taking any successful criminal action.

During battles on 27 and 28 September, 21 army personnel, 7 selfless air force combatants and one gendarmerie valiant achieved the lofty honor of martyrdom and gave their lives for the imam. May peace be upon their souls and their memories live forever.

COMMANDER ON TRAINING OF HELICOPTER PILOTS

GF261644 Tehran IRNA in English 1610 GMT 26 Sep 82

[Text] Esfahan, Sept 26, IRNA -- Since the victory of the Islamic revolution, the helicopter pilot training programme by Iranian experts have saved millions of dollars in government expenditure.

Colonel Afshar, the commander of Esfahan's havaniruz (ground forces air support units) forces, said in an interview with IRNA here today that all helicopter pilots were being trained in Iran by Iranian experts on all sorts of helicopters, including the American built Chinook and Cobra. He said that during the shah's regime the U.S. and a number of other countries were being paid some 500,000 dollars for each pilot student. He said that the present cost of training was minimal.

The commander said that despite economic sanctions the havaniruz helicopters were not facing any flight problems. He added that most of the necessary spare parts of the copters were currently being built by Iranian technicians and although the helicopters had flown in many war operations, they were in good condition, in relation to spare parts.

Colonel Afshar said that with the expelling of American advisers from Iran, the world had become amazed with the tremendous efficiency of the Iranian experts during the past two years of war.

KHAMENE'I APPEALS FOR SANCTIONS AGAINST U.S.

LD301140 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 30 Sep 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, Mr Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, the president of our country, sent the following important message to the leaders of each of the Islamic countries:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The extensive aggression of the occupying Zionists and the unprecedented cruelty they exhibited during their savage massacres in Beirut reveal, more clearly than ever before, America's unconditional support for them and that great Satan's seal of approval on the cruel order authorizing this odious slaughter. It is the duty of every decent human being, and even more so the historical duty of all Islamic governments, to avenge such unprecedentedly savage acts. This battle must not be limited to a political struggle or to one directed only against the Zionists. Rather, it should, more than anything else, make use of effective economic weapons -- in the first instance, against the arrogant American Government.

Therefore, I propose that your government, as the government of an Islamic country, participate in delivering an effective economic blow to that plundering regime and ban all American goods from your country. We are very optimistic as to the effects of this politico-economic move as a response to the pleas of the Palestinian and Lebanese Muslims.

U.S. MILITARY SALES TO BAHRAIN DENOUNCED

GF301838 Ahvaz Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 30 Sep 82

[Excerpts] Since the success of the Islamic revolution in Iran, the United States has been busy building all kinds of military bases in this or that part of the world, particularly in the Persian Gulf area. Its aim is to protect its interests of exploitation in the region. Among the new bases built or being built, there is one base in Somalia, one in Kenya, one in Oman and one in Egypt. And the shaykh of Bahrain, who recently has been receiving attention from the propaganda machinery of the United States, in the coming few days or few months, may become one of the major instruments of the military policy of the criminal United States. The great Satan intends, as far as it is possible, to arm its treaty friends, mercenaries and servants in this region.

As has been already mentioned, Washington has also not forgotten the oil-producing shaykh of Bahrain. It intends to make use of this tiny state in its military plans. The Pentagon, the U.S. ministry of war -- which should be rightly named the U.S. ministry of aggression -- insists that the shaykh of Bahrain is in a very important strategic and geographic position because this island lies between Saudi Arabia and revolutionary Iran. As is known, Washington intends to use its (?Rapid Deployment) Force to defend the oil centers in the Persian Gulf and to intimidate and crush the revolutionary forces in the region.

The great Satan can make use of Bahrain as a base, which Washington intends to call a temporary base. The great Satan has laid initial plans for making use of this shaykhdom. World-devouring America announced a few days ago that it will carry out a plan to sell military equipment to the Government of Bahrain.

Under this plan, Washington will sell four (?F-105) training planes to bolster the military force of this island -- which has little power in the Persian Gulf and which is quite ineffective anywhere outside the region -- for its own interests and for the interests of the rest of Western imperialists.

However, this decision has been made by the great Satan only. The U.S. Congress must also approve the plan. If the U.S. Congress, 30 days after the government request, does not veto this program, the sale of sophisticated equipment can proceed. However, it is expected that the U.S. Congress will approve the plan. It is also possible that the Congress may even approve the sale of very advanced military equipment to Bahrain.

With the sale of U.S. military equipment to the shaykh, the Government of Bahrain, which like other shaykhdoms is a supporter of West, will for the first time have an air force and thus will become, by its own will, another link in the chain [of bases] built by the great Satan, the United States, in the Persian Gulf.

It should be recalled that the present air force of Bahrain -- which can hardly be called an air force -- consists of helicopters used by the paratroopers in that country. Similarly, the great Satan, before announcing its intention to sell sophisticated military equipment to Bahrain, had announced that four (?FC-2) spy planes, equipped with radar, (?will be sold) to Egypt.

KHOMEYNI STRESSES NEED FOR ORDER, OBEDIENCE

[Speech delivered by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni during 30 September meeting at his residence with Interior Minister 'Ali Akbar Nateq-Nuri and supervisors of various Tehran committees -- read by announcer]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. One of the factors that should be borne in mind is that moral issues should be brought to the attention of the people. This would benefit both those concerned and others. Having said that, I would like to point out certain problems.

You know that what made a success of this movement and revolution was faith. As stated in the holy Koran, the faithful are all brothers; there are no differences between them. It is the nature of man's ego to take credit for every achievement. This is nothing but selfishness. The present differences that are visible stem from weak faith. It makes no difference to those working for the sake of God who is doing the job -- themselves, their brothers or others. I do hope that all of us will be able to act this way in the Islamic Republic -- a way which is superior to all others.

The day you feel kindness and fraternity increasing between you and other elements who are serving will be the day you can rest assured that your faith has become stronger. You know that under the present circumstances our country needs a united armed forces. Should, God forbid, understanding between the committees and the Guards Corps be lacking, you will not achieve our objective -- namely, Islam. You must never entertain the idea that you are simply a committee member and that it is only the committee which must improve its work. The same thing applies to the corps. You must try to work in a brotherly manner and accept this Koranic principle that all the faithful are brothers. Consequently, you must remain friends, show kindness to eachother and wish nothing but good for others. You must discard these selfish and temperamental desires that would dictate separation between the corps and the committees. This is the secret of the society's success.

The second secret is that although there is no hierarchy in Iran, that all those titled individuals have disappeared and we are on our own, there must be order and systems. You must, for the sake of God, adhere to the chain of command. If we were to have a situation in which every individual decided for himself and acted accordingly, the spiritual quality and ordinary achievements would also disappear. You already know that although the prophet would not be distinguishable to a new arrival in the mosque, nevertheless everyone was obliged to submit to him.

We are all brothers. However, in the absence of any order our brotherly links would disappear. For instance, if commanders are disobeyed during the war, there is no doubt that we will be defeated. Only when everyone carries out orders issued by the designated commander will there be no question of defeat. Point this out, for doing so will help the faithful.

Therefore, by relying on God Almighty, we must strengthen our morale, we must remain brothers, while remembering that those who have differences among themselves will not reap success. As for you, you do not wish to have success by force. You want to treat people on the basis of proper morality and good behavior in order to be considered fair before God and the people. You must consider the people as part of yourselves. Even if you are carrying rifles or arms you must treat the people on the basis of correct morality, remembering that it is the true humility which is the correct yardstick. When you succeed in winning the people's hearts, this will have a lasting effect before God.

I am your [word indistinct]. I do hope that, God willing, you will adhere to your religious, Islamic and national duties. God bless you all.

According to this report, prior to his visit to the oil installations, the prime minister attended a rally of oil workers and said in a speech: The world is surprised by the stability of the Islamic revolution, but what it cannot understand is the zeal and unity within the Islamic nation. Referring to the Saddam regime's efforts to destroy our country's economic resources with the aim of toppling the Islamic revolution we said: Even if all our economic resources are destroyed our revolution will remain where it is, as it is based on Islam and the leadership.

The prime minister also said: Your work, in the oil industry, dear workers, is precisely the same as that carried out by our combatant brothers at the fronts.

According to this report, today Mr Musavi and his entourage also visited the (Pirabgun), (Talaju) and (Sarfaryab) tribes, by whom he was given a warm welcome. During this meeting the prime minister emphasized the need to remove the causes behind the complaints by the tribes, including the shortage of money. He said: The imam of the Islamic nation views you as part of the resources of the revolution, and the government, too, using its entire might, is striving to improve your living standard. God willing, just as the imam has graciously said, the feudal scourge will be expunged from this country.

Following this visit, Mr Musavi returned to Yasuj.

NVOI: CONSTITUTION'S PRINCIPLES BEING VIOLATED

TA291958 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 29 September carried a commentary, entitled "Violation of the Constitution's Principles Distorts the Feature of the Islamic Republic."

It said every passing day our homeland's people are becoming aware more than ever of the harm resulting from the nonimplementation of the law in the country.

We know that the imam of the nation declared the year 1360 as the year of law, and requested everyone, particularly the responsible authorities, to observe the laws in our liberated country. However, unfortunately, there is still no sign of the implementation of the Constitution's principles in our country in the true sense of the word. This fact paves the way for the achievement of the satanic aims of the foes of the revolution, whether internal or external.

The Constitution of the Islamic Republic of Iran, approved by a decisive majority of the people, is one of the gains of the Iranian nation's revolution. Among the democratic freedoms stipulated in the Constitution for the Iranian people are the freedom of activity of parties and freedom of the press and so forth. But unfortunately, in practice, these freedoms are not observed. Many of the true revolutionary parties and organizations in the imam's and the revolution's popular and anti-imperialist line have actually been deprived of the right of free activity. Both in the capital and in other towns the offices of these organizations have been occupied by unauthorized individuals. Many truthful newspapers and periodicals have been banned and their offices are under the occupation of unauthorized elements.

It is quite obvious that all unlawful acts in our country emanate from the rightist opponents of the imam's line. It is this group of opponents of the imam's line that says everything must be in our monopoly. It is a cause of deep regret that these elements are entrenched within and around the government and all influential political and religious circles, and do not spare any effort to emasculate the revolution. It is a result of the subversive activity of these elements that the repeated recommendations of the imam with respect to observing the law in our country are not being transformed from words into action, and this in fact deals blows to the revolution.

One must act decisively against this unhealthy and counterrevolutionary trend. The government is obligated to implement the principles of the Constitution, which entail democratic freedoms for all people. An end must be put to the reality of application of pressure against parties and organizations that are in the revolution's and the imam's line, and the continued banning of responsible and committed newspapers must be terminated.

Lebanon

Attack on Bus -- Six IDF soldiers were killed and 22 were wounded when gunmen attacked a bus carrying Israeli soldiers going home on leave near 'Alayh, southeast of Beirut, the IDF spokesman announced in a statement reported by Jerusalem radio. IDF reinforcements rushed to the area in search of the attackers and imposed a curfew on the town, the radio said.

Withdrawal of Foreign Forces -- U.S. envoy Philip Habib met with President Hafiz al-Asad and other Syrian officials in Damascus over the weekend, according to Damascus radio. Monte Carlo radio said both Syria and Israel have agreed in principle to implement the first stage of the U.S. plan for the withdrawal of their forces from Lebanon on the condition that this is linked to approval of the entire plan. The first stage provides for a Syrian withdrawal northeast from the Al-Biqa' Valley and an IDF withdrawal southward to the Az-Zahrani River, the radio said. A second stage whereby the Syrians would withdraw completely from Lebanon and the Israelis would fall back to the Litani River is still under discussion. The third and final stage, which would involve Israeli-Lebanese negotiations, would result in a complete Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon after Israel's security has been guaranteed by demilitarizing the border zone south of the Litani River, the radio added. Palestinian sources cited by the radio said the PLO does not reject the idea of withdrawing its forces from Lebanon if neogiations on this are held with the PLO and if Lebanese, Arab and international guarantees are secured for the Palestinian refugees in Lebanon to prevent massacres and expulsions.

Israeli sources cited by Jerusalem radio denied that an agreement has been reached for the withdrawal of IDF and Syrian forces from Lebanon, adding that Israel insists that the "terrorists" leave Lebanon before the Israelis do. However, THE JERUSALEM POST asserted that Israeli officials were encouraged by the Monte Carlo radio report on a withdrawal agreement, contending that the report was probably a deliberate Syrian Government leak. The paper indicated there is optimism in the Israeli Government that the PLO will also leave Lebanon after losing the Syrian military umbrella. On southern Lebanon, Israel wants a security agreement between Lebanon and Israel for a 40-45 km border zone, the paper confirmed.

Identity of Al-Jumayyil's Assassin -- Bashir al-Jumayyil's confessed assassin is a member of Lebanon's Syrian Socialist Nationalist Party (SSNP) and has connections with Palestinian and Syrian intelligence, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. However, the radio subsequently broadcast an official statement by the SSNP denying it has any connection with the culprit. Nevertheless, Lebanese sources cited by AFP said the assassin has claimed he was given the detonator for the bomb by an SSNP leader who was acting on orders of "a foreign country."

Political developments -- President Amin al-Jumayyil has entrusted Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan with the formation of a new government, Voice of Lebanon radio reported on 4 October. Earlier, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon noted that President al-Jumayyil had accepted U.S. President Ronald Reagan's invitation for talks at the White House on 19 October.

Israel

Reaction to Foreign Press on Sharon -- In response to an article in the London weekly, THE SUNDAY TIMES, which alleged that a meeting between Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon and the IDF high command resulted in a near-mutiny, Jerusalem radio affirmed that two such meetings had occurred and that harsh words were exchanged, although THE TIMES article had exaggerated the incident. The IDF spokesman stressed in an announcement carried by IDF radio that "normal working relations and relations of trust prevail" between the defense minister and the IDF. Reacting to a similar article in NEWSWEEK, a Defense Ministry spokesman denied the allegations of military dissent and stated that this is a foreign "campaign" against Sharon, Jerusalem radio reported.

Sharon Interview -- Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon has insisted that from the very first moment he heard of the Beirut massacres he demanded an investigation. In an interview with journalists on a European radio program broadcast on 29 September, reported by the paper YEDI'OT AHARONOT, Sharon dismissed the idea of a Palestinian state in the occupied territories although he differentiated between the PLO "terrorists organization" and the Palestinian people, with whom he said Israel would like to live in peace. On the assassination of Lebanese President-elect Bashir al-Jumayyil, Sharon alleged that the act was committed by Lebanese elements connected with Syria.

Kahan To Head Inquiry -- Supreme Court President Yitzhaq Kahan will head the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre, Jerusalem radio announced.

Egypt

Mubarak Speech -- Addressing a meeting of the People's Assembly and the Consultative Council on 3 October, President Husni Mubarak condemned Israeli policy as greatly offending peace and stability in the Middle East, adding that this will result in "grave consequences." In the speech, carried by Cairo radio, Mubarak praised the Reagan plan as a "suitable basis" for discussion and stressed that Egypt is in the forefront of promoting this initiative. He suggested that the Palestinians take advantage of "international sympathy" present at this time and translate it into positive steps for a settlement. On the domestic economy, Mubarak called for an increase in production of industrial and agricultural goods, adding that the national economy should be strengthened to confront foreign competition.

Emergency Law Extended -- The People's Assembly General Committee approved a presidential decree extending the Emergency Law for one more year, Cairo radio reported. Speaking at the People's Assembly on this topic, Prime Minister Fu'ad Muhyi ad-Din said stability and legality in the country are still threatened and revealed that some members of the group involved in last October's incidents have been reorganizing, MENA reported. He also disclosed that only 145 people are still in detention.

Military Situation -- Iranian and Iraqi media carried conflicting reports over the weekend on the fighting in the central sector. A military communique carried by Tehran radio on 1 October asserted that Iranian forces completed positioning their forces west of Sumar and reoccupied 150 sq km of Iranian territory and seven border posts. The communique claimed that military "security" was established in the Iraqi town of Mandali and that Iranian forces are watching over the road to Baghdad. On the same day, the radio alleged that seven Iraqi counterattacks were smashed. On 2 October, an Iranian military communique carried by the radio affirmed that Iranian forces consolidated their newly acquired positions and repulsed Iraqi counteroffensives. It added that 103 Iraqi soldiers had been captured. An Iranian Guards Corps communique carried by the radio that day reported operations in the Meymak region resulting in over 150 Iraqis killed. On 3 October the Guards Corps penetrated Iraqi territory in the western sector and killed 100 Iraqis, wounded 150 and captured 3 tanks, a Guards Corps communique carried by the radio asserted. According to an Iranian Joint Staff communique carried by the radio, clashes continued on 3 October and nearly 200 Iraqis were captured. The Iranian Ground Forces commander said in a published interview that Iran had suffered few casualties, IRNA reported.

On 2 October, an Iraqi military communique carried by Baghdad radio said Iran "tried its luck again" in an attempt to cross into Iraq on the way to Mandali. This attack was aborted and Iran lost many men, the communique claimed. Iraqi planes and helicopters also played a part in the victories, it noted. That day INA reported that the Iraqi Navy hit two naval targets in the Persian Gulf. An Iraqi military spokesman, in a statement on 3 October carried by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio, asserted that Iranian forces again tried to overrun Iraqi troops near Mandali but were repulsed and sustained heavy losses. Meanwhile, Arab and foreign journalists toured Mandali and observed normal life in the city, Baghdad radio averred.

Iraqi Appeals, Response -- The Iraqi Foreign Ministry under secretary called on Arab states to implement the Fes Arab summit resolution on a collective Arab response to aggression, Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio reported. The official said Iraq has requested that these states sever all relations with Iran. According to INA, Iraq has also contacted the Arab League, the Nonaligned Movement, the OAU and the Islamic Conference Organization asking for support. INA also reported that the Iraqi foreign minister left for the United Nations to attend a special Security Council meeting to be held on Iraq's request.

In recognition of the Fes Arab summit resolutions, Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri has decided to prepare a military contingent to back Iraq, SUNA reported. An official Jordanian spokesman announced in a statement carried by Amman radio that Jordan will uphold the Fes summit resolutions and that other Arab states should adopt a pan-Arab stand in support of Iraq. A Saudi Royal Court statement carried by SPA expressed "regret" at Iran's resumption of the war against Iraq and appealed to the two countries to halt the fighting. In a phone conversation with Iraqi President Saddam Husayn, the YAR president stressed his commitment to the Fes summit's joint Arab defense pact, San'a' radio reported.

Baghdad Commentary -- A Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio commentary asserted that the Iraqi Army is now better equipped and is in a "state of fury" because Iraqi peace offers have been rejected.

Iranian Comment -- Iranian Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said in an interview with a Tehran paper that Iran has achieved all planned objectives for recapturing the Iranian heights overlooking Mandali, IRNA reported. He denied accusations that Iran wants to capture Mandali itself and pointed out that Iranian forces are now 100 km from Baghdad. In a speech to the military on 3 October, carried by Tehran radio, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni priased Iranian forces for their "spiritual victories" and asserted that Iraqi President Saddam Husayn's appeals for international involvement prove that Iraq was unable to repulse the offensive. Khomeyni reiterated Iranian demands for an "Islamic peace" under which one could determine the aggressor's actions and settle war reparations.

Iran

Tehran Bomb Blast -- A bomb blast in southern Tehran on 1 October destroyed one hotel, damaged seven others and killed or wounded hundreds of people, Tehran radio announced. The interior minister said in a statement carried by the radio that "U.S. mercenaries" were responsible for the act and that arrests have been made. He added that up to 60 people died from the explosion.

Trial Results -- IRNA reported that two "co-conspirators" of former Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh were executed on 29 September by verdict of the army tribunal for participating in a coup plot. Seven others were sentenced to prison terms of 2 years to life and three had "incomplete" trials.

HUNGARIAN LEADERS INVITE KARMAL TO VISIT

LD030654 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0510 GMT 3 Oct 82

[Text] Kabul Oct 2, BAKHTAR -- Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA CC and president of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA, will visit Hungary at the head of a high ranking party and state delegation for an official and friendly visit at the invitation of Janos Kadar, first secretary of the Hungarian Workers' Party, and Pal Losonczi, president of the State Council of the Hungarian People's Republic.

KARMAL INTERVIEWED ON EVE OF VISIT TO HUNGARY

LD040636 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0455 GMT 4 Oct 82

[Text] Kabul, Oct 3 BAKHTAR -- Following is the text of an interview granted by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of PDPA CC, president of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA to a BIA [BAKHTAR Information Agency] correspondent on the eve of his friendly visit to Hungary:

Q: Esteemed Babrak Karmal, please throw some light on the friendly relations existing between the DRA and Hungarian People's Republic.

A: We have the best of friendly and comradely relations with the Hungarian People's Republic, a member of the community of socialist countries headed by the Soviet Union.

Since the two countries are bound together by common and noble ideals, these relations have successfully passed the test of time in a short period and have changed to the best example and pattern in the international relations.

The earnest belief of both the countries in the cause of consolidation of world peace, in the struggle for achieving noble ideals, and in the struggle against imperialism, hegemonism, Zionism, racism, and apartheid and efforts for the happiness of the working man and construction of a just and prosperous society imparts common dimensions of the policies of both the countries.

Both the countries have common positions with regard to the international issues and problems and are true comrades-in-arms in the struggle for the cause of peace and progress and against war and reaction.

Fortunately after the April Revolution and its new and evolutionary phase the relations between the two countries acquired further expansion and have [as received] to a high qualitative level.

Similarly the relations between the two brotherly parties namely the People's Democratic Party of Afghanistan and the Workers' Socialist Party of Hungary have further expanded and enriched.

Our relations with the Hungarian People's Republic are expanding and growing in various spheres and embracing new spheres every day.

The exchange of delegations between the two countries helps both the sides to make use of each other's experiences. Such contacts give an opportunity to our young republic to make maximum use of the rich experiences and enormous developments of the Hungarian People's Republic in the construction of a new and just society and the very advanced technical possibilities of that country.

The history of revolutions in the two countries has witnessed almost similar events. The world imperialism provoked the counter-revolution against the victorious revolution of Hungarian people and is now arming the counter-revolution in our country and creates obstacles in the way of construction of a new and just society in our country.

Both the countries have enjoyed the internationalist assistances of the Soviet Union in their most critical and vital moments of their lives and have tested the proletarian internationalism in the most vital moments of their history.

Our revolution is enjoying the all-round support of the fraternal country of the Hungarian People's Republic and all members of the family of socialist countries headed by the USSR and we are grateful for this vital support from the bottom of our heart.

Q: Esteemed Babrak Karmal, please explain the role of the visit of the high-ranking state and party delegation of Afghanistan to Hungary in the consolidation, deepening and expansion of relations of the two countries.

A: We are looking forward with profound interest to visit with the party and state leaders of Hungary especially the esteemed comrade Janos Kadar, first secretary of the Hungarian Socialist Workers' Party. I am sure that the exchange of views with them on the mutually interested issues and the world's major issues not only would have a very constructive and useful role in the expansion of fraternal and friendly relations between the two countries but in a more extensive dimension it will also enjoy international significance.

You know that Hungary is an advanced country of the world and is engaged in the construction of an advanced socialist society. In this visit, the ground will be provided to make use of the great and valuable experiences of the party and state of the Hungarian People's Republic towards the creation of a blossoming and prosperous society in the revolutionary Afghanistan.

The visit of the party and state delegation of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan to the Hungarian People's Republic would lay the new foundation stones for the expansion of all-sided political, economic, social, cultural and technical cooperation between the two countries. This visit will strengthen the existing cooperations and will provide the prospects of new cooperations.

Another significance of this visit lies in this, that opportunity is provided for the first time after the revolution to make our Hungarian brothers aware personally from the developments, victories and gains of the April Revolution and its new evolutionary phases.

This visit would give us the opportunity to intensify our struggle for the common ideals of both the sides by working out the identity of views of both the sides regarding the acute international issues.

SOVIET, GOVERNMENT TROOPS AMBUSHED IN KONARHA

BK031435 Hong Kong AFP in English 1426 GMT 3 Oct 82

[Text] Peshawar, Pakistan, Oct. 3 (AFP) -- Afghan resistance fighters destroyed most of a large convoy of Soviet and government troops loyal to Kabul in an ambush in Afghanistan's eastern Konarha Valley, Afghan rebel sources here said today.

The sources said that some 200 government troops were killed or wounded in the attack, which took place Tuesday.

The reported operation, which Western diplomatic sources said was plausible, would be the largest rebel attack in the region in six months.

The convoy was heading under air protection to Asmar, an important government stronghold in the north of Konarha Valley near the Pakistan border, to relieve a contingent of troops there when the insurgents attacked, the sources here said.

The rebels claimed to have destroyed 24 government troop transport vehicles, and said only 20 of their fighters were killed.

The sources here said Tuesday was a Moslem holy day and the Soviet headquarters might have chosen to move the convoy then in the hope that insurgents would observe a religious truce.

Radio Kabul recently reported fighting in the Asmar region.

AFP Report

NC022019 Paris AFP in English 1857 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct (AFP) -- Fresh violence between the Hindu and Moslem communities northeast of here has brought the autumn death toll to 23, Press Trust of India (PTI) reported today. The latest round of violence, which erupted Thursday in Meerut, 75 km (45 miles) northeast of the capital, has claimed 10 lives, PTI said.

An indefinite curfew has been imposed on many sectors of the city and paramilitary forces were rushed in from New Delhi to try and maintain order. PTI quoted the district magistrate, Shambu Nath, as saying the situation has become "more tense." Last night police opened fire on rioters attacking houses belonging to Hindu untouchables, but the fire was returned and in the ensuing battle one person was killed and another injured.

More incidents of arson, brickbatting and stabbing were reported today, Mr. Nath added. He said police had recovered large quantities of arms, including locally made pistols, bombs and hand grenades. A PTI journlaist who visited the riot torn city today reported scarcely a soul on the normally bustling streets.

Gandhi Speaks on Unrest

BK031633 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 3 Oct 82

[Text] Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi today expressed deep concern over the recent recurrence of communal trouble in some places. She said politically motivated forces are trying to create distrust and uncertainty among the people. These elements have to be opposed and communal problems tackled with a firm hand so that these forces do not raise their heads once again in the country.

Addressing the eve of session general body meeting of the Congress-I party in Parliament in New Delhi, Mrs Gandhi called upon all sections of society to work unitedly to face these challenges. Pointing out that the country is facing a very difficult financial situation, Mrs Gandhi said that agitations being launched by vested interests will only adversely affect capabilities of the country to solve such problems.

Briefing newsmen on the proceedings of the meeting, Parliamentary Party General Secretary K. Lakappa said that during her 30-minute address, Mrs Gandhi advised congressmen to take initiative in tackling these problems.

About the Jammu and Kashmir resettlement bill, the prime minister said that individual cases can be examined but it would not be desirable to open the gate for all aspirants. She disclosed that the opinion of several jurists is not in favor of adopting the bill. Mrs Gandhi also expressed concern over the floods in different states.

In a brief reference to her visit to the Soviet Union, the prime minister said that she had exchanged views reiterating India's friendship with that country and desire for enlarging cooperation. Mrs Gandhi said that the situation in the international sphere is getting worse because several destabilizing forces are at work. She reiterated that India's efforts have always been directed to bring about harmony with her neighbors and establish peace in the neighborhood. The prime minister reiterated that no country should interfere in the internal affairs of another country, and this aspect has been stressed by India in all international forums.

Referring to the forthcoming Asian Games and nonaligned conference, the prime minister said that Asia will give us an opportunity to keep up the honor and prestige of the nation. Earlier, glowing tributes were paid to some leaders who passed away during the intersession period. They include Sheikh Mohammad Abdullah, Gopal Sowarup Pathak and C.D. Deshmukh.

RAO SPEAKS AT UN ON ARMS BUILDUP IN REGION

BK020715 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] India has expressed concern over the increased superpower military buildup in the Indian Ocean and called for immediate action to check the deteriorating security environment. India's concern was voiced by Minister for External Affairs Narasimha Rao while addressing the UN General Assembly yesterday.

Rao pointed out that theories of balance of power are being advanced to justify the induction of sophisticated arms into the area. He said the time has come for starting the process of elimination of foreign military presence from the Indian Ocean. Rao told the assembly that the Colombo conference, scheduled to be held next year, will deal with this question in a forthright manner.

Rao drew the attention of the General Assembly to the unprecedented buildup of sophisticated arms in South Asian Subcontinent unrelated either to reasonable needs or threat perceptions. He said it points to the continuance of situations detrimental to regional independence and harmony. He, however, expressed the hope that the subcontinent would be able to usher in an era of peace which is more comprehensive than the mere absence of war and encompasses relationships of positive friendship and cooperation.

On disarmament, Rao said that Prime Minister Gandhi has proposed a concrete program of action including treaties banning nuclear weapons during the disarmament conference this year. But the nuclear powers did not allow the session to take any concrete steps.

RAO, CHEYSSON DISCUSS NUCLEAR FUEL SUPPLY

BK030925 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 3 Oct 82

[Text] External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao will apprise the nonaligned foreign ministers tomorrow of the date of the seventh summit. As reported earlier, the nonaligned summit is to be held in New Delhi in March next.

The 2-day conference of the nonaligned foreign ministers at the United Nations is likely to discuss the situation in West Asia, particularly Lebanon and some other issues. The four-member nonaligned group comprising India, Cuba, Zambia and the PLO will report to the conference about its efforts to find a peaceful solution to the Iran-Iraq conflict. Narasimha Rao told the group yesterday that the war will weaken both Iran and Iraq. The UN Security Council is also holding an open session tomorrow to discuss the Iran-Iraq issue.

Meanwhile, Narasimha Rao continued discussions with more foreign ministers attending the General Assembly. He has had a meeting with French Minister Cheysson. The visit of President Mitterrand to India later this year figured during the discussions. The two leaders reportedly touched upon supply of French nuclear fuel to Tarapur.

Rao also had a meeting with Cuban Foreign Minister Malmierca.

AFP: SOVIETS OFFER MIG-27's TO GOVERNMENT

BK021415 Hong Kong AFP in English 0612 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct. 2 (AFP) -- The Soviet Union is understood to have offered India the MiG-27 military aircraft, considered the most sophisticated fighter-interceptor of the MiG family, to help its current air defence modernisation programme, PTI news agency reported today.

India would also be given the technical knowhow to manufacture the aircraft indigenously under licence from the Soviet Union, the agency said.

Quoting defence sources, the agency said the MiG-27, which formed part of the Soviet Union's strike force, would gradually replace the MiG-21, which currently constituted the attack and defence arm of the Indian Air Force, along with the MiG-23 and the Anglo-French deep penetration strike aircraft, Jaguar.

Yesterday the Indian Defence Ministry announced that the first of the Indian-assembled Jaguars had just joined the air force, while two more were receiving finishing touches.

The report of the Soviet offer of the MiG-27 comes a few days before the scheduled arrival here of French Defence Minister Charles Hernu, who is expected to finalise an agreement with India for the sale of the French fighter-interceptor Mirage-2000.

Indian Defence Minister R. Venkataraman told Parliament in April that India had already signed an "intention to proceed" agreement with [words indistinct] buy and also to manufacture locally the Mirage-2000.

PTI said that apart from the MiG-21, the Indian Air Force also possessed the fighter-interceptor MiG-23 and the high altitude reconnaissance MiG-25.

Soviet experts, who had visited the Indian defence aircraft manufacturing unit Hindustan Aeronautics Limited, in south India, were convinced that India could manufacture a sophisticated interceptor like the MiG-27, the agency added.

An Indian Air Force evaluation team would soon visit the Soviet Union to further study the MiG-27's performance before accepting the Soviet offer, PTI said.

TEHRAN BOMB EXPLOSION KILLS, INJURES HUNDREDS

LD020432 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0330 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] Simultaneously with the valiant Muslim Son of the Prophet Operation and the brilliant victories scored by Islam's combatants over the mercenary agents of the United States in the region, domestic mercenaries of world imperialism resorted to yet another crime in Tehran and dragged in blood and soil a number of our selfless Muslim people.

At 2035 last night opposite a five-story hotel on Naser Khosrow Street, a severe explosion took place which resulted in huge losses and casualties. The explosion created a huge crater approximately 6-m long, 4-m wide and 3-m deep. As well as destroying the five-story building, the truck carrying the bomb, which had been parked in front of the building, considerably damaged seven other hotels, several houses and shops in the vicinity. Among the martyrs who fell victim to this crime by the U.S. mercenaries could be seen several children under 5-years old who were sleeping with their parents in these hotels. Also, two doubledecker buses and a regular bus of the United Bus Company, filled with passengers from among the meek population of southern Tehran, were destroyed. Most of these passengers were either wounded or martyred.

The martyrs and wounded who were the victims of this barbarous crime perpetrated by the agents of the United States were mainly guests in the hotels or individuals who were busy taking meals in the kebab houses, delicatessens and cafes around Imam Square. The presence at the scene of the bomb outrage last night of people who are ever-vigilant made the craven enemy lose heart. A short while after the bomb explosion, once again the ever-present and vigilant people, chanting the blasphemy-destroying slogans "God is the greatest," "There is no god but God!" and "Shame on the United States!," came to the scene of the outrage and sincerely rendered assistance to the relief forces in order to move the wounded to Tehran's various hospitals. At the same time another group of people, while carrying stickers on their cars to the effect that the hospitals urgently need various blood types, (?greatly helped) in moving [words indistinct] to the various hospitals in their private (?cars).

According to this report, the bodies of a number of martyrs were blown up and could not be identified.

Colonel Hejazi, chief of Police of the Islamic Republic of Iran, who arrived on the scene an hour after the bomb outrage, said: In view of circumference of the explosion, the weight of the bomb must have been about 150 kg of TNT.

We still do not have an accurate report on the number of those wounded or martyred during this outrageous crime perpetrated by the U.S. mercenaries. However, three Tehran hospitals, including Sina Hospital, were filled with the wounded. Some 400 wounded were moved to Torfeh hospital alone, 50 of whom were kept, while the rest left the hospital after receiving emergency attention in the out-patient clinic.

Khomeyni Message

LD021410 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] Following the bomb explosion in Naser Khosrow Street in Tehran and the martyrdom and injury of hundreds of our compatriots, Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, issued the following message:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. "To God we belong and to Him we shall return. [Koranic verse]

A great criminal explosion, whose terrifying bang you heard last night and the enormity of whose horror you will hear of and see in the mass media, took place in southern Tehran among an oppressed population of the destitute and oppressed classes. It martyred and wounded hundreds of innocent and oppressed people and killed newborn infants in their mother's arms. It made humanity and honor mourn and further exposed the hideous faces of the deviationist and hypocritical Americans.

They take revenge for their shameful defeat on the oppressed people who are committed to Islam and live in the south of the city. They blame these people for their defeat.

Throughout history, the deprived citizens of southern Tehran and the oppressed classes, committed to human and Islamic values, have risen up against powers, power lovers and their associates and will continue to do so with ever-greater determination.

It is they who, through their permanent presence on the scene of Islam, crush powers with their clenched fists. They have disappointed the greedy who followed in the footsteps of the powers. My soldiers, corpsmen and members of the Mobilization and my other armed forces today come from this group and class. Our beloved nation sees that whenever it achieves victory and whenever the brave combatants of Islam and holy warriors of Iran defeat the enemies of Islam and nations and push them back, in revenge a group of deprived people are dragged in dust and blood. These criminals reveal their complexes and wrongly imagine that they can weaken and destabilize the brave combatants. They have not realized the power of Islam and faith and evaluate the nation and Islam using their bestial Western yardsticks. They are deprived of (?the people's honor) and are unaware of divine motives. Deaf, dumb and blind, they are devoid of wisdom.

One of their vain aims is probably to divert the attention of the Iranian nation and the world's oppressed from America's disgraceful defeat in the 'Aflaqite Saddam's war and his expulsion from Iran and attract it to this tragedy and give the (?Western) mass media an opportunity to cover up this serious defeat of America and its puppet Saddam through their extensive propaganda or to denigrate the great victory of the brave combatants. They are unaware that the revolutionary Iranian nation has put defending Islam and cutting off the hands of the arch-Satan in the region at the top of its priorities.

Although any human being who has not deviated from the divine path is mournful over this great crime and the martyrdom of a number of children, adults and innocent people and is sorrowful and sad about the injury of his brothers, he will not forget the honorable and antiblasphemous victory of the heroes of the fronts. The vigilant Iranian nation has recognized the satanic tricks of these criminals, knows who their agents are and considers this action identical to Israel's bestial crimes in Beirut.

I congratulate Islam, (?the lord of the era) and the noble Iranian nation on the great victory of the Iranian heroes and I condole everybody, in particular families, mothers, fathers and the oppressed, on this painful tragedy.

His excellency the prime minister is dutybound to appoint a council to attend to the families of martyrs and to the damage suffered. It must help and compensate for the damages of those who suffered in this tragedy.

Greetings to the oppressed martyred and injured and God's mercy upon the martyrs.

I beg of God, the most exalted, patience for the families of the martyrs and health and recovery for those wounded and suffering.

Relief for Victims Ordered

LD022000 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, following a decree by the imam of the nation on investigating the circumstances of the martyrs' families and also those who suffered damage in the course of last night's bombing tragedy in Tehran, the prime minister has issued the following decree addressed to Dr 'Abbas Sheybani [candidate in the last presidential election].

In His exalted name. My esteemed brother, Dr 'Abbas Sheybani: As you know, the Islamic combatants and the heroic sons of this nation, continuing their just struggle against criminal American imperialism and its mercenary lackey, the aggressive and criminal Saddam, are inflicting deadly blows on the moribund and misguided Iraqi Army. They have already revived the immortal epics of Muslims in the early Islamic era. The devilish America, feeling helpless in confronting nations, resorts to other measures. One day it prepares the ground in Beirut for the massacre of the Muslim and defenseless and homeless Palestinians through the usurping Israel; another day, as a result of crushing blows dealt by the Islamic army, it lays waste and burns the risen and oppressed nation of Islamic Iran through its mercenary internal agents and the hypocrites in an indiscriminate and dastardly manner.

Following last night's terrifying explosion, in which another group of oppressed brothers and sisters and innocent people in south Tehran were drenched in fire and blood, and in implementing the strict orders of the great leader of the Islamic revolution, His Eminence Imam Khomeyni, may his blessings continue, Your Excellency, at the head of a council set up by yourself, is commissioned to take measures to attend to the condition of the families of martyrs and those injured and to cover the material damage caused by this terrible crime and to inform me of the results.

Obviously, the serving government will make every effort to help the oppressed families of the martyred and the victims of this heart-rending tragedy.

I beg the Almighty's mercy for the martyrs, to recovery of those injured in last night's tragedy, victory for the combatants of Islam and defeat for the infidels and hypocrites.

[Signed] Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, the prime minister of the Islamic Republic of Iran

Interior Minister Comments

[Statement given by Interior Minister 'Ali Akbar Nateq-Nuri to a Central News Unit correspondent on 2 October following the 1 October Tehran bomb explosion -- recorded]

[Excerpt] I must say that the incident was expected; it did not surprise us. As our aware people know, whenever our combatants achieve new victories at the fronts and make people happy with their achievements -- like yesterday -- these victories are usually followed by the American mercenaries' attempts to squelch happiness. Therefore, the tragedy was quite expected. We knew that one was going to happen in the country in one way or another. This happened last night. Yet what is unfortunate is the fact that such indiscriminate acts are usually carried out in a manner in which the most deprived masses fall victim to them. [passage indistinct]

Well, the bomb exploded on the corner of Naser Khosrow and Amir-Kabir Streets in front of the subway. A large number of people were injured, including those staying in the nearby hotels; usually only the most deprived stay in those hotels. Around 50 to 60 persons were martyred. This is the latest figure given to me.

Of course, [words indistinct] to be transferred to the hospitals, personnel of the fire brigade, police and committees as well as hospitals showed a unity of action. I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude.

At the same time, a number of people have been arrested. Those arrested are suspects. [Words indistinct], God willing, after further investigation we hope to reach some conclusions and identify the culprits. I should not elaborate any further until after the investigation, when we will inform our nation of the findings.

As I said earlier, we expected such a tragedy. Yesterday, after the victory achieved by our brother combatants at the fronts, we sent out a circular to the [Revolution] Committees warning them as well as the police to take care, remain vigilant and watch for parked vehicles, especially in areas of importance and areas frequented by large crowds. As a result of last night's tragic incident, I am determined to follow up the issue and find out what steps should have been taken, and in case there is any negligence on the party of the committees cr the police, the issue will be followed up and those responsible prosecuted. God willing, we will inform the nation of the outcome of this investigation as well.

KHOMEYNI SPEECH ON OFFENSIVE, TEHRAN EXPLOSION

[Speech by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni to military cadets, military college officials, soldiers and armed forces relief workers at Hoseyniyeh Jamaran on 3 October -- recorded, duration 37 minutes]

[Excerpts] Despite all his crimes, Saddam is claiming to be a peace-loving person. In a recent interview, which I received this week, perhaps today, Saddam says that his impression of Islam and the Islamic principles are such that the others have not been able to reach them. He says that our impression is that we should not commit any aggression against another country. Well, one must have a lot of courage to be able to assert such a thing before his people, who know well that he is lying. If Saddam was not aware of what was happening inside his army, well, that could have been accepted; but he sees his army and its performance.

The recent victory ranks among the greatest spiritual victories. Our forces now occupy a position overlooking Iraq and the Iraqi plain. Despite this great victory, Saddam is once again saying: Well, yes, they launched an offensive, but the attack was repulsed and the Iranian foces were destroyed.

Well, if our forces were destroyed, if there were not defeat on your part, then why did you hastily rush to the Security Council and the Arab governments, dispatch missions here and there, asking the Security Council to prevent further fighting? If you have repulsed our forces, then why are you asking the Security Council to intervene? Then you were frightened, dispatching missions here and there to the world capitals, in order to find a way for your rescue. Now that you have triumphed, what is the use of the aid you are looking for?

I hope that you who are studying at Iran's military college, you who are considered to be the hope of Iran and Islam in the future, should always be aware of the presence of God Almighty, furthering your faith and dedication and following the concept of independence. With this in mind, you should complete your education and training. You are all this nation's hope and, God willing, you will achieve even greater victories for this nation.

Our nation, especially the youths, ought to consider entering military colleges. These colleges are important institutions for Iran and we hope, with the nation's support for these institutions through participation in them, to help in the creation of a strong army. Of course, our army is already strong. I mean an even-much-stronger army, which would enable us to survive against any power.

I would like to repeat once again that we are defending Islam; we have been defending Islam from the beginning. We have been peace-loving from the beginning, and peace is among those things we respect in accordance with Islamic principles.

An Islamic peace is a peace that will turn two hostile sides into friends and brothers. We want such a peace, not the kind of peace which [words indistinct] and the damage which has been inflicted must be paid for; this cannot be considered as peace. [Words indistinct] this is not peace.

They want to plunder a country, destroy it. Now they have set Mahshahr and Naftshahr on fire so that when they are expelled from there [words indistinct] we are dealing with such a kind of people. How can we sit and talk with (?them) unconditionally, or reach agreement?

Let the Security Council suggest that we do so; let the whole world suggest that we do so; we will not be able to accept, no wise man can accept such peace. [chants of "God is great," "Khomeyni is the leader," "Death to America," "Death to Russia," "Death to treacherous hypocrites," "Death to Israel"]

All the mediation delegations that have visited Iran in the past or may come in future, know well that we have one thing to talk about. We accept peace, we welcome peace, but an honorable and Islamic peace; a peace which would ascertain the aggressor's actions; a peace by which the damage inflicted upon our country is paid for, not the kind of peace which on one hand asserts peace and on the other hand, shells deprived and oppressed people.

Saddam's peace-loving claim is identical to American or Israeli pacifism, the same as the deviationists, the same as the hypocrites' claim of support for the masses, who, on one hand, claim to be working for the masses and on the other commit such crimes.

These people [as heard] have yet to assassinate a prominent individual, an individual holding a high position. Nor have they resorted to terrorism against rich, affluent individuals. They still have to assassinate one of these individuals. All the terrorism carried out has been aimed against shopkeepers selling shirts, curtains, groceries or herbs. And then, when they decide to display their power, they resort to such an act, which they later deny.

The same thing applies to Israel. It claims to have had no hand in the events which occurred in Lebanon. It claims its adherence to humanitarianism, and says it would never resort to such worthless deeds.

These people fit this category. They claim to support the nation, but what do they do? They burn an area situated in the southern part of the town, where there are men working hard to support their wives and children, or they burn down hotels where poor, not rich, people stay. This is how they deal with them.

Today, the world is suffering from a disease, a chronic disease that cannot be cured easily; the world is ailing. Today, all countries [words indistinct]. They have poisoned people and have poisoned the thoughts of their nations and paralyzed their own people. They have deprived these nations, they have put them under economic pressure and they have made these poor people toil. They have plundered the result of their labor so much so that these nations became ill; their thought has been wiped out.

A person is needed who will come and revive these people. I hope, God willing, his holiness the lord of the age will come as soon as possible to reform them, to reform this [word indistinct] of corruption with his messiah's breath. May God grant us success in serving this nation, serving Islam, and saving the world's oppressed.

May God's mercy and blessings be upon you.

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. "Kill the infidels. God harms them through you and he shall denigate them. You will triumph over them, while (Ahriman's) heart laments this victory." [Koranic verses]

Greetings to the revolutionary Iranian Muslim people who through their devotion have assisted the Islamic army in recovering every inch of our Islamic homeland. Report on Communique No 1,065

[Text] In its 1065th communique, the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, while reporting on the triumphant Muslim Son of the Prophet [Muslim ibn-e 'Aqil] Operation launched on the western fronts, also reported on the situation at the other fronts of the battle between the right and wrong, as follows:

In the Mehran region, the aggressor's operation to penetrate the city of Mehran was repulsed by the heavy fire of our forces. The Iraqi military personnel were forced to retreat. On the Qasr-e Shirin, Dehloran, Musian and Shur-e Shirin fronts, our combat units also halted all enemy actions and responded to their fire.

In addition to the victories achieved on the western fronts, our fighting brothers are continuing their activities with dedication and devotion on the southern fronts.

On the southern fronts, engagement with the enemy is mostly in the form of periodic exchanges of fire. Our forces are defending their positions by returning the enemy's fire. Yesterday an enemy ammunition dump was set on fire in this region and, as a result of fire by the gendarmerie coastal units, a number of enemy bunkers across the Arvand Rud were destroyed.

Saddam's mercenary army yesterday opened fire on some residential sectors of Abadan, destroying part of a hospital and starting some fires.

8 Iraqi Counterattacks Fail

GF011703 Tehran IRNA in English 1701 GMT 1 Oct 82

[Text] An-Najaf headquarters, Oct 1, IRNA -- During today's offensive of the Islamic forces in the Sumar region, overlooking the Iraqi city of Mandali, enemy aircraft were several times repulsed by the antiaircraft fire of the combatants of the Islamic Republic, before carrying out any operations.

Meanwhile since the beginning of the operation, some eight enemy counteroffensives were repelled, as the Islamic forces continue to strengthen their positions on the recaptured heights.

Iraqi POW's Cited

LD011214 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 1 Oct 82

[Text] The first group of Iraqi POW's captured by the fighters of Islam in the victorious Muslim Son of the Prophet Operation talked to an IRNA reporter after being evacuated to behind the front lines.

(Muhammad 'Abid 'Ali), 32 years old, an NCO of the (Bighar) Armored Battalion, said that a large number of personnel of that battalion, including himself, were overpowered and captured by the fighters of Islam at 0700 today east of the town of Mandali after the powerful onslaught of the forces of Islam.

Chief Warrant Officer (Abu-Najaf), who was captured in the border area, said that Iraqi Armored Battalion 1,713 suffered heavy losses and casualties during the offensive and most members of the battalion were either killed or captured by the forces of Islam by 1000 today.

Private (Jasim Khalil Ibrahim), 27 years old, said that he was captured at 0300 today near Mandali.

Private (Karim Jasim), 50 years old, from (Diyareh), who was a farmer, said that the infidel Saddamists had forced him to come to the fronts around Sumar. He was very happy to have been captured by the forces of Islam and he added that the mercenaries of Saddam had threatened him with death if he did not obey.

According to IRNA, all the Iraqi POW's talked about the Islamic behavior of the soldiers of Islam and some of the wounded POW's were immediately taken to hospitals.

Rafsanjani on Offensive

LD021136 Tehran IRNA in English 1047 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 2, IRNA -- Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani said in an interview published this morning that all planned objectives for the recapturing of Iranian heights overlooking the Iraqi city of Mandali had been achieved. He said that before Friday's offensive, "the Iraqis had created a barrier in our road to reach Baghdad."

In his statements, published in today's issue of the daily JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI, Rafsanjani added that Operation "Muslim ibn-e Aghil" [Muslim Son of the Prophet] had shown the Iraqis that they were not able to defend themselves as they had claimed. He said that the recaptured heights were very important strategic points which had fallen in Iranian hands, "in a matter of few hours."

"Our forces showed that they are acting stronger than in the past, and the Iraqi forces were fleeing (the front) worse than before," the speaker was quoted as saying.

The representative of Imam Khomeyni in the Supreme Defence Council further said that the swift achievement of the offensive had made it clear that Iraq was vulnerable in other regions on the way to Baghdad as well.

"We got these hills from their hands so easily; therefore, the situation is clear in other places. We are now 100 kms from Baghdad," he said.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani then said that Iran had only aimed at capturing of the heights, and brushed aside Iraqi claims as lies that Iran had wanted to capture Mandali.

"All of our aims were these same places which we got, but we did not think that this place could be gained so easily," he said.

At the end of the interview Speaker Rafsanjani said that the Islamic Republic preferred to inflict limited blows to Iraq so that the Ba'thist regime would come to itself and end the war.

2 Iraqi Border Posts Captured

GF021541 Tehran IRNA in English 1515 GMT 2 Oct 82

[Text] An-Najaf headquarters, Oct 2, IRNA -- In the continuation of Friday's "Muslim ibn-e Aghil" offensive, the Islamic forces captured two Iraqi border posts last night. The "Kumeh Sang" and "Luleh Sharif" posts, located eight and ten kms from the Iraqi city of Mandali respectively, are firmly under control of the Islamic forces.

Also this morning, the Iraqi enemy tried to re-occupy yesterday's liberated areas through launching a counterattack which was repelled, causing a considerable number of casualties for the Iraqis.

Exchanges of fire persisted last night in the northern and southern operational regions, while the defenders of the Islamic revolution continued to strengthen their positions in the regained territories.

Reports reaching here from the front said that the positions of the Islamic forces around the liberated border post of "Salman Koshteh" were under intense enemy fire for an hour between 07:00 and 08:00 hours this morning. However, enemy fire was fiercely returned by the Islamic combatants, and as of 09:30 hours this morning, the exchange of fire was continuing.

Meanwhile, the Islamic forces positioned themselves in the liberated heights, northeast of Mandali. However, they have not opened fire on the city, and they are awaiting orders from from their commanders.

Also in the Mehran region, the combatants of Islam from the victorious Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the selfless Guards Corps, the Mobilization forces of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, and the gendarmerie together with the Muslim tribesmen, succeeded in carrying out a coordinated guerrilla operation this morning. They penetrated inside the enemy territory, set fire to and destroyed Durraji, (?Tall Sharqi) and (Ta'n) posts inside Iraq and all the fortifications in the region, killing a large number of Saddamists.

It is worth noting that a number of soldiers of the pro-American Saddam fled toward the town of Zurbatiyah in Iraq as soon as they learned of the attack by the corps of Islam. In these successful operations, one enemy tank was set on fire and destroyed on the Durraji-[word indistinct] axis.

The victorious combatants of Islam, having captured a considerable amount of booty, returned to their bases unharmed at the end of the operation.

[Text] In His exalted name. We pray to and thank God Almighty for giving daily ascendency to the Islamic fighters and followers of Islam, bringing their victory nearer. While expressing our greetings to the pure souls of the martyrs who gave their lives fighting on the front where good is facing evil, we now report some of the operations and sacrifices of the devoted fighters and soldiers of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran:

In the course of the victorious Muslim Son of the Prophet [Muslim ibn-e Aqil] Operation, launched in the western sector, considerable casualties and losses were inflicted on the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries. Our self-sacrificing forces, having smashed the enemy's positions and (?fortifications) and having achieved their objectives, captured 103 Iraqi mercenaries.

On these same fronts, the Islamic heroes, having fortified their new positions, repulsed the Iraqi mercenaries' counteroffensives and [passage indistinct], while maintaining their control over the area and the initiative against the forces of the infidels, continued to shell the Iraqi Ba'thists' positions.

Following the rightful victory of the Islamic forces on the western fronts, the Saddamist criminals this morning bombed Gilan-e Gharb, killing 11 civilians and wounding 3. Exchange of artillery and heavy-weapon fire also continued sporadically in the other sectors of the western fronts.

On the southern front and in the Ramadan theater of operations, periodic firing continued between the Islamic forces and the invading Iraqi mercenaries, while the mighty forces of the Islamic army, together with other Islamic forces, continued to fortify their positions. Two Muslim Iraqi soldiers yesterday surrendered to the Islamic forces on the southern front, seeking asylum.

Yesterday a number of Iraqi aircraft tried to violate our western and southern airspace but were forced to flee as a result of the tactical operation of the air force and because of air defense fire.

On 29 and 30 September 24 self-sacrificing fighters of the ground forces and 9 gendarmerie soldiers were martyred. God bless their souls.

[Text] In His exalted name. Congraulations on the birthday of Imam 'Ali an-Naqi, peace be upon him. A summary of the situation in the operational regions is hereby brought to the attention of the Muslim and struggling nation of Iran:

Following the great Muslim Son of the Prophet Operation in the western regions of the country, all the units participating in these operations are consolidating and establishing their positions, carrying out mopping-up operations, and collecting military equipment and other spoils in the liberated regions. Our forces are maintaining their supremacy and are conscientiously defending their positions. This morning the forces of Islam, while crushing enemy resistance and foiling local counteroffensives, continued their missions so that enemy tanks had to leave the region while our forces continued their advance. The number of POW's evacuated behind the lines as of this morning was 189, of which 10 were wounded and were hospitalized.

Generally, so far the assigned objectives have been achieved and all enemy counteroffensives have been foiled, but sporadic clashes still continue. According to the latest reports, in the operations carried out in the western parts of the country, a number of fuel tanks and oil installations in Banmil and Naft Khaneh in Iraq have been destroyed by artillery fire.

On other western fronts of the country, including Qasr-e Shirin, the intensive exchange of fire continues. In the Ilam region, sporadic exchange of fire is reported.

In the southern operational parts of the country, the combative forces of Islam are returning enemy fire and are protecting and defending their positions. Yesterday, our forces' fire on enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud destroyed four observation posts, trenches and foxholes of the aggressors and some casualties were inflicted on them.

During the past 24 hours, all enemy air attacks have been foiled by antiaircraft defense units and the encroaching planes were forced to flee.

On 1 October 16 personnel of the ground forces and one of the combatants of the air force were martyred. May their path continue.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

7 OCTOBER 1982

Iran-Iraq War

An Iraqi military spokesman announced in a statement carried by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio that the Iraqi Navy destroyed two naval targets near Khark Island. In another statement over the radio, the spokesman disclosed that Iraq used planes and helicopters to wipe out Iranian forces in the Mandali region. The Iranian military headquarters meanwhile rejected Iraq's claim that it reoccupied territory Iran recently overran around Mandali, IRNA reported. Another IRNA report said that Iran repulsed Iraq's counteroffensive on 6 October and that Iraqi planes tried in vain to bomb Iranian positions. An Iranian military communique carried by Tehran radio asserted that the air force hit Iraqi positions and that heavy fighting continued in the West, especially around Meymak. Although the radio announced that two Iraqi helicopters were downed in the southern sector, an Iraqi military spokesman cited by INA rebutted this claim. An Iranian commander told foreign journalists that Iranian forces have driven back 21 Iraqi counterattacks since the latest Iranian offensive began and that 39 Iraqi tanks were lost, while 9 tanks and 250 men were captured, Tehran radio reported.

Iraq

Foreign Minister Sa'dun Hammadi met with U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrey Gromyko in separate meetings at the United Nations to discuss the Iran-Iraq war and other topics, according to INA reports.

PLO

PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat held talks with Iraqi President Saddam Husayn in Baghdad on 6 October, INA reported. They discussed the overall Arab and international situation as well as PLO-Iraqi relations.

Citing an "informed source" in Beirut, AFP reported that 'Arafat made a surprise visit to a Palestinian camp near Shtawrah in the Syrian-controlled area of Lebanon on the same day. However, monitored Lebanese media did not confirm the visit.

Jordan

In a message carried by Amman radio, King Husayn asked the prime minister to pardon 736 Jordanians involved in the 1970 security incidents. The radio noted that this request was carried out.

Lebanon

Security Situation -- The Lebanese Army extended its search for arms and illegal residents to the southern suburbs of the capital, according to Beirut radio. In a statement broadcast by the radio, the army command revealed that the authorities detained 200 persons, mostly illegal immigrants, and confiscated four ammunition dumps on 5-6 October. Defense Minister Joseph Skaf said in a Voice of Lebanon radio interview that the raids are necessary and that the authorities have the right to deport illegal immigrants, including Palestinians.

Political Situation -- After further intensive talks with Lebanese political leaders, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan met with President Amin al-Jumayyil to review the outcome of his consultations, Beirut radio reported. Noting that many of the blocs consulted by Al-Wazzan have demanded participation in the government, the radio said the new government is likely to be a broad coalition.

The Command Council of the Independent Nasirite Movement-Al-Murasitun issued a statement over the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio urging the new administration to demand that Israel withdraw from the south before the Syrians evacuate the Al-Biqa' Valley and to openly accuse Israel and its "Lebanese accomplices" of the Sabra and Shatila Massacres. Al-Murabitun's statement also expressed appreciation for acts of resistance against the Israelis, especially the 3 October ambush near 'Alayh.

In another development, former Prime Minister Sa'ib Salam called for "correct" diplomatic relations between Lebanon and Syria, including the establishment of embassies, according to Voice of Lebanon radio.

Israel

Deputy Foreign Minister Yehuda Ben-Me'ir told a London paper that Israel will release PLO detainees in Lebanon within the framework of an evacuation agreement, HA'ARETZ reported. He added that a solution for the withdrawal of IDF and Syrian forces is possible within a few weeks. Meanwhile, the prime minister's office declared that there is no dispute between the United States and Israel regarding the evacuation of foreign forces from Lebanon, Jerusalem radio reported.

Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon totally rejected any IDF criticism of the government's policy in a military or public forum, adding that there must be "indisputable subordination" by the military to the political level. In an article for MA'ARIV, Sharon stressed that this "red line" must not be crossed and that any officer who wants to differ with the government should take off his uniform and enter politics. He regretted that some IDF officers have failed to recognize their limits in the political field.

Libya

A U.S. "spy" plane dispatched by the 6th Fleet was downed by Libyan air defenses on 2 September in the Banghazi region, Tripoli radio claimed. The radio explained that the disclosure was postponed until the wreckage could be studied.

JASARAT: REBELS AMBUSHED NEAR QANDAHAR

GF060947 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 3 Oct 82 p 8

[Text] London, 2 Oct (AAP) -- At Siah Sang, near Qandahar, the Afghan mujahidin guerrillas destroyed one tank with its crew belonging to the Karmal army when some Karmal troops tried to surround a guerrilla group. Two guerrillas were killed and five others were wounded in this clash.

According to the Afghan Agency Press from Qandahar, eight mujahidin riding in two jeeps were ambushed by Afghan Government troops when the mujahidin were going to Arghandab for a guerrilla meeting in the liberated area. The guerrillas were armed with light weapons. Government spies reported their movement and the government soldiers set up an ambush at Siah Sang with two armored cars and one tank, with the aim of capturing the mujahidin alive. When the mujahidin, who were dressed as ordinary peasants, arrived at the spot, they saw a tank blocking the road. The majahidin left their jeeps and took cover behind rocks. The Karmal soldiers, using loudspeakers, asked the mujahidin to surrender, as they had been recognized. The guerrillas replied with fire. The fire exchange lasted for 4 hours, after which one guerrilla succeeded in breaking through the ambush and reached his headquarters.

While the remaining guerrillas kept the government forces engaged, 20 more mujahidin arrived at Siah Sang with rocketlaunchers. By this time, two of the seven mujahidin remaining behind had been killed. When the new mujahidin force arrived, Karmal troops began retreating toward Qandahar. The mujahidin destroyed one tank with its four crew members. Both jeeps belonging to guerrillas were also destroyed in the action.

[Text] An agreement on setting up a joint economic commission between India and Bangladesh is being signed in New Delhi tomorrow. Accord in Tin Bigha [border enclave] is also expected to be signed as all the points in this regard have now been agreed upon.

This was announced at a joint press briefing by the spokesmen of the two sides in New Delhi this evening after a meeting between Lt Gen H.M. Ershad, the chief martial law administrator of Bangladesh, and Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi.

They were together for about an hour and were later joined by their aides. The Indian side included Finance Minister Pranab Mukherjee and Irrigation Minister Kedar Pandey, while Foreign Minister of Bangladesh A.R.S. Doha and Irrigation Minister Obaidullah Khan assisted General Ershad.

There were intensive discussions between the two sides during the day. It has been officially stated that most of the issues have been sorted out. Progress has also been made on the question of sharing the Ganges waters at Farakka and the augmentation of its flow. The discussions are continuing at the official level to tie up some loose ends which still remain.

The joint economic commission is expected to hold its first meeting shortly. In this context delegations of the two sides had an extended discussion on trade and economic relations and on the areas, scope and potential for cooperation. They noted that development of economic relationship has been pending for a long time and needs to be discussed in greater depth immediately. They agreed that there is considerable possibility of increasing trade while promoting greater balance, particularly through exports from Bangladesh to India. They also discussed industrial collaboration and possibility of joint ventures.

Banquet Remarks

BK070640 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Text] India and Bangladesh have called for starting a new era of friendship based on trust and cooperation. Speaking at a banquet given in honor of Bangladesh Chief Martial Law Administrator Lt Gen Ershad in New Delhi last night, Mrs Gandhi said there is a great scope for economic and technical cooperation between the two countries. She said India always wants to see Bangladesh stable and will cooperate with it. Mrs Gandhi hoped that the decision to set up a joint economic commission will give an impetus to the close relations.

Referring to the Nonaligned Movement, Mrs Gandhi stressed its role and said we must repudiate conflict between the North and the South. Referring to the Israeli aggression in Lebanon, the prime minister expressed the hope that the incidents like the massacre of Palestinians in West Beirut would not occur again.

Mrs Gandhi also expressed concern at the militarization and nuclearization of the Indian Ocean and the growing presence of outside powers. She said all those interested in the proposed conference on the Indian Ocean as a zone of peace should work for its early meeting.

In his reply, General Ershad referred to the close relations between the two countries based on good will and neighborliness. He hoped that the two countries will find honorable and equitable solutions to their problems.

General Ershad said that India, with a highly cummulative experience in becoming a grain-surplus economy and one of the largest industrialized nations, can contribute greatly toward regional cooperation for development in South Asia.

He also expressed grave concern over the continued Israeli aggression against Lebanon. Referring to the Gulf war, General Ershad said both Iran and Iraq want peace and India and Bangladesh should try to bring the war to an end as early as possible.

General Ershad renewed his invitation to Mrs Gandhi to visit Bangladesh.

Replying to a question in the Rajya Sabha, he said the government has seen reports of the link road-construction programs in Pakistan-occupied Kashmir and along India's borders with Pakistan and China. However, there is no reliable information about the Chinese construction of the link roads in the area.

Venkataraman said our plans for defense preparedness are periodically reviewed and updated taking into account all developments which impinge on our security.

The house was also informed that there have been a few incidents of firing by Pakistani troops along the line of control in Jammu and Kashmir in the last 3 months. The firing has been unprovoked.

BK060432 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 6 Oct 82

GANDHI, HOME MINISTER SPEAK ON ASSAM ISSUE

BK070903 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Text] The prime minister today said that she would not mind intervening in the talks on the foreign nationals issue in Assam if it can help solve the problem. Intervening during question time in the Rajya Sabha, Mrs Gandhi said: It is our earnest desire to find a solution. We do not stand on prestige, but the rigid stand of the agitation leaders is coming in the way. Mrs Gandhi said she visited Assam to assist the views of different parties and groups. She had assured the people of Assam that, to begin with, post-1971 entrants would be identified and deported. Unfortunately, this was not agreed to by the agitation leaders who insisted on an overall settlement and nothing short of it. Mrs Gandhi told the members that the government would have to see how it can satisfy the agitation leaders without hurting the interests of minority communities.

Earlier, Home Minister Sethi told members about the Janata leader Ravindra Verma's formula. According to the formula, about 160,000 persons who came to Assam between 1961 and 1971 and have citizenship certificates should be recognized as Indian nationals. The cases of those who do not have the certificates should be referred to a tribunal. Those who do not fall in any of these categories should be deported. Sethi said the formula was not accepted by the agitation leaders and the combined talks were deadlocked. However, the government wants to resume the talks. This will be held on the 6th or 7th of next month.

YAQUB KHAN ADDRESSES UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

BK051251 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 5 Oct 82

[Text] Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan has said that Pakistan had participated in the recent Geneva indirect talks on Afghanistan in a positive and constructive spirit and looked forward to further progress in these talks initiated by the UN secretary general.

Addressing the UN General Assembly in New York last night he said Pakistan has sincerely cooperated with every international endeavor to seek a peaceful political settlement of the Afghanistan problem. He said Pakistan, which had been grievously affected by the crisis in its neighborhood, had a direct and vital stake in a peaceful political settlement of the Afghan people.

The foreign minister emphasized that the ramifications of the crisis in Afghanistan had made it imperative for Pakistan to maintain an adequate defense establishment. He said Pakistan cannot turn its eyes away from this imperative of maintaining a defense establishment commensurate with the size of the country and the length of its international border. He declared that Pakistan was not tied to any bloc or strategic consensus and its (?right) to have a minimum defense capability was an expression of its sovereign status as a nonaligned country. This should not be a matter of concern to others. He said we are sincerely endeavoring to turn these borders into frontiers of permanent peace.

Turning to Pakistan's relations with India, Sahabzada Yaqub Khan reiterated his country's desire for full normalization which was essential to the fulfillment of the aspirations of the two peoples to have peace and a life of dignity, well-being and prosperity. He recalled several initiatives, including the offer of a nonaggression pact, taken by Pakistan to foster an atmosphere of trust and confidence between the two countries. He also welcomed the suggestion by Indian Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi for a joint commission and said that exchange of views on these proposals had been initiated. This, he said, augured well for the future of Pakistan-India relations on which the peace and tranquillity of the region largely depended. He underscored the need for the resolution of the Jammu and Kashmir dispute, which he said was the only outstanding problem between the two countries.

IRAQI COUNTEROFFENSIVE REPULSED 6 OCTOBER

[Text] Zafar headquarters, Oct 5, IRNA -- The enemy's counter-offensives were repulsed today during the operation of Muslim ibn-e 'Aqil which was launched on last Friday with considerable victories over Iraqi Ba'thists. The reports said that the Iraqi mercenaries tried in vain to bomb the Islamic forces position and their planes were forced to flee.

According to these reports 3 tanks and a personnel carrier of the enemy were destroyed while 2 motorized units were set ablaze north of Mandali during the latest Iraqi counter-attacks.

INFORMATION OFFICE DENIES IRAQI WAR CLAIMS

LD062054 Tehran IRNA in English 1958 GMT 6 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 6, IRNA -- The War Information Headquarters issued an announcement tonight denying Iraqi claims that the latter had occupied all territories recently liberated by the Islamic forces.

The announcement said that the Iraqi regime had begun yet another fallacious propaganda campaign today when it announced that the Iraqi aggressor had reoccupied the Iranian regions liberated in Friday's "Muslim ibn-e Aghil" offensive by the Islamic forces, in a counterattack this morning.

The lying regime of Baghdad that until yesterday had denied any advance by the Islamic forces, has as such confessed to the victories of the Islamic forces.

Furthermore this so-called victory by the Iraqis had been announced by the treacherous regime in Baghdad when all during today the fronts overlooking the Iraqi city of Mandali were calm and the foreign reporters invited there were inspecting the said fronts and observed the Iraqi city on top of the recaptured Iranian heights.

Such blasphemous loudspeakers, such as the BCC [as received] and the Zionist regime's radio, and the VOA interestingly had come to the rescue of Saddam as they had done before and had broadcast the Iraqi claim.

It concluded that just like when the defunct shah was spending his last days in Iran, the Iraqi regime had also begun stating lies and hallucinations as the two had similar fates.

This has not been the first time that the tottering regime of Saddam Husayn used such distorting and unfounded statements in order to save its foot on the ground for only a few days.

All during the Iraqi imposed war Iraq had denied all victories of the Islamic forces, and after it, the imperialist mass media had reflected them with great noise.

The breaking of the siege around Abadan in Sept of 1981, the liberation of Bostan, the liberation of regions west of Shush and Dezful, and most important of all, the liberation of Khorramshahr only in a 12 hour night attack last May, are some which we can remind the honest people of the world of. In these instances Iraq, without any exception, denied the victories of the Islamic combatants but was only forced to confess to "strategic retreat" of its forces.

In Operation "Muslim ibn-e Aghil" which began on Friday, the Islamic forces recaptured strategic heights in the Iranian border region of Sumar, over looking the Iraqi border city of Mandali, in a matter of few hours.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,071

[Communique No 1,071 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. At 0940 this morning, the proud combatants of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran bombed Saddamist positions and units in the west of our country and inside Iraqi territory and inflicted considerable losses and casualties upon the Ba'thist Iraqi mercenaries. On completing this successful mission, the fighter aircraft of the air force returned safely to their bases.

In the past 24 hours, heavy fighting and exchanges of fire continued on the western fronts of the country; they were more intense in the Meymak region. Consolidating and stabilizing their defense positions, the combatants of Islam defend their positions bravely and with utmost devotion repulse any activity and movement of the Saddamist forces.

In the Naftshahr area, a parking lot belonging to the Saddamists was set on fire by the heavy artillery fire of the ground forces. Vehicles in the lot suffered considerable damage.

On one of the Sumar fronts, devotees of the Army Aviation Corps and the intense and accurate artillery fire of the ground forces on the positions of the aggressive Iraqi forces set fire to and destroyed two ammunition dumps and one tank belonging to the Iraqi forces. On another front in this area, two Saddamist tanks completely were destroyed by the fire of the combatants of Islam.

On the Marivan front, the combatants of Islam pounded enemy positions, destroying a number of trenches and foxholes of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries.

On the southern fronts, the victorious combatants of Islam are still in control of their defensive positions. On most of these fronts, exchanges of fire continue; they have been more intense on the Shalemcheh front.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, the heroes of the navy and the brave combatants of the gendarmerie opened fire on enemy positions on the other side of Arvand Rud [Shatt al-Arab]. They silenced enemy fire and inflicted losses on the Saddamist forces so that, on the Abadan front, five trenches were destroyed and a number of their personnel were killed.

On 2 October, the heroes of the gendarmerie dispatched patrol units to one of the Khorramshahr fronts and dealt necessary blows to the enemy. They seized the following items from the mercenary Saddamist forces as spoils of war: seven Kalashnikov rifles, one RPG-7 missile launcher, two radios and a quantity of ammunition.

FOREIGN JOURNALISTS VISIT 'LIBERATED AREAS'

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, 20 reporters, photographers and film crews of NHK, KYODO, ASAHI SHIMBUN, XINHUA [as heard] France-Presse and (DAILY NEWS), new agencies of Japan, France, Korea and Britain, yesterday arrived at the fronts in the operational zones in the west. They gathered in the headquarters of the operation commanders, one of whom, while explaining the details of the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations on a map, said:

The aggressive enemy was stationed in the (Kohnerud), (Miyan Tang), (Mishcheh), (Dolashkar) and (Pol-e Sang) heights and other heights overlooking the Iranian town of Sumar and had occupied our country's territory, while claiming it had returned to its international borders. At the moment, it also claims it had not lost these heights. However, you will see the heights that the victorious fighters of imam have occupied with full force, thus exposing the falsity of the enemy claims.

He added: Participating in the operations carried out in this region were the 46th Iraqi Infantry Brigade, the border guards brigade, one tank battalion and the 16th Brigade from the 6th Iraq Armored Division. With the least number of forces and equipment, we succeeded in recapturing these heights, which had the strongest fortifications, overlook the Iraqi town of Mandali and offer the shortest route to Baghdad.

'During the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations, our enemy made use of numerous minefields, booby-traps and canisters of poisonous liquids and poison gas [gazhay-e khafekonandeh]. You will see all these with your own eyes. However, despite all this, we were victorious. So far, we have neutralized 21 enemy counterattacks and have destroyed 2 Iraqi brigades and 1 tank battalion. In the course of these operations, our forces recaptured 150 square km of Islamic homeland territory and cleansed the area from the filthy existence of the Saddam forces.

The operational commander of Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations added: So far, we have not fired one shot against the Iraqi town of Mandali; this is because of our Islamic attitude. He added: In these operations, 39 enemy tanks and armored personnelcarriers were destroyed and 9 tanks and armored personnel carriers, 3 100-mm guns, 1 80-mm gun, 4 106-mm guns, 4 (shinkof) antiaircraft guns, 1 radar unit, 1 artillery rangefinder, a number of heavy and light vehicles and a quantity of light weapons and ammunition were captured by the fighters of Islam. More than 250 Iraqi officers, NCO's and soldiers also were captured by the forces of Islam; more than 1,500 enemy personnel were killed or wounded.

After the explanations of the commander of the Muslim ibn-'Aqil operations, the reporters and film crews left for the heights captured by the forces of Islam and shot films, took photographs and made reports about this region conquered by the victorious forces of Islam last Friday.

While visiting the liberated areas, the AFP correspondent said in an interview with the Central News Unit: I have visited the southern fronts before. I will admit that we saw here what is reported in your military communiques. The city of Mandali is clearly visible and I can see it easily. In view of this victory by the Iranian Army, I think it must be very difficult for the Iraqi Army to carry on.

In reply to a question about his observations inside Iran, the French correspondent said: Here I witnessed the devotion and self-sacrifices of the Iranians, which is unbelievable. We realized the Iranian people are determined to regain their occupied homeland, although Iraq is equipped with the most powerful combat weapons. The Iranians are united, believing and self-sacrificing.

Our correspondent asked: Have you visited Iraq before? The French news agency correspondent replied: I have visited Iraq. However, most of the scenes I observed were artificial and anybody could easily notice this.

According to this report, the Japanese correspondents, in an interview with our correspondent, were also unanimous in the view that the Iranians have achieved what they wanted in the area and can continue in this manner until the liberation of all their territories.

According to the Central News Unit report, the foreign media reporters continued their inspections of the victories of the victorious fighters of Islam in the liberated areas and produced reports, films and photographs.

UN ENVOY REJECTS SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION

LD061430 Tehran IRNA in English 1002 GMT 6 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 5, IRNA -- Iranian permanent representative at the UN, Seyyed Raja'i-Khorasani, Monday night rejected the pre-arranged Security Council's resolution and stressed that the council was unable to take a constructive stance for the establishment of justice and revival of legitimate rights of the people who were fighting for the liberation of occupied lands of their country.

Speaking in a press conference at the UN Raja'i-Khorasani referring to Iran's non-participation at the Security Council's session, held upon Iraq's session [as received], said that Iran believed that the Security Council had failed to accomplish provisions of the UN Charter.

During the past two years when 20 Iranian cities and 1,200 villages were under the occupation of the Iraqi Army and residential areas were under the fire of their artillery and bombardments, the Security Council took no measures and remained silent, Raja'i-Khorasani emphasized.

The Iranian representative further stressed that the council paid no attention even to the refugees of two million Iranians, as well as martyrdom of 2,000 of others.

Declaring the recapture of strategic heights in western Iran from the Iraqi occupation, Raja'i-Khorasani said that legitimate defense of Iranian forces was being reviewed at the Security Council as a threat for international peace and security. But on the contrary, the Iranian envoy added, when such a peace and security was endangered by the Iraqi aggression, the council not only did not condemn Iraq for such an action but remained as an indifferent observer not even asking the Iraqi regime to withdraw its forces from the Iranian territory.

Therefore, Iran believed that the Security Council, especially when headed by the Jordanian representative whose country was actively cooperating with Iraq in its aggression against Iran, was not the base for the establishment of justice, Raja'i-Khorasani said.

He added that Iran rejected the resolution stressing that the Jordanian representative under the pretext of holding the session to be informed of the two parties views, intended to bring the Iranian envoy to the negotiations table and they impose the pre-arranged resolution prepared by Iraq to the session.

When asked whether Iran could accept a cease-fire after recovering all its occupied territory, the Iranian diplomat said that there were many problems to be settled with the aggressor, and if they were not solved through peaceful means, then the struggle would be continued until the rights were gained.

He reiterated that the Iraqi regime had to pay for the damages it has inflicted on Iran and at the same time there must be an assurance for Iran that it would not be attacked again.

Raja'i-Khorasani further told reporters that some 120,000 Iraqi deportees now living in Iran, must be returned to Iraq. As for the extent of damage caused by the Iraqi imposed war, he said that in order to understand the dimensions of it one must go to the course of the war, the Iraqi troops, have destroyed some 20 cities, more than 1,200 villages, the largest refinery of the world in Abadan as well as a large number of hospitals, schools and mosques, he added. As for the human losses, many have been martyred. The extent of the damage was not comprehendable for human mind, he added.

The Iranian representative to the U.N. once again emphasized that the Islamic Republic would welcome any efforts for the establishment of a just peace.

CLANDESTINE RADIO DESCRIBES VILLAGE MASSACRE

NC021411 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 1805 GMT 1 Oct 82

[Text] Fifty-one residents of a village called (Dehgard) in the forests in the north were massacred by the regime's revolution guards.

A Voice of Iran correspondent in Paris writes in a report quoting the Mojahedin-e Khalq organization that this organization has sent a message to the UN secretary general informing him of the massacre of the (Dehgard) villagers and has asked for his assistance in preventing the continuation of these massacres. This letter states that the village has less than 4,000 residents and that, because of opposition to Khomeyni's regime, 20 of its residents have been imprisoned while 12 others have had to flee. The bodies of the people killed apparently have been buried in the woods and areas around the village. However, to further terrorize the villagers, the regime's revolution guards disintered the body of the village teacher and threw it in front of his father's house.

The Mojahedin-e Khalq organization has learned of this massacre through a villager who witnessed the killings. Tortured by the regime's revolution guards, he was able to escape to France where he asked the French Government for asylum. He has said he is prepared to testify before any international court on the massacre of the (Dehgard) villagers.

TRIBESMEN PLEDGE SUPPORT TO ISLAMIC REPUBLIC

[Text] Shiraz, Oct 4, IRNA — A huge gathering of Muslim tribesmen of Firuzabad in Fars Province, southern Iran, Sunday pledged their support for the Islamic Republic and its recent measure in sending before a firing squad Khosrow Qashqa'i, head of the tribal bandits.

The massive demonstration was concluded by the release of a seven-point resolution in which tribesmen announced their preparedness to fight for Islam and the Islamic Republic, and against counterrevolutionaries.

The resolution also condemned last Friday's bomb blast in Tehran's Naser-Khosrwo Avenue which claimed the lives of some 60 people and injured over 700 others.

Meanwhile, the Iranian Defense Ministry in a statement today denounced the same bomb explosion stressing that such a malicious act took place simultaneously with the achievement of outstanding victories by the Islamic combatants in the warfronts of the Iraqi imposed war. But, the statement assured, the vigilant Iranians would thwart all U.S.-sponsored conspiracies and would give its response to the bomb planter, to the Iraqi Ba'thists in the battlefields.

Soviet Helicopter Downed

[Text] According to reports from Afghanistan, in an air attack launched a few days ago by 12 Soviet helicopters and a number of MiG's against (Kolab) village in (Ahri) region, Herat Province, this village, which had 1,500 homes, was razed to the ground. According to these reports, Muslim Afghan revolutionaries had foreseen this attack and had asked the village inhabitants to leave. As a result, only three people were martyred during the bombardment.

During this attack, one Soviet helicopter was downed as the result of the fire of the Muslim Afghan revolutionaries. According to these reports, during an intense 2-day battle between Muslim Afghan revolutionaries and the joint Soviet occupation forces and the government forces of Afghanistan in (Golnam) region, Herat Province, 200 of the joint forces were killed or wounded and 4 of their tanks were captured by Muslim Afghan revolutionaries.

[Text] In a battle between the Soviet and Afghan Government forces in the Qalat region of Zabol Province in southern Afghanistan, about 42 persons from both sides were killed. This battle took place following the defeat of both Soviet and Afghan forces by the Afghan Muslim mujahidin and due to the refusal of both the Soviet and Afghan sides to accept responsibility for this defeat. As a result of the events, a high-ranking delegation left Kabul for the Qalat region to investigate. Following its investigation, the delegation arrested two senior Afghan officers.

IRNA: WEST SEPARATING AFGHAN MUJAHIDIN, IRAN

LD032028 Tehran IRNA in English 1939 GMT 3 Oct 82

[Text] Islamabad, Oct 3, IRNA -- Western countries are attempting to sow discord among various combatant Muslim organisations with the objective of bringing to power another lackey regime in Afghanistan, said (Hojjat ol-Eslam Mir-Hoseyn Sadeqi), a member of the Executive Council of Afghanistan's Nasr organisation.

He added that two weeks ago leaders of mujahideen in Peshawar were invited to attend a session in New York but they left the meeting when they noticed the presence of Zahir Shah (former king of Afghanistan, crowned in 1933).

(Hojjat ol-Eslam Sadeqi) noted that Muslims were being surrounded by government and Soviet forces in central areas for 40 days and as a result are suffering a shortage of foodstuffs and medicine. He stressed tht the preventing of Afghan Shi'a Muslims from entering Iran through Pakistan was one of the steps taken by the West to separate Afghan revolutionaries from the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Speaking on the tour of Pakistani officials to the Soviet Union, the Hojjat ol-Eslam said that talks concerning Afghan Muslims had already begun and would continue.

Lebanon

Haddad Position, Meeting With Sharon -- Christian Militia Commander Sa'd Haddad announced to journalists that he is prepared to leave Lebanon if his presence becomes an obstacle to security arrangements for southern Lebanon, AFP and Jerusalem radio reported. He said he did not want his presence to be an embarrassment and stressed that the important thing is security for the southern area. Haddad added that he would be happy to live in Israel. Earlier, Haddad met in Marj 'Uyun with Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon to discuss security arrangements for southern Lebanon, the Voice of Hope radio and IDF radio said. During his tour of the area, Sharon remarked that Israel will not allow anyone to supervise the security of southern Lebanon unless an agreement is signed between Israel and Lebanon, Jerusalem radio affirmed.

In another development, Jerusalem radio said that 1,500 Palestinians in camps have petitioned the IDF to remain in the southern area until security is restored. The radio indicated that this is part of an effort by Palestinians to form a new leadership, though it is being threatened by the PLO. Meanwhile, "many" southern Lebanon inhabitants have volunteered to join Haddad's militia because they claim the Lebanese Army cannot stop the return of "terrorists" to the area, the radio said.

Cabinet Formed -- After a "long and difficult meeting" between President Amin al-Jumayyil and Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan to form a government, Al-Wazzan announced the formation of a new Cabinet, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. Al-Wazzan read the Cabinet list over the radio, in which he assumes the role of interior minister as well as prime minister; the new deputy prime minister is Elie Salim and the defense minister is 'Isam Khuri. Al-Wazzan noted that the government was formed from outside the Chamber of Deputies.

According to the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon, the new government is viewed as an important political success for Al-Jumayyil; Ihdin Free and Unified Lebanon radio also praised the Cabinet formation.

Security Situation -- The Lebanese Army arrested 68 persons and confiscated large amounts of arms in southern Beirut on 7 October, Beirut radio reported citing an army command statement. Voice of Lebanon radio noted that the army's operations continued the next day. Reports cited by Beirut radio indicated that the Lebanese Army will begin security measures in East Beirut on 10 October. In another development, the new Lebanese Government issued an order banning Israelis from entering Beirut, which follows a similar IDF order, Jerusalem radio disclosed.

Meanwhile, Israel released 82 prisoners held in the Ansar detention camp in southern Lebanon, Jerusalem radio reported.

PLO

In an appeal to Arab leaders, carried by WAFA and reported by AFP, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat accused the multinational peacekeeping forces in Lebanon of joining the Lebanese Army's "systematic campaign" to "annihilate" the Palestinian people. 'Arafat accused the United States of supporting the alleged arrests and torture of Palestinians and asserted that although the multinational forces may not have taken a direct part in the activities, their silence makes them accomplices. According to ANSA, the Italian Foreign Ministry affirmed that none of the multinational forces has had any role in the Lebanese Army operations.

Meanwhile, WAFA cited a Palestinian source in Damascus denying that 'Arafat had visited the Al-Biqa' Valley on 6 October as reported earlier by AFP, Monte Carlo radio said.

Israel

The Foreign Ministry "vigorously denied" reports that Israel had retracted its demand that the "terrorists" leave Lebanon before the IDF. The statement released by the ministry spokesman said Israel insists the "terrorists" leave first from all of Lebanon, Jerusalem radio reported.

In response to a report by Jack Anderson in the American press that the USSR intends to renew relations with Israel, a Foreign Ministry spokesman cited by Jerusalem radio denied knowledge of such intentions. He added that the Soviets would have to take the first step in reestablishing relations, though Israel would welcome these relations.

Iran-Iraq War

Iraqi forces repulsed an Iranian offensive launched early 7 October in the Mandali region, an Iraqi military communique carried by INA declared. In a followup statement carried by Baghdad radio, an Iraqi military spokesman reported that Iran lost 515 dead and 2 helicopters downed. An Iraqi officer, cited by INA, said that before the alleged annihilation of Iranian forces near Mandali, the Iranians fought in stages, first using artillery and then over 30,000 soldiers; he admitted that Iran had penetrated Iraqi lines before being forced back. Meanwhile, an Iranian military communique carried by Tehran radio claimed Iran held its positions near Mandali and hit Iraq's Al-Faw oil installations in the southern region.

Libya

Speaking over Tripoli radio at a 7 October "Vengeance Day" rally, Libyan leader Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi stressed that "enemies" of the Libyan people must be eliminated. Declaring that this job cannot be done by the revolutionary committees alone, he stated that every Libyan traveling abroad is responsible for the task of eliminating adversaries, adding that these enemies are U.S.-subsidized.

Egypt

In a speech carried by Cairo radio at a National Democratic Party headquarters ceremony marking the first anniversary of the death of former President Anwar as-Sadat, President Husni Mubarak praised As-Sadat as a great leader and a man of unique capabilities, adding that As-Sadat's greatest accomplishment was the 1973 October war "victory," followed by the peace agreements with Israel.

Afghanistan

At the end of talks in Budapest between President Babrak Karmal and Hungarian leaders, Afghanistan and Hungary signed a treaty of friendship and cooperation, a joint communique carried by BAKHTAR reported.

ERSHAD RETURNS FROM INDIAN VISIT 7 OCT

BK080549 Dacca Domestic Service in English 0145 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt Gen H.M. Ershad, now back home after a 2-day official to India, has described his visit as a success.

Talking to newsmen at the Zia International Airport last night on his return, the CMLA said a memorandum of understanding has been signed between Bangladesh and India on sharing of the Ganges waters. He said under it the present arrangement on Farakka will continue. In the meantime, an 18-month prefeasibility study will be undertaken by the officials and experts of the two countries. If the report of the study is found favorable, we will accept it, he added. The feasibility study on the augmentation of the Ganges waters was not done before as provided under the 1977 agreement. The issue would be approached with an open mind.

About sharing the Tista waters, the CMLA said some sort of an understanding has been reached and further negotiations on it will be held next month.

General Ershad said he also had very fruitful talks with the Indian prime minister on other bilateral issues in an atmosphere of extreme friendship and cordiality. They have decided to make sincere and effective efforts to resolve all the outstanding problems facing the two countries.

The CMLA also mentioned the signing of two agreements during his visit -- one on the setting up of a joint economic commission and the other on the lease of Tin Bigha corridor. He said the foreign ministers of the two countries will meet in New Delhi late next month to identify the areas of cooperation within the preview of the joint economic commission.

He also said steps have been taken to narrow down the trade imbalance between the two countries. The two countries will also consider the spheres of joint industrial ventures and technical cooperation. Replying to a question, General Ershad said we want good relations with all countries, particularly with our neighbors.

General Ershad told a questioner that he had renewed his invitation to Mrs Indira Gandhi to visit Bangladesh. The visit might take place some time next year, he said.

Answering another question the CMLA said elections for local government would be held next year. But, he noted, conditions were not yet conducive to resume political activities.

The deputy chief martial law administrators, Cabinet ministers, diplomats, high civil and military officials were among those present at the airport to receive the CMLA.

Earlier, General Ershad was given a warm sendoff at the Palam Airport. He was seen off by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, Cabinet ministers, political leaders, members of the diplomatic corps and high civil and military officials.

ACCORDS SIGNED WITH BANGLADESH ON ENCLAVE LEASE

BK071425 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Text] India and Bangladesh today exchanged letters for the perpetual lease of Tin Bigha to Bangladesh. They also signed an agreement setting up a joint economic commission.

The ceremony took place at Rashtrapati Bhavan this afternoon in the presence of Chief Martial Law Administrator of Bangladesh Lt General Ershad and Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi. The terms of the lease which constitute an agreement are set out in letters exchanged between External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao and Bangladesh Foreign Minister Shamsud Doha. Tin Bigha is approximately 178 meters by 85 meters and will connect Dahagram and Panchabri Mauja of Bangladesh. Sovereignty over the leased area will continue to vest in India.

The joint economic commission for which the agreement was signed will be at the ministerial level and will review commercial relations, recommend measures for closer economic cooperation and for diversification of trade.

BK071427 Dacca Domestic Service in English 1205 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Text] Bangladesh and India today signed two agreements -- one about a joint economic commission and the other relating to a lease of perpetuity of Tin Bigha corridor. The agreements were signed in New Delhi today by Bangladesh Foreign Minister A.R. Shamsud Doha and his Indian counterpart Narasimha Rao.

Our special representative in a dispatch from New Delhi said the signing ceremony was witnessed by Chief Martial Law Administrator Lt Gen H.M. Ershad and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

The joint economic commission shall consist of representatives of the two governments headed by a Cabinet minister on each side. The leaders of the two sides will act as chairmen of the commission. The commission may appoint subcommittees and other bodies as may be necessary to deal with specific issues in the fields of cooperation to monitor progress of implementation of commission's decision and to make appropriate progress reports or recommendations.

The joint economic commission shall hold its meetings at least once a year. The meetings of the commission shall be held in each other's country alternatively. The commission will review matters concerning commercial relations between the two countries for promoting and expanding these relations. It will recommend measures and activities to develop and diversify the two-way trade between the two countries as well as to remove bottlenecks and reducing imbalances in trade relations between the two countries. The commission will identify areas of closer cooperation and initiate such studies and investigations as may be necessary for the purpose. It will also promote closer contact between the business community of the two countries and endeavor to promote possibilities of increased investment consistent with investment policies of the two countries. It will explore possibilities of establishing industrial ventures through joint collaboration in Bangladesh and India and in third countries. The commission will also review the existing transport and communication links between the two countries and promote further cooperation in this regard. The agreement, which comes into force immediately, will remain valid for 5 years and may be extended for 5 to 10 years that may be agreed upon between the two countries.

Under the Tin Bigha agreement, the lease of perpetuity of the area shall be for the purpose of connecting Dahagram and Angorpota with Panchabari Mauja [village] and the (Panchgram) Thana [police station] of Bangladesh to enable the Bangladesh Government to exercise her sovereignty over the two enclaves. The agreement provides that sovereignty over leased area shall continue to vest in India. The rent for the leased area shall be Bangladeshi 1 taka per annum but India has waived its right to charge the rent.

Under the agreement, both Bangladesh and India shall have the right to lay cable, electric lines and water sewage pipes over or under the leased area without obstructing free movement of citizens [words indistinct]. The Bangladesh and Indian citizens, including police, paramilitary and military personnel along with their arms, ammunitions and equipment with supplies, shall have the right of free and unfettered movement in the leased area.

After the signing ceremony, the Indian prime minister told waiting newsmen that her talks with the Bangladesh leaders were held in an atmosphere of cordiality and frankness. General Ershad told newsmen: We have reached complete understanding to solve our problems.

JOINT COMMUNIQUE ISSUED ON TALKS WITH BANGLADESH

BK071647 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Text] A joint communique issued at the end of General Ershad's visit underlines the close identity of views between the two countries on various international issues. In the bilateral sphere, the two sides envisaged durable and mutually advantageous cooperation in a number of fields. To reduce Bangladesh's trade balance against India, the communique suggests several short-term measures for more imports by India. In the long term, joint industrial collaboration in Bangaldesh can help it produce a variety of goods which could be exported to India.

On the New Moore Island, secretary-level talks are to be held to examine all the relevant facts. The two sides are confident that the joint river commission will be able to finalize a sharing formula for the Tista water. They have reemphasized the need to stop illegal movement across the border. The modalities for railway transit of Indian goods through Bangladesh are to be worked out under the auspices of the joint economic commission. The economic commission will be at the ministerial level and will explore possibilities of promoting closer economic cooperation and better contracts in scienctific, technological, transport, telecommunications and other fields.

Under the accord on Tin Bigha India has leased out an area approximately 178 meters by 85 meters to Bangladesh in perpetuity to connect Dahagram with Panchabari Mauja. Sovereignty over it will continue to vest in India but Bangladesh will have its undisturbed possession. Bangladesh citizens, including armed forces, will have the right of free movement at the area without any travel document. All Indian citizens and goods will continue to have the right of free movement in the area.

General Ershad was given a warm sendoff when he left for Dacca this evening. The prime minister, her Cabinet colleagues and members of diplomatic corps were among those who saw him off at the Delhi airport. Before boarding the plane Lt General Ershad inspected an interservices guard of honor.

GANDHI CALLS FOR ISRAELI WITHDRAWAL FROM BEIRUT

BK051425 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 5 Oct 82

[Text] The prime minister has appealed to all, particularly those in a position to influence Israel, to spare no efforts in prevailing upon it to withdraw from Lebanon without delay. Making a statement in the Rajya Sabha on the Israeli invasion of Lebanon, Mrs Gandhi said this must be the first step in the long process of finding a solution to the larger problems. Our foremost priority must be to work collectively in initiating a new peace process toward a comprehensive and final settlement.

GANDHI'S U.S., USSR, NONALIGNED POLICIES VIEWED

BK061433 Delhi NATIONAL HERALD in English 30 Sep 82 p 7

[Article by Hari Jai Singh: "Mrs Gandhi and Superpowers"]

[Text] If Mrs Indira Gandhi's visit to the United States was a media success in projecting India's point of view, her trip to the Soviet Union was a triumph of principles. In the former, the problem was how to get across to the American people, who may otherwise be indifferent to what their government is doing abroad. In the latter the problem was how to convince an otherwise extremely sympathetic people that the problems of the developing countries, and of India in particular, do not fall neatly into any ideological framework. In both cases her visits were highly successful and rewarding.

Broadly speaking, these visits underline the basic soundness and dynamism of India's foreign policy which does not change with change of place or audience. Very few countries can boast of such remarkable consistency in policy and approach.

India's policy of non-alignment, for that matter, is neither a matter of expendiency nor an exercise in opportunism in the sense that it wants to thrive on a split between the two superpowers. Far from it. Mrs Gandhi in Moscow passionately pleaded for better understanding between America and the Soviet Union. She was equally forthright about friendly moves towards China initiated by India and the Soviet Union with a view to defusing areas of tensions.

Mrs Gandhi has constantly pleaded for the paramount need for peace so that the process of development gets the desire boost in the developing world. Of course, a lot depends on the response and attitude of big powers to the basic problems facing developing countries like India.

In Washington India could hardly have got any assurances -- either on U.S. arms aid to Pakistan or on the military build-up in the Indian Ocean. Indeed, it could not even get any assurance on assistance. The Tarapur affair continues to rankle.

In contrast, Mrs Gandhi came back from Moscow loaded with offers of help. President Brezhnev went out of his way to assure India that she could expect all assistance from the Soviet Union for her development. The USSR has offered to set up three major plants in the country -- a steel plant, a large refinery and an alumina plant -- the total outlay on which alone could be about Rs. 8,000 crore. These apart, there are offers of help to expand the Vizag steel plant to 4 million tonnes and to reorganise the Burnpur steel plant. And there are scores of other projects in the pipeline for the development of oil, coal, power, irrigation, food processing, pharmaceuticals and many others. As for trade, according to Trade Minister Shivraj Patil, the turnover between the two countries would reach unprecedented levels by 1985.

But to tote up the various items of Soviet assistance to India is to miss the essence of its significance, which lies more in the Soviet commitment to make India an industrial nation. If today India is counted among the industrial nations, it is largely because of Nehru's dedication to make India a modern industrial nation and the Soviet assistance which came in response to it.

Similarly, Soviet assistance in the field of defence came not as it is being offered today by the West because of commercial necessity but because of Soviet commitment to India's planned development. It started flowing in from 1961 at the height of India-China tension when the Soviet Union was still friendly towards China. The West refused to provide military hardware to India, while America was arming Pakistan.

In short, the friendship between India and the USSR as the prime minister often reiterates, is tested by time. Unfortunately, India's relations with the West have had neither this stability nor the assurance in times of need.

Curiously enough, a section of Indian intellectuals, out of sheer habit, express "reservations" about our relationship with the Soviet Union. This shows their lack of perspective of the national interests. For the benefit of this class, it would be worth reiterating our principles and perceptions.

Colonial India made up her mind on the Soviet Union through its anti-imperialist perspective. Independent India did the same out of necessity. In both, Nehru played the most dominant role, because he alone among Indian leaders had a correct assessment of the forces of history.

It is easy enough for those who are blinded by prejudices to talk of Western commitments to freedom. But barring certain cases, the decolonisation process was not a shining example of this commitment. Roosevelt did not press for India's freedom hard enough because he did not want to offend Churchill beyond a certain point. And today the American leaders do not want to press for Namibia's freedom because they do not wish to offend South Africa. I cite this case to show how much woolly thinking passes off in this country as scholarship and wisdom.

Similarly, after 37 years from the end of the last world war and after three decades of the process of decolonisation, the rich nations of the West have not yet decided what role they should play in the newly independent countries, what changes are to be brought about in the world order, whether the Third World needs external assistance, and in what form and quantum, and what institutional support is to be created for lifting the poor out of their degrading poverty. They seem to change their approach from election to election.

Is this an example of a commitment to help the poor of the world? As against this, the Soviet Union has responded well to the needs of the Third World, howsoever limited may be its capacity for assistance. Today the American administration sees no need for official aid and wants developing countries to depend on "market forces", that is, on the private banks, the multinationals etc., for their development. Does this constitute a policy? Far from it. It is the absence of a policy and commitment.

After having said this, one must hasten to add that we are not for polarisation of forces. We have chosen the path of non-alignment and rightly so. Our own economic development will follow a course that is suitable to use and that is the mixed economy with the public sector playing a dominant role. We are neither for "market forces" nor for the all-planned economy.

These futile debates about the merits of capitalism and socialism must come to an end in India as the majority of Third World nations are choosing their own model of development. Our debates should, therefore, concentrate on how this model can be perfected. And let us be clear about one thing: An India that is committed to capitalism and therefore to the West has no role to play either in the Non-aligned Movement or in the Group of 77. Is this the "role" that the Western lobby wants India to play in total violation of the traditions of Gandhi and Nehru?

The Western nations are prepared to blow up the world to defend "Western civilisation" and the East is prepared to respond in equal measure to defend the new society it has created. Where do we come in this picture? Have we nothing to defend for ourselves? Surely our job is not to encourage the prejudices or fears of either. Our job is to preserve peace. This would call for the highest statesmanship and diplomacy. Obviously this is not for those who are too eager to take sides.

We are told that the Soviet Union has little to offer India in terms of higher technology. We need not go into what the Russians have to offer us. The question is: Is higher technology available from elsewhere and at what price? The UN efforts and debates on the question of technology transfer do not show that higher technology is available from the West just for the asking.

Equally confusing is the argument about diversifying the sources of defence supplies. There is no dispute on this in principle. It was India that went to the Soviet Union for arms because she could not get them from the West.

The question today is: Are arms and their corresponding technologies available to India from the West? If they are, they must be welcome. But the moot point is whether the West will keep its commitments to supply spares and other supporting services in an emergency. Where is the guarantee that the Americans and their allies will honour their word?

To say this is not to argue that we should depend solely on Soviet arms. Our main task is to become self-reliant in the defence field and Mrs Gandhi has made this clear on several occasions.

We have chosen to remain here within a narrow framework ignoring the forces of history which are going to shape the future of the world. Early next year the non-aligned summit is taking place in New Delhi. Soon after that the UNCTAD VI will be meeting at Belgrade. We are part of these organizations and movements that are part of a wider struggle for establishing a new and just world order.

NAVAL PRESENCE IN ANDAMANS INTENSIFIED

BK071145 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 4 Oct 82 p 9

[Excerpt] The presence of the Indian Navy in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands had been intensified in view of the proximity of these islands to other countries, it was learned from senior naval officials in Calcutta on Sunday. The threats facing the island territories of India were emphasized during the day at the launching of a defence boat for the India Navy at Garden Reach shipyard.

It was learned that the first of the new submarines to be purchased from West Germany would arrive in India by the end of 1984. Before long the Mazagon dock, Bombay, will build a submarine of the same type. The submarine, which is being specially designed in West Germany for the Indian Navy, will have better capabilities than the existing submarines of Soviet origin in the Indian Navy. The new ones will be swifter, stealthier and will have more powerful sonars and accurate torpedoes.

Earlier, speaking on the occasion, Vice-Admiral S. Mukherjee, deputy chief of Naval Staff, said that the Falklands conflict had lessons for India. The admiral, who is in charge of operation and intelligence of Indian Navy, said that the maritime security environment of India was deteriorating. The presence of navies of big powers in the Indian Ocean was increasing. Bases and operating facilities were being acquired for obvious reasons.

Vice-Admiral Mukherjee stressed the need for building a balanced navy, capable of operating underwater, on the surface and in the air. There were 319 islands in the Andamans group and 22 in the Lakshwadeep area, two million sq km of exclusive economic zone and about 230 major and minor ports to be defended.

HOME MINISTER COMMENTS ON MEERUT SITUATION

BK080328 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0240 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] The center will ask the state governments to consider setting up of special courts for trying communal offences. Union Law Ministry will also be asked to examine the proposal. This was stated by Home Minister Sethi in the Lok Sabha yesterday while replying to a 6-hour special discussion on communal disturbances. He assured the house that the government will consider raising more battalions of peace task force to deal with such situations. These battalions have already been raised in the central reserve police force and other armed constabulary forces with a proper composition of personnel from different castes and communities.

Referring to the Meerut incidents, Sethi sought the cooperation of all sections of the society to promote communal harmony and restore normalcy. Admitting that there were a few lapses on the part of the administration initially, the minister said that the state government has instructed immediately to take proper action and there are no lapses now. Searches for illegal arms have been conducted and a large number of weapons have been seized. Necessary steps have been taken for the supply of rations, medicines and other essential goods to the people in the affected localities.

About the criticism against the role of the provincial armed constabulary, Sethi said the state government would be asked to look into this. The minister informed the house that 32 deaths have been reported so far in the Meerut riots. The home minister expressed his appreciation to a group of MPs who visited the affected areas in the city. He said he would convene a meeting of the MPs today or tomorrow to know their views on how to prevent such incidents.

MUSLIM FUNDAMENTALISTS REEMERGING IN KASHMIR

BK071139 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 4 Oct 82 p 9

[Text] Srinagar, Oct. 3 -- Hardly a month after the death of Sheikh Abdullah, Muslim fundamentalists are re-emerging on the Kashmir political scene, to get "annulled" the state's "accession with India."

This was evident here yesterday with the emergence of a new political party -- the Jammu and Kashmir Muslim league of political map c. state. The party's founder-president, Mr Mohammad Azam Inqalabi, threatened to launch a non-violent movement in both "Indian Kashmir and Pakistan-occupied Kashmir to get rid of Indian domination in the state."

Mr Azam Inqalabi (39), who claims to have spent half of his life in Pakistani and Indian jails, has demanded an "independent status for the state of Jammu and Kashmir". He said that "this can be possible only if the Indian Government's domination over the state is brought to an end as Pakistan, being an Islamic republic, can have no objection in granting an independent status to our state."

Mr Azam Inqalabi felt that Sheikh Abdullah had wanted to "maintain the individual identity of Kashmiris at all costs before the partition of India, but had become helpless after Pakistan committed an unprovoked aggression to grab Kashmir valley in 1947." He strongly supported the state resettlement bill, which, he said, would enable all those Kashmiri Muslims forced to migrate to Pakistan before or after the partition due to political or other differences with Sheikh Abdullah's pro-Indian national conference to return permanently to their homeland.

He said that while he was in Pakistani jails before and after the Indo-Pakistani conflict of 1965, he realized that "every Kashmiri Muslim living in India is considered to be a traitor or an Indian agent. Every Pakistani Muslim feels that whenever their government made an attempt to liberate Kashmir from Indian domination the Kashmiris themselves sabotaged their plans".

Meanwhile, the Jammu and Kashmir Jamaat-i-Islami's militant youth wing, the Jammat-i-Tulba, headed by Sheikh Tajamul Islam, which has already threatened to launch "an Iranian-type Muslim revolution to liberate Jammu and Kashmir from Indian domination" have also intensified their anti-indian activities in different parts of Kashmir valley, especially after the death of Sheikh Abdullah.

However, while both the Jammat-i-Islami and the Jammat-i-Tulba were openly propagating "accession to Pakistan" some for [as published] their offshoots in the form of various students' organizations, have also started demanding an independent status for the state, as they want to avoid a direct clash with the state government.

DAWN DEFENDS NUCLEAR DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

GF060545 Karachi DAWN in English 3 Oct 82 p 7

[Editorial: "Nuclear Development"]

[Text] The chairman of the Pakistan Atomic Energy Commission has again emphasised that the use of atomic energy is imperative for meeting the country's growing energy demand which cannot be satisfied by conventional means alone. It is significant that Dr Munir Ahmad Khan has reaffirmed the government's commitment to the development of the nuclear potential at a time when a new campaign has been launched against Pakistan's modest atomic programme for peaceful purposes. The quarters from where this campaign has emanated are known for their vehement opposition to any effort by developing countries to acquire basic knowledge and expertise in nuclear science even if they are to be channelled into peaceful uses.

It is now widely known that some of the Western nation's opposition to the Third World's quest for nuclear technology stems not so much from a genuine concern for nuclear non-proliferation. Members of the exclusive nuclear club are more concerned about preserving their monopoly over nuclear technology which has of late emerged as one of the most profitable industries. Mutual competition and rivalries notwithstanding, industrialised countries, therefore, have a vested interest in limiting the possession of nuclear know-how to a small group of nations not only for political but also for commercial reasons. To this end, they have resorted to the use of pressure to deny developing countries the right to acquire nuclear capabilities which could make them self-sufficient in energy production.

Pakistan has been seeking basic nuclear technology in a number of fields. This includes the mining and enrichment of uranium, which is present in a sizable quantity in the country, the manufacture of heavy water and the acquisition of reprocessing techniques in order to maximise the use of nuclear fuel. In view of the reassurance given by the Government of Pakistan on numerous occasions that it will not divert its nuclear expertise into military uses, the opposition to Islamabad's nuclear programme is not understandable. Moreover, Pakistan has also agreed to the upgraded international safeguards proposed by UN agencies. This is reason enough for the nuclear powers to show greater understanding of Islamabad's position in this regard.

Pakistan's modest nuclear research and development programme should help to make it self-sufficient in energy production. Furthermore, the application of nuclear technology could give a boost to development. It is already being applied to agriculture, medicine and industry. It is important that international efforts be made to help developing countries to acquire nuclear technology under adequate safeguards for peaceful purposes. To deny the Third World the benefits of nuclear know-how on the ground that it can be misused could prove to be a short-sighted policy in the long run.

PILGRIMS INJURED BY SAUDI ARABIAN POLICE 7 OCT

GF080536 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0435 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit correspondent in Saudi Arabia, police of the royal Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, while preventing the Komeyl prayer ceremony, last night attacked Iranian pilgrims, injuring some of our innocent countrymen.

According to the same report, the religious Komeyl prayer ceremony was scheduled to be held last night opposite the (Baqi') cemetery in the holy city of Medina. However, the Saudi regime, enraged during the hajj ceremony by the Iranian pilgrims' chanting of the slogans: Death to America and death to Israel, and by their revealing the plots and crimes of America and Israel in the region, prevented completion of the prayer ceremony. Thus, the police and security officials of the royal Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, by attacking the Iranian pilgrims and non-Iranian pilgrims participating in the Komeyl prayers with sticks, clubs and tear gas, prevented the ceremony. Many brother and sister pilgrims were injured and wounded in the attack.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,072

LD071734 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0630 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Report on communique No 1,072 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, in its communique No 1,072, described the situation on the fronts. The communique, in part, reads:

Contrary to the empty claim of the disgraceful Saddam regime about carrying out a counterattack and regaining the liberated strategic regions and heights in the western part of the country, the heroic and victorious units participating in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations, while holding all the conquered regions and positions and enjoying combat and moral superiority, are depriving the enemy of the possibility of any movement and are enjoying fortified positions.

The same communique says that Islam's combatants on the other side of the (Giskeh), (Kohneh Rig) and (Miyan Tang) heights clashed with the enemy and destroyed three tanks and APC's of the Iraqi forces. Our combat patrol units also destroyed two enemy tanks and captured another beyond the (?Sanu Vafal) region.

In the operational zone in the southern part of the country, our forces defended their positions and returned the enemy's fire during the past 24 hours. In this region, our combatants are carrying out their reconnaissance and combat missions against enemy units and are continuing their operations aimed at destroying the Saddamist forces.

Islam's combatants yesterday opened fire on the oil installations and jetties of Al-Faw and (?Chahar Cheragh) setting them ablaze and destroying several enemy weapon emplacements on the opposite bank of the Arvand Rud.

At 1915 and 1933 yesterday, two aggressive enemy helicopters were hit and shot down by our fighter aircraft and air defense units.

During the operations on 4 and 5 October, 43 of our dear combatants in the ground forces and two of the valiant members of the gendarmerie attained the honor of being martyred and went to meet their creator.

VELAYATI COMMENTS ON UPCOMING UN SESSION

GF071031 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0900 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Excerpt] In a departure statement given to our correspondent at the airport, [Foreign Minister] Velayati noted that the war of the Iraqi regime, which is imposed on the Islamic Republic of Iran, is on the agenda of the UN General Assembly.

He added that the UN Security Council had earlier held an illegal session. Without paying attention to the injustice perpetrated against the Iranian people during the war and without taking into consideration the fact that Iraq began the war, the UN Security Council called for a cease-fire when the whole world knows Saddam's aggression against the Islamic Republic of Iran [led] to damage and destruction in our country and to the fall of tens of thousands of martyrs.

On the conditions of the Islamic Republic of Iran to end the war imposed by the Iraqi regime, Velayati said the Iraqi forces have to withdraw unconditionally from the points from which the war began and to pay compensation for the losses and damages inflicted on our country and the aggressor should be identified. The foreign affairs minister noted: Unless our conditions, which were announced earlier, are accepted, then accepting a cease-fire implies recognition of the aggressor.

Velayati added that during the meetings of the UN General Assembly, the Islamic Republic of Iran delegation will exploit every opportunity to hold talks with friendly countries.

COMMENTARY ATTACKS SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION

GF070413 Tehran International Service in Turkish 1830 GMT 5 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "UN Security Council and Its Resolutions"]

[Text] Dear listeners, in its session last night, which was called by the Iraqi Ba'thist regime, the UN Security Council unanimously adopted a draft resolution on the war Iraq launched against the Islamic Republic of Iran, which was drawn up and presented to the session by the Jordanian Government. This six-point resolution does not differ at all from the resolution the UN Security Council adopted 2 months ago.

The new resolution, just as in the case of the earlier one, approves of the savage attacks of the Zionist Iraqi Ba'thist regime against the Islamic Republic of Iran. The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran, Raja'i, did not participate in the session held by the UN Security Council last night. However, in a statement to the press prior to the UN Security Council vote on the resolution, Raja'i said: We do not recognize the legality of the resolution. The UN Security Council, in the course of the past 25 months, has failed to shoulder any responsibility over the argument for which it is responsible.

Meanwhile, in his detailed address, the Iraqi Ba'thist regime's foreign minister, who participated in the UN Security Council session on behalf of his country, talked about the peace-loving nature of his regime, emphasizing that both the Arab states and the rest of the countries of the world agreed on the necessity of ending the war.

However, in his detailed address, he forgot to mention even a single word about how insistant Iran, a country which has been forced by his regime to defend itself, is on the question of ending the war. In his address, the foreign minister of the Zionist Iraqi Ba'thist regime failed to mention anything about why his regime launched a wide-scale savage attack on the soil of the Islamic Republic of Iran, trampling upon all the provisions of international law and agreements. He also mentioned nothing about why this regime destroyed Iran's cities and villages during its attack, causing great moral and material losses and why it unilaterally violated the 1975 Algiers agreement. He also failed to explain why they did not accept the just demand of the Muslim people of Iran and why they are trying to spread this war to the region. He did not explain why they pretend to love and favor peace after committing so many crimes and causing so much damage.

Furthermore, in the course of the 23 months prior to Iran's unleashing its attack codenamed Jerusalem, why did organizations, conferences, all compromising countries and imperialists fail to see eye to eye on the necessity of ending the war started by the Zionist Iraqi Ba'thist regime? Indeed, there are thousands of other unanswered questions in this respect.

Yes, the UN Security Council unanimously adopted the six-point resolution after the barking of the representative of the Iraqi Ba'thist regime. Just as in the case of the address delivered by the Iraqi representative, the resolution passed by the UN Security Council brings various questions to mind. However, prior to discussing the causes of this resolution, we would like to refer briefly to the question of whether the UN Security Council is empowered to settle on the basis of justice the question of the war Iraq launched against Iran.

The UN Security Council, composed of five of the world's major powers, having the satanic right of veto, is the main cause of insecurity on the international level. It does not (?respect) the rights of nations at all. Since the establishment of the UN body, it has not respected the principle of independence, territorial integrity and sovereignty of nations -- a principle that is [word indistinct] of the UN Security Council. In fact, it has been trampling upon this principle. During this time, the five major powers referred to have endeavored to legalize attacks and violation of rights through the UN Security Council. In view of this, they have been assessing the security and independence of the nations in the direction of the interests they acquired through plunder. Thus, they have been reluctant to give a legal status to the peoples. [as heard]

As for the question related to the Islamic Republic of Iran, in addition to the few points we have already mentioned, because the UN Security Council was chairmed by the shah's representative, Husayn of Jordan -- who is the partner of the Zionist and Ba'thist Saddam -- and apart from this, because the clamors for justice of the poor Iranian people -- who have been subjected to savage attacks in the course of the war started by Iraq -- have been shown no sympathy at all, the UN Security Council is devoid of the right to act as an arbitrator and reach the necessary verdict. [sentence as heard]

Dear listeners, as is common knowledge to all, the Iraqi Ba'thist regime's military units suddenly attacked Iran 2 years ago and advanced 90 km in our land, destroying and occupying our largest cities and 1,200 town and villages. Over 1,000 factories and other establishments also were destroyed. And, as is also common knowledge to the world, the UN Security Council did not feel that this attack and the tragic situation it created posed any danger to peace and security at all. It did not bother to adopt a resolution condemning and criticizing the action of the aggressive enemy.

However, the Muslim and brave people of Iran first halted the advance of this savage attack against their homeland and then organized their operations to force the enemy out of a section of their territory. Today, they are demanding their rights from the enemy, standing as they are on their own frontiers after cleaning the dirty traces of the enemy from the remaining portion of their land.

This being the situation, the UN Security Council has passed a resolution, feeling as it did that world security was threatened. Isn't the move made by the UN Security Council tantamount to mockery of the legal rights of the peoples by the five UN Security Council members having the satanic veto right? In view of this, the UN Security Council will remain an illegal entity as long as it has the veto right and as long as the nations do not have the right to intervene in cases of injustice. [sentence as heard] This is an unconditional matter for the nation.

In the second clause of the resolution adopted last night, a clause which demanded an immediate cease-fire, the UN Security Council also reemphasized its demand that military units withdraw to internationally recognized borders. Yes, the UN Security Council is ignorant of the fact that Saddam unilaterally violated the Algiers agreement 2 years ago and pushed the borders into the Islamic Republic of Iran in a bid to control the whole of Arvad Rud River and Khuzestan and that he did not withdraw to the borders which existed prior to his attack, but is currently continuing to occupy a large strategic region of our country.

In the third clause of its resolution, the UN Security Council welcomed the fact that the Zionist Iraqi Ba'thist regime has implemented Resolution 514, dated 1982. Yes, Iraq had to abide by the resolution. This was due to the fact that the UN Security Council, convening at the request of Saddam, adopted a resolution taking into consideration the interests of the Saddam regime after the defeat of its forces at the battlefronts after 23 months of fighting and after the rejection of the legal demand of the Islamic Republic of Iran for its rights. This brought to light the partial nature and (?biased) arbitratorship of the UN Security Council.

In the course of the UN Security Council session last night, the just demand put forward by the Islamic Republic of Iran for genuine peace and for the establishment of security and stability in the region was not taken into consideration. An explanation was not given as to how the legal rights of the Iranian people would be secured from the aggressor. The resolution referred to was arranged during the night in the direction of the interests of the aggressor, tacitly telling the Muslim and brave Iranian people: You must make compromises. You must relinquish your right. You must allow the aggressor, who is the cause of instability in the region and in the Islamic Republic of Iran, to turn to its other duties in the region.

Dear listeners, we can conclude by saying that the five major powers referred to, which dominate the UN Security Council and molest the world, have officially announced that the first phase of the Zionist Iraqi Ba'thist regime's duty with regard to the Islamic Republic of Iran has ended.

CLANDESTINE DESCRIBES SITUATION IN KORDESTAN

GF061650 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 6 Oct 82

[Text] According to our correspondent, armed strugglers in Naqadeh carried out the revolutionary execution of another mullah of the Khomeyni regime. He was Mullah Mohammad Hoseynzadeh who was killed, together with his children, by a number of armed men. He was Khomeyni's representative and Naqadeh's Friday imam.

According to our correspondent, the fighters opposing the Khomeyni regime repeatedly have warned the mullahs connected with the regime to stop supporting this criminal regime or risk being executed as accomplices to the regime's crimes. The Khomeyni regime has not yet been able to arrest the people who executed Mullah Hoseynzadeh. The strugglers' task force left the scene after executing the mullah.

Our correspondent also reported that the armed Kurdish strugglers have dealt crushing blows to Khomeyni's guards around Reza'iyeh in the past 2 days. According to this report, 28 of Khomeyni's guards were killed in a heavy clash around Reza'iyeh and another group was captured by the combatant Kurdish forces. Our correspondent adds: Contrary to the propaganda of the Khomeyni regime concerning the purging of Kurdish villages, the armed Kurdish combatants continue to control their positions and so far have repulsed the guards' attacks.

According to the same report, Khomeyni's guards, in retaliation for their defeats at the hands of the armed Kurdish fighters, are using helicopter gunships against Kurdish villages and are killing women, children and civilians. In the recent clashes around Reza'iyeh, only three Kurdish fighters were wounded.

NVOI COMMENTARY VIEWS ANTI-SOVIET CLIMATE

TA072104 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Until When One Roof and Two Climates?"]

[Excerpts] Dear compatriots: The executors of America's treacherous policy within Iran are being brought before revolutionary courts, exposed and punished. After the execution of Sadeq Qotbzadeh, now some of his other associates also have been duly punished for their treacherous acts.

Such measures by the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran against treacherous plotters, as well as the unshakable struggle of the nation, which up to now have thwarted and foiled the independence-destroying plan and plots of the great Satan one after the other, have increased the wrath and vengeance of this seven-headed dragon from whose mouth spouts the poison of bondage and slavery and fire of destruction, aggression and oppression.

For this reason, it raises its head at every moment in some corner and does not refrain for one moment from subversions, creating problems and obstacles and threatening the independence and national sovereignty of our nation. It is for this reason that the Iranian nation, inspired by the repeated and effective guidelines of the imam of the nation, who repeatedly has pointed out the necessity of struggle against this number one enemy of oppressed peoples, is continuing its sacred battle with an unshakable will.

Sensing that the cutting edge of the struggles of the people of revolutionary Iran is aimed at its cowardly and subversive policies, America, in addition to threats and intimidations and resorting to various ploys and military pressure, strives by various means and conspiracies to divert the main and principle course of this struggle from its true objectives and to lead it to triteness.

One of America's evil aims, pursued by its agents and followers and counterrevolutionary elements within Iran, is anti-Soviet propaganda, a hackneyed and inadmissable example that can be seen in some of our country's press as well.

We all know that after the overthrow of the shah's criminal regime, the Soviet Union was the first government to recognize the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran. From a principled, neutral and impartial standpoint it defended the Iranian nation's national sovereignty and interests in the face of incessant threats posed by America against Iran. It condemned interference in Iran's internal affairs and explicitly declared that determining and defining the form of government and political organizations of every country, including Iran, is the concern of the people of that same country.

In its conspiratorial and subversive propaganda and activities, America strives to distort this undeniable fact confirmed by the Iranian people and to cover it with a mantle whose fabric is entirely made of lies, fabrications, slanders and unfair accusations, thus decreasing the intensity and ferocity of the anti-American struggle as much as possible, diverting its main and true course and undermining it.

Unfortunately, some of our homeland's responsible officials, now and then, whether willingly or unwillingly, explicitly or by hints and references, in connection with the unfounded and baseless accusations toward the Soviet Union, tread the same path America strives to pave. Despite the indisputable realities regarding the Soviet Union's good will, respect and support of Iran's freedom and independence, they place America and the Soviet Union on the same level.

Of course, such an unjust phenomenon is to some extent an indication of the existence of one roof and two climates, which in our view is under no circumstances consistent with the Iranian revolution's interests and goals. Placing friend and foe on the same level is not only not fair, it also indicates lack of political insight and a correct and realistic policy and, without doubt, is grist poured by such government figures into the mill of the enemy, the exposed number one enemy of the Iranian people. The entirely fabricated and false propaganda of the imperialists and America, and its masked and unmasked elements, takes place in order to impugn the facts and to divert the principled struggles of the people and to undermine these struggles. In their anti-imperialist struggle, the Iranian people can and must rely on anti-imperialist forces throughout the entire world, headed by the Soviet Union.

The existence of one roof and two climates in our homeland's political atmosphere will only result in harming these anti-imperialist and consistent struggles of the people.

IRAN VA JAHAN ON TUDEH PARTY, MULLAH'S REGIME

GF051830 Paris IRAN VA JAHAN in Persian 20 Sep 82 p 13

[Farshad Bahrami article: "Beginning of the End of the Honeymoon"]

[Text] Facts about events of the last few months of the third year of the revolution and the direction of events in the fourth year of the revolution certainly tell of a destiny-making battle. This battle, undoubtedly the most important and decisive battle in our society, clearly reflects the struggle of a large group. It began from the early days of revolutionary fervor and has now reached its most important destiny-making moments in this phase of the popular revolution of the people of our homeland.

This prediction was made by Kianuri in January 1982. The secretary general of the Iranian Tudeh Party referred to the opportunity lost during the first 1 1/2 years of the revolution because of the rule of the "liberals." He bitterly and sadly reflected: In this connection, there were such excesses that almost all the SAVAKists and monarchists received amnesty....

He cried for Articles 43 and 49 of the Constitution, which were designed to help the oppressed and take the wealth from the rich and stressed that "of course such points included in the Constitution are on their own one of the biggest achievements of the revolution and its popular aspects." And as expected on the subject of foreign policy, he concluded that only the Soviet Union can be relied upon and that "the slogan of death to the United States must continue on the same level." He added: Irrespective of the extensive and adverse propaganda against socialist countries by liberal circles and the tug of war of the media and other misinformed enemies of the socialism in the past year, the fact becomes clear to larger groups of strugglers every day that the socialist countries, headed by the Soviet Union, wholeheartedly support the Iranian revolution under the leadership of Imam Khomeyni and will continue such support. This friendly attitude and unconditional support has enabled larger groups and strata of the leadership and the combatant Islamic forces to overcome their wrong preconceptions and realize that the true friends of the Iranian revolution are the socialist countries and other revolutionary and anti-imperialist world forces.

Such remarks, however, belong to the good old days when Bani-Sadr had been ousted. [Nowadays] they are taking the mujahidin youth to the sacrificial alter by the droves and "comrades" in the guise of honorary officials of the regime reveal their hideouts and catch them. "Brother Khamene'i" is the president and the other "brother," Musavi, has become the prime minister. The Tudeh Party is the sole contender and controls an extensive portion of the media. It infiltrates committees of government departments and factories and is enjoying a flowery honeymoon. The war with Iraq, irresponsible actions, a lack of specialists and a tilt toward the East, which has been unable to solve its own most basic problems after many years, are gradually showing their effects. The currency reserves and other reserves gradually are diminishing and the money retrieved from the United States has been spent. The plundered wealth is spent; printing new notes has reached such a level that it is no longer worthwhile since it only increases the prices to the same extent; there is a shortage of everything; unemployment is growing and the wave of war refugees and the jobless is growing.

The Friday prayers with all the preparations and irrespective of the fact that any problem has to be solved through the mosques -- a road which leads to Friday prayers -- have lost their popularity and the wave of assassinations and the "achievement of the presence of God by brothers" severely has reduced any contact between the mullahs and the people. The only remaining contact is through the mass media and this leaves very little for those with other opinions.

It seems that should the border war end, two ways remain open for the temporary continuation of the rootless regime that survives by whipping up public opinion. They are: murder of Baha'is or a clash with the Tudeh Party. The first alternative already has been planned. The change of identify cards and withholding them from the "heathens" will, in fact, cause the gradual death of this meek group. However, the instinct for self-preservation has increased the market for [Ayatollah] 'Allameh-Nuri and we can see photographs of people in this group in the daily publications, who stress hatred for the "atheist Baha'i sect" and seek refuge in the "arms of Islam." The daily defeats in the war has posed the second way and it seems that the skin is finally going to the tannery.

The Tudeh Party publication in its 22 May issue in an angry and at the same time begging tone writes: Unfortunately, we have to say that the success of the revolution is not complete and.... This indicates that secularist circles and ignorant friends are moving against the establishment of the laws of the revolution and are, in fact, aiding the counterrevolutionaries by such moves -- the counterrevolutionaries, whose agents are unfortunately still present in government and revolutionary organizations. The American leftovers, which in the words of Imam Khomeyni are still present, try on the one hand to stop the implementation of revolutionary laws and on the other hand to break them and in a dictatorial way actively implement their own laws in the guise of being Islamic and revolutionary. Base insults and allegations against individuals and organizations, illegal violation of rights and ignoring the rights of the organizations and individuals -- clearly outlined in the Constitution -- or the ruthless violation of such rights are all examples of such lawbreaking, which unfortunately are being committed not only by the open or secret counterrevolutionaries but also by the ignorant friends of the revolution who also have some responsibilities.

In the past week, the "ignorant friends" were Musavi-Ardabili and the regime's spokesman Tavakkoli. Musavi-Ardabili, chief justice of the regime [as published] and the acting Friday imam of Tehran, said: The Tudeh Party claimed that it was a follower of the imam's line but when the issue of the war reached its sensitive point, in an analysis, it injected its venom and picked up the line of its master.

Ahmad Tavakkli, the regime's spokesman and labor minister, has divided the enemy and adds the "followers of the imam's line" -- the Tudeh Party -- with Feda'iyan and the hyprocrites and refers to them as the shameless pickled ones in the Tudeh Party.

The RAH-E TUDEH in an editorial in its 30 July issue writes: Our revolutionary homeland at the moment is passing through sensitive days in its history and difficulties have risen for the policies of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the region. The final goal of the United States is to weaken revolutionary Iran and to reduce its power through struggles in order to prepare the grounds for the overthrow of the Islamic Republic.

Nuroddin Kianuri, grandson of Sheykh Fazlollah Nuri -- a mullah who supported despotism at the time of the constitutional uprising and was a Soviet puppet during his life -- irrespective of his close ties, makes the mistake of not realizing that the mullahs stop at nothing to maintain their position and many historical events and the events of the past few years in Iran have proved that you should not enter the well hanging from their frayed rope. Isn't this the beginning of the end of the honeymoon?

PLO

'Arafat Talks in Jordan -- At the first round of talks on 9 October between PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat and Jordan's King Husayn, the two sides made a general assessment of the Fes Arab summit resolutions. They discussed political action for an Israeli withdrawal from the "occupied territories" as well as the Jordanian-Palestinain "special relationship," Amman radio reported. According to the JORDAN TIMES, PLO sources said a formula for joint action was worked out the first day. The strategy calls for the formation of committees to promote a joint accord. The paper reports that this strategy will soon be put before the Palestine National Council. The paper also says that on 10 October the two leaders discussed details of the joint formula. Citing an informed source, the Kuwaiti paper AL-QABAS asserted that the talks dealt with specifics for a joint federation, including separate passports and armies.

At an 11 October meeting in Amman of members of the PLO Executive Committee, Central Council and Palestine National Council, 'Arafat stated that his talks were "very positive" and stressed that Jordanian-Palestinian relations are "close," Amman television reported. 'Arafat added that King Husayn sent an envoy to Lebanon to ask the Lebanese Army to stop the "harassment" of Palestinians. That day, 'Arafat met with Jordanian Prime Minister Mudar Badran to discuss relations, and both sides called for increased Arab support for the Palestinians, the television noted. At a gathering at the PLO's Amman office, 'Arafat warned that fighting will soon erupt in the Al-Biqa' Valley and that "big surprises" are coming, San'a' Voice of Palestine radio said.

In another development, a source cited by Beirut radio affirmed that 'Arafat and King Husayn will visit the USSR and the PRC together to brief these countries on the Arab peace plan.

PLO Stands on Confederation, Reagan Plan -- In an interview with Monte Carlo radio, Khalid al-Hasan, chairman of the Palestine National Council's Foreign Relations Committee, expressed support for a Palestinian-Jordanian confederation. Although he praised various points in the Reagan plan, he insisted that an Israeli withdrawal from the "occupied territories" must precede any elections in Palestine. He stressed that the question of recognition of other states is only possible within the context of an established state.

PLO spokesman Mahmud al-labadi declared in Amman that the PLO is prepared to negotiate with the United States on the basis of the Reagan peace plan, because the PLO recognizes U.S. influence on Israel, Cairo radio reported. He added that the PLO is inclined toward a Palestinian-Jordanian federation after a Palestinian has been formed. PLO Executive Committee official Ahmad Sidqi ad-dajani said in an AL-AHRAM interview cited by MENA that the PLO Executive Council will meet in Tunis to define its policy and to discuss the Reagan initiative.

Rome Synagogue Attack

One child was killed and 30 persons were injured when terrorists launched a gun and grenade attack against worshippers at a Rome synagogue on 9 October, ANSA reported. The report noted that the unidentified attackers escaped. According to San'a' Voice of Palestine, PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat sent a cable to the Italian president expressing sorrow over the crime. The PLO representative in Italy condemned the attack and stressed PLO solidarity with the Jewish community regarding this "horrible assault," AFP reported. However, Aden Voice of Palestine radio said the envoy blamed "Zionist intelligence" for the crime in its attempt to undermine the Palestinian struggle.

Monte Carlo radio said the "Fire Group of the PLO," belonging to the Red Brigades organization, claimed responsibility for the attack. Jerusalem radio reported that the Israeli Foreign Ministry strongly condemned the attack. MA'ARIV disclosed through Jerusalem political sources that Israel blames Italy for the crime because it ignored warnings of such attacks and indirectly encouraged such events by supporting the PLO.

Israel

A 10 October Cabinet statement, reported by IDF radio, asserted that Israel still desires a peace agreement with Lebanon, although the Cabinet secretary emphasized that this is not a precondition for an IDF withdrawal. In the statement, Israel called for immediate negotiations to remove all foreign forces from Lebanon and stressed that the IDF and Syrians should leave simultaneously after the withdrawal of "terrorists" from Al-Biqa' and northern Lebanon. Before the evacuation, it declared, the IDF must receive all dead and captured IDF soldiers and security arrangements must be made for southern Lebanon. Jerusalem radio revealed that these arrangements will include a role for the Lebanese Army and Christian militia commander Sa'd Haddad. The radio noted that there is optimism for a Lebanese-Israeli peace agreement and that specifics for a plan for Lebanon will be discussed at the 13 October Cabinet session. Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon told the Cabinet that there must be a peace settlement with Lebanon and accused the United States of "sabotaging" Israeli-Lebanese attempts at negotiations, according to the radio, which noted that some ministers objected to this accusation.

Meanwhile, a Foreign Ministry spokesman insisted that Israel still demands the withdrawal of the PLO from Lebanon before an IDF departure begins, Jerusalem radio asserted. The radio said officials affirmed that the United States does not oppose this position.

Lebanon

An Israeli officer was wounded when gunmen fired at an IDF patrol in 'Alayh on 10 October, IDF radio reported. While Jerusalem radio said the Israeli was caught in the cross-fire between warring Phalangist and Druze militias, Voice of Lebanon radio cited a WAFA report that the Palestinian-Lebanese joint forces claimed responsibility for the attack. Earlier, ITIM and the Israeli paper 'AL HAMISHMAR reported that the Phalangists and the Druze had engaged in violent clashes involving killings and kidnappings.

In the wake of alleged cease-fire violations in the eastern sector, Israeli military sources cited by IDF radio on 11 October said the Syrians have again granted permission to the "terrorists" to operate against the IDF in the Al-Biqa' area. Although Voice of Lebanon radio cited reports of Palestinian withdrawals from northern Lebanon, DFLP Secretary General Nayif Hawatimah stressed in an interview reported by AFP that the Palestinian forces will remain in eastern and northern Lebanon until the Israelis leave and the Palestinain civilians in Lebanon are given Lebanese, Arab and UN guarantees.

Meanwhile, the Labanese Army continued its search for arms, wanted people and illegal immigrants in West Beirut, Beirut radio reported. According to army command communiques reported by the radio and by the Voice of Lebanon, 96 persons were arrested in these security operations 9-11 October. The clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio accused the army of a "campaign of harassment" against West Beirut residents and criticized the authorities for failing to implement security measures in East Beirut. However, the radio subsequently reported that Phalangist Party leader Pierre al-Jumayyil has accepted the security plan for East Beirut and has invited the government to deploy the army there, asserting that anyone who opposes the security plan is a "traitor and an Israeli agent." According to the Voice of Lebanon, the Phalangist leader stressed to his party's Political Bureau and Central Council the need to maintain discipline and facilitate the government's efforts to restore its control over all Lebanese territory without exception. An earlier AFP report indicated that the plan to uncover arms caches in East Beirut has been delayed by the opposition of Christian militia.

A Phalangist Party official was among a number of Lebanese men recently released by Syrian authorities, according to Voice of Lebanon radio.

Syria

President Hafiz al-Asad and British Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs Francis Pym met in Damascus on 10 October to discuss the Middle East situation, Damascus radio reported. Al-Asad stressed the European role in influencing U.S. opinion and asserted that if the United States is serious in working for peace it should stop supplying arms to Israel. Meanwhile, Syrian Information Minister Ahmad Iskandar Ahmad told a Damascus press conference that the latest U.S. peace plan is a "retreat" from previous U.S. positions on the Middle East and cited various examples of Reagan plan deficiencies, according to Monte Carlo radio reports. He conceded that the Fes Arab summit peace plan refers to Israel in one of its articles. This concession was later described as "insignificant" by Israeli sources cited by IDF radio. On PLO leader 'Arafat's visit to Jordan, Iskandar Ahmad said Syria believes no one is entitled to deal unilaterally with the Palestinian cause and all PLO decisions must have Executive Committee approval. He said there is no problem in Syria's relations with Lebanon and described its relations with the USSR as "excellent," adding that Soviet weapons are "trustworthy." He admitted that the air force is weak but asserted that Syrian weaponry will soon equal U.S. quality. He described relations with the United States as an "open dialogue between two contradictory sides." While stressing that all IDF soldiers must leave Lebanon before Syrian troops withdraw, he asserted that the PLO withdrawal is an issue for the Lebanese Government to resolve with the PLO. Iskandar Ahmad told the NEW YORK TIMES that Syria will recognize Israel if the Israelis withdraw from the Golan Heights and occupied Arab territories and recognize Palestinian rights, the radio also reported.

Saudi-Iranian Pilgrims Dispute

Riyadh radio announced on 8 October that 69 Iranian pilgrims were arrested and deported for chanting political slogans that violated Islamic rites. It added that the gathering near Medina was instigated by Iranian pilgrim affairs supervisor Mohammad Hoseyn Musavi-Kho'ini. Tehran radio alleged that Saudi forces carried out a "savage attack" and injured a number of pilgrims, but this was denied by the Saudi interior minister in a statement cited by SPA. The Saudi minister asserted that the Iranians were disturbing other pilgrims and that the troubles were instigated by leaders of the Iranian group. The minister also revealed that Musavi-Kho'ini and 140 of his followers had been deported by late 9 October.

The Saudi envoy in Tehran was summoned by an Iranian Foreign Ministry official to receive a protest note on the expulsion of pilgrims and the "barbarous attacks" by Saudi police, which the official said only promote the interests of "arrogance and Zionism," Tehran radio reported. The Islamic Consultative Assembly, in a statement cited by IRNA, warned Saudi Arabia to learn from what happened to the ex-shah of Iran, who relied on U.S. support and was allied with Israel. In another development, Ayatollah Hoseyn 'Ali Montazeri sent a message to Islamic scholars criticizing the "American Saudi regime" for the arrest and deportation of Iranian pilgrims. The message, carried by Tehran radio, asserted that a council of representatives of Islamic nations must be appointed to administer the holy places of Mecca and Medina in place of the current control by "Satan."

An Iranian military communique carried by Tehran radio announced on 10 October that an Iraqi fighter was shot down inside Iraq, but this was later denied by an Iraqi military official cited by INA. IRNA reported that Iranian forces killed 20 Iraqis and destroyed 13 tanks near Sumar on 9 October. Iraqi communiques carried by INA asserted that the air force flew 114 combat missions over the Mandali region on 8 October and downed an Iranian Phantom after a dogfight near Ilam 2 days later. Another communique carried by Baghdad radio said that 54 Iranians died in the central battle sector, while Iraqi Air Force raids continued near Mandali and "deep" inside Iran. Meanwhile, an 11 October Iranian communique carried by Tehran radio announced that an Iraqi MiG-23 was shot down in the western sector.

On the diplomatic front, Iraqi President Saddam Husayn declared that Iraq has no preconditions for a peace agreement with Iran, adding that what is necessary is mutual respect for sovereignty, INA reported.

Egypt

Mubarak Diplomacy -- President Husni Mubarak flew to Khartoum on 12 October for a 2-day visit during which he will sign an Egyptian-Sudanese integration charter with Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri, MENA reported. The previous day, Mubarak received visiting British Foreign Secretary Pym, MENA noted.

Suspects Released -- Fifty-eight detainees arrested on suspicion of involvement in the "Al-Jihad" plot to overthrow the government were released on 10 October, AFP reported, citing Egyptian newspapers.

U.S. SENATE RESOLUTION CALLED 'INTERFERENCE'

LD081006 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 7 Oct 82

[Statement by BAKHTAR information agency]

[Text] Our dear compatriots are aware that a while ago the Americans [words indistinct] at a press conference presented to journalists a new U.S. Senate resolution which is another document for U.S. imperialism to interfere in the internal affairs of the free and independent country of the DRA.

The U.S. Senate's approval of this document in accordance with which weapons, ammunition and money will be provided for counterrevolution in Afghanistan demonstrates that the murderous groups, lackeys of international imperialism, are on the brink of destruction, and this latest endeavor by the U.S. Senate is aimed at salvaging the last remnants from destruction. The heroic and revolutionary people of Afghanistan are aware that whenever they inflict harsh blows on counterrevolutionaries the pain is felt by imperialist centers, particularly U.S. imperialism. These centers then strive to use any remaining possibilities to salvage these servant lackeys who are the protectors of imperialist interests.

The people of Afghanistan explicitly and vigorously denounce the approval of the new U.S. Senate bill and such interferences in the affairs of the independent and free country of the DRA, and regard it as a direct result of the formidable victories achieved recently by the heroic army, security forces, people and earnest defenders of our working people's aspirations in the task of ridding the sacred land of Afghanistan of counterrevolution. The U.S. world-devouring [word indistinct] machinery whose evil expansionist hands recently were soiled with the blood of thousands of Lebanese and Palestinian martyred Muslims and has gained nothing except the world public's hateful feelings, has this time removed the black mask it had been wearing to cover its interference in the internal affairs of Afghanistan, and in the middle of international exposure it had to promise official assistance to Afghanistan counterrevolution.

The people of the DRA, who clearly recognize this enemy of all awakened masses of the world and who had information long ago through evidence and documents proving U.S. interference in their private affairs, will regard the approval of this bill as the start of another new adventurous design by the warmongering imperialists for further clear interference in their country and remind these imperialists of the unfortunate consequence of their intervention in other parts of the world.

The national democratic revolution of Afghanistan today is backed by the millions of brave and heroic people in the country and is irreversibly carrying our society toward the bright horizons of the abolition of all kinds of despotism and cruelty and toward the creation of a prosperous future. The mobilization of all toilers and their [word indistinct] on the path of revolution is a serious warning to all enemies of humanity's progress not to underestimate the combatant capability of this revolutionary conscious nation and not to disturb their peace.

The U.S. Senate must know that the decision for broadening the undeclared war which from the start of the April Revolution has been continuously carried out by the United States and all other reactionary and hegemonist forces against the noble people of Afghanistan is another dangerous game which further complicates events in Afghanistan and which will have a direct effect on the region's stability and peace.

The enemies of the Afghan revolution must know that the people of Afghanistan are grateful for the USSR's fraternal and internationalist assistance, rendered in difficult days when the existence of revolution in the country was at stake, for the defense of the DRA's national independence and territorial integrity. The presence of limited Soviet military units which are stationed in the DRA in accordance with the wishes of the people and the DRA Government in order to cooperate in foiling external interference in our country's internal affairs is an issue that concerns the DRA and the USSR.

The DRA, which is seeking a peaceful solution to issues around Afghanistan through constructive proposals and the end of imperialist interference in its internal affairs, will regard as a negative step any kind of intensification in the undeclared war against Afghanistan during the processes of a peaceful solution to the issues through talks and believes that, at the present crucial stage, instead of disruption, all possibilities must be used for the victory of reason and diplomacy.

HOME MINISTER ON 11 OCTOBER DELHI SHOOTING

BK120954 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] Home Minister P.C. Sethi said it is unfortunate that certain elements did not reciprocate government's gesture in permitting a processing from Gurdwara Bangla Saheb to Gurdwara Rakabgunj near Parliament House yesterday.

The permission had been granted on the firm assurance given by the organizers that it was a religious and peaceful procession with no agitational program. But some people in the procession broke the police cordon, shouting slogans and ran toward north block in Parliment House. When the police chased them, they were subjected to heavy brick-batting.

Sethi was making a statement in parliament on yesterday's incident adjacent to Parliament House complex in which four persons were killed in police firing and five others were injured. He told the members that most of the processionists were carrying kirpans, swords and spears and they were brandished on policemen.

A group of processionists entered the wire fencing outside Parliament House and attacked police personnel who intercepted them. The police had therefore to open fire. A large number of police officials including the commissioner of police received injuries. The mob set fire to four police motorcycles and stoned some Delhi Transport Corporation buses besides causing extensive damage to street lights.

The home minister said that the government has all along respected the religious feelings of the Sikh community. It is sympathetic to their legitimate grievances. It was for these reasons that permission had been given to take out the procession. Unfortunately, the governments gesture was not reciprocated. It was a matter of deep regret that four persons lost their lives in the incident.

Some opposition members in the Lok Sabha had given notices of adjournment motion on the subject, but the speaker ruled them out. He said the house could discuss the incident if the business advisory committee agreed.

Replying to questions in the Rajya Sabha, the home minister said precautions have been taken to ensure that yesterday's incident does not create more problems in Punjab and other states. He made it clear that, if talks are resumed with Akalis, these will not be confined to religious issues but will cover a wide area. Sethi said the terms of reference of the judicial inquiry ordered yesterday includes the adequacy of force used by the police, the causes and the sequences of the event and remedial measures to prevent the recurrence of such events.

The home minister said the Punjab Government has already ordered a magisterial inquiry into the railway accident near Taran Taran. He will convey to the state government the demands for a judicial inquiry.

Earlier, several members welcomed the government's prompt decision to order a judicial inquiry into yesterday's incident. Demands were made for the resumption of talks with the Akalis. An Akali member said that yesterday's trouble was created by some mischief-mongers who did not belong to her party.

A number of lawyers from the Supreme Court and the Delhi High Court have criticised the Akali morcha [Agitation] in support of the Anandpur Saheb resolution. In a statement in New Delhi, they said that constitutional issues of such importance could only be resolved through negotiations and within the constitutional framework. The statement said by adopting an extremist attitude the Akali leaders are doing a disservice to the long term interest of those whose cause they claim to espouse.

SAUDI TREATMENT OF PILGRIMS REPORTED, PROTESTED

Foreign Ministry Statement

LD081234 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Foreign Affairs Ministry statement on 8 October]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In yet another attempt to stifle the exposing shouts of Iranian pilgrims by a barbarous attack on the religious rites of the Komeyl prayers in Medina, the Saudi police has subjected a large number of our faithful struggling compatriots to assault and battery.

The Islamic Republic of Iran's Foreign Affairs Ministry considers such hostile stands toward the pilgrims' shouts against imperialist arrogance as stemming from a deep-rooted desire [peyvand] to protect U.S. and Zionist interests in the region and believes that such oppressive measures, meted out to such defenseless pilgrims who have no other goal than the exaltation of Islam and the annihilation of the enemies of Islam, by a government which despite its vast oil resources, tremendous currency reserves in Western banks and advanced U.S. hardware has endorsed with its silence and indifference onslaughts by the Zionist regime against Islamic territories, can have no other motive but revenge.

The Islamic Republic of Iran's Foreign Affairs Ministry condemns the latest attack by the Saudi police in Medina on pilgrims to Allah's holy house, proclaims that it is world arrogance and Zionism that directly sense danger in the unity of the Muslims and in their justice-seeking shouts in the religious-political pilgrimage rites and, consequently, deems any disruption of the exposing demonstrations by Muslims as a step toward serving the interests of arrogance and Zionism.

Saudi Envoy Summoned

LD081146 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that the Saudi charge d'affaires in Tehran this morning was summoned to the Foreign Affairs Ministry and a protest was made to him by Sheykh ol-Eslam, political under secretary at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, in connection with the assault and battery of Iranian hajj pilgrims to Allah's holy house in Medina. In this meeting, the political under secretary at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, enumerating the instances of assault and battery and acts of violence committed by the Saudi police against Iranian pilgrims to which reference has been made in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs official protest, demanded an official reply from the Saudi Government.

Attack on Mission Building

LD081312 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that following the savage attack carried out last night by Saudi special agents and a number of mercenaries on the Komeyl prayers gathering of the Iranian hajj pilgrims alongside the Al-Baqi' cemetery late last night, the Saudi police in Medina, equipped with helmets, shields and electric truncheons, and supported by club-wielding mercenaries, attacked the imam's mission building using sticks, clubs, stones, tear gas and fire engines, smashing windows and ground floor furniture and cutting telephone and power cables and the building's water supply. During the raid, the Saudi forces beat up and verbally attacked the hajj pilgrims, wounding and injuring a number of them.

The reaction of the Iranian hajj pilgrims residing in the mission building to these inhumane and wild actions was simply to chant God is great and death to America and Israel. According to this report, the Saudi forces followed this by occupying the ground floor of the mission building, preventing people from entering and leaving, cordoned off the building and continued their inhumane provocations until morning.

Following the Saudi agents' savage behavior, the Iranian hajj pilgrims went up to the rooftops and chanted the enemy-crushing cry of God is great in protest.

The report states that, during this wild raid, the Saudi forces first prevented the transfer of wounded to the Islamic Republic of Iran Red Crescent hospital, but that eventually as a result of the pilgrim's insistence a number of them were taken to the hospital and others were arrested by the Saudi police. Meanwhile, the police and Saudi special forces prevented the Islamic Republic of Iran Red Crescent ambulances from transporting the wounded to the hospital, and the police and a number of mercenaries attacked two ambulances, using sticks, stones and truncheons, smashing their windows and arresting the doctors and ambulance drivers.

Deportation of Kho'ini - led Delegation

LD091140 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report following the barbarous attack launched by the Saudi police against the imam's mission in Medina, which took place during observance of the Kemeyl prayers ritual, hundreds of policeman closed the streets and alleyways in the vicinity and surrounded the mission building yesterday afternoon. Nearly 100 of them entered the various floors of the buildings.

In the meantime, police officers carried off Musavi Kho'ini, the imam's representative and supervisor of the Iranian pilgrims from various countries who had congregated around the mission. The entourage was carried off to Medina Airport.

At Medina Airport, where a large number of military forces were deployed on the runway, the imam's representative and his entourage were put aboard a C-130 military aircraft, previously made ready for this very purpose, and taken to Jidda Airport.

At Jidda Airport, where a large number of Saudi military and security forces were deployed, the imam's representative and his accompanying delegation were put aboard an Islamic Republic of Iran aircraft leaving for the holy city of Mashhad and were sent to Iran.

Kho'ini Message to Pilgrims

LD091744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that the imam's representative and supervisor of Iranian pilgrims, Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi Kho'ini, sent a message to the Iranian pilgrims. While condemning the ungainly attempts made by Saudi agents to silence the legitimate voices of the pilgrims, the message says: These rulers, who rely on the bayonet, do not realize that American methods in confronting the people, whose slogan is, Allah is great, and whose weapons are their faith in God, were rendered useless a long time ago.

The statement adds: The Saudi rulers truly manifested their nature through their treatment of the pilgrims to Mecca, particularly the Iranian pilgrims. They also revealed their covert relations with Israel. As for you, who are crusaders in the path of God, you too demonstrated that you are the uncompromising enemies of global infidels, led by America, as well as the usurping Israel. God willing, the great Iranian nation, led by its eminent imam, will become the standard bearer for the liberation of Jerusalem and annihilation of Israel.

I consider it my duty to express my gratitude to the Iranian pilgrims and other esteemed pilgrims from other Islamic countries, who managed to extend their cooperation, as much as they could, to the Iranian pilgrims in the light of the repression of the Saudi police.

Ayatollah Montazeri Message

LD101506 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the following message was issued by His Eminence Ayatollah Montazeri to the scholars and intellectuals of Islamic countries in connection with the savage conduct of the American Saudi regime, the expulsion of the imam's representative and the beating up and insulting of the Iranian pilgrims at God's holy house by this country's mercenary police:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful.

Great Islamic ummah, scholars and thinkers of Islamic lands, may God, the most exalted, assist you.

Surely you are aware of the recent treatment of the oppressed Iranian hajj pilgrims and of the representative of the great leader of the Islamic revolution, His Eminence Imam Khomeyni, and the beating up, insults, arrest and expulsion to which they were subjected, and the violation of the sanctity of God's holy house and the other holy shrines, all perpetrated by the American Saudi regime.

The sin of the Iranian hajj pilgrims was to revive the Muhammadan tradition, to enlighten the world's Muslims to the oppression imposed by the world's blasphemy and the usurping Israel, to express revulsion at them and invite Muslims to unite.

These inhumane actions were carried out by a regime, which serves as a strong base for America and Israel in the region, during the great hajj ceremonies and during the prayers of the Iranian hajj pilgrims at Medina, at a time when the world's Muslims, more than at any other time, need unity of expression and sympathy with one another in the face of full-scale attacks by the Western and Eastern colonialists, the usurping Israel and the aggressive Ba'thist regime against their holy places, their land and against the deprived masses. It is during the glorious hajj ceremonies that the Muslims must make full use of the gathering to urge the unity of the Muslims and to enforce monotheism. On the holy Koran's orders the holy house of God must be used as the venue for Muslims to rise up.

All hajj pilgrims from Islamic countries closely witnessed the suppression in this country and the anti-Islamic treatment by the Saudi executioners of the Iranian hajj pilgrims and of those who intended to contact them and communicate with them.

This regime, which comprises a pleasure-seeking Najdi family, was created more than half a century ago by the British colonialists with sinister and shameful intentions and the British colonialists usged all illiterate and hireling bedouin to oppress the Muslim nation, and they put him and his discredited family, who are unfamiliar with Islam and Arabic and Islamic honor, in charge of administrating the holy sanctuaries at Mecca and Medina.

Today, the treacherous and pleasure-seeking Saudi rulers render the best service to the enemies of Islam in the region, headed by the arch-satan. All the crimes committed by America and Israel in the region, the massacre of the Muslims of Lebanon and Palestine, the wheeling and dealing with Israel on the Palestinian movement and the Muslim holy places, conferences such as the one at Fes, and so on, and the treacherous and disgraceful treaties such as Camp David are carried out on the initiative and with the collaboration of this corrupt and anti-Islamic regime. By taking possession of the God-given wealth, including oil, which is the lifeline of Europe and America, this regime has made the Islamic Arabian Peninsula dependent on America, the West, in every field. The Muslim and oppressed nation of Arabia, apart from a minority attached to the filthy royal court and apart from the regime's mercenaries, live in extraordinary material and cultural poverty.

The American capitalists and advisers in Saudi Arabia enjoy absolute immunity and authority. The regime's oil revenues, apart from being spent on legendary pleasure games and the golden palaces of Saudi rulers and princes, are used in American and European banks as a cover for the banknotes and the economy of the shaky [word indistinct] of the regime's masters.

Ignorant pseudoclerymen, who are unaware of Islam, of the Koran and of the religion's traditions, play an important role in consolidating this American pleasure-seeking regime. They are usually mercenaries of the regime's security machine and do not allow the deprived nation of Arabia any thought and movement. Nevertheless, through the government's loudspeakers, they disseminate fantasies and fabrications that are hated by the Sunni ulema and by the Islamic world, as if these fantasies were the religion and tradition of God's great prophet, while keeping their own nation in ignorance.

Despite all this, I do not know how the world's Muslims, the great Islamic thinkers and the progressive (?scholars) of the Islamic and Arab world permit the two holy sanctuaries of Mecca and Medina, which are the holiest places on earth, to be in the hands of a bunch of pleasure-seekers and mercenaries, not allowing the Muslims to make spiritual, political and human gains from the holy house of Allah, from those reviving and destiny-making ceremonies, from the miracle and holiness of the Mosque of the Prophet, may peace be upon him and his scion, and from so much teaching and constructive work.

For how long must Satan rule the house of God? Does the religious conscience of the Muslims allow such a house, with so much grace and holiness, which must be the origin of all freedoms, liberations and divine and human values, to be administrated by the most corrupt regime, allow a person whose dependence, his state of pleasure seeking, moral corruption and evil are known to free nations, to be responsible for shaping the destiny of these two great sanctuaries, not letting nations and those anxious to visit the house of God and of His honorable prophet determine the destiny of this world and the other world in these [word indistinct] and holy lands for a short time?

The great Islamic nation must find a solution and cure for this public tragedy. The progressive Arab and non-Arab [word indistinct] must no longer tolerate such oppression against their history and their sanctities. A council of representatives of Islamic nations and countries must be appointed to administer the two holy sanctuaries.

The Muslim nation of the Arabian Peninsula, particularly the committed intellectuals and the liberated clerymen, must know that freedom must be purchased at a high price. The experience of the vilified fraternal nation in Islamic Iran is the best model and symbol for them. With complete coordination, using the weapon of faith and the slogan of monotheism and with inspiration from the decisive and awakening leadership of the great leader of the revolution, the Iranians managed to rid themselves of the yoke of the several-thousand-year-old captivity, overthrow the satanic regime with all its pomposity and replace it with the rule of God.

I beg the almighty for victory and glory for Islam and the Muslims, for the salvation and liberation of the sacred places and the Islamic lands from the paws of Satan and the agents of the world's blasphemy and for victory for the brave combatants on all fronts.

Peace and God's mercy and blessings be upon you.

Kho'ini: Attack Preplanned

LD101236 Tehran IRNA in English 1025 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] Mashhad, Oct 10, IRNA -- Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Kho'ini said that the Saudi officials were thinking in vain that they could stop the revolutionary movement of the Iranian pilgrims by expelling one or few Iranians.

"The message of the (Islamic) revolution had already reached other Islamic and non-Islamic countries before the arrival of the Iranian pilgrims (in Mecca)," he said.

The representatives of Imam Khomeyni for this year's hajj ceremonies told IRNA reporter here last night that the savage attack of the Saudi "club-wielders" on the Iranian pilgrims in Medina Thursday night was pre-arranged.

Kho'ini said that the Saudi police first broke the windows of the first floor of the Iranian headquarters and then wounded a large number of Iranian pilgrims after they had been dizzied by tear gas. He added that telephone and electricity had been cut off and photographic equipment were destroyed by the police.

Later the police arrested Kho'ini and other Iranian officials while the building was surrounded by more than 1,000 security men and transferred them to the airport to board a military plane for Jidda and from there back to Iran on a regular flight.

Iranian pilgrims and Saudi security forces clashed several times during this year's hajj ceremonies only for the simple reason that the Iranians wanted to denounce the crimes in Lebanon.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini said that Muslims from other countries showed great interest for Imam Khomeyni and the Islamic revolution, although they had many difficulties in having contacts with the Iranian pilgrim centres because of pressure from the regime.

"The Iranian pilgrims gave the message of the revolution effectively to the Muslim's participating in the great congress of hajj despite all hurdles and difficulties created by the fascist (pro) American police of Saudi Arabia," he said.

The Muslims from other countries were very much impressed when they saw the courageous venture of their Iranian counterparts who broke the atmosphere of suppression which was created by the Saudi police, Kho'ini said and pointed out that the Muslims were also encouraged and joined the Iranians while they were shouting slogans of "Death to Israel" and "Death to America."

MAJLIS MEMBERS REMIND SAUDIS OF SHAH'S FATE

LD102104 Tehran IRNA in English 2017 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 10 (IRNA) -- In a communique published here [word indistinct], the representatives of the Islamic Consultative Assembly warned the Saudi Government to learn from what had happened to the ex-shah who was a supporter of U.S. and Zionist interests in the region.

The communique signed by a group of 150 Majlis representatives said that the Saudi Government had assaulted and arrested hundreds of Iranian pilgrims in Saudi Arabia only because they were chanting slogans in condemnation of the U.S. Government and the regime occupying Al-Quds. Excerpts:

"...club-wielders in Saudi Arabia are trying to suppress the call of 'Death to the United States, death to Israel' in the throat of tens of thousands of free Muslims in the lofty bastion of monotheism and in the historical centre for struggle against heresy and oppression. This shameful action takes place not long after the Zionist murderers have massacred thousands of people in Lebanon solely on charges of being Muslims and Palestinians. While such crimes were being perpetrated, the pioneers in reactionary movements in the Muslim world, and the miserable supports of the U.S. policy were busy bringing the most ignominous shame of the contemporary history of Arabs and Islam upon Muslims by guaranteeing in the Fes conference security for the regime occupying Palestine...."

"But naturally to call such slogans as 'God is great' or 'Muslims join together' or 'Death to the United States, death to Israel' in an environment permeated with AWACS, and soiled with the presence of American expatriates, and in a country whose oil resources are the principal backing for the aggression of world oppression, and whose bazaars are ideal outlets for the preying capitalists of the world is certainly a felonious crime. It is not surprising that the guardians of the interests of the world oppression should encounter the pioneers of the revolution of the Muslim world, with sticks and clubs, and why they fling under boots the revolutionary and pious Muslim men and women...."

"We hereby warn the men in power in Saudi Arabia to observe as an object lesson, the outcome of the ex-shah who relied on the U.S. support and who was committed to the world oppression and in alliance with Israel. Let them remember that despite innumerable machinations, the Islamic revolution is spreading with the passing of each day, and let them rest assured that their ignominious acts would only serve to increase the spread of this revolution, and would serve to vindicate the legitimacy of the Islamic Republic of Iran and further prove the grandeur of the magnanimous leader of the Islamic revolution and the wrongs done to the brave progeny of this revolution in the eyes of the Muslim world."

KHO'INI URGES MUSLIMS TO PREPARE FOR NEXT HAJJ

LD111126 Tehran IRNA in English 0911 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 10, IRNA -- The world Muslims should even now think and prepare for the forthcoming hajj next year, in order that the Saudi rulers may not be the ultimate decision makers in relation to the problems of Muslims, Hojjat ol-Eslam Kho'ini was quoted as saying here today.

Kho'ini, who led the Iranian hajj pilgrims to Mecca last month, was expelled by the Saudi Government two days ago in the wake of demonstrations there by the pilgriming Iranians in condemnation of the U.S. Government and the regime occupying Al-Quds.

In an interview he gave here upon his arrival from Mashhad today he said it was suprising that the Saudi officials considered as blasphemous the calling of slogans against the United States and the regime occupying Al-Quds while they fully legitimized and declared as being in keeping with dictates of Islam the flight of the AWACS over Qaba' [shrine in Mecca] and offering of the fuel of the oppressed and impoverished Muslims of Saudi Arabia to the United States and the regime occupying Al-Quds.

Excerpts: "We consider it as being the religious right of every Muslim to be informed of the status and of the problems of other Muslims. During the hajj ceremonies this year we insisted that Muslims should be kept informed of the plights of each other, and that they should not remain silent vis-a-vis the plots of the colonialist countries...."

"The Saudi potentates consider as being un-Islamic, the humanistic and Islamic gestures of Iranian pilgrims in Saudi Arabia whereby they shouted 'Death to the United States' and 'Death to Israel', whereas in contrast they do not consider the flight of the U.S. AWACS over the house of Qaba' nor do they seem to be in the least concerned about their offering of the fuel of the oppressed and impoverished masses to the United States and Israel...."

"The beastly behaviour of the Saudi police with the pilgriming Iranians speaks of the significance of the revolutionary and Islamic move of the Iranian pilgrims there this time.... Had this gesture of the Iranian Muslims been without any impact upon other Muslims there, the Saudi potentates would not have committed such criminal acts upon them such as arresting them, or clubbing them.... Muslims should not be indifferent to what is happening to the Muslim world.... Those who consider the slogans 'Death to the United States', 'Death to Israel' as being in contrast against the properly Islamic deportment are no other people than the direct supporters of the United States and Israel in Saudi Arabia...."

"The principal reason why the Saudi potentates were outrageous with the Imam (Khomeyni's) delegation is their ignorance about the percepts of the Islamic revolution.... The Saudi potentates thought that by being rough they could totally discourage attention being given by other Muslims to the members of the delegation. Little did they seem to know that in effect it was the position of the Islamic Republic which appealed to other Muslims."

"The apprehension of a considerable number of other Muslims along with Iranians evidenced the support given to the Islamic gesture of the pilgriming Iranians there..."

[Text] In His exalted name. At 1320 today, an invading Iraqi MiG-23 was shot down by one of the fighters of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the western part of the country.

The combative units of Islam in the western operational sectors yesterday brought enemy positions and trenches under heavy weapons fire, inflicting losses and casualties on the defeated forces of Saddam on all fronts. In the southern operation sectors, our self-sacrificing combatants with their continuous efforts on the battlefronts and by bringing enemy fortifications, personnel and armored equipment under heavy artillery and mortar fire, are dealing crushing blows to the aggressors and are bringing the dying enemy closer to total annihilation.

REZA'I SAYS IRANIANS 100 KM FROM BAGHDAD

DO92152 Tehran IRNA in English 1943 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] Shiraz, Oct 9, IRNA -- During the first year of the Iraqi imposed war as a result of treachery of former President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr and also due to lack of experience and readiness, the Iraqis were able to occupy large parts of Iranian territory, said the commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps, (IRGC), Mohsen Reza'i here Friday.

The IRGC commander who was addressing the Friday prayers congregation further added that, in the second year of the war, after Bani-Sadr was ousted, despite all the help extended to Iraq, including the French made missiles, along with the Soviet and Saudi help, Iraq was still unable to keep the territories it had captured from Iran thus resulting in the Iranian forces' recovery of its land.

In the continuation of his speech, Reza'i said that at present global infidelity was fighting against an oppressed people as well as against Islam.

He further said that all the superpowers have concentrated their efforts in Iraq because their intention is to suppress the truth.

As for the present situation of the Iranian forces, he said that they were now one hundred kms from the Iraqi capital of Baghdad and in the recent offesnive launched in the western fronts, the Iranian forces took control of several strategic heights. The recent victories of the Iranian forces, he added, has enabled them to exercise control over a vast area of land ahead of them, further saying that for its defence Iraq would have to use four military units.

However, since Iraq lacked such military resources, the Iranaian forces by making an advance of another 40 kms, would have Baghdad within their artillery range, Reza'i added.

FORCES COMMANDER: NO DESIRE TO ENTER IRAQ

LD102126 Tehran IRNA in English 1948 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 10, IRNA -- The acting commander-in-chief of the armed forces said in an interview today that the Islamic combatants do not wish to enter Iraqi territory but if they were forced to do so in order to obtain Iran's demands of reparations and its rights, they would "take any measure accorded to Islamic laws and international common laws of defence."

In his interview printed in today's issue of ETTELA'AT, Gen. Zahirnezhad said that the Iraqi aggressors were still occupying small areas of Iranian territory in the south of the country and generally in high and strategic lands in the border regions of western Iran. "We will fight until the aggressor army remaining in our country are thrown out and then clear accounts with them", he said.

On the recent offensive of the Islamic combatants in the western region of Sumar, Zahirnezhad said that the objectives of the "Muslim ibn Aqi'" operation was "to secure the official borders of our country, and push back the Iraqi Ba'thist army from our own border lines in that region". He said that this was "to prove to the Iraqi Ba'thist army and to the imperialists, especially America that we are capable of throwing out the enemy from our country".

He further added that the Islamic forces had achieved all of their aims in the offensive but battle was still continuing in some regions due to the enemy's counter-offensive attempts.

Questioned about the future plans of the Islamic forces, General Zahirnezhad said that these plans could not be divulged. However, he said, "we will continue our operations with the held of God, until victory and fulfillment of our demands".

SPEAKERS CONCERNED OVER 'FREEDOM MOVEMENT'

LD102058 Tehran IRNA in English 1948 GMT 10 Oct 82

["Freedom Movement Reveals Contempt for Islamic Republic" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Tehran, Oct 9, IRNA -- Speakers around the country have once again expressed concern over the Freedom Movement, this time for a statement it has recently addressed to the speaker of the Majlis, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani.

The matter first arose on Tuesday when Hojjat ol-Eslam Movahedi Svoji, a representative from Saveh in the Majlis, made condemning statements concerning the Freedom Movement, the pro-Soviet Tudeh Party and the Hojjatiyeh Society, a Muslim group which has also come under official criticism in the past year. He made the statement in a Majlis pre-agenda speech, apparently after learning about the letter.

His comments made front page headlines the same day when afternoon papers printed his full speech.

Later on Friday Hojjat ol-Eslam Karrubi, a Majlis representative from Aligudarz and the representative of Imam Khomeyni in the Martyrs' Foundation, made a fiery speech before the sermons on Hojjat ol-Eslam Hasemi-Rafsanjani in Tehran's Friday prayers.

Karrubi's speech was entirely addressed to the Freedom Movement which he said had begun publishing statements here and there in order to bring themselves out of their isolation. He said that the movement had questioned the officials of the Islamic Republic on their achievements during the past 4 years and had said that the people had a dark future in front of them.

The influential Majlis representative also gave facts on the movement's conciliatory activities before and after the Islamic revolution. The crowd of worshippers several times broke his speech shouting slogans against the movement and its leader, Mehdi Bazargan, former prime minister in the provisional government and current Majlis representative from Tehran.

He then called on the judical authorities to try the Freedom Movement for its instigating activities, before they incite more innocent youth to carry out violent activities against the people.

Also one of the most prominent religious leaders in Qom, Ayatollah Meshkini, who led the Friday prayers there yesterday, said that the six-page-long letter had alleged that the deprived people were now coming to "engineer so and so" (Bazargan) for help.

"They come to us because their voices do not reach the gentlemen (Rafsanjani and other high ranking officials) sitting behind dark and thick windows of fast-moving automobiles with their sirens and G-3 carrying escourts," the letter said, according to Meshkini.

"If they didn't sit in these (bullet proof) cars, tomorrow there would be no Hashemi (Rafsanjani), the day after tomorrow there would be no Khameni'i... and then you (the Freedom Movement) would see that an atmosphere has been created for the return of Bani-Sadr and Rajavi, so that you Mr Engineer (Bazargan) could fix some kind of job for yourself," the ayatollah said.

Meanwhile, today's issue of JOMHURI-YE ISLAMI also carried an editorial commenting on a brief reply made by Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani in yesterday's Friday prayers on the movement, in which he referred to the movement as "a bunch of vultures, waiting to find something (and criticise)."

The paper said, "we must see who are these persons who are not willing to see the inventions, the discoveries, the blossoming of talents, victory in a most unequal war, the seeking of martyrdom, sacrifices, an end to prostitution and corruption, the flourishing of religion and mosques, the development of villages, the cutting off of the hands of the internal and external plunderers, intimidating the great satan (and who are these persons) who it is very easy for them to make a mountain from the so and so fault which is a natural aftermath of such a great revolution, as if it is their duty."

JOMHURI-YE ISLAMI then went on to state the past un-Islamic stands and actions by the Freedom Movement during the provisional government and said that the movement could not think of the bright areas of the revolution, and furthermore they put their fingers in the wounds of the revolution in an attempt to reach prominence.

Said the paper, they are prominent not in the eyes of the Muslim and revolutionary people of Iran but in the eyes of the enemies of the Islamic revolution, and they are reliable and useful for the latter in necessary times.

CLANDESTINE: MAJLIS DEPUTIES ATTACK BAZARGAN

GF101835 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] The contrived Majlis of mullahs today, following the attack by Mullah Karrubi against Nehzate-e Azadi [NAI] and Engineer Bazargan, criticized the interim government. Several members of the Majlis of mullahs, who raise various issues in the Majlis on the order of the government, in a preconceived scenario, condemned NAI and its members and especially Mehdi Bazargan. They concluded that NAI is the main cause of the expansions of the wave of the opposition among the people.

We should like to remind you that Bazargan and his gang are among the people who played a major role in bringing the anti-Islamic regime of Khomeyni into power. Should they escape their punishment in Islamic revolution courts -- where Qotbzadeh and Entezam were tried -- they must be tried in a national court following the establishment of national rule and receive their legal punishment.

Our correspondent adds: According to the preconceived program of Khomeyni's Islamic Republic regime, Bazargan and members of his interim government are to be arrested and tried in revolution courts. The preparations for the arrest of Bazargan and other NAI members, including Yazdi, have been completed.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS BAZARGAN 'UNDER HEAVY GUARD'

GF111554 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] According to a report by our correspondent, Engineer Bazargan, leader of Nehzat-e Azadi [NAI] and prime minister of the interim government of Khomeyni's regime, was released after a 24-hour arrest. He is currently under heavy guard in his house and is not allowed to leave.

Our correspondent, in his dispatch sent to our secret transmitter today adds: Dariush Fruhar, a member of the National Front, also escaped via the western borders of the country and has gone to Paris. According to this report, Dr Ebrahim Yazdi, who is a member of the mullahs' Majlis, has escaped via the southern borders of the country.

There is no report about the fate of Dr Yazdi yet. However, Fruhar asked for political asylum upon entering France. The Free Voice of Iran was the first source to announce the intention of the Khomeyni regime to arrest NAI members following the attacks by Mullah Karrubi, who was speaking during the government-contrived Friday prayer show. As we predicted, the partners of Ruhollah Khomeyni, each of whom had a major role in the establishment of the regime of Velayat-e Faqih, are either being arrested and executed or are escaping abroad.

Our correspondent states: The reason for the arrest of Engineer Bazargan was the publication of night pamphlets in Tehran. In these pamphlets, Bazargan and the NAI asked the people to participate in a general strike and hold street demonstrations against the actions of the government. They also had invited schoolchildren to hold strikes and avoid attending schools. The increasing wave of dissatisfaction in the country and [the possibility] of a mass uprising in Iran has caused grave concern to the ruling mullahs.

GUARDS CORPS OPERATIONS FOR PAST MONTH REPORTED

LD101822 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that the Publicity Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Committee has issued a statement on operations carried out during the past month by the selfless guards of the Islamic Revolution Committees of Tehran against the hypocrites and other blasphemous minigroups. The report reads:

In an operation resulting in the discovery and destruction of 13 corrupt safe-houses of the hyprocrites, the guards succeeded in arresting 22 of the senior cadres and active members of this organization; 12 other mercenaries were killed in confrontations with guards brothers. Searches carried out in these safe-houses by the guards revealed a number of fire arms, including machineguns, G-3's, Uzis, Colts, ammunition, several radio receivers, two-way radios, powerful homemade bombs, handgrenades, explosives, and documents and interorganizational papers.

In 20 street fights between the guards of the Islamic Revolution Committees and the pro-American hypocrites, 16 hypocrites were killed and 21 arrested. Several fire arms, including G-3's, Uzis, Colts, handgrenades, cyanide capsules and a number of important interorganizational documents were taken from them. It is necessary to note that most of these confrontations took place when the hypocrites were committing fascist, antihuman and terrorists acts and armed robberies; these acts were foiled by the awareness of the hezbollahi umma informing the selfless guards of the committees present at the scene of the incidents.

The report also stated that following the efforts of the guards brothers of the patrol units of the 14th Tehran District Committees and committees stationed in the police stations of Tehran, more than 240 senior cadres and important members of the pro-American hypocrites group and of other anti-Islamic minigroups were arrested. A considerable number of fire arms, ammunition, cyanide capsules, interorganizational documents giving details of the activities of these criminals in assassinating defenseless persons and carrying out armed robberies, were taken. The documents discovered also indicate the active participation of the majority of those arrested or killed in assassinating defenseless persons and of taking part in counterrevolutionary activities against the divine regime of the Islamic Republic. Five of those arrested were the torturers of three of the guards of the Islamic Revolution Committees.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS EXECUTION OF HIJACKERS

GF091748 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] According to our correspondent, the five occupants of the C-130 Hercules military airplane that fled to Dubai last week were executed by firing squad. The airplane which carried 79 passengers went to Dubai following a request by 5 passengers and 2 NCO's and their wives and children, and the hijackers asked for political asylum from the officials of the emirate, which was denied. The airplane and the five who wanted to flee the hell of the regime of the Islamic Republic were returned to the officials of the Khomeyni regime.

The airplane landed in Bandar 'Abbas Airport and the five were immediately arrested by the guards. At the time of the arrest, Musavi-Ardabli, president of the regime's Supreme Court, announced that the hijackers undoubtedly will be executed. Our correspondent reported today that the order for their execution, issued by the army's revolution tribunal, was carried yesterday morning and even the 12-year-old child of one of the NCOs was executed.

13 OCTOBER 1982

Lebanon

Israeli and Syrian forces exchanged fire near the village of Yanta in the Al-Biqa' Valley, according to Jerusalem and Damascus radio reports. Jerusalem radio said the incident started when the IDF reacted to sniper fire; the Syrians then opened fire from the western slopes of Mount Hermon and the IDF responded. On the other hand, a Syrian military spokesman cited by Damascus radio accused the Israelis of violating the cease-fire, claiming that the Syrians returned the fire and "silenced the enemy positions." Both sides said the clashes lasted several hours.

Israeli forces in the 'Alayh area were meanwhile ordered to mediate between Phalangist and Druze militias in an attempt to end the current bout of fighting and kidnappings, Jerusalem radio reported. Nevertheless, Voice of Lebanon radio subsequently reported further clashes between the warring factions in villages south of 'Alayh.

Inspecting the Lebanese Army's Beirut operations command, President Amin al-Jumayyil congratulated senior officers on the task they are undertaking in the capital and criticized "slanders" against the army, Beirut radio reported. The commander of the military police explained that 65 percent of complaints against excesses by army personnel are contradictory and exaggerated, the radio noted. The Beirut garrison commander then confirmed that the army will gradually deploy in East Beirut to undertake search operations after measures in the western area are completed. According to another Beirut radio report, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan told the newspaper AL-BAYRAQ that the delay in implementing the security plan in East Beirut is because of the army's preoccupation with measures in the western sector, which are taking longer than anticipated. However, sources cited by Ihdin Radio of Free and Unified Lebanon ascribed the delay to acute differences among the Phalangist military commanders.

Israel

A 13 October Cabinet session will consider a proposal for security arrangements in Lebanon which Israel will insist on as a condition for withdrawing the IDF, Jerusalem radio reported.

Noting that the proposal talks of security arrangements to guarantee the safety and well-being of the Israeli northern settlements from a distance of 40 to 45 km beyond the border, the radio said these arrangements will be signed with the Lebanese Government, which will be responsible for implementing them while guaranteeing that Lebanon will no longer serve as a base for violent actions against Israel. The Lebanese Army will supervise the arrangements, the radio said, and Christian militia leader Maj Sa'd Haddad's forces will be incorporated in the army units in south Lebanon.

PLO-Jordan

After a 12 October meeting in Amman, the PLO Executive Committee issued a statement condemning the Lebanese Army's "repressive" measures against Palestinians in Beirut. The statement, which was broadcast by Amman radio, demanded that the Lebanese Government protect Palestinian civilians and establishments, urged Arab states to pressure the Lebanese on this issue and called on the states participating in the multinational force to protect Palestinian civilians in accordance with their commitments. Meanwhile, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat affirmed in a news conference reported by Amman radio that his talks with Jordan's King Husayn were "constructive, useful and successful." The radio also reported that 'Arafat's aide, Mahmud al-Labadi, said the PLO considers that there will be an opportunity to establish a federation between Jordan, the West Bank and Gaza after the establishment of a Palestinian state.

The Amman paper AD-DUSTUR described Syria's implicit criticism of 'Arafat's talks with Husayn as unacceptable and a "most dangerous trend against the PLO." The Kuwaiti paper AL-QABAS likewise asserted that it is in no one's interest to cast doubts on 'Arafat's leadership of the PLO and claimed that Syria's "campaign" against 'Arafat dominated the atmosphere of the Jordanian-Palestinian summit.

According to a Damascus television report on the Syrian information minister's 10 October news conference, the minister said there is no PLO consensus on the talks in Amman because five Palestinian organizations have issued a statement rejecting the talks.

PLO leader 'Arafat flew to Tunis on 13 October for talks with French External Relations Minister Claude Cheysson, Monte Carlo radio reported.

Egypt-Sudan

Speaking in Khartoum on the occasion of the signing of an Egyptian-Sudanese integration charter, President Husni Mubarak said unity will be achieved not through "sudden leaps" but through gradual and progressive steps. The new charter is a further advance toward unity and will be followed by other steps, the Egyptian leader added in his remarks, which were broadcast live by Cairo radio. President Ja'far Numayri stressed in his speech, broadcast live by Omdurman radio, that the cohesion of Egypt and Sudan must be strengthened in order to defeat enemies conspiring against the two countries.

The new charter provides for integration in political, economic, military, social and cultural affairs. It also provides for the establishment of a higher council for integration, a Nile Valley parliament and an integration fund, MENA reported.

Iran-Iraq War

An Iranian military communique carried by Tehran radio claimed that Iranian forces repulsed an Iraqi counteroffensive in the western sector and shot down an Iraqi plane over Ilam Province. Meanwhile, the 12 October Iraqi Armed Forces communique, carried by Baghdad radio, asserted that Iranian forces attempted to attack Iraqi soldiers in the Mandali region, but after heavy fighting the Iranians lost some "important positions." The communique added that 48 Iranians died in northern sector fighting.

PRA TROOPS LAUNCH 'MASSIVE OFFENSIVE' ON PAGHMAN

BK121531 Hong Kong AFP in English 1353 GMT 12 Oct 82

[By Michel Martin-Roland]

[Excerpt] Islamabad, Oct. 12 (AFP) -- Afghan Government troops, backed by Soviet planes and artillery, have launched a massive offensive on Paghman, a former Afghan royal resort near Kabul, meeting heavy resistance from Moslem rebels, a Western diplomatic source here said today.

Western experts said the attacks were intended to weaken rebel staging bases for assaults on Kabul by destroying the houses and harvests of people sympathetic to the mujahideen. Civilian casualties were reported to be high and Western diplomats said the offensive had already cut down on guerrilla activity around the capital.

The offensive followed a Soviet-Afghan operation last month in Panjshir Valley, north of the Plain of Kabul, and was the fiercest since the drive in July to clear the area around Paghman, about 20 km (12 miles) northwest of the capital.

Diplomats said Paghman and neighboring towns were bombed by planes and then shelled by heavy artillery from October 4-9. Soviet field guns and armored cars withdrew from the area on October 9 but air raids were continuing.

Rebels downed at least three helicopters and put about six armored cars out of action, the sources added, noting that certain rebel units looked more well-armed than during the last government offensive in the area, in July, and were using many rocket-launchers.

Diplomats said the attack was as much directed against the civilian population of the area as against the rebels. There have reportedly been heavy civilian casualties, but no figures were available. Quoting eye witnesses the diplomats said local residents were still digging out corpses from the rubble of houses hit in the aerial attack. Soviet and Afghan troops penetrating the towns had requisitioned food and also burnt and destroyed harvests and livestocks, the diplomats said.

The Soviet-Afghan operation had reached the Shomali plain north of Kabul, where there was weak rebel resistance.

Meanwhile, a Western diplomatic source confirmed the withdrawal of Soviet-Afghan forces from Panjshir Valley at the end of September.

Afghan forward posts at Rokha and Onab at the southern approach to the valley were reportedly surrounded by minefields and under increasing pressure from rebel guerrillas. These two posts were essential, as winter approaches, if the Soviet and Afghans were to keep rebels in northern Panjshir and neighboring valleys from being supplied with food.

Diplomats confirmed reports from a Western traveller of fratricidal conflicts between Hezb-e Eslami guerrillas led by Gulbuddin Hikmatvar and the Jami'at-e Eslami rebels of "Major" Massud.

The Soviet-Afghan offensive around the capital seems to have cut down on rebel activity, Western diplomats said. No major guerrilla operations have been mentioned here over the past few days, in contrast to recent weeks, and security has been increased. Diplomats said there were new guard posts at the principle access routes to the capital.

PRIME MINISTER CITES 'HEADWAY' IN PACT TALKS

BK121230 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] Indian Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi has said some headway has been made over the proposal put forward by Pakistan for a no-war pact as well as the Indian proposal for a joint Indo-Pak commission. She made this observation in an interview published in an Urdu daily of Karachi (AMAN). Mrs Gandhi said discussions in this regard are currently being held at the ministerial level and, if needed, a summit meeting of the heads of government of India and Pakistan could also be held. But prior to that, considerable ground has to be covered, she said.

The Indian prime minister expressed the view that every sovereign state had a right to acquire weapons for its defense but the acquisition of arms should not disturb the balance of power. She said India has no danger from Pakistan and likewise Islamabad should have no apprehensions from India.

The Indian prime minister was of the view that the importance of Pakistan and India, both developing and nonaligned, could not be ignored in this region. Since both were neighbors, it was imperative that they must close contacts and relations.

BK121541 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 12 Oct 82

HAQ ADDRESSES COUNCIL ON CHALLENGE TO ISLAM

BK091529 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said the present situation being faced by the Muslim world is a challenge to its free existence and Islam which the entire nation, as Pakistanis and Muslims, will face boldly and with full courage. He was addressing the Majlis-i-Shoora which began its fourth session in Islamabad this morning.

The president said the challenge is that Muslims should foresake Islam and all attempts at its enforcement in their countries and their freedom and not to dream even about the unity and solidarity of the Muslim countries that are sovereign and free. This challenge also means that the Muslim countries should gladly accept foreign aggression, armed intervention and the economic exploitation and become their satellites.

Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq said we will meet and face this challenge with courage. Islam has a right over us that we should respond to this challenge. He said: Pakistan, which had been created in the name of Islam, cannot overlook those enemies of Islam who suddenly attack helpless, unarmed and innocent Muslims. As Muslims and as Pakistanis, we could never forgive these dastardly and repulsive crimes against Islam and humanity. He said we believe it to be an eternal blessing of God to lay down our lives in the path of truth and in the name of Islam. We will not be subdued by the enemy's cruel methods or frightened by their resources and power as well as those who back these elements. Subversion and aggression on any scale cannot make us deviate from this path.

The president, while explaining the basic reasons for the conspiracies of anti-Islamic elements in Pakistan and in the world of Islam, said the assassination of Zahurul Hassan Bhopali and the general massacre in the Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon will appear to be for two different reasons, but all of us know full well that the basis of these events is the same. They were murdered only because they were Muslims. The late Zahurul Hassan Bhopali was a protagonist of the solidarity of Pakistan and enforcement of Islam in Pakistan. The crime of being Muslims is enough for the enemies of Islam to annihilate those (?people). He said although Pakistan was achieved in the name of Islam, Islam and the Islamic teachings were ridiculed many times in this very national assembly and efforts were made to enforce a concocted Islam. It was a matter of record that during the regime of so-called Party of the People, one of the charges against the participants of a procession in a big city of Pakistan was that they were raising slogans of Pakistan zindabad [long live Pakistan].

The president said there was no need to be discouraged or worried by a handful of elements who are playing into the hands of the enemies of Pakistan.

PRESIDENT VIEWS UPCOMING TRIP TO CANADA, PRC

BK100832 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] During informal talks with newsmen after addressing the Federal Advisory Council, the president said his visit to China greatly will contribute to peace not only in this region but also in the world. He said they would determine how best relations between the two countries and peace and stability in the region can be further developed. He said his visit to China is very important because the Chinese premier's invitation to him is an expression of feelings of good will and friendly relations between a big and a small nation.

In reply to a question, he said he would visit Canada at the invitation of Canadian Prime Minister Trudeau. He added that the relations between the two countries -- one developed and the other developing -- can be described as examplary. He noted that Canada is the second largest donor among countries providing economic assistance to Pakistan. He expressed the hope that his visit to Canada will provide an opportunity to discuss bilateral issues and to further strengthen relations between the two countries.

In reply to a question, he said the Government of Canada is considering providing assistance to Pakistan in mining, especially in the extraction and processing of copper.

About a resumption of Canadian assistance for the Karachi atomic power station, he said Pakistan had never made it an issue. However, Pakistan's effort is to convince Canada that whatever Pakistan is doing in that field is solely for peaceful purposes and that it would be grateful to Canada for assistance in this field.

About the possibilities of the president's visit to India and his meeting with the Indian prime minister and president, he said, if he attended the nonaligned summit, he would have an opportunity to meet the Indian prime minister.

In reply to a question, the president denied that he was considering establishing a so-called nation government. However, he said he is in constant touch with all sections of society including leaders of the defunct political parties because he wants to move hand in hand with them.

In reply to a final question, he said there would be no change in the federal cabinet but that it would be expanded because certain ministers are supervising two or three ministeries. He added that new ministers in the cabinet will be inducted from civilians, armed forces personnel and members of the Federal Advisory Council, and as far as provincial ministries are concerned, it is the responsibility of the provincial governors.

To Discuss Afghanistan in PRC

BK111726 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Excerpts] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said that, during his visit to China this month, he will discuss with Chinese leaders important regional and international issues including the situation in Afghanistan.

Talking to newsmen after his arrival in Karachi this evening, he said Pakistan and China are unanimous in their views on the Afghan problem and there has been no change in them. He said China very cautiously has adopted a policy and has been strictly following it.

The president said the special representative of the UN secretary general is expected to visit Pakistan after the conclusion of the UN debate on this issue. The date of his visit has not yet been fixed but his visit is likely to take place by the middle of next month to continue efforts to solve the Afghan crisis.

The president expressed satisfaction at the joint communique on Afghanistan adopted at the nonaligned ministerial meeting at the United Nations, which has once again called for withdrawal of foreign troops from Afghanistan and said that the human problem of the Afghan refugees should be solved soon to help them return to their homes. The president said he would lead the Pakistani delegation at the nonaligned summit conference scheduled to be held in New Delhi next March.

When his attention was drawn to press reports about a possible relaxation of the ban on political activities prior to his visit to the United States, the president said the relaxation, or otherwise, of the ban on political activities in the country and its situation.

Expressing his desire to maintain peace and stability in the country, the president said no subversive acts of any kind will be tolerated. Asked about the appointment of the ombudsman, the president said possibly it will be announced in 2 to 4 weeks.

IRAQI COUNTEROFFENSIVES 'CRUSHED' 11-12 OCTOBER

LD121102 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] Two heavy counteroffensives launched by the enemy in the western regions of the country in areas liberated in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations were crushed and the enemy retreated, having suffered heavy casualties and at least 70 of its forces captured by the forces of Islam.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,077

[Communique No 1,077 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. We pay tribute to martyred Col (Yahya Shemshadian), brave and self-sacrificing pilot of the Airborne Division of the IRI [Islamic Republic of Iran], who sacrificed his life to make dear Islam and the beloved homeland proud. He sacrificed his life while trying to destroy the criminal Saddamist mercenaries. Martyr (Shemshadian) showed extreme courage and self-sacrifice from the start of the imposed war until the day of his martyrdom, particularly during the recent operations in the west and his comrades in arms are proud of him. The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran offers condolences and congratulations to the grateful nation and the honorable family of this martyred righteous soldier of Islam. We honor his memory.

We now bring to your attention the situation on the battlefronts of the imposed war and the self-sacrifices of the combatants of Islam:

Through the efforts and self-sacrifices of the brave and proud pilots of the Islamic Republic of Iran Air Force, another aggressive plane of the Iraqi invading armed forces was shot down at 0910 today in the Ilam region.

Exchanges of fire and battles yesterday continued on the western fronts and were more intense on the (Miyan Tang) and Mehran fronts. After suffering repeated blows at the hands of the combatants of Islam, the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries yesterday afternoon launched another desperate counteroffensive in the western sector. The brave and victorious warriors of Islam repulsed the attack of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries and killed or wounded a number of them. Several of them also were taken prisoner by the warriors of Islam.

In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational sector, our combatants prevented the enemy from digging trenches and halted the movements of the Ba'thist mercenary armored forces. Our combatants succeeded in destroying two enemy engineering vehicles and in killing a number of their troops.

Thanks to the intense fire of the combatants of Islam on the Ilam and Musian fronts, four ammunition depots, two 75-mm guns and several slit trenches of the Saddamists were set ablaze and several of the enemy troops were annihilated.

The warriors of the Ground Forces in the Marivan front opened fire on Saddamist positions and killed or wounded a large number of enemy troops in the Panjwin and Toveyleh regions. In the (Shenaw) region, five slit trenches and foxholes of the Saddamist forces were destroyed.

On the southern fronts, combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran are in full control of the positions and regions under their protection. By opening fire from time to time, they silence the fire of the aggressive Saddamists and have inflicted losses on them.

On the Abadan front, the brave warriors of the Gendarmerie, while enjoying fire superiority, pounded Saddamist positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud. While silencing the enemy forces, they destroyed several slit trenches and foxholes being used by Saddamist troops and prevented movement by the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries in the region. One Iraqi noncommissioned officer who was trying to penetrate our position was captured by our warriors.

During the battle of 10 October, 17 of the best warriors of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran gained the exalted status of martyrdom. May their souls be happy.

Moreover, the enemy counterattack in (Miyan Tang) region was repulsed as a result of the heroism of the defenders of the Islamic revolution. In this region too, the disintegrating enemy forces retreated after suffering a large number of dead and injured.

IRNA COMMENTS ON WEINBERGER STATEMENT ON WAR

LD121244 Tehran IRNA in English 1027 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 12 (IRNA) -- Ever since the outbreak of the Iraqi imposed war in Sept. 1980 the United States officials have been trying to tar the world public opinion about the war and have been trying to convince the world that the war has not been imposed on Iran. A clear proof to this policy is the recent statement made by the U.S. Defence Secretary Caspar Weinberger.

In an interview with the U.S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT he referred to Iran as a serious danger to stability and peace in the Middle East region and added that the Iraqi imposed war was a threat to the oil interests of the Western bloc. Weinberger said, that it (imposed war) has come out as a serious danger to the security and stability in the Middle East. Weinberger said, that Iran was known as irresponsible country and its behavior had been "unpredictable".

Observers commenting on the version of the U.S. official said that he meant nothing but to divert the world opinion from the fact that it was Iraq and not Iran who started the war. The observers also believe that Weinberger through such comments also tried to conceal the role of America -- a country which originally planned the war through provocations to its mercenary Saddam. It is also believed that the U.S. defence secretary is now accusing Iran because they have now realised the imminent fall of Saddam and the U.S. imperialism failed in its plot against the Islamic Republic which they hatched through the war imposed on Iran.

In a desperate mental condition Weinberger commented that Iran's behavior is "unpredictable". These remarks prove nothing but a bitter failure of the great satan's information and spying network abroad which still did not realise the secrecy of the Muslim unity and power.

In his interview Weinberger also called Saudi Arabia and Oman as very close allies of the United States in the region and repeated that Iran was a danger to the region.

Although the fact is that Iran has declared its policy at times that it had no eye on others territories [as received], the Islamic Iran also assured the regional countries of its active help in case of plots against them by the imperialist powers.

OFFICIAL CABLES SAUDI MINISTERS ON HAJJ ATTACK

GF121723 Tehran IRNA in English 1640 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 12, IRNA -- The head of the hajj pilgrimage organization, Mohammad Tavakkoli, today in a telegram cabled to the Saudi ministers of interior and pilgrimage affairs, and AWQAF, condemned the attack of the Saudi security forces on the Iranian pilgrims and called for immediate release of the detained Iranian pilgrims.

Tavakkoli, who is also deputy minister of ershad Islami (Islamic guidance), in his cable to the Saudi Interior Minister Nayif ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz, strongly protested the behaviour of the Saudi policemen and called on him to investigate the issue and make it known how much an attitude toward some 90 thousand Iranian pilgrims who have rubbed the noses of greatest criminals of the world in dirt could be justified.

In another part of his cable, the Ershad Islami Ministry deputy called on the Saudi officials to give orders for immediate release of the detained Iranian pilgrims who have been injured and are in critical condition.

While strongly denouncing the way the Iranian pilgrims had been treated by Saudi security officers, Tavakkoli cabled the Saudi authorities to take measures to locate those Iranian pilgrims who have disappeared and compensate for all the damages caused to them.

COMMENTARY ASSAILS U.S.-SAUDI RELATIONS

GF120854 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] In an atmosphere of anger at the U.S. support for the Zionist entity and amid tragic circumstances the nation is undergoing and which at least require the severance of political and economic ties with the U.S. administration -- amid these circumstances -- the Saudi regime proceeds in its steady efforts to bolster its political and economic relations with the White House. In this it ignores the effete stand adopted on Islamic issues by the administration of international imperialism headed by President Reagan -- foremost of which are the Palestine cause and the problem of the Lebanese people -- and is oblivious to the role played by Philip Habib, the U.S. President's official envoy, in the events of the Israeli invasion of southern Lebanon and the role played by America's agents in Lebanon against the Palestinian people in the Sabra and Shatila camps where thousands of infants and pregnant women were victimized.

The Saudi answer to U.S. obduracy is further leaning toward U.S. interests and the upgrading of U.S.-Saudi relations to their highest level. These relations recently were crowned by the signing of the joint economic cooperation between the United States and the Saudi regime in all economic and technical fields. The joint U.S.-Saudi committee, which comproses the U.S. Treasury secretary and the finance minister of the Saudi regime, Muhammad Aba al-Khayl, met for 2 consecutive days. The meeting ended with a joint statement that underlined the policy of joint cooperation between Washington and Riyadh.

During this meeting, the principle of bolstering economic and technical cooperation between U.S. and Saudi establishments and the dispatching of U.S. experts to work in economic sectors in the Arabian Peninsula were decided.

Among the decisions of the joint committee were the promotion of joint projects, permitting U.S. businessmen to work in the investment sector in Saudi Arabia and the provision of full and complete U.S. support for Saudi development plans, in addition to the principles of joint cooperation on solar energy and use of the U.S. space agency in research done by the Saudi establishments.

The reason we give this example on the strong relations between Washington and Riyadh is not its seriousness or importance; it is the timing of signing such an agreement. Upon reviewing the file of U.S.-Saudi relations, it is known that there are agreements signed between the two parties that make the joint economic cooperation agreement look minuscule compared to the military and security strategic agreements. Nonetheless, the coincidence of the meeting of Aba al-Khayl and U.S. Secretary Regan in Washington, the violent U.S. wave that swept our Islamic region and the agreement on joint economic cooperation have given traitorous dimensions to this imperialist agreement which promotes U.S. interests and policy in the Middle East.

Perhaps, while contemplating the U.S.-Saudi agreement, one would ask: After all the savage massacres and barbaric crimes the United States has committed against the Palestinian and Lebanese peoples, will the United States be sanctioned by increasing the rapprochement of some Arab regimes to it? If every time Washington commits an obnoxious crime against humanity and is received with praise by some regimes and with rapprochement by others, it will become more vicious and more hostile toward the poor and oppressed peoples. The United States has encroached upon land, values and sanctuaries when it supported the usurping Israeli aggression, supplying it with arms, and equipment.

The logical answer to this should have been the announcement of a total boycott of the United States if not a declaration of war against Washington. However, when some rulers visit Washington, send letters to its tyrannical ruler or bolster economic and technical ties with it, it is something that the Muslim Arab or anyone who has any logic and conscience cannot bear because it raises a big question: How can the aggressor be sanctioned for his aggression by opening our hearts and countries to him so that he can tamper with our fortunes?

How can we confront aggression by shaking hands with the aggressor and eventually pay him for his aggression against the oppressed and subdued peoples? The difference between the aggressor and who supports aggression disappears when both agree on taking the same course and when the distance between the main aggressor and one who lines up with the aggressor is eliminated. Therefore, let the Islamic peoples contemplate this reality before making decisions about their rulers.

IRNA CRITICIZES SUDAN'S PRESIDENT NUMAYRI

GF111722 Tehran IRNA in English 1620 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 11 (IRNA) -- Sudanese ruler who vowed to help the falling regime of Saddam in Iraq is now facing very many political and economic problems in his country which are the result of his own policy.

Sudanese dictator Ja'far Numayri is one of the rulers in the Islamic world who has his "Qaba" [shrine in Mecca] in the White House with no care for the deprived people of his country.

The latest crisis reported from Khartoum, capital of Sudan, indicated that Numayri has the shortage of the personnel in the armed forces of the country. Numayri's regime published recently an advertisement for the recruitment of the soldiers for that country's armed forces.

The observers believe that Numayri and his pro-American policy is responsible for the present deteriorating political and economic situation in that country.

Several efforts were made to oust Numayri which were crushed by that dictator. So far a total of 13 abortive coups have been reported in that country. All the political parties are banned along with other social organisations in that country.

Numayri regime controls unlimited powers to crush any movement supposed to be launched for the benefit of the deprived people of the country.

For that, Numayri suspended the country's Constitution and in the absence of the Constitution his words are the laws of the country. This practice is being continued for the 13 years.

No due attention was paid to the country's agricultural sector on which 80 percent of total population was depending.

To get rid of the present economic crisis, Numayri relied upon foreign aides and foreign loans particularly from the reactionary Arab regimes. According to available statistics the foreign loans amounted to 1.732 billion dollars in 1977, whereas foreign exchange reserves totalled only 22 million dollars.

No attention was paid to the education and health services for the masses and it is said that 85 percent of about 15 million Sudanese are illiterate and the country has one physician for about 12,500 people.

The United States is backing its own interests in North and Horn of Africa. In return, Numayri pledged for the support of American policy. This was one of the reasons Numayri was the first ruler who lauded the Camp David accords signed by Egypt and Zionist regime in 1979.

Sudan has a military pact with Egypt and receives weapons from Egypt, U.S. and China. That country has an armed forces of 70,000 with six patrol ships and 40 planes.

In the name of healthy political atmosphere, Numayri announced for the permission of the political activities, but the announcement was never translated into practice. Observers believe that Numayri's announcement was just to cool down the opposition in the country especially the Sudanese National Front and the Sudanese Socialist Union [SSU]. The SSU recently announced its opposition to the Numayri policy designed against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Observers believe that Numayri knows only one way to suppress any efforts or movement for the benefit of the deprived people of that country and that is -- force.

AL-QADHDHAFI PROPOSES JOINT NUCLEAR COMMITTEE

GF121831 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] According to a report by our correspondent, the fascist regime of Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi, following its failure to purchase an atom bomb, is trying to make one with the aid of the regime of the Islamic Republic of Khomeyni. Talks between Libya and Khomeyni's Islamic Republic on the subject are in progress.

The regime of the Islamic Republic of Khomeyni canceled the large-scale projects to construct nuclear power stations of the former regime, calling them expensive and useless. Engineer Pasandideh [son of Ayatollah Pasandideh, Khomeyni's elder half-brother] who had undertaken the directorship of the Iranian Atomic Energy Commission on the order of his uncle, called any peaceful use of atomic energy a stupid act.

However, following the defeat of Khomeyni's regime in the battle of Basra and the government's financial bankruptcy, a suggestion by Al-Qadhdhafi concerning payment of several billion dollars to finish and start the operation of the Iranian atomic energy facilities was accepted and approved by Khomeyni's regime. The Iranian nuclear agreements with the FRG and France, signed during the former regime, were canceled on Khomeyni's order. However, the recent proposal by Al-Qadhdhafi made the greedy mullahs covetous again and they agreed to renew these agreements.

Libyan officials have proposed that a plan for the construction and possible use of atomic bombs be put under the control of a joint committee named jeysh-e Islam nuclear energy committee. We would like to note that jeysh means army and is an Arabic word.

Our correspondent, quoting informed sources, reports that on the basis of this proposal, Iranian and Libyan delegations arrived in Switzerland some time ago to negotiate with Iranian, Egyptian and Pakistani nuclear experts. These experts previously had immigrated abroad and Tehran and Tripoli have made them substantial financial offers.

According to our reports, similar delegations have left for Scandinavian countries, possibly to make promises to Iranian nuclear experts who escaped Iran after Khomeyni came into power so they will return.

On arrival in Paris, in an interview with the French paper LA CROIX, while condemning the criminal acts of Khomeyni's regime, Sheykh Hoseyni announced that the Tehran regime had been resorting to [words indistinct] operations for some time in order to finish its genocide of the Iranian Kurds. Thousands of innocent civilian Kurds have been killed so far and the defenseless people of the area have been made homeless.

The leader of Sunni Kurds, Sheykh Hoseyni, also revealed that the armed revolutionary Kurdish forces, including the Democratic Party of the Iranian Kurds, and Komeleh have become close and have made a deal with the Barazani Kurds in Iraq for free movement in each other's regions should it become necessary.

Lebanon

Al-Biqa' Situation -- Israeli and Syrian forces again clashed in the Al-Biqa' Valley, according to Jerusalem and Damascus radios. A Syrian military spokesman cited by Damascus radio said the Israelis opened fire at Syrian positions west of Zahlah, injuring two Syrians. Jerusalem radio reported that IDF soldiers fired at a group of Syrians trying to enter the area under Israeli control east of 'Ammiq village, forcing the intruders to flee. Asserting that Syrian and Israeli reinforcements have caused noticeable tension in Al-Biqa', the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon said the Syrians moved a SAM-8 battery into the hills north of Zahlah.

Security in 'Alayh Area, Beirut -- Christian Phalangists and Druze Socialists engaged in fierce clashes in villages south of 'Alayh throughout 13 October, according to Beirut and Voice of Lebanon radio reports. An IDF unit entered the area during the evening in order to stop the fighting, Jerusalem radio noted. Earlier, Beirut radio complained that the IDF presence in the 'Alayh area was preventing the deployment of the Lebanese Army in the district to maintain security. Meanwhile, after a Lebanese Front meeting, Phalangist Party leader Pierre al-Jumayyil said the sectarian clashes are most serious and must be stopped as soon as possible, the radio reported.

In Beirut, the Lebanese Army resumed its search operations in the southern suburbs, Beirut radio noted. After a Higher Coordination Committee meeting chaired by President Amin al-Jumayyil, the French ambassador confirmed that the security plan is to be expanded to include East Beirut. However, sources cited by the leftist daily AS-SAFIR claimed that the Phalangist military command has informed President al-Jumayyil that it rejects disarmament of its militia, AFP reported.

Israel on Withdrawal -- Both Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir and Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon have said Israel is not linking the IDF's departure from Lebanon with Israel's stated goal of signing a peace treaty with Lebanon, according to Jerusalem radio. In an interview with the radio, Shamir said there is no reason in principle why Israel and the United States should not reach agreement on the withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon. Political sources cited by the radio said Israel's plan for a political settlement in Lebanon has been composed in such a way that the United States will accept it with all its details. Earlier, the radio noted that the Israeli Cabinet accepted the proposal for the security arrangements Israel will insist on in Lebanon.

More on Massacre -- Lebanese authorities have so far discovered 762 bodies in the Sabra and Shatila refugee camps and around 1,200 additional murdered people were buried by their relatives, Jerusalem radio reported.

PLO

After meeting in Tunis with PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat, French External Relations Minister Claude Cheysson said that although the likelihood of France's recognition of the PLO and of a possible meeting between 'Arafat and the French president were not discussed, 'Arafat will be welcome in France should he decide to visit, Tunis radio reported. 'Arafat told journalists that his 2-hour meeting with Cheysson was fruitful, according to AFP.

Jordan and the PLO meanwhile agreed that the Palestine Liberation Army [PLA] contingent in Jordan will be reinforced with heavy weapons and with PLA soldiers currently dispersed elsewhere in the Arab world, PLO deputy military commander Khalil al-Wazir announced in Amman during an interview reported by AFP.

Reiterating the Syrian claim that five Palestinian groups have issued statements in Damascus rejecting a Jordanian-Palestinian confederation, SANA said these organizations are: the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine [DFLP], the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine General Command [PFLO-GC], the Popular Struggle Front and the Palestine Liberation Front. However, Monte Carlo radio reported that the DFLP denied issuing any recent statement on 'Arafat's visit to Jordan. According to INA, the PLO has protested to Morocco about Syrian attempts to interfere in the PLO's internal affairs. A Moroccan envoy arrived in Damascus on 13 October with a message for Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad, Damascus radio noted.

Egypt-Sudan

President Husni Mubarak told a Khartoum news conference that Egypt and Sudan have reached a joint defense agreement concerning the formation of a military command, MENA reported.

Iran-Iraq War

An Iranian military communique carried by Tehran radio asserted that the Iraqis mounted an offensive in the Mandali region early on 12 October, but were repulsed by Iranian forces and suffered 500 killed or wounded and 10 tanks destroyed. According to an Iraqi communique broadcast by Baghdad radio, Iraqi forces repulsed an Iranian offensive in the same area and after fierce fighting 206 Iranians died.

[Text] In New York, nonaligned foreign ministers have underlined the great significance of the forthcoming seventh nonaligned summit in New Delhi. They said the summit would take place at a crucial stage of international relations. The ministers formally accepted the proposal made by External Affairs Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao to hold the summit from the 7th of March to the 11th. It will be preceded by a meeting of ministers and the meeting of senior officials.

The nonaligned foreign ministers have expressed their gratitude to Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi for responding positively to the holding of the summit in New Delhi. The foreign ministers entrusted the Coordinating Bureau of nonaligned countries in New York to make the necessary preparations for the summit.

In a communique issued last night at the end of the session, the nonaligned group strongly condemned Israel's policy of aggression being perpetuated with the help of massive military, financial and political support from the United States. The communique called upon the UN Security Council to make an immediate inquiry into the Beirut massacre.

About apartheid, the group strongly condemned the growing violations of arms embargo by the United States and some Western countries.

The group also decided to convene a 5-day extraordinary ministerial meeting of the Coordinating Bureau in Managua from 10 January to consider the situation in Central America.

[Text] French Defense Minister Hernu had an exchange of views with Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi in New Delhi today on the growing armament race in the world and prospects of disarmament. An official spokesman said Mrs Gandhi told the French minister that India is not happy with having to spend large sums of money on defense, but unfortunately, it has no alternative. India would rather devote its resources to economic development but had to divert some of its funds for defense needs, she said.

GANDHI COMMENTS ON SOVIET NUCLEAR PLANT OFFER

BK130944 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] The prime minister told the Lok Sabha today that the government has to examine in detail the Soviet Union's offer to set up a nuclear powerplant in India before taking a final decision.

In reply to a question, she said there has been no such offer from any other country.

Answering another question, Mrs Gandhi said India had been importing about 40 tons of heavy water from the Soviet Union every year. This was to supplement the country's production of heavy water in meeting the requirements of our atomic powerplants.

Answering a question about the Rajasthan powerplant, Minister of State for Science and Technology C.P.N. Singh said that the Kota plant was shut down for about a month due to a leak. However, there had been no loss of heavy water.

RAO: OPTION TO PROCURE NUCLEAR FUEL KEPT OPEN

BK081121 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Text] India has made it clear that she will not accept any change in the India-U.S. treaty regarding supply of enriched uranium for Tarapur. External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao told the Rajya Sabha that India accepted France as an alternative supplier of nuclear fuel if it adhered to the 1963 agreement with the United States. He said France initially agreed to honor all the conditions. However, subsequently it suggested some safeguards for the post-1993 period when the agreement expires. Narasimha Rao clarified that India is not agreeable to this and is keeping its option for procuring nuclear fuel open.

STATESMAN CITES REPORT ON URANIUM RESOURCES

BK011306 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 27 Sep p 13

[Text] Bombay Sept. 26 -- India has excellent potential for discovering additional resources of uranium, reports United News of India.

According to NUCLEAR INDIA magazine, India has adequate resources of uranium to meet the country's requirements for its nuclear power programme. The assured and estimated additional resources of uranium at present stand at 67,000 tons of uranium trioxide in addition to about 13,000 tons contained in the monazite stands along the beaches and the inland placer deposits. India's thorium resources are estimated at 300,000 tons.

The major vein or disseminated type of uranium deposits are located in the pre-Cambrian metamorphic complexes in the Singhbhum belt in Bihar and a few small ones in Rajasthan. Surveys carried out in recent years have brought to light several new uranium pockets in other parts of the country.

The most significant ones are at Dodal and Jajawal, in the Rajnandgaon and Sarguja districts of Madhya Pradesh and in some parts of Himachal Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh.

Uranium, associated with large exploitable deposits of copper, is found in the Singhbhum belt of Bihar and some phosphate belts in Uttar Pradesh. It is being recovered as a by-product during copper mining.

The state-owned Uranium Corporation of India has been set up to commercially exploit uranium resources. The company has plans to expand and open two more deposits at Narwapahar and Turamdih, which are located in the same mineral belts known as the Singhbhum thrust. Feasibility studies for opening up the deposits have been completed and detailed development designs are under formulation.

The nuclear fuel complex produces about 100 tons of natural uranium fuel and about 20 tons of enriched uranium fuel to meet requirements.

RAO DETAILS GANDHI'S TALKS WITH BREZHNEV

BK111638 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Excerpts] India has expressed its belief that the recent arrangement with Bangladesh on the question of the Ganges waters is the best way of serving the people of both countries. Making a statement in the lower house of parliament today on the visit of President of the Council of Ministers of Bangladesh Lieutenant General Ershad, External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao said that during the discussion both sides endeavored to move forward.

Rao made another statement on the recent visit of Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi to the Soviet Union. Giving a detailed account of discussions Mrs Gandhi had with President Brezhnev, Prime Minister Nikolay Tikhonov and other leaders, he said the visit further strengthened the bonds of friendship and cooperation between the two countries. The two sides expressed their shock and dismay at Israel's expansionist and aggressionist policies, its unprovoked invasion of Lebanon and the brutal and reprehensible massacre of civilians there.

As regards Afghanistan, it was agreed that a solution could be found only through political negotiations. Mrs Gandhi took the opportunity to review developments in the neighborhood and the situation in our country. She pointed out how India's (?strict) adherence to nonalignment contributes to peace in the region and in the world.

CPI RESOLUTION PRAISES GANDHI'S USSR VISIT

BK091605 Hong Kong AFP in English 1554 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct 9 (AFP) -- The pro-Moscow Communist Party of India (CPI) today expressed "deep satisfaction" over the results of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's recent Soviet tour and firmly disputed that India was lately trying to keep distance from Moscow.

In a resolution adopted at a three-day meeting of its policy-making Central Executive here and released today, the CPI also maintained that the visit was not only of bilateral but also global significance, apparently rejecting observations in some press reports that it was almost totally bilateral in its nature and impact.

The resolution said the joint declaration issued at the end of the visit had given a "fitting rebuff" to the "mischievous propaganda of certain bourgeois circles" that India was trying to gradually distance itself from the Soviet Union.

It noted the declaration had called for the early implementation of U.N. declaration on the Indian Ocean as a zone of peace, thus demolishing the "propaganda about the super power rivalry in the ocean."

GANDHI ADDRESSES CONGRESS-I COMMITTEE MEETING

BK091700 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] Mrs Gandhi has called upon all sections of the society who believe in national integration and secularism to come together for promoting national unity.

Addressing the Congress-I working committee meeting in New Delhi today, she said the paramount need of the hour is unity of the country.

Mrs Gandhi said some political and other organizations continued to create hatred and suspicion among different communities. She urged her party men and other like-minded people to combat such forces and remain vigilant against movements that seek to disrupt the hard-won unity.

The working committee meeting today reviewed the economic, political and international situation. Among those who addressed the meeting were External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao, Defense Minister Venkataraman, Finance Minister Pranab Mukherjee and Minister for Shipping and Transport C.M. Stephen. Rajiv Gandhi attended the meeting as a special invitee.

The working committee welcomed the positive results of the prime minister's visits to the United States, Japan, Mauritius, Mozambique and the Soviet Union. These visits have raised India's stature in the international arena and have provided an opportunity for explaining the significance of our foreign policy and commitment to the Nonaligned Movement. The meeting deplored the brutal and calculated massacre of innocent Palestinians in Beirut.

The committee reaffirmed its support to the Palestinian people. It expressed grave concern over the continuing deterioration in the international economic situation. The committee called for renewed effort to find a solution to the problems of developing countries. The forthcoming nonaligned summit in Delhi will give a lead in formulating programs to resolve political tension and economic issues of the world.

Referring to the economic situation in the country, the committee felt that it continues to improve in the fields of foodgrain and industrial production. Inflationary trends have been held in check. Exports have shown an encouraging trend in the current year.

The working committee called upon all the state governments and concerned central departments to make every effort not only to increase production but also to implement the 20-point program. Damage caused due to floods was also discussed at the meeting.

The working committee decided to hold organizational elections as scheduled. Congress-I General Secretary G.K. Moopanar told newsmen returning officers will be appointed for each state. They will go to the respective states and assess the situation and report back to the committee on holding elections.

Replying to questions, he said the decision is to hold elections in all the states. However, in the states which are going to the polls in the coming months for electing assemblies, organizational elections may have to be deferred. He said party representatives of the states where assembly elections are due are meeting the members of the working committee to discuss the political situation.

The Karnataka situation was discussed today. Other states, including Andhra Pradesh, Assam and Jammu and Kashmir will be taken up tomorrow. In this context, the Congress-I working committee made it clear that party candidates for the assembly polls will be selected on merit at the time of the holding of the elections. There is no room for any speculation at the present moment as the committee has not taken any decision. These remarks were made by the committee while noting the tendentious news items appearing in a section of the press regarding selection of party candidates.

COUNCIL URGES ACTION AGAINST 'ZIONIST DESIGNS'

BK101221 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Excerpt] The Majlis-i-Shoora this afternoon unaimously adopted a resolution urging the Islamic conference to take effective measures for the early realization of the proposal for collective defense of the Islamic ummah to frustrate the Zionist entity designs. The Majlis-i-Shoora expressed its deep concern over the wanton Israeli aggression in Lebanon and the insane destruction of life and property. It noted with great concern that despite repeated calls of the world community Israel continues to hold on the occupied Arab territories thus flouting the UN Charter and the universally accepted principle of inadmissibility of the acquisition of the territory by force.

The Shoora condemned Israel for its brazen invasion of Lebanon and demanded that effective pressure be exerted on Israel to halt its aggression and withdraw immediately and unconditionally from Lebanon.

The Shoora called upon the countries which have sustained Israel militarily, politically and economically to restrain from its aggressive policies and to force it to vacate the occupied Arab lands. It called upon the international community to sever all relations with the Zionist entity which has persistently refused to conform to the norms of civilized international behavior.

Moving the resolution, Federal Law Minister Sharifuddin Pirzada told the house that the Pakistan Government was exerting all possible efforts through the diplomatic channel to ensure the protection and safety of the Palestinians in Lebanon as well as to bring about a speedy withdrawal of Israeli forces from that country. He said Pakistan has never missed any occasion or any forum to further the Palestinian cause.

Pirzada said Israel, ever since its creation in clandestine circumstances, has openly followed the policy of expanding its borders and exterminating the Palestinians. The world in general, and the Muslim world in particular, should take a serious note of it. He said this is an hour of soul-searching for the entire ummah because it presents a challenge to all of us. He added it is high time for the ummah to forget its internal dissension and gather on one platform to face its common enemies.

The law minister also referred to the cruel and senseless massacre of Palestinians and also recounted the steps taken by Pakistan to provide assistance to their Lebanese and Palestinian brothers.

Radio Pakistan's representative says as many as 21 members spoke on the resolution and fully supported it as a reflection of national sentiment.

MINISTER ON STEPS TO CHECK TERRORIST ACTIVITIES

BK121425 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Text] Federal Minister for the Interior Mahmud A. Haroon has said the government is taking all necessary steps to check the activities of terrorists and subversive elements whose sole aim is to destroy the very Islamic base of the country and impose an alien ideology. He said this while initiating debate in the Majlis-i-Shoora in Islamabad this morning on the situation arising in the country as a result of subversive and terrorist activities.

The minister said such activities were not aimed at changing the present government but were directed at changing the way of the life of the people. He said the terrorists were being trained, armed, provided financial assistance and sent from abroad. This was, in fact, a kind of war against the Muslims and their ideology. He declared that the people will not accept any other ism in this country and would never deviate from their Islamic path. He said the people would have to wage a jihad and offer sacrifices to combat the activities of terrorists and subversive elements.

Giving details of the measures to deal with the terrorists and saboteurs, the interior minister said that antiterrorist squads have been set up and antiterrorist cells created in all the provinces. The cells would collect information from the people about terrorists so that they could be apprehended before they launch their operations. He said the police have been provided with modern weapons and new vehicles to deal with the terrorists.

The minister said that 650 terrorists have so far been apprehended and were under interrogation.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,078

LD131748 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,078 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The epic-making warriors, the vanguard and brave combatants of Islam, in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational sector, effectively defended their own positions and repulsed several consecutive offensives of the enemy.

On several fronts, intensive fire routed the mercenary Saddamist forces. Following the defeat of the operations launched by Saddam's armed forces on 11 October, the mercenary enemy launched another offensive at 0830 yesterday morning in the hope of recapturing the liberated regions and heights in the western parts of the country. Thanks to our consolidated positions, vigilance and battle readiness of our forces, the operations failed and the enemy offensive was repulsed at 1010 on the same day. During this unsuccessful offensive, the enemy left behind around 500 dead and wounded. Meanwhile, 10 Iraqi tanks were destroyed and three of their ammunition depots were set ablaze. So far, 65 prisoners have been taken to the rear.

On one of the western fronts four enemy tanks were destroyed by our artillery fire. Brave Gendarmerie combatants stationed in the Mehran sector yesterday opened fire on enemy positions, destroyed several slit trenches and killed at least 20 Iraqi soldiers. Ground Forces' artillery fire on Iraqi positions in the Panjwin and (Nezarah) regions resulted in more than 15 Iraqis killed and the silencing of the enemy artillery fire.

Three Iraqi soldiers, accompanied by their families, yesterday presented themselves in one of the western regions and sought asylum.

In the southern operational sector, our forces continue their efforts by defending their own positions, dispatching reconnaissance and combat groups and returning enemy fire.

During the battle of 11 October, 53 dear warriors of the Ground Forces and 3 heroic airmen gave their lives for the covenant and joined the red caravan of the martyrs. Their memory is honored.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

ARMED FORCES, REVOLUTION GUARDS COMMUNIQUE

LD131820 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] According to a report by the Central News Unit, the following communique has been issued by the An-Najaf Headquarters [as heard] in connection with the operations carried out by the combatants of Islam on the fronts of the battle against Saddam's mercenaries.

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The self-sacrificing combatants of Islam, these genuine followers of the school of Husayn ibn 'Ali, may peace be upon him, who started the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations, codenamed O Abu al-Fadhl al-'Abbas, are continuing their holy battle against the Ba'thist infidels; and, with positions on the heights overlooking the Iraqi city of Mandali, they now are promising the liberation of Karbala and the conquest of the beloved Jerusalem.

Yesterday morning, the defeated Ba'thist mercenaries, using several tank battalions and a commando company, launched a counteroffensive. However, they met the stiff resistance of the powerful combatants of Islam.

In these operations, the Iraqi Ba'thist forces suffered heavy losses and casualities -- amounting to more than 400 dead and a large number wounded -- and fled. In these operations, 12 tanks, 3 vehicles and 2 loaders were destroyed and 3 other vehicles were seized as booty; dozens of the enemy were taken prisoner by the forces of Islam.

With hope for the complete victory of the combatants of Islam over the world's blasphemy,

[Signed] The Karbala Headquarters, the Joint Operations Center of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps

KHOMEYNI ADDRESSES DEPUTIES ON WAR, SHORTAGES

LD131332 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni 13 October address to Majlis deputies attending the interparliamentary conference -- place not given -- announcer-read]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. I am surprised at the decline of some heads of state of our time. I am also surprised at how degraded they are; how they give everything they possess and how, in addition to being degraded in front of America, they accept degradation in front of Israel. What the shaky (motazallel) world fears is Islam. They fear the Islamic Republic.

We should stand fast and prepare ourselves for future social problems. We cannot lose our Islamic humanitarian honor. Thank God our people are aware and prepared. You can see what these military men, guards, mobilization personnel and others are doing on the fronts. When they want to go to the frontline, it is as if they are going to their nuptial chambers. Such a situation rarely occurred even in the early days of Islam.

Some people cannot understand so much self-sacrifice; they overlook what has been accomplished.

In any case, we should be prepared. In the present circumstances, when we are involved in the imposed war, when all the superpowers are against us, the people should think of the situation the government is in and the problems it faces. We should not expect everything we want to be delivered at our feet. We all know that these enmities are not new. During the lifetime of the great prophet, he was slandered and insulted, but he did not stop advertising Islam.

If there are shortages in the country today, we are sorry about them. The government and the authorities are striving with all their might to overcome the shortages. They have done some important work; I hope that the situation will improve with God's help.

If we had yielded to America and the superpowers, we might have had superficial security and prosperity and our cemeteries might not have been filled with our dear martyrs. However, we definitely would have lost our independence, freedom and honor. Could we become the servants and slaves of America and pagan governments so that some things would be cheaper and so that we would have no martyrs or wounded? The nation will never succumb to such shame and degradation.

The Iranian nation will stand against America and, God willing, it will be victorious. God has strongly stressed that we should not befriend them. How could we then sell ourselves so that goods would be cheap?

Do not expect them to sing our praises. If they were to praise me, the seminarist, and you, we would fall. The nations are with you; these organizations are the puppets of those superpowers who are bent on plundering the oppressed people of the world. This is why they are against you.

May God give success to you all. May peace and God's mercy be upon you.

MUSAVI ON ECONOMIC ISSUES, 'ARAFAT-HUSAYN TALKS

LD131652 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] In an interview with newsman following a Cabinet session today, Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, referring to the recent flood disaster in Tehran, said: In addition to the natural disaster and its own brand of tragedies, the government is striving to investigate the problems and to identify those who were either responsible for or caused that calamity through their negligence. He said: Following the disaster, the matter was investigated and we hope the people will soon learn the results of those investigations. As for the flood victims, the prime minister said: After an assessment of the damage, the government will do its utmost to help to make up for the losses.

Commenting on the appointment of Mr Ghayuran as the prime minister's distribution representative, Musavi said: We have many shortcomings in this field. There is a black market in the country and there are glaring examples of abuse for which certain distributors are responsible. This is why Mr Ghayuran has been appointed to this post.

The prime minister added: Meetings are held weekly with various responsible officials and representatives concerned with distribution to discuss distribution and the country's economy. The prime minister said: The distribution shortcomings are caused by two things: first, natural causes resulting from war and problems that require fundamental and infrastructural solutions, and second, abuses and adverse incidents against which the judiciary and executive will act decisively.

About 'Arafat's visit to Jordan and his talks with King Husayn, the prime minister expressed regret, saying: In recent months, certain moves by the PLO leadership, which have been observed, are not congruent with the course of an all-encompassing, revolutionary and ideological organization. He said: These moves will bring no benefits except to drag the organization into its decline and downfall. He added: Of course, there are more realistic individuals among these leaders and we do not blame the Palestinian nation for the moves made by certain leaders of that organization.

KHAMENE'I REPLIES TO UAE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

LD131230 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that Shaykh Zayid ibn Sultan al Nuhayyan, president of the United Arab Emirates, sent a message to Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, our country's president, about the war imposed by Iraq upon Iran. This message says:

Because of my sense of responsibility for the Islamic umma', because of the disintegration and weakness that has afflicted it and because, throughout history, the Islamic umma' has never experienced such a painful situation as now, we feel obliged to turn to our brothers. I thus find it appropriate to write to you. While my whole being is filled with the hope for your sincere and positive response and with belief in your sincerity toward this umma', I request that you use all your efforts to stop this war and give a positive response to well-meaning attempts to end the war and to save the Muslim brothers and blood.

The same report notes that in response to the message of Shaykh Zayid ibn Sultan al Nuhayyan, president of the United Arab Emirates, President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i sent this message:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Your Excellency Shaykh Zayid ibn Sultan al Nuhayyan, president of the United Arab Emirates: I have received your message of 7 October 1982. The sense of responsibility regarding the problems of the Islamic ummai, to which you referred, is a common feeling among all those deeply aware of the duties concerning Islamic brotherhood. It was on the basis of the same sense of responsibility that we raised the issue concerning the greatest calamity of the Middle East, which was enacted in the sight of all Muslims and Arabs and which resulted in the greater consolidation of the influence of American arrogance and Zionist aggression in the region, with all the Islamic countries' leaders and invited them to convene immediately the Islamic conference to exchange views and to make crucial decisions. Unfortunately, I have to inform you of the indifference and callousness of those who claim to defend Islamic aspirations in this and in all other serious issues concerning events in Palestine and Lebanon.

Regarding the long and damaging Iran-Iraq war, the issue is also exactly the same. There should be no room for doubt left to those who witness this bloody event that the Government of the Islamic Republic is unhappy about the continuation of the war and is more interested than anyone else in the establishment of a just peace. I have sincerely stressed this point to all friends and to all those who have interfered in this issue as peace mediators. Unfortunatley, those who by exerting pressure on the aggressive regime could have encouraged it to submit to truth and to make amends for the wasted forces [as heard] of the great Iranian nation, instead of this peace-loving effort, have further fanned the flames of war and have further prolonged it by their financial, military and political assistance to the aggressor.

I wish to stress that we will continue to persist in our peace-loving positions. However, we will never abandon the legitimate rights of our nation which have been violated by the aggressive regime of Iraq, assisted by the filthy hand of American-Zionist arrogance. Only by paying attention to this fact will any well-meaning attempt for ending this imposed war meet with success.

I beseech God Almighty to bestow his guidance and success to all.

[Signed] Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, Islamic president of Iran

FOREIGN MINISTER ADDRESSES UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

GF131705 Tehran IRNA in English 1515 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] New York, Oct. 13 (IRNA) -- In his address to the 37th annual meeting of the General Assembly of the United Nations, Iranian Foreign Minister Dr 'Ali Akbar Velayati focused on international issues with special reference on the fate of the people from the Third World countries.

He blasted the superpowers and said they failed in realization of their responsibilities and added that the deprived people were suffering just because of their (superpowers) unrealistic policies.

During his speech Dr Velayati condemned the recent crimes of the Zionist regime in Lebanon.

He also threw light on the achievement of the Islamic revolution and told the world body that the Iranian nation pays great attention to its sovereignty, independence and territorial integrity.

He also said that the Iranian nation will never allow any country to interfere into its internal matters. He said that the Iranians through their Islamic revolution would use all means at their disposals to fight against the world oppressors and Zionists.

Talking about the fate of the people of the Third World countries he said they were facing poverty and hunger and pointed out that the gap further increased between the raw material producing countries and the industrial nations which forced some 600 million people in the Third World countries to suffer. While the people in the Third World countries are starving, the superpowers are busy in their arms race, he remarked.

In the continuation of his speech commenting of the recent massacre in Palestinian refugee camps in West Beirut by U.S. imperialism and the Zionist regime, he said that this crime took place amidst the silence of other powers of the world. This savage crime in which thousands of men, women and children in Sabra and Shatila camps lost their lives was neither the first time nor would it be the last.

While the Zionists were justifying the slaughter of the oppressed people of Palestine and Lebanon, their American masters were gauging the effectiveness of their modern weapons in this massacre.

The stooges of the U.S. Government in the region following the summit conference of the Arab leaders in Fes, Morocco, have given recognition to the Zionist regime, he said.

Dr Velayati continuing his remarks on the Palestinian issue said that the expulsion of Palestinian fighters from Lebanon, opened a new chapter in the struggle of the Arab and Muslim nations and even if some reactionary rulers of the region tried to create obstacles on the way of this struggle, it would continue.

Criticising prrchase of ultra sophisticated armaments and planes by certain governments of the region, Velayati said that Muslim people have the right to ask why their income was being used for purchase of AWAC planes and other kinds of sophisticated armaments, which serve no use for them and further strengthening the domination of U.S. imperialism in the region.

Dr. Velayati further said that the Islamic Republic Government of Iran, due to its nature and principles, would support the Muslim people of Palestine in their legitimate struggle to return to their homeland which necessitates the expulsion of the Zionist occupiers.

He said that the Islamic Republic's solution to the issue of Palestine and the Middle East crisis is only possible through the unity of Muslims furthermore stressing on the Islamic nature of the issue.

The proposal of the Iranian Government concerning formation of a united Islamic front against Zionism and imperialsim was a move in this connection, he said.

As for the issue of the Iraqi imposed war, Velayati said that ever since the establishment of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the Iraqi Government in a bid to fulfill objectives of imperialism and Zionism, instigating acts of sabotage against Iran. [sentence as received]

Such provocations included: deporting tens of thousands of impoverished masses to Iran, harassing Muslim religious personalities, attacking Iranian schools in Iraq and imprisonment of teachers of these schools, giving asylum to Iranian counterrevolutionaries, launching propaganda war against the Islamic revolution and instigating the Arab speaking Iranians of Khuzestan in particular as well as giving Arabic names to Iranian cities, dispatching saboteurs to Iran to plant bombs in the oil pipelines and numerous other crimes.

Commenting on U.S. Government's plots to overthrow the Islamic government, the foreign affairs minister said that now that the U.S. had become disappointed with the Iraqi ruler, Saddam Husayn, it has employed dirtier tricks.

U.S. imperialism, he said, has now resorted to planting bombs in crowded areas of Iranian cities, the latest of which, in Tehran claimed lives of tens of innocent people. These crimes of U.S. imperialism, like its previous crimes, has received no reaction from so-called human rights organizations. This silence of these international organizations has proved to the world that these bodies raise their voice only when those behind these crimes were given due punishment.

Throughout the course of the war, Velayati said, the Iraqi regime has not hesitated to commit the most heinous of crimes against defenceless civilians of the occupied areas. The listless crimes of the Iraqi regime range from repeated bombardment of hospitals, schools, civilian areas, and massacre and torture of the Islamic revolutionary guards, for proof of which there are supporting documents. These crimes were clear violations of the United Nations Charter.

However, the irony in all this is that such a regime was now saying the measures taken by the Islamic Republic to protect its rights a violation of the UN Charter and considers these measures of Iran a threat to international peace.

The suggestions made by the Iraqi Government concerning establishment of a cease-fire and its claims that it has pulled out its forces from the Iranian territory did not stem from good intentions and the objective of these suggestions and claims was not to end the war. Rather the goal of the Iraqi Government was to rescue Saddam Husayn from the trap which he himself engineered to overthrow the Islamic Republic. However, he has now become a victim of it.

Referring to the claims of the Iraqi regime to the effect that it has halted war operation and has established a unilateral cease-fire, the Iranian foreign minister said that these meant redeploying Iraqi forces in strategic areas of Iran and shelling of civilian areas there.

As for the conditions to end the Iraqi imposed war, Velayati said that termination of the Iraqi imposed war depended on complete materialization of all conditions put forward by Iran. Otherwise, Iraq would be responsible for the consequences of the prolongation of the war.

The Islamic Republic of Iran, in order to recover its rights, would have to continue its legitimate defence and it would not give in to the adventurers of the region.

"We do not fear blackmail and political propaganda launched by the Zionist and imperialist news networks, with the objective of supporting Iraq." The idea behind this propaganda tirade, he added, was to portray Iran as a threat to the region. If the Iraqi Government was not taught a proper lesson for its aggression against Iran, no one would be able to guarantee that it would not commit similar acts of aggression against another country.

Despite propaganda of imperialist and Zionist mass media and just as Imam Khomeyni has stressed, the Islamic Republic posed no threat whatsoever to the countries of the Persian Gulf region. On the contrary, the Islamic Republic was striving towards close and friendly relations with all countries of the region, relations based on mutual respect.

Speaking on the security of the Hormuz Strait as well as Persian Gulf, Velayati, said that Iran considered itself capable and responsible for assuring the security of these areas and would firmly counter any action which would disturb peace and security of these areas and consequently endanger ships destined for these points.

"Iran with all its power and in accordance with all international principles and regulations would assure security of the astuary," he stressed.

Velayati further pointed out that in spite of imperialists' and Zionists' propaganda, they would not be able to prevent exportation of Iranian oil. "If a day comes that export of oil from Iran is prevented then no oil will be exported from the Persian Gulf," he said.

In another part of his address to the General Assembly of the U.N., Foreign Minister Velayati called for removal of foreign military bases in the Indian Ocean and the Persian Gulf.

Commenting on the veto rights of superpowers in the U.N., Velayati said that veto rights of a few powers has hindered effectiveness of the U.N. in its dealing with world crisis.

The Non-aligned Movement he said could play a vital role, in light of the change in the venue of the conference from Baghdad to another place, and has made Iran more optimistic about the future of the movement and the great role that it can play.

In the continuation of his speech, Velayati called for ouster of the racist regime of South Africa from Namibia. He also pledged support of the Islamic Republic of Iran for the just struggle of people of Namibia and called on progressive African governments to continue their efforts for the benefit of the Namibians.

On the issue of Afghanistan, he said that in the Islamic Republic's opinion, the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan should not be considered as an act of aggression which only violated independence and sovereignty of Afghanistan. This aggression, he added, posed threats against culture, tradition and the religious belief of the Afghans.

He called for an unconditional withdrawal of foreign occupying forces from Afghanistan, non-interference of foreign powers in the affairs of Afghan people, return of all Afghan refugees and right of the Afghans to decide their own destiny. To this end, any negotiations in which the real representatives of Afghans were excluded, were rejected, he said.

Referring to the great influence of superpowers in the U.N., Foreign Minister Velayati said that it has been turned into a tool in the hands of these powers to exert pressure on countries which were struggling against imperialism of West and East as well as Zionism. He further said that the U.N. became active whenever interests of one [of] these dominating powers was endangered. If such an attitude continued, the world would witness unrest and anarchy.

An example on this attitude in the U.N. was its indifference towards the Iraqi imposed war over the past two years. However, as soon as the Iranian forces were able to expel the enemy forces from a large area of Iran and started to recover their legitimate rights and security, superpowers suddenly felt the responsibility of providing and preserving international peace and security.

Dr. Velayati asked where were these so-called peace [words indistinct] when the rights of Iranian people were trampled upon (?by the Iraqi) aggressors in the past two years?

The answer, he said, was since the interests of superpowers, who were providing the Iraqi regime with arms and financial aid, were endangered only then did members of the Security Council express their concern for peace and issued a resolution in this respect.

DEPORTED PILGRIMS DESCRIBE SAUDI 'TORTURES'

GF131750 Tehran IRNA in English 1640 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 13, IRNA -- Twelve more Iranian pilgrims to Mecca, who were psychologically and physically tortured in Saudi prisons, returned home early Wednesday morning.

Javad Afkhami, one of these pilgrims who was sent back to Iran by the Saudi regime, said that they had gathered in the Al-Baqi cemetery in Medina to say their prayers when agents of the Saudi regime, either in police dress or in guildmen dress, fired tear gas and severely attacked them by means of various equipment.

Afkhami added that the only fault of the Iranian pilgrims, who were first beaten up and then sent to Medina's prisons by the Saudi officers, was shouting "Death to Zionists", "Death to us" and the cry of "There is no god but God".

He also said that the attacker agents of the Saudi regime committed tortures against the Iranians such as poking fingers into one of the pilgrims' eyes as well as cursing Iranians' sanctities.

Afkhami further said that the pilgrims of most of the Islamic countries particularly Pakistan, Nigeria, Indonesia, Malaysia, India, Jordan, Syria and etc. had favourable views about the demonstrations of the Iranians and they principally considered the Saudis' conduct as being improper.

Jahangir Ranjbar, another Iranian pilgrim sent back home, talked about other tortures exercised by the Saudis and added that the Saudi police agents placed some anti-Saudi regime pamphlets, which they had prepared before hand, into the arrested pilgrims' pockets in order to show that these Iranians were intending to distribute the pamphlets among pilgrims from other countries.

KHAMENE'I ADDRESSES PRAYER LEADERS ON U.S. PLOTS

LD102240 Tehran IRNA in English 2025 GMT 10 Oct 82

"The geographic area in which you live and whose people you guide has been the hotbed of plots by the greatest of the world's enemies that is the United States and its mercenary flunkeys in the region. To fathom the infamous acts of the United States, it would suffice to recall that its first choice as the target of its brutal aggression was a region such as yours, and a (?place in case) inhabitants were deprived of the least facilities over the dark years of suppression during the past regime...."

"Those dull simpletons figured that as soon as they weave a plot in some corner of our vast country, the Islamic Republic of Iran would not be capable of coping with it, and hence they would be able to do for the Islamic Republic. [as heard] In order to fulfill their cravings, they exploited whatsoever resources they could exploit: the leftist and rightist sub-groups, the feudal lords, the monarchists, the foreign-inspired members of the moneyed class, the fugitive members of SAVAK, and other people committed to the past regime.

But what they seemed to be overlooking -- among many other facts of which they were ignorant, was the independence of the system of the Islamic Republic from individuals or from any specific group of statesmen. They failed to realise that the system here belongs to each and every citizen...."

"However hard a blow the United States has suffered in relations to the Islamic revolution still we should not tend to neglect the plots of this great satan. By trying to pit Shi'is against Sunnis, or this tribe against the other, they mean to antagonise Muslims against each other...."

"We feel that we do not lose anything when the various mishaps befall us, rather we feel that each time we take one step forward this brings us that much closer to our ultimate goal. The goal of establishing the rule of Islam."

NEWSPAPER EXAMINES ANTI-KHOMEYNI STRUGGLE

GF061840 Paris ARA in Persian 8 Sep 82 p 1

[Editorial: "Iranian Soldiers Are on Their Way"]

[Excerpt] The overthrow of a dictatorial regime that has succeeded in the mental disillusionment [ravanzadegi] of an important part of society is most of all in need of a powerful military-tribal-guerrilla force instead of diplomatic preparations and consideration of the political situation in the country, which lies outside the sphere of the ruling group's power. Such a force exists in Iran. It is:

1. The Iranian Army is nationalist by nature and Iranian military personnel, whether those who have been shunted aside or those who are still serving, have no fundamental disagreement on national issues, national security and progressive development plans. In recent years, unity in the army has increased and the harmonious resolve of everyone is reflected in correct political attitudes aimed at the liberation of Iran.

2. The Iranian tribes in general reject the Khomeyni regime. In front of them are the zealous and brave Kurds who have not halted their struggle against the enemy of Iranian nationalism. They bravely have stood up to Khomeyni and his regime since the first appearance of this inauspicious regime and have continued their fight to liberate Iran and rid it of Khomeyni's blight. They have continued to prepare their political programs to achieve their regional goals. The treachery and blows dealt by Khomeyni against the zealous Torkman tribe has forced these people to lie in wait and has made them believe that breathing in their ancestral home in the political atmosphere created by Khomeyni is impossible. The oppression of the Qashqa'i tribes and the treachery against their leaders have wounded all the tribes in the south and have made them unhappy and the daily clashes reflect this fact.

The struggling Baluchi tribes are also among the most honorable strugglers fighting against Khomeyni. Baluchestan, in the true sense, has not bowed to the rule of Khomeyni's regime not even for 1 day and, considering its geographical importance, it may be able to play a more important role in the final struggle against Khomeyni. The great masses in the cities and villages have had their fill of Khomeyni's injustices for innumerable reasons and have their best guerrilla forces in reserve and undoubtedly have started organizing not tomorrow but yesterday. The sign of such efforts are the clashes in the streets andalleys, which are reported by Khomeyni's media.

Meanwhile, the role of the armed forces is by far larger and more effective than usually thought or discussed. The Iranian Armed Forces have a great mission in three basic directions: First, to overthrow; then establish security and generally disarm; and finally to begin reconstruction programs and repair destroyed infrastructure of the Iranian economy. They truly have felt and are feeling their role.

However, the armed forces are aware that the possibility of their succeeding in the second and third phases becomes less if they are not supported by politicians and technocrats, intellectuals and opinionmakers and those who guard and support Iranian development and defend Iranian culture and civilization. Therefore, the nature of the cadre that will move Iranian society to overthrow the Khomeyni regime is different from the view of simple minds.

Usually, when there is talk of putting the job in the hands of the armed forces, it immediately brings to mind the harsh view of some of the African and South American political regimes and people are warned about such plans. However, in Iran for many reasons and because of the nationalist nature of the Iranian Armed Forces, the conditions are different. Therefore, the opposition does not consider itself separate from the army and is not thinking of forming its own armed forces to overthrow the Khomeyni regime and considers the zealous armed forces the army for the liberation of Iran, which will end the black regime of Khomeyni with the aid of the brave tribes and brave and patriotic guerrillas.

Now the question is asked: How do the political leaders decide their right position within this movement and how will they jointly organize this political-military move? A two-prong leadership is not possible. Therefore, we must mentally prepare that should conditions be ripe and the scene set, then the politicians along with the armed forces, or behind them, will carry out their patriotic duties. Such a plan and attitude are possible when we believe in the main issues, that is, "freedom, security and development of homeland," more than personal desires and goals.

Faith, if only voiced, spoken or written, will do nothing. This faith must have ideological and idealist sources and must have been derived from nationalist Iranian minds and hearts. Otherwise, the opportunity to carry out duty to pay the debts and to realize development plans will be delayed for a long time.

Wherever the sole of the boots of an Iranian soldier rubs the ground, that is where Khomeyni will come to his knees and this is where the shadow of security will fall, commerce will resume and development and reconstruction will replace destruction. The Iranian soldiers and tribes and the guerrillas are at work. Iran will rise. The Iranian soldiers are on their way. This is the desire of the Iranian people.

Lebanon

Security, Military Situation -- A car bomb explosion in Marj 'Uyun killed 3 civilians and wounded 16 others, Voice of Hope radio reported. In Beirut, the Lebanese Army extended its search operations to the Christian area, deploying in suburbs southeast of the capital, according to Beirut radio. The radio also cited reports that the authorities have decided to deploy the army in the 'Alayh region, where sectarian clashes continued throughout 14 October.

Two Israeli soldiers were wounded by Syrian snipers in eastern Lebanon, the IDF spokesman announced in a statement reported by IDF radio. Earlier, the Israelis released a seriously wounded Syrian POW, the radio noted. Sources in Beirut cited by INA disclosed that the PLO holds 11 Israeli POW's and retains the bodies of 18 Israelis.

Public Prosecutor As'ad Jirmanus told a news conference reported by Beirut radio that as a result of the Lebanese Army's security operations, 972 detainees are being held in government prisons, including 511 Palestinians.

Al-Jumayyil Visits -- President Amin al-Jumayyil has accepted an invitation from King Husayn to visit Jordan, Beirut radio noted. Citing the magazines AL-MUSTAQBAL and AL-MAJALLAH, MENA reported that President al-Jumayyil will visit Saudi Arabia and Syria after returning from his U.S.-European tour and that he may also meet PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat in Morocco.

Israel

While Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir held lengthy talks in Washington with Secretary of State George Shultz, Prime Minister Menahem Begin told Likud MK's that there is a full understanding with the United States over security arrangements for southern Lebanon, according to Jerusalem radio reports. Begin has decided to improve relations with the United States and has rejected Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon's critical attitude toward the U.S. Administration's policy on Lebanon, MA'ARIV reported. Meanwhile, Sharon said Israel's security belt in southern Lebanon must extend to 50 km because of the range of Syrian artillery, Jerusalem radio reported.

After his first round of talks with Shultz, Foreign Minister Shamir said in remarks broadcast by the radio that the U.S. Administration will conduct further discussions and clarifications about the Israeli proposals on Lebanon and he noted that Shultz will soon visit Israel within the framework of a Middle East tour aimed at promoting the U.S. peace plan.

PLO

PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat has arrived in Morocco, where he was received by King Hassan II, according to Rabat radio. Prior to leaving Tunis for Fes, 'Arafat announced in a statement reported by KUNA that he has "no connection" with the U.S. Middle East peace plan. The Arabs should uphold their own Fes summit plan, he said, although this does not mean they should not listen to all views. Meanwhile, in an interview reported by Cairo radio, Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali said his government is prepared to receive 'Arafat any time the latter chooses to visit Egypt.

The controversy sparked by Syrian criticism of 'Arafat's recent talks with Jordan's King Husayn continued with further reports by Syrian and Jordanian media on the positions of personalities and groups within the PLO. Damascus radio reported that former Nabulus Mayor Bassam ash-Shak'ah has rejected any form of Palestinian federation with Jordan. Amman radio said that three Palestinian organizations -- the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, the Palestinian Liberation Front and the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine -- have now denied Syrian reports that they were among five Palestinian organizations that issued a statement opposing 'Arafat's visit to Jordan.

Syria

Following GDR State Council Chairman Erich Honecker's 11-14 October visit to Syria, Damascus television broadcast a Syrian-GDR joint statement announcing that the two sides have signed agreements on the continued development of long-term cooperation in industrial, scientific, technical and health affairs.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Situation -- Iraqi Air Force planes hit Khark Island oil installations and total Iranian losses in the Mandali region 11-13 October reached almost 2,300 killed, an Iraqi military communique carried by INA asserted. An Iranian Armed Forces communique carried by Tehran radio claimed that Iraq suffered 170 killed or wounded in the western battle sector on 13 October.

Iran on War, Gulf -- Iranian Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani warned that Iran's attacks in the Mandali area "are not the final actions" and that further offensive operations are likely. Speaking in a 12 October Tehran radio interview, Hashemi-Rafsanjani claimed that the Iranians can easily penetrate another 10 to 20 km into Iraq along the open ground beyond Mandali and asserted that if the Iranians reach a point from where their artillery can hit Baghdad it would be difficult for President Saddam Husayn to remain in power.

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati said in a speech to the UN General Assembly that Iran is capable of and responsible for assuring the security of the Strait of Hormuz and the Persian Gulf, IRNA reported.

TEXT OF BABRAK KARMAL TELECAST IN HUNGARY

LD130648 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0415 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] Kabul, Oct 12 BAKHTAR -- Following is the text of speech by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee president of the Revolutionary Council of the DRA telecast in Hungary during his recent visit to the People's Republic of Hungary at the end of a high power party and state delegation:

Comrades and friends of the People's Republic of Hungary: Allow me, on behalf of the party and the DRA state delegation to present the most cordial greetings of the toiling people of Afghanistan and all the PDPA members to you.

The cordial and friendly welcome accorded to the party and state delegation of DRA during its visit to your beautiful country obliges us to express our deep gratitude to the toiling people of the Hungarian People's Republic, the Central Committee of the Hungarian Socialist Workers' Party and Comrade Janos Kadar, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Hungarian Socialist Workers' Party.

The victory of the April Revolution and especially its new and revolutionary phase has led the friendly and fraternal relations between the peoples, parties and governments of our countries, to a qualitatively new phase, based on international revolutionary solidarity, which are matters of honour and great importance for us.

The present visit of the party and the state delegation of the DRA to Hungarian People's Republic is a big step towards broadening and further strengthening the supreme ties of fraternal [passage indistinct] which would undoubtedly bring forth great influence in the interests of the toiling peoples of both countries.

Distinguished friends, more than four years has elapsed since the April Revolution in Afghanistan took place under the leadership of the PDPA, a party of the working class and all the working people of our country.

The revolution of Afghanistan underwent difficult course, full of ups and downs. But during this period, our party, as the leading force of the society, based on scientific and well-targeted policies, has taken steps towards strengthening revolutionary gains and rebuffing counter-revolutionary conspiracies. Our party, especially after putting an end to deviations and mistakes and leading the revolution to its new and evolutionary phase, has prepared extensive grounds for founding a new and just society in the country.

Right now, in spite of the difficulties encountered because of the imperialist interference in our internal affairs, major successes in the spheres of economic and social growth, enhancement of the living standard of people, democratisation of political and social life and attraction of millions of the toiling people towards revolution, have been accomplished. These successes mainly indicate the creation of new important elements in social and economic structure of the country.

One of our main successes during the current year has been the elimination of the main centres of counter-revolution all over the country. Our heroic armed forces succeeded in smashing the main hideouts of the enemies of the revolution and dealt fatal blows to agents of reaction and imperialism.

Generally speaking, one can categorically say that, after the new phase of the April Revolution, as a result of the well-principled, creative and scientifically formulated policy of our party, which is mainly reflected in the documents of the meetings and plenums of the Central Committee, in the extraordinary and important decisions and resolutions of the national conference of the PDPA and the basic documents, the programme of action of the party, approved by it, the revolutionary process is gaining strength day by day and has become stronger than before.

As a result of these actions, right now, thousands of our compatriots in the National Fatherland Front, the social base of the DRA, are unitedly defending revolution and its prominent aims and encountering the counter-revolutionaries properly.

In one word, the policy of our party has been warmly welcomed by national and democratic classes and strata of our society.

Toiling and noble people of Hungary, as you know, international imperialism led by aggressive U.S. imperialism in collusion with regional reaction and renegade Beijing hegemonists has not yet ended its interference in the internal affairs of Afghanistan and the undeclared war of reaction and imperialism against the DRA still goes on. Imperialism, by intensifying tension in the region and arming the counter-revolutionary bandits is trying to continue its [words indistinct], shameful interference on the internal affairs of our country. The counterrevolutionist strategy of imperialism in Afghanistan is doomed to resolute failure.

As regards the situation around Afghanistan, our position is explicit, clear and evident. Our policy regarding the situation in the region, relations with the neighboring countries Iran and Pakistan, is fully reflected in the statement of May 14, 1980 and August 24, 1981. The Government of the DRA, through its creative, and all-sided initiatives, has tried to prepare real grounds through talks for the solution of the existing issues with the neighbouring countries. But, unfortunately, because of imperialism's interferences and provocations, our efforts to solve the problems through negotiations have not yielded the desired results.

Distinguished friends, imperialism's aggressive policy, under present conditions, is a serious threat to the cause of peace. Peoples of the world have been witness to one of the main manifestations of the Israeli Zionists supported by Reagan administration. Lebanon's tragedy once again unveiled savage acts of imperialism and Zionism against the heroic peoples of Palestine and Lebanon. Israeli Zionists, in collusion with imperialism, repeated bloody events in the current history in Lebanon. We resolutely condemn the imperialism's criminal policies which are being implemented in collaboration with Israel Zionists, and believe that the heroic people of Palestine can never be brought to their knees. Palestinians, backed and supported widely by the forces of peace and progress, continue their struggle for their just cause. This [words indistinct] will answer all conspiracies of imperialism.

Our party and government, in the present international situation, condemn all imperialist endeavours for intensification of tension in Europe and its activities for deployment of nuclear weapons in this continent and other parts of the world and declare that, in the current situation, the main task of the peace-loving and progressive forces is the intensification of their united struggle for peace, relaxation of tension and reduction [words indistinct].

We believe that the militarist policies of war-mongering imperialist circles can be stopped and the danger of war averted on the basis of the peace programmes of the socialist countries, especially the peace initiatives of the great Soviet Union, this real protector of peace and socialism.

We highly value the role played by the Hungarian Socialist Workers' Party and its wise policy adopted at its 12th congress and the role of the Government of Hungary in strengthening peace and fighting against the danger of war. Socialist Hungary has played an important role for the cause of peace and reduction of international tensions. We believe that your country will play its role in future too.

Comrades and friends, the toiling people of Afghanistan, led by the PDPA, realise quite well that successful development of revolutionary changes in Afghanistan and deepening of the new social orientation of our country have an unbreakable relation with the aid and support of the progressive forces of the world, especially the socialist countries.

Our people understand well that the role of the socialist countries, particularly the Soviet Union, in defending the revolutionary process in our country is prominent and great.

The toilers of Afghanistan will be grateful forever for all the assistance and support which have been presented to us by the Communist Party and the people of the Soviet Union in the most difficult days of our society's life. Afghans understand that Afghan-Soviet friendship is an important factor in fighting against the naked and shameful aggressions of imperialism against revolutionary Afghanistan and construction of a new society. We highly rate the friendly and fraternal aid of the Hungarian Socialist Workers' Party and the heroic people of Hungary, based on the principles of proletarian internationalism to the party and the people of the DRA, and feel deeply grateful to them.

During the visit to the Socialist Hungary, we acquired not only the invaluable experiences of construction of socialism, but once more we felt in practice and saw with our own eyes the powerful and revolutionary solidarity of the party, the state and the people of Hungary with the revolution in our country.

The visit of the party and state delegation of the DRA to the Hungarian Socialist Republic is a new and fresh step towards development of friendly relations and fraternal and comradely cooperation between our countries, people's and governments. The talks the meetings and discussions with the dear Comrade Janos Kadar and other esteemed comrades, the party and government leaders of Hungary further developed the bilateral relations between our countries. It widened and increased our acquaintance with the Socialist Hungary and provided favourable opportunity to once more express our common position and unity of our stand on the major international issues.

We have full confidence that the fruits of these discussions and meetings will be highly positive, great and useful and will have a deep and long-range desirable effects on the bilateral relations of the two sides.

Distinguished friends, at the end, on behalf of the Central Committee of the PDPA, the Government of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan and the heroic people of Afghanistan, I would like once again to express my sincere gratitude for the warm and cordial welcome accorded to the party and the state delegation of the DRA in your country.

Long live unbreakable friendship between the parties, peoples and Governments of Afghanistan and Hungary!

TV Interview

LD110250 Budapest Domestic Television in Hungarian 1800 GMT 10 Oct 82

[From "the week" program: interview with President Babrak Karmal by unidentified reporter in Budapest -- date not given -- recorded with Karmal remarks in Dari fading into Hungarian translation]

[Excerpts] [Question] Comrade Karmal, how would you characterize the current military and political state of your country?

[Answer] Today we have reached the point where our armed forces, the social organs and people's power, led by the party and united in a comprehensive national front, have eliminated the gangs sent by Pakistan into Afghanistan, gangs supported by the imperialists with arms, money and training. True, there are still some smaller groups here and there that intimidate the population with terrorist acts. They murder children, women and old people and set fire to or blow up agricultural areas, hospitals, bridges, schools and mosques.

However, I would like to stress that the armed forces of our republic are in control of the situation. Politically, our country's position is stable in the wake of the second phase of the revolution. Regarding our politics, it is the outcome of the national democratic nature of our revolution that we are pursuing a democratic policy. It is our aim to develop our society, economy and culture. Following the second phase of the revolution, the masses, the party and the state want the same thing and they support the same objectives. The establishment of the national front was the most important means in the realization of these plans. The distribution of land, which we are slowly carrying out day-by-day, is one of the greatest achievements of the second phase.

Workers, peasants, intellectuals, believers, tribal representatives, the small and medium bourgeoisie, and, in general, the national bourgeoisie, are participating in the national front. We have set off in their company on the path to building a new society.

[Question] Your government also has to carry out substantial economic tasks. What is the most important issue for you? In which of your tasks do you expect support from the socialist countries?

[Answer] The implementation of the land and water reform in a democratic way is the task we regard as most important in the economic sphere. Once we have achieved this aim, we will then want to develop and broaden our national industry. In spite of acts of sabotage by the reactionary forces, we have scored successes in internal and external trade.

Everyone knows that Afghanistan is an economically backward country. For this reason, we need roads, dikes and hydroelectric power stations. We also need cooperatives, state farms and up-to-date industry. Once we have created all these, this will, in turn, improve the people's living conditions.

Light and heavy industry are equally needed for the economic equilibrium of the country, for exploiting our national resources and for opening new mines. Possibilities for the realization of all these plans and for the establishment of all these projects are available. However, it is also a fact that Afghanistan needs help from the fraternal socialist countries for this work.

The assistance provided so far by the fraternal Hungarian People's Republic has been very important to us. As we still need help, we would be grateful if our requests are satisfied as far as possible. We would be very pleased if Hungary were to help us in the development of our economy and industry, the establishment of a transport network and in the training of cadres.

PAKISTANI REPORTS ON SABOTEUR TRAINING DENIED

BK141517 Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 1433 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Text] The following statement was made on the afternoon of October 14 by an official spokesman:

"There have been repeated stories in the Pakistan press alleging the existence of camps in India for the training of saboteurs. K.D. Sharma, the Indian ambassador in Pakistan, has already denied and denounced these allegations as absolute nonsense and rubbish. We are distressed that despite the ambassador's categoric [as heard] denial such allegations continue to be made in sections of the Pakistan press. When India and Pakistan are engaged in serious negotiations for the normalization of relations between them, including consideration of drafts of a treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation, a no-war pact and a joint commission, it is important that the atmosphere not be fouled by the floating of mischievious and untrue allegations. We would therefore like to reiterate the categoric denial already issued by our ambassador in Pakistan and express the hope that all sections of the Pakistan press will conduct themselves with a due sense of responsibility."

CORRESPONDENT CITES ZHAO ZIYANG ON BORDER DISPUTE

BK131705 Hong Kong AFP in English 1412 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct. 13 (AFP) -- Chinese Prime Minister Zhao Ziyang has said that the Sino-Indian border dispute could be settled only on the basis of the five points China put forward in May, in line with its position since 1960, the English-language the HINDU daily reported today.

At the last round of official level talks held in New Delhi in May, Chinese Foreign Ministry advisor Fu Hao proposed the dispute be settled on the basis of equality, friendly consultations, mutual understanding and mutual accommodation, fair and reasonable settlement and comprehensive solution.

Sino-Indian relations have remained soured since 1962 when the two countries fought a brief border war over their long-standing frontier dispute.

The Hindu correspondent G.K. Reddy said that in an interview in Beijing on October 3, "Mr Zhao left no scope at all for any ambiguity about the Chinese stand by stating categorically that China would not compromise on its sovereignty or make any unilateral concession."

Mr Reddy noted that "unfortunately, there was nothing new in the five points which were only components of the classic sentence that the Chinese officials had been repeating since 1960 during various stages of the talks on the border problem."

"The whole accent of Mr Zhao's advocacy of a fair and reasonable solution was on a comprehensive settlement of the entire border problem and its inter-related issues," he added.

He said that, at the same time, Mr Zhao was very keen that Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi should pay a visit to China to keep up the momentum of normalization in other spheres.

The two foreign ministers met in New Delhi in June 1981 and agreed that officials of the two governments should meet soon in an effort to negotiate a settlement of the border dispute and also lay down guidelines for normalization of relations. Two rounds of official level talks held in Beijing and New Delhi since have not produced any significant progress in solving the differences.

The correspondent said Mr Zhao conceded that a border settlement was central to a Sino-Indian normalization, but continued to maintain that the two countries should work together in other fields without waiting for a solution of this complex problem.

HAQ ON U.S. ARMS SUPPLY, ROLE OF ARMED FORCES

BK141241 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said Pakistan, being a Muslim country, is a peaceful nation and it has always chosen for peaceful conditions in the region and the entire world.

He was addressing the officers and jawans [soldiers] at the Armored Corps Union in Naushera today. He said unfortunately, in this modern day the principle of might is right is still being pursued and no one comes to the aid of the weak. Keeping this fact in view the government has embarked upon a program of acquiring weapons for the armed forces. However, the acquisition of arms and equipment was not aimed at attacking anyone. The object is to create confidence in ourselves.

The president lauded the vital and decisive role played by the Armored Corps in different armed conflicts in the past. He however, advised the officers and jawans of corps to attain complete mastery over the new equipment being obtained. They should also strictly follow the principles laid down in the holy Koran and Sunnah as well as the Quaid's maxim of unity, faith and discipline.

Later, addressing the serving and retired officers of corps the president said Pakistan must stand on its own feet as survival of the fittest was still the cardinal principle in the present day world. It was his conviction that if Pakistan was internally secure, then nobody could cast an evil eye on it.

In this context the president referred to the package deal the government had entered with the United States for acquiring weapons. The weapons, he said, had already started coming in and more would come. As a result of implementing the 5-year program, he said Pakistan would not only become a viable but a formidable fortress of Islam. The Armed Forces of Pakistan would not only be able to defend its ideological but also geographical frontiers. The president said Pakistan was meant for Islam as it was created in the name of Islam. The armed forces had to play a prominent and positive role to take the country to its destined goal.

The president pointed to the rich resources of the country and its hardy people. He said its soldiers had also proved their mettle many a time. By utilizing all these resources the country could be turned into a real bastion of Islam. He stressed the need for creating and maintaining extreme accord, not only among the officers but also between the officers and men.

Turning to Afghanistan, the president declared that Pakistan would not let down the Afghan refugees who now comprise the largest ever assembly of refugees in history. He said Pakistan had been striving to settle the Afghanistan question through peaceful means and would continue to do so till the Afghan refugees were able to return to their homes in security and honor.

As for India, the president said Pakistan's relations with it should be based on the principle of equal partner, respect for each other and peaceful relationship. He referred to the offer of a no-war pact made by Pakistan to India.

Earlier on arrival, the president was received at the helipad by Provincial Governor Lt Gen Fazle Haq and Corps Commander Lt Gen C.A. Majid.

RAFSANJANI ON SUPREME DEFENSE COUNCIL MEETING

GF141504 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Report on interview with 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani following Supreme Defense Council meeting in Tehran 12 October -- recorded]

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the Supreme Defense Council held a meeting chaired by Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president of the republic and chairman of the Supreme Defense Council, and attended by other council members. Among those present were: Hashemi-Rafsanjani, representative of the imam to the Supreme Defense Council; Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, prime minister; Brigadier General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces; Colonel Salimi, minister of defense; Brother (?Shamkhani), acting commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards; Colonel Mo'inpur, commander of the air force; and Azizi, deputy foreign minister. The council discussed the situation in certain sectors of the front, future war plans and made decisions.

At the end of the meeting, Hashemi-Rafsanjani spoke with our correspondent:

[Begin recording] [Question] What was discussed at the meeting and what decisions were made?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. At the meeting, reports on the situation at the war fronts were given to members of the Supreme Defense Council. The meeting discussed the final results of the operations and made (?recommendations) concerning war supplies, programs of the air force [words indistinct] and the building and maintenance of delicate war equipment. The meeting also discussed the matter of [word indistinct] of war which we possess and in which progress has been made in addition to other political and military problems.

[Question] Regarding the matters about the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations and the victories achieved in this connection by our fighters, are these operations to be continued?

[Answer] The actions taken there are not final actions. As you are aware, the shortest road from Iran to Baghdad goes through Mandali [word indistinct] Baghdad. The objective of our action was the very same heights that were controlled by Baghdad [words indistinct] on our own land. And, during this prolonged action, it was natural to encounter obstacles. If we are to take some important steps in the future, one of the places from which one should move forward is located there.

The continuation of these operations has certain requirements and, in the coming days, the proposals of the (?strategists), whatever variations they may have with the real situation, will be considered. However, the possibility of continuing the operations is very great indeed.

[Question] (?With regard to the talk of peace that is being heard: Is there any possible change in the Iranian Republic's previous terms insisting on the ouster of Saddam to help bring peace to the area?)

[Answer] Peace mainly has been used as a tactic. In fact, we have concluded that the Iraqis do not really want peace. (?As the Iraqis themselves know), Iraq was talked into the war by reactionary elements in the area and the imperialists. And in view of this, I cannot believe that Iraq is speaking the truth.

Ultimately, peace has been used as a propaganda tool. Only they can use this type of weapons. We cannot use such a weapon because they are in our territory. They are also weak. They are also indebted. They are cruel and the aggressors. And as everyone knows, talks after a cease-fire always bring little results. For example, what happened in Lebanon, Syria, in the war with Israel? They want to create a situation in the name of peace that would deny all our rights. They are not serious in their talk.

However, we are serious. From the first day we spoke of peace until today, we have always been serious and we sincerely want peace. War is devastating to us. We hate war. We are fighting a defensive war and this defense will continue until we act our due. When a thief enters a house and takes away property, the defense against him does not stop at driving him out of the house. One should pursue him and take back the property. We are on the defensive and the state continues until we get our due. Iraq is lying when it talks of peace and noisily says Iran does not want peace. We have said before and say it again that they should come forward and give us our due and the aggressor should be reprimanded. The party responsible for aggression should be identified and it should be determined whether we are the aggressors or Iraq.

[Question] It is reported that the United States and the states associated with it are planning to stage maneuvers in this region. In this connection, meetings have been also held in this region. What is your view about this?

[Answer] This is nothing new. [Words indistinct] or that the United States want to stage maneuvers or not. The United States will use all possible means against us. (?We are already fighting the United States through its friend who is our enemy). We are not surprised at this. In fact, they have organized a vast propaganda campaign. Sudan announces that it is sending aid to Iraq. Iraq declares that it is sending aid. [as heard] The Persian Gulf Cooperation Council begins deliberations, the United Nations meets on security and the world media take up the story. This all is being done to break our will and to present us as warmongers. However, our thinking is clear and our path is clear. (?Our position), fortunately, is growing stronger every day and things are picking up.

[Question] In recent days, the imperialist and Zionist radio and press have been saying that the Islamic Republic (?has met setbacks in the war). What in your view is the aim of this kind of talk?

[Answer] [Words indistinct] From the very beginning of the war this has been their attitude and they have been prejudiced against us. Their propaganda clearly has increased since we have captured certain heights from Iraq and are within (?102) km of Baghdad. We have already proved that we can easily make another jump of another few kilometers, say 10 km or 20 km. If our forces [words indistinct] reach a point from where our guns can hit Baghdad, it would be very difficult for Saddam to (?continue his stay). They know that if we want to take such a step, that is, if we want to move forward as we have done before whenever we wanted, we can.

After the difficult heights east of Mandali to Ba'qubah, there is comparatively open ground and it is not very difficult to cross this stretch. They do realize that our position is very good from a military point of view. Also, the war presently is being fought (?where their shelling will not affect our population).

[Question] What do you say regarding the new law on the organization of the army? How far has the Defense Ministry progressed in this regard?

[Answer] [Words indistinct] I have said (?the determination of our aims and objectives) has succeeded. It is possible, we hope, that we should announce it, and God willing, it will be announced at the proper time.

REZA'I VIEWS SUCCESS OF RECENT OPERATIONS

LD141112 Tehran IRNA in English 0914 GMT 14 Oct 82

["Iraqi Numerical, Material Superiority Proved Valueless Last Offensive" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Kerman, Oct 13 IRNA -- The commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps [IRGC] Mohsen Reza'i said here today that between 50 to 60 Iraqi fighter planes and three brigades participated in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations (started on Oct 1).

Yet, he added, the Islamic combatants traversed over 10 kilometres of arduous mountainous by-roads during the first night and after passing between 50 to 60 mine-fields reached the feeble enemy and inflicted a great defeat upon it. The Islamic combatants suffered only 22 martyrs that night from a personnel of 15,000. The epic, he said, was unprecedented during the former operations.

The commander stated that the Islamic combatants captured the heights overlooking Mandali city, 100 kms from Baghdad.

Reza'i also said that another 40 kms of progress would enable the Islamic defenders to have any part of Baghdad within their artillery range, adding that the Iraqis need four divisions to prevent this.

Speaking on the desertion of troops from the Iraqi Army, he said Saddam was bewildered whether he should take care of Al-Basrah or this region.

The IRGC commander expressed hope that the war would be brought to an end by the Islamic combatants in the interests of Muslims.

Commenting on the results of his trips to some of the southern and central provinces of the country, Reza'i said, "We concluded that not even us [as received] were aware of our resources and the power of our nation."

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,079

LD141744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,079 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. With greetings to all the combative and brave sons of Islam and with thanks to all the heroes of the battlefronts for their self-sacrifices, a summary of the combat operations on the fronts is brought to your attention.

Yesterday, exchanges of heavy weapon fire continued in the western operational zone of the country; they were most intense in the (Miyan Tang) area.

Artillery fire of the Ground Forces of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and of the frontline units resulted in four light and heavy vehicles and one construction vehicle of the enemy being destroyed and three ammunition dumps of the Saddamist forces being set on fire. The enemy yesterday suffered 170 dead and wounded in this region.

At 1300 on 12 October, the enemy forces, using tanks and helicopters, attempted to penetrate our forces' defense positions on the Naft-e Shah-Sumar axis, but they were faced with the timely confrontation of the combative units of Islam and retreated after suffering losses and casualties.

Yesterday, on one of the western fronts, our forces opened fire on enemy positions, killing 20 Iraqi mercenaries and destroying a number of the aggressors' foxholes and trenches.

Our victorious combatants in the western region are in control of all zones and with the utmost power are carrying out their missions.

In the southern operational zone, our artillery units' heavy fire yesterday foiled all activities of the aggressive enemy and the forces of Islam, enjoying combat superiority, defended their positions.

Gunfire of the personnel of the Navy of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud destroyed six foxholes and trenches of the enemy, killing the occupants.

In the past 24 hours, some of the residential areas of Abadan came under the sporadic heavy weapon fire of the enemy; three houses and part of a religious center were destroyed and a government building was damaged.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

BAKHTARAN FRIDAY IMAM ASSASSINATED 15 OCTOBER

SENTENCING OF 'QOTBZADEH'S ACCOMPLICES' REPORTED

GF140626 [Editorial report] Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian in its 2 October issue on page 2 carries a communique issued by the army revolutionary court, reporting the crimes of a number of Qotbzadeh's accomplices and their sentences. The communique, outlining the crimes of Seyyed Mehdi Mahdavi, says: The crimes were proven in the eyes of the court and therefore Seyyed Mehdi Mahdavi is considered a tyrant and corrupt and sentenced to be executed.

The communique then outlines the crimes of Col Qasem Hoseyni, "a former army prosecutor conversant with the judiciary who, by using this knowledge, resorted to clever measures during his interrogation and in court to pretend that he was not aware of the plot." He also is considered "a tyrant and corrupt" by the court and sentenced to be executed.

The crimes of Hoseyn Shavisi are recounted; he is sentenced to life imprisonment because "he was not completely aware of the plot and was arrested before handing over a house" to other plotters.

The communique goes on to review the crimes of other accused members of the group and their sentences. Darab Foruzan is sentenced to life imprisonment since "he was unaware of the main plot and was arrested before handing the house over or committing any other act." Mehdi Zar'e received a 15-year sentence "for his sincerity during the interrogation and in court." Col Javad Najafi received a 10-year sentence for the extent of his involvement even though "he denied all charges against him."

Retired Col Mahmud Zarrin-Khameh received a 10-year sentence "on the basis of the contents of the files, his confessions and the confessions of other defendants." Davad (Monaqebi-Bava'i) received an 8-year sentence and was disrobed for "having contacted Shari'atmadari to obtain his support." Shapur Pazhuhandeh received a 2-year sentence. "Because the files of Mas'ud Riazi, 'Abdolreza Hejazi and Ahmad 'Abbasi were incomplete, they were returned to the prosecutor's office and the executions of Seyyed Mehdi Mahdavi and Col Qasem Hoseyni were carried out."

SHARI'ATMADARI PLEADS FOR SON-IN-LAW'S RELEASE

LD091518 Tehran IRNA in English 1015 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 9, IRNA -- Seyyed Kazem Shari'atmadari has written a letter to the Islamic revolutionary court of the military, pleading for the release of his son-in-law Ahmad 'Abbasi, currently awaiting court verdict on charges of plotting to overthrow the Islamic Republic with Sadeq Qotbzadeh who along with two other accomplices was executed last month.

The letter dated, Sept 27, was published in today's issue of JOMHURI ISLAMI:

"In the name of the most high -- the revolutionary chief of the revolutionary court of the military, Hojjat ol-Eslam Mohammad Reyshahri.

"As you know I have given my vote for the Islamic Republic openly and I had accepted and I do accept the leadership of Ayatollah al-Ozma Khomeyni. I do not have any contacts with counterrevolutionary individuals or with their groups inside or outside (the country). I deny their stand and statements published by them and I believe their (acts) to be treason. I condemn the persons such as Mas'ud Rajavi, Reza Pahlavi, Bani-Sadr, Ashrai Pahlovi, Bakhtiar, Ahmad Madani, (Oveisi), 'Ali Amini, Hasan Nazih, Moqadam Maraqehie, and groups and organisations such as the Munafiqeen-e Khalq (MKO), Komeleh, Fedayeen-e Khalq, the Tudeh Party, monarchists, Democrats (Kurdish Democratic Party), National Front, and the outlawed Khalq Musalman Party and I believe them to be treacherous, and relying on the East or West.

"I request your honour to pardon my son-in-law Mr Ahmad 'Abbasi, who according to my view is a religious and faithful person, and (pardon him) in case he had been fooled by such treacherous and unpatriotic persons connected to the executed Qotbzadeh.

"In this respect, I have already requested to his honour Ayatollah al-Ozma Khomeyni for his pardon and forgiveness, which I hope will be accepted, with the help of God.

"And I, who had listened to (executed) Mehdi Mahdavi, on some matters in connection with the issue of Qotbzadeh, and failed in informing the matter to the concerned officials, am regretful and I ask for apology from the courageous and combatant people of Iran and I ask for pardon and forgiveness in the presence of the exalted God. Of course I will urge Hasan Agha Shari'atmadari (his son) who is abroad, not to be influenced by the mentioned unpatriotic individuals and other counterrevolutionary persons and not to have any connections with them. Seyyed Kazam Shari'atmadari."

Last May, Shari'atmadari had appeared on television and had pleaded for forgiveness for not informing the government officials of Qotbzadeh's plan to bomb the residence of Imam Khomeyni.

Qotbzadeh was arrested in April after being suspected of counterrevolutionary activities. He later confessed in a televised interview that he and a number of civilian and militarymen were attempting to martyr Imam Khomeyni and blame the incident on the imam's close aids thus being able to take over power. He was executed on Sept 15th after standing trial in the Islamic revolutionary court of the military here.

Two other of his co-conspirators, Mehdi Mahdavi and a colonel, Qasem Hoseyni, were also executed on Sept 29th.

Ahmad 'Abbasi, Abdolreza Hezjazi, and Mas'ud Riazi, are still awaiting their court verdict after their cases were held for further investigations.

Meanwhile the daily JOMHURI ISLAMI, while publishing the letter, also commented that the Islamic court could not pardon someone "because of the request of this or that person... the acceptance of Shari'atmadari's request by the court would be discrimination and would not have any justification."

"Can anyone believe that the writer of this letter is the same person who claimed leadership of the revolution and believed himself to be a marja' taqlid (ranking religious juresprudent)?" it asked. The paper further noted that what kind of an authority could a person have while showing so much impotence in this letter.

Concerning earlier events just after the revolutionary takeover of the U.S. Embassy by Muslim militant students in the springof 1980, the paper also printed a letter Shari'atmadari had written to the residents of Khalkhal in East-Azarbaijan Province, in which he had assured his supporters there that he would act upon his "religious duty" if obstacles were made against his Khalq Musalman (Muslim People) Party.

Khalq Musalman was banned shortly after it made a number of counterrevolutionary moves in East-Azarbaijan, which led to a number of secret clashes between the supporters of Shari'atmadari and the people there.

The paper said that this letter was just the same as the one he had written for dissolving of Khalq Musalman Party, only after it was too late and the people had learned of the group's U.S. inspired activities.

MUSAVI DISCUSSES OPEC, IRAQ, GULF COUNTRIES

GF131851 Tehran JOMHURI-YE ESLAMI in Persian 27 Sep 82 p 2

["Exclusive" interview with Prime Minister Musavi -- date, place not given]

[Excerpts] [Question] What is the role of the Islamic Republic in OPEC and how have we affected the prices?

[Answer] When we look at the operations of OPEC since its inception, we see that Iran has had a positive role. It is among those organizations looked at positively by our country. However, there are other countries among OPEC members who give priority to the interests of the United States, the West and oppressive powers over their own interests, and due to this, there is always some form of contrast in the oil policies within OPEC. Had we not faced this matter attentively it would have been possible for this organization to be transformed into an organization that could deal a blow against our Islamic revolution at some point in time.

[Question] What will be the position of the Islamic Republic toward the countries that have aided the Iraqi regime in some form after the end of the war imposed by Iraq on Iran?

[Answer] We have no intention of fighting the countries of the region and repeatedly have announced our policies on the subject. We repeatedly have warned that cooperation with the flimsy regime of Saddam is not to the advantage of any of the countries of the region and have heard good answers in this respect from around the Gulf. Realists have portrayed the future well and have answered our call positively. In general, we base our foreign policy on the actions of each regime. Naturally, if a country continues its confrontationist policies toward us, a country that has bloodied the American nose and has dealt them such blows, we can easily act against the confrontationist policies of such countries. Those countries who want to have peace and stability in the area must not be afraid of our chants of "God is great" raised in our country against the oppressive powers and we can have friendly relations with such countries.

[Question] God forbid, had Saddam won this war, to what extent would he have threatened the entire region and especially the Gulf countries?

[Answer] Saddam's victory in this war could have been considered a U.S. victory in the entire region. It naturally would have wanted to seriously threaten the existence of our Islamic Republic.

[Question] How will the Islamic Republic of Iran protect the other countries of the region against the aggressions of the Iraqi regime?

[Answer] Iraq no longer has the power to commit aggressions against other countries; it has to hold on to its hat before the wind takes it. We hope that, with the help and reliance on the Almighty and the sacrifice of our fighters, we soon will see the distruction of Saddam in the area.

GUARDS CORPS URGES VOLUNTEERS TO SIGN UP

In an announcement released tonight, the IRGC said that the volunteers would be sent "to ward off the aggression of world arrogance by the hands of the Ba'thist regime ruling in Iraq and (therefore) to be the ones who would open the road to the (Karbala)."

In a separate development, the Islamic ad-Da'wah Party of Iraq released a statement today on the maryrdom of three Iraqi Muslim fighters in the battlefronts of the (?imposed war). It said that the martyrs [words indistinct] along the Iranian Muslim forces.

Also the statement said that there will be a ceremony tomorrow afternoon at Tehran's Ark Mosque to commemorate the maryrs.

BUSHEHR GUARDS COMMANDER COMMENTS ON WAR

GF120622 Bushehr Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 11 Oct 82

[Part I of interview with Bushehr Islamic Revolution Guards Corps Commander Mohammadi following his return from the fronts -- date not given -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Dear listeners, we are with Brother Mohammadi, commander of the Bushehr Islamic Revolution Guard Corps, after his long presence at the fronts of right against wrong. Brother Mohammadi, please tell us about the battlefronts and the status of the activities of the revolutionary forces.

[Answer] We see today old men with white hair and youths who have yet to reach thier manhood on the fronts. This shows that we follow a philosphical line contrary to the (?propaganda uproar) of the superpowers and the so-called world military experts about the presence of our youth on the fronts; this is how we want it to be. As Imam Hoseyn, our leader, sacrificed his youth and even his child for his philosophy, we also must continue on this road. And the uproar by the superpowers and the sly of the world is of no importance to us. As far as support for the fronts is concerned, this clearly shows the sacrifice of our people. With one look, we can see that material -- especially food -- that cannot be seen in any house in our nation today can be found at the fronts in a more than sufficient amount. Thus, our fighters enjoy very good conditions in this respect. This is a very important matter. Considering the length of the war which has exceeded 2 years, the economic stagnation which has been caused by our revolutionary trends and the enemy's economic embargo, nothing has effected us. While our fighters are at the fronts, the people sincerely and with sacrifice help them with their financial support.

Operationally speaking, our people have excellent morale. It is a condition that cannot be explained by anyone. In the majority of fronts, I should say in all of them, thanks to the almighty, we enjoy the upper hand. There is not a great deal of movement in the southern fronts at the moment, it is mostly an exchange of artillery fire.

Our forces are in a defensive mode and, God willing, will be preparing themselves for the near future. What I should say about the southern front and the areas around Basra, as our umma' observe, our forces are several kilometers inside Iraq, especially around (?Zeyd) which is an Iraqi post now occupied by our forces. The Iraqis have concentrated all their forces at this front because they assumed that we have concentrated all our forces there. They resorted to all their tricks to stop any further advance by our forces into their territory. However, with our latest operation, the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operation, we showed them that it was not so and, at any time and anywhere we wish, we can begin to act with the Lord's help and our actions will be effective and will achieve the desired goal. While our forces have excellent morale, the Iraqi forces have a very weak one because they are not fighting for a goal.

Part II of Interview

GF131416 Bushehr Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 12 Oct 82

[Part II of interview with Bushehr Islamic Revolution Guard Corps Commander Mohammadi, following his return from the fronts -- date not given -- recorded]

[Excerpt] In reply to a question from our correspondent regarding his analysis of the reaction and the widespread propaganda by the adherents of reactionism following the latest attack by the Islamic forces in the western part of the country and the UN Security Council meeting held in this connection, Brother Mohammadi said:

In this connection, the major issue, as you should understand, is that the major powers, both Western and Eastern, who are directly interested in the war that Iraq is leading, aim at saving the Baghdad regime. And, according to our intelligence, neither the United States nor the Soviet Union has so far found a suitable puppet, or a slavish and obedient replacement for Saddam, to serve them in Iraq. Therefore, they are trying to save the present regime by whatever means they can find. To achieve their objective, they might try any possible method. For example, the past few days have been very crucial from the Western point of view for these reasons:

Before the operations in the Sumar sector, the Iraqi forces held certain strategic portions of our territory and were able to extend their control over all Sumar. They also had a comparatively small force deployed, that included between two and three brigades and which could operate with some ease in that area.

However, with the start of the operations, which were charismatic indeed, and which included help from providence that was even sensed by the brothers fighting in that area, the Iraqis were somewhat surprised.

What is more, through the operation against the Iraqis, our forces have gained complete control over the area. Here, between the Iraqi towns of Mandali and Baghdad, there is a 100 km stretch of road that is flat and desolate. It would not be very difficult for our forces to gain the heights of [name indistinct] on this road from where they would be able to shell Baghdad itself. The problem is very grave indeed for the regime in Baghdad and for the other powers.

On the other hand, as I have said before, Iraq, in order to have a defense line in front of Baghdad was deploying only two brigades of its army. Currently, even when they have to defend a plain, they are forced to deploy a very large number of forces, at least four divisions.

This is backbreaking for Saddam. According to our intelligence, he might use four divisions in the aforementioned area because this area is very important to them. However, if that happens, it will create a gap for the Iraqi Army and make the Iraqi defeat 100 percent definite, with the help of God.

Furthermore, with the beginning of the operations, Saddam was naturally nervous and started complaining to all the so-called international organizations and the human rights organization. And these in turn, because the safety of Saddam is vital to them, are holding meetings and talking of peace and end without any conditions.

The situation becomes ridiculous because, after 2 years of Iraqi destruction and devastation visited on us, they would never have proposed a cease-fire on our behalf. Even if they had, it would have been to save Iraqi gains. When our forces declare we are prepared to take Baghdad and liberate Jerusalem, these organizations ridicule us. This is quite natural. Whenever we have talked of revolutions similar to that in Iran, which by the grace of God has succeeded and has been recognized by the world at large, these organizations have reacted by creating similar situations and busily holding meetings. However, our revolution in no way has been affected by them nor is it expected to be so. With help from God, they will not have any affect.

SUDANESE MILITARY AID TO IRAQ CRITICIZED

GF090708 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 8 Oct 82

[Excerpt] What is the value of the Sudanese support, if it is real? And what is its influence on the military equation that exists on the war fronts and that favors the Islamic Republic?

Had Numayri only thought a little of the problem of his dear friend Saddam he would not have adopted a decision to send a brigade of his armed forces and he would not have embroiled himself in a net from which he cannot free himself.

Saddam's problem is not in the lack of numbers or equipment as Numayri, Husni Mubarak and others believe and who, in response, send him arms and soldiers. Saddam's main problem is his adherence to falsehood and his continuing pursuit of the path of evil so much so that the sincere sons of the Iraqi people had to renounce him and condemn his regime to popular isolation. The rest of his soldiers were taken by force from their homes to the fighting fronts and have very low morale.

This is, in brief, Saddam's problem in the war. He does not lack soldiers. He lacks morale and faith in this aggressive war that he is waging against Islam. So what is the use of the Sudanese forces and what is the benefit of Numayri's decision to enter the war in support of Saddam while he himself suffers from a bad security situation and from the deterioration of the military and economic situations?

If we discuss the reality of the Numayri decision in view of the existing situation in Sudan, we find that the goals of this decision does not exceed propagandist aims. As it is known, the Sudanese Army is not more than 70,000 soldiers and possesses 44 Soviet and British-made old fighter planes. As for its other weapons, they are also old and are not fit for a long war. As for the training of this army, it was based on these old weapons, and thus, its military efficiency is quite low.

At the same time, the Sudanese regime also faces a severe economic recession. Its debts exceed $4 billion and inflation is eating away its octopodan arms and the entire individual income of all the oppressed Sudanese masses. This is Sudan's situation under the shadow of Numayri's regime and under the new colonial hegemony in Sudan.

IRNA REPORTS 'OUTLAWS, BANDITS' KILLED IN CLASHES

LD102112 Tehran IRNA in English 2014 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] Sanandaj, Oct. 9, IRNA -- Seven outlaws were killed in one of the villages of Marivan, Kordestan Province during clashes with Islamic revolutionary guards on Friday.

Also, in another clash in one of the villages of Naqadeh, in West Azarbayjan Province, three thugs were killed and several others were wounded and the rest fled the scene in a clash with Islamic combatants on Thursday. The clash occurred following an attack by counterrevolutionary groups upon the village. During the 90 minute clash, the outlaws inflicted damages upon some of the houses using heavy and light arms.

CLANDESTINE EXAMINES CLASHES IN KORDESTAN

GF101843 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 10 Oct 82

[Text] According to our correspondent, 12,000 armed Kurdish fighters, in a lighting attack, liberated areas recently occupied by guards, forcing the Khomeyni forces to retreat. They inflicted heavy casualties on the guards.

The clandestine Seda-ye Iran radio, quoting a dispatch by its correspondent, reported that in northwestern Iran and the Kurdish areas, heavy clashes are going on.

About 70,000 guards and mobilization personnel participated in the attack against the armed Kurdish fighters, whose main bases are around Mahabad. They used heavy artillery and destroyed dozens of villages and murdered thousands of unarmed, innocent people.

According to a report by a French volunteer doctor, the Khomeyni guards used napalm and phosphorous bombs in their attacks against Kurdish regions.

Our correspondent states: The armed Kurdish fighters have been able to strongly crush the attacks by the guards. Four of the well-known Iranian Kurdish tribes have joined the forces opposing Khomeyni's regime.

The first strong clash with the revolution guards in Kurdish regions occurred last week when Kurdish fighters attacked several military bases in the area.

In these battles, Kurdish fighters succeeded in capturing two major areas which reach two western Iranian cities.

According to our reports, in the latest clashes between the armed Kurds and revolution guards, hundreds from each side have been killed or wounded. Members of four tribes -- Shakkak, Bahiadeh, Sinkuh and Hartis -- have been moved to the border regions near Pakistan during the past weeks on the order of Khomeyni and by the revolution guards because of their close relations with the opposition.

According to a Kurdish spokesman, 'Ali Qazi, all these people are being kept in tents that are surrounded by barbed wire and guarded by armed guards.

According to our correspondent, Khomeyni intends to establish his Shi'ite faith among the Sunni Kurds. Dispatch of hundreds of Shi'a mullahs to Kurdish cities in recent weeks and religious proaganda has angered Kurdish religious leaders.

Three other struggling groups, including the Kurdish Democratic Party, are currently fighting the forces dispatched by the regime to the west of the country. All activities of these tribes are reported to areas outside Kordestan.

KHOMEYNI SUPPORTS AGRICULTURE, SMALL INDUSTRY

LD091432 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 Oct 82

[Text] Mr Banki, minister of state in charge of plan and budget organizations, accompanied by deputies of these organizations, this morning was received in audience by Imam Khomeyni, the leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

During this audience, Mr Banki presented a report to the imam of the Islamic ummai pertaining to the achievements of these organizations. Afterwards, Imam Khomeyni graciously made some remarks, the text of which is:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. One of our important problems is the economy. We must try to become economically strong and independent. We should pay more attention to agriculture, which was neglected by the former regime in order to make us dependent. Of course, we must develop industry as well. However, if we deviate from agriculture, we will lose what we have. The aim of the former regime, with all its propaganda about the great civilization, was to destroy our agriculture. In a country with water resources and land, they wasted water and the agricultural lands were abandoned. People should avoid wasting water. They should take advantage of the land. People should be active in the agricultural sector and in small industries.

The attention paid by the government to heavy industries should not make them neglect small industries and thus lead to their destruction. The government must use all its power in the agricultural sector.

The reason behind the supervision of the clergy in the Economic Council and in other programs is that they have knowledge of shari'a affairs and their supervision will ensure that the plan prepared by you will not be rejected by the Islamic Consultative Assembly and the Council of Guardians when you send these plans for approval. As a result, things will become easy and you will not waste time on programs.

I say prayers for you and all those who serve Islam and the revolution. I hope you will be successful.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

18 OCTOBER 1982

Israel

The prime minister and the deputy foreign minister told the 17 October Cabinet session that the United States accepts the principles proposed by Israel for security arrangements between Israel and Lebanon following an IDF withdrawal, Jerusalem radio reported. However, Israel and the United States still differ on the presence of UN forces in southern Lebanon and over the timing of the PLO withdrawal from the country, the radio noted. Other points of U.S.-Israeli disagreement concern Israel's desire to maintain Foreign Ministry representation in Beirut and its demand for warning stations and reconnaissance overflights, according to MA'ARIV and IDF radio. Nevertheless, in remarks broadcast by Jerusalem radio, Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor asserted that Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir's talks in Washington were "good discussions in a good atmosphere" and that while differences between Israel and the United States persist, there is no big gap. According to the radio, Meridor denied reports that the Americans have threatened to link U.S. aid to Israel with Israel's willingness to negotiate on President Ronald Reagan's peace plan. He also denied recently reported allegations by Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres that Israel threatened to use force against Egypt if the latter broke diplomatic relations because of the war in Lebanon. The radio noted that during his talks in Washington, Foreign Minister Shamir emphasized to the Americans the gravity with which Israel regards the recall of Egypt's ambassador from Tel Aviv.

Citing information "leaked from the White House," the Labor newspaper DAVAR claimed that the U.S. Administration has developed a detailed plan to topple the government of Prime Minister Menahem Begin. The plan, "which is now in very advanced stages," aims at establishing a national unity government headed by former Defense Minister 'Ezer Weizman, DAVAR contended.

Lebanon

Military, Security Situation -- The Syrians again violated the cease-fire on 16 October, wounding an IDF soldier in eastern Lebanon, ITIM reported. However, in a statement broadcast by Damascus television the same day, a Syrian military spokesman accused the Israelis of violating the cease-fire west of Zahlah, using machineguns and tank gunfire.

The previous day, an IDF soldier was killed by a car-bomb explosion near Bhamdun, Jerusalem radio reported citing the IDF spokesman. Voice of Lebanon radio said five other Israelis were wounded in the explosion. A WAFA report cited by Amman radio claimed that Palestinian commandos killed five Israeli soldiers on 16 October near Tyre. While monitored Israeli sources did not mention any such incident that day, Jerusalem radio said two IDF soldiers were wounded by a grenade attack in the area the following evening.

Beirut radio reports on 16 October spoke of "cautious calm" in the 'Alayh region, where Druze and Christian militias had clashed during the week. The radio said up to 12 people were killed and about 60 were wounded in the fighting. The clashes subsided after Israeli troops intervened to separate the warring parties, Jerusalem radio reported. At a meeting chaired by President Amin al-Jumayyil, Druze and Phalangist representatives agreed to allow the Lebanese Army into the 'Alayh area and to ban "illegal armed manifestations," a statement broadcast by Beirut radio announced. Although the radio said the Lebanese Army would enter the area on 17 October as soon as the Israelis withdrew from it, Jerusalem radio subsequently noted that the IDF was still maintaining its positions in the Ash-Shuf mountain villages. A Druze spokesman said in remarks broadcast by the radio that the Israelis have promised to continue policing the area for a week, after which they will withdraw in favor of the Lebanese Army.

In Beirut, the Lebanese Army violently dispersed demonstrators who had cut off the road to the airport on 15 October, according to a Defense Ministry statement carried by Beirut radio. Reports by the Voice of Lebanon and the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio indicated that the protesters were inhabitants of illegally erected buildings which the authorities are now attempting to pull down.

President's UN Visit -- President al-Jumayyil departed Lebanon for the United Nations on 17 October, Beirut radio noted.

UNIFIL Situation -- Lebanon has asked the UN Security Council to renew UNIFIL's mandate for a further 3 months, the Voice of Lebanon reported. Meanwhile, ITIM cited reports by UNIFIL spokesmen that the IDF and UNIFIL recently clashed in southern Lebanon.

PLO Presence in Al-Biqa' -- PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir said in a press interview reported by QNA that the Palestinian forces will remain in the Al-Biqa' Valley under all circumstances.

Arab Committee-PLO

The committee created by the 12th Arab summit to explain the Arab peace plan to UN Security Council permanent members met near Fes under the chairmanship of Moroccan King Hassan II, Rabat radio reported. After the 15 October meeting, Moroccan Minister of State for Foreign Affairs M'hamed Boucetta announced that the whole seven-member committee, which includes the PLO, will leave for Washington on 22 October, the radio noted. PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat subsequently stated that the PLO will be represented in all the meetings that the committee will hold with the five Security Council members, according to Monte Carlo radio. The PLO leader, who was in Morocco at the time of the Arab committee meeting, returned to Tunis on 16 October and flew to Kuwait early the next day, according to MAP and KUNA reports. Sources cited by the Voice of Lebanon alleged that 'Arafat has been advised to remain in North Africa for the moment because his "positive attitude" toward a Palestinian-Jordanian confederation has endangered his life. Meanwhile, a Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine newspaper published in Syria denounced King Husayn's goal of a Palestinian-Jordanian confederation and stressed the need for the PLO to remain committed to close strategic relations with Syria, Monte Carlo radio reported.

Broadcasting Developments

Iraq has authorized the establishment of a new Palestinian radio station in Baghdad to replace the "Voice of Palestine" which used to transmit from Beirut before the PLO withdrawal, an Amman source cited by AFP reported. The agreement to create the new service was reached during Yasir 'Arafat's recent visit to Iraq.

In another development, a Saudi Information Ministry statement broadcast by Riyadh radio announced that Jidda radio would begin a second program on 18 October.

GCC

GCC Interior ministers met in Riyadh on 17 October at the start of a conference aimed at establishing a "collective security pact" to defend the Gulf states against subversion and conspiracies, KUNA reported. Meanwhile, GCC information control officials meeting in Abu Dhabi decided to cooperate in defending their countries against hostile foreign media through a "permanent committee for information control," KUNA noted. The officials recommended that press reports attacking GCC regimes should be banned and called on Gulf newspapers not to publish statements harmful to the GCC states.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Situation -- Iraqi military communiques carried by INA and Baghdad radio from 15 to 17 October claimed that over 300 Iranian troops died in fighting in the central battle sector. The 15 October Iranian Armed Forces communique carried by Tehran radio asserted that an Iraqi MiG-23 was downed by Iranian fighters in the western area of Iran, but this was later denied by an Iraqi military spokesman cited by INA. According to Tehran radio, Iranian operations in the Meymak region resulted in 150 Iraqis killed or wounded. A commentary on the radio alleged that Iraq has been receiving arms from many countries, including 400 T-55 tanks from Poland.

Saddam Husayn Remarks, Sudanese Visit -- Iraqi President Saddam Husayn told a delegation from the German magazine STERN that a number of Arab leaders are ready to send their armies to assist Iraq in its war with Iran, and that if the war continues, Arab military involvement will "expand and develop," Baghdad radio reported. INA subsequently noted the arrival in Baghdad of a Sudanese delegation headed by First Vice President Staff Maj Gen 'Umar Muhammad at-Tayyib.

Iran

Following the 15 October assassination of Bakhtaran Friday Imam Ayatollah Hajj Ata'ollah Ashrafi-Esfahani, the Mojahedin-e Khalq issued a statement in Paris claiming responsibility for the deed, the clandestine Free Voice of Iran radio reported. The statement said he was killed in the "sixth suicide operation" against colleagues of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni and alleged that he was responsible for many executions. A statement issued by Khomeyni and carried by Tehran radio condemned Ashrafi-Esfahani's killers and viewed his death as a "blow to Islam." Meanwhile, Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said in remarks carried by the radio that Iran considers France and its government "accomplices" in such terrorist acts because they harbor the Mojahedin leadership. He added that Iranians might take revenge against the French for this position.

AFP: SOVIETS RENEW BOMBING RAIDS AROUND KABUL

[By Michel-Martin Roland]

[Text] Peshawar, northwest Pakistan, Oct 16 (AFP) -- Soviet authorities in Afghanistan have launched new bombing raids around Kabul to drive out the population and deprive the resistance of its main bases near the capital, reliable sources close to Afghan resistance fighters said here.

They said that heavy bombardment of villages in a radius of 30 km from Kabul had resumed 10 days ago after a break of several months.

A French traveller, who was near Kabul last Sunday, confirmed Western diplomatic reports that the town of Paghman, 15 km northwest of the capital, and neighbouring villages were coming under massive shelling from land and air.

Tanks, helicopters and MiG fighter-bombers were involved in the attacks on resistance bases in the villages and on surrounding hills, said Jean-Jose Puig, chairman of the "Friends of Afghanistan" association who has just spent two-and-a-half months with the mujahidin of the fundamentalist Moslem group Hezb-e Eslami.

In this region, where the mujahidin went into action each night, he said several villages had been abandoned. The same picture was true in Vardak and Lowgar Provinces, west and south of Kabul, which he visited.

"The people have left, harvests have been destroyed by the Soviets and the irrigation systems have spoiled for want of upkeep," he said.

The Afghan resistance fighters, in villages at least a 2-hour walk from the suburbs of Kabul, planned for their nightly excursions into the capital. But coordination was poor among the various groups, some of which belong to rival parties. The mujahidin also seemed badly informed about the positions, arms and numbers of their enemies, Mr Puig said.

According to witnesses, Paghman has changed hands regularly for the past 2 years. Mr Puig said the Moslem insurgents were capable of driving out Soviet-backed Afghan Government forces but unable to retain their hold on the town.

Western diplomatic sources reported some days ago that villages were also being bombed and searched north of Kabul and that harvests there were burned and herds wiped out.

Here in Peshawar, several sources close to the Afghan resistance said Soviet control of Kabul had been undermined significantly during this year.

They said the current Soviet and government offensive around Kabul, following shortly after an earlier offensive in the Panjsher Valley further north, was aimed at breaking the stranglehold slowly being tightened around the capital by the resistance.

The Soviets, they said, hoped to have more control over civilians who had left their villages to swell the already dense population of Kabul.

The Soviets were also hoping that the heavy death toll caused by the bombardments would turn civilians against the resistance fighters, Mr Puig said. But this psychological objective appeared to have failed and the "morale" of the population remained high, he added.

Meanwhile insurgent harassment of Soviet and Afghan positions in Paktia Province bordering Pakistan was being maintained as of Wednesday, Mr Puig confirmed.

Doctors in Peshawar also testified to the heavy fighting and said they were receiving a constant stream of wounded mujahidin seeking treatment.

The Paktia insurgents, grouped essentially along tribal lines, are aiming to seize control of Khost, a garrison town lying in the plain adjoining the Pakistan border.

They have succeeded in cutting communication lines between Khost and Gardez, the provincial capital, and were keeping up pressure on the town's defensive positions, resistance sources here said.

According to Western experts, however, the insurgents are unlikely to gain rapid control of Khost even though incursions into the town have already taken place.

They said the mujahidins' present objective at the approach of winter was to halt supplies of food and firewood to the town.

ERSHAD DESCRIBES VISIT TO INDIA AS 'HISTORIC'

BK161604 Dacca THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 9 Oct 82 p 5

[Editorial: "A Historic Visit"]

[Text] Lt. Gen. H.M. Ershad, the chief martial law administrator [CMLA], who has just returned from a two-day official visit to India, has described the visit as 'historic' and his talks with Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the Indian prime minister, as 'successful'.

The joint communique which has been issued at the end of the visit shows the extent of the success the CMLA has referred to and its quality. Gen. Ershad was warmly received in India. He has himself interpreted this warmth as sign of India's desire to have 'a very friendly relation' with Bangladesh. This would be in the interest of both the countries. Barriers which have tended, in one way or another, to make this relationship less adequate than the ideal in the past have contributed nothing to the growth of the two developing countries and the welfare of their people, and these are not such as to prove to be insurmountable. What the CMLA and the Indian prime minister have tried to do this week seems to be to identify and make an honest attempt to remove these. The CMLA has said that they have agreed to remove constraints to good relationship between the two countries, adding that he is hopeful about the growth of a very friendly relationship between the two. It is this spirit which is important. This memorable visit of Gen. Ershad would, we hope, mark the beginning of a new era of understanding and cooperation between the two countries.

The specific tasks which have been accomplished during the visit are no less important and reflect the spirit of understanding. An agreement has been signed between the two countries for lease-in-perpetuity of Tin Bigha to Bangladesh. This removes a hurdle which had for long created problems in the concerned sector of the border. A joint economic commission is being set up. The task of the commission would be to explore areas of economic cooperation. The trade imbalance between the two countries is likely to be narrowed down since India has agreed to examine the long term agreements with a view to increasing import from Bangladesh. Extension of time period of credit given to Bangladesh would also be considered. Both the countries have agreed to resolve the issue of delimitation of the maritime boundary in a spirit of good neighbourliness. Talks are going to be held soon at the secretary level for studying additional information exchanged between the two countries on South Talpatty so that the issue can be resolved soon and peacefully. The two countries have also emphasized the need for continuing efforts aimed at securing cooperation between the South Asian nations. A comprehensive programme for cooperation is going to be launched soon by the foreign ministers of the seven regional countries concerned, and both Bangladesh and India are satisfied over the progress.

The agreement on the sharing of the Ganges water scheduled to expire on November 9 has been extended for a period of two more dry seasons. Gen. Ershad has said that the two countries have agreed, for the first time, to try and find out a permanent solution of the problem. The joint river commission would undertake a pre-feasibility study during the next eighteen months. The question of augmentation of the flow of the Ganges water would be approached, during the feasibility study, with an open mind and without any preconceived notion. We consider this to be a significant progress.

As India and Bangladesh become friendlier in days to come, resolving problems would be easier than now. This, we hope, would happen sooner than later.

ACCORD SIGNED WITH FRANCE FOR MIRAGE-2000'S

BK180849 Hong Kong AFP in English 0814 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct. 18 (AFP) -- France and India have signed an agreement for the supply of 40 Mirage-2000 fighter aircraft fitted with the latest weapons systems including Exocet air-to-sea missiles, officials said here today.

A comprehensive deal for the single-seat supersonic multi-role aircraft was concluded here on Saturday, but officially confirmed by the Defence Ministry today.

First deliveries of the aircraft would begin in October 1984. The last of the 40 Mirages would be supplied to the Indian Air Force by December 1986, the officials said.

Saturday's signing followed a deal worked out earlier this year under which India would buy 40 "ready-to-fly" Mirages and another 120 to be assembled under license.

It was not immediately known if India would go ahead with the local production.

During his visit here last week French Defence Minister Charles Hernu went to the Bangalore factory of Hindustan Aeronautics where the Mirages would be built if the deal goes ahead.

The factory is already assembling Anglo-French Jaguar planes and French Alouette helicopters.

India started looking for an advanced fighter aircraft after the United States agreed to supply the F-16 aircraft to neighbouring Pakistan, defence experts said.

With the introduction of the Mirage-2000, the fighting power of the Indian Air Force will increase significantly. The force has over 615 combat aircraft, including the newly [words indistinct] Jaguar deep-penetration planes and Soviet MiG's.

India will receive the new generation of Matra Super 530-D air-to-air missiles for the planes. The Mirages will also be fitted with the latest internal-mounted intelligence gathering equipment and active jamming electronics devices, the experts who took part in the negotiations said.

It can alternatively carry 11,000 pounds of bomb load on nine external stations -- four beneath the wings and five beneath its fuselage, they added.

A team of Indian Air Force fighter pilots and a group of ground maintenance technicians will go to France early next year for training in handling the Mirage. The team would return after one year of intensive training while another team would stay in France till the supply was completed by 1986, the officials said.

India is also ordering from the French company a full combat simulator for training pilots here.

Meanwhile, the Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency in a dispatch from London said India was likely to manufacture a new light combat aircraft (LCA) and high-technology air and sea electronic systems with British collaboration.

Quoting British Defence Secretary John Nott, who came here earlier this month, the agency said exploratory talks on such collaboration had already been conducted and would be followed by detailed discussions.

GOVERNMENT NOT TO IMPORT MORE WHEAT FROM U.S.

BK150911 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] The government does not propose to import more wheat from the U.S.A. Stating this in the Rajya Sabha today, Agriculture Minister Rao Birendra Singh said an all-time record production of wheat to the tune of over 37.5 million tons is estimated this year. However, nearly 2.5 million tons of wheat has been recently contracted for import from the U.S.A. to build up buffer stocks.

The agriculture minister also told the members that wheat procurement has been very successful during the last 2 years. It is likely to touch about 7.5 million tons this year.

POLICE PUT ON 'MAXIMUM ALERT' IN AMRITSAR

BK151253 Hong Kong AFP in English 1210 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct. 15 (AFP) -- Police were put on maximum alert today in the Sikh holy city of Amritsar in the troubled northwestern state of Punjab as Sikh extremists threatened further demonstrations and protests by 30,000 jailed Sikhs continued.

Although there was no official report of violence today after yesterday's arson and rioting in jails across the state, jailed Sikhs in Ludhiana and Jullundur are still protesting about jail conditions and refusing jail food.

In Ludhiana there was an unconfirmed report today of inmates beating up their jailors.

Journalist sources in the Punjab said Sikh prisoners from a jail in Nabha some 200 kilometres from Amritsar were squatting on railway tracks and all the New Delhi-bound trains were delayed. They had also succeeded in immobilizing a goods train.

The Sikhs started their campaign courting arrest, a recognised form of social protest in India, in August, and so far 30,000 have ended up behind bars and 19 have died.

The "fill the jails" campaign continues tomorrow with a reported 10,000 followers of the extremist Akali Dal party offering themselves for arrest.

They are demanding autonomy for their strategic state, on the border with Pakistan, and holy city status for Amritsar.

Officials in the state capital, Chandigarh, said paramilitary forces stationed in the strategically sensitive state, bordering Pakistan, had been requested to be on standby in case the Sikh demonstration tomorrow takes a violent turn.

At a Sikh demonstration in the Indian capital Monday four people were killed in front of the Indian Parliament building when police opened fire and another died in jail yesterday bringing the death toll to five.

Officials said tomorrow's march will be lead by the militant Jagdev Singh Talwandi, who has insisted there can be no compromise with the federal government.

Meanwhile, efforts were being made behind the scenes to bring unity to the Akali Dal, which held power in the state until Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress Party won the election in 1980.

The "Akal takht", the supreme religious and temporal authority of the community, asked all the warring Akalis to unite under the banner of the less militant majority faction leader Harchand Singh Longowal.

Takht directives are never ignored and secret talks have already seen held among Sikh leaders to hammer out the question of unity, informed Sikh sources said.

At least 19 Sikhs have died in the prisons since the "fill the jail" protest started in August.

The latest casualty was 50-year-old Jarnail Singh who died of dysentary in Jullundur, the press Trust of India (PTI) news agency said. The jails in Punjab have a capacity to keep only 6,000 prisoners, officials admitted.

The militant Sikhs set fire to jail property and fought with the staff who were aided by the state police.

Sikhs with swords and clubs stormed the jail wards in a spree of arson and rioting, PTI said. It added that they had reportedly taken over a dozen jail staff as hostages.

In the Indian Parliament an opposition member belonging to the Democratic Socialist Party (DSP) created a stir yesterday when he showed the members samples of jail food allegedly given to the Sikh prisoners.

Neelahoita Dasan Nadar took the speaker by surprise and brought out a bunch of rotten rotis (home made bread) and said they were inedible. He said he personally visited the Punjab jails and found the conditions there "terrible, not fit for keeping humans."

The Sikhs number about 12 million and are a majority in Punjab. Several rounds of talks between Sikh leaders and the government have failed to produce any result.

HAQ DISCUSSES RELATIONS WITH CHINA, U.S., INDIA

BK161035 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1005 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] President Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said Pakistan's relations with China are exemplary and the central objective of his forthcoming visit to China is to exchange views as to how the two countries can make their existing relations more meaningful. In an interview with the BBC, he said he would also exchange views with the Chinese leaders on the international issues including the Middle East and the Iran-Iraq war.

About his visits to China and North Korea and subsequent visits to Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, the United States and Canada, he said basically these were to keep contact and exchange views with the world leaders to see how best they could bring a better world order and how they could improve their bilateral relations. Answering a question about his visit to the United States, the president said he attached much importance to it, which is a step toward strengthening relations between the two countries. He described them as new relations.

Answering a question on Pakistan's relations with India, the president said India is our neighbor and we are improving our relations with her. We are neither competing with nor are jealous of India. He favored a step by step procedure for improving relations with that country. Asked if Kashmir was a big hurdle in this procedure, President Mohammad Ziaul Haq said if intentions were sincere and determination firm, all disputes could be settled peacefully. We do have the same intentions with regard to Kashmir as well. He described as contrary to his principles the suggestion by the correspondent that the control line in Jammu and Kashmir should be recognized as a border between India and Pakistan. The president added: We are considering its use into the Kashmir dispute but it will not be wise to disclose our plan.

About the Afghanistan issue, the president reiterated that it was a political problem to which a political solution was necessary. A dialogue has started under the auspices of the United Nations. He pointed out that Pakistan's vital demand was withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan.

RAFSANJANI ACCUSES FRANCE OF SPREADING TERRORISM

LD171626 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Excerpts] According to a Central News Unit report, the Islamic Consultative Assembly held an open session today. The session began with a recitation of some verses from the holy Koran. Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the Majlis speaker, spoke on the martyrdom of the fourth martyr in the niche, His Eminence Ayatollah Ashrafi-Esfahani.

[Begin Hashemi-Rafsanjani recording] Our people do indeed realize that today our Friday prayers are a symbol of people's unity, that they are a symbol of people's involvement in society. They do indeed realize that Friday prayers are the cornerstones of this revolution. In the course of their discussions with us [word indistinct] figures always stress that as long as we hold Friday prayers our enemies will be unable to defeat us. Today, these places where people congregate are considered by our enemies as a target. Fortunately, after the tragic incident in Bakhtaran the brave people of Bakhtaran showed quite clearly that such acts defeat the intended purpose. We saw how a multitude of people took to the streets after the sinister explosion and condemned the counterrevolutionaries.

Another point of interest is that immediately after committing this act the hypocrites organization -- shoulder to shoulder with Saddam Husayn of Iraq -- launched a series of joint operations. Soon afterwards, Saddam dispatched a wave of jet fighters to our western borders. This particular act leaves no room for any doubt about Saddam's previous knowledge of this act. As for the hypocrites, they immediately announced in Paris that they accept responsibility for this crime. This announcement was to serve two aims: to demonstrate their power and, indirectly, to claim acceptance of responsibility for the acts they commit, implying they were not responsible for the bigger crime they perpetrated in Naser Khosrow Street [recent bomb explosion in Tehran which killed or wounded hundreds]. [passage indistinct]

The Islamic Consultative Assembly issues a warning, first to the French people; second, the French Socialist Party; and, third, to Mitterrand himself. Of course, I am not optimistic that the Socialist Party or Mitterrand will take this warning seriously; but the French people, I hope, will take note. They witnessed that in their country a group, whose leader is living in luxury and security under the protection of the French police and who has a formal office in Paris, has formally claimed responsibility for this crime. What do the French people think? Do they think that our zealous combatants will forget these crimes? Are you [the French leaders] sure that in the future our people will not take revenge on you for this holy blood? Today, we consider you as accomplices of counterrevolutionary terrorists in their crimes; you have proved that your opposition to terrorism is false, that it is only an allegation, and that you oppose terrorism only when it is against yourselves. Today, you spread terrorism; today, you spread anarchy in the world. We shall gain our rights from you when it suits the interests of ourselves, the world and the oppressed.

There is one difference between us: You are like wolves; killing people such as Ayatollah Ashrafi, destroying hotels in downtown Tehran, or exploding bombs at Friday prayer ceremonies and at railway stations. It does not matter to you, but if one day we (?revolt), we will only punish the [word indistinct] traitors. This difference allows you to act in a bestial manner, yet prevents us from acting [word indistinct]. However, you, or people like you -- West Germany, which expelled our beloved student brothers from German schools and, after 5 months of imprisonment, torture and oppression, deported them -- think that the Iranian nation will easily forget these forms of oppression.

However, we hope that God will grant us the competence to make full use of this blood, whose drops are in the service of Islam and the oppressed as [words indistinct]. May God grant us such prosperous death at the end of our [word indistinct] life. Peace and God's mercy and blessing be upon you.

PROTEST NOTE DELIVERED TO FRENCH CHARGE

LD171818 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] The charge d'affaires of the French Embassy in the Islamic Republic of Iran was summoned to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs this evening. The under secretary in charge of political affairs at our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs gave him an official note of protest regarding the French Government's support for terrorists who clearly confess to assassinating great men like the martyred Ayatollah Saduqi and Ayatollah Ashrafi-Esfahani. The Central News Unit reports that part of this note said: An important question is posed to human consciousness and to liberated minds of the world: In a country that considers itself the core of freedom and democracy, how can the leaders and directors of the hypocrites organization, a part of whose criminal operations is the slaughter of innocent and oppressed people and the assassination of Iran's clergymen and government authorities and who in recent interviews and comments have clearly accepted responsibility for assassinating high-ranking and honorable figures of the Islamic Republic of Iran, including martyr Ayatollah Saduqi and martyr Ayatollah Ashrafi-Esfahani, be supported and welcomed?

Another part of this note said: The Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran expects France to no longer allow itself to become either a shelter and refuge for terrorists or the command and communications base of these antihuman organizations, allowing them to carry out their conspiracies and criminal acts against the Islamic revolution of Iran.

Obviously, the continuation of such support would be ignoring the rightful goals of the struggling and much-suffering nation of Iran. As a move toward opposition to the Islamic Republic, it would not be ignored.

KHOMEYNI STATEMENT ON BAKHTARAN IMAM'S DEATH

LD151946 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Statement issued on 15 October by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni in connection with the assassination of Bakhtaran Friday Imam Ayatollah Hajj Ata'ollah Ashrafi-Esfahani]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. We come from Him and to Him we shall return. How fortunate are those who devote their lives to serving Islam and Muslims.

Ayatollah Ata'ollah Ashrafi-Esfahani was one of those people who are a source of encouragement to the crusading young people. His departure is a blow to Islam, causing great lamentation in the clerical community. May God include him among the martyrs in Karbala'. May God damn the murderers of such men. Eternal death to those who have deprived us of such a virtuous man who never even hurt a fly, those who have made themselves even more loathsome and criminal than before to Almighty God and the devoted nation.

Like our other dear martyrs, this eminent man has returned to God. As for our crusading nation and our brave armed forces, they will continue to promote the revolution even more decisively than before. As for those who vainly claim to be supporting the people, those who treat God's creatures in a manner clear to everyone, one wonders to what sort of religion they adhere when they commit such an immense crime. One wonders what authority these people will gain by assassinating a dutiful scholar, an eminent 80-year-old man. One wonders what they gain by such an act.

As for those who shed crocodile tears for the deaths of these criminals, those who complain against the administration of God's decree carried out against these individuals, one wonders what motive they have.

In seeking revenge against the Islamic Republic, is it right to assassinate a virtuous scholar? Is it right to burn children, men and women and the oppressed masses? Is the commission of such crimes the way to take over the government and power? My God! One wonders about the kind of incidents and people our crusading nation faces at this juncture. We are living in a time when Islamic governments are as they are, the mass media are as we witness and the superpowers are as we see them. We are living in a time when evil is presented to the people as good and crimes are presented as peaceful means.

Greetings to the pure souls of our dear martyrs, greetings to the families of the martyrs, greetings to the victims. God bless all the virtuous people.

[Signed] Ruhollah Musavi-Khomeyni, 15 October 1982

[Excerpts] Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi has issued a statement in connection with the martyrdom of Ayatollah Hajj Ata'ollah Ashrafi-Esfahani. The statement, referrring to the services of this estemmed theologian and the insane activities of the hypocrites, says:

Our great nation realizes that the sin of all those martyred at the altar, in the eyes of these misguided savages, is their resistance to America, their holy war to liberate the country and their support for the slogan "Neither East nor West, but the Islamic Republic."

The Government of the Islamic Republic expresses its condolences and congratulations on the martyrdom of the esteemed theologian and holy thinker Ayatollah Hajj Ata'ollah Ashrafi-Esfahani to the presence of the hidden imam, peace be upon him, and his just deputy, the imam of the umma', the honorable nation of Iran and the family of that great ayatollah.

Tomorrow, 16 October, will be a public holiday in Bakhtaran Province and a day of public mourning throughout the country.

We promise every person of our great nation that the government will not cease to follow the path of these martyred at the altar and will not stop even for a moment its struggle against world oppression led by America and the subservient Baghdad regime.

MOJAHEDIN: ASSASSINATION 'SIXTH IN SERIES'

GF161630 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Excerpt] The Mojahedin-e Khalq Organization [MKO] in Paris has issued a statement in connection with announcing responsibility for the revolutionary execution of Mullah Ashrafi-Esfahani. The statement says: Ashrafi-Esfahani, Khomeyni's most powerful representative in western Iran, was killed in the sixth suicide operation against Khomeyni's close colleagues. He was directly responsibile for hundreds of executions in the western cities of the country, including Kermanshah, Ilam and Hamedan, and was one of the main elements responsible for the torture and barbaric murder of the people of Kordestan as well as gathering mercenaries to crush the Kurds. He declared the 1981 Majlis elections in Kermanshah null and void.

This is the sixth in the series of suicide operations to punish the highest and most powerful mullah accomplices of Khomeyni who are enforcing suppression, torture and execution across Iran by their religious orders and are guarded extremely well on Khomeyni's direct orders.

KHOMEYNI URGES MORE ACTIVE ROLE FOR FRIDAY IMAMS

LD141520 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 14 Oct 82

[Address by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni to Friday imams on 14 October -- place not given -- announcer-read]

[Text] One of the blessings of this movement and revolution is the holding of Friday prayers. In the early days of Islam Friday prayers and mosques had the same function: Gatherings were a means of overcoming the problems of Muslims and of making decisions about fighting the enemies of Islam. If you were to study the sermons of those days, you would see how much content they had. Unfortunately, traitors gradually set about them, and one tribe of Muslims completely set aside Friday prayers. They were held by other tribes, but in a limited manner and without content. Their (?sermons) usually contained only a few sentences of advice. Most of the seminaries were one-sided, and although the seminarians tried very hard, jurisprudence concentrated on only a few routine subjects. And although the ulema had a great deal of knowledge of judicial issues, they rarely spoke about them. Today we have many problems in that respect.

Another concern of which they tried to deprive the seminaries was the clergy's intervention in politics; they called this a great fault. Maybe there are those now that consider intervening in politics to be wrong. They ask: Why is so-and-so interfering in political issues? And: It is none of our business what is happening in the world. This was (?undoubtedly) a plot that was imposed on us, for the clergy and the divines could not mention politics; some of us even believed this.

Today, it has gone so far that the Muslim lands are plundered by America and the superpowers. These criminals interfere in everything in the world and all the affairs of the Muslims; they send troops. Even in Saudi Arabia -- which was once the center of Islam and the [word indistinct] of the forces of Islam -- it is said that what is happening in the world and what Israel is doing are none of our business.

Mr Musavi-Kho'ini was saying that after a great deal of pressure was exerted on the Friday imams there [Saudi Arabia] to comment on Palestine, they confined themselves to a few words of prayer asking God to save the Muslims from Israel. All the beatings that our pilgrims suffered, the imprisonments and the insults that they suffered were so that Israel would not be mentioned. They were saying that such (?words) are contrary to the teachings of the prophet and Islam. I hope the Friday prayers will regain their noble contents. Other Muslims will also be forced to think of holding them properly, when they realize they have been deprived of this great divine blessing, even if their governments are against them.

Whenever Muslims wanted to go to war, in the early days of Islam, they were (?dispatched) from mosques; and whenever they had something important to do, they discussed it in mosques; and they discussed political issues. We should restore this important content and to be engaged in the affairs of Muslims. Being engaged in the affairs of Muslims is not just fault finding; in addition there are political and social issues and the problems of Muslims. Whoever does not engage in them is no Muslim. You should supervise all the affairs of Muslims and strive for our mosque to be as in the early days of Islam. You should remember that Islam does not approve of isolationism and indifference. These existed in one of the non-Muslim tribes that has unfortunately penetrated some Islam societies.

Thank God, a great development has occurred in our nation. Those youths who were once lured to dens of iniquity, corruption and prostitution have now gone to the fronts and are winning victory and honor for Islam and the country. We are responsible to them.

No revolution ever staged has had this many results within 2-3 years. According to the rules of the world, after every revolution there are thousands of problems, difficulties and famine. But, thank God, these problems do not exist in Iran. Our nation has not staged a revolution in order to fill its stomach. You should point out to the people that the prerequisite of being revolutionaries is to tolerate hardship. Although we have suffered a great deal, is not all the greatness of the revolution worth the suffering? The martyrdom of his eminence the lord of the martyrs [Imam Hoseyn] was graver than all the other losses, but he knew what he was doing, where he was going and what his aims were, and he sacrificed himself and was martyred. We should count on those sacrifices, on what the lord of the martyrs did and [word indistinct], and what we have done. We threw Mohammad Reza out of this country. There are no liquor stores anywhere in Iran. All the corruption (?that existed before) exists no longer. That is a great blessing.

In any case, we are now plagued with a series of complaints from inside and outside. These complaints are worse than wielding arms against us. Some people sit here and there, complaining and niggling in each other's ear. You should point out the problems of the revolution to the people in your sermons and [word indistinct], that we started from scratch and that the damage should be repaired. Thank God, the people are receptive and the young people are proud of martyrdom -- and they are right to be proud -- for they fight for God.

If you listen to the remarks made by some of the heads of state, it would become clear that they are against Islam alone. Some of our intellectuals inside the country are such that they merely do not want the Islamic aspect of the republic. Otherwise, you could call it a democratic republic and they would accept it; but Islamic Republic is heresy for them. That is nothing new in Islam; we should remain patient when faced with these plots and ignore these remarks.

May God (?assist) you in guiding the people, so that they may remain on the scene and preserve Islam.

LATEST OFFENSIVE THREATENING IRAQI REGIME

GF171724 Tehran IRNA in English 1607 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] Mashhad, Oct 17, IRNA -- Commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps [IRGC] Mohsen Reza'i said here today that the occupation of mountainous and strategic areas overlooking Mandali of Iraq during the Muslim ibn'Aqil Operations, started on Oct 1, has put Saddam's rule in grave danger.

Speaking in an exclusive interview with IRNA's reporter, Reza'i said that Baghdad would be in the artillery range of the Islamic combatants with another 40-km advancement of the Islamic defenders, and then no one would dare remain there.

The IRGC commander who is here to perform pilgrimage to the holy shrine of Imam Reza (the eighth imam of the prophet's household) further added that the important and strategic heights were captured with the least casualities by the Islamic combatants and over 350 Iraqis were captured.

Also, he continued, 12 Iraqi tanks, a large number of personnel carriers, anti-aircraft defence guns, and missile launching pads were seized.

Reza'i said that the operations were so rapid and fatal that Saddam faced shortage of forces despite the settlement in three brigades in the region and tried to transfer its forces from Basra and the security forces of Baghdad to meet this shortage.

ARMED FORCED JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUES 1,080-1,082

1,080: 15 Oct Report

LD151830 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,080 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The joint staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran wishes to express its condolences and congratulations to Imam Khomeyni and the martyr-nurturing umma' of Iran, especially to the heroic people of Bakhtaran, on the 'Ali-like martydom of the holy theologian Atatollah Hajj Ata'ollah Ashrafi-Esfahani, the imam's representative and the Friday imam of Bakhtaran, to the presence of the hidden imam.

According to reports received, at 1448 today in the region west of Eslamabad, an aggressive Iraqi plane of the MiG-23 type was hit by the fire of one of the fighter planes belonging to the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and was downed.

During the past 24 hours, battle and exchange of fire continued in the western operational regions. On all heights of this region the forces of Islam maintained their firepower supremacy. Yesterday, due to the fire of our combatants on positions in the Mandali region where Saddamist personnel were stationed, two tanks, one vehicle, five ammunition depots, one construction vehicle and one [word indistinct] were destroyed. One of their motor pools was also set on fire.

At 1000 on 13 October, the enemy began a series of intensive activities in the [name indistinct] region but, due to the awareness of the victorious heroes of Islam, the enemy was not given an opportunity to achieve anything.

From 1430 to 1630 on 13 October, a counteroffensive backed by intensive fire on one of the Sumar fronts was launched against the forces of Islam. However, fierce resistance by the forces of Islam foiled the attempt. In this region, two Iraqi soldiers took shelter with the forces of Islam and one Iraqi soldier was captured.

Yesterday, in the operational region in the south of the country, exchange of fire continued sporadically. The positions and fortifications belonging to the aggressive army of Iraq came under our forces' fire in that region. Due to the execution of fire by artillery units, the traffic of enemy military vehicles on the Al-Faw-Basra axis was stopped.

Enemy mortar fire yesterday demolished two houses in Abadan and several other places caught fire.

During the past 24 hours, enemy violations of our airspace in the south and west were confronted with fire from our antiaircraft defense units. The aggressive planes were forced to leave the airspace of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil Operation regions, the victorious combatants of Islam consolidated and established their defensive positions and opened fire on enemy positions and (?units) inflicting the following damage on the Ba'thist Iraqi mercenaries:

- -- Setting fire to three ammunition depots;
- -- Destroying a motor pool and about 20 vehicles in it;
- -- Destroying a tank, a 182-mm mortar position and 4 large trenches.

[Communique 1,082 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The combative forces of Islam, in continuation of their just struggle against the evil Saddamite forces, pursue their battle operations and missions. In the west of the country yesterday, our combative forces fired on enemy positions, destroying a 106-mm gun together with a vehicle and two ammunition dumps of the Iraqi forces and killing several Iraqis.

Exchange of fire continued in the Ilam and Mehran sectors. In the Musian sector, gendarmerie units with their heavy-weapon fire prevented enemy deployment and destroyed a number of their tanks. On the Marivan front, our combatants' fire on enemy positions set alight a vehicle and a number of slit trenches of the aggressive forces in the Panjwin sector.

Also, enemy operations to penetrate (Shenal) heights were crushed and their aggression was immediately foiled.

During exchanges of fire on the southern fronts, while maintaining firepower superiority and returning enemy fire the combatants of Islam silenced enemy fire, crushed enemy positions and fortifications and disrupted the movements of their vehicles and military personnel.

Yesterday the mercenary Saddamite criminals brought the residential areas of Abadan under heavy-weapon fire, wrecking 2 houses, setting a number of points alight and injuring 12 of our dear compatriots in that city.

During battles on 15 and 16 October, 14 ground forces combatants and 6 gendarmerie combatants were martyred. May their memories be dear and their names eternal.

ARAB MUSLIMS URGED TO PRESSURE IRAQ INTO PEACE

GF151144 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0900 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Sermon given by temporary Friday Imam Emami-Kashani at Tehran University mosque -- live]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Peace be with Arab Muslims wherever they are. As time passes, the importance of the heroic operations undertaken by the soldiers of Islam on the western fronts of our country becomes more outstanding. This reflects the difficult circumstances which the infidel regime of Saddam is experiencing.

These military operations made Saddam feel threatened from all fronts, so he tried to (?deny) the latest military campaigns. He launched countercampaigns, but failed in all his plans. So his fears and worries have been aggravated. Then Saddam exerted his efforts to gain [the support] of the agent and reactionary countries in this (?disaster). He called on the Arabs to be committed to the treacherous resolutions of the Fes summit. He also undertook a wide range of activities at the United Nations and in the Nonaligned Movement with the aim of obtaining political gains following his military fiasco.

We realize that the latest attempts of Saddam were designed to work in the direction of rescuing his regime and throne. It is also noticeable that Saddam is undergoing disastrous crises and that the economic and military aid which the Arab countries provide is the best example of the collapse of his regime. The attempts made by Saddam, the reactionary Arab regimes and the resolutions of the United Nations will never rescue Saddam.

Where were all these countries -- which purport to be Islamic -- when Israel launched its savage aggression against Lebanon? Why did they not reach an agreement at that time to form a unified front and deploy their armies to confront Israeli aggression against the Arabs and the Islamic nation? Why are these countries just satisfied with verbal denunciations in the face of Israeli aggression, while they mobilize all their efforts in addition to their huge economic and military aid in confronting the Islamic Republic, which defends justice and Islam? Where were all those who call on us to resort to peace when Saddam launched his savage aggression?

We call for reconciliation and peace; peace is preferable, but we will not accept a peace that is imposed on us. We will not accept humiliation.

The Western press has launched a dirty media campaign against the Islamic Republic to make it look as if we are the cause of the continuation of the war. We call on the aggressor to give in to justice.

O Muslims, pressure the governments so that they will pressure the 'Aflaqist regime to resort to peace, to Islamic peace, and not to work for the interests of the United States and Israel any more. This is the way of Islam and the prophet, may God be pleased with him.

We warn Saddam, the infidel, and the reactionary regimes not to violate the procession of peace, the genuine Islamic peace.

O Muslims, you have to [word indistinct] these attempts and not allow the United States and its surrogates to impose peace that is not commensurate with justice. The fate of justice is determined on the battlefield and the coming days will witness further battles in the war between justice and injustice. This is the lesson the supporters of justice will teach to those who oppose justice.

WEST, EAST COOPERATING TO SAVE IRAQI REGIME

LD161028 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0740 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary from the "Revolution Guards" program]

[Excerpts] Following the victories of the armed forces of Islam against the Ba'thist forces, the Zionists and imperialists have intensified their actions in order to prevent the collapse of the present Iraqi regime.

One should not think that the Baghdad regime is satisfied to beg from the Western bloc alone. Rather, the critical predicament of Saddam's regime is so extreme that it has recently expanded relations with the Soviet regime of Afghanistan in order to attract more assistance from the Soviet Union. These relations have been expanded to the embassy level.

But, from a military point of view, it can be said that a flood of military assistance from the Eastern and Western superpowers is continuing to pour into Iraq. The Iraqi authorities themselves declared last month that they have received a large number of antiaircraft missiles from France, large quantities of military equipment from Saudi Arabia and Jordan, including 78 vehicles laden with ammunition, and 400 T-55 tanks from Poland, which is one of the Soviet satellites.

Two important conclusions can be drawn from what we said: First, the Iraqi regime is nearing certain collapse and the only reason for its survival is the unlimited aid it receives from the Eastern and Western blocs. Second, the criminal West and the aggressive East are accomplices in cooperating with each other to support Saddam and protect his criminal regime.

GULF DEFENSE COUNCIL DELIBERATIONS VIEWED

GF151350 Tehran International Service in Turkish 1830 GMT 13 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] Dear listeners: The six GCC defense ministers are holding talks aimed at finding ways and means of strengthening their [words indistinct] and military cooperation and consolidating their oppressive administrations. Meanwhile, our political commentator has analyzed the GCC defense ministers meeting and has written a commentary to which we now draw your attention:

In the address he delivered during the opening session of the meeting, Sultan ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz Al Sa'ud, the Saudi minister of defense and aviation, referred to the serious and important developments in the Arab world and the Persian Gulf that had taken place during the 9 months since the last GCC Defense Council meeting. He noted that the developments have had a significant effect on the security and stability of the region.

The call Sultan ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz Al Sa'ud made for a more concerted effort by the GCC members to strengthen cooperation among them has created the following question in the mind of every person: In the face of which basic and important threat has the GCC called on its members to exert concerted efforts to strengthen themselves?

If the members of the sultanate in Saudi Arabia and the forces ruling that country believe that the basic danger threatening the region is the aggressive and world-devouring United States, then it must be recalled that a number of the GCC countries have very sincere and close military, political and economic relations with the United States and wish for the presence in the region of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force units. In fact, it was recently announced that the forces of the administration ruling in Oman, which is a member of the GCC, will be holding a joint military exercise together with the aggressive U.S. Rapid Deployment Force units during the next few weeks.

Apart from this, most of the reactionary administrations which are members of the GCC are strongly defending the illegal interests of U.S. imperialism in the region. And, irrespective of U.S. imperialism's inhuman crimes and action against the Muslims -- particularly the Muslims of Lebanon, Iran and Iraq -- these same countries have maintained their oil exports to the United States.

If, however, the Saudi princes believe that the danger threatening the region is the Zionist Israeli administration with its gradually intensifying attacks against the Muslims, then we must point to the fact that the reactionary and aligned Arab regimes failed to make any move in the face of the disaster in Lebanon. As in the past, they remained silent in the face of the latest disaster that befell Lebanon and failed to make their weight felt.

The reactionary regimes of the GCC that believe that Islam and the Islamic revolution is the basic danger threatening the region, must understand that past experience has proved that modern military ways and means and oppression and acts of violence are rendered totally ineffective by the will of the nations. In ract, the former shah of Iran resorted to such ways and means. However, as witnessed by all [words indistinct], he failed to achieve anything and suffered a major defeat.

The reactionary group which believes the Islamic government and the Islamic Republic of Iran constitute a danger threatening the region must be told the following: The Iranian Islamic revolution regards the question of establishing peace and security in the world, and particularly in the Persian Gulf, as one of the most important basic issues. In fact, it is working in that direction. Its wish to set up a peaceful Islamic government in Iraq by ousting the Zionist Iraqi Ba'thist regime is based on this objective.

In the event the other countries in the region favor tranquillity and peace, the Iranian Islamic Republic -- as the strongest and the largest country in the region, particularly in the Persian Gulf -- is prepared to cooperate with them in the direction of this objective. However, if a number of small regimes in the region wish to make decisions concerning the waters of the Persian Gulf without attaching any importance to the Islamic Republic of Iran, their initiative will undoubtedly be regarded as a conspiracy against the interests of the Muslim Iranian people.

DPRK DELEGATION ARRIVES; LEADER MAKES STATEMENT

LD161940 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Hwang Chang-yop, chairman of DPRK Supreme People's Assembly, arrived in Tehran this evening at the head of a senior political and economic delegation and was welcomed at Mehrabad Airport by Majlis Speaker Rafsanjani.

According to an IRNA correspondent, the visit is at the invitation of the speaker of the Majlis. Hwang Chang-yop is accompanied on this trip by the DPRK finance and external economic affairs minister, the under secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and a member of that country's Supreme People's Assembly.

Hwang Chang-yop is reported to have said: We are very pleased that the Iranian nation, led by Imam Khomeyni, has achieved impressive successes in foiling the conspiracies of foreign and domestic enemies and in defending its revolution. We consider these successes as our own. I always wish you victory and honor in these very difficult struggles. He then added: Both of us are fighting on the same front against imperialism, particularly U.S. imperialism. The bonds between us are very strong and are unmatched throughout the world.

The report adds that in a statement issued on the arrival in Iran of the chairman of the Supreme People's Assembly, while expressing profound gratitude for the invitation extended to the delegation by the Government and the Majlis of the Islamic Republic, the aim of the visit has been outlined as further expansion of relations and cooperation between the two countries, adding: The DPRK and Iran, being members of the Nonaligned Movement, have established closer rapport through coordinated measures against U.S. imperialism and other imperialists as well as common struggles aimed at creating a new society.

The statement adds further: During this visit we hope to have the opportunity to witness the great victories achieved by the Iranian people through their efforts in thwarting continued aggression and interference by imperialists, safeguarding the fruits of the revolution and materialising the country's independent growth, under the sagacious leadership of His Great Eminence Ayatollah Khomeyni, the leader of the Islamic revolution of Iran.

KHAMENE'I MEETS DPRK PEOPLE'S ASSEMBLY CHAIRMAN

LD181046 Tehran IRNA in English 0948 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 18, IRNA -- President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i Sunday night said that all sorts of threats are futile in the way of Iran for its struggle against imperialism.

The president and visiting chairman of the People's Assembly of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, Hwang Chang-yop, met and conferred this evening.

During this meeting, which was also attended by a number of other DPRK officials, Chang-yop said that he was greatly impressed by the achievements gained by the Islamic revolution despite the conspiracies of the U.S. imperialism. He added that the Islamic Republic was a country who was abiding by the principles and ideals of the Non-aligned Movement and that it was putting its efforts in implementing its principles.

At the end of his statements Chang-yop also conveyed the invitation offered by President Kim Il-song for President Khamene'i to visit the DPRK.

The president said that the Islamic Republic has established friendly relations with the countries who had stood seriously against the U.S. .

Khamene'i also stressed that all countries who followed an anti-imperialist policy should be sensitive towards the Palestinian issue. "If the U.S. fails in extinguishing the Palestinian fire (in subsiding the Palestinian Revolution), this would be a great victory for the region and the anti-American front of the progressive countries," he said.

President Khamene'i said that our movement was still on despite the facts that the Islamic revolution is facing U.S. inspired policy in the Persian Gulf region.

Neither our political and economic needs nor various types of military threats could stop us from going in the way of anti-imperialism, the president said.

He added that he believed that the Middle East and the Persian Gulf region were the weak points for the U.S. and hoped that with the help of God, all U.S. inspired policies in this part of the world would be defeated.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

19 OCTOBER 1982

Israel

Prime Minister Menahem Begin declared in his speech to open the Knesset winter session that there is no foreseeable danger of war between Israel and its neighbors. Instead, he said in the speech carried by Jerusalem radio, there will be a long period of peace in the Middle East. Begin asserted that Israel's peace treaty with Egypt stood the test during the war in Lebanon; that Jordan has no intention of attacking Israel; and that Syria will not attack because it has seen the results of fighting with the IDF in Lebanon. With this in mind, Begin queried why anyone would create new conditions for the area inviting war. He stressed that countries involved, especially the United States, should abide by the Camp David accords and not try to change the agreements now. Reiterating Israel's call for a resumption of the autonomy talks, Begin added that Jordan's King Husayn is invited to attend the negotiations. Begin emphasized that full autonomy is the answer to the Arab problem in Judaea, Samaria and Gaza.

Earlier in the speech, Begin attacked those in Israel who want to adapt the cause of Eretz Yisra'el to new conditions, saying they are practicing "false realism." He underscored that anyone supporting the "foolish proposal" of annexing Judaea, Samaria and Gaza to Jordan would in fact be helping to establish a PLO-led state. Begin detailed how the establishment of such a state would present a grave threat to Israel, if only by a constant war of attrition. Meanwhile he contended that the Peace for Galilee Operation fully achieved its objective of securing the settlements in Galilee and he reiterated the demand that the "terrorists" remaining in Lebanon under Syrian aegis must be evacuated.

After Begin's speech, Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres told the Knesset that the fight for security is over the State of Israel, and not Eretz Yisra'el as Begin claimed. In his speech, carried by IDF radio, Peres asserted that Israel's annexation of territories destroys any chance of peace with the Arabs and that Begin with his policies is actually ready to give up the certainty of Israel's remaining a Jewish state. He went on to accuse the Begin government of damaging Israel's image abroad. Peres outlined the Alignment's position on a peace policy: end the annexation of territories; open negotiations with Jordan, but not with the PLO; and improve overall Palestinian-Jordanian-Israeli relations based on the autonomy plan.

Lebanon

Al-Jumayyil Speeches to UN, Interview -- In a speech to the UN General Assembly on 18 October, carried live by Beirut radio, President Amin al-Jumayyil stressed that Lebanon has had enough violence and destruction and appealed for a Palestinian-Israeli joint settlement to establish a homeland for the Palestinians. He called for the immediate withdrawal of all foreign forces from Lebanon after noting that relations with Syria have been "close" and should develop in the future. Al-Jumayyil praised U.S. initiatives on Lebanon and appealed for Arab political and economic support for his country, adding that peace in Lebanon is necessary for a Middle East peace.

Later, in a speech at the UN Security Council, and read over the radio, Al-Jumayyil stressed that the UNIFIL mandate must assist the Lebanese Government in restoring peace and security to southern Lebanon. He praised the work of the multinational forces in the Beirut area. The radio noted in another report that after his speech the Security Council extended the UNIFIL mandate until 19 January 1983.

In a meeting with Arab UN delegations, Al-Jumayyil stressed that Lebanon wants no interference in its affairs from any Arab or non-Arab country, the radio disclosed.

Al-Jumayyil said in a LE MONDE interview, according to AFP, that responsibility for the Beirut massacres lay with the security forces present there at the time, adding that neither the Lebanese Army nor the state had authority there then. He estimated that the departure of all foreign forces from Lebanon would continue into 1983 and stressed that closer cooperation with Syria was possible but that this would have to be reciprocal.

Military, Security Situation — Lebanese Army units entered Druze villages in the Ash-Shuf mountain area to take the place of the Israeli forces, but the IDF has not left the area and will remain there for a few days, Jerusalem radio reported. Later, the radio said the Lebanese Army left the area not to return until the IDF departed. The Lebanese defense minister declared that the army is entering the 'Alayh area in accordance with a set plan, Beirut radio reported. In another development, sources cited by Voice of Lebanon radio averred that Palestine Liberation Army forces took up positions near the Al-Qulay'at airfield.

According to ITIM, "tense quiet" prevails in the eastern sector following the cease-fire violations. Both the Syrians and Israelis have brought in reinforcements to Al-Biqa', the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio said.

PLO

In a speech delivered during his visit to Kuwait, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat said the PLO is faced with a "political invasion" in the region and that there are attempts to discourage the Palestinian cause, KUNA reported. He appealed to Lebanese officials to stop the mistreatment of Palestinians and stressed he would strengthen ties with Jordan after a Palestinian state is formed with Jerusalem as its capital. Later, 'Arafat arrived in Qatar on an official visit, WAKH reported.

The PLO office in Kuwait announced that PLO Executive Committee member Khalid al-Hasan will represent the PLO in the seven-member committee heading for the United States, Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio revealed.

GCC

A communique issued at the end of the GCC interior ministers meeting in Riyadh endorsed the recommendation to establish a security information center and agreed to hold further discussions before finalizing a joint security agreement, SPA reported. According to another SPA report, the Saudi interior minister explained that the ministers postponed reaching a security agreement to give some member states enough time to hold further talks.

Sudanese Military Support to Iraq

Iraqi President Saddam Husayn received the Sudanese first vice president on 18 October and was handed a message from Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri, INA reported. During the meeting, the Sudanese official declared that a Sudanese military contingent is ready to be deployed in Iraq to fight Iran.

Iran

A number of villages controlled by "counterrevolutionaries" were taken over by Iranian security forces and over 300 were killed in operations on 14 October, Tehran radio claimed citing an IRNA report.

PROTEST RALLY HELD IN FRONT OF U.S. EMBASSY

LD181854 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Today tens of thousands of the toiling people of Kabul expressed their indignation and condemnation of the attacks and aggression of Zionism and imperialism against the heroic people of Palestine and the defenseless people of Lebanon by holding a grand march and a vast gathering.

According to the BAKHTAR correspondent, today's march and protest gathering was organized by the Central Council of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan Trade Unions and the Central Committee of the Democratic Youth Organization of Afghanistan in Kabul city. This action corresponded with the decision of the international conference in Vienna to observe 18 October as the day of solidarity with the people of Palestine and Lebanon. It also corresponded with the demands made by the (?political) bureau of the workers trade unions and the international federation of democratic youths (?and peace) organizations.

At first the marchers held a gathering in the (Arian) crossroads. After a speech by the acting head of the city's Central Council of Trade Unions on the criminal and inhuman actions of Israel in the Sabra and Shatila camps in West Beirut -- carried out with the help of the United States -- the marchers headed for the U.S. Embassy in Kabul. While chanting slogans, they held a meeting in front of the U.S. Embassy entrance.

[Begin recording of demonstrators chanting slogans; passage in quotation marks spoken in Pashto] Death to the aggressive Zionism of Israel! Israeli forces must leave the Arab lands! "Death to international imperialism and Israeli Zionist expansionists! Long live peace in the world! Hoisted be the banner of peace in the world! Forward toward the complete elimination of the counterrevolutionaries! [Words indistinct] victory to the workers and liberation movements in the world! Long live the solidarity of toiling Afghan people with the people of the world!" Death to the Israeli Zionism! The United States is (?responsible) for these crimes and war in the world! Death to warmongers! Death to the enemy of world toilers -- the United States! Victory is on the side of the militant Palestinian people! [end recording]

Speakers at the gathering, referring to the brazen aggression of Israel and the United States on Lebanese soil, said: Pursuing the constructive policy of the PDPA, we, the participants of today's march, vigorously condemn the shameful crimes of Zionism against the peoples of Palestine and Lebanon and send our hatred to the agents of murders and savageries and of the Zionist and imperialist aggression in Lebanon and Palestine.

At the conclusion of the gathering a resolution was issued by the participants of the march. It was read by the official in charge of international affairs in the Democratic Youth Organization of Afghanistan.

According to the BAKHTAR reporter, the marchers carried anti-imperialist and anti-Zionist placards. Their chanted slogans against warmongers included: Long live peace all over the world! Imperialism and Zionism are the savage enemies of world peace!

Marchers Issue Statement

LD190726 Kabul BAKHTAR in English 0533 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Kabul, October 18, BAKHTAR -- Kabul city today witnessed the staging of a (?great) march and a grand meeting with the participation of tens of thousands of workers, peasants, state employees and members of social organizations who voiced their solidarity with the heroic people of Palestine and Lebanon.

During today's great manifestations the Muslim people of Afghanistan, who themselves are faced with an undeclared war and unforgivable crimes of imperialism and reaction against their free and independent country, vigorously condemned the Israeli aggression against the peace-loving peoples of Lebanon and Palestine, expressing their consistent and unshakeable revolutionary solidarity with the heroic people of Palestine and their relentless struggle against Zionism and imperialism, they demanded the withdrawal of Israeli occupation forces from the territory of Lebanon.

Our people know that Israeli Zionists unleashed four months ago an extensive invasion of Lebanon using army, navy and air force and relying on the huge war machine of world notorious USA under the pretext of ensuring a so-called security belt.

The recent developments and undeniable testimonies bear out the fact that just one week before this treacherous invasion the ministers of foreign affairs and defence of Israel had hurried in succession to Washington to enlist the support of American leadership for launching a large scale attack on Lebanon.

If we look back at the militarist actions of imperialism and Zionism in the Middle East as a whole it would appear that criminal acts have taken place against the embattled Arab and Palestinian people one after another.

As-Sadat signed the shameful Camp David agreement with Tel Aviv and Washington. The USA and Israel signed the treaty on strategic cooperation. Israel annexed Golan Heights of Syria. All these criminal acts paved the ground for launching a large scale attack by Israel on Lebanon and the massacre of thousands of innocent Palestinians. [passage indistinct]

This leaves no place for doubt and scepticism for the Muslim people of Afghanistan concerning the hypocritical and traitorous policy of the White House rulers who shed tears for Islam here while their hands are stained with the blood of thousands of innocent Muslim children, youth and defenceless old men of Palestine.

The indignation of all peace-loving countries of the world over Israel's cruelties and acts of aggression and invasion has become the major reason for an intensified struggle for immediate expulsion of Israel from the United Nations Organization. But as against it, the stubborn stand of the United States aimed at preserving the Israeli seat in the UN and, more shameful than that, its threatening the United Nations to cut the U.S. aid once again exposed that Zionism and imperialism are the (?avowed) enemies of the Muslim and progressive countries of the world. There will be neither a change in imperialist and Zionist policy nor the hues and cries of imperialism for the defence of Islam would reach anywhere.

The Palestine Liberation Organisation has passed another test in the course of the latest events raising the flag of the independent Palestine and gained still greater prestige in the international arena.

According to the decisions of the latest international conference held in Vienna with the participation of the world federation of trade unions and the international federation of democratic youth in support of the Palestinian and Lebanese peoples decided that the 18th of October is being broadly marked all over the world as the day of solidarity with the people of Palestine. [sentence as received]

The people of Afghanistan marking this day believe that the key to the solution of the Lebanon's crisis could be sought in a comprehensive solution of the Middle East problem. Israel should withdraw immediately and without any conditions from all the occupied Arab territories and a just and durable peace should be established in the Middle East, and an independent and sovereign Palestinian state should be formed.

The people of Afghanistan consider the latest six-point programme put forward by Leonid Brezhnev as being a most rational and constructive basis for the solution of the Middle East crisis.

The Muslim people of Aghanistan once again decisively deplore the collusion of imperialism and Zionism against the heroic and militant peoples of Palestine and Lebanon and once more express their revolutionary solidarity with their just struggle. In the fight between the right and wrong the victory is always with the right.

KARMAL ADDRESSES NATION ON FOOD SHORTAGES

LD162108 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 15 Oct 82

[Statement by Revolutionary Council Chairman Babrak Karmal on International Food Day, 15 October -- read by announcer]

[Excerpts] Dear courageous and Muslim compatriots of revolutionary Afghanistan, toiling peasants of the homeland, noble workers of the agriculture and land reform sectors, dear comrades and friends:

I have the pleasure to speak a few words in the presence of the noble people of our beloved Afghanistan and the world public on behalf of the PDPA Central Committee, Revolutionary Council and the DRA Council of Ministers to mark International Food Day, in which most countries of the world have taken active part. I announce the celebration of this auspicious and humane day for tomorrow, 16 October 1982, nationwide in the DRA in the hope for the production of sufficient food for each person and for the elimination of malnutrition, hunger and poverty.

The noble people of our beloved country are facing a shortage of food and malnutrition as a result of the exploiting and colonial policy of the imperialist world, and the reactionary and antipeople policy of the former dependent regimes. Each year the region imports 150,000-200,000 tons of wheat; 30,000 tons of rice; 17,000 tons of vegetable oil; 70,000 tons of sugar and thousands of tons of dairy products, such as milk and protein substances, from abroad in return for massive foreign currency. If great attention is not paid to this soon, this figure will get larger and larger and will be beyond the country's control.

The broad plan for mechanization of agriculture is being implemented. It will increase agricultural products. With the fraternal and friendly assistance of the USSR, mechanization stations have been created and are being created in various regions of our country.

During this year's autumn and spring campaigns, 3,825 million hectares have been sown in grains, industrial plants, fruits and vegetables. Last year an area of 3,805 million hectares was sown. This is a .5 percent increase.

In conclusion, I sincerely congratulate all compatriots and toiling people of the world on the (?occasion) of International Food Day. I hope for further successes of the UN Food and Agriculture Organization and the peaceful countries of the world for complete elimination of hunger, famine, malnutrition and [word indistinct].

AFP: BODY OF AFGHAN PILOT TO BE RETURNED

OW181844 Hong Kong AFP in English 1808 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Islamabad, Oct. 18 (AFP) — Pakistani authorities will return the body of an Afghan pilot who died when his MiG-17 aircraft crashed near the Pakistan border town of Chaman today, official sources said.

The aircraft crash-landed about 500 yards south of Chaman railway station in Baluchistan Province bordering Afghanistan, turned over and caught fire, the Defence Ministry sources said.

Authorities did not disclose the name of the pilot, who they said was "probably a defector".

Local media reports said the pilot had tried to eject from the plane at low altitude after circling the Chaman railway station for about 15 minutes.

Official sources said the aircraft could not have landed at Quetta's Samanguli Airport because of bad weather.

Radio Kabul, monitored here, maintained complete silence on the incident.

It was the first time that an Afghan aircraft crashed inside Pakistani territory. Afghan Air Force planes in the past made incursions into Pakistani territory and managed to return safely despite Pakistani ground artillery.

The official Associated Press of Pakistan (AFP) reported that the government would hand over the body of the pilot to the Afghan consul general in Baluchistan's capital, Quetta.

Last year, on April 27, as the regime of President Babrak Karmal was celebrating second anniversary of the Marxist revolution in Afghanistan, a Soviet-built MI-24 gunship helicopter was forcibly flown to Quetta, and the pilot was given asylum in Pakistan.

That incident followed another in which an Afghan Army tank was driven to a border village by an army deserted who surrendered to Pakistani authorities along with his tank, seeking asylum.

However, during the regime of the first Marxist ruler, Nur Mohammad Taraki, Pakistani authorities returned a Soviet-built MiG-17 to Kabul after it landed at Kohat Airport in the North West Frontier Province in 1978 and convinced the pilot to return to Afghanistan.

Relations between the two countries soured after the Soviet military intervention in December 1979 which installed pro-Moscow ruler Babrak Karmal in Afghanistan.

VELAYATI MEETS DPRK SUPREME ASSEMBLY CHAIRMAN

LD182344 Tehran IRNA in English 2007 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 18, IRNA -- Relations between the Islamic Republic of Iran and Democratic People's Republic of Korea, and the stances of the two countries on various international issues including the Non-aligned Movement, were discussed in a meeting with visiting DPRK's chairman of the Supreme Assembly, Hwang Chang-yop, with Iranian foreign affairs minister, 'Ali Akbar Velayati, here this morning.

During the meeting, which was attended by the Iranian ambassador to the DPRK, Zanganeh, Foreign Ministry officials, and members of the DPRK's delegation, both parties stressed importance of unity among true Non-aligned Movement members and its vigorous and continuous campaign against U.S. imperialism.

The principle of "Neither West nor East" should be taken as the first and most important principle of the movement, the two sides emphasised.

The visiting delegation considered change in the venue of the non-aligned summit conference from Baghdad to New Delhi a political gain for the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Chairman Hwang Chang invited the Iranian foreign minister to pay a visit to the DPRK and also requested him to oppose holding of the forthcoming conference of the Inter-parliamentary Union (IPU) in Seoul, South Korea.

In reply, Velayati expressed hope that he would be able to travel to the DPRK in the near future. As for the upcoming IPU conference in Seoul, he said that in the recently held conferences in Rome the Islamic Republic representative expressed opposition to holding of the conference in Seoul.

The DPRK delegation arrived here on Saturday night on the invitation of Majlis Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani. The delegation headed by that country's chairman of the Supreme Assembly has so far held talks with several top ranking Iranian officials.

As part of the talks with the Iranian officials, the DPRK's minister of foreign trade, Choe Choung-kun, met and conferred with Foreign Ministry undersecretary for international and economic affairs, Hoseyn Kazempur Ardabili, here this morning. Issues related to economic ties between the two countries were discussed.

RAFSANJANI HOSTS RECEPTION FOR DPRK DELEGATION

LD182332 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] A dinner reception was arranged by Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly, in honor of the arrival of a DPRK political-economic delegation. Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani gave a speech in which he referred to the threats and pressures exerted by American imperialism upon the International Atomic Energy Agency [IAEA]. He said: [read by announcer]

When Israel was expelled from the International Atomic Energy Agency, America threatened that it would halt her contributions to this organization. This is a great insult toward the people of the world. With this threat America wishes to impose its views upon the world. However, we, in order to prevent the pressure of American imperialism upon the views of IAEA members, are prepared to cooperate with any other country and pay the equivalent of America's contribution to this organization.

Addressing his Korean counterpart, the Majlis speaker added: We propose to the Korean people, who are an anti-imperialist nation, to cooperate with us in this issue, which constitutes an anti-American struggle.

Then, referring to the threats uttered by America against the United Nations in support of Israel, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: Imperialism and the superpowers regard themselves as the guardians of the people of the world. We, the free and independent countries, should attack the superpowers throughout the world and harm them.

At the end of his speech, the speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly added: We have proved that countries can carry out their wishes even though they are engaged in a struggle against America. We should start a serious struggle against imperialism in the international arena.

Mr Hwang Chang-yop, chairman of the DPRK Supreme People's Assembly, in a reply speech said: The Iranian nation is the representative of the nations fighting against America. In our analysis we regard the Iranian people as our cofighters. He called America the major obstacle in the path of the advancement of humanity, and added: We regard it as our duty to fight against the colonialists who threaten the independence of various countries. There exists a common goal for the two countries in this respect.

IRAN PREPARED TO PAY U.S. SHARE OF IAEA BUDGET

LD181044 Tehran IRNA in English 0935 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 18 (IRNA) -- Iran is ready to pay the sum equal to what is paid by the United States as its share to the International Atomic Energy Agency in order to prevent the U.S. imperialism on the rights of the votes of the agency members, declared by Majlis Speaker Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani Sunday night. [sentence as received]

Rafsanjani was speaking at the Hotel Esteqlal in a reception given in honour of chairman of the Supreme People's Assembly of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea [DPRK] Hwang Chang-yop who arrived here on Saturday for an official visit.

The United States three weeks ago withdrew from the U.S. affiliated International Energy Agency conference following the conference's vote to deny Zionist regime's credentials.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz last week also said the United States will withdraw its delegation from the U.N.-affiliated international telecommunication conference in Nairobi, Kenya, and suspend further payments to it if a plan to exclude the occupying regime of Jerusalem succeeds.

Rafsanjani said: "It is a great insult to the people of the world." He said the U.S. share to the agency is amounted to eight million dollars and declared that Iran would shoulder this responsibility in order to prevent the U.S. imperialist for the imposition of its vote upon the world.

Majlis speaker said that the Iranian Majlis deputies today signed a letter of intention in which they have declared that Iran with the cooperation of other countries is ready to shoulder such responsibility so that the U.S. may not impose its policy upon the world.

Addressing the Korean guest, he said that the people of DPRK are against the imperialism and proposed that the two countries should cooperate with each other in their anti-U.S. struggle.

He said that we have to counter the coercion of the superpowers and added: "A success is a must if we take the issues in serious manner under the framework of the movement of the non-aligned countries."

Referring to the U.S. threat on the issues of the United Nations, Rafsanjani said that the imperialist and superpowers consider themselves that they are the guardians of the people of the world and pointed out that if the movement of the non-aligned countries takes these issues seriously, the superpowers have to surrender before the will of the world people.

He said that it was proved at times that the U.S. imperialism can do nothing before the will of the combatants adding that the events such as U.S. defeat in Vietnam, confiscation of U.S. ship by the DPRK, and seizure of the spying centre in Iran are enough to prove the strong will of the combatants wins finally.

During his speech Chang-yop said that he was very impressed to see the achievements through the Islamic revolution and added that Iran is serious in its struggle against the U.S. imperialism.

He said that the U.S. is the main hurdle in the way of the progress of the human being and reminded that it is the U.S. who hatched the plots against the Islamic revolution, Muslims in Lebanon and unification plan of the two Koreas.

FRG ARCHAEOLOGISTS ASKED TO LEAVE COUNTRY

GF181658 Tehran IRNA in English 1525 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 18, IRNA -- The Ministry of Culture and Higher Education in a letter sent yesterday to the archaeological institute of the Federal Republic of Germany here, asked the institute to stop its activities in Iran and take necessary measures to take out its members from Iran.

The letter was in line of existing relations of the Islamic Republic and the FRG. During the past three months, relations between the two countries have deteriorated rapidly following the arrest and deporting of tens of Iranian Muslim students by the FRG police. The Goethe Institute here was also told last September that its German staff could no longer manage the institute and it would come under the administration of the Ershad-e Eslami Ministry.

The letter said that it seemed necessary to review the cultural relations between the two countries after the developments which have taken place recently concerning Iranian Muslim students in the FRG.

"In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful.

The principal task is the task of finding one's [word indistinct] proper place, whereas during the past regime we had been alienated from ourselves.

"They (foreigners) would do as they wished, and they had inculcated into our minds that we were incapable of doing things ourselves. Our learned men were abased by them. Such was our status in the past, while our people would often ask themselves 'for whom should we work? We are all too dependent'.

"The [word indistinct] catastrophe was that our youth had to work upon the direction of foreign advisors, who would pocket the benefit of their toiling.

"Naturally at that time any person who wanted to be an independent person would be humiliated and feel discontented and depressed. But now that, thanks be to God, our society has purged itself from the wretchedness of their very existence, you [word indistinct] our beloved youth, as well as our people have proved capable of accomplishing tasks and surmounting obstacles.

[Communique No 1,083 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The conditions on the fronts of the imposed war and the heroic deeds of the Islamic Republic of Iran Armed Forces' brave personnel are brought to the attention of the Muslim and grateful umma' of Iran:

During the past 24 hours, exchanges of fire continued on most of the western fronts, the intensity of which was greater in the (Mianchan) sector. On these fronts, the combatants of Islam strengthened their defensive positions and brought the Saddamist positions under heavy artillery fire, silenced their artillery and heavy weapons fire, killed or injured a number of Saddamist mercenaries and destroyed three vehicles and three antiaircraft guns. They also prevented the enemy's logistic activities and position fortifications.

On the Marivan front, the artillery fire of the Islamic Republic of Iran Ground Forces destroyed several Iraqi slit trenches and foxholes together with their crews in the Panjwin sector in Iraq.

On the southern fronts, exchanges of fire continued between the victorious forces of Islam and the aggressive Ba'thist forces of Iraq.

On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, there were exchanges of fire. The return fire of the combatants of Islam on the Saddamists' positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud destroyed several light and heavy weapons bunkers and killed a number of enemy personnel. The criminal Saddamist mercenaries yesterday once again brought residential areas of Abadan under long-range artillery fire, injuring three dear compatriots and wrecking three houses.

Iraqi air aggressions against southern and western border towns yesterday were repelled with tactical measures by fighter planes of the Islamic Republic of Iran Air Force and by antiaircraft fire. The aggressive Iraqi planes fled before committing any criminal action.

GUARDS COMMANDER DISCUSSES 'PURGING OPERATIONS'

GF181726 Tehran IRNA in English 1641 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] Urumiyeh, Oct 18, IRNA -- The commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps [IRGC], Mohsen Reza'i, arrived here this afternoon to supervise the current large-scale purging operations taking place in the region.

Speaking to IRNA here, Reza'i said that the decision to carry out the present efforts against the counterrevolutionary forces was made after the Islamic forces had given up hope in thinking that they would lay down their arms and join the people and Islam. "But because they had not surrendered, due to the great pressures from the U.S. and Israel, we began the purging operations in the most sensitive regions inspite of the (Iraqi) imposed war and praise be to God, the Islamic forces have purged a considerable area of the foul existence of the counterrevolutionaries in a short period of time with their power of faith," he said. The commander of the IRGC added that several military training camps of fugitive groups including monafeqin [hypocrites] (MKO) [Mojahedin-e Khalq Organization] had been destroyed and the Islamic forces had taken control of the strategic heights of the area.

After the purging operation had been completed in every area, Reza'i said, construction and development activities would start immediately.

He then said that the counterrevolutionary groups no longer had any base among the people and with the current operations, "we will soon root out the counterrevolutionaries."

OPERATIONS AGAINST REBELS IN WEST REPORTED

LD161830 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 16 Oct 82

[Text] With the speedy advancement of the united and powerful forces of Islam on the Piranshah-Sar Dasht axis, which is being coordinated by the Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada base, the counterrevolution and the illegally armed minigroups are nearing complete destruction and their counterrevolutionary organization is about to be smashed.

According to the Central News Unit and IRNA, the joint commanders of the Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada base announced this, saying with the expansion of mopping-up operations carried out during the past few days by the combatants of Islam in different parts of West Azarbayjan and Kordestan, heavy blows were dealt the counterrevolutionaries.

One of the more important of these blows was the fall of the strategic forests of (Alwatan) on the Piranshah-Sar Dasht axis situated on the Iran-Iraq border. Because of their special geographical location, these forests were the command base of the counterrevolutionaries and one of the most important and sensitive of the bases of the defunct Democratic Party and were considered the backbone of the counterrevolution in the Kurd-inhabited areas.

According to the same report, these operations inflicted heavy casualties and damages on the counterrevolutionaries and enemy forces. A report from the joint command of the Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada base indicates that during the past few days in an offensive the joint bases used by the counterrevolutionaries, including the hyprocrites, and other counterrevolutionaries in the [name indistinct] region were purged and in these operations 50 of the members of the mercenary minigroups were killed and several others were wounded or captured.

In the Saqqez region, the village of (Farjan), one of the command bases of the Komeleh was smashed and the bodies of 30 leaders of this minigroup remain. [as heard] In the Mahabad region, the important (Khalifeh) heights were seized by the combatants of Islam and the road between (Pasveh) and Mahabad is under the control of the Islamic forces.

CLANDESTINE REPORTS YAZDI, FORUHAR FLEE COUNTRY

GF171858 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Text] According to our correspondent, the escape of two more of the first degree criminals of Khomeyni's revolution last week added to the number of those escaping from Iran.

One of the two escapees was Ebrahim Yazdi, the U.S. spy and murderer of dozens of generals and Iranian notables and scientists. He escaped to Pakistan and went to Paris from there.

The second was Darush Foruhar, a member of the National Front and the founder of the armed ruffians known as black shirts, who escaped to Turkey and is still there.

Following the recent strong propaganda attacks by the officials of the regime against the remainder of the members of the National Front and the freedom movement, these gentlemen decided to forgo their self-constructed revolution and save their necks.

The only one who seems to still be in Tehran is engineer Mehdi Bazargan, who, according to our information, has not yet been able to escape from the country.

Other reports coming out of Tehran indicate considerable agitation in the bazaar and economic centers. It is said the nationalist struggling forces have warned bazaar merchants to remove the ugly photographs of Khomeyni from their shops or face the consequences of operating under the shadow of the "imam of the umma'."

The officials of SAVAMA and the guards on the other hand have Tehran's bazaar under constant surveillance to find a shop operating without a photograph of Khomeyni, close it down and jail its proprietor. However, the distribution of numerous antiregime pamphlets in the bazaar and [words indistinct] of bazaar merchants for the antiregime struggle has brought the bazaar to the verge of important changes.

We also had a report that the bakers guild held a brief strike last week. It is possible that the strike will be repeated in the near future in a more organized and effective form. Should this strike be repeated, it will be a mortal blow to the usurping regime of Khomeyni's Islamic Republic.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

Lebanon

Al-Jumayyil Statements -- After meeting with President Ronald Reagan at the White House, President Amin al-Jumayyil said in remarks broadcast by Voice of Lebanon radio that the Lebanese people deeply appreciate and will never forget Reagan's efforts to end the suffering in Lebanon. He affirmed that Reagan's Middle East peace initiative has created unprecedented opportunities for peace and declared that U.S. friendship and assistance are vital for Lebanon, not only in peacekeeping and peacemaking but also in rebuilding Lebanon's Armed Forces. Meanwhile, in an interview with the Rome daily LA REPUBBLICA, Al-Jumayyil promised that Lebanon's relations with the Arab world will henceforth be more active, sincere and direct, ANSA reported.

Reaction to Al-Jumayyil's UN Speeches -- Former Prime Minister Rashid Karami said in a statement broadcast by Beirut radio that Al-Jumayyil's speeches at the United Nations clearly outlined the aspirations of the Lebanese people.

Although HA'ARETZ reported that Israeli diplomats in New York privately described Al-Jumayyil's UN General Assembly speech as "disappointing and ungrateful" toward Israel, an Israeli political source cited by Jerusalem television affirmed that there is no anger or disappointment in Jerusalem over the Lebanese leader's remarks because Al-Jumayyil is in a difficult situation and "under pressure."

Egypt's AL-AKHBAR said Al-Jumayyil's General Assembly speech dealt a "big blow" to the Israeli Government's strategy of imposing peace through coercion and terror, MENA reported.

Military, Security Situation -- A WAFA report cited by Monte Carlo radio claimed that Palestinian fedayeen killed one Israeli soldier and wounded three others in an 18 October operation behind Israeli lines in the south. In the Ash-Shuf mountains around 'Alayh, a Lebanese Army unit entered Kafr Matta while the IDF reinforced its positions elsewhere in the area, according to reports by the Voice of Lebanon and the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio. The IDF spokesman in Lebanon said the Lebanese Army can deploy in the Druze villages, but the Israelis will ensure that the IDF presence overlaps that of the Lebanese, Jerusalem radio reported.

Israel

Knesset Meeting -- Prime Minister Menahem Begin ended the opening meeting of the Knesset winter session with an attack on Alignment positions and claims, according to excerpts of his speech carried by Jerusalem radio. Begin said there is no practical plan other than that of full autonomy as provided for in the Camp David accords. On the other hand, Alignment MK Yitzhaq Rabin asserted that there is no choice but to hold talks and sign an agreement on the border with Jordan, the radio reported. After the debates, the radio noted that the Knesset approved Israel's foreign and defense policy by 56 votes to 50.

Begin Interview -- In an interview with MA'ARIV, Prime Minister Begin said that because of his wife's poor health he may not be able to go to the United States in November and this problem would also influence his decision on serving as prime minister until the end of term in 1985. On Israel's political and security situation, he asserted that it has "never been so good."

Massacre Inquiry Commission Meets -- The commission of inquiry investigating the Beirut massacres met on 19 October, will begin questioning witnesses on the 20th and will ask the defense minister and chief of staff to testify next week, according to Jerusalem radio reports.

PLO

After meeting with Qatari leaders, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat flew to Saudi Arabia, according to Doha radio and SPA. While in Doha, 'Arafat said in a statement reported by AR-RAYAH that the PLO and Jordan have agreed to form a joint committee to follow up the issue of confederation between Jordan and a Palestinian state. Meanwhile, PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir disclosed that Jordan is prepared to amnesty soldiers who deserted the Jordanian Army and joined the PLO, Monte Carlo radio reported.

Reacting to U.S. unwillingness to receive a PLO official among the Arab committee that will shortly meet with President Reagan, Arab League General Secretary Chedli Klibi regretted U.S. links with Israel and called on the Americans to adopt a neutral posture, TAP reported. In his statement, which was published by a Tunisian newspaper, Klibi said that although the Arab states are concerned with the Palestinian question, they cannot take the place of the PLO.

KARMAL ADDRESSES COUNCIL ON SARANDOY ROLE

LD191026 Kabul in Pashto and Dari to Europe 1730 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] A meeting was held yesterday at the Revolutionary Council headquarters to discuss the contents of the Ninth PDPA Central Committee Plenum resolutions regarding the tasks of the party in strengthening political work in the sarandoy forces and to express the historical decision of the party Central Committee Secretariat in connection with the improvement of the performance of Interior Ministry organs and cadres. Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and chairman of the DRA Revolutionary Council, took part in the meeting.

Present at the meeting were members of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and secretaries, heads of the party Central Committee departments, some members of the Revolutionary Council, a number of members of the Council of Ministers, representatives of the army and state information services, officials in charge of the the Justice and Defense Departments of the provincial party committees, sarandoy commanders of the provinces and Kabul city, commanders of the operational units, political heads and staff of sarandoy and those men who have displayed heroism in the hot fortresses of the defense of revolution.

Dr. Faruq, political chief of the Interior Ministry, opened the meeting by reading the working method and agenda and requested Babrak Karmal to inaugurate the meeting with his revolutionary statement.

The BAKHTAR correspondent reports that Babrak Karmal, amidst waves of enthusiasm and love expressed by the audience, was warmly welcomed with the chanting of revolutionary slogans. He delivered an important speech, once again drawing the attention of the militant and brave sarandoy to their historical mission and to the heavy tasks entrusted to them in the homeland's present circumstances.

Expressing his happiness at participating in this party meeting, Babrak Karmal said: Gathered here today are very distinguished representatives of our new sarandoy who, bearing arms as a part of the Afghan Armed Forces, struggle confidently against the external and internal enemies of the homeland and defend the values of the April Revolution and the interests of our free people. I am completely confident that when you return to your units you will talk with your comrades about the tasks that the party sets before the sarandoy. Of course, you will not only talk but will implement and follow the instructions and duties of the party assigned to you today.

Comparing the new sarandoy with the police of the past despotic regimes, Babrak Karmal added: The new sarandoy of today have come from the masses; they are the part of the people and are at the service of the people. And they must be at the service of the people. At present the major part of the sarandoy consists of those youths who are very loyal to the revolution. They have come from the toiling families and they themselves have witnessed the brutalities and unlawfulness of the past police.

Babrak Karmal said: The very important fact is that the activities of the sarandoy of today is led by the PDPA. The party's guidance of the sarandoy guarantees victories. the PDPA, the party Central Committee and the DRA Government pay consistent attention to the improvement, development and strengthening of the sarandoy and to enhancing the combat capability and political maturity of the sarandoy.

Drawing the attention of the country's sarandoy to the tasks and obligations the party and government have placed on their shoulders, Babrak Karmal added: Maintaining peaceful and calm life and crushing counterrevolutionary elements in the country's vital important areas and defending the revolution are our very great and important duties. We believe that the sarandoy will continue in the future to enhance and increase their part in eliminating the counterrevolutionaries and raising their combat capability.

Babrak Karmal once again drew the attention of the officers, staff and troops of the sarandoy to strengthening party and military discipline, unity and solidarity and demanded that each of them set a good example in accepting discipline and loyalty to the ideals of the revolution and performing revolutionary tasks.

Babrak Karmal added: Tha sarandoy personnel work among the masses of the people. People judge all activities of the state to a large extent by the activities of the sarandoy. The sarandoy personnel must observe revolutionary legality in their work. Good behavior, endeavoring to help the people in turbulent conditions, resolutely defending them against the counterrevolution and subversive elements -- these are the areas in which the sarandoy personnel must make every effort and bend all their energy. Thus the sarandoy personnel will gain the respect and confidence of the toilers and will find reliable friends and comrades among them.

Concluding his statement, Babrak Karmal said: The PDPA Central Committee Politburo is completely confident that the sarandoy will further increase the (?military) struggle of its personnel and their ideological and political maturity, and will defend the stand of their revolutionary state everywhere.

Interior Minister Sayyed Mohammad Golabzoy then spoke about the missions and tasks of the sarandoy in defending the April Revolution, struggling against the counterrevolutionary bands and maintaining security in the country. On behalf of the Interior Ministry, personnel are fighting with all their power and energy throughout the country to maintain security and to accomplish the tasks entrusted to them. Step by step, following the instructions and resolutions of the party and state, they defend the lofty ideals of the April Revolution.

The BAKHTAR correspondent adds that a number of sarandoy officers and men spoke in affirmation of Babrak Karmal's statement and expressed complete readiness to fulfill and implement all resolutions of the PDPA Central Committee Ninth Plenum and other party instructions.

In conclusion, a draft of the resolution drawn up by a plenary meeting of the Interior Ministry sarandoy party activists and a message of gratitude from the meeting participants to the party Central Committee were read. They were unanimously approved.

Finally, Babrak Karmal distributed medals to a number of brave officers, junior police ranks and troops who have displayed their heroism in crushing counterrevolutionary elements and wished them further successes in completely eliminating the enemies of the homeland.

SIKH PARTY CALLS FOR 'HOLY WAR' TO BACK DEMANDS

BK200653 Hong Kong AFP in English 0620 GMT 20 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct 20 (AFP) -- Sikh political party, the Akali Dal, today announced it would start a "dharmayudha" (holy war) to back their autonomy demands for their state Punjab in India's north, bordering Pakistan.

Harchand Singh Longowal, leader of a majority faction of the party, told newsmen in the Sikh holy city of Amritsar that he had asked his partymen and the Sikhs to assemble in Amritsar on November 4 to launch the "holy war."

The Sikh protest action plan was unfolded to newsmen after the leaders held a marathon night-long closed door meeting there following outbreaks of violence in the city on Monday which led to one Sikh being killed by police gunfire during a demonstration.

Last week five people died when police opened fire on a Sikh demonstration outside the New Delhi Parliament building.

The holy war call has complicated the situation and might result in a showdown between the Sikh leaders and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress-I party led administration in Punjab, observers said.

In the past the Sikhs had used the holy war call against the Moslem invaders. This was the first time in independent India that the call had been given, sources said.

They could not say what shape the holy war call would take, but they did not rule out the possibility of thousands of armed Sikhs assembling in Amritsar and other places.

Mr Longowal said the campaign by Sikhs to get themselves arrested and fill the jails would continue and preparations were under way for the next stage of the protest.

Meanwhile, the Sikh sources here said the holy war call should be first endorsed by the "Akal Takht" -- the supreme Sikh religious body which operates from Amritsar.

DELHI ANNOUNCES AGREEMENT ON MIRAGE-2000'S

BK181601 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Text] India will start receiving the French Mirage-2000 aircraft in 1984. An agreement for procuring the aircraft was signed in New Delhi on Friday last and the Defense Ministry announced it today. The agreement brings to an end the 6-month-long negotiations that followed the conclusion of what it called the intention to proceed with the French firm. It involves the purchase of 40 Mirage aircraft.

The agreement also covers training of Indian technicians in the operation and maintenance of this high performance combat aircraft. A number of training aids, including a simulator, are also being acquired.

DEFENSE MINISTRY CRITICIZED OVER AIRCRAFT PROJECT

BK161552 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 9 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] New Delhi, Oct 8 (UNI) -- The Public Accounts Committee [PAC] has expressed distress over the manner in which the Defence Ministry had handled a project for manufacture of a modified Gnat aircraft for the Indian Air Force.

The ministry, according to the committee, did not take a comprehensive view of the project based on a clear perception of the requirements. The result was that not only did the cost of development of a Gnat MK-II go up from Rs 99 lakhs to Rs 320 lakhs, but there was a delay of seven years in the completion of the project.

Further, the committee noted in its 117th report presented to the Lok Sabha on Friday, even while the aircraft was in its development stage, the ministry placed bulk orders for the aircraft. It was clear that the air force authorities had no precise idea of the real nature of the development effort required. Decisions were taken in an ad hoc manner from time to time resulting in escalation in cost as well as in heavy time overrun. At least in the future, the ministry should pay greater attention to planning and execution of such developmental projects within a time-barred programme, the PAC felt.

The committee was also unhappy with the Defence Ministry for failing to take action against the persons responsible for the manufacture of defective cartridge cases for ammunition in an ordnance factory.

According to the committee, the government had to spend Rs 1.49 crore in repairing 64,614 of the 99,885 defective cartridges in addition to Rs 83.42 lakhs spent on import of 50,000 brass blanks.

The committee took exception to the Defence Ministry sitting over the report of the board of inquiry which looked into the case and asked it to complete the inquiry within three months and take action against those responsible for the costly lapse.

The government proposes to set up an organisation in the Defence Ministry for long-term perspective planning to meet requirements of the air force during the next 10 years. The government is also making all efforts to provide the indigenous aircraft and avionics industry with adequate opportunities for development projects, the PAC said in its report.

PAKISTANI NUCLEAR WEAPONS CAPABILITY VIEWED

[Editorial: "Pakistan and the Bomb"]

[Text] The chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr Homi Sethna, has voiced scepticism about the early possibility of Pakistan acquiring nuclear weapons capability. Speaking over the weekend he pointed out that although Pakistan has chosen the relatively direct enriched uranium route -- as distinct from the plutonium-based nuclear programme in India -- it has yet to master the technology of, first, producing sizable quantities of weapons grade fuel and, secondly, fabricating warheads. In his assessment, Pakistan also lacks the industrial infrastructure to be able to manufacture and deploy atomic arms.

Although Dr Sethna's remarks were made to a gathering of academics at Rajkot they are politically significant for two reasons: For the first time a person of Dr Sethna's position in India's atomic energy establishment has chosen to share his technical appraisal of the subject with the public. More importantly, his expressed views do not square with the widely held impression, at home and abroad, that Pakistan is on the brink of a breakthrough in the nuclear weapons field.

Most earlier accounts of Pakistan's nuclear ambitions have been from Western media and political sources. Prof Stephen Cohen, whose writings seemed to have prompted Dr Sethna's observations, has also dealt more with the political and military aspects than with the technical. Fuelled by Pakistan's unrelenting efforts, mostly clandestine, to set up an enrichment facility indigenously, their emphasis has been on intentions, rather than capabilities which Dr Sethna has now examined critically.

To the extent his views temper official thinking in Delhi, they may also indicate a more hard-nosed approach than hitherto to the problem of weapons proliferation in the subcontinent. Some quietus to the imminence of a Pakistani breakthrough in acquiring nuclear arms capability could be an element in cooling the atmosphere for the ongoing talks between India and Pakistan for an accommodation. Though slow moving, these discussions hold the key to peace and stability in the subcontinent.

PATRIOT SCORES PRC POLICY TOWARD REGION

BK181611 Delhi PATRIOT in English 7 Oct 82 p 2

[Editorial: "Sino-Soviet Talks"]

[Text] The arrival in Beijing of a Soviet delegation, headed by a vice-minister, merely upgrades the level of recently-activated contacts between the two governments. Only a week ago Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev had reiterated the importance his government attaches to a "gradual improvement of relations with China." Moscow has always been willing to resume the Sino-Soviet dialogue which was disrupted at Beijing's insistance. It is true that of late vituperative Chinese propaganda against the Soviet Union has become less shrill than it was before the Taiwan disappointment and its criticism of certain aspects of the policy of the United States, its strategic ally, has become louder. All this, however, does not warrant undue optimism about an immediate and significant improvement in the present estranged relations between the People's Republic of China and the USSR.

Chinese Foreign Minister Huang Hua's speech at the United Nations General Assembly cautions us from jumping to hasty conclusions. In its essence, Mr. Huang has confirmed Beijing's return to the pernicious three-world theory propounded during the now-discredited Maoist period. Some Sinologists like to believe that the slight changes in China's verbal forays are indicative of more substantial reappraisal of its foreign policy. But those who are conversant with the sophistry of Chinese diplomacy see in this apparent shift in nuances a clever attempt to win respectability in the Third World with a view, ultimately, to disrupt its unity and to weaken the growing solidarity between the developing nonaligned countries and the socialist world by spreading confusion. The other day former U.S. President Richard Nixon declared that "we in the United States would welcome any initiative by China to reduce tensions with Moscow." But sooner, rather than later, it will become obvious that attempts to use the Sino-Soviet talks to subserve U.S. imperialism's global designs will end in failure.

There is, as yet, no evidence of any fundamental change in Chinese attitude towards its neighbours. This is amply demonstrated by Beijing's unabated machinations against Vietnam and the totally untenable assertion made by Hu Yaobang that "China does not occupy an inch of territory of any other country." We, in India, know that the statement is not true and Vietnam, Laos and Kampuchea are aware that the creation of the so-called "Democratic Kampuchean Coalition Government" with active Chinese participation is a device to further Beijing's economic and political domination in the Indo-Chinese region and South-East Asia. The feeling of its neighbours towards China has been candidly expressed by President Tsedenbal of Mongolia who has accused Beijing of economic and political pressure, gross interference in internal affairs of other countries, military threats and armed intervention against neighbouring states.

The Chinese Government's preposterous insistence on withdrawal of Soviet support to Vietnam and Afghanistan as precondition for normalisation of relations with Moscow clearly demonstrates the convergence of U.S. and Chinese positions in regard to South-West and South-East Asia. The Soviet Union, obviously, will never give up its unflinching support to its allies and friends. Till date, Chinese attempts to give a face-lift to its foreign policy postures do not reflect a fundamental re-examination of its Sino-centred world view, it is merely a device to gain greater maneuverability in the conduct of its diplomacy for promoting its national-chauvinist ambitions.

IRANIAN CONTRIBUTION TO ITU FUNDS INCREASED

LD191126 Tehran IRNA in English 1003 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Nairobi, Oct 19 (IRNA) -- The Islamic Republic of Iran increases its financial share five times in the U.N. International Telecommunication Union (ITU) to compensate the U.S. contribution which that country threatened to suspend in case of the expulsion of the Zionist regime from the international organisation. Iranian delegate Seyyed Mostafa Safavi addressing the ITU conference said, it is expected that other member countries will also take necessary measures to compensate the U.S. share and to keep the human values up.

The United States three weeks ago withdrew from the International Atomic Energy Agency following the conference's vote to deny the Zionist regime's credentials. Iranian Majlis deputies in a letter announced early this week that Iran was ready to pay the sum equal to what is paid by the United States as its share of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Iranian representative to the ITU conference outlined crimes of the Zionist regime and condemned the U.S. for its equal responsibility for the crimes committed by them in Lebanon. The Iranian delegate said that the Resolution 120 which called for the expulsion of the Zionist regime was justified.

In reply to the U.S. threat Iranian delegate said that Islamic Republic and all other countries who believe in peace and attach importance to the right stand will strongly oppose any move which will impose U.S. domination upon the world opinion. He said we will not allow the rich to determine the fate of others.

MAJLIS DEPUTIES APPROVE IAEA CONTRIBUTION

LD192100 Tehran IRNA in English 1908 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Tehran, Oct, 19 IRNA -- A number of Majlis deputies today in a letter said that Iran was ready to cover the losses created by the discontinuation of the United States financial support for the International Atomic Energy Agency. Following the recent decision of members of the agency to expel the Zionist regime the U.S. Government decided to discontinue aid.

The letter which was read in the open session of the Majlis said that by such a measure, the U.S. Government once again proved its animosity towards the oppressed people and also made it clear to the world that all crimes and atrocities of the Zionist regime were taking place with knowledge and consent of the U.S..

While inviting the oppressed of the world to an all out struggle against domination of superpowers and the Zionist regime, the letter said that cancellation of the Zionist regime's membership in the International Atomic Energy Agency was a positive step in this direction.

In another part of the letter it was said that the revolutionary and Islamic Iran was willing in coordination with other progressive countries to pay the full amount formerly paid by the U.S. Government and thereby pave the way for ridding similar international organisations from domination of world devourers.

DPRK DELEGATION CONCLUDES VISIT 18 OCTOBER

LD191148 Tehran IRNA in English 1019 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, 18 Oct IRNA -- The high ranking DPRK delegation headed by Huang Chang-yop, the chairman of the Supreme People's Assembly of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, held its final round of talks this evening with Iranian Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani.

In this meeting, the chairman of the Supreme People's Assembly of the DPRK said: "We closely witnessed the commitment of the Iranian nation to the Islamic revolution and their devotion to reconstruction of their country." He said he was deeply touched by the anti-imperialist position of the Iranian people and government.

He then called for close cooperation between the non-aligned and developing countries and urged the convening of the South-South conference in order to discuss solutions for the economic problems of these countries.

Insisting on the change of venue of the next session of Interparliamentary Union to be held in Seoul, South Korea, Hwang Chang-yop asked the Islamic Republic Government to assist the DPRK in that respect. Hwang Chang-yop also called for further parliamentary relations between Iran and the DPRK, and said that exchange of parliamentary delegations would play a positive role in expanding bilateral ties.

The Iranian Majlis speaker, in response, reaffirming the political-social growth of the Iranian nation after the culmination of the revolution, said the anti-U.S. imperialism slogans of this nation were based on their social and cultural knowledge.

Replying to his counterpart's suggestion concerning the change of venue of the next session of the Interparliamentary Union and the convening of the South-South conference, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani urged the creation of a non-aligned monetary fund to protect the economically deprived nations. He then called for further cooperations between independence and revolutionary countries in diplomatic, economic and military fields. "We should confront the expansionism of the superpowers through our close cooperation," he said.

The precise method for economic and commercial expansion of mutual relations was supposed to be maintained in the near future.

Huang Chang-yop also met and conferred with Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi-Khamene'i here today.

In this meeting, also attended by a number of Korean and Iranian diplomatic and economic officials, talks were held on economic and political cooperation between the two countries in confronting imperialist plots.

Delegation Departs

LD191130 Tehran IRNA in English 1009 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 19 (IRNA) -- The Democratic People's Republic of Korea mission headed by that country's parliament speaker, Hwang Chang-Yop, which had been in Tehran for the last three days, left Tehran this morning for Pyongyang.

The mission was seen off at the airport by Majlis Speaker Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, and a score of other Foreign Ministry officials.

Prior to his departure, Hwang Chang-yop said, despite the great geographical distance between the two countries, his people attach great importance to the Islamic revolution of Iran and Imam Khomeyni. He added the U.S. imperialism hatched many plots to crush the Islamic revolution of Iran and Imam Khomeyni, which were thwarted by Iranians who very well maintained their independence.

He said this trip showed him that the Iranian nation was progressing with great perseverance, and that the two countries had common viewpoints for the expansion of bilateral relations. In conclusion, he thanked the Iranian nation for their hospitality.

The Majlis speaker, Hashemi-Rafsanjani, said the DPRK mission's trip to Iran was in response to his visit to that country last year.

He said the non-aligned countries' vital responsibilities towards the world oppressions, and the bilateral relations were discussed during the visit of the DPRK delegation. He concluded by saying that the trip of the mission to Iran was a step ahead for the development of the bilateral relations, and it will also pave the way for more cooperation among the independent countries in international organisations, which are of great importance.

NVOI ASSAILS COUNTRY'S TIES WITH TURKEY

TA181202 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 17 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "America's Associates Cannot Be the Friends of Revolutionary Iran"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: All of us are aware that after the dismissal of the Bani-Sadrs, the Amir-Entezams and the Qotbzadehs the Islamic government adopted positive measures with regard to foreign policy. But at the same time it is also a fact that certain individuals in our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, who are under the impact of the intimations of the liberals, the superficials and mental prejudice, continue to pursue the same course that at one time was being pursued by the compromising liberals in recognizing friends and foes.

Apart from the fact that no step is being taken to establish normal relations with many independent and anti-imperialist countries, projecting revolutionary Iran's enemies as its friends is also one of the masterpieces of this group of officials in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The people can under no circumstances accept the claim by some high-ranking officials of our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs that, for example, the regimes of Turkey and Pakistan are the backers and supporters of revolutionary Iran in the international diplomatic arena for, particularly following the revolution, the people are observing through their own experience that the leaders of these two coupist regimes, which are American to the marrow, have had a hostile stance toward revolutionary and anti-imperialist Iran.

The fact that even now America enjoys a vast military presence in Turkey and that Turkish authorities have allowed the Pentagon to establish a command center in eastern Turkey for the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force is itself an indication of the Turkish regime's hostility toward revolutionary Iran, for the purpose of stationing the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force on Turkish soil is above all to threaten the Islamic Republic of Iran and Iran's revolution as well as the Persian Gulf's oil-producing region. Even the Americans themselves are not denying this.

On the other hand, the Turkish regime, which some people in our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs want to project as the friend of the Islamic Republic of Iran, has transformed Turkey into a base for the counterrevolutionaries and fugitive dregs of the former regime, both military and nonmilitary, the reins of all of whom are in the hands of the U.S. CIA.

According to the NEW YORK TIMES the U.S. CIA has assumed the expenses of the Iranian fugitive groups who are in Turkey. This U.S. newspaper reports on Iranian military groups on Turkish soil, one under the command of former Admiral Madani, the other under the command of former General Bahram Aryana. The NEW YORK TIMES estimates the number of these two groups of Iranian fugitive bands stationed in Turkey to be between 8,000 to 10,000. Regarding the satanic aims of world-devouring America in accepting the expenses of these bands, the NEW YORK TIMES writes: At present this aid is not for overthrowing the Khomeyni regime or creating disturbances in it but is used to collect information so that later Washington, by forging unity among the opponents of Khomeyni's regime abroad, will consolidate its position when there is a change of regime.

Yes, world-devouring America has concentrated a large number of monarchists and fugitive officers of the former Imperial Army and other dregs of the former regime in special camps on Turkish soil, and is training and equipping them with the knowledge and permission of Turkey's coup regime. These are issues whose reports have been disseminated throughout the entire world.

Amid such conditions it is amazing that there are certain individuals, even among our Islamic Republic's high-ranking officials, who strive by every means to distort the facts, to divert public opinion and to project enemies as friends.

For example, the under secretary in charge of legal and parliamentary affairs at our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs says: There is doubt in regard to Turkey being a base for the counterrevolution. At the outset of the revolution's victory the counterrevolution may have had some activity around the town of Van in Turkey, but on the basis of reliable information that has reached us these activities have halted and the Turkish Government has not given them permission to engage in activity on Turkish soil against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Indeed, who is not aware that the frontier between our country and Turkey, the same as the Pakistani-Iranian border, is the only route for the transfer of the counterrevolution from abroad into our country, and that Turkey's American regime, on orders from the U.S CIA, is bending over backwards in helping the Iranian counterrevolutionaries in that country.

It is difficult to believe that the responsible officials in our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs really have no information in this connection. The fact is that a very unhealthy trend has become dominant in our governmental organizations toward which the people cannot be indifferent. The people recognize their friends and enemies. Those who still tread the dead end path of the Qotbzadehs, the Bani-Sadrs, the Yazdis and the Amir-Entezams must not forget the tragic end of their predecessors.

ARAB COMMITTEE VISIT TO WASHINGTON ASSAILED

GF191144 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 18 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] The race to Washington has not yet ended. After Al-Jumayyil's visit, the seven-member committee emerging from the Fes summit will visit next. After that, Mubarak will make many visits. The question is: When will this race end and when will the Arabs stop their travels to Washington?

What is very strange about this race is that the blood shed by the terrorist band on Washington's orders is still wet and oppression and terrorism still continue in Beirut. We are watching this race now. Haven't we had enough from Washington? Don't those who race have enough dignity to refuse U.S. oppression?

The United States is accustomed to killing Muslims and destroying their cities and homes and the reactionary rulers are used to bowing to U.S. policy. The United States kills children, women and old people and those rulers are still begging Washington and going to the White House like sincere soldiers.

Reagan sees himself above sitting at a table that includes a representative of the Palestinian people. The rulers accept this insult and say to the PLO representative: It is better not to spoil our relations with Washington by insisting on this matter.

By doing so, those rulers forget that the U.S. insult is not only directed at the Palestinian people, but it is also directed at all Muslims and Arabs because it is ignorance of a right and ignorance of a people demanding their rights.

Without these reactionary rulers, Reagan and others could have not followed this policy that ignores Palestinian rights. The first way to Palestine is to defeat this U.S. arrogance and the return of Arab rulers to dignity and honor by refusing to go to Washington without a Palestinian representative. They should say to Reagan that it is time to stop ignoring this people who struggled and sacrificed for over 30 years and that it is time to stop arrogance and oppression. This is the way to liberation.

Hence, instead of the visits, there should be a comprehensive confrontation with the U.S. Administration -- a confrontation that presents the administration with a fait accompli, a comprehensive confrontation that forces it to recognize the Palestinian rights. What would happen to the Arab rulers if they halted oil supplies to U.S. factories? Will they die of thirst? What will happen if they withdraw their assets from the U.S. banks? Will they die of hunger? No.

If they do that, they will live in dignity and honor and will force U.S. policy to surrender to the fait accompli. Thus, they can present their enemy with one of two options: either recognize the right or remain in the siege.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,084

LD191754 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 19 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,084 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Combatants of Islam, who have learned lessons from the uprising of Husayn ibn 'Ali for the establishment of the reign of God, relentlessly are fighting against the enemies of Islam and those who wage war against God. The combatants of Islam will continue their fight at full strength against symbols of blasphemy until the enemy's total surrender.

In the last 24 hours, our powerful forces have opened fire on the enemy's infantry, artillery, tank and mortar-launching positions, inflicting losses and damage. Our powerful forces continued to maintain their superior firepower and held the initiative.

On the country's western fronts, our combat units consolidated their own positions and continued to improve the situation. With artillery fire, they destroyed two tanks and vehicles of the Saddamists and killed several of them.

On 17 October at 2200, the enemy launched a desperate attack in the Nowsud sector. However, with the vigilance of our forces, the enemy's efforts were in vain and it was forced to retreat at midnight after suffering losses and damage.

Fire exchange continued in the country's southern operational sector. The powerful combat tants of Islam prevented movements and activities by the Saddamist forces, destroyed several of their trenches and foxholes on the other side of the Arvand Rud and annihilated three enemy observation posts. One enemy fuel tank also was set ablaze.

Abadan yesterday came under heavy and long-range artillery fire from the criminal Saddamists. As a result, part of a hospital and three stores were demolished and several areas of the city were set on fire. Four of our compatriots were wounded.

During the 17 October operations, three combatants of the Ground Forces and two warriors of the Gendarmerie of the Islamic Republic of Iran gained the honor of martyrdom. May God bless the martyrs.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

According to an IRNA report quoting the joint command of Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada base, this region was liberated after the liberation of the sensitive and strategic (Alwatan) heights. According to the same report, this region is one of the important training centers of the counterrevolutionaries and one of the major centers for the importation of smuggled goods.

12 OCTOBER NVOI COMMENTARIES EXAMINE MASS MEDIA

TA122013 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 12 October carries two commentaries.

The first commentary, entitled "Cut Off the Hands of the Journalistic Keshmiris From the Mass Media," says: The situation that has arisen in our homeland's mass media rightly has aroused the concern of the people and all followers of the imam's and the revolution's genuine line. It repeatedly has been observed that, during sensitive situations and instances for our revolution and Islamic Republic, certain hands, in accordance with a specific plan, exerted all their efforts to divert public opinion from the main danger that threatens Iran and the revolution.

Regrettable is that not only are the government and some of the responsible officials indifferent and silent toward these endeavors by the journalistic Keshmiris, but despite the explicit principles of the Constitution, the imam's guidelines, the prosecutor general's 10-point statement and the recommendations of the country's high-ranking officials, they have banned all newspapers that report the truth and support the revolution -- newspapers which from the very outset of the revolution and despite all restrictions and difficulties exerted all their efforts to exposing the plots of the counterrevolution, world-devouring America, the dregs of the former regime, the liberals and a wide spectrum of the opponents of the imam's and the revolution's genuine line. The result is that activity in the mass media today is the monopoly of a specific group and individuals who think in a one-dimensional way. The result is that individuals affiliated with outwardly Islamic organizations, such as the Hojjatiyeh, have been able to impose themselves on all organs, including the mass media, and to strike at the revolution and the Islamic Republic from within in the name of Hezbollah and Islam.

It may seen surprising, but it is a fact that although the treachery of the Bani-Sadrs and the Qotbzadehs has become obvious to everyone, individuals and elements who support these traitors continue to operate extensively in the mass media. By resorting to the weapon of blackmail and slander, not only do they attack the dissenting revolutionary parties and organizations but even the realistic officials and sincere followers of the imam's genuine line. A wing in the Islamic government -- which should be called the superficial and rightist wing opposed to the imam's genuine line -- intentionally is aggravating the situation and prevents implementation of the Constitution's principles, the imam's guidelines and the prosecutor general's 10-point statement. One should not allow the elements of this wing to use our Islamic Republic's mass media as a weapon to distort facts and divert public opinion and consequently undermine the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The second commentary, entitled "Let Us Maintain Honesty in Disseminating the News," states: In a recent meeting with the supervisor and a number of officials of the Islamic Republic News Agency, Imam Khomeyni once again announced certain guidelines to which not only all IRNA employees should devote attention but also all officials who deal with the mass media. The imam said: What is important for a news agency is its quality since one that is close to the truth and truthfulness encourages one to listen. Taking into consideration the current bitter realities of our homeland, the imam of the nation said during this meeting: In the Islamic Republic all the news, especially the news about the war and the way the great governments treat the Iranian nation, should be communicated to the people in all honesty. Yet contrary to our expectation and wish, in most cases not only are the facts concealed from the nation, but efforts are exerted to distort events and fabricate the facts and especially to slander the true friends of the Islamic Republic in the international arena. The blows the opponents and foes of the imam's popular and anti-imperialist line have so far dealt to the Islamic Republic of Iran by blackmail and distorting the facts are recorded in history. These blows have been very fatal, and had it not been for the deep confidence of the nation in the imam of the nation, very likely these blows would have cost the Islamic Republic of Iran very dearly.

Continuing his remarks, the imam warned that today news agencies, press and media, radios and televisions are interested in the affairs of Iran and are all waiting to find something so they can add on to it and distort it to damage the Islamic Republic and divert the people's attention. If we do not devote necessary attention to this guideline of the imam, we will expose the revolution and its gains to danger. The evolution of the Iranian nation's popular and anti-imperialist revolution is currently in such a stage that if the Islamic Republic News Agency and our homeland's mass media do not adopt the course the imam has recommended and if the Islamic Government does not undertake a deep and all-out purge in the very sensitive institutions, the revolution's perpetuation and expansion in the popular and anti-imperialist line will be called into question.

25 OCTOBER 1982

Iran-Iraq War

Islamic Mediation -- The delegation sent to Tehran and Baghdad on 23 October by the Good Offices Committee of the Islamic Conference Organization (ICO) made progress and the mediation mission will continue through further contacts with Iran and Iraq, a committee statement carried by SPA declared. However, Iranian President 'Ali Khamene'i, who received the ICO delegation, announced afterward in an interview with Tehran radio that the proposals brought by the delegation "contained nothing new and raised points which Iran has previously rejected." He noted that Iran rejects the demand for a cease-fire unless its conditions are met and also stated that in contrast to the delegation's proposal that an Islamic fund pay war reparations, Iran insists on receiving compensation from Iraq. Asked his opinion of the mediation efforts, Khamene'i said the visits made by such delegations are inspired by the United States and the supporters of Iraq. None of the ICO delegation's proposals corresponds with Iran's conditions, he asserted, and the Iranians accordingly told the delegation they are unacceptable. Nevertheless, Khamene'i told the delegation he will reply to the Good Offices Committee's letter later, Iran's foreign minister disclosed in a Tehran radio interview. The ICO secretary general confirmed that the Good Offices Committee has not yet received Iran's official reply, WAKH reported.

During its visit to Baghdad the ICO delegation handed Revolution Command Council Vice Chairman 'Izzat Ibrahim a message from Iraqi President Saddam Husayn, INA reported. Ibrahim told the delegation that Iraq approves "in principle" the peace proposals contained in the message and called on the Good Offices Committee to state its "clear and frank opinion" regarding all the problems that have hindered it so that the Islamic world will know the role of the parties concerned in this issue.

Military Situation -- Exchanges of fire continued throughout the weekend, according to military communiques issued by both sides. Iraqi communiques carried by Baghdad radio and INA asserted that the Iranians lost 134 men killed or wounded in an abortive offensive in the central sector on 22 October and that Iraqi planes struck at targets in the southern sector the previous day. Meanwhile, Iranian Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said in remarks reported by IRNA that as a result of Iran's recent offensive, the Iraqis sustained 4,000 men killed, wounded, captured or deserted and also lost 79 tanks and personnel carriers.

Iran

IRNA claimed that a strategic village and 14 other villages in Sanandaj, Kordestan Province, were purged of rebels and that several villages and heights which were important rallying points for the rebels were completely recaptured during two successful police operations on 23 October. The clandestine Free Voice of Iran radio denied that revolution guards have been able to capture the areas controlled by armed Kurdish fighters. The radio reported that 360 guards were annihilated, and that the guards' attacks along the Sar Dasht-Piranshahr road have been defeated.

Lebanon

Withdrawal of Foreign Forces -- Beirut radio cited reports that the first stage of withdrawals may occur before 22 November, allowing the Lebanese Army and the multinational force to deploy in an area extending from the Ad-Damur district south of Beirut through the Ash-Shuf and Al-Matn mountains to the environs of Juniyah in the north. The Israelis will move south of the Ad-Damur river while the Syrians and Palestinians will withdraw eastward from Al-Matn to the Al-Biqa' Valley, the radio said. In a related development, the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio cited reports that U.S. Deputy Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper, who arrived in Lebanon on 24 October, has brought with him a plan for mutual withdrawals. However, the Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman reaffirmed that Israel does not make any deals with the PLO and reiterated that before any Israeli withdrawal takes place, the PLO men and other "terrorists" must leave all of Lebanon, Jerusalem radio reported. The spokesman was responding to the Lebanese paper AN-NAHAR's report that the Israelis will pull back 15 km from the Beirut-Damascus highway in exchange for a complete PLO withdrawal from Lebanon, according to the radio. Meanwhile, Jerusalem political sources cited by Israel's HA'ARETZ contended that the negotiations over the evacuation of foreign forces will be long and exhausting, lasting months, not weeks.

In another development, Beirut radio reported that in a message delivered to President Amin al-Jumayyil during his stay in Rome, PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat declared the Palestinian Resistance is at the disposal of the Lebanese authorities and affirmed that the PLO will not impede the withdrawal process. An Arab source cited by the London magazine AL-MAJALLAH disclosed that Jordan has agreed "in principle" to receive a large number of Palestinian fighters currently deployed in northern Lebanon and the Al-Biqa' area. Meanwhile, the UAE paper AL-KHALIJ said that PLO forces in Tunisia will be transferred to Jordan and that King Husayn has agreed to allow 5,000 PLO soldiers to be stationed there, according to AFP.

Al-Jumayyil Remarks, Activities -- President al-Jumayyil told the Rome daily IL MESSAGERO that the multinational force should be strengthened and that since the Lebanese Army is at present insufficient to maintain order, the government should introduce a military draft, ANSA reported. Before leaving Rome, Al-Jumayyil met with Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali, who told him that Egypt is prepared to participate in any effort aimed at securing peace in Lebanon, MENA reported. Al-Jumayyil gave 'Ali an important message for Egyptian President Husni Mubarak, MENA noted. President al-Jumayyil subsequently told the Lebanese Cabinet that he intends to visit certain Arab countries which are concerned with the Lebanese problem, Beirut radio said.

Phalangist Policy -- The Phalangist Lebanese Forces "cannot change the nature of their struggle until the legal authority regains all its sovereignty and imposes its authority over all the homeland's territory and all the foreigners get out," Lebanese Forces Commander Fadi Afram declared in a speech, excerpts of which were broadcast by Voice of Lebanon radio. Speaking in the Phalangist Security Council compound at a memorial service marking the 40th day after Bashir al-Jumayyil's assassination, Afram pledged to firmly abide by the late president-elect's principles and also vowed that the Lebanese Forces will continue their struggle to liberate all of Lebanon, the radio reported.

Security, Military Situation -- Violent clashes erupted in southern Lebanon between Maj Sa'd Haddad's "Free Lebanon" militias and Norwegian UNIFIL troops, the Voice of Arab Lebanon radio reported on 24 October. Firing broke out when Haddad's men established a roadblock in a UNIFIL-controlled township near Marj 'Uyun, the radio said, and the Norwegians declared a state of maximum emergency.

In the Ash-Shuf mountain villages, the Lebanese Army expanded its deployment over the weekend while the Israelis vacated some of their positions, Beirut radio reported. Voice of Lebanon radio spoke of noticeable progress in the security situation in the area on 23 October. Earlier, an Israeli soldier was injured in an ambush south of Beirut, according to Jerusalem radio.

Palestinian forces in Al-Biqa' and the north have been put on maximum alert, a Palestinian official announced on 23 October in a statement reported by QNA.

PLO

PNC Meeting -- SPA, citing the Saudi newspaper AL-JAZIRAH, reported on 23 October that PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat will chair a meeting of the leaders of all Palestinian groups in Tunis "in the next few days." A Palestinian source in Tunis told the paper that the Palestine National Council (PNC) meeting will be held in Tunis in the first week of November. The source stated that the meeting will formulate a draft plan to submit to the PNC on future Palestinian strategy and, after reviewing 'Arafat's talks with Jordan's King Husayn, will consider the possibility of gathering all Palestinian fighters in one Arab country. Earlier, PNC Chairman Khalid al-Fahum told the London-based newspaper ASH-SHARQ AL-AWSAT that circumstances are still "inappropriate" for establishing a Palestinian government-in-exile, MENA reported.

Military Council Meeting -- San'a' Voice of Palestine radio reported that PLO leader 'Arafat chaired a meeting of the Military Council of the Palestinian Revolution forces in Tunis on 23 October. The meeting, which was attended by military representatives from all Palestinian factions and the Palestine Liberation Army, discussed the military situation in the Al-Biqa' region and the reorganization of the Palestinian fighters, who are currently in a number of Arab states.

PLO Radio -- 'Azzam al-Ahmad, director of the PLO's Baghdad office, told the Amman daily AD-DUSTUR that the PLO central radio station will begin experimental transmissions from Baghdad from 1700 to 1800 GMT on 1 November. Al-Ahmad explained that the station will initially be beamed to the surrounding Arab region, but AD-DUSTUR reported that the PLO plans to build relay stations to enable broadcasts to reach North Africa as well as some European countries.

Egypt

Tabah Negotiations -- MENA reported that the Foreign Ministry committee entrusted with examining the differences between Egypt and Israel on the disputed Tabah region in southwest Sinai has prepared the studies and strategy through which Egypt will handle the Tabah issue in the future. The draft will be presented to Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali for approval. According to Cairo radio, 'Ali has sent messages to both U.S. Secretary of State Shultz and Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir on resuming the talks at the technical level in order to demarcate the borders at Tabah.

Sudan Integration Charter -- In a ceremony held in Al-'Arish on 23 October and attended by high-ranking officials from both Egypt and Sudan, President Mubarak and Sudanese President Ja'far Numayri signed the statutes for the three integration institutions: the Supreme Council, the Nile Valley Parliament and the Integration Fund, MENA reported. Mubarak and Numayri will chair the Supreme Council.

Libya

Libyan leader Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi left Tripoli on 23 October on a working visit to both the PRC and DPRK in response to official invitations from their leaders, JANA reported. AFP noted that the visit was prepared in "great secrecy" and coincides with China's expanding relations in the Middle East. The Libyan delegation stopped in Sofia, Bulgaria, and Irkutsk, Siberia, en route to the PRC.

Gulf Affairs

Oman-PDRY Conciliation Talks -- The conciliation talks between Oman and the PDRY which began on 23 October in Kuwait are being held in a "frank, optimistic atmosphere," according to QNA. The talks are being held at the urging of the GCC and under the sponsorship of Kuwait and the UAE with the aim of "discussing outstanding differences" and normalizing relations.

Oil Affairs -- Kuwaiti Oil Minister Shaykh 'Ali al-Khalifah as'Sabah told the Kuwaiti daily AL-ANBA' that Kuwait has no plans to increase its oil production, KUNA reported. He said future activities will focus on exploration, development and refining. The minister affirmed that Kuwait will attend the next OPEC meeting in order to stay informed and that it is prepared to accept short-term sacrifices. In a related development, the Abu Dhabi offshore oil company ADMA has decided to reduce oil production by 50 percent to 250,000 barrels per day, according to WAKH.

KARMAL SPEAKS AT HERAT CITY HALL 21 OCTOBER

LD240608 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1630 GMT 22 Oct 82

[President Babrak Karmal speech on 21 October at Herat City Hall -- recorded]

[Excerpts] Representatives and esteemed and patriotic residents of honorable Herat City and Province; militant and revolutionary comrades; esteemed representatives of social organizations: I am honored to have the opportunity to meet you and convey to you the greetings of the party Central Committtee, the Revolutionary Council and the government.

Friends and comrades, the country's leadership, members of the PDPA Central Committee, members of the Revolutionary Council and DRA ministers recently made several visits to provinces, cities and districts to meet the people.

Now I am here in Herat, which is a famous city with great historical and cultural traditions, a city with a prosperous and secure future. Throughout the centuries Herat has seen many wars, disasters and human sufferings. Unfortunately, in the years after the April Revolution, the people of Herat also have suffered difficulties and hardships. Regarding this, I want to point out that all of us together and with common efforts should try to make sure that those hardships are not repeated.

I want to say clearly and with responsibility that the party and government will make all possible efforts to improve the life of each Afghan citizen. If we have not yet achieved this objective in Herat or elsewhere in the country it is the fault [words indistinct] with the enemies of the revolution, our people and our country, Afghanistan. Those who stand against our popular policies are those who used to suppress the people and who lived on the severe and inhumane exploitation of the toilers of Afghanistan.

Imperialism, hegemonism and regional reaction with the help of antihuman elements have waged an undeclared war against the people and the revolutionary government of Afghanistan.

The response of imperialism and its servants to the striving of our people for changes and improvement in their lives (?consisted) of [words indistinct], destruction of homes, schools and hospitals and other barbaric and dirty actions. The enemies of our toiling people have used and are using, in addition to force, deceit and false propaganda to mislead our people. However, despite the demonic attacks of imperialism, hegemonism and their servants, our popular government continuously is consolidating and the proud army of Afghanistan is inflicting crushing blows to those who still are trying to disrupt the peace and lives of the people of Afghanistan.

The April Revolution relies on the will of the Afghan people and the help and support of our long-standing friend and great neighbor the Soviet Union, the solidarity and cooperation of all progressive countries and (?peace) forces. All this means our revolution is invincible.

(?Whatever) enemies try to hinder our development, we resolutely know that their days have ended.

Certainly, the struggle continues. We will intensify our blows against the armed counterrevolutionary bands hired by imperialism. However, now the requirements of development of the national industrial economy and production forces, increase of agriculture and industrial products and goods needed by the people are also in front of us. This is the foundation without which the improvement of the people's lives and the successful implementation of the duties of the national and democratic revolution is impossible. I should clearly say that the selfless and generous assistance of the fraternal Soviet Union plays an important and significant role in eliminating our present economic difficulties.

The Soviet Union helps us to improve our economic situation, to build necessary enterprises and to create the important sections of the national economy such as transportation, light industries, energy, irrigation, foodstuffs and other [word indistinct] which is of great importance for the prosperity of the Afghan people. In the past year, the [word indistinct] increase achieved in the gross national product was approximately (?30) percent. Gross agricultural production compared to last year achieved specific development. At the same time, due to the criminal actions of counterrevolution, the work of some industrial enterprises, power lines and transportation links were stopped or disrupted. The work of building new enterprises is progressing slowly.

The enemy's objective is clear. Those who have not succeeded with the force of weapons are now trying to disrupt the country's economy, production, transportation and trade in order to starve the people and instigate them against the revolutionary government. We are dutybound to make a firm decision and to have the necessary organization and consistency for the realization of our economic policy against the enemy's conspiracies.

We should not be indifferent to and inactive against temporary economic difficulties. To eliminate these difficulties with [word indistinct] of the people and struggle against them is the first duty of party committees, each member of the party and each administrative employee. This is the hope of the PDPA Central Committee and the DRA Revolutionary Council and Government. I wanted to draw your attention to some problems in Herat's economic situation, which is one of the most important economic regions of Afghanistan.

The industries of Herat City and Province consist of cotton ginning and pressing, transportation, carpet weaving and food processing. Generally speaking, work is not going too badly. However, the situation is not like this in all Herat's industries. Construction work on the economically important projects such as Salma Dam, the textile mill and the Herst cement factory has not been completed; coal in Sabzak mine is not being produced and the Herat slaughter house isn't working.

Of course, there are different reasons for this. Let us ask the question like this: Will the party leadership, the governor of the province and organs of state power be able to secure completion of the work on these projects? We will judge the political maturity, organizational ability and practical characteristics of the leadership personnel, on the basis of how they implement the [words indistinct] work of the party Central Committee and government.

The reasons for the present situation should be studied in relation to every project; the specific work plan should be [words indistinct].

I am confident the party organizations of the province and Herat City will support such a solution and will accomplish their duties.

It is necessary to say a few words about the realization of reform. Your province possesses all necessary requirements for the successful improvement of agriculture. However, the tasks relevant to the progress of the land and water reform are still progressing very slowly. The realization of the measures, embodied in the resolutions of the PDPA Central Committee and Council of Ministers for the continuation of the land and water reforms, must be accelerated.

The party and government believe every Afghan citizen should take part in the improvement of life in the country. If there is disorder in the factory or if production is not properly organized, the primary party organization and workers should not remain silent. The peasants should not allow the enemies to take over their production. The power organs, governors and party committees have no right to remain indifferent and inactive when people come to them and ask for assistance.

I am stating explicitly that the party and government are serving the people. The party and government must and should be in the service of the people with all honesty and devotion. [applause] We must help the noble human beings of our homeland to realize that the true owner of the country is the people [applause] -- the genuine owner of the country and the homeland -- and that all of the country's resources no longer belong to the upper classes, the ruling oppressive and exploiting classes. [applause] It is necessary that every toiler realize his responsibility to [words indistinct] that occurs and give every assistance to his national government. The committees and party organizations are obliged to guide all these tasks.

It is necessary that they should attract the toilers toward restoring security. At present, the number of factories, mills and villages that have resistance groups is not small. If the enemy wants to disrupt the peaceful work conditions in this [words indistinct] they will face a decisive and crushing blow by the inhabitants and toilers.

In a word, when all the people of Afghanistan rise against the rebels, robbers, bandits and murderers exported from abroad, we will wipe them out. No foreign power will be able to help them. [applause]

Dear compatriots, Herat is situated at the crossroad of two communications lines, each of them leads to the border of one of the two neighboring countries. Herat is on the border of the USSR and Iran. Turkmenistan has a common border with Herat. The people of Turkmenistan, who have reached a high level of progress -- as have other people of the USSR -- are giving internationalist and fraternal assistance to the people of Afghanistan. [Words indistinct] and we are confident that this cooperation between our countries will develop.

We would like to have such a border with our other neighbor, the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Unfortunately, we do not have the type of relations with Iran that should exist between two neighbors. Of course, the existence of such a situation is not our fault. You, the noble and patriotic Herat people, know very well that it is very bad when a neighbor neither extends friendship nor cooperation, but exhibits hostility. I think this situation cannot continue because it is not in accordance with the interests of the people of Iran.

We believe the antifuedal and anti-imperialist stand of Iran's revolution is in harmony with the interests of our revolution. Indeed, there are differences between us that are natural. There are many differences among many neighboring countries but they should not prevent them from behaving as two good neighbors. We believe there must be normal economic cooperation, contacts and creative political talks about mutual issues and the topical issues of the world and region. Such cooperation, contacts and talks do not yet exist between us and Iran, although we have common mutual interests. Morever, our views are identical on a large number of issues of world politics.

We have repeatedly announced our preparedness to reestablish good relations with Iran; we are prepared to state it once again.

During the past 2 years, we have presented specific proposals for the political solution of issues involving Afghanistan. The diplomatic channel that has been followed from that time until now has been complicated and difficult, but the [words indistinct] life has proven the righteousness of our principled stand.

It is clear that talks between the DRA and Pakistan, through the special envoy of the UN secretary general, have begun. Although our proposals demand broader and deeper steps for the solution of the issues, we regard the start of talks with Pakistan as a step in the right direction.

Unfortunately, the Iranian leadership has been left out of such contacts with us and the discussion of the issues relevant to the political solution. It must be understood that the DRA is not a ghost but a political and physical reality. It is a reality that should be recognized. [applause]

Regardless of what formal recognition we receive, we exist, we will progress, we will struggle, we will succeed and we will contract a new life in our beloved Afghanistan. [applause]

This is the inalienable right of the people of Afghanistan. We do not allow any power in the world to interfere in our internal affairs, to interfere in our political and social system, or to shamelessly give instructions. [applause]

In our historic Herat, I am expressing the desire that relations between ourselves and Iran are placed again on the path of friendship and goodneighborliness. I will affirm that Afghanistan with sincerity and honesty will meet Iran halfway. [applause]

Friends and comrades, I also would like to speak about the growth of the PDPA as a leading and guiding force of our society, the pioneer of the working class and all toilers of the country. Our party is now undergoing a period of speedy growth [words indistinct] comprising the best and most aware workers, peasants, soldiers, intellectuals, students and representatives of all nationalities and tribes. These can joint the PDPA, who with their reason, conscience, heart and knowledge accept the noble aspiration of the party and are prepared to realize with their work and struggle party aspirations and plans. This stems from the increasing credit of the party among the people and its further strong link with the masses.

The consolidation of the party and the enhancing of its unity and solidarity -- even though it is complicated and multidimensional -- is occurring. The issue now is consolidating discipline and order and increasing the responsibility of each party member.

We have undertaken the historic responsibility of the destiny of our beloved Afghanistan, the destiny of the April Revolution and the destiny of our toiling and noble people. Our strength guarantees today's victories; tomorrow's success depends on iron discipline, correct organization and unity of action.

With confidence and optimism, we look toward the bright future. We will forge ahead and will have no fear for the decisive and speedy victory of our just task.

Long live the April Revolution; long live the PDPA; victory is ours, victory for the brave people of our beloved Afghanistan. [applause]

MUJAHIDIN ATTACK SOVIET EMBASSY IN KABUL

LD221240 Riyadh SPA in Arabic 1100 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Peshawar, 22 Oct (SPA) -- The Afghan mujahidin launched a rocket attack on the Soviet Embassy in Kabul, resulting in the destruction of the building's east wing. However, the helicopters did not drop bombs or attack the area as the building is in a heavily-populated region.

PPP LEADER TELLS KAWYERS OF 'ARMY INTERFERENCE'

GF250606 Dubayy KHALEEJ TIMES in English 24 Oct 82 p 24

[Correspondent's report]

[Excerpt] Karachi -- Mr Ghulam Mustafa Jatoi, a front rank leader of the defunct Pakistan People's Party [PPP] and former chief minister of Sind said here yesterday that democracy in Pakistan had been suffering from army interference since the early fifties.

He was addressing members of the Karachi Bar Association which defied the new law debarring the bars from indulging in politics and an order served on its president a couple of days ago to this effect.

Mr Jatoi said the army was indirectly responsible for interference in politics in early fifties when governor's rule was imposed in former East Pakistan to remove an elected government, and cited other events until the first martial law in 1958 led by late General Ayub Khan.

He said political parties were unanimous on the restoration of democracy through elections under the 1973 Constitution.

"People's participation in the affairs of the state at this particular juncture was in the supreme national interest," he stressed and added that "we will strive for keeping democracy alive in the country and for enabling the people to exercise their right of vote."

Answering a question, he said he was asked by the present government to become the prime minister on September 22, 1980 when he was holidaying in Spain. He said he was told that the country needed his services. However his discussions with the government did not make any headway on the question of a firm date for the holding of elections, Mr Jatoi said.

Replying to another question Mr Jatoi said that the PPP would keep out of elections if that was the condition for holding polls in the country.

He also expressed concern at the law and order situation.

They said innocent people have been hung and jailed without reason in Afghanistan.

MUSAVI ON REPORTED ARMS PURCHASES FROM ISRAEL

LD221310 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi gave an exclusive interview to a Central News Unit correspondent and answered his questions on various issues.

In answer to a question about the empty claim by the Israeli ambassador in the United States about the sale of weapons by the Zionist regime to Iran, and the aim behind spreading this rumor again, Mr Musavi said:

After the revolutionary position adopted by the Islamic Consultative Assembly and the government, when they announced that if America refuses to pay the sum it should pay to the International Atomic Energy Agency [IAEA] the Islamic Republic of Iran is prepared to pay this sum, naturally we should expect such propaganda by Zionist and imperialist organizations against the Islamic Republic of Iran. In my view, he said, our revolutionary position has drive U.S. Government officials and their dependent mass media insane and they have started making contradictory statements. On one hand, they say Iran has not paid its share to the IAEA, and on the other hand they broadcast another report about the sale of weapons by Israel to Iran, quoting the ambassador of the Zionist regime in the United States.

The point, which is most interesting and demonstrates the blindness of arrogant powers, is that they have revealed their own true nature in these reports. For example, the West German news agency includes in its report the following sentence: Of course, Israel has never lost sight of Iran's main goal and the Jews know full well that the Iranian regime has inscribed the liberation of Jerusalem upon its flag. With these words they demonstrate their profound hostility toward the Islamic Republic. In fact, in these words they show how well they know the danger which our order poses for the downfall of the usurping regime in Jerusalem. In this report it is important and necessary to pay attention to two points: The first point is that they refer to the Jews, rather than referring to Zionism, because they wish to pretend that Israel is being supported by the ideology of the Jewish faith. The plundering Zionists, who are the agents of America, are trying on the other hand to mobilize world public opinion against Iran in this way. Naturally, from a logical and rational point of view, all people are against racist motives; while our order has always proclaimed its opposition to Zionism and has referred to Israel as a cancerous cell, as the leader of the revolution has said.

The prime minister said: In any case, I think this announcement by Israel will forever put an end to the rumors they have spread and from which they had great expectations, because in a foolish way they have revealed Israel's role in fabricating this propaganda. The interesting point is that another report by Associated Press says that the Israel ambassador's remarks were the first to link the weapons deal with the joint attempt by the United States and Israel to topple Ayatollah Khomeyni. Israeli Ambassador Arens also said the leader of the Islamic revolution of Iran is determined to destroy Israel and to retrieve Jerusalem for the Islamic world. In view of these facts, I think our mass media should clarify this issue for the people. Also, our embassies should study and evaluate this point as a document which the enemy has put into our hands. In their contacts with various countries and embassies they should use this as a means to demonstrate the revolutionary policies of the Islamic Republic for the downfall of the Zionist regime.

Concerning recent remarks by Saddam on this issue, the prime minister said: All these are threads which are linked together. Arens' remarks could demonstrate their complete support for Saddam.

Here we clearly see that although they were clearly using tactics to accuse the Islamic Republic of Iran of having purchased weapons from Israel, and in this way to damage our country in the public opinion of the oppressed people of the world, yet with the remarks of this official Israeli source, all their great efforts and the labor which they had undertaken over the past year and a half over their plans have all been wasted.

Concerning the Iraqi assertion that they will admit 1,000 Iranian families on pilgrimage to the holy sites during the month of Muharram [18 October-17 November], provided they aged over 60 or under 14, the prime minister said: Saddam's regime is at the moment under great political pressures and strains from within. In order to confuse Iraqi public opinion and to portray Iran as a warmonger, the Iraqi regime tries to make use of such weapons. However, these tricks are no longer effective. He added: The Islamic Republic of Iran has repeatedly announced that it is prepared to admit all the families of the Iraqi POW's. However, the Ba'thist regime of Iraq has avoided this issue because clearly it has felt that this could lead to a deep (?rift) inside Iraq and that it could seriously threaten Saddam's Ba'thist regime.

The prime minister added: To raise the issue of admitting 1,000 families during the month of Muharram when the Muslim people of Iraq feel sympathetic toward and are in favor of the order of the Islamic Republic is an attempt to portray Saddam's regime in the eyes of the Iraqi nation as a believing regime which is interested in religious issues and ceremonies. However, this is a weak attempt and the Iraqi nation is fully aware of the motives behind this move.

Concerning the situation at Khark Island and the loading of tankers there, the prime minister said: At the moment, we have the best possible position in exports. I hereby announce that all Iraqi efforts have failed to achieve anything in this field; certainly, they will not be able to do anything in the future. He added: We have always stated that, rather than being dependent upon the export of oil, our country is dependent upon faith and belief. In conclusion, he said: It is not the flow of oil which brings a country to victory; it is the faith of a wakeful nation that enables it to withstand all the conspiracies of arrogant powers throughout the world, not to bend its neck and to overcome all problems.

KHAMENE'I, VELAYATI WRITE CASTRO, SUGGEST UN FUND

LD221930 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, a meeting was held this afternoon between the Cuban ambassador and Mr Sheykh ol-Eslam, the political under secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of our country. A message from Mr Khamene'i, the president of the Islamic Republic of Iran, addressed to Mr Fidel Castro, the president of the Council of State of Cuba and president of the Nonaligned Movement, was submitted to the Cuban ambassador. The text of the message is as follows:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful.

His Excellency Fidel Castro, the president of the Council of State of Cuba and president of the Nonaligned Movement:

As you are aware, efforts are being made by international organizations to expel the usurping, aggressive and racist State of Israel, which lacks the conditions required for membership of the great family of nations. Such expulsion must be approved by a decisive majority of Islamic and many nonaligned countries.

The colonialist United States of America, which has always been Israel's accomplice, aide and instigator in its inhumane acts of aggression, having knowledge of this move for Israel's expulsion, has threatened that should such efforts reach fruition it would leave these organizations and terminate its grants to their budgets.

The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, while condemning the United States for treating international organizations in such an insulting and contemptuous manner, strongly believes that, without expecting the big powers to help or support them, nations must unite and rid international organizations of the domination of the superpowers and must undertake and pay for these organizations' expenditures by as much as these organizations deserve and is necessary. Therefore, it is suggested that a special fund be set up under the supervision of Your Excellency, as president of the Nonaligned Movement, and that the member states, in accordance with their ability and resources, allocate some amount to that fund annually to be put at the disposal of these organizations as compensation for the termination of U.S. grants. As a result, international organizations would be rid of America's overlordship.

The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran hereby wishes to announce that as soon as America terminates its grants to the UN budget, Iran will place part of the funds needed for that organization's expenditures at the disposal of that organization through the aforementioned fund.

With best greetings,

[Signed] Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president of the Islamic Republic of Iran

A letter from Mr Velayati, our country's foreign affairs minister, addressed to the Cuban foreign affairs minister, was also submitted to the Cuban ambassador. Part of this letter states:

The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, following the lofty Islamic teachings in which struggle against oppressors and the arrogant has been considered a compulsory task, has always considered American imperialism as enemy No 1 of the world's oppressed, particularly the world's Muslims. While condemning the insulting U.S. treatment of this international organization, Iran believes that the world's Muslim and nonaligned must themselves undertake the expenditures of this international organization and the institutions attached to it without expecting any help from the big powers. Therefore, Iran suggests that a special fund be set up under the supervision of His Excellency Fidel Castro, president of the Council of State of Cuba, and president of the Nonaligned Movement, and that the movement's member states, in accordance with their ability, each allocate an amount to this fund so that the likely termination of American financial aid to international organizations cannot delay their activities and so that these organizations will rid themselves of American imperialism's overlordship.

Khamene'i: Nothing New

LD241536 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Mr Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, the president of the republic and chairman of the Supreme Defense Council, today, in an exclusive interview with our correspondent, explained the Islamic Republic of Iran's views on the recent visit of the Islamic conference delegation to Tehran and on the imposed war. We broadcast the whole interview.

[Begin recording] [Question] Mr Khamene'i, could you tell us about the goal of the visit made by the Islamic conference delegation to our country aimed at ending the war, and about [illegible] result?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful, the gentlemen who came to Tehran yesterday were not the original members of the peace mission. They were some ministers from the peace mission member states, from Senegal, Guinea, Pakistan and some other countries.

They brought a letter from Mr Sekou Toure, in which it was stressed that we read a note attached to the letter and announce our views. The attached note, which was explained by the delegation's spokesman, contained suggestions for ending hostilities between Iran and Iraq. The gentlemen's objective was to see whether we agreed, in principle, with the contents of the note and that if there were differences they would come and resolve the differences by relying on the principle agreement.

When I read the note, and when it was explained, I realized that unfortunately there was nothing new in it; all the subjects raised, which consisted of eight articles, had related to us before and had been rejected because they completely contradicted the principles of the Islamic Republic and the principles declared by the officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran regarding the war. I told them they were not new points. In spite of the fact that Mr Sekou Toure had written that they were offering a plan newer than the previous ones, there was nothing new in it. For example, the first article stated: Immediately after the acceptance of the article, a cease-fire must be declared. Since the beginning of the war we have said that we will accept a cease-fire only when our conditions have been accepted and the conditions set by us have been met. Otherwise,we will not accept a cease-fire.

Many times we have delcared to these gentlemen, in the course of meetings,that we cannot think of a cease-fire without materialization of our conditions. The Palestinian issue, the battles between the Arabs and the enemy-usupring Jerusalem is an example for us. We know that an enemy makes an attack and after he has completed his aggression he talks about a cease-fire; a cease-fire is enforced in the hope that the enemy may leave the territory, pay for damage and so on and so forth, after a cease-fire has been declared and the invading and aggressive enemy has made sure it is secure, it would be us who would chase after this international organization or that peace mission seeking the fulfillment of our conditions. We said: No, we shall not do that; now that the enemy is afraid of the fire of our war, now that the enemy has been brought to his knees by the crushing blows of our forces, we shall not give the enemy a rest so that the matter would be over in his favor, so that we chase down international circles and world characters to come and meet our conditions to make the enemy pay for what he owes us and meet our demands. We will continue the war as long as our demands and conditions are not met.

One of the things they said was that a fund should be set up for Islamic countries to contribute to war reparations. We have said many times -- this is not the first time -- they have raised this issue many times. We have said: We want reparation from the one who has inflicted the damage. We have suffered thousands of millions [as heard] in losses, apart from the losses which can never be compensated for by money, like the lost (?palm trees) and the beloved clean martyrs. We want compensation for the material losses from the one who has inflicted them. We are never willing to ask for help from funds. It is up to him; it is not our concern where he will find this money, but we must get reparation from him for the losses inflicted.

Another thing they said was: A committee must be set up to assess who the aggressor is. In reply, we said: How can an open eye, which cannot see the aggressor, or after 2 years cannot feel the presence of alien forces on our soil, judge this matter? Open your eyes, go and see, look around and ask what has happened. It is clear to us, and to you for that matter, that Iraq is the aggressor. Many times, Mr Sekou Toure and some other gentlemen in this peace mission have told us that they knew the aggressor, that Iraq is the aggressor they have told us this explicitly. Knowing that Iraq is the aggressor, why do you want to set up a committee to find the aggressor?

The note contained seven or eight articles like this, none of which corresponded with the principles of the Islamic Republic and the original conditions set by us. We said: No, these are not acceptable to us. We have a logical argument which is understandable by people throughout the world and canbe felt by nations. Although governments pretend not to understand, they do know and understand: An aggressor, an expansionist regime, provoked by some of the region's governments and influenced by the American superpower, in order to put out the flame of our revolution, entered our country 2 years ago, captured our territory and inflicted damage, some of which can be compensated for and some of which cannot.

Now that after 2 years we have managed to liberate a large part of our territory from his aggressive army and to force a large number of his forces out of the battlefield -- by killing, capturing or wounding them -- we say this war will end and its termination will be declared if first they leave the rest of our territory; about 750 square km of land are still in the hands of the Iraqi forces and under their control, in addition to our city of Naftshahr. Second,they must pay for the damages, that can be compensated for. Third, for this aggression and for the damage that cannot be compensated for, the aggressor, which is the Iraqi regime, particularly Saddam himself, will be punished. We shall determine the type of punishment and the way the reparation should be made. These conditions must be met, everybody understands this. If we give up these conditions the people of the world will not praise us for having neglected our nation's rights, and I do not think our nation wants us to forget its rights and demands. We told them this, there was some talk and then they left.

[Question] As the president of our country as well as chairman of the Defense Council, what are your views concerning visits made by such delegations for the purpose of ending the war?

[Answer] I believe there is an American influence. The feeling is that the Islamic Republic and its Muslim combatants -- enjoying the Divine's might -- are near the war's final stages. The final phases of the war will create a situation in which the Iraqi regime will lack the power to exist. As everyone is aware, in the south, we are not far from Basra. On our northern borders, too, we are not very far from Baghdad and our forces and their bunkers are a cause of concern to all the supporters of the Iraqi regime.

Those supporting Iraq, either financially or morally, cannot tolerate such a situation. Therefore, they are trying to somehow end the war. The visits made by mediation delegations are part of the efforts put up by the supporters of the Iraqi regime.

Of course, I should tell the Iranian nation that we are truly grateful to some members of the delegations for their sincerity and efforts. Their efforts are sincere; they consider continuation of the war to be a waste, and they hope for its end. Yet the visits made by these missions are more under U.S. regional influence than these gentlemen's sincerity and good will. Despite this, we respond quite frankly. We have always asserted our views.

Of course, U.S. efforts in the region do not limit themselves to this issue. U.S. efforts and political influences worldwide are at work against the Islamic Republic of Iran, at the United Nations, in the Persian Gulf and other places developments are taking place through U.S. influence and support rendered by certain governments.

Despite such a background we will never change course. The day this revolution succeeded, many big powers were against it as they are today; yet, we triumphed and they failed. Since the start of this revolution many political and propaganda conspiracies have been launched against us, but none succeeded in inflicting damage upon the course of our revolution.

Of course, some problems were created for our people, such as this war, or economic sanctions, but what at the end of the day will triumph is the will of a nation determined to live free and independent in accordance to God's rule, and to accept no one's domination. For example, at the United Nations we see that some governments associated with or influenced by the United States have rushed to aid Saddam, have initiated resolutions, have delivered speeches here and there, have used their propaganda machinery, which consists of the mercenary Zionist news agencies, to spread rumors. These efforts still continue as they have from the start of the revolution. It is not news to us.

We are sure that both at war as well as on the political scene the final victor will be the Islamic Republic and the Islamic revolution's caravan. [end recording]

Velayati Comments

LD231903 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the delegation from the Islamic Conference Organization which arrived in Tehran this morning, led by the Senegalese foreign minister, met with President Khamene'i. The meeting began with Senegal's foreign minister, Moustapha Niasse, delivering a message to our country's president from the chairman of the Islamic peace committee, Guinean President Sekou Toure. Then proposals of the Islamic Conference Organization were raised and discussed.

During the meeting, President Khamene'i stressed the principles adhered to by the Islamic Republic -- namely, the return of the aggressive Iraqi forces to the prewar areas, reparations to Iran for damages caused by the war and punishment of the aggressor. The president said: Not only as far as we are concerned, but as far as a great number of the members of the Islamic Conference Organization is concerned as well, the identity of the aggressor is quite clear -- that is, Iraq. This aggressor has been on our territory for the past 2 years and certain parts of our soil are still under its control. However, I bring you good news, that like the rest of the occupied regions, these areas will be recovered from the aggressor as well.

The president added: Encouraged by big powers and influential countries of the region, the fact is that a country launched an attack against its neighbor in order to extinguish the flames of its revolution, shedding the blood of thousands of people and causing billions-worth of damage. It has pleased the superpowers in committing such acts. This means that it has given pleasure to the very powers against which the flames of this revolution were set ablaze in order to rub their noses in the dust.

Another great tragedy brought about at the same time was to put two mighty military powers at loggerheads, thus sinking the great Palestinian issue into oblivion. This means that it has in practice collaborated in creating the shameful and tragic events in Lebanon and Palestine.

Stating that we would never abandon our legitimate rights, the president added: Today we are told to abandon our nation's rights, which are at the same time the rights of the Lebanese and Palestinian peoples as well being in the interest of the provoked aggressor. I state quite categorically that this is not a personal right for me to ignore; these are national rights.

In the course of the visit, the members of the delegation observed their noon prayer, led by Khamene'i. Immediately after the talks, the delegation left Tehran for Jidda. The delegation was seen off at Mehrabad Airport by Foreign Minister Velayati and political and international affiars under secretaries at the Foreign Ministry.

In an interview given to our correspondent, Velayati commented on the visit as follows:

[Begin recording] [Question indistinct]

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. The delegation, headed by the Senegalese foreign minister and including the (?Tunisian) foreign minsiter and all the members [words indistinct], arrived in Tehran. The main objective of the delegation was to deliver a message from Sekou Toure to Khamene'i. The letter was handed to President Khamene'i who said that he would reply to it later. During the talks the president reiterated to members of the delegation that we did not start the war, that it was Iraq which started it and that [words indistinct]. The president also stated that we want peace, but a peace which would embrace all our conditions and abused rights.

[Question indistinct]

[Answer] We have already welcomed to some extent the missions which claim their readiness to mediate, to seek settlement. However, we reiterate our own conditions. I believe the least such visits by these gentlemen and missions can do is to familiarize themselves with facts in Iran, divorced from the poisonous propaganda climate launched against us by imperialist media outside Iran. For example, when I was talking to the foreign minister of Senegal in our automobile and he heard from me quite clearly which sectors of our territory are still being controlled by the Iraqis, he expressed surprise. He then asked why the Iraqis were claiming that they were not in control of any areas in our territory. Well, my response was simply this: They are lying. At any rate, these missions visit our country and, at least, become better acquainted with the true nature of the situation. On the other hand, we have always -- including the time when the late Raja'i was in power -- received these missions. However, we have never abandoned our terms and have no intention of doing so now. [end recording]

Further Details

GF241630 Tehran IRNA in English 1600 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 24, IRNA -- The Islamic Republic of Iran would welcome all peace missions but only seeks a just peace, announced Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati this morning.

The foreign minister said Iran will continue its defence until all her terms are met by the aggressor, and that the Islamic Conference Organisation (ICO) peace mission which came here yesterday had nothing new to suggest to Iran.

Their mission, continued Velayati, aimed at submitting to President Khamene'i a message from the Guinean president, Ahmed Sekou Toure. President Khamene'i outlined the stands of the Islamic Republic of Iran and said Iran had never been a belligerent country. Rather, war had been imposed upon her by the Iraqi regime which led to the invasion of our land. He said the president had told the mission that Iran sought rectification of her trampled rights.

Responding to foreign claims that Iran did not accept peace, Velayati said such propaganda aimed at justifying Iraqi aggressions against Iran.

Such media, he added, are instruments of news imperialism, and had been serving Iraq since the start of its imposed war on Iran, further saying that while the Ba'thist aggressors of Iraq were occupying our territory and bombing our civilians, still such media labelled Iran the bellicose. The U.S. and its lackeys' support for Iraq and their attacks against us is a prima facie proof of Iran's righteous stand in the war, noted Velayati.

He said now that the superpower-dependent media were crying that Iran was the war seeking party, Iraq has been holding hundreds of kilometers of our land and that Iraq's declaration of its retreat from Iranian territory was a mere lie which Iran denies categorically.

Speaking on Iraqi regime's announcement of retreating to international borders, the foreign minister said they were borders concocted by Iraq, but in fact they all belong to Iran ever since time immemorial.

He said the two year war experience has taught Iran that the path it has been traversing has been quite correct in attaining Iran's due rights, for Iran acts according to the leadership of Imam Khomeyni and the backing of the Iranian populace against the Iraqi regime.

He said no one would be concerned about Iran's rights if Iran did not struggle for her rights herself.

Reiterating that Iran was never an expansionist country, he said Iran was only defending herself.

Referring to the Security Council's call for an end to the war, Velayati said Iran did not need anyone's permission to repel the aggression against her and that these sorts of [words indistinct] not accomplish anything [words indistinct] justice; otherwise, he added, the Zionist regime would have existed.

On Olof Palme and Sekou Toure's trip to Iran to mediate the war, Velayati said they were welcome to come to Iran and that Iran would inform them of her rightful stands in the war. He said Iran would have to take a wait and see policy vis-a-vis those trips.

RAFSANJANI SPEAKS ON DOMESTIC, ECONOMIC ISSUES

LD221750 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Today, the first Friday of Muharram, millions of our compatriots took part in Friday prayers. The Muslim people of Tehran also took part in Friday prayers under the imamate of Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the ad interim Friday imam of Tehran.

In the second sermon, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani analyzed current issues and politico-economic issues of the Islamic revolution. While condemning the hypocrites for martyring Ayatollah Ashrafi-Esfahani, the fourth martyr of the niche, the ad interim Friday imam of Tehran said: This is another mistake made by the counterrevolution, because it is certain that the revolutionary nation of Iran will never forgive those who commit such crimes. Even if we have no value, we will be satisfied with ourselves when our blood can feed the wrath of the nation against the United States and counterrevolutionaries. At this point I would like to pay tribute to this martyr on behalf of the imam, the combatants and the Hezbollahi people.

The ad interim Friday imam of Tehran added: We believe that this revolution is one of the fruits of the Karbala' movement and its martyrs. At this point I would like to talk about the record and achievements of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the world and in Iran.

Commenting on the political (?achievements) of the revolution, he said: The achievements of the revolution in the world and in history are like miracles; from the sociopolitical viewpoint the first step was the eradication of the Pahlavi regime. You saw how many forces were deployed in Lebanon from every faction, and eventually the Phalangist were able to commit such atrocities. Think of Iran and its importance to the world and Western imperialism; then you can understand its greatness for eradicating the shah after 50 years of Pahlavi reign.

From the viewpoint of struggle against the United States, the achievement was very great indeed. Those servants of the United States and Zionism and what happened to the den of espionage. [sentence as heard] The students succeeded in achieving something that even today no other country would dare try. Others dare not look inside a U.S. Embassy when they pass in front of it, but we were able to humiliate them by taking them (?prisoners).

Commenting on the issue of democracy and freedom, Mr Hashemi said: I say it decisively and I defend my words everywhere, that real democracy exists in Iran alone. The people in Iran are under the influence of the clergy and vote because of their confidence in them. The people voted for this republic with no fear at all. You know that no one forced you to vote, not even once. We saw that following Bani-Sadr's collapse Mr Khamene'i gained 16-17 million votes. How many votes were cast by the people to elect Majlis deputies? Of course, the most dominant factor is the imam; and if he says today: Vote for clerical rule, then more than 99 percent of the people will vote for it.

Why then do some people say that there is no democracy? For instance, the leftist and rightist minigroups had permission to hold meetings, they had their own newspapers, and they had so many members. We would have given them freedom if they had wanted to be involved in politics. They wanted to have a share by sophistry, but they did not gain enough votes, so they used to boycott elections. You [counterrevolutionaries] are insulting because all the people want to vote. Be satisfied with what you have. At the time when the people were busy fighting against the shah, they were collecting arms. They occupied hotels, offices and 170 rooms of Tehran University. Democracy does not mean granting permission to a small minigroup to rule the majority; that is not right. The Mafia and other gangsters in the United States have more members. Some four or five young people, some of whom had prison records, entertained such extremely unreasonable expectations. Addressing the minigroups, he said: We were in prison with you; you were asked to come and cooperate with us, but you (?refused).

Referring to terrorism, Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: It is terrorism which causes us to cut links; otherwise, all the responsible authorities were with the people. We never intended it, rather we were forced to sit in bulletproof cars in order to be able to safeguard the revolution and its gains. If we do not sit in such cars, the people will force us to do so.

He added: Who is the object of suppression? The terrorists and those who plant bombs and blow up the niche of Friday prayers. What can we do with such persons? Of course, some people regard them as their friends and children, and still we do not know how close the connection is between them. What can we do? There is a lack of freedom, but only for those who do not believe in Islam and clerical rule. We have no right to grant freedom to criminals who issue circulars, to communists and to those who do not believe in hell, punishment and reward in the other world, Islam and clerical rule.

The ad interim Friday imam of Tehran continued his sermons by referring to the economic issues of the revolution: The economic achievements of the Islamic Republic are more than the political achievements. What we have done economically for the country and the region in the last 4 years is more than what was done in the last 50 years. For instance, before the victory of the revolution the shah was producing 6 million barrels of oil daily and was exporting more than 5 million. But since we came, by exploiting other (?undiminishing) resources, we have been able to produce less than 1 million barrels daily. Later we produced 2 million barrels, and after the war began we have been producing a daily average of 1 million barrels. But the price is more than three times the previous price. Of course, the price of the oil is still half the price that we plan to charge in the future. Today Qatar, Libya, Venezuela and Indonesia should be grateful to us because with the Iranian revolution the price of oil increased threefold.

In the last 4 years we have saved more than 4 million barrels of oil daily. So we have postponed the date of exhaustion of our oil resources from 25 to 100 years, that is, four to five future generations of our country have been ensured oil resources. Of course, at that time the country may no longer need oil.

Naturally, this great economic service requires some harship, and it is acceptable if we reduce our expectations of luxury. There are those who might say you brought nothing but shortages. I must say that we cannot be like Saudi Arabia. We cannot behave like the shah who was still unsuccessful because he was against religion. And our people have preferred to choose the next world.

Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani continued this economic discussion by saying:

[Begin recording] Despite the war and despite the high expenses of the war budget -- something which the shah's regime never had to bear -- today our foreign currency reserves are much higher than the day the war started. Today, because of the very right, sagacious and efficient policy of the revolutionary and Muslim government and the hard-working, committed ministers, we have been able to increase our foreign currency reserves. Even if we stop exporting oil, our country can continue its economic life for a long time. And our foreign currency reserves continue to incease daily. If this is not a miracle, what is? We are a nation in a state of war, fighting against terrorism and sabotage, a nation challenging economic sanctions; there is pressure in our oil resources.

The U.S. AWACS, their other military (?resources), Iraq's (?rockets), the advanced French Exocet missiles, and the Soviet (?SKB) missiles have been employed to destroy our oil resources. We live under the shadow of these missiles and these crimes, that is, the latest in war technology is placed at the disposal of Iraq in order to bar our way. But we are protecting our ports, exporting our oil and safeguarding our foreign currency resources.

Today the same people who subjected us to an economic embargo are asking us to buy their goods. We are dictating our terms to them; we can choose. Today the economic problems that the West and Europe are facing are much worse than those facing the Third World. Steel prices are falling in the world. Mineral prices have fallen. Unemployment is creating a crisis.

We have increased our energy production since last year. That is, if we were producing 3,000 megawatts last year, we have increased the figure by more than 23 percent this year. It is no joke: Our efficient government and the hard-working Hezbollahi, members of the reconstruction crusade, and other active forces have worked day and night for this country to produce energy in war conditions, under an economic embargom, without the Abadan oil refinery and without liquid petroleum gas.

If they had not, we would have had to close down half of our energy sources. Everything is working, and they are managing well; our factories are working.

As for agricultural products, this year we have purchased more than 1 million tons of wheat to date -- that is, more than 200,000 tons compared with last year. Our fisheries' output has inceased 100 percent. Livestock production is improving, and we have nearly reached self-sufficiency in poultry production. And all this has been achieved in a state of war, when we have to bear with 2 million war refugees, more than 1 million Afghans and more than 100,000 Iraqis, and when many of our active forces are engaged on the battlefronts and behind battlelines. You are aware that at least one tenth of this country's resources are used in the war. The same percentage of our currency reserves is also used for the same purchase. If this is not a miracle, what is?

Iraq did not have to bear with war refugees. The port of 'Aqabah and the Saudi ports were open to it. It was using Turkish territory. It had all these, the United States, France and the Soviet Union -- all were helping it. Nevertheless, it has reached this miserable state. Our people are working hard to build and safeguard their country. [end recording]

Sermon on War

GF221140 Tehran International Service in Arabic 0940 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Friday Arabic sermon delivered by Hojjat ol-Eslam val-Moslemin 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani at Tehran University -- live]

[Text] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. Peace be upon all Arab brothers and sisters in Iran and everywhere. The protectors of the Iraqi Ba'thists, the imperialists and the Zionists, are nowadays seeking -- through their rabid propaganda trumpets -- to depict the Islamic Republic of Iran as a country that wants war, and depict the Iraqi Ba'thist regime as a flexible regime that seeks reconciliation [sulh] and peace. These efforts are supported by oil revenues controlled by Arab reactionaries. We do not expect any good from pompous establishments that spread lies and falsehood. However, we expect the deprived peoples of the world and the people who seek truth and Muslims who are ready to follow the Koran's clear injunction which says: "Give good tidings to my servants who listen to the word and follow the fairest of it [Koranic verse]," to pause for one moment and think of what happened in Iran and Iraq during the past 2 years. Let them judge and let others witness their judgment.

Twenty-five months ago, following about 300 incidents of aggression from the land and the air against us, Saddam launched an all-out ground, sea and air attack against our young Islamic Republic. At the time our forces were not fully coordinated. Saddam and his army succeeded in advancing 90 km inside our territory and occupied 10 cities and 1,200 villages. He made about 2 million of our people homeless, destroyed factories and looted their machinery and equipment, robbed all the money of the million people he rendered homeless, scorched thousands of acres of arable land and orchards, destroyed many big and small dams, destroyed hundreds of kilometers of roads, railwaylines and bridges and wreaked devastation in a number of ports, government departments, hospitals and schools. He also destroyed the great Abadan refinery which used to refine 600,000 barrels of oil a day. He also burned oil wells and oil pipelines and power cables. He killed thousands of our unarmed and innocent people and captured thousands more.

As soon as we managed to organize our forces and resist the advance of the Ba'thist forces and began to deal them blows in order to drive them out of our land Saddam and his protectors sought to harp on the tune of peace. Their objective is to remain on our land and exhaust our people with protracted and useless negotiations and achieve their vile objectives, and subsequently to topple the Islamic Republic and divide our country and establish an Arab government in Khuzestan under the protection of Saddam -- if they can.

Brothers, we have declared our clear conditions from the first days of the war to those who came on mediation missions. We received all those who have come to mediate: Envoys of the United Nations, the Islamic Conference Organization, the nonaligned countries and friendly and neutral countries. We continue to stand by our same conditions. These conditions are: the withdrawal of the occupying forces, the payment of reparations to the victims; the punishment of the aggressor; the return of Iraqi deportees to their homeland.

Iraq did not want to succumb to right and justice. It is falsely talking about reconciliation and peace, and is falsely claiming that it has withdrawn from our territory while its forces continue to occupy Naftshahr and have been looting the oil from its oil wells for the past 2 years and continue to occupy many of our strategic heights.

We declare frankly, brothers, we declare frankly and clearly that we want peace, but we want a real peace on the conditions of the realization of just rights. If they should refuse to succumb to justice, we have no way other than to resort to force to repulse injustice and gain our rights. We view this as one of our Islamic and humane duties.

Peace be upon those who follow the right path. "When the help of God and victory come and you see people entering God's religion in throngs, then proclaim the praise of your Lord, and seek His forgiveness, for He is forgiving." [Koranic verse] Peace and God's mercy and benedictions be upon you. [chants]

RAFSANJANI ON SUCCESSES AGAINST REBELS, IRAQIS

LD221212 Tehran IRNA in English 1025 GMT 22 Oct 82

["Rafsanjani: U.N. an Instrument of World Aggressors" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Tehran, Oct 22, IRNA -- The connection between the counterrevolutionaries in Kordestan Province, and Iraq is about to be severed completely, announced Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, Imam Khomeyni's representative in the Supreme Defence Council, last night.

He said that the communication lines and the links between the two were being discovered everyday by the forces of the Islamic Republic in various regions of Kordestan and West Azarbayjan Provinces.

Among the important regions which the Iranian forces had captured, he added, was Mirabad, a region near Sar Dasht in West Azarbayjan Province where the French press had interviewed the counterrevolutionaries and the European television networks had raised a hue and cry over it, calling it a region "liberated by the Kurds."

The most important fact in the purging operation there, he went on to say, was the joy of the Kurdish people over the successes of the armed forces and the Islamic revolutionary guards. He said that various facilities were being provided for the people in the liberated areas.

Speaking on the aftermath of the recent "Muslim ibn 'Aqil" operation, the imam's representative in the SDC said Iran advanced two kms inside Iraqi territory, gaining some 30 square kms of their land, in addition to liberating 150 square kms of Iranian territory, including strategic heights previously in Iraqi occupation.

He said Iranian combatants were able to disperse the Iraqi forces in a large plateau, making defence very problematic for Iraq, since Iran was attacking from positions on the top of the mountain, and Iraq had to defend itself in a wide plateau.

He said that some 4,000 Iraqi forces had either been taken as prisoners of war, killed, wounded or escaped. He added that Iran had captured the Dole Sharif and Kaneh Sang border posts inside Iraq, forcing Iraq to open new fronts in that area.

Speaking on the Iraqi losses in that operation, Rafsanjani said that Iran had destroyed 79 tanks and personnel carriers, including some T-72 tanks, 20 vehicles, 3 bulldozers and loaders [words indistinct] katyushas, and 8 munitions depots.

80 percent of the 421st Brigade of the Iraqi 12th Division, two battalions from the 14th Brigade stationed in the 9th Division and another battalion from the same brigade had been destroyed as well, Rafsanjani said.

Also 70 percent of two battalions of the 418th Brigade, the First and Second Battalions of the 19th Brigade of the 7th Division were completely destroyed, one of them after being re-strengthened, he added.

Rafsanjani added that three commando battalions from the Seventh Brigade and 70 percent of the 155th Battalion of the Third Brigade were destroyed and 20 percent of the forces of the 39th Brigade's two battalions were either killed or wounded and the rest fled the scene of the battle. Also 50 percent of the 59th Brigade's 17th Battalion was destroyed and a commando company from the 8th Division was also crushed.

Commenting on the war spoils Iran had seized in the operation, Hojjat ol-Eslam Rafsanjani disclosed them as follows: six tanks, including one T-72 model, six personnel carriers, one sophisticated radar equipment, one artillery detector, three D-8 loaders and bulldozers, 30 vehicles, three long-range binocular-equipped 100-mm cannons, one 122-mm cannon, four antiaircraft guns, three 57-mm anti-aircraft guns, four 106-mm guns, one earth digger, 50 short and long-range wireless equipment, eight telescopic cameras, three Milan missiles which were promptly used against the Iraqi tanks, some 60 and 82 mm artillery pieces with their ammunition, 4000 anti-tank mines, 170,000 antipersonnel mines which were all cleared from the area, a great amount of ammunition rounds sufficient for Iran's next operation, a great number of light arms and RPG-7's, and nine Dushka machine guns.

He said 270 Iraqi soldiers had been taken captive, including high-ranking officers. He also added that Iranian casualties had been very little in the operation.

Rafsanjani then said that Iran deployed the fact that the U.N. had fallen as an instrument in the hands of the world aggressors, helping realise the colonialist aims of the superpowers and therefore creating a great amount of suspicion. He was referring to an amendment in a resolution passed by the U.S. General Assembly in which "Iraq's interest in enacting U.N. resolutions" was welcomed. The resolution was submitted on behalf of Antigua, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Djibouti, the UAE, Guyana, Jordan, Kuwait, Morocco, Amman [as received], Qatar, Sudan, and the Arab Democratic Republic of Yemen, calling for a cease-fire in the Iraqi imposed war and asking the two countries to return to international borders.

He said that none of the international organisations had issued resolutions in protest against Iraq for inflicting such great aggressions upon Iran, but they had time and again appreciated Iraq's so-called peaceful moves, which were nothing but to deceive the people of the world at a time when it was still exploiting Iranian oil wells in the western border city of Naftshahr.

Concerning the traffic of good will delegations coming to Iran, Rafsanjani added that they were aimed at forcing Iran to submit to unjust terms but instead had made Iran more determined in her rightful stand.

He said Iran did not want the U.N. to lose its remaining halflife at present for nothing. He called on those international organisations to allow things to take their natural course so that the wronged people could attain their due rights.

Speaking on the Zionist regime's envoy to the U.S. and his slanders on Iran's "purchase of arms from Israel," he said that the Zionist regime was in a great fury over Iran's recent announcement in making moves aimed at ousting her from international organisations and therefore he said that her recent statement was a response to Iran's actions.

He added that Iran and some other Muslim countries could very easily pay the U.S. share in the international organizations, which the U.S. had threatened to withdraw in case the Zionist regime was banned from those bodies.

He said Iran was capable of putting an end to U.S. wickedness in thóse bodies.

He concluded by saying that it was a known fact to the world that Iran was the vanguard among the countries opposing the U.S. and the Zionist regime, and that Iran had no need to defend itself in the face of allegations made by the Zionist regime which were an effort to distort the image of the Islamic Republic in the world.

Yesterday exchanges of artillery and heavy-weapon fire continued on the country's western fronts. On each of these fronts in this region, the Islamic combatants continued their ceaseless fight to annihilate the Iraqi Ba'thist aggressors and defended their positions and entrenchments. At 1130 on 19 October the combatants of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran downed a helicopter of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries in (?Paveh) border zone. Our combatants also succeeded in destroying one tank and two observation posts of the Iraqi forces, killing or wounding several of their personnel.

On the southern fronts, the victorious Islamic combatants defended their positions and returned enemy fire, inflicting some damage on enemy positions. On the Abadan (?fronts), the heroes of the gendarmerie returned fire on Saddamist positions, destroying several of their foxholes and trenches and killing several enemy soldiers.

The (?sinful) mercenaries of the Ba'thist regime of Iraq fired with artillery and heavy-weapon on Abadan and Khorramshahr, damaging part of a mosque, a [word indistinct] and several other (?villages) of Abadan and injuring one person.

On (?17 October) several aggressive aircraft of the Iraqi Armed Forces tried to violate our country's airspace in the west and south, but they were forced to flee by the tactical moves of the fighter planes of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and by the fire of the air defense units.

[Communique No 1,088 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Yesterday, in the field of operations in the west of the country exchanges of heavy-weapon fire continued and our forces defended the positions under their control. As a result of our combatants' fire on enemy positions, 5 tanks and vehicles and 1 130-mm fieldgun belonging to the Saddamist army in this region were destroyed and at least 60 Iraqi military personnel were killed or wounded. Also, three personnel vehicles and an ammunition depot on one of the western fronts of the country were destroyed by our forces and one of the Saddamist supply points was set on fire.

In the southern operational region, the activities of the enemy armored and infantry units was kept under check by our forces and the fire of our heroic forces stopped the activities and movement of enemy engineering units in this region. During the past 24 hours, exchanges of fire continued along the shores of the Arvand Rud and our combatants opened fire on the Saddamist positions on the other side of the river, thus disrupting enemy activities and stopping their movements.

In the Abadan and Khorramshahr regions, the forces of Islam returned enemy fire and destroyed several enemy trenches and foxholes together with the personnel stationed in them.

Yesterday, enemy mortar fire on Abadan destroyed a house, wounded one of our compatriots and set fire to two buildings.

On 20 and 21 October, 26 of our combative brothers were martyred and by shedding their pure blood they honored the heritage of Seyyed as-Shohada, Hoseyn, son of 'Ali, peace be upon him.

[Communique No 1,089 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Here follows the situation on the battlefronts for the information of our dear compatriots:

Fighting and exchange of fire continued yesterday on most western fronts. However, the Sumar area witnessed a more intense exchange of fire. During a series of strike operations on one of the fronts of the western sector, the self-sacrificing members of the Revolutionary Corps succeeded in killing a great many Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries and causing damage to their positions and equipment.

At 2000 on 21 October, Islamic combatants composed of the personnel of the ground forces, gendarmerie and the Revolution Guards Corps, infiltrated the defensive positions of the Iraqi forces in Mehran region and with the aid of the ground forces artillery destroyed nearly 25 trenches. They also set ablaze 1 enemy munition dump and killed more than 50 Iraqi mercenaries.

While controlling the Iraqi forces and defending their positions in the southern fronts, the Islamic combatants returned the enemy fire and, having silenced their fire, caused some losses and damage to the enemy.

On the Abadan front, the gendarmerie fighters as well as other combatants stationed in the region killed a number of the Iraqi forces on the other side of the Arvand rud and destroyed a great many Iraqi trenches. They also prevented the movements of Iraqi vehicles along the Al-Faw-Basra axis.

Yesterday, parts of Abadan were brought under heavy enemy artillery fire. As a result, three houses were destroyed and one person was wounded.

SUCCESSES AGAINST 'MERCENARIES' IN WEST NOTED

LD232006 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Communique issued by the Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada base -- date not given]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Greetings to the leader of the Islamic revolution, the commander in chief, imam of the umma', the dear Khomeyni.

Greetings to the brave umma' of Islam and continue their fight against world oppressors by their sacrifices and who defend the victorious Islamic revolution. Blessings to the souls of all martyrs of the Islamic revolution who, inspired by the pure blood of the lord of the martyrs, Imam Hoseyn -- peace be upon him and on his followers -- bravely defended the dear Islam and sacrificed their lives.

A part of the operations carried out in the western parts of our Islamic land by the courageous combatants of Islam in their battle against mercenaries subservient to the East and West is brought to the attention of the heroic and martyr-nurturing umma'.

Yesterday, following the liberation of western regions of the country from the filthy presence of illegally armed assailants by the victorious combatants of the corps of Islam comprised of the heroes of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the selfless Guards Corps and the Mobilization of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Muslim Kurdish tribesmen, purged more than 8 km of the important and strategic Piranshahr-Sar Dasht axis in a successful operation.

In this operation the important heights of (Kuh Kapar) and (?Sar Anavan) as well as six villages used by the counterrevolution as bases in the region were cleansed from the presence of elements loyal to the criminal America. Having suffered considerable casualties and damages, the counterrevolutionaries who were subservient to the East and the West, fled.

Counterrevolutionary base in the (?Alavan) region was also crushed. In these operations, a large number of the enemies of Islam were killed and a considerable quantity of arms and ammunition was seized by our combatants. The forces of Islam did not suffer any casualties.

In another successful operation carried out yesterday by the combatants of the army of Islam on the Sanandaj-Marivan axis, the [word indistinct] heights (?on the Kuh-e Khazineh level: and the village of (?Gilan) were purged of the presence of counterrevolutionaires subservient to world oppression. In these operations a number of mercenary elements were killed and others were wounded.

In a confrontation on the Miando'ab-Bukan-Mahabad axis between the selfless combatants of the army of Islam on one side and the subservient counterrevolutionaries on the other, the pro-American mercenaries left behind more than 10 dead and fled. One of the leaders of the armed assailants was among those killed. In this confrontation several arms and some of the documents belonging to the counterrevolutionaries were captured by the forces of Islam.

It is worth noting that in spite of extended propaganda by the counterrevolutionaries and the lies of the imperialist media regarding support extended by the Muslim Kurdish people to the illegally armed groups, the Muslim and deprived people of [word indistinct] village and other purged areas who had had enough of the fighting and cruelty of the counterrevolutionary groups, welcomed the arrival of the brave combatants of Islam, chanting "God is great" and other slogans of unity.

[Signed] Hamzeh Seyyed as-Shohada base, the command base of the joint operations of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps

26 OCTOBER 1982

Lebanon

Military Situation -- Israeli planes drew Syrian and Palestinian groundfire when they carried out mock raids over central Lebanon early on 26 October, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The Israelis staged intensive low-level overflights of the Syrian and Palestinian positions the previous day and also moved tanks toward the Al-Biqa' Valley from the Ad-Damur and Ash-Shuf areas, according to reports by the radio and AFP.

Israel, Syria on Security, Withdrawals -- The Israeli paper MA'ARIV claimed that contrary to previous reports, President Amin al-Jumayyil did not reject Israel's proposal for security arrangements in southern Lebanon. Al-Jumayyil told U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz that Lebanon is ready to negotiate a security arrangement with Israel, MA'ARIV contended.

Meanwhile, Damascus radio reiterated that the presence of Syrian forces in Lebanon remains a purely Syrian-Lebanese issue that can be solved bilaterally when Israel is no longer pressuring Lebanon. Syria will offer every assistance to help Lebanon defend itself, resist occupation, defend national unity and spread the legitimate authority's sovereignty to all of Lebanon, the radio affirmed.

Message to Mubarak -- President al-Jumayyil's recent message to Egyptian President Husni Mubarak "goes beyond the phase of the establishment of diplomatic relations between the two countries and the desire to effectuate coordination and cooperation," MENA reported citing AL-AHRAM. The message also stressed Al-Jumayyil's commitment to Lebanon's Arabism, denouncing those who are trying to distance Lebanon from the Arabs and place it under Israeli influence as "nonpatriotic and unnational," AL-AHRAM said.

Israel

Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon's public testimony before the state commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre lasted about 3 hours, despite Sharon's expressed wish to make a short statement in public and then proceed with the rest of his testimony in camera, Jerusalem radio reported. Sharon told the judges that he first received information about the killings at 2100 on 17 September, when the chief of staff told him that the Phalangists had harmed the civilians in Sabra and Shatila beyond what had been expected. He said Deputy Prime Minister David Levi's warning of the possibility of a massacre, expressed during the 16 September Cabinet meeting, had not turned on any "warning light" because Levi's view was expressed as a comment rather than as part of a more general opposition to allowing the Phalangists into the Palestinian camps. The decision to approve the entry of the Phalangists into the area was made in accordance with the Cabinet ruling of 15 July to involve the Lebanese Forces in the fighting, Sharon asserted. However, according to IDF radio it was evident from Sharon's testimony that he decided to allow the Phalangists into Sabra and Shatila without consulting Prime Minister Menahem Begin.

Egypt

Tabah Negotiations -- Citing AL-AHRAM, MENA reported that Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali's letter to U.S. Secretary of State Shultz describes the Tabah issue as "serious." He "demands" that Washington intervene in the negotiations, which must start "immediately." However, Jerusalem radio reported that Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir has not received any letter from Egyptian Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali urging a resumption of the Tabah talks. In a related report also broadcast by the radio, political circles in Jerusalem pointed out that relations between Israel and Egypt are "frozen" and this includes negotiations on Tabah.

PLO

Palestinian Fighters to Jordan -- Monte Carlo radio cited Palestinian sources in Amman as saying that "a number" of fighters will leave Syria to join the Palestine Liberation Army stationed in Jordan. The move follows the agreement signed between PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat and Jordanian King Husayn.

PLO Convention -- A senior officer in the Israeli civilian administration in Judaea and Samaria said that neither Palestinian leaders nor residents will be allowed to participate in the "people's convention" to be held soon in Tunis, according to the Tel Aviv daily HA'ARETZ. The paper cited Arab sources in Jerusalem as stating that the PLO intends to invite known moderates.

Libya

Libyan leader Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi arrived in Beijing on 25 October on an official visit, Beijing radio reported. Al-Qadhdhafi and his delegation were welcomed in a ceremony in front of the Great Hall of the People by Premier of the State Council Zhao Ziyang. Following the welcoming ceremony, Al-Qadhdhafi and Zhao Ziyang held a "cordial, friendly conversation," the radio said. Tripoli radio described the Chinese people's welcome as "enthusiastic and warm." During a dinner hosted by Zhao Ziyang that evening, Al-Qadhdhafi gave a speech, the text of which was transmitted by JANA, in which he thanked the PRC for its unwavering stand toward the Palestinian cause and said: "We are quite certain your moral stands toward the Palestinian people will be translated into material stands in support of the struggle of the Palestinian people." During talks held on 26 October, Zhao Ziyang told Al-Qadhdhafi that he is confident the visit will make important contributions to promoting friendly relations, XINHUA reported.

Iran-Iraq War

Mediation Failure -- The chairman of the Islamic Conference Organization's Good Offices Committee, Guinean President Ahmed Sekou Toure, announced in Jidda that his committee's efforts to end the war have reached a deadlock, KUNA reported.

Military Situation -- An Iraqi communique carried by INA reported that at least 231 Iranian troops were killed on 24 October in fierce battles in the central operational sector.

Gulf Affairs

The first session of the Oman-PDRY reconciliation talks was held on 25 October, Kuwait radio reported. The meeting was held in a "fraternal, cordial and understanding atmosphere" and all items on the agenda were discussed.

KHO'INI ON EMBASSY TAKEOVER ANNIVERSARY, HAJJ

LD251842 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that on the eve of the third anniversary of the occupation of the den of espionage by the Muslim student followers of the imam's policy Mr Musavi-Kho'ini took part in a radio and television press conference with domestic and foreign reporters and answered their questions.

In this interview as he referred to the positive results of this revolutionary and historic action by the Muslim student followers of the imam's policy in Iran and the world and described the roots of the students' (?motivation) which were the extensive conspiracies of America following the victory of the Islamic revolution, the trip of the destroyed shah to that country and the edifying remarks of the imam of the umma', he said: With the occupation of the den of espionage and the detention of the American spies a very heavy blow was dealt to the arch-satan which was portrayed as a great and invincible power in the minds of the Iranian people and most of the oppressed and Muslim people of the world.

In the early days several other American embassies in various countries were attacked, and America was forced to recall several of its ambassadors. So the myth of American invincibility was smashed, and various nations realized that it is possible to confront America and to fight against it.

Referring to the role of the Provincial Government, he said: The government of the day, finding it could not be in harmony with the anti-American moves, resigned; it was made clear that the only leader in this region who could fight against the arch-Satan with full force was the imam of the umma', and that the only anti-American policy was the imam's policy.

He added: During this move a large number of the minigroups which claimed to be in the anti-American struggle were proved to be false, and it was made clear to the people that they were lying. For instance, the criminal Rajavi tried several times to enter the embassy so that he might make use of this opportunity. However, after he was faced with a negative response he said that it was a reactionary move and was a deviation from the leftist position. With such remarks he revealed his true nature. Many people who had pretended to be revolutionary were revealed and their links with America became clear. Such figures were exposed who, if the den of espionage had not been conquered, would maybe not have been exposed for years.

In conclusion, referring to the crimes of the Saudi Arabian police during this year's hajj pilgrimage, Mr Kho'ini asked the Iranian pilgrims who were subjected to assault and battery, were insulted or suffered financial loss to make detailed written complaints and hand them in to the prosecutor's offices in various cities throughout the country.

He added: As a result of the discussions which we have held with the country's prosecutor general all these complaints will be sent to Tehran, so that with the coordination of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs they will be sent to judicial authorities both inside and outside Saudi Arabia. Following that, the necessary steps will be taken to enable them to receive their rights.

He also said that to promote the better organization of hajj ceremonies in future years, Iranian pilgrims may send their remarks on the difficulties and defects they observed during this trip, together with their proposals, to the Public Relations Office of the Islamic Consultative Assembly or to his own office in connection with hajj ceremonies.

MUSAVI ON UN CALL FOR CEASE-FIRE, ECONOMY

LD251126 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Excerpts] According to the Central News Unit, following the Cabinet meeting yesterday, Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, the prime minister, answered questions by domestic correspondents.

Commenting on the UN resolution calling for an immediate cease-fire between Iran and Iraq, the prime minister said: International conspiracy and pressure cannot affect our nation's will to continue the war until final victory. The boiling blood of our combatants declares the UN resolution invalid.

Commenting on the inauspicious propaganda launched against Iran by the imperialist mass media and the reactionary regimes of the region, the prime minister said: That propaganda indicates that some of those who favor Saddam's claim for peace in fact participated in the offensive Saddam launched against our country and, as a result of this participation, see their fate linked with that of Saddam. Those who supported Saddam feel that any blow inflicted upon Saddam is a blow upon them too; otherwise, they would have not supported a criminal regime to that extent.

All the voices and propaganda that the Saudi regime has launched against our country are the outcomes of cries of "God is great" voiced by our pilgrims at Mecca and Medina. The meaning of the Saudi regime's fear is that the usurper Zionist regime's frontiers have not stopped in Lebanon, but have been extended as far as deep into Saudi Arabia; otherwise, the Saudi regime would have welcomed the slogans chanted by the Iranian pilgrims.

Commenting on the nation's economy and the government's program to fight high prices and hoarding, the prime minister said: From [word indistinct] point of view, we have a healthy economy. The volume of our current foreign reserve is higher than at any time in the past 2 years and our industrial and agricultural production have made a determining move. Yet, with the continuation of the imposed war, there are some shortcomings in the field of distribution, and our noble people fully understand this. At the same time a number of Godless people are taking advantage of this situation.

The government is doing its best to overcome those shortcomings, and the effects of the government's efforts will gradually appear, but the final key to the problem is the people, who should fight profiteering and hoarding by keeping their eyes open wherever they are. At the same time, along with the shortcomings that are the natural effects of the revolution, as well as the imposed war, the enemy is trying to create false needs and a thirst for purchase among our people. Therefore, the best way to overcome shortages is a negative struggle -- the course our nation took during the period of fighting against the dependent Pahlavi regime.

The prime minister then turned his remarks to the conspiracies of international imperialism and the internal counterrevolution against the Islamic revolution, saying: The enemy is conspiring every day. Those conspiracies appear every day in one form or another: one day in the form of assassination, the next day in the form of planting and exploding bombs, sometimes through the hoarding of goods and materials required by the people or in the form of creating an unnecessary thirst for purchase in order to create a false crisis.

The prime minister was asked to elaborate on the government's aim behind the recent circular concerning the Islamic councils. He said: No doubt the government will not ignore the services rendered by people at the factories, which have been turned into trenches. The government takes pride to be at the service of the world's oppressed people, but I assure everyone that the bill drafted in the field of labor and employment in general are within the Islamic framework and aimed at supporting all hard-working masses and the society's oppressed.

The prime minister went on: At no time can we afford to ignore the expansion of Islamic ideology in our Islamic society. Nowadays, any step taken to increase production means shooting a bullet toward the U.S. I have viewed the activities of brothers and sisters at Islamic associations and councils at close range and understand their feelings. They, too, behind their own trenches in their factories and firms, feel they are fighting Saddam and the U.S.

GOVERNMENT PAST 'CRUCIAL' ECONOMIC PERIOD

LD232324 Tehran IRNA in English 2031 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 23, IRNA -- The governor of the Bank Markazi (Central Bank) of Iran [CBI] Mohsen Nurbakhsh has said that by implementing a series of war time economic and monetary policies the Islamic government has successfully passed through a crucial period during which "all foreign countries" had sharpened their ears to hear "the bells tolling our bankruptcy".

Nurbakhsh, who is quoted in an interview with the Persian daily KEYHAN today, has asserted also that principally because the Iranian people have been tolerating without complaining certain limitations in consumer items the home economy was now gradually returning to normal despite the on-going war with Iraq.

The governor of Iran's Central Bank has also said that Iran's reserves of foreign exchange is now at an optimum level, and that its steady trend upward coupled with other controlling policies made it possible to continue with the war without any adverse effects on the daily lives of the people for a last time in the future.

He also has said that while in the year 1356 (March 21, 1977-March 20, 1978) the inflation rate in Iran had reached about 30 percent, it had dropped to as low as 15.6 percent for the current year.

Nurbakhsh is also very critical of ousted President Bani-Sadar and of the former CBI governor, Nobari, (both outside Iran now) for having proved incapable of shaping the country's economy despite high reverse on oil sales.

He has said that during the autumn and winter this year Iran is likely to ease import restrictions on more items, while trying on the other hand to return to normal the hectic and somewhat unnatural consumer demand for some products, which he maintains has created abnormal consumption of and demand for certain consumer staples, by people who are not bona fide consumers, or who would not buy or use those staples under peacetime circumstances.

The Central Bank governor has made it clear that rather than expend national revenues on luxury items, the Islamic government is determined to invest its oil revenues on fruitful enterprises in the interest of the future generations.

OFFICIAL ON TRADE WITH WEST, EAST, THIRD WORLD

GF241958 Tehran IRNA in English 1610 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 24, IRNA -- Under Secretary for International and Economic Affairs of the Foreign Ministry Hoseyn Kazem-Pur Arbabili, in an interview with the evening daily KEYHAN today said that at present no goods were imported from the United States.

Discussing the economic situation and volume of imports both before and after the victory of the Islamic revolution of Iran, he said that the year before the 1979 Islamic revolution U.S. imports reached its peak, which led to the further dominance of Iran's economy by the U.S.

Giving figures for the imports from the U.S. in 1978, the Foreign Ministry official said that it was about 170 billion rials, second only to West Germany. However, in 1979 as a result of closure of many American companies, the U.S. ranked third among countries which imported goods to Iran. The decline in U.S. imports continued and in 1980 the value of imports from that country was about 93 billion rials, 55 percent of Iran's total imports in 1978.

Kazempur Ardabili further added that in 1978 85 percent of imports were from the U.S., European countries and Japan, 5.5 percent from Eastern bloc and 9.5 percent from Third World countries. However, three years later the imports from the U.S., Europe and Japan declined to 67 percent. At the same time, as relations were developed with Third World countries and Eastern bloc nations, the share of the first group countries increased to 18.2 percent and the latter to 14.4 percent. The shift in the trade policy, he added, has been disadvantageous for the West. The same trend has continued for the past two years.

Stressing the fact that political independence was related to economic, cultural and military independence, Kazempur Ardabili said that in trade, priority has been given to countries which shared similar political and ideological viewpoints. Prior to the victory of the Islamic revolution of Iran, country's economy was under the control of imperialist countries whereas, after the revolution, different criteria have been applied.

Underlying factors in trade policy, he said, were rejection of any sort of domination and also expansion of relations with Third World and Islamic countries. The experience gained from economic sanctions imposed on Iran by the U.S. and West made Iran reconsider its trade policies and reduce its vulnerability to the minimum and adopt policies which would lead the country towards economic self-sufficiency.

Kazempur Ardabili further told KEYHAN that there was a great opportunity to develop economic relations with Third World countries. Although these countries have one fourth of the world population and great natural resources, only 10 percent of exports in the international market belongs to them.

Speaking on development of trade and economic relations with other countries, he said so far some 27 delegations have traveled to 17 Third World countries, five European countries (not members of the European Economic Community), and 10 to East European countries. At the same time, he added, 15 economic missions have visited Iran and trade and economic agreements have been signed with some of these countries.

RADIO, TV HEAD ON SIGNAPORE MEET, JAPAN VISIT

LD251946 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Interview with Mohammad Hashemi-Rafsanjani, managing director of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran, by unidentified correspondent in Tehran -- date not given -- recorded]

[Excerpts] [Question] Mr Hashemi-Rafsanjani, you attended the session of the union of radio and television of Asian countries in Singapore, would you please tell us what issues were raised in this session, and what results were achieved?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. One of the issues raised was the Los Angeles Olympics; Iran moved to ban coverage of this program, but some of the union's members were of the view that the union should cover the games. The final decision made was that the union should not cover the Los Angeles Olympics, but member countries that might be under internal pressure -- and this point was referred to repeatedly -- can go ahead and sign contracts to cover the games.

The other point raised was the issue of news coverage. This point has been discussed for some time, but at this session it was resolved and approved. In order to stop the present prevalent imperialist influence on news and break the hold of Western countries on news converage, two central news departments are to be set up within the union to exchange news [word indistinct], a news exchange center. One of these departments will be in Tehran and the other in Malaysia. The preliminary steps and the basics were approved.

It was decided that in order to finalize the instructions, the methods used and the starting date, two meetings will be held: one in Tokyo and one in India. The center to which we belong will participate in the meeting in India and our colleagues will participate in the meeting to follow up the work. The Tokyo center will hold its meeting and then the results will be exchanged.

[Question] Following your trip to Malaysia, you went to Japan, would you please tell us what objectives you had in this trip, and whether you met with Japanese media officials?

[Answer] In Japan our main objective was to visit research centers dealing with satellites and space. As you are informed, we hope to use satellite systems in the near future, and in order to acquire the technology to build receiving stations we need assistance. Following our meetings with industrial, space and media officials, we came to the conclusion that the technology involved in the receiving stations and the satellites should be given to us to enable us to build these stations in Iran ourselves. It is noteworthy that with the facilities we have at present we would be able to build 80 percent of these stations at present; for the other 20 percent we would need assistance from abroad. In our meetings with Japanese officials it was decided that they should undertake the work.

The second issue was the sale of television transmitters. Japan had already taken part in the announced tender, and their bids were more favorable than others. While we were there the contracts for the sale of television transmitters were signed.

MOVES TO EXPEL ISRAEL FROM UN BODIES VIEWED

LD231132 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0450 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "The Hollow Threat and the U.S. Plan To Quit the United Nations and Its Affiliated Organs"]

[Excerpts] U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz has formally warned the 150 member countries of the International Telecommunications Union [ITU] that the United States will withhold its contribution and quit this union and other affiliated organs of the United Nations, including the General Assembly, if at the meeting in Nairobi, the capital of Kenya, they vote to expel Israel from the union. Before this warning, informed sources had predicted that the ITU in its present session would vote to exclude the regime occupying Jerusalem. This type of blackmail and threats by U.S. imperialism is not the first by the militarist statesmen in the Reagan administration. Rather it is the umpteenth time that the United States has shown this sort of reaction in its confrontation with a front opposing the Zionist regime and global imperialism.

George Shultz, the notorious capitalist and the foreign policy boss of the imperialist world, has asked the moderate Arab countries -- that is, his devoted servants -- and some of the nonaligned countries to withdraw their request to eject Israel from the United Nations.

Before the request to expel the Zionist regime from the ITU, the issue to eject this U.S. mercenary from the United Nations was raised and reviewed. Now the United States has shown a clear reaction to both requests. Prior to that, U.S. imperialism withheld its $8.5-million contribution from the UN International Atomic Energy Agency [IAEA] when the Zionist regime's membership was suspended. U.S. imperialism also canceled its voluntary aid of $300,000 to the IAEA fund.

In connection with this threatening and blackmailing approach that U.S. imperialism has always adopted, there are several basic points worth discussing: First, at this juncture the recent tactics of global imperialism cannot be such a serious problem, because these threats indicate that U.S. imperialism has made the United Nations and other international organs so dependent on it and is dominating them. It can be concluded, therefore, that it will not pay, politically, for the United States to quit these organizations.

Second, the recent threat by U.S. imperialism shows the extent and intensity of the world-devouring America's support for its illegitimate offspring, the Tel Aviv regime. In fact, U.S. imperialism, with such clear (?opposition) to a logical move taken by 157 countries against the fascists and criminals of Tel Aviv, has shown its unstinting support for the Zionist regime and its approval of the crimes committed by this regime in Lebanon.

At this point it must be said that all the claims and remarks by U.S. officials on respecting international and social laws are baseless and hollow. The United States makes such remarks only to cover up its own crimes and those committed by its puppets in Lebanon, Palestine, Latin America and Black Africa.

The pain and suffering of human society, which have mostly been inflicted by the imperialists themselves, have never been and never will be important to the United States.

On the other hand, the U.S. threat to quit the United Nations precisely recalls the political situation in the thirties which culminated in the dissolution of the League of Nations on the eve of World War II.

Of course, it should not be forgotten that at present the United States has no fixed strategy to drag the world into a war. All it wants is peace, but an American and imperialist kind of peace. Through such deceitful strategy, U.S. imperialism tries on the one hand to depict itself as a peace-loving country while, on the other hand, it wants to impose its American peace by waging a limited nuclear war or by such bloody and criminal battles as the attack launched by the Tel Aviv regime against Lebanon.

The U.S. threat to quit the United Nations is another weapon for creating an imposed peace and is not very different from the imposed war created by the imperialists and Zionists.

The question is: Who is ruling Lebanon now and how was peace (?imposed) on that country? The short answer is: U.S. imperialism and Zionism, at the price of the massacre of tens of thousands of Muslim Palestinians and Lebanese and by making hundreds of thousands of men, women and children homeless, have been able to find a place for themselves in Lebanon; or as they say themselves, they have managed to restore peace in Lebanon. Thus, the recent threats by the Washington authorities are hollow and are made only for political gains and for the purpose of strengthening and stabilizing the Zionist regime.

Confrontation of such threats will only be possible through the creation of immense international action based on a struggle against imperialism and Zionism. This international action should have two parts:

First, the countries of the world should try to strengthen the Nonaligned Movement so that it can possess a constructive power in the international arena. Only an organization like this can stand against any imperialist or communist threat.

Second, within the present framework, the independent and free countries should try, through new and serious actions, to continue a practical struggle in the United Nations against international imperialism and Zionism and the bullies of the East and West -- those with the right of veto in the United Nations and its other organs.

IRANIAN FORCES ATTACK KORDESTAN VILLAGES

GF241732 Tehran IRNA in English 1630 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Sanandaj, Oct. 24, IRNA -- The strategic village of Turivar and 14 other suburban villages in Sanandaj, in Kordestan Province, were purged of the armed outlaws during two successful police operations carried out by the Islamic combatants on Saturday.

The liberation of these important villages and their surrounding points, the inhabitants of which were under heavy pressure by the counterrevolutionaries during the past few years, was a very important event.

Also, during these operations, five more heights were liberated in the said region.

Another outcome of the said purging operations, was the complete recapture of the villages of Vasi Olya and Vasi Sofla, in the Sanandaj region, which were among the important rallying places of the rebels.

The village of Turivar became a base for a large group of the armed outlaws in the wake of a confrontation with the armed forces in April 1980.

These insurgents launched sporadic subversive attacks on Sanandaj and its outskirts from their base here.

'KDP SYMPATHIZERS' ON TRIAL FOR PLANTING BOMBS

GF241720 Tehran IRNA in English 1555 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 24 (IRNA) -- Two people charged with planting explosives in Imam Khomeyni Square, southern Tehran, were tried in the military revolutionary tribunal headed by Hojjat ol-Eslam Mohammadi-Reyshahri, here this morning. The court went into session to come out with the verdict.

According to the indictment, the two, Mohammad Saleh Ahmadi and Ghafur Darbandi, after contacts with the outlawed Kurdish Democratic Party (KDP) had planted a 70 kgs bomb in a rangerover, drove it to Tehran and left it at Imam Khomeyni Square, on July 29th, 1982. However, the plot was discovered and the bomb was defused by security officials.

Ahmadi has confessed that he was also supposed to place a truck containing a bomb in front of the Interior Ministry. He has told the court that for this act of sabotage he was promised to receive some 250,000 rials (U.S. 30,000 dollars) from the outlawed KDP and had already received 30,000 rials of the said sum in advance.

During the trial, Ahmadi repented this act and told the court that he was unaware of the destructive power of the explosive materials.

The court said that the second offender, Darbandi, had contacts with the first offender as well as the KDP elements. He was said to be aware of the bomb and had volunteered to drive the car to Tehran, in return for money.

Bomb explosions in Tehran and provincial cities have so far claimed lives of a number of innocent people. Explosion of a powerful bomb in Naser Khosrow Street, southern Tehran, on Oct 1, martyred over 80 people and injured more than 700 others. In another terrorist bomb explosion in Tehran's Khayyam Street on Sept 6th, 20 people were martyred and another 100 were injured.

Trial of the two KDP sympathisers proves that the outlawed KDP has been involved in terrorist activities and aims at nothing but creating disorder and state of fear in the country. Contrary to the picture that the Western media has been portraying of the KDP and its aims and objectives, the experience of the past three years shows that this counterrevolutionary group has followed no goal but that of killing a large number of innocent people.

NVOI ASSAILS SIMILARITY OF IRANIAN, U.S. VIEWS

TA251221 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "Washington's Hostile Measures"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: Washington is still endeavoring to draw Turkey into the aggressive preparations of the NATO military pact. For this reason, too, America wants to provide the funds and expenses for the modernization of scores of Turkey's military airbases, to facilitate the takeoff and landing of more sophisticated and larger aircraft there. These bases will allegedly be used by NATO's armed forces when necessary. This means that America, should it conclude that its interests in the Middle East region are endangered, will use Turkey's territory as a stretegic springboard for the transfer of its armed forces to our region.

But this is only one side of the problem. As the Istanbul newspaper, CUMHURIYET, has written: The other side of the problem is that America intends to assign Turkey the role of gendarme in preserving America's interests in the Persian Gulf region. This newspaper points out that if Turkey accedes to this, then America will speed up the process of modernizing the Turkish Army, and will use the Asian part of Turkey's territory as a base for implementing military operations in the region.

In fact, for a long time now the Americans have not only been using Turkey as a military base, but at the same time as a base for carrying out subversive activities against revolutionary Iran. As we are aware, following the defeat of its effort to stifle the Iranian revolution through an economic boycott, Washington resorted to implementing subversive activities the aim of which is to overthrow our Islamic Republic's system.

It is specifically on Turkish soil that the experienced agents of the U.S. CIA have established the so-called Azadegan organization, consisting mainly of fugitive officers of the Imperial Army, and are training and equipping its members. At the end of last year U.S. Vice President Bush and then U.S. Secretary of State Haig reached an agreement with the leaders of the so-called Azadegan organization over a plan for military revolt against Iran. It is particularly these two high-ranking U.S. personalities who undertook to provide unlimited financial and military aid to Nazemi, former officer of the deceased shah's army, to organize the staging of a coup d'etat. Thus by placing the export of the counterrevolution within the framework of the U.S. Government's official policy, Washington has intensified its attacks on revolutionary Iran from Turkish territory.

The Reagan administration is openly continuing an undeclared war against Afghanistan. The United States, Great Britain, Egypt and Saudi Arabia are providing the Afghan counterrevolutionaries with weapons and money.

In order to support the counterrevolutionary forces, the Americans have stationed 2,000 members of their Rapid Deployment Force in our region. Part of these forces have been deployed in the Sinai Desert and are ready to jump off toward the oil-producing region of the Persian Gulf.

In the vast area in the vicinity of the Indian Ocean, as in Turkey, America has embarked upon the establishment of strategic bases and centers, one of the aims of which is the permanent deployment of its military forces. The vast U.S. war armada as well has been dispatched toward this region.

Mr Velayati, our homeland's minister of foreign affairs, during his speech at the recent UN General Assembly session, said that America's aggressive and open intentions with respect to the countries and nations of the Middle East were revealed in the course of Israel's attack on Lebanon. It has also become obvious that America is exploiting this development not only to consolidate its military presence in the region, but to impose the treacherous Camp David agreement on Arab governments.

All these are not a cause of amazement. On the other side of the ocean indifference toward international assemblies and toward existing mores and regulations in relations between governments has become the current vogue. It seems they think in Washington that if international legal mores prevent the implementation of their hegemonistic aims, it is tough luck because America is free and authorized to discard them. Of course, the imperialists would not have been disappointed if the situation had been like this, but the judgment of nations is something else. All nations, like our heroic nation, are constantly fighting against imperialism.

In general, our Islamic Republic has a clear anti-imperialist policy, and rightly considers world-devouring America to be its number one enemy. However, were we to talk about the attitude of some of our homeland's government figures toward the Afghan events, for example, then one should say that these officials have adopted a standpoint similar to the one adopted by those dependent on America, such as the leaders of the regimes of Pakistan, Israel, Saudi Arabia and Egypt.

In this case, who are the associates of revolutionary Iran? And how can we struggle against our number one enemy -- namely, world-devouring America -- when at this time, with respect to this very problem of revolutionary Afghanistan, for example, we are in the same rank with U.S. subservient regimes?

Our combat against the conspiracies of world-devouring America can be victorious only if our anti-imperialist policy is principled from all aspects.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Situation -- More than 20 people were killed and over 100 were wounded when Iraqi planes attacked the city of Dezful with air-to-surface missiles, Tehran radio reported. However, a related IRNA report said the strike was by long-range surface-to-surface missiles. An Iraqi military spokesman cited by INA said the attack was in retaliation for Iranian shelling of Iraqi cities.

Meanwhile, Iranian and Iraqi military communiques carried by Tehran radio and INA respectively reported further exchanges of fire along the battlefronts. The Iranian communique claimed that Iranian artillery inflicted heavy casualties on Iraqi garrisons in Qazanfar and Sayyid Sadiq.

Iraqi Secret Weapon -- The Iraqi charge d'affaires in Denmark announced that Iraq will use a new "secret weapon" for mass destruction if the Iranians launch a major offensive on the border, Monte Carlo radio reported. The weapon can kill hundreds of thousands but is not "nuclear, chemical or internationally prohibited," he added.

Iraq on Mediation -- An Iraqi Foreign Ministry spokesman reemphasized Iraq's demand that the Islamic Conference Organization's Good Offices Committee pass judgment on the stand of both countries toward the committee's proposals, INA reported. Iraq's acceptance and Iran's rejection of the committee's proposals help identify which side insists on aggression to achieve illegal aims at the expense of the other, the spokesman affirmed. He also criticized the Good Offices Committee for presenting the current situation optimistically, which "does not necessarily help the peace issue." In the same report, INA publicized the full text of the committee's latest proposals.

Lebanon

Military Situation -- The Syrians have introduced new SAM batteries into the Al-Biqa' Valley, and a Soviet military delegation has inspected Syrian positions in the area, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The clandestine Radio Free Lebanon likewise said the Syrians have established a SAM-8 battery west of Zahlah. Meanwhile, the IDF transferred control of two villages in the Ash-Shuf mountains to the Lebanese Army and moved tanks from the 'Alayh and B'abda area to the south, according to Jerusalem and Beirut radio reports. IDF soldiers combed the Sidon area after an Israeli soldier was injured by a grenade, IDF radio reported. Beirut radio said the Israelis sealed off the city.

PLO Leaders in Beirut -- Some of the Palestinian leaders deported from Beirut have started to reappear in Lebanon, Voice of Lebanon radio reported, citing as an example the presence of a leader of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine at a Communist Party ceremony in Beirut.

Government Statement -- The Cabinet approved a draft government statement which will be submitted to the Chamber of Deputies for approval on a confidence vote, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The statement focuses on the withdrawal of foreign forces, the establishment of the government's authority and the imposition of full national sovereignty over Lebanese territory.

Israel

Begin on Al-Jumayyil, Withdrawals -- While Lebanese President Amin al-Jumayyil's "negative position" is evident in public, the Lebanese president sounds more moderate in private talks, Prime Minister Menahem Begin told the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee in remarks reported by Jerusalem radio. When Begin spoke about the mutual withdrawal of Israeli and Syrian forces from Lebanon, he did not demand the prior withdrawal of the PLO fighters and committee members therefore received the impression that Israel has waived this demand, the radio added.

West Bank -- One Arab youth was killed and two others were injured when Israelis fired to disperse stone-throwing rioters in Nabulus, IDF radio reported. Meanwhile, MA'ARIV said a call for a general strike to mark the 40th day after the Beirut massacre has been issued in Judaea and Samaria.

Egyptian-Israeli Relations

Egyptian Report -- According to the London-based weekly magazine AL-MAJALLAH, President Husni Mubarak has received an "important" report from a committee of Egyptian Foreign Ministry ambassadors who prepared a "thorough" evaluation of Egyptian-Israeli relations. The report says Israeli policy has not changed in the 5 years since the late President Anwar as-Sadat visited Jerusalem and Israel has resorted to "devious methods" and "misinterpretations" in order to force the other party to make concessions. The report claims that these actions have led to the halting of the autonomy talks and that Israel's ulterior motive is to maintain and widen the differences. However, Israeli Prime Minister Begin told the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee that there is "no change" in relations between Israel and Egypt and that conditions of the peace treaty are being kept, Jerusalem television reported. Jerusalem radio reported that the Israeli Cabinet is scheduled to discuss Egyptian relations on 27 October.

Tabah Issue -- Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali met with U.S. Ambassador in Cairo Alfred Atherton to discuss the Egyptian position on the Tabah issue, Cairo radio reported. 'Ali gave Atherton a message for U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz concerning Egypt's call for resuming negotiations on Tabah. Citing political sources in Jerusalem, the Tel Aviv daily HA'ARETZ reported that "no practical discussions" either on Tabah or on autonomy can be held until the Egyptian ambassador returns to Israel.

Border Patrols -- Jerusalem television reported that Egypt has recently increased its border patrols, especially in the Rafah area, as a result of official Israeli complaints. The reports stated that senior Israeli security and military sources believe that "terrorist" organizations are planning to increase their border activities and that the Egyptians are not using all the means at their disposal to foil these activities.

Libya

Libyan leader Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi and Chairman of the PCP State Council Zhao Ziyang held their first round of official talks in Beijing on 26 October, JANA reported. The Libyan secretary for foreign liaison, the PRC foreign minister as well as various technical and economic representatives from both sides were present; a comprehensive review of bilateral relations was made during the talks. Two technical committees met that evening at the Great Hall of the People in order to establish working programs.

KARMAL SPEECH TO HERAT INFANTRY DIVISION

LD241512 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1630 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Speech by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, delivered at a meeting of officers, men and personnel of the Herat 17th Infantry Division on 21 October -- recorded]

[Excerpts] Dear heroic comrades: It is a pleasure that today I meet with you fighters of the path of the April Revolution, you who struggle against the sworn enemies of the freedom-loving people of Afghanistan. [applause]

Allow me to speak on behalf of the PDPA Central Committee, the DRA Government and myself. I would like to convey to you -- troops, NCO's and brave officers of the homeland, courageous patriots of the 17th Infantry Division -- with full satisfaction, warm and revolutionary greetings.

You have fought, as other proud personnel of our young Democratic Republic Army, in an active and heroic manner against the counterrevolutionary bands. You have fulfilled, are fulfilling and will fulfill your glorious and proud part in the task of crushing the enemies of your national government.

Most of the officers, NCO's and men who are present in this hall have received badges and state medals for bravery, manhood and devotion, which you have displayed in the bloody battles against the counterrevolutionary bands. Many of you have been promoted to higher military ranks. These promotions are a result of the faithfulness and honesty of our army personnel to the homeland and to the just cause of the glorious April Revolution and the great aspirations of the PDPA.

Comrades, the personnel of our heroic army, like other noble citizens of the country, under the leadership of the PDPA Central Committee, Revolutionary Council and the DRA Government, have strived and are striving to gradually normalize the economic and military situation inside the country. We should point out that the general situation is normalizing and recent events are satisfactory evidence for this claim.

For example, we can mention the repelling of large counterrevolutionary bands' attacks and the willingness of most rebel bands to negotiate with representatives of the popular government. Every day more and more of those people, who are deceived by the poisonous propaganda [words indistinct].

By realizing the objectives and duties of the April Revolution, they are (?leaving) the counterrevolution and returning to peaceful life. Although up to now this process has been slow, it is moving ahead and expanding. In the near future the day will come when all toilers of our homeland will realize and believe in the just cause for which our party and all the patriotic and aware citizens of Afghanistan are fighting and support the party's policies and its measures to improve the living standards of the masses and the economic and cultural development of the DRA. [applause]

Despite the positive and specific results that have been achieved in the current year, the political and military situation in the country has not yet settled completely and the conspiracies of the international imperialism are basic obstacles to its normalization. The aggressive imperialist forces, headed by U.S. imperialism, do not spare any effort to prevent the progress on the masses' path of social development.

In Afghanistan, imperialism has not abandoned its attempts to change the direction of events to their benefit. They want to increase tension in the world further and they use the so-called Afghanistan problem as a pretext for this. International imperialism, headed by U.S. imperialism and its criminal partners in Islambad and Beijing, have waged and continue to wage undeclared war against our beloved country. [Word indistinct] and naive people and try to instigate them against the popular government.

With the help of these dark forces, the destructive activities of criminal bands and [word indistinct] are continuing in the sacred land of Afghanistan. These bands [word indistinct] demolishing schools, mosques and hospitals and because of their [word indistinct] with knowledge are murdering noble and patriotic teachers and clergy. These dark forces of reaction have directed the sharp edge of their criminal action against members of the PDPA, Democratic Youth Organization of Afghanistan [DYOA] representatives of the government, popular intellectuals and military personnel. Their main objective is to keep people in permanent fear and panic, create disbelief among the people of the DRA Government and its ability to maintain peaceful working conditions for the toilers and revitalize feudal regimes and the rule of exploiters. The strivings of the enemies of the revolution are in vain and doomed to certain defeat. [applause]

Despite the undeclared war of imperialism the national economy of our country is continuing its growth. In the current year the production of basic commodities, including the extraction of gas and coal, has increased, and some taken measures have resulted in a rise in production of some kinds of agricultural products.

It should be mentioned that without the disinterested and fraternal assistance of the Soviet Union and other countries of the socialist community and the consolidation of [word indistinct] friendship and internationalist solidarity with the people of those countries, the achievement of these successes would have been impossible. As a result of the Soviet Union's assistance, our national economy and science and technology have developed. Our armed forces have (?consolidated) and raised their combat capability. Our friendhsip and solidarity with the Soviet Union and the countries of the socialist community reliably guarantee the freedom and sovereignty of Afghnistan, the complete victory of the April Revolution and [words indistinct] in our country, which is an important condition for the development and prosperity of all of our country's tribes and nationalities. [applause]

I once again express my gratitude for the all-round and disinterested assistance of our great northern neighbor, the great Soviet Union. [applause]

Comrades, troops, officers and NCO's, our enemies will not lay down their weapons until they realize their resistance is in vain and how great our force is. We now have this force. We have at our disposal a regular army, a new army capable of reliably defending the gains of the revolution.

The political awareness of the officers and heroic and militant NCO's, their honesty to the homeland, people and party and their faithfulness to the military service and aspirations of the April Revolution, as well as to the unity of the army, have increased and will increase our energy and strength. Therefore, it is the duty of the commanders, political workers and party organizations to organize broader work in a systematic and orderly manner to further enhance the troops' level of awareness.

The important duties for the improvement and perfection of the combatant capability of the units raise serious demands for the acquisition of general knowledge by armed forces personnel. The army should be transformed not only into a school of political maturity, but a school to eradicate illiteracy in all troops.

The power of the army is in the presence of experienced (?military) cadres who have high political (?awareness). Officers who are members of the PDPA or the DYOA are the militant nucleus of our (?army cadres). More than 75 percent of army officers are full or candidate members of the PDPA or are members of the DYOA.

Today, our units and companies are equipped with technical machinery and modern weapons. These powerful weapons can only bring the desired effect on the enemy when used by reliable and powerful hands. Therefore, it is the duty of each soldier, NCO and officer to skillfully learn the techniques of using their weapons and (?equipment) effectively and to make use of its (?combat capability) for [word indistinct] democracy.

In conditions where our army is fighting against counterrevolutionary bands, they should have very good order, complete obedience and party and military discipline. The smallest negligence, carelessness or disobedience carry serious and fatal results. The homeland's interests demands that each soldier (?obey) all orders of the General Conscription Law, military regulations and guidelines, military [word indistinct] and orders of the commanders and officers. Discipline is characteristic of the patriotism, political awareness and (?manhood) of a soldier.

Indestructible friendship and combatant cooperation with the personnel of the limited contingents of the Soviet Union have made our army more powerful. This friendship has been the brightest symbol of the great friendship of our peoples, and had forever and [words indistinct] our peoples. [applause]

The preparations for celebrating the anniversary of the establishment of the USSR will make better ground for the further expansion of the all-round friendship and brotherhood between the parties, people and armies of both countries. According to the resolution of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo, commanders, political organs, party and youth organizations and all military collectives should (?prepare) for this grand celebration and for the further education of the personnel with high patriotic and internationalist spirit and endless loyalty to the [word indistinct] Afghan-Soviet friendship. [applause]

The PDPA Central Committee also has full confidence that all heroic personnel of the 17th Infantry Division will serve their homeland with honesty and dedication and without fear and will fight against the counterrevolutionary elements to fulfill their significant part in the final victory of the April Revolution and its new development stage. [applause]

Long live the glorious April Revolution! Long live the PDPA, the party of working class and all toilers of Afghanistan! Pride to the DRA Armed Forces! [applause]

AFP: AFGHAN REBELS REPULSE SOVIET OFFENSIVE

OW260028 Hong Kong AFP in English 2348 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Islamabad, Oct 25 (AFP) -- Afghan resistance fighters pushed back a new Soviet offensive last week against rebel positions in the Paghman Valley, about 20 kms (12 miles) northwest of Kabul, a communique published by Afghan insurgents said today.

The statement, released by the mujahidin alliance based in Peshawar, said the attack occurred 5 days ago, when several hundred Soviet tanks and armored vehicles, backed up by mortars and MiG-23 fighters, pounded rebel positions around the ancient summer residence of the Afghan kings.

It said government troops suffered heavy human and material losses when the resistance counter-attacked, using arms brought in by deserters from the Afghan Army.

SIKH TEMPLE GUARD SHOT BY POLICE IN AMRITSAR

BK261621 Hong Kong AFP in English 1322 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct 26 (AFP) -- A Sikh temple guard was shot and wounded by the police today in Amritsar, Punjab, apparently sparking renewed tension in the northwestern state, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported.

The guard, known as Nihang in his community, was taken to hospital and his condition was described as "serious."

PTI report said Nihang was shot when he attacked a police officer at the temple area with his khanda (sharp-edged weapon). The police officer than fired three shots.

According to the report, Nihang was wanted in a case filed against him for attacking a magistrate and a police officer on October 18.

Tension began to subside in the city on October 19 when the authorities issued a shoot at sight order against "miscreants" following clashes between Sikhs and police on the previous day in which one Sikh follower of the pro-autonomy Akali faction was shot dead and several others injured.

A total of 59 Sikhs lost their lives since the Akalis intensified their agitation in early August in violent incidents. Five Sikhs were killed in police firing when they tried to attack the Parliament house two weeks ago.

PATROLS INTENSIFIED IN AMRITSAR AFTER VIOLENCE

BK270850 Hong Kong AFP in English 0835 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Excerpts] New Delhi, Oct 27 (AFP) -- Fresh contingents of para military forces were out in the Sikh holy city of Amritsar today as the Sikh demand for autonomy for their Punjab state took a new turn with yesterday's grenade attack on a Hindu festival procession and the killing of a traditional Sikh warrior by the police.

Officials reached by telephone from here said the city had been tense since dawn as local Hindus were preparing a procession to mark the conclusion of a major Hindu festival there.

"We are keeping our fingers crossed, but have left nothing to chance," the official said.

Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency reports today said patrolling by the para military and state armed police had been intensified following fear of further trouble in the 500,000-strong city.

Meanwhile, independent observers here said the grenade attack has brought into sharp focus the growing tension between the Sikhs and the Hindus in Punjab, which has a total population of 16.8 million.

Federal Interior Ministry sources here said the administration in Punjab run by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress (I) Party had been categorically told to take measures to stop the Sikh stir from taking the shape of a communal confrontation between the Sikhs and the Hindus.

Meanwhile, efforts were underway today to bring the Sikh leaders back to the negotiating table to hammer out the Sikh issue.

Yesterday's death of the Sikh warrior brought the death toll of the Sikhs since they intensified their protest in August to 60, a Sikh spokesman here said.

Over 30,000 Sikhs were arrested, but later released as part of a goodwill gesture by Mrs Gandhi.

The injured were rushed to the hospital. The injured include a superintendent of police, an executive magistrate and 18 members of state police and the central reserve police.

Earlier in the evening, one person who attacked a police official on duty with a sharp-edged weapon was seriously injured when the official fired at him in self-defense. The assailant later succumbed to his injuries in the hospital.

The spokesman said the situation in the city is fully under control. However, police patrolling in the city has been further intensified.

AFP Report

BK261715 Hong Kong AFP in English 1706 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct. (AFP) -- Within hours after a Sikh temple guard was killed in a police firing, a powerful bomb blast took place tonight outside the Sikh "golden temple" in Amritsar in the Punjab state, leaving about 40 wounded, many seriously.

The first Press Trust of India (PTI) reports from Amritsar, about 400 km (250 miles), on the border with Pakistan, had said that "many policemen were among the dead."

The agency said high tension prevailed in the town when armed groups of people belonging to two communities, apparently Sikhs and Hindus, gathered at several localities. Police fired a few shots in the air to scare away the rival groups.

Police and the para-military Border Security Force (BSF) and Central Reserve Police (CRP) have sealed the area where the explosion took place, PTI added.

Today's incidents have taken place even as behind-the-scenes activities were in full swing in preparation for formal talks between Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's emissary and former Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, himself a Sikh, and the specially set up committee of the Sikhs' "Akali Dal" party on the community's continuing mass stir for "greater autonomy" to the predominantly Sikh Punjab and their other demands.

The earlier incident of police firing, in which the "nihang" (Sikh guard) was critically wounded and was later reported dead in hospital, also took place in Amritsar. Police were quoted as saying that a senior police official opened fire when he was attacked by the nihang armed with their traditional long sword. The incident occurred as a police party went to arrest the victim, Balwant Singh, who was dancing with a sword in his hand. He was wanted by police in connection with a couple of similar incidents earlier in which he had attacked two officials.

Citizens Condemn Blast

BK270911 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] In a joint statement, leading citizens of Amritsar have strongly condemned the grenade explosion incident last night which resulted in the death of one person and injuries to 50 others.

They urged the people to maintain and strengthen the forces of traditional peace and communal harmony in the city. They cautioned the people against designs of a few miscreants who, they said, were out to disturb the atmosphere of peace and amity. The signatories for the statement include (Dr Baldev Prakash), president, Bharatiya Janata Party, Punjab; (Satyapal Dang), president of All-India Communist Party; (Paduman Singh), general secretary, All-India Communist Party; (Kirpal Singh), president, chief, Khalsa Diwan; and R.L. Bhatia, member of Parliament.

Our correspondent (Amrik Singh Wig) reports that the situation in the city is slightly tense but under control. A close watch is being maintained to avoid any untoward incident. No untoward incident has been reported since last night. A flag march by a company of Border Security Force jawans [soldiers] was staged in the localities affected by yesterday's incident to restore confidence among the people.

President of the Akali Dal, Longowal, Harchand Singh Longowal, has expressed sorrow over yesterday's incident.

GANDHI SPEAKS ON NATION BUILDING IN NAGALAND

BK220933 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 22 Oct 82

[Text] Mrs Indira Gandhi has asserted that only a bigger and stronger country can make the development process meaningful and give protection to all sections of people. She was addressing a public meeting in Kohima on the second day of her 3-day visit to Nagaland. Mrs Gandhi said that there should be a strong center to guard against evil designs of any foreign power. Mrs Gandhi urged the people of Nagaland to involve themselves freely in the nation-building process. She said the government on its part was taking into account their needs and aspirations and is doing its best for the state's development to catch up with others. Mrs Gandhi said the center has taken steps to raise the standards of the people irrespective of the region they hail from. But it is also aware that the hilly and less accessible areas needed special attention. Therefore, she said, more funds have been allocated in the plan for developing these areas.

Mrs Gandhi pointed out that the strength of a country lies in how people from different regions following different cultures come together to take the country forward. She referred to Nagaland having the culture of its own and Christianity being its dominant religion. Mrs Gandhi said despite these differences, the people of Nagaland are part of a bigger unit. She assured the people of the state that her government wants to preserve the identity and heritage of the people of Nagaland. Mrs Gandhi also had a word of praise for the defense forces who are doing their job in the northeastern region.

UN REPRESENTATIVE COMMENTS ON KAMPUCHEA VOTE

BK261307 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] In a statement, India's permanent representative, M. Krishnan, said that reservations about Israel's credentials are the direct result of the refusal by Israel to comply with UN resolutions. He said it also reflects the brutal aggression by Israel against Lebanon and the Palestinians.

On a debate on Kampuchea, India told the General Assembly that it would have liked the world body allow the People's Republic of Kampuchea to join the United Nations. Kirshnan regretted that the United Nations does not seem to be ready yet to see the reality. India, he said, recognizes the Government of the People's Republic of Kampuchea as the legal and legitimate government. The delegation of the so-called Democratic Kampuchea, he pointed out, is a delegation without a capital or a country. It represents a coalition which is none other than the universally discredited and condemned regime of Pol Pot.

The General Assembly had rejected a move initiated jointly by nearly a dozen countries, including India, to unseat the so-named Democratic Republic of Kampuchea. The voting was 29 in favor, 90 against and 26 abstentions.

HAQ COMMENTS TO NEWSMEN ON DPRK COOPERATION

BK261301 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] President Mohammad Ziaul Haq had another meeting with President Kim Il-song in Pyongyang yesterday afternoon. Later, talking to Pakistani newsmen, he said that the DPRK president had offered Pakistan his country's know-how and expertise in improving methods of rice cultivation and irrigation. The president said that he had accepted the offer. He said it would be useful for the two countries to cooperate in as many fields as possible. The president said he had suggested to President Kim Il-song that both countries should pay greater attention to trade and commerce. He said that Pakistan will soon begin exporting cement and fertilizers, which it used to purchase from the DPRK. He said that he had informed the Korean president that Pakistan was in a position to export cotton and fabrics to his country as well as other things.

He said one important outcome of his talks with President Kim Il-song was the decision by the two countries to sign an agreement for cooperation in the fields of trade, science and technology.

He said his visit to the DPRK will help in further developing friendly relations and cooperation between the two countries. The most important aspect of this visit is that it has promoted mutual understanding and friendship between President Kim Il-song and myself. He said personal contacts prove effective and helpful in consolidating individual and collective relationships.

Referring to the DPRK's stand on the Afghanistan issue, the president said that the DPRK, as a member of the Nonaligned Movement, adheres to the principles of the movement, supports its resolutions and shares the same concerns other countries have about the Afghanistan problem. However, he said, every country makes decisions according to its own situation, reservations and priorities.

About Kampuchea, he said that the DPRK's stand in this regard is well-known and it has opposed Vietnamese intervention in that country.

BK261632 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 1500 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has said that his visits to China and the DPRK have been extremely successful. He was addressing a news conference at Islamabad Airport today on his return from a 10-day official visit to these two countries. The president said both China and the DPRK highly commend Pakistan's policies and effects, which aim at defending and consolidating regional and world peace and security. He said he felt both in China and the DPRK that these two countries have deep sentiments of affection and well-being for the people and Government of Pakistan.

About his visit to China, the president said the Chinese leaders want to further promote friendship with Pakistan, which has withstood all the tests of time. China is a trustworthy friend of Pakistan's and the roots of our relations reach from the top leaders to the common people. Asked about the setting up of a joint commission, the president said it aims to strengthen the friendship between the two countries at all levels and consolidate and formalize our relations. The setting up of the joint commission is a step toward providing a permanent base for relations between the two countries.

Referring to his visit to the DPRK, the president said he exchanged views with President Kim Il-song on international and bilateral matters and both countries have identical views on many international issues. He said that the unprecedented welcome accorded to him in Pyongyang reflected the great feelings of affection and well-being for Pakistan in the hearts of the Korean people. He said he was greatly impressed by the DPRK's progress, the key to which lies in their patriotism, self-confidence and discipline. He said our religion, Islam, also emphasizes these things, which are essential for progress.

Answering a question, the president said during his talks in Beijing, the Afghanistan issue came up for detailed discussion and China continues to support Pakistan's stand on this issue. He said as far the DPRK's stand on Afghanistan is concerned, that country is a very active member of the Nonaligned Movement. This movement has approved a clear-cut resolution on the Afghanistan issue which reflects the nonaligned countries' opinion and aspirations regarding this issue. There is no need for further clarification in this connection.

The president said that Pakistan wants to settle this issue on the basis of the four principles envisaged in resolutions adopted by the Islamic Conference Organization, the Nonaligned Movement and the UN General Assembly. The president emphasized that the Afghan people should be included in solving this issue. He said the Afghanistan issue is an international issue created by foreign military intervention and can only be solved through the withdrawal of foreign troops.

When asked about his forthcoming visit to New Delhi, the president said he will make a brief stopover in New Delhi while on his way to visit a few Southeast Asian countries, which will give him an opportunity to exchange views with Indian Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi. He said there is no fixed agenda for the talks. The meeting will be a further attempt in connection with the normalization of relations between India and Pakistan. He added that normalization of relations with India is the fundamental element of our foreign policy.

Answering a question on Kashmir, President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq said this issue can be solved within the framework of UN resolutions and in accordance with the spirit of the Simla Agreement.

About his forthcoming visit to the United States, the president said he is looking forward to his meeting and holding talks with President Reagan on the 7th of December. There is no agenda for talks with him but we will hold talks on bilateral and multilateral issues and all other issues of mutual concern.

DAILY WARNS AGAINST GOVERNMENT 'STATE OF SIEGE'

GF231427 Islamabad THE MUSLIM in English 14 Oct 82 p 4

[Editorial: "Of Terrorism and Terrorists"]

[Text] In the course of yesterday's debate in the Federal Council on the increasing incidence of armed violence in the country, the interior minister gave some details regarding terrorists and the efforts being made to counter this threat. The interior minister said that 650 persons accused of subversive acts against 95, out of which 21 were handed out convictions. He added that anti-terrorist squads had been formed, while some senior police officers had been sent abroad for advanced training.

The minister's speech invited more questions than it answered. By stating quite clearly that subversion was sponsored externally, a number of countries are implicated indirectly. The people would like to know the names, whether the government has raised this question in its bilateral ties with the states involved. Rather regrettably, the whole tone of the minister's address had an alarmist under-current which tended to give the impression as if a "state of siege" exists within the country. This was backed by a strong plea for a more modernised and better equipped police force.

It would be unfortunate if senior functionaries of the government got panicky and started having a siege mentality, which can only be harmful to themselves and the nation as a whole. The police in this country already enjoys wide-ranging powers of arrest, search and interrogation which are sustained by the laws of the land and a whole array of security agencies. In fact, more often than not, the common man of this country -- with no strings to pull and no wealth to bribe -- has to seek protection from the police itself! This was even stated by the president in so many words while relating the incident of a person who sought his intervention in a case of fraud.

The figure of 650 jailed terrorists seems to be rather high for a country where organised acts of sabotage are a relatively-recent phenomenon. Does 650 include only those who were directly involved in terrorism or those also who have been rounded up as accomplices or sympathisers? In its zeal to curb this growing menace the police may not be able to draw the line between actual perpetrators of terrorism and those who might have a political difference of opinion with the government.

The important thing to focus on in this situation is avoidance of hasty action or application of unrestrained force, where other methods could be more effective. Strengthening the police should not be done in a vacuum without mobilising public opinion. Such an approach would only be counter-productive and detract from the objectives which the government has set for itself in countering subversion. Additionally, whatever is done in the pursuit of this objective should be undertaken within the framework of the rule of law and norms of justice.

LD261724 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] On the eve of Hoseyn's 'ashura [anniversary of Hoseyn's death], mercenaries of Saddam's Ba'thist-Zionist regime launched an air raid on residential districts of the steadfast city of Dezful this morning. They attacked the city with air-to-ground missiles. Our correspondent from the Islamic Republic of Iran Voice and Vision at Dezful has dispatched a report concerning this, to which we draw your attention:

At 1130 the barbaric Saddamists attacked the martyrbearing and resistant city of Dezful once again and on the eve of 'ashura murdered some of Hoseyn's mourners. The people of Dezful, who were actively preparing themselves for tasu'a and 'ashura, heard a loud bang a few minutes before lunchtime. After this big bang, which shook the city, people rushed to the scene of the incident to help the victims. They revived Hoseyn's 'ashura by chanting the slogan "O Mohammad."

Relief work continues and, according to the latest report before the communication of this report, the number of wounded is 110; more than 20 are martyred. Most of the victims are women and children; a large number of houses, shops and cars were severely damaged in this incident.

Its impact could be felt at the range of two kms from the actual target.

At one spot one baker, identified as Mansur Moshtaravi, who lost four members of his family was looking for his family members. Talking to the IRNA the baker said that "my faith in the Islamic revolution has now become stronger."

While the baker was looking for his family members he found a painting at one spot which was drawn by his 8-year-old sister. The painting, which was made by his sister, depicted the war scene and certain slogans praising the martyrs during the imposed war.

Musavi Message

LD261928 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Following the air attack launched today by the mercenaries of the Zionist Ba'thist regime of Saddam against the residential parts of the resistant city of Dezful, carried out by aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Army and by air-to-ground missiles, Mr Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, the prime minister, tonight sent a telephone message as follows:

[Begin recording] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Heroic citizens of Dezful, sisters and brothers:

Your heroic resistance over more than 2 years of barbarous onslaught by the pro-U.S. Saddamist regime is a cause for hope for our nation and for our country's zealous combatants. You are people who never bowed your heads to the fiery bullets of the shah's regime, and after the downfall of the shah you became the targets of the dastardly and murderous attacks of the Ba'thist army. But you have resisted.

Today, too, on the eve of the Husaynite 'ashura, the Saddamist regime, using its missiles and aircraft, turned you into targets in order to weaken, as they imagined in vain, the firm resolve of our intrepid combatants. However, our Islamic revolution has proved that in our country every time a man or woman is rolled in his blood hundreds of people rise up for battle.

You, heroic citizens, have now placed the oppressive enemy on the threshold of definite defeat. Today's bombardment of your city has demonstrated to all the world's peoples and those in the United Nations and in other international organizations who have any pretentions to peace that peace cannot be established in the region except through the destruction of Saddam's regime.

Saddam's latest crime shall make the slogan "War, war till victory" reverberate even more strongly in our nation. We are certain that our brave sons, who are faithful to Islam, shall avenge the pure blood of the martyrs of Dezful and other oppressed cities in Khuzestan, Ilam, Bakhtaran, Lorestan and Hamadan. With their telling blows they shall hold a new destiny for the Islamic region.

A salute and glory to you who, despite tragedy and destruction, have clutched at the rope of God, shouted the slogan "God is great" at the top of your voice, used your insight fully to detect the guilty hands of the superpowers in these crimes and have not forgotten to chant the slogan "Death to the United States."

Together with the imam of the era, may God Almighty hasten his esteemed advent, the imam of the nation and leader of the revolution and the great nation of Iran and your government of the Islamic Republic of Iran congratulate you and extend their condolences, brothers and sisters, on the martyrdom of your dear ones and hereby declare that we shall use all our capabilities to achieve the victory of our brave combatants on the front, God willing.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,091

LD261722 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,091 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. An exchange of fire continued yesterday on the country's western fronts and Islam's victorious combatants opened artillery, tank and katyusha fire on enemy positions and units, silencing their fire and preventing activities and movements of the Saddamist forces and inflicting losses and casualties on them.

During the successful operations on 23 October, Islam's heroes and selfless combatants dispatched patrol groups and opened intense artillery fire on Iraq's Qazanfar and Sayyid Sadiq Garrisons, inflicting such heavy losses and casualties on the criminal Saddamist hirelings that most buildings in the Qazanfar Garrison were destroyed; their ammunition hut also was set ablaze. The sound of intense explosions, flames, smoke and the movements of Iraqi ambulances in the region were indicative of the enormity of the casualties, the numerous dead and wounded among the Iraqis. During these operations, large numbers of vehicles belonging to the Iraqi mercenaries together with their servicemen were destroyed.

We have not yet received accurate information as to the losses and casualties suffered by the Sayyid Sadiq Garrison in Iraq. During these successful operations, Islam's combatants, after carrying out their mission, all returned safely to their bases.

On the southern fronts, Islam's victorious combatants defended the positions controlled by them and returned the fire of the Saddamist mercenaries, thus consolidating their positions even more. During the exchange of fire on the Khorramshahr front, the gendarmerie combatants retaliated by opening fire on enemy positions and units and inflicted losses and casualties on enemy troops.

At 1245 today, the city of Dezful was subjected to a rocket attack by the Saddamist criminals, as a result of which a number of our dear compatriots in that city were either martyred or wounded; a number of houses also were destroyed.

The city of Abadan also was subjected to heavy arms fire by the aggressive Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries yesterday, resulting in the destruction of a number of houses and stores and injury to one (?child) in the city's stadium region.

AFP REPORT ON CONTRIBUTION TO IAEA REBUTTED

LD262028 Tehran IRNA in English 1913 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct. 26 IRNA -- The Iran Atomic Energy Organisation today refuted the reports of French news agency, AFP, in which it quoted the international atomic energy organisation official who said that Iran did not formally convey its offer to the agency to cover the U.S. contribution following that country's withdrawal from the agency.

The U.S. announced early this month that it will withdraw from the agency and stop payment of its contribution following the ouster of the Zionist regime from that world body. A recent report from Vienna, Austria, quoting officials has claimed that Iran has not delivered an official note to the agency. The report has further added that the Islamic Republic of Iran had not paid its membership contribution for 1980 to the agency as well as the fees for 1981 and 1982.

Referring to the statement made by the Iranian Majlis speaker, 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani, on the subject of suspension of membership of the Zionist regime from the agency and the U.S. Government threat on suspension of its share to the agency, the statement said that the materialisation of the proposal made by Iran depended on the factor that the U.S. officially informed the agency's authorities of its withdrawal from the agency and refusal to pay its membership fee.

The statement further added the Islamic Republic Government, through its representative in the agency, had informed its officials of the readiness of Iran to pay a sum of one million dollars to the agency in case the U.S. stopped paying its share to the agency.

Therefore, it added, claims made by imperialist news agencies quoting the agency officials was a plot to discredit the Islamic Republic.

However, such false claims proved righteousness of the positions adopted by Iran, while degraded enemies of humanity.

As for the payment of Iran's membership fee to the organisation, the statement said that members payment to the agency was decided by each country's per capita income. Under the former regime, in an effort to draw a prosperous picture of the country, it was boasted that Iran's per capita income was higher and correct figure for per capita income was not given. Following the victory of the Islamic revolution of Iran, the Iranian Government has requested the agency to study the issue and decide on its membership fee according to the real figures, so that the membership fees would be paid accordingly.

In another part, the statement referred to a recent proposal made by President 'Ali Khamene'i in a letter to the chairman of the Non-aligned Movement, Cuban President Fidel Castro, concerning establishment of a special fund to (?bring) international organisations out of U.S. domination. President Khamene'i suggested that members of the movement should (?raise a fund so the U.S. would not be able to) threaten these organisations by withdrawal of its financial support.

MIZO INSURGENTS KILL POLICEMEN IN AMBUSH

BK261701 Hong Kong AFP in English 1536 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct [date as received] (AFP) -- Six members of the para-military Central Reserve Police (CRP) force were killed in an ambush by suspected Mizo insurgents on Monday at Tipaimukh in the northeastern State of Manipur, near the border with the adjacent State of Mizoram, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported today.

PTI quoted official sources at Imphal, Manipur's capital, as saying that the extremists belonging to the outlawed Mizo National Front (MNF) fired at the CRP group using automatic weapons and carried away one pistol, five rifles and large quantity of ammunition after the incident.

The sources noted that a number of MNF members had recently infiltrated into Mizo-inhabited areas of Manipur from Mizoram, their native land where they have been waging an underground struggle for independence.

A round-the-clock vigil was being kept along the Manipur-Mizoram border following the reported Mizo infiltration into the first state, the sources added.

JASARAT URGES ISLAMIC PARTIES TO UNITE

GF261012 Karachi JASARAT in Urdu 18 Oct 82 p 3

[Editorial: "If This Happens...."]

[Text] The present political vacuum is progressively presaging fearsome events. In this alarming situation, just by blaming the government or demanding the restoration of political activity, the future calamity of this dangerous political vacuum cannot be averted or delayed for long. However, along with demanding the restoration of political activity, the politicians also should make preparations that will enable them to assume responsibility as soon as the ban on political activity is lifted. For this purpose, the forces of positive political activity should become active without further delay. If no such preparations are made, the political sector may be lost to the anarchists and, in that event, all popular expectations will come to naught.

With this background in view and expressing frustration over the inaction of the political parties, a prominent politican and leader of the Islamic movement, Prof Abdul Ghafur Ahmad, president of Jama'at-e Islami, has recently said that the gulf between the various political parties is widening and little understanding and cooperation is developing. He has said that in the previous National Assembly, political parties cooperated in the struggle for restoration of political rights. However, he said, today there is a gulf existing among them. While drawing attention to this situation, Professor Ghafur Ahmad has appealed to politicians to bridge this gulf in the greater interest of the nation. They should not work to reopen issues long decided nor should they widen the already existing breech.

Professor Ghafur Ahmad also has pointed out the elements preventing the closing of ranks among the proreligion politicians. He said certain religious parties with whom certain clergymen are also associated, having lost sight of their objective, are busy maligning the Jama'at-e Islami, and these elements, instead of working for the glory of the faith, do little else but shoot darts at Jama'at-e Islami. It would be more appropriate if these elements had engaged in struggle against the antireligious and communist elements. He has said that some religious parties have turned the mosques into centers of trouble and disputation.

The past experience of the general public proves there is some truth in Professor Ghafur Ahmad's statement. The situation he described is making the general public intolerant of clergymen and is helping nurture the growth of the antireligious forces. The situation also is causing alarm among religious elements. In this connection, Maulana Zahid al-Rashidi, leader of Jamiatul Ulema-i-Islam also has expressed his concern in similar terms.

In our opinion, the sincere elements working for the glory of Islam should get together and set up their ranks apart from the government and the vengeful elements engaged in opposing the government. And, if a very wide-based unity cannot be forged at present, only the Jama'at-e Islami and Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam and elements having views similar to these two parties should forge a common platform without delay, leaving aside the other political elements. Such a united platform may form a base for a future, wider union. However, the inclusion of the Muslim League Party in such a union should not be ruled out summarily.

NEW MARTIAL LAW REGULATION ANNOUNCED

GF270825 Karachi DAWN in English 24 Oct 82 p 12

[Text] As a part of all-out efforts to curb and eliminate lawlessness from the country, the CMLA [chief martial law administrator] has promulgated MLR [Martial Law Regulation] 54 which will be deemed to have come into effect from July 5, 1977, says an official handout.

One of the salient provisions of this regulation is the onus of responsibility it puts on the harbourers and abettors of lawless elements.

In this context, the Provincial Home Department, in a press release, issued yesterday, has emphasised this aspect of the law for the general information of the public.

The press release, inter alia, says that any person or persons who may be aiding, helping or providing any assistance including shelter, food, drink or any implement, instrument, or firearm of any kind to any dacoit, robber, terrorist, proclaimed offender or any other person who has either committed or intends to commit or is likely to commit an offence liable to cause insecurity or fear among the public or affect public tranquillity, will be punished with death or any other punishment as has been provided for in MLO-5 [Martial Law Order-5].

Any person who has any information regarding the whereabouts of a dacoit, robber or terrorist or proclaimed offender, is required to provide it to the nearest police station or martial law authority. Failure to do so would render him liable for action under this law which carries the maximum penalty of death.

[Text] The president told the Cabinet today that he proposed to ask the people to a referendum to extend the term of office of the present Parliament by 6 years from August 1983. VELAYATI ON ALGIERS AGREEMENT, IRAQI STAND

LD270924 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] 'Ali Akabar Velayati, minister of foreign affairs, has been interviewed by our correspondent. He announced the position of the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran vis-a-vis the claims of the Iraqi regime concerning the acceptance of the 1975 Algerian agreement.

In this connection, Velayati said: The claim concerning the acceptance of peace terms is being put forward by a regime that only yesterday, by bombing the residential areas of Dezful and Ilam, martyred and injured scores of our innocent compatriots. Velayati added: At the beginning of his extensive aggression and the imposed war, Saddam, with the intention of destroying the Islamic Republic and through dependence upon the imaginary power of his mercenary army and the support of America and the reactionary regimes of the region, unilaterally declared the 1975 agreement to be null and void and set claim to full sovereignty over the Armand Rud.

However, after more than 2 years of crime, plunder and destruction, the defensive operations of the heroic forces of Islam have repulsed the aggressive forces of Saddam from most of the occupied lands and have captured more than 40,000 of the deceived forces of Saddam. Now, humbly withdrawn from his former positions and, through the complete support of world arrogance and imperialist media, he claims to be in favor of peace.

The foreign minister of our country said: The humiliating change in the positions of the Ba'thist regime of Iraq makes it clear to world public opinion and to true peace-lovers how international agreements and treaties have been made into playthings in the hands of powerseeking and aggressive Iraqi criminals and how much importance one can attach to the sincerity of such claims.

The Islamic Republic of Iran announces that significant parts of Islamic Republic's western territory are still under the occupation of Iraqi forces and that every day, like yesterday, scores of innocent people in our towns and villages are thrown into the dust and dirt and their homes are destroyed by the fire of Saddam's forces.

The Islamic Republic of Iran regards itself committed to the blood of the martyrs who, with their pure bodies, have prevented continuation of aggression by the Ba'thists. We will realize their aspirations as long as 1 inch of Islamic territory is under the occupation of the Iraqi aggressors and as long as the legitimate conditions of our nation have not been met.

MONTAZERI COMMENTS ON IRAQI BOMBING, WAR

LD271356 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Following the savage air raids by Iraqi planes on Dezful and Ilam and the bombing of the residential districts of these two towns, His Great Eminence Ayatollah Montazeri referred in a message to the vast dimensions of the crimes committed by the Ba'thist Zionist regime of Iraq and the futile efforts of the United States and world oppression to save Saddam from certain downfall. He announced:

Our brave nation, inspired by the bloody message of Karbala' [the martyrdom of Imam Hoseyn and 72 others], has prepared itself to sacrifice everything and to resist future difficulties.

Our courageous combatants who are the flagbearers of Karbala' uprising are determined to rely on God and to seek the assistance of the lord of martyrs in dealing their final crushing blow and taking revenge for the blood of the dear martyrs from Ba'thist criminals. The text of the message sent by Ayatollah Montazeri is:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Simultaneous with the 'ashura of Hoseyn and at a time when preparations are underway for mourning ceremonies and reviving the glorious memory of the self-sacrifice of the lord of the martyrs and his loyal sons and friends, once again our resistant and champion towns have become the targets of Saddam's new crimes and numbers of our Muslim brothers and sisters have been either martyred or wounded. This crime is committed at a time when Saddam the liar, while still holding on to large parts of our country, in unison with his treacherous bosses and friends, has filled the ears of the world with his peace-seeking pretentions. He has mobilized all dishonest media and all propaganda aids of imperialism and Zionism to hide his lies, to cover the aggressions of the 'Aflaqi Ba'thist Party and to misrepresent the Islamic Republic regime. America and its allies are trying to prevent the fall of Saddam and the blasphemous Ba'thist Party of Iraq, which have drowned the region in blood and have tipped the military balance of Islamic countries in favor of usurping Israel.

The selfless nation of Iran which has been subjected to aggression by the blasphemous Iraqi Government has prepared itself to repulse this aggression and to liberate the Muslim nation of Iraq, and it would never contemplate the occupation of another country. Important to our nation is to protect Islam and to get rid of this criminal and infidel party. History shows that, as long as this party is ruling over Iraq, the Middle East region will not enjoy peace; Israel, this cancerous tumor of the region, will become stronger every day and increasingly will threaten Islam and Muslims. Saddam and the 'Aflaqi Ba'thist Party should fall by the hands of the forces of Islam and the Muslim nation of Iraq should take the destiny of their country into their own hands. All Muslims of the world, united in their efforts, should be mobilized to liberate dear Jerusalem -- only then would the Islamic Republic not ask for reparations and would give its unreserved material and spiritual support to the nation of Iraq. Of course, it is this implementation of Islam in Iraq that has terrorized America and its allies since Islam cuts the hands of international thieves and plunderers and encourages Muslim nations to make progress and become independent and self-reliant.

Our courageous combatants, the flagbearers of the Karbala' uprising, are determined to continue to the final victory, relying on God and seeking the assistance of the lord of the martyrs; maintaining their unity and coordination, they will deal the final crushing blow to the enemy of God and the people, answering the divine call of "Is there a succorer who will render succor to them? which echoes in history, and they will take revenge for the dear martyrs of Ba'thist criminals and save the Muslim nation of Iraq.

Peace and God's benediction be upon you, Tasu'a 1982.

ARMED FORCES JOINT COMMUNIQUE NO 1,092

LD271740 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,092 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. God's greetings and blessings be upon the lord of the martyrs and master of the free people of the world, his great eminence Aba 'Abdullah al-Hoseyn, may peace be upon him, and his loyal friends who through the epic of 'ashura taught us the lesson of resistance and struggle against falsehood and the victory of blood against sword; they gave eternal life to the Islamic religion by sacrificing their own pure blood.

On the occasion of the Hosenite 'ashura -- the anniversary of the martyrdom of the lord of the martyrs, his great eminence Husayn ibn 'Ali, may peace be upon him -- the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran offers condolences to the imam of the era, may God hasten his lofty advent, and to his esteemed deputy, Imam Khomeyni, and to the heroic and martyr-rearing umma' of Iran, and we beseech Almighty God to grant final victory to the combatants of Islam.

During the past 24 hours, exchange of heavy artillery fire continued in the western operational sector of the country. On this region's fronts, our heroic combatants defended their own positions and, by returning enemy fire, destroyed part of the fortifications and positions of the Saddamist forces and prevented the enemy from digging trenches.

According to a report, a patrol group of our combative forces clashed with the enemy on one of the western fronts. This group, with unprecedented bravery, succeeded in routing the Saddamist forces and inflicted losses and damage on them.

Exchange of fire continued in the Paveh and Musian regions; our forces were superior. Thanks to artillery fire by the combatants of Islam, the enemy suffered heavy losses and its artillery fire was silenced.

During exchange of fire in the southern operational sector, our combative forces pounded enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud with their heavy artillery. As a result, Iraqi movements were halted and several of Saddam's troops were either killed or wounded.

The enemy yesterday shelled Abadan with its long range and heavy artillery. Parts of the city were set on fire and five of our compatriots were wounded. Glory to the followers of the Koran and the justice-seeking combatants of Islam.

[Signed] The Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran

Also a number of Iraqi planes violated Abadan airspace to bomb residential places, which were forced to escape by the fire of the Islamic combatants.

Meanwhile, exchange of fire continued on both sides of Arvand River during which the Iranian forces killed 15 Iraqis and injured several others, as well as destroying two Iraqi group bunkers and setting on fire one of their fuel tanks.

REJECTION OF ISRAELI UN EXPULSION CRITICIZED

LD271358 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Following the revolutionary proposal by the Islamic Republic of Iran for the expulsion of the Zionist regime from the UN General Assembly and the announcement by the assembly president to take a vote on the Iranian proposal, Finland's representative proposed that a vote be taken on the proposal that the motion presented by the Islamic Republic of Iran concerning the expulsion of the Zionist regime from the UN General Assembly should be kept in abeyance.

Despite the opposition of the progressive and anti-Zionist countries of the world such as Syria, Libya and Algeria, the motion proposed by Finland was approved due to the refusal of the reactionary Arab countries to take part in the voting, as well as the positive vote of some reactionary countries such as Egypt and Tunisia and other friends of the regime occupying Jerusalem and America. In this way, with the collaboration of the reactionary Arab regimes who, in pursuance of the Camp David agreement and the resolutions of the Fes conference, are in favor of peaceful coexistence with Israel, the revolutionary proposal by Iran for the expulsion of the Zionist regime from the UN General Assembly was rejected.

According to political observers, by indirectly rejecting Iran's proposal due to the fear of their own nations, the reactionary Arab regimes directly voted for the presence of the regime occupying Jerusalem in the United Nations.

GF271656 Tehran IRNA in English 1545 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 27, IRNA -- Interior Minister 'Ali Akbar Nateq-Nuri said here today that the Islamic Republic of Iran had not so far withdrawn materialisation of its conditions to end the Iraqi imposed war and would not do so in future.

Nuri, speaking in a mourning ceremony held on Tehran's Sarcheshmen Ave. this morning to mark Tasu'a (9th of Muharram), stressed that the Islamic Republic was proud of pioneering the fight against international oppression. The Iranian nation, he added, was resisting all "right and left" conspiracies.

The minister, lauding Islamic combatants for their confrontation with counterrevolutionaries in Kordestan, said that any slow-down or strike, even under a revolutionary pretext, was a treason to Islam. He hoped that bottlenecks and shortcomings would be removed and opportunists would be punished soon.

During the ceremony mourners prayed long life for Imam Khomeyni and victory for the Islamic combatants and called for the continuation of the war until the achievement of final victory over Iraqi aggressor forces.

COMMANDER SAYS COUNTERREVOLUTION BEING ROUTED

LD272142 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that the commander of the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada Headquarters has announced: In the regions of Western Azarbayjan and Kordestan, counterrevolution is being completely routed. Owing to the efforts of the Islamic combatants, no safe region has been left for the minigroups that are America's mercenaries.

The commander of the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada Headquarters, who made a speech on the eve of Husayn's Tasu'a at a gathering of combative people, Guards Corps, mobilization personnel and army forces at the Great Mosque of Urumiyeh, announced: With the establishment of the these headquarters, counterrevolution in the region has received heavy blows from the Islamic combatants; the united counterrevolution front is totally disintegrating and its leaders are fleeing across the borders.

He added: With the establishment of the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada Headquarters, which made the counterrevolution embark on desperate struggles, the outlawed armed minigroups intended to mobilize their forces and tried to stop this new raging movement of the Islamic combatants.

However, we saw that the region's committed people and our Kurdish Muslim brothers withstood this intention of the counterrevolution and that, through the guidance of the region's militant and aware clergymen, they disappointed these mercenaries of the aliens.

Continuing his speech, the commander of the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada Headquarters recalled: With the quick operations launched by these headquarters, we are now certain that the counterrevolution's united front has been severely defeated by two flanks: the people, who have proved that they are faithful supporters of the Islamic Republic and who will never give an opportunity to counterrevolution; and the Islamic combatants, including the brother guards, army and mobilization and other popular forces, which in the last 2 weeks have dealt heavy blows to the counterrevolution's decaying body, which have tightened the stranglehold throughout the region, and which have blocked its supply routes on the Iraqi borders.

The commander of the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada Headquarters said he considers these successful operations the result of the blessed blood of the Islamic combatants. He also mentioned that in the near future more fatal blows will be dealt to the counterrevolution's body, saying that he hopes the remnants of counterrevolutionary minigroups will come to their senses in the next few days and by surrendering to the powerful forces of Islam would find themselves a shelter, otherwise the Islamic combatants would not leave them alone.

BAZARGAN REPORTEDLY BOYCOTTING MAJLIS

GF251156 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 0330 GMT 25 Oct 82

[Text] According to a report by our correspondent, Mehdi Bazargan, Khomeyni's first illegal prime minister, and a number of his colleagues, continue to boycott the antinational Majlis sessions. This is at a time when a bill that was approved on Thursday in the Majlis states that any member remaining absent for long periods will be considered to have resigned and will lose his credentials as a deputy.

Our correspondent who broke this story in a special report stresses that the sole aim of this bill is to expel Bazargan and other competitors of the regime from the Majlis and complete their final suppression. We wish to add that the approval of such a bill, which is a reflection of antiquated daily registration in schools, is unprecedented in the history of the world's parliaments even though we cannot call a Majlis ordered by Khomeyni a parliament. If the absence of Bazargan and his colleagues continues, it will be taken into account from Sunday onward. However, there is a possibility of intermittent attendance by the members of Nehzat-e Azadi to Majlis sessions so that they will not lose their seats.

MADANI EXPLAINS REASONS FOR LEAVING COUNTRY

PM251057 Riyadh AL-JAZIRAH in Arabic 17 Oct 82 p 12

[Admiral Ahmed Madani, former chief of staff, interview with 'Uthman al-'Amir in Paris -- date not given]

[Excerpts] Since he left Iran, he has been living in West Germany as a political refugee. We met in Paris. Our meeting lasted 2 hours. He spoke of his desire to move to the United States.

I asked Admiral Madani, who is known in the Western press as an outspoken man because of his incessant statements and speeches when he was in Iran, why did you withdraw from the limelight?

He said: When I was in Iran, I acted on the basis of my right as a leader and presidential candidate but now I do not appear on television or in other media because I believe that working silently is the best way to achieve the goal I am seeking.

[Question] Did you leave Iran because you failed in the presidential elections?

[Answer] I was one of the powerful and active people who worked against the shah's regime and contributed to the launching of the revolution from my important position. I was active in my work and was struggling and am still struggling to bring real revolution to all the people.

[Question] Why then did you leave Iran and choose to live in West Germany?

[Answer] I came to the conclusion that the people with whom I was dealing were not sincere in what they were claiming to achieve and that what they are doing does not serve the country and the citizens. I realized this in the last 2 years and I therefore began to oppose and differ with them. I asked them why they were against the principles of the real revolution and the teachings of Islam. Time and time again, I became convinced that I could not live in Iran.

[Question] Were you afraid of assassination or execution?

[Answer] I am not afraid of assassination or execution. However, I do not want to die so cheaply and in the fashion being carried out by Khomeyni's regime. I am prepared to die, but in an honorable way.

For this reason, I left the country. When I left, I wanted to seek refuge in a neighboring country such as Egypt, Turkey, or Pakistan or any Gulf country. However, I could cause problems for the country in which I sought refuge. For this reason, I chose West Germany after secretly leaving Iran.

[Question] Will you be staying here for good?

[Answer] No. I probably will go to the United States, making visits to Europe. From the first moment, I have been planning to help my people in order to save them from this regime which has humiliated them because it is actually against Iran, against Islam, to which they claim to belong, and against the revolution for the sake of which we fought. They are selfish people who think only of themselves. That is with the exception of certain groups that could be misled and there are the innocent ones who have nothing to do with them.

[Question] Do you believe in opposition from abroad?

[Answer] No. I even reject it and I am preparing to go back to Iran. Abroad you have nothing except the media, and the media cannot convince a regime that depends on misleading and manipulating the ordinary people.

[Question] What would you have done if you had been elected president instead of Bani-Sadr?

[Answer] If I had been elected, I would have been one like them. As you know, I faced a major conspiracy that led to me being kept away from the Presidency.

[Question] Now both you and Bani-Sadr are in exile. Both of you contested the Presidency. While he succeeded, you failed because many factors worked against you. Will you now get together? Could you possibly both be on the same list?

[Answer] First, I am not against Bani-Sadr but I cannot get together with him in the same direction. Bani-Sadr's difference with Khomeyni was not over principles but over influence.

[Question] You do not get together with the royalists or with Bani-Sadr although all of you are opposed to the regime. This is not understood.

[Answer] I am not a royalist. I am not against them except when they want to force the people to accept something they don't want. I also am not with the other side that wants to force the people to be republican. I adopt my stands on the basis of the people's desires. If the people accept the royalist trend, then I am with them and if not, I am with them too.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS IN EAST AZARBAYJAN CITED

GF231705 Tehran IRNA in English 1630 GMT 23 Oct 82

[Text] Tabriz, Oct 23, IRNA -- Hoseyn Taheri, the governor general of East-Azarbayjan Province, said today that a preliminary contract for the purchase of a cement factory, an industrial lime factory, and package factory from Turkey has been prepared and he said that construction of the factories would begin about the end of winter, 1983.

Taheri said that this year's agricultural production in the province, especially fruits and dried fruits is higher than last year and this, he added, had created difficulties in storage facilities, including cold storage houses. As for this year's grain crop, he said that grain production had only reached last year's level, since large portions of the Moghan agro-industry lands were not cultivated this year. However, he said, that with the provision of technical and material assistance for the farmers next year, more land could be used for grain plantation.

On the province's electricity needs, Taheri said several plans were under study to build in a number of large rivers including one in Khodafarin, near the border with the Soviet Union, and one in Arastu. Also, the large power plant in Tabriz is nearing completion and a 100 megawatt natural gas power plant in Sufian is also under construction, while 600 kilowatt electrical line from Zanjan to Tabriz is being installed.

The governor general concluded that only 40 to 50 percent of the development budget of the province had been spent this year, because of issues concerning construction material, machinery, equipment and manpower while a few offices such as roads and energy had used up 50 to 60 percent of their annual budget.

29 OCTOBER 1982

Lebanon

Withdrawal of Foreign Forces -- President Amin al-Jumayyil and Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan met in Beirut with U.S. Deputy Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper and U.S. Ambassador in Beirut Robert Dillon to discuss U.S. proposals for the new phase of foreign troop withdrawals, Beirut radio reported. Prime Minister al-Wazzan said the deliberations had been "lengthy and comprehensive" and the foundations for withdrawal talks had been laid. According to the radio, Al-Wazzan added that although President al-Jumayyil's recent tour and his talks with President Reagan had created "a new atmosphere and new elements," Lebanon continues to support the implementation of the UN Security Council resolution calling for unconditional Israeli withdrawal from Lebanese territory. Although Monte Carlo radio reported on 27 October that a Phalangist delegation had met with Syrian President Hafiz al-Asad in Damascus, reportedly to discuss troop withdrawals, Phalangist party leader Pierre al-Jumayyil denied that any delegation has visited Syria, Voice of Lebanon reported.

Lebanese-Palestinian Summit -- Head of the PLO Information Department Yasir 'Abd Rabbuh stated that a Lebanese-Palestinian summit will be held during President al-Jumayyil's upcoming tour of several Arab capitals, Monte Carlo radio reported. The PLO official added that the Palestinian leadership attaches great importance to this summit and that they are willing to consider arrangements on the military situation in Lebanon with a view to preserving Palestinian-Lebanese relations.

Begin stated that Israel "insists" on these conditions and that the United States has agreed that Syrian and Israeli forces will leave Lebanon at the same time. In a further report on Begin's remarks carried by Jerusalem television, Begin said Israel has peace on all of its borders as a result of the IDF's actions. He claimed that peaceful relations do exist despite "all of the difficulties and all the negative things we know about." Begin added that Israel's mission in the near future is to ensure that Judaea, Samaria and the Gaza Strip are never handed over to foreign rule.

Draper Negotiations -- Jerusalem radio reported that U.S. envoy Morris Draper is to discuss IDF withdrawal from Lebanon with Israeli leaders on 29 October. PLO

Addressing a news conference in Rome following his return from Tunis, where he met with PLO Executive Chairman Yasir 'Arafat, the PLO representative in Rome stated that the PLO intends to propose starting a dialogue with all Israeli forces willing to enter negotiations, ANSA reported. The PLO representative said this proposal will be introduced in November to the Palestine National Council. An Israeli Labor Party spokesman said the party is ready to negotiate with any Palestinian element that will strive for peace, recognize Israel and refrain from terror, but the party does not believe the PLO meets these qualifications, Jerusalem radio reported.

Egypt

Prime Minister's Remarks -- In a speech at a political rally held in Asyut, Prime Minister Dr Fu'ad Muhyi ad-Din affirmed that Israeli Prime Minister Begin's policy is harming Egyptian-Israeli relations, MENA reported. According to MENA, Prime Minister Muhyi ad-Din stated that Egypt is following up U.S. President Reagan's initiative, since it contains "positive points that could be utilized," but he indicated that Egypt has "some observations" on the plan. MENA, reporting on Prime Minister Muhyi ad-Din's interview with the London-based AL-HAWADITH magazine, cited the prime minister as saying that Egyptian-Israeli relations have been heavily affected by events in Lebanon and that it is difficult to predict the future state of relations. An AL-AHRAM editorial has called for the Begin government to resign because of the "constant condemnation," MENA reported.

Border Issue -- A "responsible source" in the Egyptian Foreign Ministry stressed that Egypt is "scrupulously implementing" its obligations and "sparing no effort" to provide all security measures on the border, MENA reported.

Sudan

A Sudanese National Security Council source stated that 45 people were killed on 12 October in the border area between Kordofan and Darfur, SUNA reported. Although the events were seemingly local, the council indicated that they were caused by a "known criminal plan" designed by Sudan's enemies to harm the country's stability.

JUSTICE MINISTRY DEFECTORS SPEAK ON SOVIET ROLE

SK280619 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 27 Oct 82

[Text] Prof (Abdus Salam Azimi), director general of the Lawmaking and Research Institute in the Afghan Ministry of Justice, who has recently defected and crossed into Pakistan, has said only those laws are enacted by the institute which the Soviets wish to introduce and even the Karmal Cabinet has no power to reject a law approved by the Soviet advisers.

He said the laws being changed in Afghanistan were translated from the Soviet text and these are all in line with the foreign ideology, and there was no question of their being in conformity with Islam. Islam, he said, was mentioned only over Kabul radio and television to mislead the people.

Prof (Abdus Salam Azimi), who was previously vice chancellor of the Kabul University, said intermediate and professional degrees are given to students without examination to induce them to join the ever-decreasing armed forces of the Karmal regime. He said the Soviet troops have been greatly demoralized as they were fighting an aimless war in Afghanistan without any support of the Afghan people.

Prof (Mohammad Musa Azahiri), deputy director general of the institute, who has also defected and crossed into Pakistan, in a radio interview spoke of the shattered economy of Afghanistan due to war. He said trade and business have been badly affected and agricultural production destroyed. He said the natural resources of the country were also being exploited by the Soviets. He said the meter of the gas supply from Afghanistan to the Soviet Union was under Russian control and nobody knew about its actual consumption by the Russians.

Replying to a question, he said even in Kabul, like other provinces, there was no peace and tranquillity.

HINDU-MUSLIM RIOTS IN GUJARAT, BIHAR SPREAD

BK290828 Hong Kong AFP in English 0813 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct. 29 (AFP) -- Hindu-Moslem riots spread to new areas in western Gujarat and eastern Bihar states today, said Indian news agencies.

Authorities imposed curfew in another Gujarat town and sounded a police alert in affected areas in Bihar, said the reports.

Troops were patrolling Baroda city in Gujarat where at least five people were killed and over 40 injured in bloody rioting between Hindus and Moslems on the two previous days.

Indefinite curfew was imposed today on Himatnagar town, 880 kms (550 miles) north of Baroda following several incidents of looting and arson last night after a Moslem festival celebration, said the Press Trust of India (PTI). PTI gave no indication on the causes of the rioting.

In eastern Bihar state, police were put under maximum alert in all of the state's communal-clash prone towns.

In Raxual, bordering Nepal, over 32 persons were injured when acid was thrown into a religious procession yesterday, PTI said. Over 50 arrests were made in the case.

Similar rioting broke out in the Buddhist pilgrim city of Gaya and the north Bihar town of Motihari, the agency said.

In Gaya, a Hindu religious congregation was attacked with home-made bombs injuring over 12 people, including two women, PTI said. One person was arrested.

In Motihari, police rounded up over 30 persons for arson and stabbing incidents.

Meanwhile, the state-owned All India Radio said the situation in Baroda was well under control with no fresh incident reported since last night, the radio said, adding that the army was patrolling the streets as a precautionary measure.

MINISTER DISCUSSES OIL FIND, PACT WITH POLAND

BK241658 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 24 Oct 82

[Text] Traces of oil and gas have been found in a well in Rajaur in the Godavari onshore basin.

Minister for Energy and Petroleum Shiv Shankar told the newsmen in New Delhi today that further searches have been conducted to determine their commercial potential. He said one more rig had already reached the area for exploratory work.

The oil and natural gas commission has been asked to intensify the exploration and drilling work in the onshore and offshore Godavari basin. Shiv Shankar said that in Rajasthan also there is a good prospect of hydrocarbons in the Jaisalmer area. In Tripura, where gas was found recently, the flow has increased from 37,000 to 46,000 cubic meters a day.

The minister expressed confidence that the country will be able to achieve the target of 20.5 million tons of oil during the current year. There has been a decrease in the import of oil, resulting in a saving of 600 crore rupees in foreign exchange this year.

Shiv Shankar, who returned from Warsaw this morning after attending the seventh meeting of the Indo-Polish joint commission, said Poland has agreed to supply 400,000 tons of coking coal and 100,000 tons of sulphur to India during 1982-83. The two countries agreed to set up joint ventures in third countries, especially in the field of power equipment, machine tools and textile. Poland will also supply 13 fishing trawlers to India.

Shiv Shankar said India is already supplying a variety of items to Poland with exports working out to $51 million between January and August this year. Imports from Poland during the same period amounted to about $32 million. Poland is keen to import more items from India in view of economic sanctions applied by the West.

PAPER SEES OPPORTUNITY IN GANDHI-HAQ MEETING

BK271425 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 20 Oct 82 p 6

[Editorial: "Seize the Opportunity"]

[Text] For the first time since the Simla conference, the heads of government of India and Pakistan will be meeting in either country when President Zia stops over in Delhi on November 1 on his way to South-east Asia.

The two leaders have met in third countries where they have gone to attend international gatherings at which both have been present. But none of those encounters, useful though they might have been, was in the nature of a planned summit meeting which is what it is proposed in Delhi.

Admittedly President Zia's primary destination is not India; but since he would be traversing it en route to Malaysia both governments have welcomed a stopover in order to permit summit talks. The fact that the meeting might be brief does not in any way diminish its importance for, as the recent visit of Gen Ershad showed, personal rapport and understanding which is of the greatest importance in unravelling complex and delicate issues.

India and Pakistan have started a dialogue at the level of foreign secretaries and are also partners in the seven-nation forum which has been discussing regional cooperation in South Asia. Progress, however, has been vitiated by hoary fears and suspicions which have been fuelled by the current arms race in which the two nations are unfortunately locked. Exaggerated importance has also been given to stray comments and statements in either country which have given rise to reservations in the other.

Hopefully the meeting between Mrs. Gandhi and President Zia will clear away these cobwebs and enable the two leaders to talk to one another with complete candour and sincerity. The fact that the Pakistan president heads a military regime is no reason to avoid serious discussions for fear of "legitimising" his position. India has traditionally dealt with de facto governments and this is the only rational way to proceed.

Indo-Pakistan discord has underpinned and justified militaristic tendencies in the past and there is no doubt that a rapprochement between the two countries would be conducive to the restoration of the political process in Pakistan and enable both sides to turn their attention to the critical challenge of development which is where their true salvation lies. Economic and technical cooperation between the two countries and concerted action on other issues of common interest such as North-South relations and peace and stability in west Asia and the Gulf would be mutually beneficial.

As chairman-designate of the non-aligned conference India could also play a positive role in regard to Afghanistan and the Iran-Iraq conflict in which Pakistan is deeply interested. Mrs Gandhi has recently been in Washington and Moscow. President Zia is currently in China and will later be visiting the U.S.. They would have much to talk about.

However, the issues that divide the two sides pertain to their perceptions of one another and, more specifically, the Kashmir question, procedures for settlement of which were outlined in the Simla Agreement. The president and the prime minister could also cut through a great deal of bureaucratic red tape and obfuscating mumbo jumbo and draw up a framework for the non-aggression pact and treaty of peace and friendship that have been under discussion and institute the proposed joint commission which could work out the details and carry forward discussions on trade and exchange.

There will be many who will advise Mrs Gandhi to proceed with extreme caution and allow time for exhaustive preparation. The fact is that India and Pakistan have been waiting for that mystical moment for far too long and that relations between the two countries have consequently remained virtually frozen. The prospective summit offers an opportunity for a real breakthrough. Both countries need peace and friendship to serve their own best internal and international interests. More reason therefore for a bold initiative rather than let yet another opportunity slip.

INDIAN EXPRESS VIEWS DEFENSE PRODUCTION POLICY

BK221430 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 16 Oct 82 p 6

[Editorial: "Defence Production"]

[Text] New vistas are in sight for defence production in the country. Air Chief Marshal Dilbagh Singh recently spoke of plans to develop an air-borne warning and control system.

Although India has not so far been able to design and develop indigenously a supersonic aero-engine or main battle tank, the R&D base at home, especially in electronics, is fairly well established. Production skills are even more considerable. The proposed avionics factory to fabricate electronic gear for the Jaguar strike aircraft and new Bharat electronics units to produce equipment for medium tanks and transport aircraft including helicopters speak of the strides which the country has made and is taking. But what seems to be still lacking or inadequate is a rational policy in respect of defence production itself. Such a policy will have to be built on a realistic assessment of overall resources and skills married to well-defined purposes. Very often a defence production facility is retooled and its manpower retrained to service an aircraft, a missle or a tank which the government decides to acquire from abroad.

There is no doubt a saving of foreign exchange in the effort and augmentation of domestic skills and expertise. But it does not by itself constitute a well thought out defence production policy nor does it yield a viable defence production structure.

Two aspects are crucial for a sound defence production policy: first, is the country getting the maximum benefit from a rapidly growing and sophisticated defence production establishment with an annual turnover of about Rs 900 crores? secondly, is the fullest use being made of these facilities developed at great cost? Compartmentalisation as between the defence and civil sectors has resulted in duplication of effort, Balkanisation of the market or monopoly, and avoidable parallelism at both R&D and production levels. The accent appears to be more on achieving self-sufficiency within the defence production establishment rather than in viewing national capability as a whole. Thus valuable capacity and skills could be idle while costs mount.

Barring strictly ordnance items, which could remain in the defence sector, other elements of defence production might well be in the civil sector, public or private, and harnessed more fully to the development effort. Unfortunately, a policy of exclusive defence production inherited from an earlier period when the country's industrial infrastructure was limited has been perpetuated.

TRADE WITH CSSR -- India would export textiles to Czechoslovakia which was giving up its production, Commerce Minister Shivraj V. Patil told the Lok Sabha on 15 October. He said in reply to questions by Mrs Usha Prakash Choudhuari that Czechoslovakia was interested in more finished goods from India. Engineering exports to that country were making fast progress and efforts were being made to supply them as much as possible, he said. Patil said that two-way trade between the two countries had more than doubled from rupees 738 million in 1980 to rupees 1,610 million in 1981 and would be raised to rupees 3,000-3,500 million. The balance had been in favor of India for the last 5 years, he added. [Text] [Delhi ISI Diplomatic Information Service in English 1435 GMT 15 Oct 82 BK]

AFP Report

BK281246 Hong Kong AFP in English 1224 GMT 28 Oct 82

[By Joel Henri]

[Text] Colombo, Oct 28 (AFP) -- A massive security operation was today underway in the predominantly Tamil Jaffna region of northern Sri Lanka after four people were killed by armed men in an attack yesterday on a police station.

A curfew was immediately clamped on the region and armed patrols combed the countryside in search of the raiders, believed to be members of a Tamil revolutionary movement.

A dozen armed men made a dawn attack on the police post at Chavakacheri which was manned by Tamil policemen. Three policemen were killed in the attack as well as a prisoner in one of the cells who was hit by a stray bullet.

The raiders seized a number of weapons before fleeing into the jungle.

Survivors from the police station say they thought several of the assailants had been wounded.

Police sources said the attacking group may have belonged to the Tamil Revolutionary Council. The council has called for an armed struggle to create an independent Tamil state, known as "Eelam," for the 3 million-strong Tamil minority in the north and northeast of Sri Lanka.

The Tamil United Liberation Front (TULF), which has eight members of Parliament, promptly condemned the attack.

The Tamil Revolutionary Council deploys about 100 armed men. They have been held responsible for a number of attacks on police in Sri Lanka.

After the attacks, the raiders are believed to have taken refuge in the Tamil-populated south of India.

Meanwhile opposition parties in Colombo have vehemently protested against a decision yesterday by newly-elected President Junius Jayewardene to call a referendum in order to prolong the life of the present Parliament for another 6 years.

Mrs Sirimavo Bandaranike, former prime minister and leader of the opposition Sri Lanka Freedom Party (SLFP), said the president's move was an attempt to get around holding a general election.

'MARCHERS' ISSUE RESOLUTION ON FOREIGN POLICY

LD281314 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] In the glorious ceremonies on the occasion of Husayn's 'Ashura [when Imam Husayn was martyred] in Imam Husayn Square in Tehran, a resolution issued by the marchers was read:

1. On this glorious 'Ashura of Husayn, we, Muslim and revolutionary nation, restate our allegiance to the imam of the umma', the great leader of the Islamic revolution, the true heir of Husayn and the hope of the world's oppressed people. We reaffirm our convenant that to our last breath we will continue in the line of the clerical rule, follow the committed and combative clergy and defend our bloodstained Islamic revolution which is the outcome of the blood of martyrs and self-sacrifices of the revolutionary people.

2. We continue to regard the war as the primary issue facing the country and announce that, in pursuance of our divine duty to repulse the aggression of the world arrogance, we will continue our holy war until final victory, until achievement of our legitimate rights and the conditions announced by the Islamic Republic of Iran.

3. Now that with the resurgence of the Islamic revolution its brilliant lights have illuminated the region and the entire world and now that the various plots by the Eastern and Western world-devourers, led by the archsatan the criminal America, have been increased, we, the Muslim and revolutionary nation, in continuation of the bloodstained and eternal path of Husayn ibn 'Ali, may God's peace be upon him, announce that we will continue to fight against world blasphemy and international Zionism until the proud standard of "God is the greatest" and "There is no god but Allah" has been unfurled throughout the world.

4. While expressing out gratitude for the endeavors of the country's organs and security organizations and appreciating the value of the efforts by these beloved ones in fighting against terrorism, which is a tool in the hands of satanic powers to confront the Islamic revolution of Iran, we demand greater efforts by officials in this field, the punishment of criminals and the implementation of Islamic punishments concerning these vile and hypocritical mercenaries of world arrogance. We demand that greater effort be made to protect the lives of national figures and the sincere servants of Islam and the Islamic Republic.

5. At a time when the criminal Zionist regime and terrorist rulers of Israel, this illegitimate child of America in the Middle East, in the face of the silence and covert and overt support of regional reactionary regimes and other leaders in the blasphemy-ridden world of the present century, continue their crimes and savage massacre of deprived Muslims in Lebanon and Palestine, we, the Muslim nation, announce on this holy day that the liberation of Jerusalem is one of the Islamic revolution's major goals. We support the plan for theestablishment of a special fund for the expulsion of the usurping Israel and for cutting short the hands of America from international organizations.

6. While emphasizing our unstinted support for the Muslim people of Lebanon and for the deprived Palestinian masses, we condemn any compromising move by those who make claims to be leaders of the Palestinian nation. We announce that the Palestinian Revolution and the liberation of Jerusalem will not be achieved except through reliance upon the beloved Islam.

7. We, the Muslim Iranian nation, while emphasizing our unstinted support for liberation movements, especially the revolution of the Muslim people of Afghanistan against Russian aggression, believe that the Islamic revolution is a lamp that sheds its light on the path of all the world's oppressed people in their struggle against world arrogance until the achievement of the indpendence, freedom and human dignity of all justice seeking people of the world. We believe deviation from this path will lead only to compromise.

8. At a time when, as the result of the anti-Islamic and inhuman behavior of the regime ruling over Arabia toward the Iranian pilgrims and other pilgrims to the house of God their hypocritical features have been exposed, while condemning the anti-Islamic policies of this regime due to its profound dependence upon the criminal America, in support of the revolutionary proposal of His Great Eminence Ayatollah Montazeri, we announce that the two holy shrines are administered by a council composed of Islamic countries.

9. As was expected the subservient United Nations once again proved to the world's oppressed people that it implements the satanic policies of superplunderers and of those who violate the human and Islamic rights of nations. By approving the resolution for declaring a cease-fire between Iran and Iraq, it delivered another blow upon itself. We, the Muslim Iranian nation, condemning this resolution, raise with loud voice our wronged call to the ears of all justice-seeking and liberated people of the world and announce that under no circumstances will we submit to this prearranged resolution drawn up by the hand of Eastern and Western arrogance with the sole aim of saving the infidel Saddam, and that we will continue the war until final victory and until we achieve our legitimate rights.

Greetings, we will all chant five times together: "O God, O God; safeguard Khomeyni until al-mahdi's [the hidden imam] revolution.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,093

LD281758 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Communique No 1,093 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name: The trench dwellers of Islam and the proud combatants of the battle between truth and falsehood, these followers of the path of Husayn ibn 'Ali, peace be upon him, like all their beloved and Muslim compatriots today observed and honored the martyrdom anniversary of Imam Husayn gloriously and gracefully on all the fronts.

At the same time, they did not waste a minute in pounding the blasphemous enemy and the aggressive Ba'thists, continuing the path of the lord of the liberated and the master of the martyrs Aba 'Abdullah al-Husayn, peace be upon him.

In the past 24 hours, sporadic exchanges of fire continued on the western fronts. The powerful combatants of Islam, while guarding their defensive positions, returned the fire of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries. By pounding the enemy positions, they destroyed one gun, six slit trenches and observation posts of the Saddamist forces. They also set fire to a heavy ammunition truck of the aggressive Iraqi Ba'thists and on every front they killed or wounded a number of enemy servicemen.

In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil Operation, the victorious combatants of Islam, consolidating their defense positions, stopped the enemy's movements and activities. By opening timely fire, they inflicted losses and casualties on the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries.

On the Musan front, the heroes of Islam returned fire, inflicting casualties and losses on the Saddamist forces.

Sporadic exchanges of fire continued on the southern fronts. In the (Pol-e Now) region in Khorramshahr, the heroes of the gendarmerie, returning the fire on the Saddamists' position, dealt effective blows to the enemy.

On the Abadan front, one of the enemy's trucks, carrying servicemen, was set on fire. Nine Iraqi soldiers were killed.

The fire of air defense units and the tactical measures of the fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran yesterday foiled the air aggression of the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries in the border region.

NVOI URGES 'REALISTIC ATTITUDE' ON AFGHANISTAN

TA270511 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "To Whose Benefit Is Provocation and Interference in the Internal Affairs of a Neighboring Country?"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: In a recent interview, Babrak Karmal, leader of revolutionary Afghanistan, once again declared: We have repeatedly announced our readiness to renew good relations with Iran. We reiterate this readiness. The Democratic Republic of Afghanistan is not a mirage and a nightmare but a political fact. Regardless of whether this pleases anyone, we do exist, are progressing, struggling, becoming victorious and are building our new life.

Yes, despite all the plots, provocations and conspiracies by the imperialists, led by world-devouring America, the region's reaction and internal counterrevolution, the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan is a political fact and is in the forefront of the just anti-imperialist battle of regional nations. From this point of view, the Afghan Government and people are the natural ally of the liberated people and Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran. Therefore, a review must be undertaken in the policy of the Islamic government with regard to democratic Afghanistan.

Some time ago, the trial of a number of professional counterrevolutionary killers took place in Kabul. In the process of this trial, the mask once again was removed from the true faces of these so-called Islamic mojahedin. One of the leaders of these bands who was captured in Panjsher confessed that U.S. experts train these bands and then dispatch them to Afghanistan in order to massacre the people and to set fire to homes, schools, hospitals and even religious sites and mosques under cover of Islam and in the name of the mojahedin so that later imperialist and Zionist propaganda organizations would attribute these criminal and antihuman acts to government forces and raise a tumult alleging that Islam has been endangered in Afghanistan.

In our own country, too, the opponents of the imam's line and the followers of Shari'atmadari's line, all of whom are U.S. mercenaries, use the lies of imperialist propaganda organizations as an alibi to engage in plots and provocations against the democratic Government of Afghanistan and consequently against the people of this country. It is a cause of deep regret that the official propaganda of our country also has been caught in the trap of these provocations by news imperialism and feeds the people as facts the reports fabricated by imperialist and reactionary circles. Although the Islamic government has adopted correct and positive measures in foreign policy, with regard to the Afghan problem, it is still infatuated by the intimations of the Shari'atmadaris and by mental prejudice and continues to be dogged in its hostility toward revolutionary and democratic Afghanistan. It is a fact that, in the Afghan problem, regrettable, the Islamic government is treading a path that the Ziaul Haqs, the Qabuses, the Mubaraks, the Saudis and others are treading in accordance with the directive of world-devouring America.

No day passes without Tehran radio disseminating in great detail the false reports of imperialist and Zionist mass media about democratic and revolutionary Afghanistan -- this amid conditions in which so far not the slightest action has been taken by the democratic Government of Afghanistan against emancipated Iran. This government constantly has supported and backed and continues to support and back the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran against the plots of the imperialists, above all, U.S. imperialism.

The fact that some of our country's officials call the various counterrevolutionary groups dependent on the United States, the Saudis, the Ziaul Haqs, the Qabuses and the fugitive counterrevolutionary minigroups and dregs of Mohammad Zahir Shah as the so-called Afghan people and express the hope that the Afghan people allegedly will aim the barrels of their guns at the democratic government is not only a repetition of the directive of imperialist espionage headquarters but, at the same time, a provocation against a neighboring country and overt interference in the internal affairs of an independent country. What is the aim of this provocation and creation of enemies? Our homeland's people want the government, in its foreign policy, to desist from a hostile approach toward the real friends of revolutionary Iran and to take steps at the side of its true friends on the international scene toward halting the plots of the agents of imperialism and reactionism. In this connection, without doubt, the experience of certain countries like Libya and Syria, friends of revolutionary Iran, can be instructive for us.

It is high time we adopted a realistic attitude with regard to revolutionary and democratic Afghanistan and established normal, good and friendly relations with the popular and anti-imperialist government of revolutionary Afghanistan which is supported by the people of that country.

NVOI DECRIES 'FRIENDLY TIES' WITH TURKEY, PAKISTAN

TA212102 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 21 Oct 82

[Unattributed commentary: "A Few Words With the Supporters of Friendly Relations With the CIA-Afflicted Regimes of Turkey and Pakistan"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: Some time ago under the heading 'Increase in the Sale of U.S. Arms to Its Allies in Asia, Africa and Latin America,' the ETTELA'AT newspaper focused on certain facts on which it would be very appropriate to devote attention, particularly by the supporters of friendly ties with Turkey and Pakistan. ETTELA'AT wrote:

The NEW YORK TIMES, quoting high-ranking U.S. officials, reported that the Reagan administration intends to increase military aid and the sale of arms to foreign countries. The NEW YORK TIMES added that the U.S. Government is striving to obtain the necessary credit for the increase of military aid and the delivery of sophisticated means to South Korea, Thailand, Jordan, Morocco, Tunisia, Spain, Turkey, Kenya, Liberia, Somalia, Sudan, Zaire, El Salvador, Honduras and Pakistan.

The supporters of the establishment of friendly relations with Turkey and Pakistan are themselves without doubt fully acquainted with the antipeople and imperialist nature of the regimes ruling over these countries and are well aware that subservient regimes such as the ones ruling Pakistan and Turkey can never be the friend and supporter of revolutionary and anti-American Iran in the international arena. However, what is amazing is that these individuals, although being aware of this indisputable fact and despite knowing the nature of these regimes and being cognizant of the fact that a U.S. subservient regime can under no circumstances have friendly ties with a truly anti-American and anti-imperialist country like Iran, nevertheless insist on establishing very close relations with these regimes and on further expanding ties with them.

They want to place revolutionary Iran in the ranks of certain countries in whose birth certificates the name of the father is registered as the great satan and the names of the brothers as South Korea, Thailand, Jordan, Kenya, Liberia, Somalia, Sudan, Zaire, El Salvador, Honduras, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Oman, South Africa and so forth, namely, the most disgraceful and ignominious countries dependent on the United States.

Who isn't aware of the antipeople and bloodthirsty nature of regimes ruling over South Korea, Thailand, Kenya, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, South Africa and so forth? For many years now, the antipeople regimes in these countries have been shedding the blood of the toiling and deprived people, and these countries have been rightly transformed into a hell for the people and a paradise of U.S. imperialists. In these countries, world-devouring America possesses numerous military bases, the aim of which is, particularly now, to plot against anti-U.S. Iran.

The imam of the nation repeatedly has warned our homeland's ever-on-the-scene people that, if necessary, America will wait 50 or even 200 years to strike at the Islamic Republic of Iran. The great satan -- this super criminal who is not able to live without sucking the blood of the world's toiling people and plundering the wealth and property of other countries -- wants at any price to return to an Iran that during the era of the accursed Mohammad Reza was the paradise of the Americans, and to plunder anew its oil and other natural resources and the fruit of the toil and work of our nation. U.S. military bases established in countries subservient to the great satan in Asia and Africa, particularly in Turkey, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Sudan, Somalia, Kenya and so forth, are bases that specifically have made revolutionary and anti-imperialist Iran their target.

America has 27 enormous military bases in Turkey. The current Turkish Government is the product of an American coup in this country. Both in Turkey's domestic and foreign policy, we everywhere are witnessing the active presence of the Americans. In this CIA- afflicted country, the slightest anti-American protest and the slightest popular movement are brutally suppressed and, at present, Turkey's prisons are filled with tens of thousands of independence-seeking Turkish strugglers, both Muslims and non-Muslims. It is in this very Turkey that on orders of the Americans the fugitive counterrevolutionaries are engaged in hatching plots against the Islamic Republic. It is in this U.S. subservient country that executioners such as Aryana, Madani and so on have managed to gather and place on alert armed forces comprising dregs of the former Imperial Army and all the counterrevolutionaries in order to stage an attack on Iran.

Ziaul Haq's bloodsucking and ungodly regime is also a tool in the hands of world-devouring America for dealing blows to revolutionary Iran and democratic Afghanistan. America is equipping Pakistan with various modern weapons. U.S. military bases in Pakistan are being expanded and the aim of all these military preparations is only revolutionary Iran and revolutionary Afghanistan, these two liberated Muslim and anti-imperialist countries.

No struggling and revolutionary Iranian ever was or is opposed to the establishment of normal political and economic relations with any country, including Pakistan and Turkey. However, endeavouring to establish every close political and economic ties with regimes such as the ones ruling over Turkey and Pakistan, and placing anti-imperialist Iran at the side of these ignominious and disgraceful regimes subservient to the United States is both an insult to the Islamic Republic of Iran and assistance to the great satan in achieving its plan for striking at the Islamic Republic of Iran.

Lebanon

Military, Security Situation -- SAM batteries situated inside Syria unsuccessfully fired missiles at Israeli aircraft patrolling the Al-Biqa' Valley on 31 October, the IDF spokesman announced in a statement reported by IDF radio. Israel regards this as a severe violation of the cease-fire, he stressed. A Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine spokesman said the Palestinians in Al-Biqa' are preparing to confront an Israeli attack, according to the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon. Palestinian sources cited by QNA said the Israelis have recently established surface-to-surface missile bases on Al-Baruk Mountain, which overlooks Al-Biqa' from the west. Meanwhile, an Israeli crane driver died in a 29 October ambush near 'Alayh and one person was killed and five others were wounded by a rocket attack on an Israeli bus in Sidon late on 30 October, according to Beirut and Voice of Lebanon radios.

The Lebanese Army clashed with Progressive Socialist Party militias in the "Alayh region on 31 October after the army had reinforced its presence in the area in order to find gunmen responsible for killing a Lebanese soldier, according to Beirut radio reports. Christian militia withdrew from the area over the weekend, Radio Free Lebanon reported.

Talks on Withdrawal -- After meeting with U.S. Deputy Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper on 30 October, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan indicated that the U.S. side had approved Lebanon's demand that no joint committee should be set up to negotiate the withdrawal of foreign forces but that the talks should continue through the joint Lebanese-Israeli Military Committee set up after the Israeli invasion, Beirut radio reported. After noting that the United States is participating in all the current negotiations, Al-Wazzan said the Lebanese have already started contacts with the PLO and will undoubtedly contact Syria. Earlier, PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir said in a Radio Monte Carlo interview that "no one" has yet talked with the PLO about the withdrawal of Palestinian forces from Al-Biqa' and the north.

Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir meanwhile warned that the removal of foreign forces from Lebanon is likely to be delayed by Syrian violations of the cease-fire, Jerusalem radio reported.

Al-Jumayyil Morocco Visit -- President Amin al-Jumayyil left Beirut for Morocco in response to an invitation from King Hassan II, Beirut radio reported on 1 November. According to Riyadh radio, Al-Jumayyil will meet with PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat for a Lebanese-Palestinian summit supervised by King Hassan. However, Voice of Lebanon radio said Al-Jumayyil will not meet with 'Arafat in Morocco. The president's visit has nothing to do with his projected Arab tour, which he will not undertake unless progress on the withdrawal of foreign forces is made, the radio reported.

National Movement -- The National Movement has decided to halt its activities until further notice, Voice of Lebanon radio reported citing sources close to Progressive Socialist Party leader Walid Junblatt.

Syria

Syria will meet all conditions and support any development that will enhance its relations with Lebanon, President Hafiz al-Asad stressed in an interview with the magazine AN-NAHAR AL-'ARABI WA AD-DUWALI broadcast by Damascus radio. Al-Asad denied reports of differences between Syria and the PLO and when asked for his opinion of a possible Jordanian-Palestinian confederation the Syrian leader said his country supports unity between two or more Arab sides "whether we are in agreement or disagreement with these parties or some of them." Arguing that all serious attempts to achieve peace in the Middle East are doomed to failure unless the United States limits Israel's military development by cutting arms supplies to the Israelis, Al-Asad reaffirmed that the Arabs must achieve a military balance with Israel, "and this means between Syria and Israel." While Syrian military power is strong in some respects, he said, Syria is now overcoming shortcomings in other fields. He admitted that Syria lost some Soviet-made T-72 tanks to Israeli rockets and airstrikes during the summer battles in Lebanon, but asserted that the T-72 is the best tank in the world. He also claimed the Israelis have admitted that 23 of their aircraft were hit in the Israeli-Syrian air battles over Lebanon. Regarding Syria's friendship with the Soviet Union, Al-Asad said that although the Syrians "sometimes feel that we are in need of some types of weapons," this does not diminish the importance of Soviet support for Syria.

PLO

'Arafat on Arms, Reagan -- In an interview given to TANJUG during his 2-day visit to Yugoslavia, PLO Executive Committee Chairman 'Arafat said that the Palestinian fighters currently living in various Arab countries will be "rearmed with modern weapons by their host countries" as a result of agreements he recently signed. While accusing President Reagan of making his Middle East proposals prior to the Fes summit in an effort to undermine the meeting and regretting that the plan "completely neglects" the aspirations of the Palestinian people, 'Arafat stated that the Reagan plan has "some positive elements"; for example, it does not accept Israeli annexation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip. 'Arafat's political adviser Khalid al-Hasan told Radio Monte Carlo that while there is a "gap" between the Fes summit resolutions and the Reagan plan, "it is important to find a common denominator."

Popular Conference -- The Palestinian popular conference to be helf before the Palestinian National Council (PNC) meeting in early November is expected to be held in "a European state," according to a Radio Monte Carlo interview with PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir. Al-Wazir stated that the European venue is planned in order to foil Israel's attempts to prevent the Palestinians in the occupied territories from attending. If they still are unable to attend, the conference will be held in the "same place as the PNC," Al-Wazir stated.

Israel

West Bank Settlements -- Despite Jerusalem radio reports that Ambassador to the United States Moshe Arens has urged the prime minister to freeze the West Bank settlement program, Arens said in an interview with the radio that he opposes freezing settlements. Meanwhile, a subcommittee of the Ministerial Committee on Settlement Affairs decided to speed up the establishment of six new settlements in the area, Jerusalem television noted.

Massacre Inquiry -- An Israeli tank officer testified to the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre that he saw Phalangists killing civilians on the morning of 17 September and reported this to his superiors, whose initial reaction was that the IDF should not intervene, Jerusalem radio reported. Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon had earlier testified to the commission that he first learned about the massacres on the evening of 17 September, according to the transcript of Sharon's public testimony issued by the GOVERNMENT PRESS OFFICE.

Egyptian-Israeli Relations

Egypt submitted an official memorandum to Israel on 31 October asking the Israelis not to open their newly completed hotel in Tabah, MENA reported. The memorandum accused the Israelis of violating the Egyptian-Israeli agreement of 25 April, which stipulated that work on any existing installations in the area would be suspended. To open the hotel would also imply sovereignty, the memorandum stated, and this would violate the agreement that no side shall have sovereignty over Tabah during the period of dispute.

After the Israeli Cabinet discussed the Egyptian request, Israeli Foreign Minister Shamir sent a reply to his Egyptian counterpart Kamal Hasan 'Ali which stated that Israel is willing to discuss the Tabah issue, but only within the framework of comprehensive negotiations covering all aspects of Israeli-Egyptian relations, IDF radio reported. Jerusalem radio said the Israelis have decided to open the hotel in Tabah within a few days. Noting that the Egyptians have demanded the resumption of negotiations over Tabah, the radio said Israel would be prepared to negotiate the disputed area if the Egyptians "reestablish the kind of ties that existed prior to Operation Peace for Galilee," including the return of the Egyptian ambassador to Israel. Meanwhile, Israeli political sources cited by 'AL HAMISHMAR alleged that Egypt's proposed air maneuvers following the recent anti-Israeli statements in Cairo introduce a "militaristic tone" to Israeli-Egyptian relations.

Egypt

Relations with U.S. -- U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz sent a "positive" reply to Foreign Minister 'Ali's message to him on the Tabah issue, MENA reported. 'Ali will convey a message from President Husni Mubarak to President Ronald Reagan when he visits the United States from 11-13 November, MENA noted.

Relations with USSR -- The Kuwaiti weekly AL-HADAF claimed Egypt and the USSR have renewed contacts to restore their severed relations. The report also noted that Egypt has asked to purchase heavy tanks from the Soviet Union, KUNA reported.

Air Manuevers -- Delegations from seven Arab states will attend the air force's golden jubilee maneuvers in the western desert on 1 November, MENA reported. While MENA said President Mubarak would attend the maneuvers, which will feature live ammunition, Beirut radio reported that Mubarak canceled his plan to attend in order to attend a political meeting.

'Ismat as-Sadat -- Late President Anwar as-Sadat's younger brother 'Ismat as-Sadat is in custody pending an investigation into the origin of his wealth, AFP reported.

Sudan

Sudan will not participate in the OAU Ministerial Council meetings or the OAU summit conference scheduled to be held in Tripoli in November, SUNA reported.

Libya

At the end of Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi's visit to the PRC, the Libyan and Chinese leaders signed an agreement to establish a Libyan-Chinese joint committee to develop bilateral economic, scientific and technical cooperation, Tripoli radio reported. Al-Qadhdhafi subsequently flew to Pyongyang for talks with DPRK President Kim Il-song, the radio noted.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- Exchanges of fire continued on a number of fronts, particularly in the southern and western regions, according to military communiques issued by both sides. Tehran radio reported that Iranian forces retained "total control" of their positions in the southern region following clashes on 30 and 31 October.

Good Offices Negotiations -- In a statement published in AL-JAZIRAH AL-MASA'IYYAH, Islamic Conference Organization Secretary General Habib Chatti "categorically denied" that the Good Offices Committee has reached a deadlock in its efforts to negotiate an end to the Iran-Iraq war, SPA reported.

Kuwait

Kuwait protested to Iran on 30 October over the latter's information campaigns against it, KUNA reported. A Kuwaiti official told the Iranian ambassador that Kuwait cannot allow Iran to exploit religious occasions to create unrest and sectarian feuds. Earlier, the Iranian ambassador protested to Kuwait over the behavior of Kuwaiti police in dispersing processions by Shi'ites mourning the martyrdom of Imam Husayn, Tehran radio reported. Meanwhile, an explosion rocked a Kuwait City suburb on 30 October but caused no casualties, KUNA noted.

Pakistan

President Ziaul Haq said his talks with Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on 1 November were "extremely cordial" and paved the way for better relations with India, Delhi radio reported.

RESISTANCE OPERATIONS 'INSIDE' USSR DISCLOSED

NC291338 Paris AFP in English 1329 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Text] Rabat, Morocco, Oct 29 (AFP) -- Afghan resistance forces have carried out three military operations inside the territory of the Soviet Union, according to a statement from a rebel leader published here today in the newspaper LE MATIN DU SAHARA.

However, Fatih Mohamed Afghani, head of the National Islamic Union, did not disclose the dates or the locations of the reported incursions.

Mr Afghani, who is here seeking materiel assistance for the resistance movement, said Soviet troops are confined to the cities of Dahar, Hirat and Ilalab from which they can only leave by airplane and where "they are encircled and harassed" by rebel forces who now control nearly all of Afghanistan. He said the resistance movement has seized most of its arms from its adversaries.

The Kabul-based government of President Babrak Karmal, he charged, "represents nothing and is no more than a puppet manipulated by foreign invaders."

Mr Afghani said government forces have been "practically decimated, either by the mujahedeen (resistance) or by the Russians themselves, as many government troops have refused to fight against their own brothers."

INTENSIFIED REBEL ATTACKS AROUND KABUL REPORTED

BK010352 Karachi Domestic Service in Urdu 0200 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] According to reports received from Afghanistan, Afghan freedom fighters have intensified their activities in and around Kabul city. The freedom fighters on last Wednesday attacked a military post between the (Bala Hisar) and (Nur Hisar) areas in the Afghan capital.

According to reports, a member of militiamen were either killed or injured; two Afghan freedom fighters, including a commander, (Zabid Halim), lost their lives in the clash.

Resistance Leader Killed

BK311317 Hong Kong AFP in English 1304 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] Peshawar, Pakistan, Oct. 31 (AFP) -- A key Afghan resistance leader, Abdul Halim Khair-Khawa, 28, was killed Thursday by a Soviet patrol after a night-time operation in the Afghan capital, Kabul, rebel sources said here today.

Official Afghan radio, monitored here, had not mentioned his death.

A former police officer, "Captain" Khair-Khawa was responsible for some of the most daring guerrilla operations in the Kabul region, including the capture and execution last year of a Soviet geologist who was a personal friend of Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

News of the captain's death shocked resistance circles here, where he was highly respected for his courage and skill. Observers said his loss represented a serious setback to rebel morale.

Capt. Khair-Khawa was reportedly shot in the face as he was returning to his clandestine headquarters after attacking two government posts in Kabul. His deputy was also said to have been killed by Soviet troops.

The rebel chief, who joined the resistance three years ago and commanded some 500 soldiers, was wounded earlier this year in the eastern province of Ningrahar but refused evacuation to Peshawar, preferring to remain among his troops.

AFP Report

BK010919 Hong Kong AFP in English 0901 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Excerpt] New Delhi, Nov. 1 (AFP) -- New violence was reported today in the western city of Baroda where Hindus and Moslems have battled for nearly a week, leaving six dead and more than 100 injured.

The Press Trust of India said that police fired on a mob which attacked officers in the city in Gujarat State late last night, the fifth day of violence involving the two groups, rivals for 1,000 years.

PTI also said that arsonists set a firecrackers warehouse ablaze. There was no indication whether there were any casualties and no further details were immediately available on either incident in the curfew-bound city.

Earlier reports yesterday had said that one person was stabbed and two houses set afire in the coastal city of half a million people where the bloodshed has halted trade and banking. There was also a report of three cases of attempted arson.

Some 300 people were reported taken into custody in the city where police were ordered to shoot arsonists or looters on sight and army troops have patrolled the streets since Wednesday.

The latest spurt in Hindu-Moslem violence was attributed to the coinciding of two major Hindu and Moslem festivals -- the Moharram for the Moslems and Dussehra for the Hindus.

'FOREIGN POWERS' BLAMED FOR UNREST IN PUNJAB

BK301408 Hong Kong AFP in English 1318 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] New Delhi, Oct 30 (AFP) -- Former Indian Prime Minister Charan Singh today blamed unidentified foreign powers for the current unrest in India's northern Punjab State and warned that acceptance of the Sikh demands would lead to splintering the nation.

Speaking to reporters at Jaipur, capital of the desert State of Rajasthan, 140 km (87 miles) southwest of here, Mr. Singh said certain foreign powers were bent on seeing India disintegrate, Press Trust India (PTI) agency reported. However, he refused to name these forces, the agency said.

Punjab, where most of India's 13 million Sikhs live, has been troubled by an agitation for more autonomy to the prosperous farming state led by the Akali Dal (Sikh party).

The Akali Dal's demands include the granting of "holy city" and "Vatican" status to Amritsar, seat of the 17th century-built Golden Temple and broadcasts of Sikh hymns over the local station of the state-owned All-India Radio. The Sikh party also demanded that the federally administered city of Chandigarh be made part of Punjab State.

Singh said he would not recognise the Sikhs as a minority community and considered them part of Hindu society, claiming that acceptance of the Akali demands would ultimately lead to the creation of a separate nation.

Meanwhile, Premier Indira Gandhi's special emissary Swaran Singh returned to New Delhi to report on his two days of talks with Akali Dal leaders.

Before leaving Chandigarh, Swaran Singh also met leaders of the pro-Moscow Communist Party which claims a following among the Punjab peasants.

In a separate development, Mrs Gandhi, now on an election warm-up tour of southern Andhra State, renewed calls for national unity and viewing regional issues in a national perspective.

"Slogan-mongering and agitations on the basis of religion, regions, languages and castes weaken the country," she told a public gathering at Ongole, an eastern coastal Andhra district.

SRI LANKA

PLOT TO KIDNAP, KILL JAYEWARDENE REVEALED

BK300951 Hong Kong AFP in English 0924 GMT 30 Oct 82

[By Joel Henri]

[Text] Colombo, Oct 30 (AFP) -- The announcement of a recent "Marxist" plot to kidnap and kill President Junius Jayewardene and what could be the start of a Tamil insurgency in northern Sri Lanka, have dramatically marked the first days of the president's new mandate.

Conservative President Jayewardene, 76, was re-elected for a new six-year term with 53 percent of votes in the country's first direct suffrage presidential election since independence in 1948.

The elections brought prominence for the first time to the Marxist candidate Hector Kobbekaduwa of the Sri Lanka Freedom Party (SLFP) who won 2.5 million votes.

The president, often dubbed Dallas-wise "J.R.", dropped a bombshell last Wednesday when he told Parliament there had been an SLFP plot to kidnap and kill him on election day on October 20.

He said a Marxist faction of the SLFP aimed to create "an Afghanistan-type situation which even the U.S. army could not have saved."

He said part of the 15,000 strong Sri Lankan Army had been infiltrated by revolutionary elements and was party to the plot.

Meanwhile reports today said that security forces were still combing, but apparently without success, the region round Jaffna in the extreme north, in search of gunmen who attacked a police station Wednesday in Chavakacheri.

The attackers, about 12 in number, are believed to be members of the separatist Tamil Revolutionary Council [TRC] which wants to turn the Tamil-populated northern and north-eastern into autonomous state known as "Eelam."

The TRC, with a following estimated at about 100 armed men, has rear bases in the south India State of Tamil Nadu where Sri Lankan Tamils originated. The Tamil population of the island is about 2,900,000 while the Singhalese number 10,900,000 and Moslems one million.

About 3,000 Tamils holding Indian Nationality and who mainly work as tea plantation labourers, are to be repatriated to India under a bilateral agreement.

The Singhalese oppose any idea of carving up the island and confrontation therefore appears inevitable, observers said here.

Opposition parties meanwhile have accused the president of dramatising political life in order to impress upon the public the need to plebiscite a new six-year mandate for Parliament which was elected in 1977.

The president's United National Party (UNP) has 144 out of the 168 seats following last week's defection of an opposition MP.

The president has asked the Supreme Court to rule on his proposals to hold a referendum to renew the parliamentary mandate and wants to referendum held in the second half of December.

If it was "unconstitutional" to organise such a referendum, he said there would be general elections. Technicallly, these elections should have been held at the end of June next year.

Observers here said President Jayewardene appeared to be aiming to streamline the political machine and rid his party of inefficient and corrupt elements.

He has made all UNP members of Parliament sign an undated letter of resignation in order to replace them at will. According to reliable sources there will also be a massive Cabinet reshuffle before the referendum.

The president has said his action is vital to complete a crash development programme being financed by foreign backers to the tune of 5,000 million dollars over the next six years. Moreover, newspaper reports here suggest that the president could call on members of the opposition to set up a government of national unity.

Former Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike, who was deprived of her civic rights by Parliament for power abuses, may be allowed to make her political comeback for the referendum campaign, reports said. Mrs Bandaranaike's son Anura, who is leader of the SLFP, has told Parliament here that a Marxist regime would be unconstitutional. He said he would be prepared to vote for a state of emergency to prevent the emergence of such a regime.

PARLIAMENT APPROVES STATE OF EMERGENCY

KHAMENE'I MESSAGE TO ICO ON PEACE PROPOSALS

LD011144 Tehran IRNA in English 1020 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 1 (IRNA) -- President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i today said the same policy which imposed war on Iran is now being used for imposing a peace.

The president sent a message to his Guinean counterpart who is also head of the Islamic Conference Organisation (ICO) mission formed for the mediation between Iran and Iraq. The mission has so far travelled to Tehran and Baghdad for nine times with no results.

In his message, the Iranian president said the U.S.-sponsored policy was responsible for the attack on Iran and added now the same policy is plotting against the Islamic Republic for imposing peace on Iran. Khamene'i said the result of an imposed peace would be the same as an imposed war.

Commenting on the recent visit of the ICO mission to Iran on Oct. 24 the president said it presented a plan to Iran in the aftermath of the subhuman Iraqi missile attack on the civilian areas in the southern and western cities of Dezful and Ilam respectively. Khamene'i said these brutal attacks were as usual followed by the passive attitude of the so-called human rights organisations.

It is to be recalled that Dezful was subjected to Iraqi missiles last Tuesday, as a result of which some 32 civilians were martyred and more than 100 wounded. Also Iraq bombed the city of Ilam on the same day, leaving 15 people wounded.

Criticising the peace proposals brought by the last ICO mission the president said that there was nothing new despite the claim of the mission for a fresh approach to the peace. The peace proposals contained none of the legitimate rights of the Iranian people, he said, adding that rather they (peace proposals)encouraged the Iraqi regime for more aggression.

The president said that similar peace proposals were presented to Iran at times and Iran rejected them on sound grounds.

In his message to the Guinean president, Khamene'i emphasized the Iranian conditions for ending the war and pointed out that one of them was the identification of the aggressor. He said that Iran explained in details and with all possible logics that the war started by the Iraqi regime when it attacked on the Iranian borders. He said now it was crystal clear to all including Mr Sekou Toure and mission members that who was the first to start the war. He said the Iranian nation will never allow any violation of its basic rights and pointed out that the nation will also not allow its officials to do so.

Quoting the verse from the holy Qur'an about the major punishment God had promised for oppressors, he reiterated that it was clear that the attack on Iran which was engineered by the U.S. through its lackeys in the region aimed at crushing the Islamic revolution of Iran. He said an imposed, unjust peace will not only not bring any peace, but will perpetuate chaos in the region.

He said Iran expected all independent personalities to help her through the understanding of that reality.

It was sure, he noted, that Iran was having Allah's guidance and support and will overcome the enemy as usual.

In conclusion, the president said everyone would finally realise the truth with the help of the Islamic combatants of Iran.

[Communique No 1,094 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Relying on their divine faith and emulating the boiling blood of the martyrs of 'Ashura, the mighty defenders of the Islamic revolution continue their just fight to annihilate the Yazids of the era.

In the western operational sector of the country, exchange of artillery and mortar fire continued, with Meymak and Paveh witnessing a more intense exchange of fire. In these areas, our forces smashed Iraqi positions and crushed all attempted defenses by the Iraqis.

During a series of operations launched by one of our fighting units in the western sector, one enemy tank and a surveying vehicle were smashed; at least 50 Iraqi mercenaries were either killed or wounded.

In the southern operational sector, our forces utilized their heavy weapons fire, causing confusion in the enemy's engineering operations. They were trying to widen earthworks and to dig a canal and trenches. Our forces thus thwarted the movement and deployment of Iraqi personnel.

In the Abadan and Khorramshahr areas, the Islamic forces returned enemy fire and destroyed three Iraqi observation posts and a number of trenches and weapon emplacements on the other side of the Arvand Rud. They also halted the movement of Iraqi military vehicles on the Al-Faw-Basrah road.

Parts of Abadan yesterday came under Iraqi long-range artillery fire. As a result, two residential houses were destroyed and a high school suffered some damage. During the past 24 hours, attempts by enemy aircraft to raid border towns were foiled by our air defense fire and tactical operations by our air force fighters.

[Communique No 1,095 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Our dear compatriots hereby are informed of the current situation at the imposed war fronts:

Sporadic battle and exchanges of fire continued in the country's western front in the last 24 hours. The intensity of the fire exchanged was greatest in the Meymak and Sumar regions. Enemy losses and casualties in those regions included a tank and two trucks destroyed.

On the southern fronts, the able combatants of Islam, while defending their defensive positions and further consolidating their positions, answered heavy enemy artillery fire. This halted enemy fire and inflicted losses and casualties on the mercenary Iraqi forces.

The Islam combatants stationed at Abadan and Khorramshahr fired on the Saddamist forces' positions across the Arvand Rud, destroying a number of their weapons positions, halting their artillery fire and killing a number of them. The mercenary forces of Saddam yesterday once again brought a number of Abadan residential sectors under heavy fire, destroying a number of civilian houses.

Enemy aircraft violating southern and western airspace of our country were driven away by the Islamic Republic's fighter aircraft.

[Communique No 1,096 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The battle fought by the combatants of Islam against Saddam's aggressive forces continue with heavy weapons' fire during the past 24 hours in the southern and western regions of the country.

In the western operational region, exchange fire was more intense on the Paveh and Meymak fronts. Our combatants, while defending their positions, opened fire on enemy armored and infantry units and their transport routes, thus stopping the Ba'thist mercenaries' movements.

In the southern operational region, our combatants maintained their fire surpemacy and retained total control of their defensive and protective positions. They succeeded in inflicting damage and casualties on the enemy by artillery and mortar fire and destroyed a number of the Saddamists' equipment positions.

In its usual cowardly way, the enemy yesterday shelled parts of Abadan, using long-range weapons, which resulted in material damage. During the past 24 hours, the enemy's violations of the airspace of southern and western towns was repelled by the timely fire of our antiaircraft defense units; their planes were forced to flee.

KUWAITI POLICE BREAK UP RELIGIOUS DEMONSTRATIONS

LD282318 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 28 Oct 82

[Text] On the occasion of the month of Muharram and the martyrdom anniversary of the flower of Islamic martyrs, Husayn ibn 'Ali -- peace be upon him -- glorious ceremonies were held last night and today, in which Muslims and Iranians residing abroad participated.

The martyrdom anniversary of Imam Husayn was held in Kuwait today despite heavy rain. Men and women, gathered in various mosques and nearby streets, kept the red line of flowers of Islam's martyr alive and prayed for the death of oppressors.

According to IRNA, beginning early today, thousands of people poured into nearby streets from (Ejtenani) Mosque, chanting: Greetings to Khomeyni; Death to America; If Khomeyni gave us the order to jihad, no army could vanquish us; Long live Islam; and Death to Saddam. As they staged a demonstration, the Kuwaiti riot police used tear gas and fired shots in the air, attacking defenseless people. As a result numbers of children and teenagers were seriously injured. The Kuwaiti police later attacked mourners who had assembled outside the mosque.

The Kuwaiti police also attacked another group of mourners who had gathered at the Sayyid Muhammad Mosque in the city center and injured a number of people. Despite the fact that all mosques had been encircled by the fascist Kuwaiti police, the Muslim people continued their ceremonies marking the martyrdom anniversary of Imam Husayn. According to this report, the mourners, continuing their ceremonies, took refuge at the Iranian Embassy building, but this did not deter the Kuwaiti police who attacked them with tear gas. As a result of the tear gas thrown by the Kuwaiti police inside the (Ejtenani) Mosque, hundreds of women, children, old and young, fainted.

According to IRNA, the Kuwaiti police this afternoon also attacked the mourners, trying to disrupt their gatherings. Following the latest attack, which lasted until midnight, devotees of Imam Husayn -- peace be upon him -- once again took refuge at the Islamic Republic Embassy in Kuwait. However, the Kuwaiti security force once again attacked them, using tear gas and rubber bullets. According to this report, following this savage attack, the Kuwaiti Foreign Ministry protocol chief arrived at the embassy to apologize. The mourners used the occasion to raise their clenched fists and ask for the release of mourners who had been detained.

At the moment, a large number of trucks carrying riot police are parked on streets around the Iranian Embassy and around places of mourning. The streets where the processions took place are filled with shoes and clothing left behind by the mourners, as well as rubber bullets and tear gas.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

2 NOVEMBER 1982

Iran-Iraq War

Iranian Offensive -- IRNA announced that an Iranian offensive launched late on 1 November has succeeded in capturing 250 square km of territory, including four border outposts located 75 to 80 km southwest of Dezful and 30 km north of Faqih and bringing oil wells in the Zubaydah region of Iraq into Iranian artillery range. However, INA claimed that the offensive "failed miserably." Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio asserted that the Iraqi Air Force has made direct hits on Iranian targets and is proving its "complete supremacy" in air battles. Although IRNA reported that an Iraqi aircraft was shot down in southern Iran, INA quoted Iraqi military sources as saying that none of the Iraqi planes had been downed. IRNA stressed that the operation is "solely" aimed at regaining Iranian territory occupied by Iraq.

Maritime War Zone -- An Iraqi military spokesman told INA that Iraq has declared an area in the northern Gulf a maritime war zone and has warned maritime shipping companies that it will not accept responsibility for ships in the area.

Mediation Efforts -- Iranian President 'Ali Khamene'i has sent a message to Guinean President Ahmed Sekou Toure, head of the Good Offices Committee, criticizing the committee's latest peace proposals as "nothing new," IRNA revealed. The message asserted that the proposals only encourage further Iraqi aggression. In another IRNA report, the commander of the Iranian Ground Forces claimed that the only way Iran can obtain its rights from Iraq is to continue the war until final victory.

Iran

A Kurdish spokesman in Paris stated that Bukan in East Azarbayjan Province has been recaptured by Kurdish forces following clashes in which 80 Iranian guards were killed, the clandestine Free Voice of Iran reported. The commander of the Iranian Ground Forces asserted that the town is still controlled by government forces, IRNA reported.

Lebanon

Al-Jumayyil in Morocco -- After meeting with Moroccan King Hassan II in Rabat, President Amin al-Jumayyil said in a departure statement broadcast by Rabat radio that there was "full coordination" of views between himself and King Hassan on all points under discussion, which included the results of King Hassan's visit to Washington at the head of the Arab League delegation. Al-Jumayyil returned to Beirut early on 2 November, Beirut radio reported. Although KUNA said earlier that Al-Jumayyil would meet with Fatah Central Committee member Salah Khalaf during his visit to Morocco, monitored Moroccan sources did not mention any such meeting.

Security Situation -- Druze socialists and Christian Lebanese forces clashed violently east of 'Alayh, causing the closure of the Beirut-Damascus highway, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The road was subsequently reopened after a cease-fire agreement was reached, the radio said. One Christian militiaman was killed and several other people were injured in the fighting, according to the radio. An Israeli soldier was injured when his unit was caught in crossfire between Christians and Druze, according to an IDF announcement carried by ITIM. The IDF entered several villages to stop the clashes, THE JERUSALEM POST reported.

Two U.S. Marines and two Lebanese civilians were wounded by a car-bomb explosion in southern Beirut, according to the Voice of Lebanon.

Israeli-Lebanese Differences on Talks -- Israel has expressed absolute opposition to Lebanon's suggestion that Israel negotiate with a Lebanese military committee through U.S. mediation, Jerusalem radio reported. Noting that Israel insists on involving political representatives of both countries in direct talks, the radio cited an Israeli source close to the negotiations as saying that Morris Draper, U.S. deputy assistant secretary for Near Eastern affairs, appears to be representing President al-Jumayyil rather than the United States.

Israel

Relations With Syria -- Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir told the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee that Syria has announced its willingness to conclude a nonbelligerence agreement with Israel in exchange for a full Israeli withdrawal to the 1967 borders, Jerusalem radio reported. This position was expressed by the Syrian representative in the recent Arab League delegation to Washington.

Relations With Egypt -- Israel opened its new hotel in Tabah for a breaking-in period, Jerusalem television reported. Meanwhile, Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali told the Israeli ambassador in Cairo that Israel should not open the hotel, Jerusalem radio noted. Citing AL-AHRAM, MENA reported that Egypt recently recalled its consul in Elat to Cairo as a warning to Israel over the Tabah dispute. In his remarks to the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee, Israeli Foreign Minister Shamir accused the Egyptians of violating all clauses of the normalization agreement, according to Jerusalem radio.

West Bank -- Renewed disturbances erupted in Ramallah, Nabulus and near Bethlehem to mark the anniversary of the Balfour Declaration, Jerusalem radio reported on 2 November.

Egypt

Air Force Maneuvers -- Although MENA did not list President Husni Mubarak among those attending the air force's live-ammunition maneuvers in the Western Desert, AFP reported that Mubarak was present but left before the end, when a Mirage V fighter crashed. Defense Minister 'Abd al-Halim Abu Ghazalah said the maneuvers were "ordinary" and were not intended to convey any "message" to Israel, according to AFP.

Ghali on Negotiations -- Commenting on the future of Middle East peace negotiations in a Cairo radio discussion program, Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Butrus Ghali said Egypt refuses to participate in any negotiations from now on unless the Jordanians and Palestinians also participate in them.

ERSHAD VIEWS ARMY ROLE, POLITICS, CONSTITUTION

BK311505 Dhaka THE BANGLADESH OBSERVER in English 23 Oct 82 p 1

[Excerpts] The Chief Martial Law Administrator [CMLA] Lt. Gen. H. M. Ershad said in Dhaka on Friday that the present Constitution which is in suspension will be retained with amendments of clauses to suit the requirements of the people.

Addressing a press conference at the CMLA's Secretariat the chief martial law administrator denied that a new constitution is being framed. He emphatically said, "We have our Constitution and some clauses will be changed to meet the needs for ensuring welfare of the common masses." Replying to a question whether the fundamental clauses of the Constitution would be changed, General Ershad said the Constitution would be changed to serve the interest of the people and not of an individual.

Replying to another question General Ershad said that the armed forces should have greater participation in the national activities for stability and such a system should be evolved which would ensure welfare of the people and prosperity of the country. The system must suit our condition, he asserted.

General Ershad told another questioner that the politicians would run the country. "We are here to give a system only", he said. When his attention was drawn to his earlier remarks about politicians General Ershad said that he had profound respect for the honest and elderly politicians of the country. They can give a lot to the nation, he opined. He, however, regretted that some politicians in the past exploited the people for their self-interest. "I have no respect for those politicians," he added.

Replying to a question on revival of political activities General Ershad said that the elections to union parishads would be held next year. He said that the first priority of his government was to tackle the economic problems. Politics will come later, he indicated.

BSS adds: When his attention was drawn to the arrest of some lawyers of the Supreme Court Bar the CMLA said, "They have violated the martial law and they will be tried."

He said that some persons were trying to launch a movement for their selfish interest.

Asked whether the recent release of three politicians namely Mr. Saifur Rahman, Col. (Retd) Nuruzzaman and Mr. Suranjit Sengupta was any indication of shift in government policy the CMLA said that none of them were taken to custody as politicians.

Mr. Saifur Rahman, a former finance minister, was arrested on charge of corruption and he had been acquitted in one case. There was however another case against Mr. Rahman, the CMLA said. Similarly Col. (Retd) Nuruzzaman was also taken in custody on charge of corruption and he had been released on bail. Mr. Suranjit Sengupta was detained for some of his "utterances" and he has now been released.

The agreement was reached during today's talks between Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi and President Ziaul Haq of Pakistan. A joint press statement released this afternoon said that the two leaders issued instructions for the rapid conclusion of modalities and formalities about the establishment of the commission. The All India Radio correspondent recalls that early this year Mrs Gandhi had suggested to then foreign minister of Pakistan, Agha Shahi, setting up of the joint commission. Agha Shahi had agreed to it in principle.

Replying to questions at the joint press briefing, the Indian spokesman said the modalities of the joint commission were in the process of being worked out. He said it would be premature to speculate on the ambit of the commission.

The joint statement said that the talks between the Pakistan president and Mrs Gandhi were held in an atmosphere of cordiality. Bilateral matters were discussed. Regional and global issues were also reviewed. They looked forward to continuing their discussions at the time of the nonaligned summit in New Delhi in March next.

The talks between Mrs Gandhi and President Zia lasted about an hour. They were assisted by the foreign ministers of India and Pakistan, Narasimha Rao and Sahabzada Yaqub Khan. Delegations of the two countries held a separate meeting at the same time.

HASEMI-RAFSANJANI ON DEFENSE COUNCIL MEETING

LD021020 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] The Supreme Defense Council met last night, chaired by Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president and head of the Supreme Defense Council. Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the imam's representative at the Supreme Defense Council; Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, prime minister; 'Ali Akbar Velayati, minister of foreign affairs; Brigadier General Zahirnezhad, chief of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran; Colonel Salimi, minister of defense; Captain Afzali, commander of the navy; Col Amir Jalali, deputy commander of the navy; Brother Shamkhani, acting commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps; several commanders of the air and ground forces and navy; and Kharrazi, supervisor of the Bureau for War Propaganda, were present.

After the meeting, Hashemi-Rafsanjani, the iman's representative at the Supreme Defense Council, took part in an interview with our correspondent and elaborated on the issues discussed at this session:

[Begin recording] [Question] Mr Hashemi, tonight the Supreme Defense Council met in session at which several commanders of [word indistinct] were present. Would you please tell us what issues were discussed and what decisions were made?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. We studied the proposed plans by our three forces regarding future confrontation with the enemy. This took most of the time and the commanders of our forces were present at the session for this purpose. Reports on the situation at the fronts and future plans were submitted. It is all very hopeful and we hope to be able to have good news for our nation.

Other minor issues were discussed, such as the liberated regions, in which the enemy might have planted mines before leaving; they may have left other things to make the region dangerous for people who go there. We decided to send (?groups) to these regions to inspect the situation, and to train people and take the necessary steps so there will be no future danger for people [words indistinct].

Another point raised was exploitation of the oil in the islands around the Persian Gulf, for which Oil Ministry officials were present. We discussed the issue. [passage indistinct]

[Question] Following Iraq's threat to impose a political and economic embargo on the Islamic Republic of Iran should the [words indistinct] be defeated in the imposed Iraqi war, the United States has decided to increase its Rapid Deployment Force in the region. What do you think the connection is between these two (?utterances)?

[Answer] Usually they (?work together). They intend to create an atmosphere to frighten us and to make us lose heart and to boost the morale of the Iraqis. We have always known that they threaten us and that they use all means available to them -- Saudi Arabia and others, and many others of [words indistinct] and their (?lackeys) are at their disposal. [passage indistinct]

As far as the military issue is concerned, they do not have that kind of capability, and concerning the (?war), when we make a decision and when the time is ripe, it is as good as solved. They speak of mediators. We accept these mediators from the first day and have made our conditions known. We announce again that if a mediator has no new proposals or new points [words indistinct]. From now on, we will only accept those who have something new to say. Of course, we have not made a definite decision yet, but the situation they have created calls for such a reaction. Otherwise, if mediators are going to repeat earlier proposals, and then on their return announce that Iran does not accept them, this is not new. [passage indistinct]

[Question] What is your view on the negotiations of the puppet regime in Lebanon to sign a peace treaty with the Zionist regime? What will the stand of the Islamic Republic be in connection with this issue?

[Answer] We expected this from Lebanon. When they imposed (?him), we did not expect him to act independently. Now they will impose as much as they possibly can [words indistinct] on Arabs. They should be confronted by force. This (?kind) of power is available to Arabs, but unfortunately those who have power, do not use it. By power, I mean first the economic strength and [words indistinct]. The United States does not allow them and they have no independence to act when faced with the United States. Eventually they should decide to attack on all sides and face (?conspiracies). If they do, (?they will be victorious in the region).

[Question] What is your view on the incidents of the past few days (?in our country)?

[Answer] I cannot comment on this issue because it was not discussed and at present [words indistinct]. [end recording]

IRNA Report

LD021044 Tehran IRNA in English 0911 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 2, IRNA -- Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Rafsanjani urged the peace missions having no new proposals, not to come to Iran stressing that the Islamic Republic was prepared for all possible consequences.

Imam Khomeyni's representative to the Supreme Defence Council [SDC] who was speaking at the end of Monday evening's SDC session, referring to Arabs' threat of the imposition of a political and economic sanction against Iran and an increase of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force in the region, said that they would always harmonize their activities.

Rafsanjani further added that this move was aimed at creating an atmosphere to encourage Iraq and that this country and its supporters had not wasted any single opportunity for action against the Islamic Republic. But, Rafsanjani noted, all these were empty threats.

Saudi Arabia had provided Iraq with money while others helped that regime through political and military means but the issue of the war will be solved when Iran will decide and deem it wise, Rafsanjani said.

Another issue discussed at the SDC, the Majlis speaker said, was the case of a group of Iraqi POWs who staged a sit-in and now were demanding that they should either be dispatched to fight with Saddam Husayn's forces or should be allowed to take part in the renovation activities in the war stricken areas. Decisions were taken in this connection and conveyed to the army headquarters to be carried out according to international regulations for the treatment of POWs.

The main topic of the SDC was to review future plans to confront the aggressive Iraqi enemy, Rafsanjani said hoping that there would be good news for the nation in this respect.

The session was presided over by President 'Ali Khamene'i, and also attended by Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi, Joint Staff Chief General Qasem 'Ali Zahirnezhad, Defence Minister Colonel Mohammad Salami, Navy Commander Captain Bahram Afzali, Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati, War Information Headquarters head Kamal Kharrazi, IRGC [Union Revolution Guards Corps] Deputy Commander 'Ali Shamkhani and a number of other officials.

OFFICIAL DISCUSSES WAR WITH SOVIET ENVOY

GF311631 Tehran IRNA in English 1600 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 31, IRNA -- Despite the Soviet Union's position that the continuation of the Iraqi imposed war is in the interests of imperialism, and against the two peoples, Ahmad Azizi stressed that this war was imposed by Saddam with the complete support of U.S. lackeys and world arrogance.

The deputy foreign minister made this comment during a meeting with Soviet Ambassador V.K. Boldyrev, this morning, and added that the war could not come to an end without the punishment of the aggressor and without a responsible assessment of the injustice done to the Islamic Republic during the course of the war.

Azizi said that without the realisation of these conditions, the U.S. and its mercenaries around the world would be given the chance to aggress the genuine revolution and inflict considerable damage on the human economic and military resources of the deprived peoples without being punished.

MUSAVI CHAIRS, COMMENTS ON CABINET MEETING

LD311146 Tehran IRNA in English 1035 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] Tehran, Oct 31, IRNA -- The efforts of the Foreign Ministry in the U.N. for the expulsion of the Zionist regime and the countries which voted for the Iranian proposal were discussed in today's meeting of the Cabinet, chaired by Prime Minister Hoseyn Musavi.

The Cabinet also conferred on the achievements of the Islamic forces in their purging operations in the western regions of the country and lauded the combatants for their important moves in liberating parts of the Piranshahr-Sar Dasht axis, in West Azerbayjan Province.

Also heavy industries minister, Behzad Nabavi, gave a report on the results of the recent visit of three ministers to the Kordestan region which included problems being faced by the people there and the development projects currently underway in that region.

The Cabinet stressed on the need for cultural, economic and developmental activities in Kordestan especially after the recent successful operations against the counter-revolutionary armed elements.

Other matters discussed in the meeting included a number of bills concerning with the customs and economic and financial affairs.

Iran is the greatest enemy of the Zionist regime, announced Prime Minister Musavi after the Cabinet session today.

He said that Iran's opposition to the Zionist regime's existence in the Mid East stemmed from its ideological belief in Islam.

Political games, he added, would never affect the Iranian stands vis-a-vis the problem of Quds (Jerusalem), and that the Iranian position towards countries which were in some ways connected to the Zionist regime had always been clear from the very beginning.

The prime minister was referring to the peace treaty between Lebanon and the Zionist regime, when he said that it was part of the conspiracy, masterminded by the U.S., and engineered in the Fes summit. He said he was optimistic about the future prospects of the Islamic countries since imperialism and Zionism's designs would be aborted through the vigilance of the peoples.

He also added that the bill determining the limits and activities of the private sector will be presented to the Majlis by the end of the week and the bill concerning the government and cooperative sectors will be introduced to the Majlis by the end of the year, ending March 21, 1983.

BILL TO ESTABLISH INTELLIGENCE MINISTRY APPROVED

WA011200 Tehran KEYHAN in Persian 12 Oct 82 pp 1, 4

[Text] KEYHAN Political Service -- An open session of the Majlis was held today, chaired by 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani. It continued its debate on the bill to establish a Ministry of Intelligence for the Islamic Republic of Iran.

At the beginning of today's session, the government representative explained the bill, stating: "Four basic intelligence matters have been taken into consideration in this bill: internal intelligence, foreign intelligence, counterintelligence and security. In the preceding session, brothers from the opposition made remarks about this bill and said detection and prevention of crime are responsibilities of the judicial system. Meanwhile, there have been repeated meetings with members and lawyers of the Council of Guardians, and members of the Council of Guardians also agreed to establish a Ministry of Intelligence."

Speaking for the Revolution Guards Corps, Shamkhani then commented on the bill: "To establish a Ministry of Intelligence through this bill would oblige the Revolution Guards Corps to protect the objectives of the said ministry; the corps would have to implement such an obligation. Every ministry and government organ, faced with security matters, would have to make such information available to the Ministry of Intelligence, and this would constitute interference in the affairs of the Guards Corps. The corps is, in general, opposed to the intelligence organ becoming a ministry."

Movahedi Saveji, spokesman for the Special Intelligence Committee, explained the bill and commented on its opponents' statements: "No budget has yet been authorized for this bill. However, once this ministry is established, it certainly will have its own budget, which of course will be secret. However, the said budget will be submitted to the Majlis for approval. In response to Shamkhani's comments, I should mention that intelligence is not a government concern; it has to do with the people. The Guards Corps and the Mobilization Corps are both at the heart of it. We did not turn over intelligence to any organ or ministry; we put it in the hands of a council consisting of 11 members, 5 of whom will be named by the imam."

The entire bill later was voted on and approved by a majority of 138 votes.

REVOLUTION GUARDS TO ORGANIZE NAVAL UNITS

GF311140 Bushehr Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] The Islamic revolution guards will form naval units to combat counterrevolutionaries and smuggling activities in our country's waters, according to Rafiq Doust, member of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, who traveled to Shiraz to visit a unit of the revolution guards stationed here and to study mobilization difficulties in the region. He arrived in Bushehr last Thursday.

After participating in the 'Ashura ceremony, he told a correspondent of the Central News Unit in Bushehr about the formation of Islamic revolution guards naval units and said that our aim in organizing these units is to safeguard the Islamic revolution and to combat counterrevolutionaries and smugglers along with their brother naval forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran. He also expressed his hope that by the formation of these units, the revolution guards would be able to have an active presence in the waters of our country.

He added that the aim of organizing a Ministry of Revolution Guards will be to establish a direct liaison with the Majlis and the government and to better mobilize the Revolution Guards Corps for steadfastessness and complete accomplishment of constitutional law and observance of Islamic standards and norms.

Commenting on the present preparations by the revolution guards on the battlefields, Doust pointed out the extended assistance and sacrifices of the fighting 'umma and martyr-nourishing people during the imposed war and said the history of wars has never registered such support as the nation has shown its fighters. This is proof of the righteousness and nobility of our Islamic revolution. At the beginning of the imposed war, we were unprepared and most of the preparation was provided by our heroic nation or it was seized by our Islamic combatants from the aggressor enemy by sacrifices and shedding their blood on the battlefields. We can proudly claim that now we have 10 times more capacity than at the beginning of the war and we can feel more confident in continuing the war.

At the end of the interview, he noted the formation of two armored armies and one artillery army by the revolution guards, which consist of equipment seized from the defeated enemy. He talked about the future course of the war and explained that the outcome of the war, already determined by the Supreme Defense Council, will be concluded by gaining complete victory over the aggressor Ba'thist army on all battlefields. The unbeliever Saddam will be annihilated and an Islamic republic will be established in Iraq by the Iraqi Muslim people, which will be elected by the oppressed people of Iraq.

GROUND FORCES COMMANDER DENIES BUKAN CAPTURE

LD011726 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Excerpt] During morning parade at Urumiyeh Garrison this morning, Col Sayyad-Shirazi, commander of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, denied rumors spread by colonialist mouthpieces on the capture of Bukan by armed counterrevolutionaries. He said: That city is at present still in the hands of the forces of Islam. Thanks to the alertness of the combatants of Islam and the combative people of Bukan, counterrevolution would never dare do such a thing.

During his speech, the commander of the ground forces, who arrived in Urumiyeh yesterday, said that the aim of his trip to western Azarbayjan was to inform the combatants stationed in that region of the latest developments on the fronts of the battle between right and wrong. While referring to the victories of the self-sacrificing forces of Islam over the forces of blasphemy, he said: We thank God Almighty who has made us worthy of these victories.

IRAQI ULEMA OFFICIAL ON CEASE-FIRE CONDITIONS

LD012048 Tehran IRNA in English 2017 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Arak, Nov 1, IRNA -- Member of the Iraqi combatant Ulema Society, Seyed Mohammed Baqer Hakim, said here today that about 100,000 Iraqi Muslim mujahideen are now prisoners in Iraq, and that ever since the culmination of the Islamic revolution in Iran (February 11, 1979) at least 5,000 people had been killed by Saddam Husayn's men.

Seyed Mohammad Baqer Hakim who had met and talked with a group of Iraqi POWs here, reminded that the option by the Iraqi POWs to fight against the Iraqi forces alongside with the Iranian troops, was sufficient evidence of the reluctance of the Iraqi people to fight against the Islamic forces, and that the gesture proved that the Iraqi troops were fighting under sheer coercion.

Asked about his opinion about Iran's conditions for a ceasefire with the Baghdad regime he said that Iran's terms for ending the war were in keeping with the Islamic dictates and corresponded with the international customs, and was one to the best interest of the people of Iran and Iraq.

He said Saddam Husayn was personally responsible for all damages inflicted upon the people of Iran and Iraq.

He also praised the behavior of the Iranian officials with the Iraqi POWs and said that based upon his own findings the Iraqi POWs enjoyed by far better facilities in their camps than did the Iranian soldiers.

IRNA REPORTS IRAQ EXECUTES KHOMEYNI SUPPORTERS

GF261750 Tehran IRNA in English 1724 GMT 26 Oct 82

[Text] Bakhtaran, Oct 26, IRNA — Some 150 Iraqi Muslims from Karbala', who were accused of supporting the Islamic revolution, were executed by the Iraqi Ba'thist regime during Tuesday to Friday last week.

This was said by one of the seven Iraqi Muslims who entered Iran through one of the western regions and sought asylum in the Islamic Republic over the 48 hours preceding Tuesday.

This defector also emphasised that the victories of the Islamic combatants have made Saddam's regime to step up its pressure against the Iraqi Muslims.

Meanwhile, a report from Urumiyeh said that the two more Iraqi citizens entered Iran through another western region and defected to the Islamic Republic on Tuesday.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- An Iranian military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed that Iranian forces have "liberated" more than 300 square km of land occupied by Iraqi forces, including 50 km of strategic border heights in southwestern Iran, and have fired on several kilometers of enemy territory. The communique indicated that Iranian deployment in the strategic heights has enabled Iran to place the road linking north and south Iraq in "serious danger," and that the plain east of the Tigris River from Basra to 'Ali al-Gharbi, including the Zubaydah oil region, is within the Iranian forces' firing range. Another communique reported by Tehran radio affirmed that Iranian oil installations in southwest Iran have been "liberated."

The Iraqi culture and information minister denied that Iraq is fighting in Iranian territory, INA reported. A military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed that Iranian efforts to cross the international borders in the Maysan Governorate area failed and that 4,660 Iranians were killed. The communique added that the Iraqi Air Force completely controlled the battleskies on 2 November. However, a 3 November military communique reported by Baghdad radio stated that operations on the front are confined to artillery exchanges. Iraqi President Saddam Husayn visited the central battle sector on 2 November, INA reported.

Mediation -- In an interview with Tehran radio following a Supreme Defense Council session on 1 November, Majlis Speaker and Khomeyni's representative on the council 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani said that since Iran has made its conditions known, only those mediators who have something new to say should be accepted in the future. On 2 November Hashemi-Rafsanjani spoke in the Majlis, saying in part that "as long as Saddam exists, the word 'peace' should not be used," IRNA reported. He added that the issue of a truce could be brought up once Iran's rights have been met. Iraqi President Saddam Husayn said in Baghdad that his country does not want war, but when it is threatened, it must fight, INA reported.

Lebanon

Government Statement -- A government policy statement, read to the Chamber of Deputies by Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan and broadcast by Beirut radio, requested the deputies to grant the government exceptional powers until 30 June 1983 to amend, cancel or introduce legislation by decree in a wide range of activities including defense and security. The government would be empowered to reconsider many laws, including those regulating the organization and activities of the public sector and the judiciary. Elsewhere in the statement, Al-Wazzan announced that the government intends to help reconstruct the economy through a 5-year plan and stressed its determination to strengthen the Lebanese Army with "sound organization, sufficient personnel and developed weapons." Reaffirming that the government's immediate goal remains the liberation of Lebanon from the Israeli occupation and the evacuation of all non-Lebanese forces, Al-Wazzan said Lebanon wants to strengthen cordial relations and good neighborly ties with Syria. Palestinians lawfully residing in Lebanon will receive consideration and the right to security and protection under Lebanese law, he added.

Relations With PLO -- President Amin al-Jumayyil met with Fatah Central Committee member Salah Khalaf during his recent visit to Morocco, the Gulf paper AL-KHALIJ reported. The paper also asserted that Al-Jumayyil will shortly meet with PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat.

Composition of Multinational Force -- Morocco has "approved in principle" a Lebanese request that Moroccan troops be sent to participate in the multinational force currently operating in Lebanon, KUNA reported citing the Lebanese daily AN-NAHAR. Commenting on President al-Jumayyil's talks with Moroccan King Hassan II, Prime Minister al-Wazzan said the dispatch of Moroccan forces is under discussion, according to Voice of Lebanon radio. However, high-ranking Israeli officials cited by Jerusalem radio announced that Israel opposes the inclusion of Moroccan units in the multinational force, although it would consider a request for Egyptian participation. Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir likewise told U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper that Israel will not agree to the inclusion in the multinational force of units from countries that are hostile to Israel or that have no relations with it, the radio reported.

Security Situtation -- The multinational force and the Lebanese Army deployed in East Beirut early on 3 November, Beirut radio reported. Clashes continued in the Ash-Shuf mountains the previous day, causing further casualties, the radio noted. A Lebanese Army statement broadcast by the radio accused the IDF of preventing Lebanese Army units from entering the area. However, in a report on the IDF's role in maintaining security in the Ash-Shuf area, Jerusalem radio claimed that the Lebanese Army is in "no hurry" to take over the task of peacemaking between the Druze and Christians from the IDF. Meanwhile, Progressive Socialist Party leader Walid Junblatt sent a message to President al-Jumayyil, calling for cohesion to stop the fighting and to foil the "conspiracy" in the mountain area, Beirut radio reported.

Egypt

Relations With Israel -- President Husni Mubarak said at a news conference in Cairo that the United States considers Israel's building of a hotel in Tabah to be a violation of the peace treaty, Cairo radio reported. Mubarak stated that it would be best to settle the Tabah issue through negotiations in which the United States would participate. He added that it would be a "good sign" if Israel ended the Tabah problem, and then autonomy negotiations on new bases could be resumed. Israeli Foreign Minister Shamir averred that Israel is willing to discuss the Tabah dispute, but said that the issue should not be separated from the other problems, Jerusalem radio reported. President Mubarak earlier told an Egyptian political conference that there is no room for war with Israel, MENA reported.

Elat Envoy -- President Mubarak claimed that there is no connection between the recall of the Egyptian envoy in Elat and the start of the negotiations on Tabah, Cairo radio reported. However, he indicated that Egypt will decide the timing of the envoy's return. ITIM claimed that the Egyptian consul plans to return on 10 November.

'Ismat as-Sadat -- The late Egyptian President Anwar as-Sadat's stepbrother, 'Ismat as-Sadat, has rejected the charges that he was involved in "illegal activities," AFP reported citing the Egyptian weekly newspaper ASH-SHA'B.

PLO

A Palestinian figure close to PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat has said that the forthcoming Palestine National Council meeting will not be held unless an "overwhelming majority" agrees to support the official PLO decision to delegate Jordanian King Husayn to speak on behalf of the Palestinians, the Gulf paper AL-KHALIJ reported citing "informed sources."

Libya

Following his visit to the DPRK, Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi arrived in Yugoslavia on a 2-day official visit, TANJUG reported. Meanwhile, Tripoli Voice of Arab Homeland radio announced that Al-Qadhdhafi and DPRK President Kim Il-song signed a treaty of friendship and cooperation that strengthens ties between Libya and the DPRK in political, economic, cultural and military fields.

NATIONAL GUARD, SARANDOY TROOPS DISCHARGED

LD021844 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Discharge of those troops who have completed their military service in the DRA Armed Forces began today in accordance with an earlier announcement by the armed forces organization department.

Among those discharged were a larger number of heroic troops who pledged not to lay down their weapons of struggle and have voluntarily rejoined the ranks of the armed forces. They have been absorbed as NCO's and officers.

A glorious meeting was held today by the National Guard to mark the troops discharge.

The commander of the National Guard spoke about the importance of armed defense of the gains of the April Revolution, particularly its new development stage. Speaking on behalf of their colleagues, a number of officers and troops then spoke and pledged their readiness to confidently continue the struggle to eliminate and destroy the counterrevolutionaries and to construct a new society in the country.

Likewise, troops of the sarandoy command and operational battalion, Gowr Province, who had successfully completed their military service in the sarandoy and who were eligible for discharge, were discharged today.

At a meeting on this occasion, a number of officers spoke on behalf of the others and once again they pledged to defend the gains of the April Revolution in their civilian life.

OFFICIALS STOP ENLISTMENT OF PASHTUN TRIBESMEN

BK021634 Hong Kong AFP in English 1605 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Islamabad, Nov 2 (AFP) -- Afghan officials released members of Pushtu tribes in the eastern province of Pakitia from the army after tribesmen held a protest demonstration in Kabul, a Western diplomatic source said here today.

Kabul's "tactical retreat" on enlisting Pushtu members was seen here as both evidence of the difficulties President Babrak Karmal's regime is having controlling the turbulent province and possibly a gesture to the tribes, offering them a certain autonomy in exchange for reduced resistance activities, various sources said.

The pro-Soviet Afghan Government broke with a half-century-old tradition of Pushtu freedom from conscription when it began drafting Pushtu tribesmen last month. The move was intended to weaken strong rebel activity in Paktia, which is southeast of Kabul and borders Pakistan.

According to diplomats, Paktia tribal chiefs decided to hold an assembly in the Afghan capital to protest the conscriptions. The assembly, attended by from 2,000 to 3,000 tribesmen, reportedly met for three days, probably last week, in a park in the center of Kabul.

The sources said the army surrounded the assembly and that after lengthy discussion a government official accepted the "temporary suspension" of the conscription and agreed to discharge Paktia men who had been drafted.

According to several sources in Peshawar who are close to the Afghan resistance, the mujahedin have increased their pressure as winter approaches on Soviet-Afghan military posts in Paktia.

A post was seized in Dabguey in mid-August and another, defending a garrison in Khost, was taken about 10 days ago.

The rebels in Paktia, who are organized according to their tribal affiliations, recently launched several attacks inside Khost but are not strong enough to take over the town, the source said.

Meanwhile, Western diplomats said that a second anti-Soviet demonstration took place on October 19 in Kabul. Several hundred workers from the Jangalak factory marched to call for Soviet withdrawal and to express support for the Karmal government.

The demonstration was dispersed without incident, the diplomats said.

In another development, many residents from towns near Kabul hit in heavy bombing last month have taken refuge in the capital or in the mountains.

On the Shomali plateau north of Kabul, 80 percent of the villagers left after their homes were destroyed, the diplomats said.

Finding food is the main problem for residents of the bombed regions. Amin Wardak, the mujahedin leader in the province of Wardak, southwest of Kabul, said harvests this year have only been a third what they were last year and that the rebels were now more concerned with feeding their families than with fighting.

Western diplomats said that in the Panjsher Valley north of Kabul only young and strong men would spend the winter in their villages, which were destroyed in a Soviet offensive in September.

The catastrophic food situation has created a new wave of refugees from Panjsher to Pakistan, resistance sources in Peshawar said.

2,500 FORMER 'COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES' SURRENDER

LD292216 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1530 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Excerpt] Revolution teaches the masses during its unfolding, and during its victorious development separates the toiling masses from the enemies of mankind, the homeland and the revolution and places them in the ranks of its defense. On this basis, 2,500 of our compatriots who had been deceived as a result of slanderous enemy propaganda and who stood against the interests of our toiling people in the ranks of the counterrevolutionary bands of SAMA [Afghan People's Liberation Organization] and the so-called Bolboddin Islami Party, have recently surrendered to the revolutionary government in (Mer-Bachakot) district. They realized that the principled policy of our party and of the revolutionary government and the righteousness of the April Revolution particularly its new development stage, and took advantages of the general amnesty decree dated 18 June 1981. They have joined the revolution defense groups to defend the interests of the homeland, the people and the revolution.

A celebration meeting was held this morning to mark this occasion in (Mer-Bachakot) district. The meeting was attended by more than 6,000 working people of Kalakan, (Bala-Qodsar) and (Moshwany) villages and other villages of the district.

The meeting began with expressions of the enthusiasm and ardent feelings of the workers of (Mer-Bachakot) district. The representatives of 2,500 of our compatriots who joined their revolutionary government attended this meeting with their weapons.

A report describes how the meeting began with the recitation of verses from the holy Koran and the playing of the DRA national anthem.

A representative of our country's security forces then spoke and commended this praiseworthy and benevolent action by the deceived brother-compatriots who have returned to the bosom oftheir revolutionary government. He added: These deceived compatriots who joined the counterrevolutionary bands of SAMA and Golboddin have now voluntarily joined the revolution defense groups of (Mer-Bachakot) district and will defend their homes with their weapons.

AUTHORITIES WARN AGAINST POLITICAL ACTIVITIES

BK030717 Hong Kong AFP in English 0658 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] Dhaka, Nov 3 (AFP) -- All Dhaka newspapers today frontpaged a warning from martial law authorities [on] activities under cover of social, cultural or religious functions.

The warning, contained in an official handout, said these "elements" were trying to use seemingly innocent gatherings to promote their political aims at a time when all political activites are banned under martial law. It said the government cannot but take a serious view of the matter and reminded all concerned that organizing processions, raising slogans, holding meetings of a political nature and distributing leaflets containing political materials were punishable under martial law regulations.

In the event of willful violation of such regulations, the government would have no option but to enforce provisions of the regulations, it added.

The handout did not identify the elements involved, but the warning came within a week of a wedding reception organised in Dhaka for the recently married general secretary of the National Socialist Party JSD, Mr Abdur Rab. The reception was attended by a cross-section of people, including politicians and diplomats, according to press reports.

Three months ago, JSD's president, Retired Major M.A. Jalil, a bearded revolutionary and former freedom fighter, also got married and a similar reception was held on that occasion.

CONGRESS-I PARTY LOSES MAJORITY IN BARODA

BK021623 Hong Kong AFP in English 1227 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 2 (AFP) -- Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress Party has lost the working majority in the municipal corporation of Baroda, the city wracked by Hindu-Moslem riots, following resignations of Moslem party members.

The councillors quit over what they called the state administration's failure to curb the disturbances, it was reported.

Nisar Husain, one of the three councillors who resigned from the Congress Party, told the Press Trust of India (PTI) there that the state administration in Gujarat, also controlled by the same party, had failed to stop the trouble and protect innocent and law-abiding people.

Baroda is one of the major towns in the western coastal state.

He said an unattached independent had also withdrawn his support to the Congress, reducing its strength in the 60-member civic body to 25.

The riots, which broke out Wednesday last, have claimed seven lives and left scores injured. Nearly 550 arrests have been made, 102 of them yesterday, in the curfew-bound city. An earlier PTI dispatch said there were no fresh incidents during the day today.

PUNJAB LEADER: FOREIGN SOURCES BEHIND CLASHES

BK021544 Hong Kong AFP in English 1420 GMT 2 Nov 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Text] Chandigarh, Punjab, India, Nov 2 (AFP) — Foreign sources were behind the autonomy calls by Sikhs that have led to violent clashes in the Punjab, State Chief Minister Darbara Singh charged today in an interview with Agence France-Presse.

"I can list the evidence if and when asked.... But take it from me that the autonomy demand had the backing of foreign elements," Mr Singh, 60, said.

"From where do you think tons and tons of money is coming.... It is being sent from foreign countries," Mr Singh said.

Mr Singh, who heads Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's ruling Congress Party here, accused the leaders of the Sikh political party, the Akali Dal, of misleading the people of Punjab, which borders with Pakistan in the west, and making political capital out of the present movement.

"I know them (the leaders) too well.... When they were in power they never bothered for the autonomy or religious demands, but suddenly they have become the torch bearers of the entire Sikh community in the country," he said.

The Akali Dal, which ruled here in 1977-79, is currently leading the protest which, according to political observers, has posed one of the most serious challenges in Mrs Gandhi's political career.

Mr. Singh, however, refused to identify the countries or the sources allegedly backing the Sikh autonomy demand. Mr Singh's official residence here looks like a fort. The house is encircled by police tents and armed guards. A team of five sten-gun-carrying policemen throws a security ring around the chief minister whenever he goes out.

"I do not want this high security... I don't give a damn... They cannot kill me," he said and recalled how he escaped with minor splinter injuries when unidentified Sikhs threw a grenade while he was addressing a public meeting in his home district of Rahon, about 100 km (60 miles) north of here last August.

Mr Singh said he had intelligence reports warning him that there could be more attempts on his life.

The Akali Dal, which ruled here for about two years in 1977-79 is currently leading the protest which, according to political observers, has posed one of the most serious challenges in Mrs Gandhi's political career.

"Many of the people who are backing the demand for autonomy are downright terrorists.... My intelligence reports say they could do anything to draw public attention and create problems in the state," he said.

Mr Singh said his official reports on the leadership of the Sikh autonomy movement suggested that the militant faction in the Akali Dal and other associate bodies was gaining ground and the moderates were losing strength.

"It is irony of the state that when we are doing so well in agricultural production and development, the so-called leaders have raised the demands which are harming everybody and especially the common man," he said.

Soon after the interview Mr Singh, who has been chief minister here for nearly three years, left for New Delhi to help federal leaders to hammer out a solution before November 4 -- the day set by the Sikh leaders for launching the "Dharma Yudha" (Sikh holy war).

"We are ready to accept their religious demands with some modifications, but how can you expect us to agree to their political demand which says that Punjab should be made near autonomous with the federal government controlling only defence, communication and currency."

Mr Singh was noncommital when asked if the New Delhi meeting slated for this evening will bring about a settlement.

"I am not very sure. These (Sikh) leaders are unpredictable. They may change their stand any time and often for no logical reason."

Meanwhile, state police sources here said that all arrangements were complete in the Sikh holy city of Amritsar 200 km (120 miles) north of here to counter the November 4, "holy war" threat.

Over 2,500 armed police, backed up by an estimated 4,000 to 6,000 paramilitary forces, have been posted in the city of half a million people.

"We are not leaving anything to chance. If they (Sikh leaders) want to be nasty, we can reply well. Let there be no doubt about that," Mr Singh said.

PUNJAB MINISTERS WARNED OF DEATH THREATS

BK030112 Hong Kong AFP in English 1720 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Excerpt] Chandigarh, Punjab, Nov 2 (AFP) -- The Punjab government today ordered all ministers to cancel public appearances for the next few days following intelligence reports of possible assassination attempts by militant Sikhs demanding autonomy for this sensitive state bordering Pakistan. Officials here said the order was effective from tomorrow. The ministers have been asked to stay in the state capital and not to move anywhere.

The order comes 48 hours before the scheduled launching of the Sikh "holy war" in the Sikh holy city of Amritsar, 200 km north of here, on November 4.

The number of policemen guarding the official residences of the ministers here was increased today with the conventional rifles being replaced by sten guns.

The Sikhs' demand for autonomy had often become violent, climaxed by an attempt on Chief Minister (head of administration) Darbara Singh's life recently and attempt to storm the country's parliament in the Indian capital.

Meanwhile, state police sources said they were fully geared up to meet any Sikh threat in the coming days, which will be crucial.

MAJLIS SPEAKER: OPERATION COMPLETELY SUCCESSFUL

LD021910 Tehran IRNA in English 1047 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov, 2 (IRNA) -- Majlis Speaker 'Ali 'Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani this morning praised achievements of the Iranian forces in their latest offensive, "Operation Moharram," launched early this morning in south western warfronts. Speaking at the open session of the Majlis, Rafsanjani said "this operation has been completely successful and all its objectives have been fulfilled by the early hours today."

So far some 250 sq. kms. of the Iranian territory which was under Iraqi control for more than 25 months have been liberated in the course of the Moharram operation.

Continuing his remarks on the offensive, Rafsanjani said that a vast area between Faqih and Dehloran, western Iran, as well as strategic heights, key passes and border posts have been retaken from the enemy forces. Liberation of these lands, he added, once again proved to the world that contrary to Saddam Husayn's claims that he had pulled his forces out of Iran, parts of the Iranian territory were still under the control of Iraqi forces.

Rafsanjani further called on foreign journalists to go to warfronts and see the liberated areas for themselves, adding that recovery of this territory in south western Iran, made it clear to the world public opinion that Iran had all along been defending itself and its rights.

In another part of his speech, the Majlis speaker reiterated that Iran was not interested in war. The Islamic Republic wanted peace for the region more than any other country. However, Iran would not forego its rights, he said. He further told Majlis that Iran considered the Iraqi ruler, Saddam Hussayn, an aggressor. "For us peace with Saddam has no meaning and as long as Saddam exists, the word 'peace' should not be used," Rafsanjani added.

"Once our rights have been met, then the issue of truce could be brought up in a manner that rights of the oppressed of the region and those of Iraq in particular, would be ensured," he said.

[Communique No 1 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran on the "Moharram" operation]

[Excerpts] Following the victorious Moharram operation, launched last night under the codename "Zaynab, peace be upon her," the following communique No 1 was released by the Joint Staff of the Islamic Republic Armed Forces and the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps.

The combative Islamic fighters, blessed by divine favor and achieving great victories, are about to engage in another relentless war against the mercenary enemy, thus ending the aggression by the pro-American Saddam, this mercenary element working for global oppressors, and liberating the occupied areas and returning them to Islamic Iran.

O you brave Islamic community: O you Muslim Iranian nation. Your sons, the sons of this martyr-nurturing nation, comprising members of the guards, the Islamic Corps of Revolution Guards mobilization, and the brave personnel of the Islamic Republic Army, launched the Moharram operations, codenamed "O Zaynab," peace be upon her, at 2208 yesterday. The operations were launched under the command of Karbala' headquarters in the southwestern sector of the country.

The operations achieved impressive successes in the early hours. The victorious Islamic combatants succeeded in dealing awesome blows to the Ba'thist-Zionist army and secured the Dehloran-'Eyn-e Khosh road, a road that was under their own control and firing range. This road is now safe from the fire of Saddam's forces.

Our forces also succeeded in establishing complete domination over more than 50 km of strategic border heights in the southwestern sector and liberated a vast area of our country occupied by the Iraqi forces.

In the course of these totally successful operations, our fighters recovered our border oil installations in the southwestern sector from the weakened enemy. These installations are of great importance. They then managed to hoist the Islamic Republic flag over the area. The casualties and damage inflicted on the enemy, as well as the results of Islamic combatants' victories, will be announced subsequently.

The champion umma' of Islam, the martyr-nurturing nation of Iran, the combatants of Islam, comprising the warriors of the Army of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the selfless heroes of the mobilization of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the gendarmerie forces, have followed the launching of the victorious Moharram operations, codenamed O Zaynab, peace be upon her, under the command of the Karbala' headquarters, with considerable victories and have succeeded in inflicting heavy damage and casualties on the aggressive enemy.

These operations, which cover a much larger area than that covered in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operations, have up to now succeeded in pushing the enemy back, taking the Dehloran-'Eyn-e Khosh road out of the enemy's firing range. This road was under the occupation and within the firing range of the aggressive enemy for more than 2 years.

The important and strategic Basra-Baghdad road is now within artillery firing range. Also, in these victorious operations, the forces of Islam have succeeded in taking complete control over the strategic border heights in the southwest of the country and have liberated the [name indistinct] situated on the border zone. A large number of aggressive Saddamists have been killed or wounded.

In the victorious Moharram operations, the oil installations belonging to the dear Islamic homeland and situated in the southwest of the country, which were under the occupation of the Ba'thist Zionist Saddamists of Iraq, have been liberated by our combative forces and, as a result, the Bayat oilfield which has several oil wells and produces more than 25,000 barrels of oil per day is now completely under our control.

In the operational region freed from enemy occupation, the important posts of Bayat, Nahr-e Anbar and Cham Sori, situated on the border zone, have been liberated and are under the complete control of the forces of Islam.

In these victorious operations, a large number of Ba'thist mercenaries were killed or wounded. A considerable number of enemy forces have been captured by the forces of Islam. A large number of Iraqi military personnel were captured in one of the operational zones by the sons of Islam.

Also, at 0803 today, one of the planes belonging to the aggressive enemy was downed by the fast flying fighter planes of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran in one of the operational regions.

Further reports will be brought to the attention of the Muslim and martyr-nurturing umma' in other communiques. We hereby request the Muslim and martyr-nuturing umma' to gather in mosques and other places of prayer and pray to Almighty God for the complete and speedy victory of the combatants of Islam over the aggressors and lackeys of world blasphemy.

[Communique No 3 of the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. In continuation of the victorious Moharram operations, launched under the command of the Karbala' headquarters -- the center for joint operations of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps -- codenamed Zaynab, may peace be upon her; the combatants of Islam, comprising the brave warriors of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, the self-sacrificing guards and mobilization forces of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, with the aid of undiminishing divine power and through God's invisible assistance and with the help of the imam of the era, may God hasten his lofty advent, gave a brave reply to the aggression of the occupying forces of the Iraqi Ba-thist-Zionist regime.

During these victorious operations, the combatants of the Koran, after crossing various types of obstacles such as minefields, networks of chemical substances, barbed wire and 10-row poles were confronted by the enemy's 10th Armored Division (?together with nine other brigades). The combatants of Islam inflicted another severe defeat on the 10th Armored Division and other forces of Saddam's invading forces.

In this part of the military operations by noon today, the defenders of the Islamic revolution succeeded in liberating more than 300 sq km of land occupied by the Ba'thist enemy. Several kilometers of enemy territory came under fire from the defenders of the Islamic revolution. The God-loving defenders of the umma' of Islam, during the successful Moharram operations, have so far succeeded in safeguarding the Dehloran-'Eyn-e Knosh highway, which is 100 km long, from enemy fire and have succeeded in returning security to the Musian, Dehloran, 'Eyn-e Knosh and Dasht-e Ajiyeh regions and their surrounding villages. Following these operations, traffic movement to these regions from the Islamic homeland has been restored and large areas of agricultural land have been liberated for farming and are ready for cultivation.

During these victorious operations, the combatants of Islam succeeded in liberating the Hamam Shahab, 'Eyn Mansur, Bayat, Musian, Naqsh 'Anbar and (?Cham Sori) border posts and (?in capturing) the Rabut post. As a result, the Iraqi border posts of Zubaydah, Sharkhani, 'Aliyah, Bijriyah and the gendarmerie base in At-Tib Township came under the pounding artillery fire of our forces. The combatants of Islam so far have succeeded in liberating 50 km of border heights. That is, the Hamrang mountain range and the strategic summits of 290,298 and 400 in the border strip have been liberated from occupation by the aggressive enemy. The combatants of Islam are now positioned on the highest hilltops of the region and a vast plain of Iraqi territory is now within their firing range, and they continue to pound this plain.

Following the victories gained by the defenders of the Islamic homeland during the Moharram operations and after deployment of the combatants of Islam on the above-mentioned heights, the Baghdad-Basra communication route, the At-Tib-Ammarah, At-Tib-Halfa'iyah and At-Tib-'Ali al-Gharbi routes and At-Tib-'Ammarah military and access highway, which is one of Iraq's most important economic and supply routes and an important center for transportation and the linking road from north to south of Iraq, are all in serious danger. The mercenary enemy is facing many difficulties. The vast Iraqi plain east of the River Tigris, from Basra to 'Ali al-Gharbi, is now within firing range of our victorious combatants. By threatening and pounding this region, our combatants are ready to give another lesson to the Iraqi Ba'thist-Zionist invaders and force them to stop their aggression against the Islamic homeland.

The self-sacrificing warriors of Islam are also able to pound the industrial factory in At-Tib Township and the Zubaydah oil-rich region which has about 70 oil wells. During these victorious operations, the defending forces of the Islamic homeland have killed or wounded a large number of the Saddamist mercenary invaders and have captured another large number. In view of the vastness of the operations, so far more than 500 of the misled Saddamists have been captured behind the battleline. Among the prisoners are several high-ranking Iraqi officers.

A full report of the vast operations by the combatants of Islam, including the statistics on booty, prisoners taken behind the battlelines, dead and wounded of the aggressive enemy and other victories of the divine warriors, will be brought to your attention in subsequent complementary communiques.

CORRESPONDENT INTERVIEWS CAPTURED OFFICERS

LD021836 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Report by correspondent of the Central News Unit of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] Among the hundreds of POW's moved behind the front by the early hours of this morning, a number of officers of the Saddamist regime could be seen.

Maj (Ahmad Salim Majid), deputy CO of the 1st Battalion of the 306th Brigade of Iraq's 10th Division, (Abd az-Zahra 'Abbud) [words indistinct], deputy CO of the Artillery Battalion; and (Ghalib Jawad Kazim), an officer in the Iraqi Mortar Battalion -- all captured in the Musian region by victorious troops of the Islamic army -- granted an interview to the Central News Unit correspondent, in which they reveal Saddam's crimes and those of the Iraqi Zionist Ba'thist Party. They noted that before the despotic Ba'thist regime, headed by Saddam Husayn came to power, the Iraqi nation had never faced the problems which it has faced over the past 2 years and that Saddam's claim of seeking peace following his disgraceful defeats by the Islamic Republic of Iran is only a weapon to save the Iraqi 'Aflaqite Ba'thist regime.

(Ghalib Jawad Kazim), another Iraqi officer who took part in this interview, announced that the Iraqi Army had information about the attack to be launched by the forces of Islam to retrieve the occupied territories and, therefore, had added two fully-equipped brigades to its forces already deployed on the strategic heights in the Dehloran, Musian and Eyn-e Khosh region. Nevertheless, it could not resist the assault launched by Islam's antiblasphemy forces.

In connection with the way in which Islam's combatants treated Iraqi POW's and praising the humane Islamic behavior of the Iranian combatant brothers, they rebutted the rumors circulated by the deceiving Iraqi regime about the so-called torture and execution of Iraqi POW's by the Iranians as being totally baseless.

The captured Iraqi officer, describing the disorderly internal situation in Iraq and the rampant oppression and insecurity, also referred to the shortages of public necessities in Iraq and then speaking about the Arabic language broadcasts of the Voice and Vision of the Islamic Republic of Iran said: The Iraqi people are greatly interested in listening to these programs. However, they know that if they are caught by Saddam's forces, they would be sentenced to long prison terms.

GOVERNMENT REJECTS NEW FRENCH AMBASSADOR

GF021706 Tehran IRNA in English 1650 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 2 IRNA -- Iran today announced that it will refuse to accept the new French ambassador to Tehran. This decision of the Islamic Republic Government was officially conveyed to the French charge d'affaires here, who was summoned to the Foreign Ministry this morning.

The reason that the Islamic Republic will not accept the newly appointed French ambassador, Mr Jose Paoli, is because of the French support for terrorists and counterrevolutionaries.

The Foreign Ministry of the Islamic Republic has stressed that as long as this hostile attitude of the French Government towards the Muslim people of Iran continues, and until France remains to be a a secure shelter for the munafiqeen (MKO) terrorists, relations between the two countries will not improve.

HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI GIVES 29 OCTOBER SERMON

LD291700 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 29 Oct 82

[Excerpts] Our homeland's Muslim and ever-alert nation, stricken to their very souls with grief in morning for the heart-rendering demise of the prince of the knights of the universe, the Holy Aba 'Abdullah al-Husayn, and for the oppression and injustice meted out to the martyrs of Karbala', armed with unshakable will in continuing along the red path of those who gave their lives on 'Ashura to wage relentless battle against world blasphemy and polytheism, and with hearts brimming with hatred and revulsion against Yazid and his followers for all time, today enthusiastically left for the places of worship to hold the Friday prayers rites to renew their covenant with the creator of the universe, to safeguard unstintingly the Muhammadan tradition, to manifest their unbeakable unity and cohesion and to hold even more auspiciously than ever this magnificent rite of Islam.

Tehran's God-seeking and hezbollahi citizens of Tehran, in step with our other struggling, monotheistic compatriots, with their monolithic presence in the closed ranks of the Friday prayers ceremony in the meeting place of the true followers of the path of righteousness and the safe haven of the seekers of God, Tehran University, observed the prayer rites under the imamate of Hojjat ol-Eslam va al-Moslemin Hashemi-Rafsanjani today.

In his first prayer sermon today, Tehran's provisional Friday imam continued the discourse on Islamic justice in the economic sector and Islam's orientation toward a society devoid of the meek and the arrogant and dealt with income from services.

Referring to the request by certain Iranians who live abroad to return to Iran to serve in various institutions, Tehran's provisional Friday imam said: I beg to ask our hezbollahi brothers to refrain from being too stringent in the choice of yardsticks in selecting colleagues. As the revolutionary representatives of the people, you should not give yourselves the right, by adopting an illogical and inappropriate severity, to drive away people who are desirous of serving.

Tehran's provisional Friday imam emphasized: We respect those who work well and who wish to work well and correctly, and should they deviate from the course at one stage or another, we would return them to the path. He reminded: Presently there are a great many scientific personalities and advanced and progressive brains in our country who are engaged in rendering services and their services are appreciated.

Addressing himself to those Iranians who are living abroad, Tehran's provisional Friday imam said: We have immense plans for the reconstruction of the realm and we need you. However, if you delay your return, other people will take your place. The main thing is that you should return; if you are late, it would not matter, although you would be left behind.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: Apart from terrorists, smugglers and those who perpetrate corruption, the rest of the people, provided they seek to act correctly and in a healthy manner, could return to Iran, the people are prepared to forget their ugly pasts. As for those who do not wish to remain in Iran, I do not think the government would bar their way.

Continuing his first sermon and referring to the so-called seeking of political asylum by certain corrupt officials who are remnants of the former regime and attached to Iranian embassies from imperialist countries, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani said:

[Begin recording] I don't think the government would in the least attempt to bar the way of those unwilling to remain in Iran, although those who shoulder political or financial responsibilities and should not leave are another issue. Otherwise, all others can go anywhere they want. The upshot of this is that a number of people do not want to live in this Islamic realm. Thus, when four persons come along and declare: We are political refugees in Norway or any other particular place [words indistinct] these people's state of affairs is well known [words indistinct]. The Foreign Ministry has been slow in investigating the embassies and the tasks now being carried out should have been done 2 or 3 years ago. Because we were slow, a number of satanical people remained in the embassies and of those we sent a number were (?incompetent). For instance, they were hypocritical or work-shy, and so they left. This is one aspect of the issue.

We recently investigated our embassies thoroughly. (?We found out that a number of people) are undesirable. They were either SAVAKists and not prepared to reform or were engaging in dirty work and had corrupt morals, or were treasonable and passed embassy secrets to others, or were not prepared to serve Islam. We have secrets in every country; we make purchases; we have immediate purchases. These people know this and pass this information to the enemy. The Foreign Ministry decided to recall those who were suspect or corrupt; those people realized what was happening and issued instructions that [words indistinct]. Some of these people are healthy and not too corrupt and prefer to return home to other jobs. Others cannot return. Their dossiers (?are known); should they come back, they could not work and they themselves know this perhaps better than we do. Thus, the moment we terminate them, they immediately go to the foreign ministries of countries where they serve, saying: We are political refugees and declare our loyalty to Bani-Sadr's resistance council.

The embassy member whose thievery comes to light seeks asylum first of all in those hapless imperialist countries who imagine that (?they can use these thieves) and immediately publish reports in the press.

The people who grant them asylum are weak and those who rejoice at this are weak. How unfortunate are those people who seek asylum and try to deal a blow at the Islamic Republic by behaving in this manner. This is nothing to us. If seeking asylum was of any value, it is that of those Afghan nationals who flee under the Russians' hail of fire and come to Iran where we give them jobs and money to live. This is the sort of meek person to whom it is worth giving asylum.

The Iraqi who flees from the evil of Saddam and travels on foot from Baghdad to Bakhtaran, and you have seen pictures of many of such people in the rain, this is the sort of asylum worth granting, God willing. However, you people never publish reports on them! When a person has a dossier of theft and treason against his government and has been terminated, can such a person be called a refugee? What value has he? His type has been with us throughout time.

Should we want to act as the materialist communist revolutions did, we would have built a wall around ourselves from the first day and [words indistinct]. However, the Islamic Republic did not do this. It investigated their dossiers one by one. Many of them have remained; many have reformed and many others have left without being reformed. Thus I propose to the government, God willing, let us open the borders to those who want to leave the country and let those who want to return do so.

Hojjat ol-Eslam va al-Moslemin Hashemi-Rafsanjani, in the prayers' second sermon, continuing last week's talk on the gains of the Islamic revolution and the services rendered by the revolution to the world of Islam and the oppressed, said: The Islamic revolution is similar to the revolution of Husayn ibn 'Ali, peace be upon him, and the fact that I mention the political, economic, social, cultural, scientific and technical gains of the revolution does not mean that today we have achieved all our goals and have no shortfalls. It means that despite all difficulties, shortages and shortcomings, we have achieved relatively spectacular objectives. We should note the state the country was in when we took over and the state it is in now. Of course, we have a long way ahead of us.

Referring to Iran's suggestion regarding the expulsion of the regime occupying Jerusalem from the United Nations, he said: Nobody expected such a small country, which is at war, to shake the world in an international forum to such extent.

Regarding the closure of universities and some people's remarks that the Islamic Republic is against knowledge, he said: This closure was like the closures at the beginning of the revolution which led to the downfall of the shah's regime and wiped out satanic thoughts and morale left from the imperial regime. Whereas many people thought the closure of universities was only a pretext to remove leftist thought and people, of course it was not only that but also the effect of the revolution on child culture. They insisted that the content of lectures must be altered and for this reason they staged a cultural revolution. We hope the universities will open soon with richer contents.

Referring to the culture of the Imperial Army and comparing it to the faith present in our army now, he said: This army is now twice as strong as it was 25 months ago and can fight for another 10 years. Referring to imperialists' rumors on the inability of our forces on the grounds that it is incapable of bombing the Iraqis' positions, he refuted this allegation, saying: If we wanted to forget about Islamic and humane values, we could pound the Iraqi positions and cities with guns.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani then referred to the readiness of the 20-million-man people's mobilization: With the extensive military power we now have, if all the superpowers with all their potential come to fight us, we will have the power to defend ourselves and to confront them. The provisional Friday imam of Tehran also emphasized: The Islamic Republic of Iran is now able to supply its main armament requirements inside the country and has no worry in this regard.

Referring to the mourning of the Husaynite 'Ashura, he said people who mourn the Karbala' martyrs at a time when they have their own martyrs are the backbone of this revolution.

He also referred to the active presence of the Guards Corps forces on the battlefront and on the internal front for the fight against the Mojahedin-e Khalq Organization and talked about the discovery and neutralization of the Mojahedin-e Khalq Organizations through the presence of the 36-million-strong intelligence organizations of the people, emphasizing: The program that has been planned to fight internal counterrevolution and to enforce security is miraculous.

In conclusion he said he hopes that by the extensive efforts of all forces, the country will be built thoroughly and in such a way that even grounds for imperialist propagandists' libels will disappear.

CLANDESTINE RADIO DESCRIBES RECAPTURE OF BUKAN

GF011811 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Bukah has fallen. The Kurdish city of Bukan, which was in the claws of the agents of the usurping so-called Islamic regime for some time, has been recaptured by the fighting Kurdish forces.

According to news agency dispatches, in the bloody clashes for the recapture of the city, a number of the regime's guards were annihilated and some were taken prisoner. A Kurdish spokesman in Paris announced that during the clashes, 80 of Khomeyni's mercenary guards were annihilated. The latest efforts by the Kurdish fighters reportedly was due to the strategic importance of Bukan, which is the gateway for entering Kordestan through West Azarbayjan. Since the start of the war between the guards of the illegal Khomeyni regime and the Kurdish fighters, the city has changed hands several times.

Also, according to a report by our correspondent in Paris, a group of Kurdish Iranians living in France has cabled French President Mitterrand and has explained the criminal actions of the Khomeyni regime. The Iranian Kurds have asked Mitterrand to stop the massacre of innocent civilians in the Kurdish areas of Iran in the hands of Khomeyni's regime in any manner possible.

The text of the cable:

The facist and so-called religious regime of Khomeyni, since its establishment in Iran and especially in the past few days, has made the life of Iranian Kurds so miserable that if the countries defending human rights do not take any action, the entire Kurdish population will disappear within a short time. The Kurds of Kordestan wish only for a free life in the province within Iran. The people of the province are well informed about the geophysical issues of the area and want to be able to live within Iran. The fascist and reactionary Khomeyni regime is destroying any movement opposing dictatorship. We bow to the free world's condemnations of all the calamities created by dictatorships and hope that such condemnations by the free world will continue.

However, is the murder of thousands of people of Iran's Kordestan any less important than the banning of the labor unions in Poland? Honorable French president, history will make a judgment about you should you answer the call of 5 million Iranian Kurds who only seek the right to live. In the name of the French nation, which has always fought for freedom and democracy, by using any means at your disposal, stop the murder of the defenseless people of Iran's Kordestan.

[Signed] Respectfully, the Iranian Kurds living in France

IRNA REPORTS SAYYAD-SHIRAZI DENIAL ON BUKAN

GF011630 Tehran IRNA in English 1605 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Urumiyeh, Nov 1, IRNA -- The commander of the Ground Forces of the Islamic Republic today said that the town on Bukan, in East Azarbayjan Province, was in control of the Islamic forces.

Speaking in the morning ceremonies of the 64th Army of Urumiyeh here today, Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi said that despite the lies and propaganda spread by the imperialist powers, the town was not in control of the counterrevolutionaries.

He also commented about the imposed war saying that it was clear that peace could not be achieved with the so-called peace missions because they were influenced by the U.S. He added that with the help of God, the only way to gain the rights of the Islamic Republic from Iraq was by the continuation of the war until final victory.

Meanwhile some 100 counterrevolutionaries, with the support of Iraqi artillery fire, launched an attack on the (Sheykhan) heights, south of the border city of Nowsud in Bakhtaran Province on Saturday morning.

According to a report by the daily KEYHAN, the rebels were repelled and severely crushed by the Islamic forces in the region. It added that the counterrevolutionaries had crossed the Iraqi border into the region and were finally forced to retreat on the same day back into Iraqi territory, leaving many of their forces killed or wounded.

Feeling the crunch by the Islamic forces' recent victories in the Kordestan, Bakhtaran (formerly Kermanshahan), and East Azarbayjan Provinces, the counterrevolutionaries are taking last chance attempts to regain their positions.

COMMENTARY ON EGYPT'S RETURN TO ARAB FOLD

GF020820 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Excerpts] Has the Mubarak regime returned to the arms of the American Arabs?

Mubarak still has only one more round after which diplomatic relations between him and the reactionary regimes will be restored. [passage indistinct] The steps to normalize Arab-Egyptian relations have been prepared very carefully and with full coordination. The concerned parties have played the roles assigned to them and Egypt has only to go the last round after which the goal of imperialist circles will be achieved. How have these steps been formulated and when will the result be known? [sentence indistinct]

It seems that the Zionist Egyptian regime is in a race with time these days. It left no event or incident in the region unexploited for its goals and reckless policy. Also, there seems a close connection between what is going on in the arena of conflict in the region and the regime's attempts to normalize its relations with the reactionary regimes. The Israeli armed invasion of Lebanon has paved the way for these regimes. The Arab reactionary regimes can now talk about the necessity of normalizing relations with the Egyptian regime under the slogan of a unified Arab fold, Arab solidarity and the mobilization of Arab energies to confront Israel. This step was followed by a show by the Mubarak regime. It recalled its ambassador from Tel Aviv to make the public see it was angry at Israel's actions in Lebanon and upset about the savage massacre perpetrated by the Zionist enemy against the Palestinian refugees [words indistinct]. The Israeli response was made in a way to fool the public into believing that there was a strain in Egyptian-Israeli relations. However, these acts in the play were not enough to pave the way for rapprochement between Mubarak and other rulers and regimes. The task needed a new trick [words indistinct] (?the complicated key of the Camp David accords) in Arab-Egyptian relations, according to the Israeli view. Once this problem is solved everything will become easy and Egypt's return to the Arab fold will become a legitimate matter that does not contradict the decisions adopted at the Baghdad Arab summit conference.

Observers of the development of Egyptian-Israeli relations see that the new trick is the fabricated problem over the Tabah district. The Israeli Government insists on using this district under the pretext that the area is designated for tourism. However, the goal is something else. It is to show Israel abandoning the Camp David accords in order to allow Egypt to adopt a similar stand. The Arab reactionary regimes then can say that Egypt has left the Camp David fold.

The people pushing this fallacy have forgotten that the main problem with Mubarak regime is not its being tied to Israel by a public agreement that easily can be terminated. The problem is that this regime is orbitting the course of imperialism, being lead by Israeli-like thinking leaders, and serving imperialist and Zionist interests. These are the roots of the problem that caused the Arabs to adopt a unified position on this regime during the reign of the toppled As-Sadat. Hence, any attempt to show that Israeli-Egyptian relations are strained and to take advantage of Mubarak's stand on the Saddam regime to view it as part of the Arab cause will be shattered on the rock of enhancing massive awareness that still terms Mubarak as an agent and accomplice of the enemies as long as this regime is [words indistinct] with Camp David.

The new round, as we have said, will take place either through the outlet of Egyptian-Iraqi relations or Egyptian-Palestinian relations. So what will be the result of this round? This depends on the return ofthe reactionary regimes' delegations to their countries following their visits to Cairo because in the files of these delegations lies the answer.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- A military communique broadcast by Tehran radio reported that Iranian forces began the second stage of their current operation early on 3 November and gained control of the heights overlooking the Al-Amarah region on the Iraqi plain east of the Tigris River. Tehran radio cited an Iranian military officer as saying that 'Ali al-Gharbi and Al-Amarah are "completely" within Iranian firing range. Several important Iraqi industrial and oil installations located east of the Tigris River are now within range of Iranian artillery and Iranian forces overlook the Al-Amarah-Baghdad road, the radio noted. More than 2,600 Iraqis were killed and more than 1,450 were captured during the 3 November operations, another military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed. More than 70 were killed during an infiltration operation into Iraqi territory, an additional Tehran communique broadcast by the radio stated.

A military communique broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio claimed that Iraqi forces "destroyed" the new Iranian offensive. An earlier INA report asserted that the Iraqi Air Force "paralyzed" the movement of the Iranian forces when they tried to cross the border in the Maysan Governorate. An Iraqi military source denied claims made in a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio that five Iraqi aircraft had been shot down, INA reported. Another Baghdad military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed that at least 2,027 Iranians were killed during the 3 November operations.

Musavi Comments -- In an interview with Tehran radio following a 3 November Cabinet meeting, Iranian Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi alleged that although the Iraqi regime pretended in the past few months that its forces had withdrawn from Iranian territory, the current operations have stopped that propaganda. The prime minister stated that the Iranian Government policy is clear and has been announced many times. He added that "the destiny of peace" will be determined on the battlefronts, asserting that "this offensive will have extensive political repercussions in the region."

Hammadi Comments -- Iraqi Foreign Minister Sa'dun Hammadi told the Kuwaiti daily AL-WATAN that the failure of the recent Iranian offensive is a practical end to the war, INA reported. The foreign minister said that there will be no official end to the war at present but that he expects it to evolve into border skirmishes and limited actions. He stressed that while the mediation efforts did not bear fruit, they did not fail, INA added.

Lebanon

Druze-Christian Clashes -- The government will take measures to halt the deteriorating situation in the Ash-Shuf mountain area, Beirut radio reported. Voice of Lebanon radio said 23 people were killed in the Druze-Christian clashes on 2-3 November and warned that "repugnant practices" have been committed. While the leftist clandestine Voice of Lebanon radio accused Phalangist militias of heightening tension by deploying in Druze villages, the rightist clandestine Radio Free Lebanon said the Phalangist Lebanese Forces have brought calm to the area by expelling "dogmatic socialist elements." According to Jerusalem radio, the IDF again intervened to separate the combatants and imposed a curfew on two villages. Meanwhile, Progressive Socialist Party leader Walid Junblatt returned to Beirut from Europe to participate in efforts to stop the violence, Beirut radio noted.

Relations With PLO, Israel -- Arab diplomatic sources in Kuwait described President Amin al-Jumayyil's recent meeting with Fatah Central Committee member Salah Khalaf as "positive and successful," KUNA reported. Al-Jumayyil reportedly told Khalaf that Israeli forces must withdraw from Lebanon before the Syrians and Palestinians. However, the Phalangist paper AL-AMAL has called on Lebanon to adopt a positive approach toward Israel, according to Jerusalem radio.

Relations With Libya -- Foreign Minister Elie Salim has recalled Lebanon's ambassador from Libya because of Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi's statement in Beijing criticizing the election of President al-Jumayyil, Voice of Lebanon radio reported.

Reaction to Emergency Powers Request -- The leadership of the Phalangist-dominated Lebanese Front unanimously decided that the Chamber of Deputies' vote of confidence in the government must be separated from the vote on the government's request for exceptional powers, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. Some other political blocs have adopted a similar stance, according to Beirut radio.

PLO

The new Voice of PLO radio in Baghdad stressed the determination of West Bank and Gaza Strip Palestinians to resist the Israeli occupation and said their decision will continue to be: "No peace with the Zionist occupiers, no peace with the invaders." The PLO Higher Military Council is currently studying plans to expand guerrilla operations inside the occupied territories, according to the UAE paper AL-KHALIJ.

GCC

GCC foreign ministers meeting in Manama discussed important political, economic, defense and security issues in preparation for the GCC summit scheduled to begin there on 9 November, WAKH reported. Speaking at the end of the 3-day foreign ministers conference, Bahraini Foreign Minister Shaykh Muhammad ibn Mubarak Al Khalifah told a press conference that a GCC economic agreement will come into force on 1 December and indicated that the GCC will take important steps in the security and defense sphere, WAKH noted. Meanwhile, the Kuwaiti paper AL-WATAN revealed that the ministers approved a formula for establishing a GCC unified military council, according to QNA. AL-WATAN also reported that the ministers agreed to omit some of the disputed articles from the recently deferred GCC security agreement and to submit a new draft to the GCC summit.

'THOUSANDS OF ARMED SIKHS' ARRIVE IN AMRITSAR

BK031550 Hong Kong AFP in English 1527 GMT 3 Nov 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Text] Amritsar, India, Nov. 3 (AFP) -- Thousands of armed Sikhs, chanting "raj karega khalsa" -- the pure (Sikh) will rule -- have descended on this holy city for the start tomorrow of a "holy war" to back their demand for autonomy for the Punjab.

Carrying swords, spears and licensed guns, an estimated 10,000 to 12,000 Sikhs have already arrived here, an administration source said today. More were seen coming from adjoining villages in buses, tractors and specially chartered vehicles.

Sikh leaders had announced last month that if Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's federal government did not accept their autonomy demand by tomorrow, they would enter a new phase of the agitation with a call for a "holy war."

Several rounds of discussions between a five-member Sikh team and Mrs. Gandhi's ministers have apparently failed to come to an agreement.

The Sikh leaders were meeting here late tonight in a last minute bid to find avenues to common ground with the federal government. There appears to be disagreement among the Sikh leaders on the launching of the "holy war" tomorrow. A Sikh source said two of the five members were in favour of postponing the new programme, but others were pressing for it. A spokesman for the Sikh political party, the Akali Dal, which is leading the present agitation, said the talks had been inconclusive but the leaders would meet again later today.

Sant Jarnail Singh Bhindranwale, who heads the militant Sikhs, was in favour of intensifying action and forcing the federal administration to accept Sikh demands. Mr Bhindranwale, 35, told Agence France Press that he would not accept anything less than autonomy for the Punjar although the government would keep control of defence, currency, communications, railways and foreign affairs. Mr Bhindranwale has shot up as the undisputed leader of the militants and is guarded by gun-totting Sikhs. He personally carries a revolver with a sling of cartridges hanging on this waist.

Meanwhile, an official spokesman in the Punjab capital, Chandigarh, said the adminstration was ready to meet any Sikh threat tomorrow. A 5,000 to 6,000-strong force of armed police with para-military backup was deployed today in this city of 500,000 people. Some were carrying sten guns.

City residents said they were apprehensive about tomorrow. Parents have decided not to send their children to school.

"Everyone is keeping their fingers crossed. It is quite likely that the Sikh leaders will come up with something that may defuse the situation. It is equally likely that they may announce the "holy war," said a Sikh expert.

HOME MINISTER COMMENTS ON DEMANDS OF AKALI DAL

BK040921 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] The home minister announced in the Lok Sabha today that certain areas of agreement have been identified in respect of some demands of the Akali Dal. The other demands concerned various other states, therefore, consultations have to be held with the Punjab government and other concerned governments as well as the representatives of different communities before a decision can be taken. Sethi said this process of consultation has been initiated and it is likely that it will take some more time.

The home minister said amidst cheers that in taking any decision, the government cannot ignore the overall interest of national unity, integrity and welfare of all sections of the people. He said the government hopes that representatives of Akali Dal will look at their problems in the larger context. He repeated the government's invitation to them to come for further discussions. He said they should create the right atmosphere for this by calling off or suspending their agitation. Sethi hoped that in the present circumstances nothing will be done which may escalate tension or give rise to violence and suffering. He appealed to all parties to extend their cooperation.

Expressing the government's deep distress over the situation in Punjab, the home minister recalled that the prime minister and senior Cabinet members have met delegations of Akalis several times. The prime minister has indicated to them that practically all their religious demands could be accepted subject to details being worked out, but this could not be finalized because of their other demands.

The home minister's statement was welcomed by several members. Some of them demanded a discussion. The speaker said he will consider it. Sethi will make a statement in the Rajya Sabha this afternoon on the Punjab situation.

RAO ON HAQ'S VISIT, KASHMIR, OTHER ISSUES

Lok Sabha Discussion

BK031619 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] The external affairs minister has described the recent visit of the Pakistan president as significant. Speaking in the Lok Sabha, Narasimha Rao said the visit has enabled both sides to reiterate at the highest level the desire to maintain contacts. Replying to a brief discussion initiated by Dr Karan Singh, independent, he said the decision to set up a joint commission was a step forward. It would provide an agency for the normalization and strengthening of relations which has so far been taking place in a slow and haphazard manner.

About Kashmir, he said we do not agree about the existence of any dispute on this matter. The only question is that of Pakistan's illegal occupation of parts of our territory. Narasimha Rao declared that no one had at any time any right to cut Jammu and Kashmir into two. It is true that the illegal occupation had continued for a long time. But, he pointed out, it takes two for a settlement. India is trying to prepare the ground for a situation when a final settlement becomes possible according to the Simla agreement. He pointed out that Pakistan has been raising the issue in wrong forums. The appropriate forum is bilateral.

Replying to questions, Narasimha Rao denied that India had at any time said that the line of control will be a permanent border.

Earlier, Dr Karan Singh said that an honorable settlement would be welcomed, but there should be no letup in defense preparedness. He complained that a wrong map of Kashmir had been published in an American journal. He wanted the government to prevent the wrong depiction of India's boundaries.

Narasimha Rao said that the journal concerned had published an apology. He pointed out that whenever any journal had published a wrong map in the past it had apologized.

House Committee Briefing

BK031633 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] The acquisition of arms by Pakistan was briefly raised at Mrs Gandhi's meeting with Gen Ziaul Haq in Delhi on Monday. This was revealed by the external affairs minister at the Parliamentary Consultative Committee meeting in New Delhi today. He said the question of missing defense personnel was also discussed. Asked by members whether the Kashmir issue came up, Rao replied that General Zia had himself said in Bangkok that the matter was not discussed. One of the issues touched upon at the ministerial level talks was the question of the return of hijackers of an Indian airlines plane.

The Consultative Committee also discussed the Palestinian question, the situation in Lebanon and the Iran-Iraq conflict. Narashimha Rao said there must be a political settlement of the Palestinian question and he is hopeful about it though it might take a long time.

In reply to a question, the minister affirmed that the efforts of the Nonaligned Movement in this regard had not only strengthened the cause of the Palestinian people, but also the movement and promoted unity among the Arabs.

He pointed out that in the Iraq-Iran conflict, it is the nonaligned initiative that still remains in (?place). Initiatives by the organizations of the Islamic countries had been rejected and the [words indistinct] mission was virtually still there.

COMMENTARIES HAIL GANDHI'S TALKS WITH ZIAUL HAQ

Could Be Turning Point

BK021515 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1340 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Not much was expected by either side from the first ever visit of Pakistan President General Ziaul Haq (?lasting) only for 3 1/2 hours, and yet what has been achieved gives hope of a positive move forward in the efforts of the two countries to normalize relations and to seek a measure of understanding and friendship which has defied India and Pakistan all these 35 years.

The three-paragraph joint statement issued at the end of his talks with Prime Minister Mrs Indira Gandhi is important in what it has said and also in what it has left unsaid. A few points made in the joint statement are that the two leaders have agreed to the establishment of a joint commission and, accordingly, instructions have been issued to the negotiators of the two sides for a rapid conclusion of modalities and formalities in this regard. In persuance of this political direction, the officials of the two countries will meet in New Delhi in December 1982. And, finally, they have also been directed to consider the Pakistan draft of a nonaggression pact and the Indian draft of a treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation.

This clearly implies that the Indo-Pakistan dialogue, which seemed to have been caught bogged down in bureaucratic quibbling about each other's positions, has been given a definite political direction to move forward. In that sense it is a step forward, however suspicious the two sides might have been all these years of each other's motivation. Neither side ventured to characterize the talks between the two leaders as having established a personal rapport between them, nor would it have been realistic to expect that in 1 hour they have all together, along with their foreign ministers, would have provided them the opportunity to remove the cobwebs of distrust and suspicion of the past so many years.

But the very fact that the joint statement described the atmosphere in which the talks were held as of cordiality is indicative of the desire on both sides to make a fresh beginning in building bridges unaffected by past prejudices. This feeling was further substantiated when General Ziaul Haq told newsmen at the time of his departure at Delhi airport that he had excellent talks and they could not have been better. God willing, it will pave the way for better relations between India and Pakistan. To those remarks that they had an excellent meeting and heart-to-heart talks, Mrs Gandhi added that the talks were cordial as well. Without quibbling (?about) words used by the two leaders to describe their first ever formal meeting, it is obvious that the two leaders had expected much less and were able to achieve much more. And it is in that sense what has been left unsaid in the joint press statement is equally significant.

The joint statement makes only a casual mention of bilateral, regional and global issues reviewed. The spokesmen of the two sides were unable to spell out the positions the two leaders took on bilateral issues like Kashmir or a regional issue like Afghanistan or a global issue like the general deterioration in the international security environment. As is well known, the two countries have different perceptions of all these and such other issues and it would have been futile and perhaps counterproductive if these differences were allowed to be aired following the meeting which was more to find ways of working together despite any such differences. And, in that sense, it is as well that the two sides decided to keep mum on any of these issues, particularly the Kashmir issue, although the Pakistan press had given wide publicity to speculative reports that General Ziaul Haq was visiting Delhi with a definite formula to resolve it. So what little has been made known of the talks between the two leaders, it is not even certain that Kashmir was referred to in any great detail.

After the meeting, the effort of both sides, including the two leaders, was to emphasize the positive side of this meeting and an expression of hope of further fruitful meetings between them when President Ziaul Haq again visits New Delhi at the time of the nonaligned summit meeting in March next year.

While having said all this, one cannot overlook the fact that Pakistan is seeking a limited nonaggression pact at a time when it has not only revived its almost defunct defense treaty with the United States, but has taken full advantage of the U.S. assessment that, with Soviet troops moving into Afghanistan, Pakistan has become a frontline state in its confrontation with Moscow and needed modernization and reequipment of its armed forces. They have, in any case, expanded considerably since the 1971 conflict. Whatever may have been of the American motivation on embarking upon this course, it would be wrong to overlook the past experience that whenever Pakistan has been rearmed, it has turned its gun against India.

The fact of the three wars between the two countries in 3 decades can neither be washed away nor overlooked in negotiating a new relationship of peace and friendship between the two countries. It is in that sense that India is keen on what is negotiated when there is a desire on both sides. And a possibility of negotiating a closer friendship is not just a mere no-war pact, but a more comprehensive treaty which has the makings of abiding friendship, cooperation and peace between the two neighbors. This one, single development has broken the ice between the two countries. There had been no such visit of heads of government of either country since Bhutto's visit in 1972 which resulted in the signing of the Simla agreement.

With this visit, General Ziaul Haq has washed away the trauma that Pakistan presumably suffered in 1971 and India in its turn has opened its doors for a healthier relationship between the two neighbors. In that sense the minisummit in New Delhi on Monday may well go down in history as the turning point in the relations between the two neighbors.

Put Things in Perspective

BK020720 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1545 GMT 1 Nov 82

["Spotlight" by Manohar Takru, special correspondent of All India Radio]

[Text] In the zigzag relationship between India and Pakistan over the past 35 years, never have a mere couple of hours talks been as productive as they were today when Gen Ziaul Haq stopped over in New Delhi for a meeting with Prime Minister Mrs Gandhi. The most tangible outcome was, of course, their decision to establish an India-Pakistan joint commission. Officials have been charged with the task of going about finalizing the modalities and formalities of the commission rapidly and for doing so they are to meet next month in New Delhi. They will also examine the draft of the two documents exchanged between Islamabad and New Delhi: one, the Pakistani draft of a nonaggression pact and, two, the Indian draft of a treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation.

One might ask what is so significant about these decisions? After all, the establishment of a joint commission was agreed upon, though only in principle, as far back as January-February last when it was first mooted by the then foreign minister of Pakistan, Agha Shahi, in New Delhi. The question itself carries the answer, which is that already 10 solid months have passed by since then but the commission is nowhere in sight despite the agreement in principle. Offficials of the two countries have been meeting but their valiant and persistent efforts did not lead to much worth writing home about. Today's agreement at the summit level will give their efforts a much-needed push forward and hopefully there should soon be a joint commission between India and Pakistan. One might perhaps add a word here about the function of a joint commission before proceeding to discuss the all too important documents about a no-war pact and a treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation.

Joint commissions are institutionalized agencies comprising of the representatives of two countries and they meet periodically to go in depth into various matters. The commissions can be at any level and may be headed either by a minister or a senior official. As for the commission with Pakistan, it would be a safe guess that it will be headed by a minister. India has joint commissions with a number of countries and so has Pakistan. But, no two joint commissions, either Pakistan's or India's are similar. Their ambits vary and while some joint commissions concern themselves with only a few matters, some others cover a much larger area. It is, of course, next month's meeting which will discuss these matters and decide the composition, the scope and other parameters regarding the functioning of the proposed joint commission.

On the nonaggression pact, Pakistan has sent a draft to India. India itself has sent a draft of the proposed treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation to Pakistan. Both have been in the air and have been discussed, commented upon and analyzed in India and Pakistan. Today's summit-level decision asked the officials of the two countries to consider the drafts obviously with a view to come to a conclusion quickly. The two governments have been considering them for several months, but have not yet come to grips with them in any substantial manner.

There was also, at one stage, a setback when in the midst of these strenuous efforts to improve relations on the part of both the countries Pakistan thought it fit to raise the Kashmir bogey in a world forum. Though that is now all over, the process got retarded and the talks were once again resumed only in August. Today's New Delhi meeting might be said to have put things in the right perspective. The two drafts will be examined by the officials next month with the mandate from their chiefs that both are equally deserving of attention. It is quite natural that some of the points in them might overlap. So much the better because at least these would not need further examination since both the sides proposed them. In any case, the objective of both the documents is more or less the same, namely, to promote friendship and cooperation between the two neighbors.

What can be said in favor of the Indian proposal, however, is that it is more positive, emphasizing as it does peace, friendship and cooperation as against the Islamabad draft which is only for a pact that we do not go to war with each other. A treaty is a much more comprehensive document while a pact at best tackles issues piecemeal. Much can be said in favor of both concepts in the totality of the overall relationship between India and Pakistan, but one is tempted to stress that if it is in the interest of India -- as it certainly is -- to have a durable, if not permanent, relationship of friendship with Pakistan, so is it in the interest of Pakistan as well. The two countries have had a decade of peace despite many ups and downs in their relationship. What is statesmanship if not to move ahead boldly and aim at strengthening friendship and promoting cooperation rather than to stand merely for absence of hostilities? India is keen on friendship with Pakistan not for some emotional reasons, but a hard-headed assessment of the facts of life. No less a person than Mrs Gandhi herself has repeatedly said that India wants a strong and stable Pakistan. There cannot be a better awareness of that firm and sincere belief than the treaty that she offered to that country. One would hope that the officials, when they consider the two drafts next month, will take adequate notice of these factors. The fact that Gen Ziaul Haq and Mrs Gandhi are agreed that both the treaty and the no-war pact drafts should be considered is a good angury and certainly a move forward.

Besides these matters of bilateral interests, the Pakistan president and Mrs Gandhi reviewed the international situation and it is obvious that much of their attention must have been devoted to the development in this region. Not much was given out officially about this part of their talks, but the extremely tight program of the meeting could hardly have left them with any time for going beyond a reiteration of their known stand on various issues.

General Zia's all too brief visit was very businesslike. That it yielded the results it did is partly also due to the discussions that have been going at the offical level both in New Delhi and Islamabad over the past several months. He was happy with his meeting with Mrs Gandhi and this was obvious from the look of satisfaction on his face at the time of his departure from Delhi.

PM021517 Tunis L'ACTION in French 28 Oct 82 p 10

[Interview with External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao by Nefissa Ben Said in Tunis -- date not given]

[Text] [Question] Minister, you met with the Palestinian Resistance leader in the framework of a nonaligned delegation. Can you give us further details on the purpose of that initiative?

[Answer] Our meeting with the Palestinian Resistance leader is an initiative shared by all the nonaligned countries.

Mr Yasir 'Arafat received us on Sunday [24 October] and our meeting lasted more than 2 hours. We thus had lengthy discussions with him and drew entirely satisfactory conclusions from them. The delegates present [first name illegible] Indian, Yugoslav and Cuban) had the same impression. Thus we regard that meeting as positive and fruitful.

[Question] Are not the different systems in the nonaligned countries and the disagreements between them from time to time likely to seriously threaten their movement's very existence?

[Answer] The nonaligned countries do not have completely identical systems. These systems are sometimes even very different. The Nonaligned Movement includes several countries and therefore many leanings.

There may be variations but that certainly does not mean there are disagreements. Moreover, there are two kinds of problem: bilateral and collateral problems. But they are small problems. They are very minor problems.

As regards fundamental options -- peace, disarmament, the world economic order -- there are no differing views among the nonaligned countries. We pursue essentially the same objectives.

[Question] Could you tell us about the main points which will be submitted to the forthcoming Delhi summit?

[Answer] As regards the nonaligned summit which is to be held in Delhi, contacts and discussions are underway in order to draw up the subjects for the forthcoming meeting. The major current problems will, of course, be discussed: armaments, peace, detente, North-South dialogue, economic matters....And we ardently hope to achieve positive results.

[Question] There is increasing talk about the normalization of relations between India and Pakistan. If that happens what impact will that normalization have on that part of the world?

[Answer] The Nonaligned Movement aims to establish good relations not only among the countries in the movement, but with all the countries in the world.

Bilateral relations have already been opened since the Simla agreement was signed in 1972, which laid down a program for normalization between India and Pakistan.

For the time being we are going to discuss the possibilities of a nonaggression pact. That pact was suggested by Pakistan.

Moreover a treaty of friendship and good-neighborly relations has been proposed, this time by India, and the creation of a joint commission with a view to making efforts to normalize relations between the two countries.

[Question] Minister, what is the state of bilateral relations between India and Tunisia?

[Answer] Tunisian-Indian relations are excellent. We are soon going to have the pleasure and honor of receiving Mrs Wassila Bourguiba. We are awaiting that visit with great interest and that will be the best stimulus for our relations. Prime Minister Mohamed Mzali is also convinced that that friendly visit will further consolidate a lasting friendship.

GANDHI CALLS ON PEOPLE TO FIGHT DIVISIVE FORCES

BK311337 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 31 Oct 82

[Text] The prime minister has called upon the people to fight obscurantism and divisive forces to strengthen the unity of the conntry. Mrs Gandhi was speaking at a function to celebrate the birth anniversary of Maharishi Balmiki in Delhi today. She decried the efforts made by disgruntled elements to create dissension among the people on the issues of regionalism, casteism and language. She urged the people to isolate and expose these forces in the larger interests of stability and progress of the country.

Earlier, addressing a large gathering at Madras Airport on her way back to New Delhi, Mrs Gandhi appealed to the people to keep up their spirit of patriotism and pride for the nation. She said unless we strengthen the base of our country which rests on the poorest, the weakest, the small farmers and others, we cannot really see the country strong. Without the solid foundation, big units by themselves cannot help.

Mr Gandhi reiterated that the states must look at their problems in the larger interest of the country.

Talking to newsmen at Tirupati, Mrs Gandhi underlined the need for permanent measures to tackle drought. She said farmers have to think in terms of dry land farming taking the help of agricultural institutions.

FORMER MINISTER SEES POLITICAL 'ALTERNATIVE'

BK021243 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 24 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] New Delhi, Oct 23 -- A viable alternative to the "corrupt coterie" led by the Prime Minister, Mr Surya Bahadur Thapa, is slowly emerging on the Nepal's political scene, and the day of Mr Thapa's fall is not very far.

This is what Mr Pashupati Shumshere Rana, a vocal member of the Rashtriya Panchayat, believes and wants others to believe.

Mr Rana, who was a minister in the Cabinet of Dr Giri and later of Mr Bista, feels that a group of competent and enlightened people is asserting in the Rashtriya Panchayat, to highlight the people's problems.

Mr Rana, whose father had been Nepal's ambassador to India, is in town on a private visit. He came to India to see his children who are studying in Dehra Dun and his mother who lives in Bangalore.

In an informal talk with ENS [EXPRESS News Service] here on Friday, Mr Rana emphasised what he thought was major gains by the people in Nepal during the past one year -- for example the press freedom enactment.

Till last year, the proceedings of the Nepal's Rashtriya Panchayat (parliament) were virtually barred from the knowledge of the public and the press could not report the proceedings freely. This is a great victory for the democratic forces, he says.

But the greatest impediment to Nepal's development is now the "coterie" of some bureaucrats, politicians and business men led by Mr Thara according to Mr Rana.

There are four issues on which the opposition group is trying to focus attention in the Panchayat. First, the growing corruption at all levels of the government functioning.

"This has resulted into an extremely inefficient administration incapable of carrying out development schemes," says Mr Rana and adds," we can provide a clean administration and people are responding to our calls."

Secondly, the opposition is trying to build support towards further democratisation of the system. Another issue which was taken up by the group is freedom of the press.

Perhaps the most important and pressing issue is the food crisis. Because of the callous and short-sighted policies of the government, Nepal is now facing a major food crisis which threatens to worsen, Mr Rana says.'

Mr Rana does not oppose the king or the rule of the king. In fact, he feels that the monarchy should stay for a backward country like Nepal to develop.

Regarding Indo-Nepal relations, Mr Rana says that both countries have taken short-sighted view of the nature and scope of the relations. But the fate of a large number of people in both the countries is related so closely. For example, flood control in north-east India would not be possible without taking into consideration the ecology of Nepal.

He is also criticial of "a section of unscrupulous" businessmen who are indulging in smuggling. He hopes that both India and Nepal will seriously evaluate their relations and work for their improvement.

JAYEWARDENE: ASSASSINATION PLOT AMOUNTS TO COUP

BK031125 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] President Jayewardene told the government parliamentary group yesterday that there were plans being formulated by a group in the Sri Lanka Freedom Party after the results were announced in the presidential election on October the 21st to assassinate him and a few other Cabinet ministers, Anura Bandaranaike, the armed services chiefs and others. They also planned to do away with the Constitution and imprison Mrs Srimavo Bandaranaike. In other words, Jayewardene pointed out, on the strength of their victory, they planned to establish a military government tearing up all constitutional procedures as they announced at election meetings. He added that their actions, which amount to a coup, are now being investigated by the police.

Referring to the proposed referendum to extend the term of office of the present Parliament, President Jayewardene said that a referendum is, in fact, an election where the voter is asked to indicate clearly yes or no. He said that more than 1/3 of the total registered voters, that is, 2.7 million will have to vote yes to the question asked whether the term of the present Parliament should be extended by another 6 years to carry through. If however, no one voted no and 2.6 million voted yes, yet the referendum will be defeated as it did not muster the minimum number of 2.7 million votes.

MINISTER VIEWS REFERENDUM ON PARLIAMENT TERM

BK011113 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] A referendum, according to Minister of Trade and Shipping Lalith Athulathmudali, is a democratic exercise giving people the opportunity to express their views on anything. A right to decide whether to extend or not the life of the present Parliament by another 6 years rests with the people and a referendum will seek their mandate.

The trade minister emphasized that those who opposed this process is [as heard], in fact, opposing the democratic rights of the people. The minister was speaking after declaring open a free milk distribution center for children at (Katunavillapura), Ratmalana, this morning. The center will provide a glass of milk each for 300 children 6 days a week.

Speaking at length on the referendum, Athulathmudali said that an amendment to the Constitution will be introduced in accordance with the Supreme Court judgment on the subject. We said that the decision to hold a referendum is prompted by the 52.9 percent of the votes obtained by the party in the presidential election. The minister added that this will also strengthen the integrity of the country.

PRIME MINISTER REPORTS ON CABINET SESSION ON WAR

LD032312 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi interview after 3 November Cabinet session]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. We had a long and [word indistinct] session. Naturally, the first issue discussed in the Cabinet was the victory of our brave fighters on the battlefront. It was discussed as an important and (?destiny-making) event in the war. During the past few months Saddam's regime has pretended that it has withdrawn from all our country's territory [words indistinct] the blow our fighting forces delivered at the enemy in Eyn-e Khosh and other parts of our country and our regaining other large areas, in fact, neutralized all this propaganda.

In view of the scope of the victory which [words indistinct] will have an important effect upon the destiny of the war. The political consequences of this issue should not be ignored. As our forces were preparing themselves for a series of chain operations, and were starting their operations as a prelude for other preparations which they had to carry out, the reactionary countries had [words indistinct]. Also, the peace delegations that came and the letters they sent were to some extent affected by this issue so that, of course, the Islamic Republic Government gave a decisive response to this issue. Government policy on this issue has been clear and has been announced many times. However, once again our [words indistinct] and our brave fighters demonstrate that the destiny of peace will be determined at the powerful hands of our fighters on the battlefronts. Naturally, this offensive will have extensive political repercussions in the region and we should expect them.

COMMUNIQUE NO 4 ON MOHARRAM OPERATION

LD031204 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Communique No 4 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. O combative umma' of Islam, O martyr-nuturing nation of Iran: Following the start of the victorious Moharram operation which has brought outstanding victories to our Islamic umma' and which has restored more occupied lands to the Islamic homeland, in the early hours of this morning, the self-sacrificing combatants and God-seeking offspring of this Muslim people started the second stage of Operation Moharram codenamed "O Zaynab, God's greetings be upon her." By attacking the feeble enemy, they once again demonstrated their divine will.

At the beginning of this stage of the operation, the Islamic forces passed through difficult situations and areas such as minefields, took the aggressive enemy by surprise, surrounded the Ba'thist forces from two sides and amazed and struck fear into them. Since last night, the Islamic combatants have killed more than 200 aggressive, Ba'thist, Zionist mercenaries and wounded more than 300. During this stage of the operation, many enemy forces were captured and transferred behind the lines. During this successful operation, more than 40 enemy tanks, personnel carriers and vehicles were destroyed and more than 15 modern tanks and personnel carriers were captured intact by our victorious troops.

During the second stage of the victorious Moharram operation, which is still in progress, the [word indistinct] sector and [words indistinct] posts were freed from the occupation of the blasphemous Saddamist aggressors, and the glorious flag of the Islamic Republic of Iran was raised on the heights in the sector. During this stage of Operation Moharram, our brave troops gained control of the heights in the sector and brought within their firing range the Iraqi plain in the Al-Amarah region.

At present, the defenders of the Islamic revolution, while destroying enemy forces have completely surrounded the Hayfa Battalion of the 42d Armored Brigade of the IV Corps of Iraq and are dealing heavy blows and inflicting heavy losses on the Ba'thist aggressors.

The Islamic combatants are defending the land of the prophet of God -- God's blessings be upon him and his tribe -- on other operational axes and in liberated areas; they are consolidating their positions, evacuating the booty and POW's and burying the bodies of those aggressors killed in the first stage of Operation Moharram. It should be noted that with Islamic compassion and mercy the Islamic combatants have transferred more than 100 wounded Iraqi POW's behind the lines and are treating them.

A full report on the victorious operations of the Islamic forces will be brought to the attention of the ever-present umma', who aid the Islamic combatants on the fronts with their continuous prayers.

IRAQI TOWNS 'COMPELTELY WITHIN FIRING RANGE'

LD031224 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] The Hayfa Battalion for Iraq's 42d Armored Brigade has been completely surrounded by the Islamic combatants and has not the slightest hope of escape. An IRNA report dispatched form Qa'em base at 1200 today reports that two other battalions of the Iraqi forces that did not have the strength to confront the Islamic fighters were smashed during the second stage of Operation Moharram and left behind more than 400 dead and wounded.

As a result of the second state of Operation Moharram carried out northwest of 'Eyn-e Khosh in the area between the (Boyrak) River and the international border since last night, with the Islamic combatants having complete superiority, at the moment, the Islamic combatants have complete control of the Al-Amarah-Baghdad road. This important supply road of the enemy is under the direct observation and within firing range of our forces. Following the success of these operations, the enemy has lost its supply communication south of Mandali and Al-Amarah and it will face great difficulties in the future.

As one of the military commanders of the region pointed out to the IRNA correspondent concerning Iraqi towns on the other side of the border: Although these towns and those of 'Ali al-Gharbi and Al-Amarah are completely within our firing range, nevertheless, in obedience to the teachings of the Koran and Islam, we will refrain absolutely from opening fire on these residential areas. We await new orders from the commander in chief.

It should be added that, in this territory, several important industrial complexes and oil installations of the enemy, situated east of the Tigris, are completely within the firing range of Iranian artillery.

[Text] According to latest reports received from the Karbala' base, headquarters for the joint operations of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, until noon today the number of the enemy forces captured by the forces of Islam since the beginning of the Moharram operation has passed the 1,000 mark.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,103

LD031802 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,103 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Dear compatriots: Parallel with the proud and epic-making Moharram operations, which are tantamount to a golden page in the magnificent annals of Islam's combatants in this imposed war, our other mighty combatants on the rest of the battlefronts of good against evil heroically continue to wage their relentless antiblasphemy battle and inflict deadly blows on the declining body of the Saddamist army, thereby bringing the day of the death and destruction of the enemy closer. For your information, esteemed Islamic nation, we hereby give you the results of their battle:

Five aircraft of the aggressive Iraqi Armed Forces this afternoon were shot down by our fast-flying combat aircraft and air defense units in the Moharram operational zone.

In the Piranshahr region, Islam's mighty combatants, in a 2-hour artillery exchange, succeeded in setting ablaze and destroying one ammunition dump and one building of the Iraqi forces. As a result of the flames and smoke of the first, the evacuation of enemy dead and wounded continued for many hours. Several squad trenches and foxholes of the Saddamist forces also were destroyed in that region.

On the Meymak front yesterday, the intensity of artillery exchanges was greater than on other fronts in the operational zones in the west.

In the course of the exchange of fire on the Sumar and Qasr-e Shirin fronts, heavy losses and casualties were inflicted on the aggressive Iraqi Ba'thist forces.

At 2230 last night the declining Saddamist mercenaries desperately launched an attack on one of the fronts in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone. However, our victorious Islamic brothers inflicted heavy casualties and losses on the Iraqi Ba'thist aggressors, repulsing their offensive and forcing the Iraqi forces to retreat and flee.

At 0520 this morning, the defeated Saddamist mercenaries once again embarked on an offensive on yet another front of the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zones. However, by opening continuous and heavy artillery fire on the enemy units, Islam's victorious and vigilant combatants stemmed their advance and halted their movements. During these operations, the Iraqi forces, after suffering heavy losses and casualties, were at last forced to retreat and were pinned down in their former positions.

On the Khorramshahr front, our gendarmerie combatants opened retaliatory fire on enemy positions on the opposite bank of the Arvand Rud, inflicting losses and casualties on the enemy.

Yesterday, air attacks by the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries on the border towns in the country's western and southern regions were repulsed, thanks to our air defense units' fire and tactical measures by the fighter aircraft of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran. Raiding enemy aircraft then vanished from the scene.

During these successful operations, to date 1,450 Iraqi POW's have been transferred behind the front; among them a number of colonels and majors of the aggressive Iraqi Army could be seen.

CAPTURED IRAQI COMMENTS ON MOHARRAM OFFENSIVE

GF031748 Tehran IRNA in English 1645 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] Ilam, Nov. 3, IRNA -- The 1st Company of 1st Battalion of 423rd Brigade of the 10th Iraqi Division was completely crushed and a large amount of the enemy's war equipment were seized by the Islamic combatants during the successful Operation Moharram.

This company's commander, Lieutenant Salim al-Jabbar Kazim captured by the Iranian forces on Tuesday, told IRNA that the Iraqi troops were aware of the Iranian offensive and the commander of 423rd Brigade and 10th Division of Iraq had come to the region warning their forces about his attack three days earlier. He added that the Iraqi 24th Mechanized Brigade and 28th Armoured Brigade had been dispatched to the expected operation region from Basra. But, said this commander, the Iranian offensive was launched so surprisingly that the Iraqis did not even find any time to explode the incendiary bombs which they had planted in some 50-litre barrels in front of their bunkers [words indistinct] frontlines.

U.S. EMBASSY TAKEOVER ANNIVERSARY COMMEMORATED

Prime Minister's Message

LD030954 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] On the anniversary of the occupation of the American den of espionage by the Muslim student followers of the imam's policy, a message has been issued by Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi. This message refers to the struggle of the great Iranian nation against imperialism, saying:

The occupation of the archsatan's den of espionage by the children of the Muslim Iranian umma' has undoubtedly opened a new chapter in the anti-imperialist struggles of the oppressed nations, which will benefit history and future generations. To honor the anniversary of this heroic action is to stress the continuation of the policy of "neither East nor West," especially the negation of the values imposed as a result of American domination, and the continuation of the struggle against powerful and plundering nations. On that day, the holy anger of the nation, based upon the guidelines of the great leaders of the revolution, was expressed by the Muslim student followers of the imam's policy through the occupation of the den of corruption and espionage of criminal America which in its anger with the Islamic revolution and the Muslim people had started to hatch plots and to marshall its pawns.

The brave action of the Muslim student followers of the imam's policy revealed the true features of the compromising elements and gradually exposed those who were dependent on certain groups and who were enamored by East or West. It also prepared a firm ground for the emergence of the Hezbollah umma', the true owners of the Islamic revolution. Without the emergence of such a movement, which was called a revolution greater than the first revolution by the imam, the corrupting American influence would undoubtedly not have been eradicated from the country and the true and hypocritical features of the liberals would not have been revealed.

Another part of this message says: The Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran honors this great day which is one of the days of God, which is the day of the disgrace of the archsatan and which revealed to the Muslim and oppressed nations that the arrogant American power is nothing but an empty drum.

In memory of the esteemed martyrs of Islam, especially the wronged martyr Ayatollah Behesti who defended this move in the Revolution Council and the Council of Experts, the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran will always, by following the guidelines of the leader of the oppressed people of the world, the imam of the umma', move in the direction of the continuation of the struggle against world arrogance, led by world-devouring America, and will remain faithful to this course.

Foreign Ministry Communique

LD032348 Tehran IRNA in English 2020 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 3, IRNA -- In a communique published here on the eve of the third anniversary of the seizures of the former U.S. Embassy in Tehran, the Iranian Foreign Ministry said that the move had served as an object lesson for "all oppressed masses caught in the sanguinary claws of the United Staes" and had taught them that "it is impossible to obliterate despotism, colonialism, and internal injustice without a violent confrontation with external colonialism..."

The communique said also that the documents found in the former compounds of the embassy had proved that the U.S. diplomatic corps and those of the "oppressive world powers" were merely a cover for conducting espionage activities and plotting against the "interests of the oppressed nations".

It said by trusting in God, the Iranian nation would continue its revolutionary move for "annihilating world oppression and putting an end to the political, economical and cultural domination of imperialism and Zionism upon the Muslim and oppressed nations, and will show the great satan and its flunkeys that there is no place for corruptive bases and for dens of hypocrisy in an arena which is permeated with the spirit of self-abnegation and love of martyrdom".

VELAYATI CONGRATULATES ALGERIAN COUNTERPART

LD022336 Tehran IRNA in English 2014 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 2, IRNA -- Foreign Minister Velayati has cabled a congratulatory message to his Algerian counterpart, Ahmed Taleb Ibrahimi, on the occasion of the 22th anniversary of the victorious Algerian revolution falling on November 1.

Wishing success for the government and nation of Algeria in achieving further progress in their struggle against global oppression as well as international Zionism, Dr. Velayati, in his message called for Muslim unity under the banner of "There is no God but one". This necessity, stressed the message, is essential because world oppressors and expansionists particularly the U.S. and the Zionist regime have augmented their attacks against the Islamic umma'.

The present discord and dispersion among the Muslims, which the message pointed out stemmed from the corruption of pseudo-Islamic governments and their dependency on the world-devouring U.S., has caused the oppressed Palestinian and Lebanese nations be smashed and furthermore occupied by Zionist soldiers thus leading to the annihilation of their generation.

However, the message went on to say, it is regrettable that these pseudo-Islamic governments while pretending support for the Palestinian cause, are continuing their oppressive rule and are approving, through their treacherous reticence, of the acts of a handful of dishonourable terrorists (Begin and U.S. backers). More regrettable was that these same governments disagreed with the revolutionary proposal of the Islamic Republic for the expulsion of the Zionist regime from the UN General Assembly, said the message, adding that they (the reactionary governments) even declared their readiness to recognise the Al-Quds [Jerusalem] occupying regime and live with it in peace.

Today, Velayati stressed in another part of his message, the Palestinian cause has fallen a victim to political conspiracies and this, he added, was a great danger threatening the world of Islam and the fate of the oppressed Palestinian nation. If a solution is not sought for this problem, "tomorrow it will be too late".

Foreign Minister Velayati reiterated Iran's determination to thwart the conspiracies of the West and East as well as those of their agents namely the reactionaries of the region.

The Iranian nation will also decisively increase its attacks against the interests of the U.S. and Zionism in any part of the world until the annihilation of Zionism and the liberation of the holy Al-Quds. It is obvious that all the freedom-seeking Islamic and non-aligned governments would shoulder heavy responsibilities to this end.

In conclusion, Dr. Velayati expressed hope that the two Muslim nations of Iran and Algeria which have sustained heavy financial and human losses for the achievement of Islamic ideals will continue their struggle against global arrogance and that mutual relations between the two countries in all political, economic, cultural and military fields will be further expanded.

KYODO Report

OW020805 Tokyo KYODO in English 0639 GMT 2 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran Nov 2 KYODO -- Iranian Oil Minister Mohammad Gharazi expressed jitters over the long-stalled Iranian-Japanese petrochemical project during talks with senior Japanese officials Monday.

Gharazi indicated strong dissatisfaction with Japanese inaction and called for Japanese Government help to break the deadlock in talks between the partners in the Iran-Japan Petrochemical Company (IJPC) over the project's future, Japanese officials said.

Gharazi was also quoted as telling the Japanese side that Iran has spent a huge amount of money on the joint undertaking since it started before the Iranian Islamic revolution of 1979. Despite the investment, the project remains stalled, he was quoted as saying.

The Japanese Government mission, led by Deputy Foreign Minister Nobuo Matsunaga, reserved commitments, the officials said. The Japanese indicated they would await the outcome of talks continuing at the private level on resumption of work on the petrochemical complex at Bandar Khomeyni.

Gharazi asked what the Japanese Government could do to help speed the project, the officials said.

Matsunaga sidestepped the question, however, telling the Iranians that the mission was here not to discuss individual problems, they said. The high-level Japanese Government mission, the first since the Iranian revolution, arrived here from an European tour Saturday. It will return home next Saturday.

In the Japanese Government's view, the resumption of work on the plant is primarily a problem to be settled by Mitsui and Co. and other Japanese companies involved. A team of Mitsui engineers was due to arrive here Tuesday to try to pave the way for resumption of work.

The joint undertaking, now 85 percent complete, has been twice suspended in the wake of the Iranian revolution and the Iran-Iraq war. Late last September, the Japanese and Iranian partners agreed to start preparatory work for resumption of the project within a month. They also agreed to continue talks on how to finance additional costs to carry out the project.

LD031440 Tehran IRNA in English 0922 GMT 3 Nov 82

During his four-day stay here, Nobuo Matsunaga held a number of meetings with Iranian ministers, mainly on economic matters.

The major economic issue between the two countries is the multi-million dollar joint Iran-Japan petrochemical venture at the Imam Khomeyni port in southern Iran. The Japanese left off construction of the huge plant soon after the Iraqi imposed war and there have been numerous meetings between the two partners in order to resolve their problems and resume the construction of the 85-percent complete plant.

Also in the view of the Japanese, the visit was an effort to settle the present political and economic differences with the officials of the Islamic Republic in better relations in the future.

BOOK CONFISCATION AT BELGRADE FAIR PROTESTED

LD301132 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 30 Oct 82

[Text] Following the theft of several books and pictures on show in the Iranian pavilion at the International Book Fair in Belgrade. Fair officials and Yugoslav security officers confiscated other books at the pavilion as well as photographs and speeches of Imam Khomeyni.

According to an IRNA dispatch from Belgrade, on the third day of the fair, officials, accompanied by several security officers, went to the Iranian pavilion. When the official in charge of the pavilion of the Islamic Republic of Iran refused to hand over the books on show, the Yugoslav officials and security forces began collecting books and pictures left in the pavilion. The books were about U.S. crimes and the struggles of the people of Iran, Palestine, Polisario and Zimbabwe against the superpowers, particularly against the United States and its puppets, the Zionist regime and Iraq.

According to the same report, the Yugoslav security forces had said that the reason behind confiscation of these books is that they are political books and permission had not been obtained to distribute such books to visitors.

This action of the security forces is indicative of a political motive behind the earlier theft of the books from the pavilion of the Islamic Republic of Iran and was a calculated theft.

The Embassy of the Islamic Republic of Iran in Belgrade has handed a protest note to the Yugoslav Ministry of Foreign Affairs, objecting to this issue and demanding a serious investigation into the problem.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

5 NOVEMBER 1982

PLO

"Informed Palestinian sources," cited by ANSA, stated that the PLO is preparing to recognize the State of Israel. According to the sources, a new policy line may be adopted by the PLO at the upcoming Palestine National Council session in Damascus involving the creation of an independent Palestinian state and reciprocal recognition of Israel and this new state, thus fulfilling the U.S. condition for recognition of the PLO.

Jordan

King Husayn remarked in an interview carried by BBC television that if the Arab attitude is "totally negative" to the U.S. approach to establishing a just peace in the Middle East, no future administration will be free of "Zionist pressures" to absorb all of the occupied territories. Questioned on the nature of a joint Jordanian-Palestinian state, King Husayn remarked that in broad terms, he sees a "representative assembly on both sides joined at a higher level by a representative assembly on an equal basis." The PLO is concerned with what it would "get in return" for accepting the State of Israel, King Husayn remarked. If the PLO accepted the existence of Israel, it would encourage the outside world to "support us even more."

Lebanon

Sectarian Clashes -- President Amin al-Jumayyil chaired a meeting attended by Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan and leaders of the groups involved in the Druze-Christian clashes in the Ash-Shuf mountain area, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The radio stated that the meeting was held in a "positive atmosphere" and those present agreed to lay down their arms, stop the violence and begin a political dialogue. Meanwhile, violent clashes occurred between 'Alawi and Sunni residents of Tripoli, the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon reported. Four people were killed, 11 were injured and some homes were extensively damaged, Voice of Lebanon radio stated. Beirut radio noted that high level contacts were being held to contain the clashes.

Government Policy Statement -- The Chamber of Deputies session convened to discuss the government policy statement was adjourned until 8 November, Beirut radio revealed.

Syria

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper met with Foreign Minister 'Abd al-Halim Khaddam on 4 November, Damascus radio reported. Reports on the discussions indicate that the U.S. envoy is "sympathetic" to Israeli demands and that he is exerting pressure to get Lebanon to sign a security agreement with Israel, another Damascus radio report alleged.

Israel

Reaction to U.S. Settlement Criticism -- Moshe Arens, Israel's ambassador to the United States, expressed "astonishment" at the U.S. criticism, Jerusalem radio reported. In a later report by the radio, Yehuda Ben-Me'ir, deputy foreign minister, stated: "Israel has never accepted and will never accept" the idea that settlements are an obstacle to peace in the Middle East. He stated Israel will continue to settle and strengthen settlements "everywhere in Eretz Yisra'el." Jerusalem radio correspondent Shim'on Schiffer reported that the settlement issue will not be the main topic of Prime Minister Menahem Begin's talks with U.S. President Reagan when the two meet in 2 weeks because, "the administration knows that if this the issue, then there will be nothing to talk about with Begin."

Nabulus Delegation-Labor Party Talks -- A group of intellectuals and businessmen from Nabulus held a series of talks in the past few weeks with members of the Israeli Labor Party, including Party Chairman Shim'on Peres, and recently met in Amman with King Husayn and other Jordanian officials, Jerusalem radio revealed. Although PLO supporters in Nabulus opposed the dialogue, King Husayn encouraged the delegation to continue their talks with the Labor Party and promised to work to stop the criticism, the radio reported. However, King Husayn stressed that he cannot join the autonomy talks without advance agreement from PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat and that it is 'Arafat who should take the first step toward a political solution, the radio added. In another Jerusalem radio report, the Israeli Labor Party secretary general cautioned against misinterpreting the Labor Party's talks with the Nabulus delegation. He said that such meetings are not new and that the Labor Party has not used the Nabulus delegation as envoys to the Jordanian authorities, the radio added.

Egypt

Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali stated that he sent an oral message to Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir in reply to the latter's message on the Tabah issue, MENA reported. 'Ali told MENA that Egypt has suggested the Tabah talks resume on 7 November and that the United States has agreed to participate.

Iran-Iraq War

The Iranian forces "liberated" more than 550 square km of land occupied by the Iraqis and inflicted a "fatal blow" on the Ba'thists, a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed. The communique added that more than 3,500 Iraqis were either killed or wounded and more than 1,520 were captured, including several high-ranking officers. Three Iraqi aircraft were shot down on 4 November and ground operations against the Iraqis' "sporadic" defensive fire were "severely suppressed," another military communique broadcast by Tehran radio reported. More than 2,953 Iranians were killed while trying to cross the border in the Maysan Governorate area, according to an Iraqi military spokesman cited by INA.

Iran

Relations With Kuwait -- The Ministry of Foreign Affairs protested to the Kuwaiti charge d'affaires in Tehran against the treatment of Iranian nationals in Kuwait, Tehran radio reported. In another radio report a Foreign Ministry spokesman strongly advised Kuwait not to endanger its relations with Iran any further by continuing such actions.

Khomeyni Speech -- In a speech made on 4 November and broadcast by Tehran radio, Ayatollah Ruhollah Musavi Khomeyni criticized the Gulf countries for supporting Iraq and called them "tools in the hands of America." Khomeyni asserted that "the world should destroy America" because it is responsible for the strife existing in many parts of the world. Khomeyni added that although nearly all of the Gulf states support Iraq, they have not been able to do anything to Iran. He warned them that Iraqi President Saddam Husayn would destroy the Gulf if he finds an opportunity.

Morocco

Saudi Arabia's King Fahd arrived in Fes on a working visit on 3 November, MAP reported. On 4 November the two monarchs and their foreign ministers discussed the latest developments in the Middle East and the outcome of the Arab League delegation's visit to Washington, SPA reported. Riyadh radio called the current visit a constructive move and speculated that the two leaders will outline the direction of the coming Arab move toward common understanding.

KARMAL ADDRESSES JOINT SEMINAR 3 NOVEMBER

LD041140 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, received today at Delkosha Palace, headquarters of the Revolutionary Council, members of the joint seminar of the organizational departments, officials of the provincial, city and districts of Kabul party control commissions; members of the armed forces including the sarandoy and the State Information Service, social organizations, chiefs and deputy chiefs of PDPA Central Committee departments, political chiefs of the armed forces, deputy secretaries of the provincial party committees, secretaries of Kabul district party committees; personnel of the organization of popularization, propaganda and training departments of the party Central Committee and Control Commission. In his learned speech and valuable guidance, he drew attention to the crucial duties that they have toward the party, government and people of Afghanistan.

In expressing satisfaction for meeting and exchanging views with the members of the seminar, Babrak Karmal said: It is a praiseworthy tradition that the relationship of the leadership authorities with party activists of the (?centers) and through them with the ranks of the party and masses of the people should always and continuously be strengthened. [words indistinct]

Babrak Karmal added: The convocation of your seminar is a crucial, vital and serious issue. The issue of the party's ideological and organizational unity is a crucial, vital and determinative issue. This subject requires constant and continuous work by the working class party.

Babrak Karmal stressed the importance and need for party unity, primarily ideological unity, adding: I am fully confident that our comrades in this seminar have perceived the serious fact of ideological perception and enhancing the level of ideology. [Word indistinct] will expand and broaden scientific knowledge in the provinces and their respective organizations. They will draw the attention of all party organizations to this fact and with revolutionary awareness they will gradually draw the broad masses of the people toward the party and party ideology.

Babrak Karmal emphatically and seriously asked the seminar participants and party activists to acquaint themselves with scientific revolutionary theory, as learning the theory of scientific revolution forms the basic foundation of organizational unity.

While his statements were met by the audience's expression of feelings and continuous applause, Babrak Karmal referred to the subject of organizational unity, saying: The issue of organizational unity forms the backbone of our party. Hence, the highest leadership authorities to [word indistinct] and all party members are bound to secure organizational unity in the working class party and all toilers of Afghanistan, especially under the present conditions and circumstances where imperialism and reaction have unleashed an undeclared war against our revolution, is a crucial issue in the destiny of the party, revolution, people and our beloved homeland. We must defend the revolution and its gains, restore peace and security in the country and take big and revolutionary steps for the construction of a new society. These all seriously need party organizational unity.

In explaining political unity and leadership unity, which are the major subjects of the seminar, Babrak Karmal asked the cadres and party activists to observe constantly and with unity the iron discipline of the party; because without party discipline a genuine revolutionary party would not be capable of revolution, defense of the revolution and construction of a new society.

Drawing the serious attention of the seminar participants in the recognition and selection of the (? genuine) party and government cadres, he said: Comrades, the issue of cadre selection and recognition of cadres is regarded as a fundamental and important subject in party life. (? Much attention) should be paid so that cadres are selected for a job on the basis of merit, capability, personality, awareness and [word indistinct].

Drawing the attention of party comrades once again to the need to enhance the level of perceiving responsibility, Babrak Karmal said: Comrades, today not only do we have a responsibility toward the party, revolution, government, society, people and our beloved homeland, Afghanistan, but we have a responsibility in the struggle against imperialism and international reaction, colonialism, apartheid, exploitation and so forth. We have an international responsibility toward international friendship, defense of detente and peace. This perception must be comprehensive and it is the duty of every party member to take position in its front rank.

Referring to work in the economy, Babrak Karmal said: Comrades, we must work and struggle in parallel with each other [words indistinct]. We must work day and night in unity with the people and with the cooperation of the party, government and people to enhance the level of the country's economy in order to raise the standard of living for the masses and to build the new society of Afghanistan. [Words indistinct] we must restore security and peace in Afghanistan as soon as possible.

In conclusion, Babrak Karmal wished further victory and success to his fellow struggling, courageous and brave comrades who have dedicated themselves to the defense of the revolution and to serving the people.

GOVERNMENT TO 'FIRMLY PUT DOWN' PUNJAB VIOLENCE

BK041612 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] An official spokesman said in New Delhi today that the government will firmly put down any attempted violence in Punjab. However, he said, the government will keep its doors open for negotiations on the Akalis' demands. The spokesman added that the Punjab government is determined to meet the situation and maintain law and order at any cost. The center is fully behind any action that may be called for to meet any threat to law and order arising out of morchas [resistance fronts] and agitations. He said the government felt that it has gone a long way to meet the demands of the Akalis as an act of respect for the religious sentiments of the Sikh community. Probably it is not easy for the Akali party to rise above the control which some extremists have been able to establish, he added.

The government hopes that while exercising the democratic right of dissent and protest, the Akali leadership will restrain and control any attempted violence disturbing law and order.

SIKH LEADERS FORMALLY ANNOUNCE 'HOLY WAR'

BK041504 Hong Kong AFP in English 1445 GMT 4 Nov 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Excerpt] Amritsar, India, Nov. 4 (AFP) -- Sikh leaders today formally announced a "holy war" to back a demand for autonomy for the State of Punjab and unfolded a plan of action including disrupting the Ninth Asian Games scheduled to start in the Indian capital November 19.

The announcement suggests the militants in the Sikh party, Akali Dal, are gaining strength at the expense of the moderates who were counselling further negotiations with Indira Gandhi's federal government.

Thousands of armed Sikhs will descend on the Indian capital on November 18 to educate the people and foreign visitors on the justness of their demands, Sikh leader Harchand Singh Longowal told a meeting here. The Sikhs would fan out in New Delhi in groups, but would not resist arrest said Mr. Longowal.

The announcement came after a two-day 18-hour meeting of Sikh leaders in the Golden Temple complex -- the holiest of the Sikh shrines.

Militant leaders who spoke in favour of an independent Sikh nation were cheered by the audience all of whom raised hands when asked if they wanted an independent nation and were ready to sacrifice their lives.

The moderates cut off the public address system and there was confusion for several minutes but the militants prevailed and were allowed to continue.

SIKH PRIEST EMPHASIZES: 'NO COMPROMISE'

BK041400 Hong Kong AFP in English 1337 GMT 4 Nov 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Excerpts] Amritsar, India, Nov. 4 (AFP) -- A militant Sikh leader who commands absolute authority among India's martial Sikhs today said there could be no compromise with the federal government on the Sikh demand for autonomy for the northwestern State of Punjab.

In an interview with Agence France Presse, Sant (priest) Jarnailsing Bhindranwale also warned Prime Minister Indira Gandhi that Sikh patience was fast running out.

"On my single call, thousands of Sikhs could sacrifice their lives, but I am restraining myself to see what New Delhi does", he told AFP.

The interview was held inside the premises of the Golden Temple complex, seen as the holiest of the holy Sikh shrines and guarded by about 1,000 martial Sikhs, some armed with British Second World War vintage weapons.

"The federal government is all out to finish the Sikhs. They want to see us disintegrated and under the control of the Hindus. But I announce it will not be so. A Khalsa (pure Sikh) knows how to fight," the priest, who carries a loaded revolver and is guarded by his own personal army, said.

The sant said he would reject any compromise formula. "We are not asking for the impossible. What we want is freedom to decide what is good for the Sikhs and we do not want domination by Hindus," he added.

Mr. Bhindranwale pointedly accused Mrs Gandhi and the Punjab administration by her ruling Congress Party for forcing the Sikhs into a confrontation.

SIKHS' 'COURTING ARRESTS' CAMPAIGN TO CONTINUE

BK041222 Hong Kong AFP in English 1207 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] Amritsar, India, Nov 4 (AFP) -- Sant Longowal said his partymen would "gherao" (forcibly confine) Punjab's Chief Minister Darbara Singh, who leads Mrs Gandhi's Congress-I state administration, whenever he visited any village in the state.

The campaign of "courting arrests" by Sikh volunteers by defying prohibitory orders, which started in early August, would also continue in various Punjab towns, the announcement said.

By-mid October, about 30,000 Sikhs were in jail from the campaign, but at the end of the month Mrs Gandhi ordered they should all be released.

RAO: TALKS WITH PAKISTAN TO BE 'VERY WIDE'

BK041525 Delhi General Overseas Service in English 1330 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] External Affairs Minister Narasimha Rao told the lower house of parliament that the establishment of an India-Pakistan joint commission would give an impetus and content to the relations between the two countries. He was making a statement on the recent visit of Pakistan President Ziaul Haq to New Delhi.

Rao said the brief transit visit of President Zia was characterized by warmth and cordiality. It was a sincere desire of India to strengthen the good neighborly relations with Pakistan in the interest of both the countries. Rao placed on the table the joint press statement issued at the end of the visit and a copy of the protocol on consular access signed in New Delhi on Tuesday.

The external affairs minister has said that all contentious issues between India and Pakistan are likely to come up at the official level talks next month. This is because the scope of the talks will be very wide. The officials will not only discuss the modalities for setting up of the joint commission, but the drafts of the peace treaty and nonaggression pact.

MARXIST LEADER INTERVIEWED ON PRC VISIT

BK010538 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 22 Oct 82 p 1

[Text] The CPI (M) [Communist Party of India-Marxist] leader, Mr Promode Dasgupta, who is leaving for China on a two-month trip, thinks that a thaw has set in the Sino-Soviet relations and it may lead to a better understanding between the two communist giants.

In an interview on Thursday, Mr Dasgupta referred to the appeal by the CPI (M)'s Central Committee to the Communist Parties of the Soviet Union and China in the interest of world communism. The following are the questions and answers:

Question: Do you think that the decisions of the 12th Congress of the Chinese Communist Party give any indication of better understanding between China and Russia?

Answer: It will be saying too much if we say that the 12th congress gives a clear indication. But we are optimists. There are signs that a thaw has set in. The 12th congress, for instance, refers to the unity of the peoples of China and the Soviet Union. This is a marked departure from the 11th congress. This means the compulsion of the situation; the desire of the peoples whose importance is greater than that of the government. [sentence as published] Recently, there was no unpleasant incident at the Chinese reception in Beijing. Previously, the Soviet representative walked out on several occasions. Mr Brezhnev recently said that the Soviet Union had never stated that China was not a communist country. But previously, the Soviet leaders had done so.

Question: Why did you choose China for treatment of asthma? You could have accepted the Soviet offer for treatment.

Answer: Russia like other Western countries can treat asthma with modern medicine. But I have heard that in China acupuncture and their traditional herbal medicine are more effective in the treatment of asthma.

Question: Do you think that Russia's assistance is indirectly helping the Indian bourgeoisie to consolidate their position and also Mrs Gandhi's government?

Answer: This we have explained in a recent party document. We have held that Soviet assistance is more welcome than the help from imperialist countries because the terms are always better and favourable to Indian economy. It is true that the Indian bourgeoisie are also benefited by such collaboration. But the overall impact is better. Ruling parties of other countries are also strengthened by Soviet assistance. Mrs Gandhi's party is no exception.

Question: Do you believe that India with its teeming population has more to learn from China than from the heavy industry-oriented Soviet Russia?

Answer: Every country develops its own economy according to its needs. Before the 1917 Revolution, Russia was a partially industrialized nation. It naturally relied on the development of heavy industry as the country's economic backbone. In China the situation was entirely different. The underdeveloped condition of its economy prompted the party leaders to give prominence to agriculture. China with less cultivable land than India is producing more food. We in India have to develop both industry and agriculture.

Question: Since your party's Howrah plenum in 1978 the question has been raised whether the CPI (M) has been able to spread out from its traditional spheres of influence like West Bengal, Tripura and Kerala. What are the difficulties?

Answer: Socialism cannot be exported in a suitcase. This must grow from the consciousness and the struggle of the people. Karl Marx spent his life in London which, I think, will be the last sphere to accept socialism. I have always held that socialism cannot grow in a sphere where the feudal structure has not been shaken. Many parts of India are still under the grip of feudalism. Casteism and communalism and other vices inherent in a feudal structure are still thriving in this country. In West Bengal we are not taking all the credit for its progress, The Social Reform Movement was launched by Raja Rammohon Roy and as a result West Bengal today is free from many social evils which retard the revolutionary movement.

Question: Although you party is campaigning against the centre, it is evident that in a critical situation like the present drought, the left front government has no way other than relying absolutely on central assistance. How do you reconcile the two postures?

Answer: All state governments whether run by the Congress (I) or the left parties, have to rely on the centre. The centre is not giving anything as charity to the states. It is a central agency to pool all resources and distribute them according to the needs of the states. West Bengal has a deficit in food. But we have coal, steel, jute and tea. If we do not supply them to other states, what will happen? But this is a separatist movement and we do not subscribe to it.

Question: You have said that you have no successor. What do you mean? How do you fill the leadership vacuum?

Answer: The whole concept of sucessorship is feudal. Mao, for instance, once declared that Lin Biao would be his successor. Another time it was heard that Hua Guofeng was his successor. Leadership will grow from below. It cannot be imposed.

Question: How long do you propose to stay in China?

Answer: They may ask me to stay beyond two months for a total recovery. But I want to return to West Bengal as soon as possible.

PAPER PRAISES PRESIDENT'S PRC, DPRK VISITS

GF041452 Islamabad MUSLIM in English 27 Oct 82 p 4

[Editorial: "Journey to the East"]

[Text] President Ziaul Haq has just returned from a journey to two friendly countries of the Asian socialist community. His visits to the People's Republic of China and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea have been quite successful, marked by similarity of views on global issues and the need for Third World states to forge closer unity in their ranks.

With China, our relations have been time-tested and tempered many a change both at the domestic as well as regional level. This country has stood by us in times of need, provided assistance to us generously in various domains of Pakistan's development and, alone among the great powers, scrupulously adhered to the principle of non-interference in internal affairs. Moreover China's revolutionary elan and its success in building up an equitable social order for one-fourth of humanity is viewed by many in the Third World as a model for progress. Pakistan-China friendship is not confined to official expression of goodwill but has popular grassroots as well.

The recent visit of the president has raised our bilateral relationship to a qualitatively higher level with the establishment of a joint economic commission between the two countries. This should provide the necessary impetus to institutionalise ties that have matured and flourished over the years on account of convergence of bilateral interests and common geopolitical perceptions.

Pakistan's relations with distant People's Korea have had an intimacy from the very beginning which exemplifies a mutual trust and confidence. North Korea is a proud and fiercely-independent country which has made remarkable progress in various fields. Its achievements are even more commendable given the fact that this was done largely by pooling domestic resources without dependence on foreign aid, as has been the case in other developing countries.

The welcome accorded to the presidential entourage will certainly go down as one of the warmest-ever red-carpet treatment given to a visiting Pakistani leader. During his stay in Pyongyang, President Zia also extended Pakistan's full support to the cause of unification of Korea minus outside interference.

The thrust of his and President Kim Il-song's speeches was on the need for a new Asian assertiveness to super-powers pressures on small states as well as their aspirations for hegemonism. A similar theme was evident during the presidential visit to China. In both countries, Pakistan's position on Afghanistan, Palestine and Kampuchea found a ringing endorsement.

Such visits as these to China and Korea reinforce the nonaligned basis of Pakistan's foreign policy. Commitment to nonalignment and other Third Worldist causes strengthens Pakistan's regional position and its international role which has received a major fillip via its elections to the United Nations Security Council. Increased cooperation with Third World states serves Pakistan's interests since there are no strings being attached, an element absent in our ties with super-powers.

Another positive element of our relations with these Third World states is that for us these serve as a good learning experience: in maintaining political independence, in promoting self-reliance and in fostering defence production. Such experiences and resultant cooperation that these visits has generated should be a major plus for strengthening our position in the region as a whole.

KHOMEYNI SPEAKS ON SUPERPOWERS, SADDAM HUSAYN

LD041614 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Imam Khomeyni speech at a meeting with members of Islamic rural councils affiliated with the reconstruction crusade and with war refugees at Jamaran Mosque on 4 November -- recorded, duration 30 minutes]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Threatening the world today is the danger of the two superpowers. These two superpowers, which have kept the entire world under their domination and which make use of it, are busy hatching certain plans and creating a hostility that is dangerous for the future of mankind. Although each group is frightened of the other group, and this superpower is afraid of that superpower, and the other superpower is afraid of this one, nevertheless, it is possible that some time a madman, like Hitler or Saddam may be placed at the head of one of these two superpowers. And as a result of his lust for power, he may destroy the world. If, God forbid, this lust for power is pursued in today's world, they will drag the world into blood and mire and will destroy it. Today they are the problems of the world.

The other problems are regional, which should be solved by nations, through the thinking brains of the world and the deprived masses of the world. If they sit hoping that their governments will solve these problems, they will not be solved. Governments don't have the power and ability to solve them and their carnal desires prevent them from opposing the two superpowers. For the sake of the future of the world, the masses of the world, the writers and orators, should think and should make the people aware of the danger threatening all mankind. They should acquaint the masses of the world with this great danger and say that if these superpowers that are busy producing huge atomic and other bombs continue in their present state, they may bring about the destruction of the world and that the nations will be harmed most. Everyone in every position, writers, intellectuals, the learned in various parts of the world and scientists should acquaint people with this danger so that the people themselves, the masses themselves, may confront the two superpowers and follow up this matter to avoid the use of these weapons. When they say we want to limit these atomic weapons, we want to come to an understanding on limiting atomic weapons and the huge missiles recently constructed, both of them are telling tall stories. America is trying to deceive the Soviet Union and to prepare these weapons in the West or wherever else it can for the day when the world will be set on fire by pressing one button. Today, people should pay attention to this great problem facing the world. All writers and the world press should try to awaken the people so that they may arise against these actions being carried out by the superpowers. At the moment, there are groups that demonstrate against atomic bombs. However, all people should arise if they want to be able to achieve anything.

If it were not for American power, Saddam would not have been able to perform satanic deeds. If it were not for American power, Israel also would not have been able to perpetrate its savage acts. If it were not for American power, the Gulf governments and such like would not have been able to do the things that they are doing. If the world wants to be saved from these two powers, it should do what was done in Iran: All the strata arose, took part in the movement and the revolution and took refuge in neither of the superpowers.

They acted independently and although America did all it could from the time of the former regime until now to suppress them, it did not succeed. In all the Islamic and non-Islamic countries, in all the countries of the world where the masses are suppressed and under the domination of their governments, as long as they do not arise and as long as they do not pay attention to this great danger threatening the world and if, God forbid, it ever comes to pass, no country will be left and maybe only a few human beings will remain; the world should think about this issue. [sentence as heard] Intellectuals should think about it and should awaken the people. However writing or speaking is not enough; reliance upon governments is of no use; the people themselves should act; the writers and orators should awaken the people. Only those pens that awaken the masses are useful. If the world continues in this way, there will be the likes of Israel and Saddam. And even if this one or that one is destroyed, the superpowers will create new ones in their place.

Look what a stupid thing Saddam did. It has entrapped him today. And he doesn't know what to do about it. Saddam is like the person who claimed to be a champion: Whenever he was beaten or defeated by someone, he would turn to his mother and beat her. [laughter] Whenever Saddam has been dealt a blow, he has been defeated. Following his defeat, he has turned to a number of poor Iraqis who are struggling under his oppression and has expelled them from there or has imprisoned them.

In these Moharram operations, when the Armed Forces of Iran have advanced so much and have expelled them from the country -- of course, still some areas remain -- when they have taken about 2,000 as POW's.about 1,800 of them have been evacuated behind the fronts; when they have destroyed their weapons and have seized so many of their weapons, and, as they say, to date they have captured about 90 of their vehicles intact and have destroyed many others; even now despite all these advances, Saddam says in his speech that Iran has been defeated, that our [Iraqi] forces have defeated them.

Foreign propaganda and all foreign media also have this habit that whenever he is defeated for a long time they say absolutely nothing about it and keep silent. Later, they say Iran says this and Saddam says that. When they want to quote figures, they quote smaller figures. For instance, they say that so far they have captured 100 people. But when they want to quote from the Iraqi side, they exaggerate. Sometimes they do this and when they gradually find out that they cannot keep it a secret anymore they gradually begin to tell the facts. You notice that, in the case of Khorramshahr, for a long time they denied that Khorramshahr had been recaptured. But Saddam used to say that it is not true and we killed so many and did this or that and, following him, the same things were being repeated by propaganda loudspeakers. After they captured so many POW's and showed them to these people, then Saddam said: We ordered our powerful forces so that you have achieved your victory and that now you can withdraw, because our victories are now complete. [laughter] It is surprising that [Saddam] says all these words in the presence of his army and his commanders who would consciously laugh into their beards if they had any. While Saddam knows that those who are standing in front of him are aware that he is talking nonsense, but even then he courageously tells them lies. And now it is the same thing. Again the commander of (Qadisiyyah) keeps saying: My (Qadisiyyah) forces have achieved so much. He recently said: In this war we have killed 4,000 Iranians and have lost such a number and have taken so many prisoners of war. It means that he does not know what to do. He should be cursing America which has deceived him so.

If, God willing, the Muslims succeed, if they pay proper attention to the problems of the region, if they expel and throw Israel out of the region, the Israelis also should curse America.

The countries in the vicinity which have also given so much assistance to Saddam now say that if Iran wants to enter Iraq we will place a political and economic ban on Iran. So far, you have done everything you could. As they say, so far $30 billion has been given as assistance to Iraq and to the Iraqi Armed Forces. They also have opened their doors so that weapons can be sent to Iraq from every direction. They also have sent fighters to Iraq.

That unfortunate man who is standing on the other side of the world and cannot even keep his hat on his head -- Numayri -- also says that we assist Israel. His country is internally destroyed and he does not know what to do, but he says he will offer assistance. They are tools in the hands of America. America tells them to do this and they do it. The world should destroy America. Otherwise there will be many like them in the world.

At the moment, in many parts of the world, America has caused strife. Many of the wars in the world are due to America. They threaten the world; and they will never touch the weapons which they say they will limit. All your comments should be addressed to them. Today on the anniversary of the occupation of the den of espionage I express my congratulations to the nation. This action, carried out by the friends of Islam, by the fighters of Islam, was a very good and very effective action, as a result of which this den was eradicated from here. If this den of espionage had remained, it might have ruined the country. At the moment they keep giving plans to Iraq. They take it from the things which they have in the sky and give it to Iraq. Let them do what they like.

So far, all, nearly all, many, of the countries of the Gulf and the regions in the vicinity of the Gulf have given total support to Iraq. However, they have not been able to do anything. Now, all of a sudden, they say that if Iran wants to advance inside Iraq, we cannot tolerate it and we will put Iran under political and economic pressure. You have done all you were able to do. There is nothing that you can do.

You should know that if, God forbid, Saddam advances, he will set fire to all of you. This is the psychological state of Saddam. Doing evil, murder and crime are part of Saddam's nature. If, God forbid, he finds an opportunity, he will destroy (?all of you). He will destroy Syria; he will destroy the Gulf, Kuwait, all of them. This is how he is. This is his nature. In the same way that Israel is criminal by nature and is only happy by committing crimes, he is the same. These two are each other's brothers.

May God expel the evil of the archsatan and the great and small satans. May He awaken the Muslims. May He awaken the Islamic governments from their present negligence. May He protect the great Iranian nation which is a model for all countries and nations against evils and calamities. May God bestow patience upon our refugees and may He grant strength to the nation and the government to reconstruct their houses and homes, better than they were in the past, and to serve these deprived people.

May God's grace and blessings be upon you.

JOINT COMMUNIQUE NO 5 ON MOHARRAM OPERATION

LD041224 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Communique No 5 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Following the outstanding victories the Islamic combatants achieved in the great Operation Moharram, codenamed "O Zaynab," under the command of the Karbala' central headquarters, center of joint operations of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, the combatants of the Koran have inflicted a fatal blow on the pagan Ba'thist Zionist regime of Iraq and taught it a hard lesson.

During this triumphant operation, the defenders of the Islamic revolution liberated vast areas of the Islamic homeland and hoisted the glorious flag of the Islamic Republic of Iran in those areas.

During this operation, the Islamic combatants liberated more than 550 sq km of occupied land from the clutches of the Ba'thist Zionist forces of Iraq, brought miles of enemy territory within their artillery range and killed or wounded many enemy personnel, totaling more than 3,500.

It should be noted that Staff Col ('Imad Muhammad Hasan), commander of the 505th Infantry Brigade of Iraq, was killed by the combatants of the mobilization unit of the Guards Corps.

Also during this operation, large numbers of Iraqi forces were captured by the Islamic combatants, 1,520 of whom have so far been transferred behind the lines. Among the POW's, there are several high-ranking officers of the Ba'thist Zionist forces of Iraq. The names of a few of them are brought to the attention of the hezbollahi umma':

1. Staff Col ('Abd ar-Ridha 'Abd al-Hadi), deputy commander of 603d Brigade
2. Infantry Maj (Ahmad Khalil Majid), commander of the 1st Battalion of the 603d Brigade
3. Infantry Maj (Ra'dh Hamid), commander of the 2d Battalion of the 603d Brigade
4. Infantry Maj (Muhammad Ahmad Hasan Samira'i), commander of the 3d Battalion of the 603d Brigade
5. Infantry Maj ('Abd al-'Aziz 'Ali Shaytan)
6. Maj (Sardar Muhammad Salih)
7. Maj (Sa'ib Hashemi Oman)

Among the POW's captured during this operation, there are a number of special security agents.

During this successful operations, vast areas of the Islamic homeland have been placed out of the firing range of the aggressive Saddamists, safe passage has been guaranteed along communication axes in the areas and several agricultural and arable plots have been liberated for agricultural and animal husbandry purposes.

During the great Operation Moharram, the triumphant forces of Islam have put beyond the range of enemy artillery the Dehloran-Musian-'Eyn-e Khosh communication axis and also the cities and regions of Dehloran, Musian, 'Eyn-e Khosh, (Dasht-e Azib) and the nearby villages; they have reached the border regions.

During this completely successful operation, the Islamic combatants liberated strategic border heights and areas, that is, (Hamrin) mountains and strategic hills No 290, 298 and 400 and also heights overlooking Iraq. They also completely liberated the (Chamianlu), (Dasht-e 'Abbas) and (Tang-e Bayat) region and the Musian, Bayat, (Mahrambar), (Hamshari), [words indistinct] border posts.

Following the victories achieved, the defenders of the Islamic revolution gained a vantage point overlooking the town of At-Tib in Iraq by taking positions on the said heights. The communications axes of Baghdad-Basra, At-Tib-Al-'Amarah, At-Tib-Al-Halfayah and At-Tib-'Ali al-Gharbi, and also the military communication road between Baghdad and Al-'Amarah, which are among the most important supply and economic routes in Iraq and the main center of transportation and communication between north and south Iraq -- are in serious danger. With the threat to those axes, many problems have been created for the mercenary enemy.

A vast plain to the east of Tigris, which lies between Basra and the 'Ali al-Gharbi region in Iraq, is now within firing range of our triumphant combatants. They are prepared to punish the Ba'thist Zionist regime of Iraq by threatening and opening fire on that plain in order to repel the aggression committed against the Islamic homeland.

The defenders of Islam also have placed their artillery within range of (Zobeyda), (Abu-Qurayb), (Sha'qani), [words indistinct] posts, the gendarmerie headquarters in the town of At-Tib in Iraq, the industrial factory in At-Tib, oil resources [as heard] of [word indistinct] 5 oilfields, pumphouses and nearly 70 oil wells.

The triumphant forces of Islam also have liberated several important oil centers [as heard] within the Operation Moharram sectors. The Bayat oilfield, which has several oil wells, is among the oil installations in the southwest of the country liberated from the mercenaries of the criminal United States.

During this operation, the Islamic forces dealt another heavy blow to Iraq's 10th Armored Division, half of which was destroyed during the proud and unforgettable clear victory operation and which participated in the operation after being restructured with nine brigades. The 603d Brigade and the 422d Infantry Brigade of the Ba'thist aggressors were completely destroyed, and the 703d Infantry Brigade, 505th Infantry Brigade, the 60th Armored Brigade and 42d Armored Brigade, the 1st Battalion of the 24th Mechanized Brigade [words indistinct], the 2d Battalion of the Special Force and five commando companies of the Ba'thist Zionist forces of Iraq received heavy damage.

Also during this operation, the bases of the 606th and 423d Infantry Brigades and the 60th Armored Brigade were captured by the powerful Islamic combatants. All the Ba'thist aggressive forces stationed in those bases were killed or captured.

As to the extent of the victorious Operation Moharram on all of those fronts we enjoy God's blessings and assistance, some light and heavy materiel has been destroyed or captured by the God-seeking forces of Islam. More than 97 tanks and armored personnel carriers and 120 vehicles, several katyusha rockets of the aggressive enemy were destroyed, and 45 tanks and personnel carriers, 90 vehicles, 12 106-mm guns, several (Kav) and (Malyuka) rocket-launchers, several antiaircraft guns, assorted mortars and large assortments of light weapons were captured by the Islamic forces.

During this operation, following the signal defeat that the enemy has suffered, he has embarked on (?aerial) aggression. Consequently, seven aggressive enemy aircraft have been shot down by the fast-flying fighter aircraft of the air force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and by antiaircraft fire.

The brave Islamic combatants are consolidating the positions in the Islamic homeland liberated from the aggressive enemy and are continuing their unremitting defense of the Islamic revolution.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,106

LD041746 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,106 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. According to a report received by the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, between 1156 and 1203 today, three Iraqi invader aircraft were downed by the fighting aircraft and air defense units of the Islamic Republic's forces in the Moharram operational region. This brings the number of aircraft lost by the aggressor enemy during the Moharram operation to nine.

Land operations by our victorious combatants aimed at destroying the enemy is continuing effectively and the enemy's remaining sporadic defensive fire has been severely suppressed.

Simultaneously with the Moharram operation's great victory, the powerful army of Islam stationed in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone (?western fronts) have repulsed the enemy's fruitless offensives in the past 48 hours at various fronts on several occasions. These include:

At 1500 on 2 November, the enemy launched a series of operations with the aim of advancing in the Salman Koshteh and (Sangapa) passes. These operations were countered immediately by our combatant forces, as a result of which the enemy lost two tanks and suffered a number of dead and injured before being forced to flee.

At 1900 the same day, the enemy's armored forces supported by infantry units aimed at infiltrating our forces' positions at one end of the western axis. This attempt also was foiled by our forces, using every possible means. During these operations, the mercenary Ba'thist forces retreated to their original positions, losing three tanks, one vehicle and one PMT personnel carrier.

The enemy's offensive operations on Height 402 started at 2230 on 2 November. These operations met with resistance by our combatants and the Saddam forces were forced to retreat at 0700 the next day, leaving behind a number of dead and injured and a considerable amount of equipment.

At 1000 on 3 November, the aggressor enemy once again embarked upon an offensive that was repulsed by an effective counterattack by our forces who used artillery and mortar fire. During these operations 13 enemy tanks and [word indistinct] were set on fire, forcing the rest of the Iraqi tanks to flee. During this battle, the enemy left behind around 400 dead and one personnel carrier destroyed.

Our forces mounted fire on enemy positions in Panjwin and Hargineh region. They silenced enemy artillery fire and inflicted extensive damage on the Iraqi forces' vehicles, personnel and bunkers.

In another western front, as a result of fire mounted by our combatant units, one enemy tank and three military vehicles were destroyed.

PRESIDENT ON WAR VICTORIES, PLANNING NEEDS

GF041640 Tehran IRNA in English 1630 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 4 (IRNA) -- President Khamene'i said here Wednesday afternoon that victories gained by the Iranian forces have been unprecedented in history of war. Speaking in a meeting with minister of state and head of the budget and plan organisation, Mohammad Taqi Banki, and minister of energy, Hassan Ghafouri-Fard, the president of the Islamic Republic added that courage and bravery of the Iranian combatants have been major factors ensuring the Iranian victory.

Relying on these factors, the Islamic Republic would crush any military attack against its Islamic revolution.

During the meeting the head of the budget and plan organisation referring to the third anniversary of the seizure of the former United States Embassy in Tehran by students following line of Imam Khomeyni, said it was a great victory for the people of the country. He also informed the president on progress made by his organisation concerning planning.

President Khamene'i referring to planning under the past regime, said that then others were doing the planning for the country within the framework of their own interests. However, at present planning was being done by the Iranian experts without any help from foreigners. This kind of planning, the president added, was based on resources of the country and aimed at meeting needs of the people.

The president of the Islamic Republic further stressed that planning needs of the oppressed masses and villagers should receive a special priority. Furthermore, main objective of planning should be economic independence of the country. Therefore, President Khamene'i pointed out, efforts should be made to decrease economic dependence of the country, as much as possible and in the shortest period of time.

President Khamene'i told the ministers that as Imam Khomeyni has stressed, agricultural development should be given great attention. In order to achieve economic independence, he added, people of the country were wholeheartedly willing to undergo any hardship.

Stressing role of proper planning in country's economy, President Khamene'i said that such planning would further stabilise the Islamic revolution and as a result no foreign power would be able to dominate Iran.

STUDENTS DEMONSTRATE OUTSIDE FORMER U.S. EMBASSY

LD042150 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Excerpts] According to a report by the Central News Unit, on the occasion of the anniversary of 4 November, the day of the occupation of America's den of espionage in Iran and Student's Day, our student brothers and sisters and their teachers, carried pictures of Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran, and placards condemning Eastern and Western colonialists. They marched in regular ranks from various educational centers in Tehran toward the den of espionage.

During the student's meeting in front of the den of espionage, after the recitation of verses from the holy Koran, the joint message of the educational affairs and students mobilization national office of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps was read by a pupil.

This message reads in part: 4 November, 1964, was the day when the imam of the umma' was sent into exile; the day when freedom, courage and virtue were sent into exile in the hope that our Muslim umma', without a leader, would walk the trail of silence and compromise. Also, 4 November 1978, was the day when determined and brave students of the human-making school of Islam marched toward the universities to fly the banner: There is no god but God, in universities with the help of our students and Muslim people.

Finally, 4 November, 1979, as the day the volcano of the Muslim people's anger against the archsatan and internal compromisers erupted, and the day of battle and struggle until the revolution of mahdi -- may God hasten his noble advent -- in two principal directions: the direction of struggle against self and the direction of the struggle of Muslim students for obtaining the rights of all the world's oppressed from the international supercriminals. The crystallization of this can now be seen on the fronts of the fight between truth and falsehood.

After the message was read, the combative students were told: You know that with every drop of your blood hundreds of other students in the general mobilization will rush to the aid of the truth-seeking combatants on the battlefronts.

According to this report, after the singing of an anthem by a group of students, a message from the unity strengthening office was read by a student.

During these ceremonies and after burning the U.S. flag, Musavi-Kho'ini [supervisor of pilgrim affairs] spoke on the history of 4 November. He said: Today is the day of America's abjectness and the victory of divine values over satanic values. He added: The imam's exile, the dragging of students in dust and blood in front of Tehran University and the activities of the den of espionage were only some of the moves made by America in various forms.

Today's ceremonies ended with the shouts of students and with the slogan: Death to America.

KUWAIT ADVISED NOT TO CONTINUE PROVOCATIONS

LD041800 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report, following the assault and battery, torture and expulsion of a number of Iranian citizens from Kuwait, the spokesman of our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs declared that the torture, harassment and expulsion of Iranian citizens are part of a vast plot hatched by world arrogance against the Islamic Republic of Iran.

He added: Harassing actions against Iranian citizens and the subversive and provocative propaganda campaign in this connection are undoubtedly a step toward preparing favorable ground for the United States and its reactionary friends in the region. They are trying to bring about a split and to sow discord between the Islamic Republic of Iran and neighboring countries and, consequently, justifying their active presence and the extension of their influence in the region. He added: The Islamic Republic -- as it always has proclaimed -- while respecting the principle of peaceful and good-neighborly relations with its nonbelligerent neighbors and noninterference in their internal affairs, condemns such blatant provocations and onslaughts against its nationals' human rights. We hereby emphatically advise the Kuwaiti Government not to be influenced by the machinations of the foes of Islam and not to endanger any further its relations with the Islamic Republic of Iran by continuing such inhuman actions.

Protest Made to Kuwaiti Envoy

LD050330 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 2030 GMT 4 Nov 82

[Text] According to the Central News Unit, the Kuwaiti charge d'affaires to Tehran this evening was summoned to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The political under secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs conveyed to him the Government of the Islamic Republic of Iran's protest against the inhumane behavior of Kuwaiti police and agents in beating up, insulting and torturing Iranian nationals.

HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI ADDRESSES PLANNING OFFICIALS

LD031548 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 3 Nov 82

[Text] According to IRNA, the directors and secretaries of the planning councils of ministries and provinces of the country, accompanied by Mr Banki, minister of state and director of the plan and budget organization, yesterday met with Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Consultative Assembly.

In a speech at this meeting, Hashemi-Rafsanjani compared the quality of planning during the hated Pahlavi regime and the order of the Islamic Republic and said: We want to make an example of Iran that others will follow so that we might open a new path for the oppressed people in the region and in the world. On this basis, we attach great importance to the work of planners.

The sincere forces of the world are attracted to the revolution to some extent through slogans and epic deeds. However, after a few years, the world will look at the results of our deeds and in later stages we will be accountable. We should be able to tell the world as the result of positive steps that this independent method of neither East nor West and this special Islamic path have produced brilliant results. It should not be the case that we walk upon a treasure but are poor.

Then the Majlis speaker referred to the difficulties the Muslim people in the west of our country are enduring and said: If today we tell the people to endure deprivation for the sake of the revolution, this will be acceptable only on the temporary and limited basis that we are now in a destructive period of transition after the former regime and are creating the foundations of future society. The people will understand this logical statement. However, it is not right for a person who has not been able to create a future that is better than the past to deceive the people. In 10 years' time, we will not be able to tell the people that dams have not been constructed and waters are being wasted and yet we are short of water. We know that, no matter how much our population grows, Iranian territory has the capacity to support a population twice the size of the present population, enjoying great abundance and comfort. Those who said there is not enough water were lying. There is a great amount of land and through initiative we should make use of land and water in every region for better productivity.

Referring to the fact that there are sufficient sources of foreign exchange in Iran for the importation of capital goods and that there are hard-working and inventive people for the necessary human resources for the implementation of projects and programs, the Majlis speaker said: You possess all the tools for planning. The people have cooperated in providing you with statistics. The Majlis is ready to discuss bills and the government is in harmony with you. We are confident that in the implementation stages the people will cooperate with us.

At the end, referring to the recent glorious victory of the fighters of Islam on the southern fronts, the Majlis speaker said: The heroic fighters of Islam have made us happy. Our children are in the mountains, under rain and in those difficult conditions of the war, devoting their lives so that you and we can work in the interior and build this country. We should show our appreciation, make use of this opportunity and work. Of course, our efforts will not be wasted and will forever remain in the sight of God. Future generations will be able to appreciate our service.

NVOI DECRIES NONIMPLEMENTATION OF REFORMS

TA281930 [Editorial Report] The clandestine National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran at 1730 GMT on 28 October carries a commentary, "The Revolutionary Process Does Not End Merely by Changing the System" which says: An undeniable fact is that the revolutionary process does not end by changing the form of the ruling system. And a people who staged a revolution, made sacrifices and brought it to victory rightly expect the present government to fulfill the revolution's goals by practical and revolutionary measures.

After the dismissal of the liberals, the followers of the imam's line took charge of affairs and, during this period, certain steps were taken toward achieving the revolution's aims. However, many of the promises and the main goals of the revolution have still not been fulfilled.

In many instances, fearing the label that the opponents of the imam's genuine line might stick, those in charge do not undertake reform measures in a decisive and revolutionary manner. The nationalization of foreign trade, the implementation of land reform, the implementation of a labor law in the interest of the Iranian working class, the resolution of issues between landlords and tenants and other measures that have become part of the current agenda following the revolution have still not been transformed from words into deeds.

While the people are awaiting the implementation of fundamental reforms in all economic and social aspects of society, the ignorant friends and the wise enemies of the revolution, under Islamic cover and by exploiting the superficiality and monopolism of some of the authorities, do not allow this demand by the people to be fulfilled. They stick a communist label on every act and measure carried out by the Islamic government in the interest of the oppressed people, thus blocking the way for implementing reforms.

From the viewpoint of these enemies of reform, the nationalization of foreign trade is a communist measure. In their opinion, the implementation of fundamental and democratic land reform is a communist measure. The drafting of a democratic labor law on the basis of the interests of the toilers and workers is a communist measure. The aim of the opponents of the imam's line from all these ruses is to make the people turn away from the Islamic government.

In the foreign policy arena, the situation is the same. Though positive measures have been adopted by the Islamic government toward rapprochement with the true friends of the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran, some officials, particularly in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, who willingly or unwillingly are playing the role of heirs of the Gotbzadehs, Yazdis and Bani-Sadrs, are striving by every means, under the pretext of rapprochement with Islamic states, to move revolutioanry Iran away from its real friends and to take it as close as possible to members of the notorious former CENTO pact.

It should be clearly said that the revolution's foes, by penetrating into the Islamic government and by taking advantage of religion, are striving by every means to divert the revolution from its correct popular and anti-imperialist course, and to implement America's plan to strike at the Iranian revolution under cover of Islam. The danger of the improper and counterrevolutiaonry activities of the masked enemies of the revolution is a real and actual danger. Persons with outwardly religious and Islamic faces must not be allowed to implement the ominous aims of world-devouring America and the dregs of the former regime and make the people turn away from the Islamic government by creating malcontents.

GUARDS COMMANDER ON MUSLIM IBN 'AQIL OPERATION

GF301010 Tehran KEYHAN in Persian 13 Oct 82 p 17

[Text] Kerman -- Brother Mohsen Reza'i, commander in chief of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, who toured Kerman Province visiting guards bases and mobilization unit installations, participated in a prayer ceremony at the garrison of the Kerman Islamic Revolution Guards. Brother Mohsen Reza'i told the audience that approximately 50 to 60 fighter planes and three regiments of Iraqi mercenaries took part in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil Operation.

On the first night of the offensive, our powerful warriors with invisible heavenly assistance, traveling about 10 km over arduous mountain tracks and passing through 50 to 60 rows of minefields, were able to penetrate the enemy's strongholds and launch great attacks on them, resulting in their defeat. By the grace and power of Almighty God, only 22 of our men were martyred out of a force of 15,000 men. Such a small casualty figure is unbelievable in the history of warfare.

Brother Mohsen Reza'i added that, in the third year of war, we have come to the conclusion that we have to adopt many more newer methods in our operations than before and that this is why we began our assault with much more modern tactics in the Muslim ibn 'Aqil offensive. The affect of the new offensive was such that Shah Hoseyn, Saddam and other leaders went to European, American and Arab reactionary countries to find solutions.

He added that by capturing the heights overlooking Mandali City, we are now only 100 km from Baghdad. By advancing only 40 km, we would be able to shell parts of Baghdad with our powerful long-range artillery. The Iraqis require four armies to secure and control this area. Now that the Iraqi soldiers are running away and most of the Saddam's forces have been destroyed, Saddam is hesitant about keeping his army around Basra or stationing troops in this region. God willing, we hope to end the war for the good of Muslims in the near future.

The report adds that the commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards at the end of his visit to the guards outposts and after conferring with brother guards left Kerman for Esfahan and Tehran. Upon arriving in Tehran, Mohsen Reza'i said the aim of his trip to the region of the 6th Garrison of the revolution guards was to visit the brother guards and mobilized units and to have closer contacts with the people in furthering mobilization so as to send more forces to the battlefields. He also reviewed the situation in the region and along the southern coasts. At the end of the interview, he thanked God for having such a prosperous trip. He also said that during his trip he had learned what powerful forces and nation we are.

In another attack, which was also carried out by the Iraqi Muslim mujahidin during this same time, two vehicles of the Iraqi forces were ambushed in the Dukan route inside Iraq. In this operation, seven Iraqi Ba'thists, including a battalion commander, were killed and 12 others were wounded.

MIDDLE EAST AND SOUTH ASIA REVIEW

8 NOVEMBER 1982

Jordan

Husayn Interview -- In a BBC interview broadcast by Amman television, King Husayn revealed that he and PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat have discussed recognizing Israel. Husayn said he hopes the PLO will "act in a manner that will help the Palestinian cause in the best possible way in the near future." Israel "obviously exists and it has a right to exist," the king asserted, adding that he thinks this is also the Palestinians' opinion. He told the Palestinians it would be a "great help" if they issued a statement at least conditionally recognizing Israel's right to exist. However, the king reiterated that Jordan will not move on the Palestinian issue without a clear mandate from the Palestinians themselves and from the rest of the Arab world. Husayn declared that he has a "strong conviction" that President Ronald Reagan is "serious and determined to see progress made" in the Middle East. He stated that he is anxious to know more about the U.S. administration's plans and added that "a dialogue is needed to clarify many points."

PLO Comments -- The Palestine Central Council which will meet in 2 weeks in Damascus will discuss the possibility of amending some articles of the Palestinian National Charter, particularly those concerning the recognition of Israel, Radio Monte Carlo reported on 5 November. The radio noted that PLO recognition of Israel must be preceded by an amendment of the Palestinian National Charter, either "in letter or spirit." However, PLO spokesman Mahmud al-Labadi said that "recognition of Israel is premature," according to an interview with the Riyadh paper AL-JAZIRAH published on 1 November. He added that Palestinians are against Zionism and expansion, but not against coexisting with Jews in Palestine.

Israeli Comments -- A "senior Israeli official" chided King Husayn for advising the PLO to recognize Israel when he himself does not do so, Jerusalem radio reported. The official called on Husayn to "set an example" and said that Husayn's recognition would be most welcome.

However, Labor Party Chairman Shim'on Peres described King Husayn's "recognition" of Israel as a "positive development," Jerusalem television reported on 6 November. Peres said that there are currently no channels of communication between the Labor Party and the Jordanian monarch and stressed that the Nabulus delegation which recently visited Amman had not advised the Labor Party of its plans to visit Jordan, the television added. In an interview with the Tel Aviv daily YEDI'OT AHARONOT published on 5 November, Peres declared that he would not meet with PLO leader 'Arafat but "would have preferred" to meet with King Husayn because the Labor Party can reach an agreement with him that will not necessitate establishing a Palestinian state.

Israel

West Bank Settlements -- Deputy Agricultural Minister and member of the Ministerial Committee on Settlements Mikha'el Deqel stated that Israel would have about 20 new or expanded settlements in the coming year, including the settlements mentioned previously by Housing Minister and Deputy Prime Minister David Levi, Jerusalem radio reported on 5 November. Deqel told THE JERUSALEM POST that, pending Knesset approval, the treasury has approved 500 million shekels for the settlement budget. However, Deputy Prime Minister and Chairman of the Ministerial Committee on Settlements Simha Ehrlich claimed that although the government has a "consistent policy" on settlements, "no new decisions" have been made because there is "no budget available" to establish even those settlements which have already been approved, the Tel Aviv daily MA'ARIV revealed. The plan to establish 20 settlements next year is "more wishful thinking than an actual plan," the paper noted.

The Defense Ministry plans to turn four military outposts in "Judaea and Samaria" into civilian settlements without the consent of the Ministerial Committee on Settlement Affairs, Jerusalem television reported. The outposts are in addition to the recently announced plans for five or six settlements in "Judaea and Samaria," the television pointed out.

Prime Minister Menahem Begin told the 7 November Cabinet session that he instructed the Israeli envoy in Washington to protest the U.S. administration's statements against establishing settlements in "Judaea and Samaria," Jerusalem radio reported. Begin noted that the Cabinet's policy on settlements is clear and that Israel will continue to establish settlements in the territories. A source close to the prime minister told the Tel Aviv daily DAVAR that Begin thinks President Reagan's plan is "Russian roulette with live ammunition." According to Jerusalem radio, Minister Without Portfolio Mordekhay Ben-Porat suggested that reports concerning settlement affairs be censored; Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir replied that settlement activity cannot be covered up, but added that there is no need to make prior announcements on future settlement plans.

Egyptian Foreign Ministry termed Israel's decision to build settlements on the West Bank a new act "to destroy the peace process" and Minister of State for Foreign Affairs Dr Butrus Ghali said it was a "new blow" to President Reagan's peace initiative, MENA reported. The minister expressed the hope that the United States will immediately adopt appropriate action to halt this "subversive" activity, MENA added. An AL-AHRAM article cited by MENA described the settlement issue as "a U.S. problem."

Security Incidents -- Three people were injured when a bomb was hurled at the central synagogue in Herzliyya, IDF radio reported on 8 November. A Gaza resident was killed the previous day after a grenade was thrown at an IDF vehicle but a soldier succeeded in throwing it back out, according to the radio.

Further Beirut Massacre Testimony -- Brig Gen 'Amos Yaron testified to the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacres that Chief of Staff Refa'el Eytan told Phalangist commanders on the afternoon of 17 September that they had done a "nice job" and issued an order for them to continue their operations in the Shatila and Sabra camps until the following morning, Jerusalem radio reported.

Lebanon

Security Situation -- Israeli and Syrian artillery exchanged fire in the Al-Biqa' Valley on 6 November, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The Ash-Shuf mountain area was calm on 5-6 November but renewed sectarian clashes and kidnappings occurred on 7 November, according to Beirut radio reports. Meanwhile, Progressive Socialist Party leader Walid Junblatt announced in an interview with AFP that he is prepared to cooperate with President Amin al-Jumayyil and is ready to disarm his Druze militia "in the framework of a general disarmament." Junblatt confirmed that the leftist National Movement no longer exists.

Arab Relations -- President al-Jumayyil and Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan will visit Saudi Arabia on 14 November for talks on the withdrawal of foreign forces and on the reconstruction of Lebanon, Beirut radio reported. Lebanon will not return its ambassador to Libya until the Libyans officially apologize for Col Mu'ammar al-Qadhdhafi's criticism of President al-Jumayyil, the radio also noted.

Talks With Israel -- The talks between Israel and Lebanon are being delayed because the two sides disagree on the agenda, the composition of the delegations and the venue for the talks, Jerusalem radio reported. Israeli officials expressed surprise at the stand adopted by U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper, who arrived in Tel Aviv on 6 November and told the Israelis not to pressure President al-Jumayyil, the radio said.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- Iran launched the "third phase" of the current operation on the southwestern fronts late on 6 November, liberating territory, placing several supply-communication axes within firing range of the Iranian forces, and entering 10 km into Iraqi territory, military communiques broadcast by Tehran radio reported. An Iraqi military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio reported that Iranian forces entered 1-5 km into Iraqi territory along a narrow front during a fierce battle. In earlier clashes on 6 November Iranian forces retreated from the border area opposite the Maysan Governorate, leaving 982 dead, a military communique broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio claimed. The communique added that the Iraqi Air Force continued concentrated attacks both in the border area and "deep inside" Iranian territory in the southern and central sectors of the battlefront, inflicting "massive" losses.

Operation Statistics -- Since 1 November, 6,000 Iraqis have been killed or wounded and 3,400 have been captured, a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed. IRNA reported that 30 villages in southwestern Iran have been liberated.

Hashemi-Rafsanjani Comments -- Majlis Speaker 'Ali Akbar Hashemi-Rafsanjani told journalists at a news conference in Tehran that the war will continue until Iranian objectives are met, Tehran radio reported. The speaker stressed that Iran is prepared to advance to Baghdad if the conditions are not met.

GCC Defense

A mutual Gulf defense plan will be submitted to the forthcoming GCC summit in Manama, Saudi Defense and Aviation Minister Prince Sultan ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz announced in a press statement reported by SPA.

SECURITY STEPPED UP FOR MINISTERS IN PUNJAB

BK051405 Hong Kong AFP in English 1349 GMT 5 Nov 82

[By Dilip Ganguly]

[Excerpt] Amritsar, India, Nov 6 [date as received] (AFP) -- The Punjab government today stepped up security for all ministers and state installations following intelligence reports of possible attacks by Sikh militants pursuing a holy war for autonomy for the Punjab, officials here said.

Ministers in the Congress Party-led state government saw their guards doubled last night after Sikh leaders announced they would intensify their agitation with the failure of a negotiated settlement of their demands with the federal government. Ministers have been told to avoid going out of the state capital, Chandigarh, and always to take along sten gun-carrying security guards.

HOME MINISTER SPEAKS ON PUNJAB SITUATION

BK051636 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 5 Nov 82

[Text] The home minister said in the Rajya Sabha today that the Akali Dal's move to extend their agitation to the venue of the ASIAD has no justification and will create more complications.

Replying to a call attention motion sponsored by Khushwant Singh (nominated) and others, Sethi appealed to the Akalis not to escalate the agitation. He hoped that they would see reason and would not play into the hands of extremists. If violence creeps into the agitation, the government will have to deal with it accordingly. Sethi said the government has been trying to resolve the Punjab situation with the utmost sincerity. The prime minister had gone much out of her way in accommodating some of their demands despite opposition from some section of the people. So far as religious demands are concerned, almost all of them are acceptable to the government. Only certain details have to be worked out.

Referring to the suggestion by some members that the prime minister should meet the Akali leaders, Sethi said she had never expressed herself against such meetings. But first a proper and congenial atmosphere has to be created. Besides, certain things have to be sorted out at the junior level.

Replying to questions, Sethi said that under a 1970 award Chandigarh was to be transferred to Punjab and Fazilka's (Abohar) to Haryana. So far as the government is concerned, that position still stands. Regarding center-state relations, he said this is a question which is not limited to any one state. A consensus has to be arrived at.

A member wanted to know the government's reaction to the Anantpur Saheb Resolution. The home minster made it clear that any resolution or demand that goes against the integrity of the country cannot be accepted.

During the discussion, several members demanded an assurance from the government that the Anantpur Saheb Resolution as now drafted will not form the basis for any settlement with the Akalis. Another demand was that places of worship should not give sanctuary to antisocial elements. Members paid tribute to the historic role played by the Sikhs, particularly in defending the country, and said some mischievous and motivated elements have misguided the majority of the Akalis. It was stated that extremists should be dealt with firmly. One member regretted that the religious sentiments of Sikhs were being exploited by one section for political gain. Another member urged the government not to stand on prestige for finding a solution to the Akali demands.

AKALI DAL: NO INTENTION OF DISRUPTING GAMES

BK051420 Hong Kong AFP in English 1402 GMT 5 Nov 82

[Text] Amritsar, (India) Nov 5 (AFP) -- The Sikh extremist party, Akali Dal, has no intention of disrupting the Asian Games, the party's leader Sant (priest) Harchand Singh Longowal said here today. He said the decision he announced yesterday in the Sikh holy city of Amritsar was to send "jathas" (volunteers) to court arrest in Delhi during the Asian Games to focus international attention on Sikh demands for autonomy for the Punjab.

The government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has taken an extremely firm line following the declaration of a holy war yesterday. Witnesses in Amritsar, quoted in the press, had said Sant Longowal declared he would turn the Asian Games into a battleground. Crack frontier guards from the Tibetan border are to protect the Asian Games installations in New Delhi against Sikh fanatics if they march to the capital on November 19, the HINDUSTAN TIMES daily said today. Observers said the firmness of the central government seemed to be paying off.

Referring to the pro-Khalistan (independent Punjab) slogans raised at a congregation where the new stir programme was announced yesterday, the Akali chief said it did not reflect the majority opinion of the Akali Dal leadership.

The sant told the press that if the prime minister's emissary, Swaran Singh, needed any clarifications he would be welcomed to Amritsar but the five-member Akali panel would not visit Delhi any more.

When his attention was drawn to the federal interior minister, P.C. Sethi's statement in parliament earlier today, Mr. Longowal replied: "If we are members of one family, it would have been better for Mrs. Gandhi, as its head, to come to us and enquire about our grievances. It would have been a good precedent," he said. Referring to the state government's instruction that the Akali volunteers would be jailed when they court arrest as part of their stir, the sant said "it is a direct attack on our religion by Darbara Singh", the chief minister of the state. "More the repression, more intensified the agitation," he warned.

Meanwhile, in Delhi, the interior minister told the upper house that Mrs. Gandhi is prepared to talk to the Akali leaders to find a solution to their demands after they are sorted out at her emissary's level. Mr. Sethi said the government had not stated that it would deal with the proposed stir sternly. But "if there is violence then the government is bound to deal sternly with it." Mr. Sethi said the government cannot consider "anything which goes against the unity and integrity of the country" and he expressed the hope that the Akali leaders would see the reason.

According to PTI news agency reports from Chandigarh, State Chief Minister Darbara Singh said today that he would continue to tour the state despite the Akalis threat to "gherao" (physical confinement) him. "I am a democratically elected representative of the people and as such, it is my duty to go to them and hear them. I will not fail in my duty," he said. One of the three-point programmes of the Akalis announced yesterday in Amritsar to intensify their agitation, following breakdown of talks with the prime minister's emissary, was to "gherao" the chief minister whenever he toured the state.

HASHEMI-RAFSANJANI ON CONDITIONS TO END WAR

LD071932 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 7 Nov 82

[Text] Hashemi-Rafsanjani, speaker of the Islamic Majlis and the imam's representative at the Supreme Defense Council, this afternoon took part in a press, radio and television conference given for domestic and foreign correspondents.

The Central News Unit reports that the speaker of the Islamic Majlis, commenting on the conditions set to end the imposed war, said: Our conditions were clarified from the beginning: the unconditional withdrawal of Iraqi forces -- which has not been enacted -- and payment of reparations and punishment of the aggressor. Punishment of the aggressor has been interpreted in many ways, including the downfall of the Ba'th Party. It has been said that with the downfall of Iraq's Ba'th Party and its replacement with an Islamic government, Iran would not ask for reparations. This statement was not made by the Supreme Defense Council, but no one yet has opposed it either.

Regarding the extent, methods, effects and victories achieved by the recent offensive, Hashemi-Rafsanjani commented: Several days ago, we launched an offensive from a strategic position, and the latest report handed to me indicates that we have advanced inside Iraqi territory by 10 km and have captured the 'Amarah asphalted road. As we have repeated several times, if they do not meet our conditions, these operations will continue for as long as we deem necessary.

Questioned on the Iraqi minister of foreign affairs having said that the war between Iraq and Iran is finished and that there are no longer any extensive confrontations, only small-scale encounters, he replied: The Iraqis lied from the beginning and this is another lie, The war will continue until our objectives are fulfilled.

The speaker of the Islamic Majlis, commenting on the new operational region of the combatants of Islam, said: These operations are a continuation of the Moharram operations and [words indistinct].

Questioned on the method of payment for reparations by Iraq, he responded: We want Iraq's Ba'th Party to pay reparation. We would not object to other countries helping Iraq with this payment.

The imam's representative at the Supreme Defense Council, commenting on the possibility that in light of the recent victories of the combatants of Islam there might be alterations made in Iraq's Ba'th Party by America and that Saddam might be eliminated from the Ba'th Party, said: Saddam personally is not important to us. The Ba'th Party is responsible for these crimes. Saddam should be punished. We would not be satisfied with cosmetic changes.

Commenting on the extent of the recent operations launched by the combatants of Islam, he said: We have not [word indistinct] ourselves at any point and until our conditions are met, we will continue to advance as far as we deem necessary. Our combatants are capable of advancing to Baghdad.

The speaker of the Islamic Majlis then stressed the conditions set by the Islamic Republic of Iran to end the war. He said: We do not want to use the word peace until the just rights of the Muslim nation of Iran are restored. Until then, no peace is possible.

At this point a correspondent asked: If Iran's conditions are not met, are the Iranian forces prepared to advance to Baghdad itself? Hashemi-Rafsanjani replied: Yes, we have announced this fact before; nothing can restrain us.

The imam's representative at the Supreme Defense Council referred to the threat made by the countries of the region with regard to imposing an economic and political embargo on the Islamic Republic of Iran in case of a new offensive. He said: They have done what they could. Their money, their propaganda machinery, their political votes [as heard], their ports and even their forces are and have been at the disposal of the Iraqi regime. We advise them to go no further, so that our nation can forgive them for what they have done.

In the light of the new progress made by the forces of Islam and foreseeing new conspiracies by America, Hashemi-Rafsanjani said: America is our most headstrong enemy and, up to now, in connection with the war and during the past 3 years, America has done all in in its power. [as heard] We predict that America will not (?dare) to interfere directly. It also does not have that much force available for indirect interference. We don't fear [words indistinct].

Commenting on rumors concerning arms sales from the Zionist regime, he said: It claims we have bought arms worth $28 million from it. I can tell you now that during the Moharram operations, our combatants have seized weapons worth more than $1 billion as booty. The spoils of past operations are worth even more. When we have such huge resources provided by the Iraqis themselves, we would not blemish our reputation by buying arms costing $28 million from the Zionist regime.

On the Islamic Republic's future relations with America and Europe, he said: For more than 3 years, America has done all it could against us. Therefore, we cannot easily forget the hostility and cruelty it has displayed toward our nation, and our nation is a determined enemy of America. He added: With regard to European countries, we already have relations with them, but we will not allow colonialist relations to be established between us. France, among the European countries, is the more hostile toward us and has assisted Iraq quite a lot. France also has helped the terrorists [as heard] and has (?frozen) our assets. At present more than [words indistinct] is withheld against the verdict of their own court. I think there might be a [word indistinct] point in our close relations with France. He added: Our relations are not clouded with other European countries, and if they act properly we are prepared. [as heard]

KHAMENE'I WARNS AGAINST SUPERPOWER INTERFERENCE

GF080724 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 8 Nov 82

[Report on correspondet's interview with President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i broadcast by Voice and Vision Television -- date, place not given]

[Text] President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i answered people's questions regarding the nation's current problems including housing, offices, rising prices, distribution of goods, the imposed war, minigroups and U.S. conspiracies in the region.

In his interview, the president said: The United States' loudspeakers directly and indirectly threaten that the superpowers will join the war. We see this as a pretext for foisting an imposed peace on us. In this way, they are trying to make us ignore the sovereign rights of the Iranian nation concerning Iraq and the Ba'thist regime and that we should accept a humiliating and superficial peace. However, we consider the superpowers intelligent enough not to interfere in the war. They did so indirectly and they are doing it now and they will continue to do so in the future.

However, if they ever intervene directly in the Persian Gulf, Oman Sea and Middle East regions, their intervention will result in the destruction of their own interests in the region. We consider it improbable that the superpowers will ever commit such an (?indiscreet) act.

In his television message, Seyyed 'Ali Khamen'i continued: We have declared time and again, and we repeat, that an imposed peace is as bad as an imposed war and, therefore, unacceptable. Only that peace based on the truth and just conditions is (?acceptable) We repeatedly have announced those conditions and we are prepared to accept a just peace. Without these conditions, it is not possible for us to make peace. One of those conditions, as we have reiterated, is the retribution of the aggressive regime of Iraq headed by the 'Aflaqite Saddam.

A full version of the president's televised message will be presented in the later newscasts.

GHARAZI COMMENTS ON LOSS OF ABADAN REFINERY

LD080940 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0400 GMT 8 Nov 82

[Text] The Central News Unit reports that our country's petroleum minister gave an interview to foreign correspondents who have come to Iran to inspect the situation of the battlefronts and behind the frontlines of the imposed war.

He elaborated on the state of Iran's oil industry. He said: As the official in charge of the country's oil, I announce that despite losing the Abadan refinery, which has a capacity of 600,000 barrels, we have succeeded in increasing the level of production with regard to the oil products needed by our country. In the past month, gas-oil rationing ended and kerosene rationing, God willing, will end soon. Gas rations have increased by 50 percent and gradually will increase to even higher rates.

Referring to Iran's oil exports, Gharazi said: Despite the conspiracies of America's lackeys in the Middle East who are trying to halt Iran's oil sales, we have our quota in the world oil market. Of course, we have put Iran's quota within OPEC at 3 million barrels a day. Gharazi then said: The Islamic Republic of Iran will never sell oil to the four countries of America, Israel, South Africa and the Philippines.

In reply to a question about the pressure exerted to reduce the official OPEC oil price, he said: Iran is trying to help OPEC remain strong and independent from U.S. policies. Gharazi emphasized: Those who have tried to reduce the oil price suffered losses last year and threatened the balance of world economy. I believe the United States and Saudi Arabia suffered more losses than others. The Iranian petroleum minister then said the reason for stopping Iran's gas exports to the USSR was failure to agree on the price of gas.

[Communique No 1,107 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. Yesterday, all along the western fronts of the country, an exchange of artillery and heavy weapons fire continued. On each of these fronts, the combatants of Islam returned the fire of the Saddamists.

By opening fire on enemy positions, the combatants of Islam silenced their artillery and heavy weapons fire and inflicted considerable damages and casualties on the enemy.

According to the latest reports received, about 200 Iraqi military personnel have been either killed or wounded on Qasr-e Shirin and Sumar. Also, one of the enemy's ammunition depots was set on fire.

On 31 October, the brave tribal warriors in the Piranshahr region carried out a series of operations outside the borders. Their strike attacks succeeded in killing 30 Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries; 30 heavy and light weapons and two wireless sets were seized from the Iraqi forces.

In an exchange of fire on the Marivan front, artillery fire by the powerful combatants of Islam on enemy positions in Tutman and Panjwin region succeeded in setting on fire and destroying several collective entrenchments belonging to the Saddamist forces and more than 15 Iraqi soldiers were killed. In these operations, the combatants of Islam succeeded in silencing the artillery fire of the Saddamist mercenaries.

At 1205 hours today, the lofty personnel of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran downed one of the aggressive planes of the Iraqi Armed Forces in the Persian Gulf region.

The victorious combatants of Islam stationed on the Moharram operational fronts established and consolidated their defensive positions. They opened intensive fire on the Iraqi positions and units, inflicting effective damages and casualties on the enemy and foiling all efforts and futile activities of the Saddamist forces in launching repeated counteroffensives. Our victorious combatants also opened heavy and continuous fire on enemy positions, setting fire to fuel tanks belonging to the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries in this region and inflicting considerable damages on them.

On the Khorramshahr and Abadan fronts, about 13 Saddamists were killed or wounded due to heroes of the navy firing on enemy positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud. Two enemy fuel tanks situated on the Faw-Basrah axis also were set on fire and a heavy weapons emplacement of the Iraqi forces was completely destroyed. On these fronts, the heroes of the gendarmerie returned the enemy's fire and inflicted damages and casualties.

The towns of Abadan and Khorramshahr yesterday came under artillery and heavy weapons fire by the Iraqi mercenary forces. Several houses and shops were destroyed in Abadan.

[Text] In His exalted name. Following the extensive Moharram operations and the valuable successes achieved after the liberation of the occupied lands in the southwestern region of the Islamic homeland, our victorious forces are now continuing their ground activities. These activities include operations of construction, artillery, armored and infantry units aimed at strengthening and consolidating defense positions. By opening fire on enemy positions, our artillery units not only stop the movements of the Iraqi units but they also do not give the Ba'thist mercenaries any opportunity to make the slightest move.

In the western operational areas, the brave combatants of Islam -- like their other victorious and honorable brothers -- are endeavoring to destroy the enemy with firm determination.

On the various fronts of the Marivan and Paveh areas, exchanges of artillery fire continued yesterday with our heroic forces enjoying complete fire superiority. By opening fire on the positions of the Saddamist mercenaries, our strong combatants based in these two areas inflicted losses and casualties on the enemy.

On the other fronts of the western operational region, our brothers carried out their activities by dispatching patrol and reconnaissance groups.

Three residential houses in Abadan yesterday were destroyed by enemy mortars and fire broke out in parts of the city. Three of our Abadan compatriots were wounded as a result of this attack.

In the past 24 hours, several Iraqi aircraft violated the airspace of border points in the southern and western areas of our country. However, they were forced to flee by fire from our air defense units.

At 1153 today, one enemy aircraft was downed by fire from ground-to-air defenses in the Ilam area.

[Communique No 1,111 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. We thank you, dear God, for making the combatants who follow your path so victorious and successful on the fronts of the battle between good and bad. Your blessings be upon them.

Dear compatriots, the results of the efforts and self-sacrifices of the forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran are brought to your attention. At 1106, 1145 and 1310 today, three aggressive planes belonging to the Iraqi Armed Forces were downed in the Moharram operational region by fire from fighters and antiaircraft defense units of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran. The pilot of one of the downed Iraqi planes, Capt Mohammad Raji, was captured by the capable hands of our combatants and transferred to a location behind the frontline. This brings the total number of Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries' planes downed in the victorious Moharram operation to 12.

On most of the western fronts yesterday, the exchange of artillery and heavy weapons fire continued sporadically. On each of these fronts, the combatants of Islam defended their positions and defused a considerable number of different kinds of mines planted by the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries in the operational region of Muslim ibn 'Aqil. At the same time, they opened artillery and heavy weapons fire on enemy positions. Our forces succeeded in inflicting damages and casualties on Iraqi forces on these fronts.

Due to the artillery fire of the ground forces, an ammunition depot of the Iraqi forces was set on fire on the Marivan front. Enemy artillery fire was silenced on this front by a pounding of their artillery positions.

On the southern fronts, the exchange of fire between the victorious forces of Islam and the weakening enemy is continuing. On the Abadan and Khorramshahr fronts, gendarmerie warriors returned the enemy fire by opening fire on Saddamists' positions on the other side of the Arvand Rud, inflicting casualties and damages on the Iraqi Ba'thist mercenaries. Several collective and individual entrenchments with their corresponding crews were destroyed on these fronts.

A number of planes belonging to the Iraqi Armed Forces which had intended to violate the airspace of several of our southern and western towns yesterday were forced to flee by the selfless personnel of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran who opened fire using tactical measures.

IRNA DETAILS SUCCESSES IN RECENT OPERATIONS

LD061314 Tehran IRNA in English 0941 GMT 6 Nov 82

[Text] Karbala' Headquarters, Nov 6, IRNA -- The success of the Moharram operation, which led to the liberation of Hamrain strategic border heights, enjoys unique characteristics.

The operation, which started at night on Nov 1, 1982, embodied important axis in southwestern area of 'Eyn-e Khosh.

Iraqi forces had organized their 10th Armoured Division of the 4th Army which had received a severe blow in Dezful during Fath al-Mobin operation, withdrawing to the southwestern 'Eyn-e Khosh. The division had nine armoured infantry brigades.

The operation was pre-arranged but on Monday night, Nov 1, due to heavy rainfalls which caused floods in some [words indistinct] of the Iranian forces, the Iraqis thought that the offensive would be postponed thus went to rest after 10 days of unrest and anxiety.

In the first hours of the operation, Islamic combatants achieved their targets, striking fatal blow on the Iraqi enemy.

To mention the degree of casualties and damages inflicted on the Iraqi troops, some instances should be noted. The 606th and 423rd Infantry Divisions were completely battered and the 505th Infantry and 60th and 42nd Armoured Divisions lost 30 to 60 percent of their military capability, and commander of the division was killed. The second battalion of the 14th Mechanized Brigade was totally smashed while the Second Jeish al-Shabi Brigade sustained damages.

Military informed sources cautiously estimate the number of Iraqis killed or wounded during the operation around 3,500 and the number of POW's transferred behind the fronts since last Thursday afternoon to 1,500.

The damage the Iraqi forces suffered includes destruction of over 100 tanks and personnel carriers, 120 vehicles, 12 pieces of 106-mm weapons and a number of katyushas. The Islamic combatants also seized from the enemy 90 vehicles, 50 tanks and a great number of heavy and light [words indistinct] as well as anti-aircraft artillery.

Operation Moharram was also a potential threat against Iraqi border cities, oil installations and economic establishments also endangering a number of strategic military highways which disconnected southern and northern Iraqi warfronts.

During this operation some 30 villages near 'Eyn-e Khosh, Musian and Dehloran, in southwestern Iran, were liberated or freed from the enemy's artillery fire, all of which is an absolute defeat for Iraq and a great victory for the Islamic Republic.

At present Iranian forces have liberated over 550 sq. kms of their territory while Saddam Husayn and his generals are desperately seeking the assistance of their allies in Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Morocco, Egypt and Sudan.

Israel

Begin Testimony -- Prime Minister Menahem Begin told the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre that after the assassination of Bashir al-Jumayyil he suggested to the defense minister and chief of staff that the IDF should capture the main passage points in Beirut in order to prevent acts of revenge by Christians against Muslims. Nevertheless, he went on, nobody conceived that if the Phalangists went into the Palestinian camps to fight the "terrorists" they would commit a massacre. In his testimony, which was broadcast live by Jerusalem radio, Begin confirmed that during the 16 September Cabinet meeting warnings from Deputy Prime Minister David Levi and from the chief of staff about the dangers of revenge killings did not "turn on a red light" among the ministers. Begin said he learned of the decision to send the Phalangists into Sabra and Shatila at the 16 September Cabinet session, several hours after they had entered the camps. He testified that he first heard about the massacre from the BBC World Service on the afternoon of 18 September.

Gaza Settlements -- The Jewish Agency's Settlement Department will soon submit a plan to Prime Minister Begin for the establishment of 8 new settlements in the Gaza Strip and for the completion and expansion of 11 existing settlements in the area, MA'ARIV reported. Noting that the intention is to complete the plan within 5 years, MA'ARIV said it will bring tens of thousands of Jews into the Gaza Strip, where just over 1,000 Jews live at present.

PLO

Guarantees Sought From U.S. -- According to the 9 November issue of AL-AHRAM cited by MENA, the Palestinian delegation which met in Paris with Egyptian Foreign Minister Kamal Hasan 'Ali stated that the PLO wants the United States to guarantee that it will be an equal participant in peace negotiations, that the Arab participants in such negotiations will agree on the manner in which the PLO will be represented, that only the Palestinians speak for their cause and "that recognition must be reciprocal and simultaneous and on the basis of a U.S. guarantee with the PLO."

Military Option -- The PLO will resume its military activities "as soon as possible, at the proper time and place" the PLO representative in Saudi Arabia said in an interview with the Jidda paper AL-MADINAH cited by SPA. However, he denied that the PLO fighters are "warmongers," and asserted that if peace can be achieved through political action and if Israel withdraws, "then certainly we will not insist on the military option."

Revolutionary Council Meeting -- The Fatah Revolutionary Council reviewed, among other issues, the situation of the Palestinian forces in the Al-Biqa' region and in northern Lebanon, the contacts and visits conducted by PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat and other members of the Palestinian leadership as well as the "positive elements" of the Fes summit, Baghdad Voice of the PLO reported.

Lebanon

Druze gunmen of the Progressive Socialist Party fired at a Christian funeral procession in an Ash-Shuf mountain village, killing 8 persons and wounding 11 others, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. Seven of the attackers were killed or wounded by the Christians, the radio said. An IDF unit subsequently arrived in the area to halt the fighting, Jerusalem radio reported. Nevertheless, further clashes erupted early on 9 November, according to Beirut radio. Meanwhile, the Command Council of the Phalangist Lebanese Forces said in a statement broadcast by the Voice of Lebanon that the Lebanese Forces will be faithful to their "pledge" to the Christians in Ash-Shuf. At a meeting of the Higher Liaison Committee of the multinational force, President Amin al-Jumayyil called for the adoption of immediate measures to tackle the security problem in the mountains, Beirut radio reported. Earlier, Voice of Lebanon radio noted that Lebanon has officially requested Great Britain, the Netherlands, Sweden, South Korea, Austria and Belgium to participate in the multinational force.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Activities -- The "final statistics" of the third phase of the current operation include 4 Iraqi brigades destroyed, 4 other brigades partially destroyed and 13 battalions destroyed, a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed. A military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio reported that Iranian forces made a new attempt to attack Iraqi units in the Maysan Governorate border area, but the offensive was completely crushed. The Iraqi Air Force continued to enjoy "full supremacy," the communique added. An Iraqi military spokesman told INA that more than 2,500 Iranians were killed in the Maysan border area on 8 November.

Mobilization -- There is no need for a general Iranian mobilization, President 'Ali Khamene'i told Tehran radio following a meeting with Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeyni. The president explained that Khomeyni's decree on mobilization meant that all able Iranian Muslims should go to the front when there is a need. However, the military commanders have not made such a request, the president added.

Iran

In the past 6 weeks about 3,000 Iranian guards have been killed, wounded or captured in Kordestan and 400 Kurdish forces have been killed or wounded, an Iranian Kurdish leader claimed in a Paris LE MATIN interview published on 4 November. Tehran radio stated that 20 "counterrevolutionaries" were killed or wounded in Bukan district on 7 November.

PDRY

PFLO Radio -- The Aden Voice of PFLO has not been heard since 5 November. Between 27 October, when the Oman-PDRY agreement was signed, and 5 November, the program doubled its broadcast time dedicated to music and carried a series of talks on subjects such as the contradictions between capitalism and socialism, the resolutions of the Third PFLO Congress and the history of the anti-British struggle in Oman. No announcement has been monitored either on the program's suspension or on its change of broadcast time.

Relations With Saudi Arabia -- Interior Minister Lt Col Muhammad Abdullah al-Batani held talks in Jidda with Saudi National Guard Commander Prince 'Abdallah ibn 'Abd al-'Aziz, Jidda radio reported.

OVER 1,000 CIVILIANS, USSR TROOPS DIE IN MISHAP

BK090824 Hong Kong AFP in English 0810 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Text] Islamabad, Nov. 9 (AFP) -- Over 1,000 Soviet soldiers and Afghan civilians suffocated in the Salang Pass tunnel last week after a tanker truck full of petrol (gasoline) collided head on with the leading vehicle in a Soviet military convoy, a Western diplomatic source said here today.

Citing reports in Kabul, the source said that vehicles piled up inside the tunnel, the main pass through the Hindu Kush mountains.

The death toll was estimated at 1,100 at least.

The source said that the Soviets first believed the convoy was being ambushed by Moslem insurgents and blocked both ends of the tunnel.

Drivers kept engines running owing to the cold, and exhaust fumes and the fumes from the damaged tanker led to the huge death toll, with virtually everyone trapped in the tunnel suffocating.

Western diplomats in Kabul estimated that 700 Soviet soldiers died in the accident, believed to have occurred on November 2 or 3, while 200 were affected by fumes.

They estimated that from 400 up to as many as 2,000 Afghan civilians could have died in the disaster, with a further 200 affected.

Neither Soviet or Afghan authorities in Kabul have confirmed the report, but Kabul radio each day reads a list of people who have died, and diplomats noticed a marked increase in the days after the accident is believed to have taken place.

MESSAGES, MEETINGS MARK OCTOBER ANNIVERSARY

Karmal, Keshtmand Message

LD062248 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 6 Nov 82

[Text] On the occasion of the 65th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution, Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, and Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, member of the PDPA Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers, addressed and communicated the following message to the leaders of the USSR in Moscow:

Comrade Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee and chairman of the USSR Supreme Soviet Presidium,

Comrade Nikolay A. Tikhonov, chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers,

On the occasion of the 65th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution, we express our own heartfelt congratulations as well as those of the PDPA Central Committee, the DRA Revolutionary Council, the DRA Council of Ministers and all of the Afghan people to you, dear comrades, and through you to the Leninist CPSU Central Committee, the USSR Supreme Soviet, the Soviet Government and to all fraternal Soviet people.

The Great October Socialist Revolution has changed the historic path of progress for our world. For the first time in history, the Soviet state -- which came into being under the leadership of the great V.I. Lenin -- has successfully put into practice the old aspirations of people for freedom, equality and social justice, and these principles have become the Soviet people's law of living.

The aspirations of the revolution and the great achievements of V.I. Lenin, leader of the world's proletariat, and his brave, militant colleagues are still inspirational examples. They enlighten the way for those who stand against tyranny and exploitation and who struggle for freedom and a better future for the masses. The present successes of the Soviet people and their achievements in creating material and spiritual values are bright examples which show that a truly popular government could achieve [word indistinct].

The first decree of the Soviet state was the decree of peace. Now, on the eve of the 65th anniversary of the Great October Revolution and the 60th anniversary of the establishment of the USSR, when the CPSU Central Committee and the Soviet Government have put forward very important foreign policy initiatives for strengthening peace, maintaining international security and eliminating nuclear war, [words indistinct] is a significant symbol.

The Soviet Union is the foundation for peace and progress. It is always on the side of those who are struggling for freedom, independence, development and prosperity for the masses.

The fraternal and disinterested aid from the Soviet Union to the freedom-loving people of Afghanistan is the bright symbol of the internationalist foreign policy of the CPSU and the Soviet Government. We are profoundly grateful for this great and all-round support of Soviet friends in hard times, times when the undeclared war of imperialism and reaction is continuing against the people and revolution of Afghanistan.

Complete victory over the enemies of the revolution would allow us to concentrate all of our energy and attention on creative work and on the realization of economic and social changes envisaged by the PDPA in the interests of our people.

Taking this opportunity, I strongly believe that the fraternal and friendly relations and the fruitful and good-neighborly cooperation between the USSR and the DRA will further develop in the interests of our two people and in the interest of strengthening peace and security in the world.

Dear Comrades L.I. Brezhnev and N.A. Tikhonov, please accept once again our heartfelt best wishes for your good health and future success and for new and bright developments for the great Soviet people.

[Signed] Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, and Soltan 'Ali Keshtmand, chairman of the DRA Council of Ministers

ERSHAD ANNOUNCES LOCAL ELECTIONS IN 1983

BK061431 Hong Kong AFP in English 1245 GMT 6 Nov 82

[Text] Dhaka, Nov. 6 (AFP) -- Bangladeshi leader Lt. Gen. Hussain Mohammad Ershad announced here today local government elections under the new administrative reorganisation system would be held some time after August 1983.

The chief martial law administrator, Gen. Ershad, was addressing a gathering of over 10,000 on the 11th National Cooperative Day.

He explained that under the reorganisation, commissioners, to be directly elected, would head the 500 administrative units (thanas).

The units based on the local police station would be the lowest level of police and civil administration, under the new system, which is aimed at taking the administration closer to the people.

Nearly 45 thanas are going to be formally inaugurated tomorrow with much pomp and circumstance as the major administrative and reform of the seven-month old military regime of General Ershad.

Another 55 thanas are to be established next month and the remaining by August next year under a 500 million taka (about 25 million dollar) project.

The thanas are to be headed by high officials who would ultimately be replaced by elected commissioners next year.

General Ershad, in a 40-minute address, gave an outline of the achievements and objectives of his government.

He claimed he and his government who would give the country "real democracy" with participation of people of different walks of life.

Gen. Ershad earlier said the constitution now under suspension would be revived with certain amendments.

He also said any constitutional arrangements must ensure the role of the armed forces in the country's future government set up.

STATESMAN: CHINA BORDER DISPUTE TIE TO HISTORY

BK291208 Calcutta THE STATESMAN in English 24 Oct 82 p 6

[Editorial: "Prisoners of History"]

[Text] It might be cynical to attempt to relate the seemingly conciliatory tone of Mr Deng Xiaoping's reported comments to the Indian historical team now in Beijing to signs of a thaw in China's strained relations with the Soviet Union. But recent Chinese exchanges with the U.S.A. and Britain may have persuaded Mr Deng and his colleagues of the need to revive ties with traditional friends; the formal exorcism of the rhetoric of the Cultural Revolution at last month's 12th party congress, and the adoption of a new constitution which makes no reference to the thoughts of Marx, Lenin and Mao as the country's "guiding ideology" may also have induced a less rigid view of the world. But it would be pointless to pretend that there are any significant ideological elements in India's dispute with China; to that extent, Mr Deng was only reaffirming the obvious when he described the boundary question as the only outstanding issue. His further observation that there is no threat from either side in spite of this problem suggests the welcome conclusion that India and China have been able to isolate a dispute that seemed at one time to be exaggerated out of all proportion only because it was invested with quite unrealistic political connotations.

The quarrel is entirely over territory; and even that might not have arisen if both countries were not, to a great extent, still prisoners of the colonial past. The difference lies in their perceptions of history. While New Delhi necessarily sees India's evolution as a continuous process, accepting the assets as well as the liabilities of British rule, Beijing would prefer to believe that colonial pressure did not legally exist and that all engagements entered into in that era are automatically null and void. Some historical evidence has also been adduced to suggest that the Simla convention's records were tampered to favour British India at China's expense. But whatever the truth, India cannot wholly accept the Chinese version without also prompting questions about other treaties and institutions that are part of the legacy. Nor can the Chinese pretend that a certain watershed wipped the slate clean of all earlier events. These are not only academic points; but without being altogether ignored they can surely be reconciled in the light of contemporary national interests and practical considerations. The five points advanced by the Chinese delegation at the last round of official talks are not particularly helpful since they are mainly concerned with abstruse principles; but it should not be impossible to think in terms of a compromise -- possibly entailing different assessments, based on contemporary requirements of Aksai Chin and the McMahon line -- when negotiations are resumed in December.

DAWN: DELHI SUMMIT 'HOLDS PROMISE OF PROGRESS'

GF081250 Karachi DAWN in English 3 Nov 82 p 7

[Editorial: "Summit in New Delhi"]

[Text] Mrs Indira Gandhi and President Ziaul Haq have expressed satisfaction over the "heart-to-heart" talks they have had in New Delhi on Monday. The two leaders met in an atmosphere of cordiality and they expect Indo-Pakistan relations to improve in the coming months. But the real success or otherwise of the New Delhi summit will be judged in course of time if it succeeds in setting into motion a process whereby mistrust and misgivings, which have bedevilled relations between the two countries for 35 years, give way to mutual confidence. Even after the brief summit-level talks, no dramatic breakthrough or quick solutions of deep-rooted problems are to be expected. What is more important is that a framework be created within which issues and problems can be discussed and resolved without resort to extraordinary and out-of-the-routine measures. Often these methods have complicated rather than solve any of the problems.

In this context, the New Delhi meeting holds a promise of progress. The joint commission first proposed by India in January and pending ever since in spite of its acceptance in principle by both sides is to be set up now. A meeting of the officials of the two sides is to be held in December to work out the modalities of setting up this body. No details have been disclosed but it is obvious that whatever its composition, function and scope, the commission will constitute a step forward and will facilitate the normalisation of relations and negotiations on bilateral issues. Moreover, it will help bridge the communications gap which normally exists between the two neighbours and which has often allowed misunderstanding and confusion to grow to disturbing proportions.

Another important outcome of the Monday summit is that it has confirmed that the Indo-Pakistan dialogue is to continue. At the talks the foreign secretaries are to hold in December, the no-war pact proposed by Pakistan and the treaty of peace, friendship and cooperation suggested by India will no doubt be given careful consideration. Many of the provisions of the two drafts are known to be common but there are some fundamental points of difference between them concerning settlement of disputes, non-violation of boundaries and other security concerns which will obviously have to be sorted out. As efforts are made to reach common ground, the non-aggression pact being the less controversial could be taken up first. It does not militate against the treaty of friendship which goes beyond the pale of a non-aggression pact. Such a move could create the climate necessary to tackle the more difficult issues. It is, however, clear that even if negotiations proceed smoothly enough, they will still be part of a long-drawn and slow process. Since there is general agreement on the need for a dialogue, it is important that it be sustained.

MUSLIM LEAGUE HEAD SEEKS 'LIKE-MINDED' SUPPORT

GF311440 Karachi DAWN in English 25 Oct 82 p 12

[Text] Lahore, Oct 24 -- The President Pakistan Muslim League [PML] (defunct) Pir Sahib Pagara has said that the round-table conference is being convened to achieve the support of the like-minded parties to safeguard the remaining Pakistan. He was addressing a reception hosted in his honor by the defunct Jamiat ul Ulemae Pakistan [JUP], Punjab, here today.

He said that the JUP and PML were seeking support of those parties which believed in the law of the land and ethical principles and not of those which wanted confrontation. Both JUP and PML wanted holding of general elections in order to resolve the problems being faced by the country. The elections should bear positive results for the nation, he observed.

Pir Sahib said that the supporters of the two ideologies -- Jama'at-e-Islami[JI] and Pakistan Peoples Party were getting together and both were being equipped with arms. The workers of the two parties, that is, JUP and PML should keep themselves aloof from such groupings, in order to rule in future. He said the Jama'at-e Islami itself was a stunt. The founder of JI, late Maulana Maudoodi, did not recognise Pakistan, he said, adding how could Maulana Maudoodi's followers safeguard Pakistan and the ideology of Pakistan.

PAPER CAUTIONS AGAINST 'RISING TIDE OF UNREST'

BK010258 Delhi INDIAN EXPRESS in English 23 Oct 82 p 6

[A.T. Chaudhiri article from Lahore: "Rising Tide of Unrest"]

[Text] In his recent marathon address to the nominated Majlis-i-Shoora, President Zia ruled out early elections, formation of a national government and even a round-table with the politicians to end the deadlock between the government and the leaders of the defunct political parties.

Undaunted by the new wave of terrorism, which apparently has political overtones, the fresh stirrings in the nine-party Movement for Restoration of Democracy (MRD) and the unrest among the Bar Associations which have launched a nationwide struggle for civil liberties, fundamental rights and independence of the judiciary, the president declared that he would not yield to pressures to give up enforcement of the Islamic principles. He may not be an elected leader but he will not step down until his avowed mission -- the Islamisation of policy -- was completed, in keeping with the "original inspiration" of Pakistan.

On the eve of this 105-minute impassioned address, political pundits had speculated that Gen Zia might make some overtures to the politicians to fill the political vacuum and meet the challenge of terrorists who are said to be under the control of some external forces and internal "influential" elements.

There was also speculation that before embarking on his diplomatic odyssey to the United States, the president might deem it prudent to reiterate his off-repeated commitment to the democratisation of national polity or the "civilian-isation" of the martial law regime. But he has opted for the "status quo" and implicitly told his antagonists that he is firmly in the saddle and will carry on with his nominees in the Majlis.

He has also expressed his resolve to defend and reinforce the civil service; provide more teeth for the security hounds and expand the federal Cabinet and provincial ministers to confront the problems facing the nation. The major problems he touched upon are: combating the terrorists; keeping a tight lid on the pandora's box of politics; eliminating the rampant social evils, notably corruption; giving a facelift to the weak economy through the instrument of the sixth five-year plan now on the anvil; and last but not least, ushering in an Islamic system, though it is a time-consuming -- rather unending -- process.

On all these issues, independent political analysts hold divergent views. The challenge of terrorism, it is contended, cannot be effectively met by the creation of local committees, distributing arms among the citizens, provision of modern equipment to the law-enforcing agencies, or the promulgation of drastic laws, such as the Martial Law Regulation (MLR) No 53, which prescribes death penalty for terrorist suspects and their accomplices. (MLR 53 authorizes military courts to presume, on the basis of police investigation alone, that the accused has committed the offence he is charged with "unless the contrary is proved by him."

Though security experts and "terrorologists" have lately been trying to downgrade the incidence of terrorism, blaming it on some thrill-seeking scions of elitist families, competent observers say that Pakistan is fast becoming a victim of international terrorism. In its latest issue, an article in the "READER'S DIGEST" blunty accused the Soviets of creating a $700,000 fund to promote terrorist activity across the Durand Line. As the journal put it, "Moscow seeks to destablilise his (Zia's) regime by open pressure and subversion...." Stray but unconfirmed reports in a section of the press made out that a group of saboteurs recently hauled up near Sialkot, while trying to cross the border, had "confessed" that they had "sanctuaries" in India.

Significantly, President Zia himself observed in his Majlis speech that the Pakistanis, like the Palestinians, are now being subjected to international terrorism by forces inimical to Islam and that their object here and elsewhere is to block and paralyse Islamic resurgence. If that is so, the dissidents argue, the people should not be treated as dormant nobodies but associated with the governance of state to confront the new monster of terrorism. Otherwise, the terrorists may, in course of time, neutralise large groups and forces and strike at the heart of the state.

Those at the helm remain averse to reviving the political process in any form. Thus, they not only decried the recent all-Pakistan lawyers' convention, but hauled up a couple of luminaries and registered cases against others for using the bar council platform for making political speeches. This convention in the Lahore high court building was attended by some 1,500 lawyers from all over the country, who adopted a declaration and several strongly-worded resolutions which are to be implemented by a 50-man committee.

The demands of lawyers, which were blacked out by the TV, radio and the trust papers are: restoration of the authority of the judiciary since it is the ultimate arbiter of civil rights and liberties; withdrawal of the Provisional Constitution Order of 1981 which restricts the scope of judicial review and has done "incalculable damage" to the enforcement of the rights of citizens; the withdrawal of recent amendments in the legal practitioners act and those provisions in the Bar Council Act which stop Bar Associations and councils from performing their moral, legal and constitutional duties that are "dubbed as political activities"; the repeal of the Qazi Courts Ordinance which further curtails the jurisdiction of the judiciary and deprives the citizens of their right to seek redress of grievances; the restoration of the 1973 Constitution which can bring the existing laws in conformity with the Islamic injunctions; the release of political detenus, including lawyers and journalists; and the removal of curbs on the press and on the freedom of movement within the country.

The convention also expressed concern, as major political parties have done, over the government's reluctance to grant permission to the chairman of PPP [Pakistan Peoples Party], Begum Nusrat Bhutto, to proceed abroad for medical treatment. (She has been asked to appear before a medical board.) The lawyers have in desperation decided to go on a nationwide token strike in mid-October to highlight the issue at stake and mobilise public opinion for the people's democratic urges.

The question currently being asked by political observers is whether the government will take serious note of: the new stirrings in the community of lawyers, politicians and students and begin worrying over the growing unrest which has begun to seek new forms of expression -- for example, terrorism? The consensus seems to be that unless the energies of the vocal segments of society and legitimised through a smooth and painless transition from authoritarianism to civilian rule, it would be difficult to stem the new and rising tide of unrest sweeping Pakistan.

PARLIAMENT AMENDS CONSTITUTION TO EXTEND TERM

BK051135 Colombo International Service in English 1045 GMT 5 Nov 82

[Text] Parliament in a pre-dawn vote approved the fourth amendment to the Constitution which seeks to extend the life of the present parliament up to August the 4th, 1984 by a majority of 138 votes. The passage of this bill enables a referendum to be held to obtain the people's mandate for this purpose. The vote taken at the end of a lengthy debate lasting almost 10 and 1/2 hours with 142 in favor of the bill with 4 against. A notable feature was that Sri Lanka Freedom Party [SLFP] MP's (Maitripala Senanayake Madbacha) and (Hanimisha), third MP, Colombo Center, voted with the government in favor of the bill. The Tamil United Liberation Front MP's were not present in the chambers when voting took place. (Lakshman Jayakudi), MP, (Partanagalla), (Anand Dassanaike) MP for Kotmale and Anura Bandaranaike, second MP for Nuwara, Eliya Maskeliya from the SLFP and (Sarapotgama) of the Communist Party voted against the bill.

Concluding the debate, Prime Minister R. Premadasa said that they were all agreed that the new amendment should have the people's approval. Therefore, he said, the people's mandate will be obtained for this exercise and opportunity will be provided for all officially recognized political parties to express their views through the Roopavahini [television] and the Sri Lankan Broadcasting Corporation. The prime minister however expressed optimism that whatever views were put forward by the opposition, a referendum will be approved by a larger majority than what the government obtained at the recent election.

PRIME MINISTER'S STATE OF NATION SPEECH 7 NOV

GF081618 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 7 Nov 82

[Prime Minister Mir-Hoseyn Musavi speech on state of the nation in Tehran on 7 November -- recorded]

[Excerpts] In the name of God, the merciful, the compassionate. If the people of the towns had but believed and feared God, we could indeed have opened to them all kinds of blessings from heaven and earth. [Koranic verse]

Greetings and hail the leader of the revolution, leader of the oppressed of the world; greetings to you the sacrificing and martyr-nurturing nation:

During the Cabinet meetings held over the past year, all governors general have participated. In the past few months, three ministers have been put in charge of each one of the oppressed provinces. During the past year, we have had many meetings with the participation of the esteemed president who chaired these meetings. The coordination present in this respect is, in my opinion, one of the miracles of the revolution. We consider this natural.

I also must point out the cohesion that exists between the government and the Majlis since I consider mentioning this as beneficial. The government believes that the Majlis is the concentration of the nation and it oversees all issues. Naturally, the government pays attention to the guidance issued by the Majlis, the bills passed there and the issues raised.

On the other hand, the Majlis understands administrative problems very well and in many cases helps the government to smoothly carry out its duties.

There is a great deal of agreement among the Cabinet on social, political and economic issues. Naturally, there is an occasional difference of opinion on how some issues should be tackled. This in itself makes it possible to look at an issue from many varied angles, which is one of the strong points of the present Cabinet since it is formed from select, good people who are part of the revolution. Naturally, the sharp and creative minds of these brothers in tackling the issues from various angles creates a situation in the Cabinet where decisions that are made are all embracing, considering the sincerity of the entire Cabinet.

Naturally, the government has a heavy burden on its shoulders. The entire nation understands and realizes this. I give you an example of such problems. This doesn't mean that such problems have affected the government since we believe, and in the scope of the revolution, you, the great nation, have tested the fact that each burden and calamity has made our nation stronger, more experienced and more (?united). The government is not separate from the nation.

Doubtlessly, all of you, the great nation, know that we have 1.5 million war refugees. Add to this 1.5 million Afghan refugees, over 100,000 Iraqi refugees expelled from that country and 45,000 Iraqi POW's. This is a heavy burden. To find them jobs, look (?after them), look after their political, economic and security needs are all a heavy burden that naturally is shouldered by the government.

The cost of the war, it is well-known and clear, causes inflation. I was looking at this year's budget a few days ago. The budget allocated for the war is almost exactly the figure for the budget deficit. We know that usually budget deficits cause inflation in our society and all other societies. It makes no difference.

Naturally, the government cannot escape this issue since we feel our honor, being, independence, our future self-sufficiency, our becoming a model for the entire world and the human pride of our nation before the superpowers are all related to this war. The government naturally follows the slogan of you, the great nation, who chants "War, war until victory" and accepts these problems, trying to find solutions for them. The reason I am raising this issue here for you, the great nation, is for us to realize clearly the roots of the problems which occasionally show themselves in society. This is become if we do not look at the basic causes, then our solutions surely will not be very successful.

In general, the government's (?facilities) are at the disposal of the fronts. For example, heavy machinery such as loaders, bulldozers and graders during the past year have been collected from around the country and put at the disposal of the forces whenever they have asked for them. Dispatching these naturally causes a (?knot) in other projects like road construction or development of oppressed regions where all such machinery are needed. However, we are certain that the development of such oppressed regions is not possible without independence and basic confrontation with international oppression.

Therefore, such investments are long-term investments. When we put the facilities at the disposal of the fronts -- true, it puts pressure on the government especially at this point in time when there is a period of growth and a blossoming of the popular beliefs causing hope about looking after the oppressed -- we are also under pressure to look at this area or another place that needs a rural road or some other part requiring electrification and so on. We also know that work done in this respect is not comparable to what was done during the former regime. One of the causes of pride for the regime of the Islamic Republic is its achievements in road construction or supply of power to villages. However, we still put a great many facilities at the disposal of the fronts. We will never refuse a request from the fronts for facilities and will answer such calls immediately without really discussing them in the mass media.

We therefore give priority to the issue of war both in the long and short terms. It has brought us good tidings and has caused original and noble moves in our society. On the other hand, it also creates pressures. However, the government tries to make the best use of its facilities for this reason. Another point that you dear nation, you sisters and brothers, must be informed about -- by informing you the burden of the government will be lessened -- is that naturally when we are at war, the foreign currency at our disposal obtained through the sale of our oil, has to be partly allocated to the war budget. Such currency could purchase raw materials or increase the supply of some goods in the market, but it is used for our struggle against the Saddam regime.

As I mentioned, this is a long-term investment for us, a spiritual investment, something which has precipitated from our philosophy and which is not surprising. Even though the power of the faith of our nation has no parallel, with respect to the war, such things have always existed. Thus, such an issue puts pressure on the government. In order to mention the work of our brother officials, since naturally we want to praise their efforts, I should like to say that, so far, we have heard, Iraq has borrowed $30 billion from reactionary countries. A reliable Western news agency -- apparently Associated Press -- recently reported that the figure is around $45 billion. Just imagine, our country, you, the great nation, just because of your "neither East nor West" slogan and your Islamic pride against international oppression has not even borrowed one rial, one cent, from either the East or the West. You stood on your own feet during the economic embargo and this has caused us to create the bases in the country now whereupon we are approaching self-sufficiency. This is a very important issue.

I also consider it beneficial to point out the problem of the ports since it is also one of the problems that the government is seriously tackling because the recognition of such issues can be helpful and beneficial to our great nation to a large extent. The reason we do not continuously talk about such issues is because the government daily is, in fact, confronting new issues of this nature and also has powerful tools at its disposal to confront such issues and solve them. With the power the government obtains from you, the great nation, the great national morale naturally reduces such issues to minimal importance. And as you observe, they have not affected our daily life or the continued victories in the war.

The ports issue is part of the issue of our import channels and it plays a large role in this respect. We have lost the port of Khorramshahr. The Imam port cannot be used very effectively. It has 33 docks and naturally is vitally important to our country and is one of those sensitive areas linked to the rail lines. Naturally, its continued operation is vitally important to our country to get goods at the right time. Iraq thought that by threatening such areas, destroying them and stopping our ships from coming close to these areas, it could influence us or possibly immobilize us. On the basis of the miracle I pointed out and due to your efforts, the hezbollahi nation, we have been able to use Bandar 'Abbas extensively. However, we do have some bottlenecks, that is to say, we don't have the same discipline we would have if we were using two or three ports. There may be ships coming to our waters loaded with goods very essential to the country but they have to wait in line and be unloaded gradually. We have a problem in that there is a shortage of trucks, a problem of spare parts. Naturally, such things cause some form of a (?knot) in some sectors. I consider it beneficial to point out one such case so that we can see the nature of the problem and then I will tell you about our responsive measures and the level of progress in terms of the management of our ports and our machinery as a result of such issues.

Around 1 1/2 or 2 months ago, we were informed that the raw materials used to make vegetable oil in our factories -- we, of course, also use our own oil-bearing grains -- cannot be unloaded due to the closure of Bandar-e Imam. We have no storage facility in Bandar 'Abbas and you know the role of vegetable oil in the daily life of our people. So we received repeated reports on the depletion of the level of reserves. We were, of course, certain that when the reserves were finished and when we explained the problem to the people, everyone would accept it. Naturally, we expected the same attitude of you, the great nation, that was displayed at the start of the war when you fasted so that the war could continue despite an economic embargo. With such belief and with this faith in you, the great nation -- this causes delight and gives power to the responsible hezbollahi officials in the ports, among our laborers and all those involved with this issue -- which resulted in the construction of new storage facilities in Bandar 'Abbas and solution to the problem.

We also can point to other problems caused by the economic embargo which, as we have said, have resulted in increased efficiency in our various administrative units. I mentioned one in an interview concerning our relations with Japan. Currently, our relations with Japan have become rather healthy. However, it is among one of the very interesting actions of the government in the past year. When our oil revenues had reached their lowest level, we naturally looked for countries -- our foreign policy and the actions of the Oil Ministry had been stepped up in this respect....

The Commerce Ministry first researched the fact that around 25 percent of our industrial imports are from Japan. Japanese companies have an office in Iran. They contact our factories and various departments, sell their goods, obtain dollars and then go to our enemies, countries that have no friendly ties with us, and buy oil. At the time, when their daily oil demand was 4 million barrels, they were not buying a drop of oil from our country. This was an interesting and an emotional issue for us. We immediately formed a committee called "Committee for Trade With Japan." As I mentioned in that interview, we then expanded this issue and are using this experience in our relations with other countries. We evaluated the strategic importance of the goods we were importing from Japan. We evaluated how much our industry would suffer if we went to the Japanese and said that your relations with us are unjust and we, as an independent country, cannot continue such unjust relations since our nation would not be able to accept this, and they resisted us.

Very interesting and encouraging to us was that when we talked to our own industry and with various sectors, everyone said: "There is no problem, you stick to this argument and we will resist, create alternative markets and find our goods in other markets and should that prove impossible, we will withstand the shortages with the (?help of) the forces faithful to the revolution."

So we told the Japanese that it is not possible for us to import 25 percent of our goods from their country when their daily demand is 4 million barrels a day and they did not buy one drop from us. This does not agree with the "neither East nor West" policy of our Islamic Republic. (?Our nation cannot support this) and we want a just relationship. At first they considered it a joke. Since they surely had more statistics than us, they thought we could not resist. They always have made the mistake of believing that our system can be defeated with economic and material tools.

This is an assumption of today's material world but our nation has conquered all this. So we told them no. We will not work this way and told all our factories and industries that none is allowed to open credit accounts or import one item from Japan. Naturally, as I said at the beginning, they did not take us seriously and started to talk to various sectors. To whomever they talked, they were referred to the Committee for Trade With Japan. When they went to the committee they were faced with the logic of "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours." They were told that you sell us so much goods and get paid in dollars and then in turn you buy your oil from other sources. We cannot accept this.

After some time, I think around 3 months, they realized our seriousness and began to deal with us as an equal power, a country that believes in its independence and doesn't surrender to material and economic force, a country that relies on an infinite power within itself, a country that is ready to withstand all crisis and not lose its independence.

We now have a healthy relationship with them. It is an equal two-way relationship. We work on the basis of the interests of our nation and they, on the basis of theirs. This is a state of equilibrium and we have reached a balance. Naturally, such a policy is applied to all countries. If it is not applied to some at present, it will be.

Last year, the oppressive powers, the large powers, looked at the hypocrites as an alternative. They thought that our system was collapsing and that this organization could be a good servant for the United States and other powers and they were strengthening it, supporting it and relying on it. Now the same powers are in complete isolation. A day does not pass without their receiving another blow. Naturally, they cause some danger with their crazy acts; they do us some harm. However, none of this can lessen the all-embracing power of our revolution. On the contrary, each of these acts results in their further destruction. No one now looks at them as a power, only as a criminal and diminishing force.

You, the great nation, heard the interview of that miserable southern feudalist [Khosrow Qashqa'i] or saw it on television. We can say that with the destruction of feudalism in the south, which can be considered almost completed with the annihilation of this individual, we no longer face such an issue across the country. We can feel this when we go to the oppressed areas or all parts of the country and see the good and clear results of this issue. Instead of the harsh rule of such types, we now have around 20,000 Islamic societies in the villages whose representatives recently were seen by the imam.

Our government generals' management abilities are on the rise. The government strongly supports its political representatives. I take this opportunity to raise the point for you, sisters and brothers, this great nation, that our governor general brothers across the country are official representatives of the government chosen after interviews and investigations by the Cabinet and put forward by the respected interior minister. They are approved and appointed and they are, in fact, the complete representative of the government in the provinces. Therefore, it is necessary, this also has a religious aspect, for our revolutionary organizations, all organizations and the people to look at them from this point of view so we gradually can implement management and the political leadership of the system in all provinces. As far as our information is concerned, this is a fact and coordination among various organizations and the government increases daily.

In foreign policy, we were dynamic during last year. I only mention one example to show you, the great nation, the efficiency of one administrative branch of the government, which is surely a result of the sacrifice of this great nation and your continuous presence on the scene without which we would have been unable to do anything in this respect.

You heard about the issue of the nonaligned conference in Baghdad. This was a great victory for our nation. The Saddam regime propagated for years about holding the conference there and becoming the chairman of the conference and the movement with its large number membership. It had built many buildings, conference halls and hotels and had spent billions of dollars for them and for creating a special security system and so on. When Khuninshahr was liberated by our brave fighters, the mortal blow was dealt by our fighters, then the government, the Foreign Ministry, began its activities. In connection with the Nonaligned Movement alone, we had 400 diplomatic contacts and sent around 50 delegations abroad with messages, to hold negotiations and explain our point of view. Ten of these important political meetings were by our own foreign minister. Large numbers of messages issued by the respected president were sent to the heads of states. This shows the impetus in one part of the administrative branch.

I will take a brief look at agriculture and industry before going on to discuss the problems of society. Our agriculture was transformed during the last year. This year we managed to buy 200,000 tons more wheat from the farmers, which is a high figure. This becomes important when you note that our petrochemical factories, those which make pesticides, are out of commission. Most of them are in the south and are in danger of being bombed or something has happened to them. Naturally, all facilities that can aid the increase of agricultural production are dependent on fertilizers, insecticides, agricultural services and credit -- about all of which extensive work has been done. Our cotton production, following a reduction of production after the revolution -- this has many reasons such as ownership and other matters that would take too long to discuss -- has been transfered during the past year. Our cotton production is considerably higher than last year and you have read the statistics in the papers.

With respect to industry, in the second half of 1981 and first half of 1982, large workshops have had a 12.1 percent increase in production. I must say that only a small number of our factories are operational but we see that every day the percentage goes higher and sometimes exceeds the nominal 100 percent figure.

During the past year, around 2,800 basic agreements concerning the construction of industrial factories have been signed, which is a 20 percent increase compared to last year. It is interesting that the capital forecasted for these industries is three times the past figure and stands at nearly 50 billion rials compared to last year's 15 billion rials. This shows there is an extensive sense of security about investment in the country.

I would like to mention to the venom injectors who are trying to pretend that such security does not exist, that we talk with figures, facts and statistics. If there was no security, if legal capital was not respected in the Islamic Republic and a movement did not exist in this respect, we would have had reduced investments. In fact, we have a noticeable increase.

The last thing I want to point out is the level of prices, what is currently going on in our society under the terms of inflation, high prices and overcharging. I will only briefly discuss this and point out just a few things. One is the question of the average inflation rate. There has been a great deal of discussion on the subject, which I will repeat because it can be of great benefit. When we state the rate of inflation as 16, 20, 50 percent or any other figure or when we say that it has gone down compared with last year, this does not mean that prices are not going up. It means that the acceleration in the increase of prices has lessened and the inflation rate has gone down.

Secondly, we only take the average price rise. Let's say that there is a shortage of tumeric and the price reaches 100 tumans a sir [75 grams]. What sort of consumption percentage rate does it have in a family? On the other hand, if the price of meat which forms around 27 percent of the food intake of a family in terms of costs in the cities goes up a little, let's say 4 or 5 tumans, it is immediately reflected in the inflation rate.

In terms of high prices and inflation, I receive daily statistics on these, where we feel the problems of the people -- some goods are sold at 4 or 5 times their value by a group of hoarders and economic terrorists. There are problems in this respect and we receive the news....

There is continued agitation in this respect as well, no doubt about it. However, I have to point out that there are two reasons for the high prices. One is a natural reason based on the price of the war, the inflation created by the war and the fact that there is too much money available to the people. This is a very important point which we can fight in the long term and is a reality in our society. These are fundamental problems. However, the issue does not end here. We have some unnatural aspects. These are profiteering, problems with distribution channels and such things. The government is doing a great deal in this respect.

The government has started work in this field in order to eliminate the small number of these profiteers hoping to be successful not only with respect to essential and strategic goods, but also other goods and to make distribution in the society easier, to reduce demand and to fix prices. There have been sessions, held for the past few weeks, at the prime minister's office with the participation of a number of ministers including the respected commerce and industry ministers as well as the officials in charge of the guild's court and occasional participation by our big brother Musavi-Ardabili. We discuss distribution and some solutions are being reached that gradually will take effect.

Our great nation already may have noticed some relief in the cases of goods such as milk, cement, fuel and a little in the case of meat. We have some plans for meat which, God willing, will increase in amount and will reach the people in a better way and so on.

In closing, I should like to say that we do have some shortages in the country caused by the war. We cannot escape the natural reasons causing these. We have to change these into a springboard for our movement. The government may be able to fill the markets with goods at the price of the destruction of our rural life, industry, lack of growth in heavy industry and by sacrificing agriculture in order to saturate the market and cause a false sense of well-being in the society. However, would our nation agree to this now or in the future?

KHAMENE'I COMMENTS ON U.S., IRAQ, ELECTIONS

LD082150 Tehran IRNA in English 2011 GMT 8 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 8, IRNA -- The president of the Islamic Republic today reiterated that there could be no relations with the U.S. in the foreseeable future. He said that the U.S. had done many damages to the Iranian Muslim people and therefore it was difficult to imagine that Iran would have good relations with that country in the near future.

Speaking at a press conference here tonight, also attended by foreign reporters, he said that the Islamic forces would do anything in order to gain their rights from Iraq. He said that Iraqi president, Saddam Husayn, should be treated as a war criminal and therefore any development in Iraq which would not secure the Islamic Republic's conditions for ending the war, could not be accepted.

He said that Iran's conditions included the punishment of Saddam and the payment of an estimated amount of 150 billion dollars as war reparations.

The president said that the Islamic forces had reached the Iraqi town of At-Tib and they would advance towards Baghdad if it was necessary.

Concerning Imam Khomeyni's recent fatwa (religious decree) that all able Iranian Muslims should go to the front, Khamene'i said that the foreign reporters had misunderstood imam's call. He explained that what the fatwa meant was that the people should go to the front only if they were needed and he added that today there was no need for a public mobilisation concerning the war.

The president said that the current situation of the Iraqi Army was not too good since about 40 to 50 thousand Iraqi POWs were guests of the Islamic Republic, more numbers had been killed or wounded, and some had been executed by Saddam so there was not much left of the Iraqi Army.

Questioned about the young volunteers fighting in the battlefields, he said that the young fighters were not forced to go to the front but they themselves urged to be allowed to fight. Nevertheless he said that there was a certain age limit as well.

Khameni'i said that the Islamic Republic's stance would not [words indistinct] towards those countries who were helping Iraq.

On the position of Iran in the Non-aligned Movement, the president said that Iran played an effective role in this concern and would actively participate in the forthcoming summit meeting in New Delhi.

The president also said that he would be a candidate for the Council of Experts which is given the task of electing a leader or a leadership council. The elections for the Council of Experts has been scheduled for December tenth.

More on News Conference

LD091104 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Excerpts] Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i, president and head of the Supreme Defense Council, last night took part in a news conference with local and foreign correspondents. He answered questions about the war, foreign policy, inflation, activities of political parties and the results of the efforts of Mir-Hoseyn Musavi's 1-year-old government.

First, a Japanese correspondent asked: Now, 4 years after the Islamic revolution, are you any closer to the slogan of Independence, freedom and the Islamic Republic? Khamene'i answered: You have witnessed the signs of our independence and search for freedom on the warfronts. The blows we are suffering from the superpowers are all because of our endeavors to seek freedom and independence. However, we will continue to follow this path and we already have achieved successes.

On the behavior of Arab countries toward the Islamic Republic of Iran, Khamene'i said: Arab countries have not all treated us in the same way. Some of them have been friendly and sincere toward us and some have been indifferent. America's allies and countries under American influence have been hostile to us. Our behavior toward this third group will not be friendly. He also described relations between Iran and Libya as excellent and gave the reason as similarity in action and thought in many political areas.

Referring to the role of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the next summit conference of the nonaligned countries in New Delhi, the president said: We will have an active presence at this conference. We hope to be able to adopt the necessary stand in the face of the domineering attitude of the world superpowers by being present at the conference and by our active participation. He added: We expect this conference and the Nonaligned Movement to act according to its founding principles and bear these principles in mind.

Pointing to the war imposed by Iraq on Iran, Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i said: This issue should not create a division in the Nonaligned Movement. The adoption of just stands by the countries of this movement concerning the war imposed by Iraq against Iran can contribute more strength and unity to the Nonaligned Movement.

Commenting on the possibility of resuming relations with America, the president said: I cannot see any signs of this in the political future of Iran. America has dealt many blows to this nation and revolution and it is difficult to imagine a time when Iran and America can have good relations.

In this interview, Khamene'i announced his candidacy for membership in the Council of Experts and referred to the silence or false statements made by many news agencies concerning our country's affairs.

PRESIDENT REPORTS ON AUDIENCE WITH KHOMEYNI

LD081146 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 8 Nov 82

[Excerpts] President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i this morning was received by Imam Khomeyni, leader of the revolution and founder of the Islamic Republic of Iran. During the meeting, the president sought the imam's directives on sending various groups of people, especially government employees and teachers, to the fronts. At the end of the meeting, the president talked to our correspondent about the issues raised with the imam of the nation and the stand of the Islamic Republic of Iran with regard to the imposed war:

[Begin recording] [Khamene'i] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. I asked for an audience with the imam to ask for his directives with regards to the enthusiasm and interest shown by the people and government employees. I asked whether these people should be allowed to go to the fronts and whether there is need for government employees and others to go to the fronts.

The imam said his message did not mean that everyone should go to the fronts. It meant that when there is a need, and there is a need on the frontline for additional personnel, and this need is communicated to the public by military commanders then, according to the decree, it is necessary to meet this need by sending ordinary people regardless of their jobs. At present, the commanders have not made such a request and there is no need for such a huge force on that level. Therefore, government employees and other organizations should continue working at their jobs. There presently is no need for them to be sent to the fronts. Fortunately, from the beginning of the war up to now, there has been no need for such a general mobilization and we hope there will be no need to mobilize everyone in the future. If such a situation arises, then everyone, in whatever job, should leave for the fronts.

[Question] In view of the recent victories [words indistinct] what is the Islamic Republic of Iran's stand in connection with the continuation of war?

[Answer] Our stand has not changed at all. We are determined to continue the war until the just rights of the revolutionary nation are restored. We will make the enemy heed the rightful utterance of a nation [words indistinct]. We will (?fight) the Iraqi regime until our rights are restored and we will bring the enemy to its knees, God willing. [end recording]

IRNA REPORTS KHAMENE'I 7 NOVEMBER ADDRESS

LD081156 Tehran IRNA in English 1001 GMT 8 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 8 (IRNA) -- Iran's situation in the Iraqi imposed war is splendid due to the nation's sacrifices, announced President Seyyed 'Ali Khamene'i on Sunday.

The president in his televised address to the nation said the Islamic Republic has been successful in pursuing the problem of splinter groups.

Referring to the abortive U.S. plot in portraying the war as a war between Iran and the Arabs, the president stressed once again on [as received] Iranian terms for ending the war, one of which was the punishment to the aggressor Iraqi regime, headed [words indistinct].

He added that an imposed (?peace) was no different to an imposed war and that Iran deemed superpowers wiser than that to entangle themselves in the war.

Condemning Jordanian King Husayn and his U.S.-sponsored new role in "solving the Palestinian problem," the president said the only solution to that was the return of the Palestinians to their own land and pointed out that the murderer of the Palestinians in 1970 Black September could not solve their problem. (The 1970 Black September was a catastrophe in which King Husayn of Jordan massacred several thousands of Palestinians). He stressed that any U.S.-sponsored plan was not a plan for the Palestinians.

Referring to people's letters and phone calls referred to his office, he said Iran had acted remarkably well in distributing essential foods and in fulfillment of peoples' needs after 25 months of fighting with the Iraqi aggressor regime and also being surrounded by a variety of economic and political sanctions.

Comparing the present situation in Iran with that of the World War II in which major scarcity of foods and essential goods was recorded, the president said the Islamic Republic's programs for an increase in agricultural and other productions had been outstanding.

He said despite the war, some 80 percent of the Iranian budget has been spent on rehabilitation and development projects all over the country, during the first five months of the Iranian year started on March 21st, 1982, which meant an increase of 27 percent compared to the previous year.

He said the distribution of fertiliser among farmers during the last Iranian year was increased by 76 percent compared to the figures of five years ago when the shah's regime was thriving.

The wheat seeds given to farmers had been doubled in the same period, added the president. He said the number of tractors given to farmers had also a record of an increase of 52 percent. He noted that the Iranian achievements were made while it was engaged in an imposed war and all its ports were not working.

He added that the reconstruction jihad had built some 20,240 kms of road in Iran which was separate from works done by the Roads and Transportation Ministry.

He said Iran had made so many outstanding progresses in defense and other branches of industry that the U.S. and the West would be shocked by knowing about them.

He declared that the Iranian nation has been able in operating industries formerly in the hands of foreigners prior to the Islamic revolution, including a section in Tehran's oil refinery with a capacity of 70,000 tons a day which will be ready for use by next April.

The recent religious decree (fatwa) by Imam Khomeyni, the president added, which placed going to the fronts and fighting the Iraqi aggressor regime at the top of the priority list, had created such incredible enthusiasm among Iranians that countless people had volunteered to go to the fronts including many state officials.

Speaking on the counterrevolution [words indistinct] the Pirandasht [spelling as received] -- Sar Dasht road in the western Iran which was a backbone to the counterrevolution, was completely liberated and that the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC) and the police were systematically pursuing the saboteurs.

Speaking on the U.S. plots against Iran, the president (?stated) the U.S. aimed at presenting Iran as the Arabs' enemy rather than the Zionist regime, but it has been a failure in that regard.

He said that certain Arab countries at times condemned Iraq and the U.S. plots in (?the) region while other Arab leaders stayed silent.

Even in the face of the Zionist regime's crimes, Khamene'i continued, those Arab leaders only mentioned the name "Israel" as an enemy to the Arabs, not because they firmly believed in it, but because they were afraid of their subjects.

He said As-Sadat's evident announcement that he had nothing against the (?Zionist) regime gave him that fate and that the rest of the Arab leaders should learn from As-Sadat's case.

In conclusion, the president said all Muslims support the Islamic revolution while they detest the Zionist regime, and that the U.S. plots to help Iraq and its supporters have been defused with the help of Allah.

[Communique No 1,113 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The victorious fighters of Islam and the epic-making conquerors of the Moharram operations, who have undertaken lightning and coordinated attacks under the codename O Zaynab, continue their holy battle against Saddam under the inspiration of the special grace of God and the holy name of the lady of Karbala' and 'Ashura, the great Zaynab, may God's blessings be upon her. Having carried out the third phase of the Moharram operations, our brave forces, enjoying complete superiority over the feeble enemy, have set up defensive positions and are attacking the mercenary forces of Saddam in the frontlines of the battle.

The heroic pilots of the Air Force of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Airborne Division are providing confident support to the operations of the infantry units and are assisting their victorious brothers in their remarkable activities.

Exchanges of fire continued yesterday in the operational zones in the west. The forces of Islam smashed the positions and fortifications of the forces of Saddam on the fronts in this region and inflicted heavy losses and casualties on the enemy.

In the Muslim ibn 'Aqil operational zone, the fire leveled by our fighters stopped the enemy's engineering activities. An ammunition dump and a number of bunkers of the Iraqi forces also were destroyed and a number of the mercenary forces were killed.

Abadan yesterday came under heavy weapons fire. A number of houses were set on fire by mortar shells. ENGINEERS', OTHERS' PRESENCE ON FRONTS REQUESTED

LD071604 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 7 Nov 82

[Statement issued by commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps and the commander of the Ground Forces of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Excerpt] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful.

In thanking the beloved nation for its unprecedented response to the decree of the imam of the umma', may his shadow never grow less, regarding the departure of people to the fronts, we draw the attention of the honorable state officials and others to some of the priorities and needs of the war and also for the war support and behind-the-front activities:

1. Since activities behind the front, including mobilizing people and help in supply and support of the fronts are of particular importance, honorable state officials, Majlis deputies, governors general, governors and officials of revolutionary institutions and organizations are requested first to take charge of the aforesaid matters and to note that desirable administration of the war depends to a large extent on this matter.

2. Those who have had military training or have been dispatched to the fronts before and also those who are familiar with or expert in engineering affairs and machinery repairs, through coordination with the Revolution Guards Corps throughout the country, are required to be present on the fronts to cooperate fully with the armed forces, to help the combatants of Islam and to get rid of the blasphemous Saddamists as soon as possible.

3. Those who must necessarily remain in state offices, organizations and institutions in the judgment of the officials of institutions, organizations and ministries, are required to remain so that with the cooperation of officials taking priorities into account, a proper decision can be made concerning their dispatch to the fronts.

In conclusion, it should be noted that in the case of need or other priorities, the matter will be brought to the attention of the martyr-nurturing umam'.

We beg God Almighty for honor and glory for Islam.

RETURNEES FROM KUWAIT DESCRIBE 'TORTURE'

LD051320 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 5 Nov 82

[Text] Eight Iranian brothers resident in Kuwait, arrested during the savage attack by that country's police during the mourning ceremonies of Husayn's 'Ashura, after 1 week of assault, battery and torture in Kuwait's prisons were expelled from that country and arrived in Tehran yesterday afternoon. These brothers on whose bodies the signs of torture and burning are visible, explained in an interview with IRNA how they were arrested by the Kuwaiti police.

One of them who received head injuries said: We were busy taking part in the mourning ceremonies and beating our chests in the mosque when the Kuwaiti police attacked us with tear gas and batons on the excuse that we were saying "God is great." As they beat and injured the mourners, they arrested a large number of them. He added: It is likely that as a result of this savage attack by the Kuwaiti police several mourners may have lost their lives.

Another brother, referring to the unseemly behavior of Kuwaiti officials toward those who had been arrested and who had been placed in solitary confinement, said: After 6 days starvation without even a piece of bread or water they took us for so-called interrogation. By burning our hands with cigarettes and bursting my ear, they tried to force me to confess that we had been sent by the Iranian Embassy. He added: The Kuwaiti officials kept asking as they tortured us: Why were you chanting "God is great"; why were you chanting political slogans; why do you mention the name of Imam Khomeyni in Kuwait and take part in politics; why do you chant the slogans of "Death to America" and "Death to Saddam"; why do you say that you are not frightened of guns and tanks; why should Iran continue the war?

Another laborer brother resident in Kuwait, who was arrested when the wounded were being taken to the hospital, said: One of the interrogators was an Iranian counterrevolutionary who seemed to be employed by the Kuwaiti Government. He added: Some of the Kuwaiti officials are truly in favor of the Islamic revolution of Iran and refrained from hurting and torturing us. It should be said that on the whole the people of Kuwait are with us and support the Islamic revolution.

According to this report, more than 150 of the people arrested during the mourning ceremonies on Husayn's 'Ashura in Kuwait are at the moment in detention in that country.

["Iran To Support Austria's U.N. Disarmament Proposal" -- IRNA headline]

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 7, IRNA -- The Austrian ambassador to Tehran, Johann Plattner, in a meeting with the Iranian foreign affairs minister, 'Ali Akbar Velayati, this morning, presented a letter of the Austrian foreign minister calling on his Iranian counterpart to support the Austrian proposal at the United Nations on the issue of disarmament.

Velayati told the Austrian diplomat that Iran pursued a policy of independence and, therefore, preferred relations with independent countries, and Austria was one of these countries. The foreign affairs minister further added that the Islamic Republic was one of the strongest countries of the region and through reliance on its masses, it has been able to thwart all domestic and foreign plots.

Referring to the economic situation of the country Velayati said that a good deal of progress has been made and despite all the difficulties caused by the 25 month old Iraqi imposed war, Iran has not asked for any foreign loan. In addition to this, he added, Iran has repaid loans owed by the former regime. Concluding, Velayati stressed that the Islamic Republic was interested in developing its relations with any country which understood and respected its stances.

SUNNI LEADER DESCRIBES KURDS' STRUGGLE

PM051127 Paris LE MONDE in French 3 Nov 82 p 3

[Paul Balta report]

[Text] On a brief visit to Paris, Sheykh Ezzedin Hoseyni, 61-year-old Sunni spiritual leader of the Iranian Kurds, informed us of his deep concern over the situation in Iranian Kordestan which he has left for the first time in his life.

"Since mid-September," he said, "the Islamic forces have launched an offensive on all sides, which is the most powerful we have suffered since the attack on Sanandaj in the spring of 1979. The regime is using aircraft and helicopters to bomb us and is also using chemical weapons. It is not only attacking the peshmerga (fighters) in their underground haunts but also the civilian populations in the villages and is imposing a severe economic blockade."

According to Sheykh Hoseyni, the Tehran forces comprise four divisions, the 128th in Sanandaj, the 64th in Urumiyeh and two others in Tabriz and Qazvin, not to mention the pasdaran (revolution guards) and volunteers. The offensive is being organized by Col Sayyad-Shirazi who in the past had been responsible for coordination between the pasdaran and the military in western Iran.

Sheykh Hoseyni asserted that in September alone around 2,500 government forces were killed and wounded. However, he admitted that the Kurdish resistance fighters gradually have lost control of the big cities although they still hold 90 percent of the rural and mountainous districts. He also admitted that the Islamic forces have succeeded in seizing half of the strategic road linking Piranshahr to Sar Dasht, some 20 km from the Iraqi border, and that they have occupied the villages of Mirabad (Miraveh in Kurdish) and(Rabat) near Sar Dasht.

According to Sheykh Hoseyni, the Tehran forces have a threefold objective: to try to cut off the Kurds from the border with Iraq qnd Turkey, to isolate the peshmerga and, if possible, to launch an offensive against Iraq from Kordestan. He specified that the underground fighters have halted the government forces' advance but he reported fierce fighting.

On the basis of the latest information to reach him, he reported an attack by the Islamic forces on 15 and 16 September against Miandow Ab, following which the mullah of the village of Khata'i was murdered, and two clashes on 20 October at (Zegdraou), around 10 km from Mahabad and on 22 October near Divandarreh.

Agreement Between Autonomous Parties

Sheykh Hoseyni welcomed the fact that the two main political forces -- the Kordestan Democratic Party, which has a long history behind it and is led by Mr Qasemlu, and the Komala (a party which follows Marxism-Leninism) created in the '70's and led by Mr (Abdullah Mohatadi) -- reached an agreement on 20 October under pressure from events and from the population. They decided to set up military coordination between their forces and set up a joint headquarters in the Sar Dasht region. He stressed that, despite their doctrinal differences, the two parties agree on two fundamental points: the need to overthrow Imam Khomeyni's regime and to secure autonomy for Kordestan.

He said the military offensive is accompanied by a "purification" campaign among teachers and by the "deportation of civilians." "A policy of assimilation and conversion has been pursued intensively since the start of the new school year on 23 September. Kurdish teachers are being replaced by Persian pasdaran and volunteers and Kurds are being deported to non-Kurdish and non-Sunni regions. Some 100 families from Sanandaj, 50 families from Saqqez and 20 from Mahabad, accused of aiding underground fighters, have been exiled in that way," Sheykh Hoseyni stated, recalling that a Kurdish family comprises 10 to 15 people, sometimes more.

Following Tehran radio's call for the rebels to lay down their arms and "return to the fold of Islam while there is still time," Sheykh Hoseyni, who advocates the separation of religion and state, condemned Tehran's intention to convert the Kurds to Shi'a.

He bitterly concluded: "Khomeyni is still in power because the opposition movements are divided." He admitted there are "differences of opinion" between the Kurds and the National Resistance Council led by Mojahedin-e Khalq leader Mas'ud Rajavi and former President Bani-Sadr in Auvers-Sur-Oise, but he said that "friendship and areas of agreement" exist between them. Finally, he said he intends to return to Kordestan soon to pursue the struggle.

PLO

At a meeting in Tunisia, Fatah's Revolutionary Council called for the reinforcement of Palestinian forces in Lebanon and approved the idea of a Palestinian-Jordanian confederation on the basis of two independent Jordanian and Palestinian states, AFP reported citing an informed Palestinian source. PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat will meet with Jordanian King Husayn in Amman on 16 November, the source disclosed. Meanwhile, PLO sources in Damascus cited by ANSA announced that the forthcoming PLO Central Council meeting in the Syrian capital will discuss PLO relations with Syria as well as the date and venue of the planned Palestinian people's congress. Admitting that PLO-Syrian relations are "unsatisfactory," a PLO official said that if a "frank discussion" ends misunderstandings the congress will be held in Damascus. Otherwise, it will be convened in Algiers or Tunis, he added.

In another development, a Palestinian delegation met in Cairo with Egyptian Foreign Ministry First Under Secretary Usamah al-Baz for talks on Egyptian-Palestinian relations and on the steps needed to start a U.S.-PLO dialogue, MENA reported.

Lebanon

The government won the vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies by a 58 to 1 vote, Voice of Lebanon radio reported. The chamber also granted the government powers to legislate by decree for a 6-month period in a wide range of activities. However, the election law and several other matters were deleted from the government's original draft presented to the chamber by Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan on 2 November.

President Amin al-Jumayyil chaired a meeting of Druze and Christian leaders in B'abda in a further attempt to defuse the sectarian conflict in the Ash-Shuf mountain region, according to Beirut radio. Druze and Phalangist militias subsequently renewed the clashes despite the IDF reinforcement in the area, Jerusalem television reported.

Early on 10 November, Voice of Lebanon radio described the atmosphere in the Al-Biqa' Valley as "tense" following 2 nights of Israeli-Syrian artillery and missile duels.

Gulf

The third GCC summit opened in Bahrain on 9 November, SPA reported. During the first session the leaders of the GCC member states approved the summit's agenda, which includes economic, political, military and security topics, WAKH noted. GCC Secretary General 'Abdallah Ya'qub Bisharah told KUNA that the summit will concentrate on defense issues within the framework of a nonaligned policy and will review political and security coordination, among other issues.

Afghanistan

Over 1,000 Soviet soldiers and Afghan civilians suffocated in the Salang Pass tunnel last week after a gasoline tanker truck collided with the lead vehicle in a Soviet military convoy, AFP reported. The Soviets reportedly blocked the tunnel because they believed that their convoy was being attacked; exhaust fumes killed virtually everyone in the tunnel, AFP added.

Iran-Iraq War

Iranian forces have liberated 550 square km of Iranian territory and have gained control of 300 square km of Iraqi territory which include 50 oil wells in four areas east of the Tigris River, a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio reported. The communique also reported the "liberation" both of Iraq's Zubaydah region, which contains some of the oil wells, and of three Iraqi posts. A military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed that Iran's 9 November offensive in the Maysan Governorate border area was defeated and almost 1,700 Iranian troops were killed. Although a military communique broadcast by Tehran radio reiterated that Iranian forces have penetrated 10 km into Iraqi territory, Iraqi President Saddam Husayn told a Cabinet meeting in Baghdad that the Iranian incursion has been only 1-5 km, Baghdad radio reported. President Husayn returned to Baghdad early on 9 November following a 2-day visit to the battlefront in the Maysan Governorate, INA noted.

EYEWITNESS PROVIDES ACCOUNT OF TUNNEL MISHAP

BK101020 Hong Kong AFP in English 0958 GMT 10 Nov 82

[Text] Peshawar, Pakistan, Nov 10 (AFP) -- A young Afghan farmer today provided the first eye witness account of an accident in the Salang Pass tunnel ten days ago in which several hundred Soviet soldiers and Afghan civilians reportedly suffocated after Soviet forces blocked both ends of the 2.6 km (1.6 mile) tunnel.

The farmer, in an interview with two information agencies close to the Afghan resistance movement, said he was aboard a bus following a Soviet convoy some 20 metres (yards) from the northern entrance to the tunnel.

A Western diplomatic source reported in Islamabad yesterday that the accident occurred when a tanker truck full of petrol (gasoline) collided head-on with the lead vehicle in a Soviet military convoy in the tunnel, the main pass through the Hindu Kush mountains linking the Afghan capital Kabul with the north of the country and the Soviet Union.

The witness, who asked not to be named, said his bus was stopped when thick black smoke came billowing out of the tunnel.

Citing estimates gleaned from local Afghan officials, he said 500 Soviet soldiers perished in the tunnel along with some 160 Afghan civilians, passengers on three buses.

First reports from Western diplomats based in Kabul had put the Soviet death toll at 700 and estimated that between 400 and 2,000 Afghans had died.

The young farmer, who said the accident took place October 30 at 11:00 a.m., confirmed that Soviet troops posted outside the tunnel quickly sealed off both entrances, thinking that the convoy had been ambushed by resistance forces.

He added that most Afghans living in the Salang region believed that the mujahidin resistance forces had planted a mine in the tunnel, a conviction he said had been expressed privately by certain regional officials.

One local resistance leader, Commander Haji Abdol Rashid, was quoted in a message here today as saying that an unidentified mujahidin faction was very likely responsible for the accident.

However, no resistance group has claimed any responsibility, and the witness himself said he doubted reports that the rebels had been involved in any way.

Ever since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan in 1979, the road leading from Kabul through the tunnel to the north has been the scene of frequent attacks on Soviet convoys by resistance fighters.

The witness said he and his fellow passengers, seven of whom were overcome by the fumes escaping the tunnel, were evacuated to the nearby village of Do Shakh where he said six trucks loaded with the bodies of Soviet soldiers later arrived.

He said the accident involved two convoys, one coming from the north carrying light weapons and food, and another from Kabul ferrying troops to Mazar-e-Sharif in northern Afghanistan.

Inside the tunnel, which is badly ventilated, a Soviet tank truck collided with an Afghan truck and fire broke out.

Gas cannisters aboard another military vehicle exploded, he said, citing conversations with many Afghans who had also been taken to Do Shakh.

In the tension and confusion outside the tunnel, he said, a Soviet patrol opened fire on an Afghan truck that did not stop quickly enough before a hastily established control post.

Afghan resistance leaders had yesterday firmly denied rumour circulating in Kabul that shots were heard in the tunnel.

DEFECTOR SAYS GEN ABDOL WODUD KILLED BY SOVIETS

BK090933 Hong Kong AFP in English 0900 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Text] Islamabad, Nov. 8 (AFP) -- General Abdol Wodud, the commander of the Kabul Military Region found dead in his office early last month, was killed by Soviet authorities who suspected him of collaborating with the country's Islamic resistance, according to a former Afghan official who has defected to Pakistan.

General Wodud's death puzzled Western observers here as Kabul authorities had attributed it to suicide and the official Afghan radio made no mention of his rank or assignment. General Wodud was considered the number three man in the Afghan military hierarchy.

The former secretary to Afghan Prime Minister Soltan Ali Keshtmand, who asked not to be named, told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE that Soviet military leaders held General Wodud responsible for the failure of two operations in eastern Afghanistan in September.

The informant, who fled to Pakistan with his family after being ordered to rejoin the Afghan Army, disclosed that he had been providing information to resistance leaders ever since the Soviet invasion in December, 1979.

At least three-quarters of the 800 persons responsible to the prime minister, he said, aided the resistance movement in one form or another, either in providing details of military movements or by participating in night-time operations against government targets in Kabul.

It was General Wodud, the former secretary said, who sent 66 elite government troops to accept the surrender of a resistance leader and his men in Jalalabad. The surrender, however, was a ruse and the Afghan soldiers were killed.

In another incident, a convoy of troops reportedly dispatched by the general north of the Kunar Valley was decimated in an ambush by some 500 resistance fighters.

General Wodud, a member of the minority Khalq faction of the Afghan Communist Party, had been reprimanded by Soviet military authorities and Afghan Defense Minister General Abdol Qader and was found dead in his office the next day of a bullet wound in the head.

The former official did not say if the general had willingly cooperated with resistance forces in the two operations although he was believed to have had indirect contact with them on several occasions.

He also confirmed that the Soviet Embassy in Kabul had twice been attacked by rockets fired from resistance forces during October.

RAJASTHAN OPPOSES AKALIS' LAND TRANSFER DEMAND

BK100905 Delhi Domestic Service in English 0830 GMT 10 Nov 82

[Text] Rajasthan Chief Minister Shiv Charan Mathur has met the prime minister and conveyed to her his state's views against the Akalis demand for the transfer of Raisinghnagar and Anupgarh areas to the state of Punjab. Talking to newsmen in New Delhi today, he said the people in his state are agitated and the state will not tolerate such demands. Mathur also described as unjustified the demand for the reopening of the 1981 agreement between Punjab, Haryana and Rajasthan for sharing surplus Ravi-Beas waters. This, he said, will only shake the confidence in the sanctity of such agreements. Mathur said the entire hopes of Rajasthan are vested in the development of areas along the Rajasthan canal. Any reduction in the share of the waters will result in unprecedented political turmoil in the peaceful state, he added.

ZIA COMMENTS ON ELECTION, KASHMIR, MRS BHUTTO

BK051445 Hong Kong AFP in English 1419 GMT 5 Nov 82

[Text] Jakarta, Nov 5 (AFP) -- Visiting Pakistani President Ziaul Haq tonight ruled out the possibility of holding a general election in his country saying the situation in Pakistan was not suitable.

Addressing a press conference President Zia said he had been postponing the election because the "politicians have asked." He refused to give a date when an election could take place.

On the issue of Kashmir, he said Pakistan wanted to solve the problem peacefully in accordance with the United Nations Charter.

Questioned on the health of the widow of former Premier Ali Bhutto, President Zia said she was being examined by a government medical board and added: "Should she deserve medical treatment abroad, I shall be the first person to let her go."

President Zia called for closer cooperation between Pakistan and the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) grouping Indonesia, Malaysia, Thailand, Singapore and the Philippines. ASEAN and Pakistan could cooperate well in many areas, he said.

He dismissed a suggestion that Pakistan was acquiring nuclear power for military purposes saying: "We have the nuclear technology for peaceful purposes as we have the right to possess a power to develop our country."

President Zia visited China last month but he reaffirmed he carried no message from the Chinese leadership for Indonesian President Suharto although the topic of China had come up in discussions with President Suharto.

SLFP HEAD DENIES PLANS FOR POSTELECTION VIOLENCE

BK100646 Colombo SUN in English 6 Nov 82 pp 1, 13

[Text] SLFP [Sri Lanka Freedom Party] leader Sirimavo Bandaranaike breaking six weeks of silence, yesterday denied that the SLFP intended either to indulge in post election violence or to disrupt the administration of the country by making public appointments of an irresponsible nature.

In a statement, Mrs. Bandaranaike said the SLFP itself had repeatedly appealed for peace and calm during the election campaign.

She said that if parliament was to be dissolved and a general election held, peace and calm throughout the country was vital and the administration had to function with the least interference.

She charged that innocent men were being arrested and their homes searched while newspaper offices and presses were being sealed under cover of emergency.

Mrs. Bandaranaike invited leaders of all political parties in Sri Lanka to form a common front to oppose what she called "a move to abolish parliamentary elections in this country."

She alleged that the move to hold a referendum was akin to taking away civic rights of all the people in the country.

She said "the referendum is not a matter of partisan politics. The question at issue is not whether it is better for this country to have a UNP [United National Party] or SLFP government. Nor are the relative merits of the UNP and SLFP policies at issue. Those are not the questions. The single question to be answered is whether the people of Sri Lanka should now voluntarily surrender their right to vote for the purpose of electing representatives of their choice to parliament. Will a right which has been thus surrendered be ever restored?"

"During the past week, UNP leaders have begun screaming of plots, and civil wars. If the SLFP candidate had won the presidential election, he would have been invested with state power instantly. That is the law of the land.

"It is he who would have had to guard and protect himself against plots and coups. It is the victory of the common people which would have had to be secured against the machinations of those who could simply not afford to lose their positions of power and patronage and thus stand exposed to public scrutiny," she said.

ARMED FORCES JOINT STAFF COMMUNIQUE NO 1,115

LD091744 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Communique No 1,115 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. We hereby inform our dear compatriots about the results of the endeavors and self-sacrifices of the personnel of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran during the past 24 hours.

On the Paveh and Sar-e Pol-e Zahab fronts up to Sumar, the exchange of artillery fire and other heavy weapons continued yesterday between our powerful and victorious forces and the defeated mercenaries of Saddam. In each of those fronts, our forces silenced the artillery and heavy weapons fire of the Saddamists, inflicting losses and casualties.

The heroic fighters of the irregular tribal units protected their defensive positions and inflicted effective blows upon the enemy, maintaining their superiority over the blasphemous forces of Saddam.

During the past 24 hours, intense fighting continued on the Moharram operational fronts. The victorious fighters of Islam, while further strengthening their defensive positions, brought the enemy positions and units under the continuous, heavy fire of their artillery and other heavy weapons. They destroyed several tanks and killed or wounded a number of the enemy. They prevented enemy movements and activities in this region. During the entire period, our victorious forces enjoyed firepower superiority.

On other southern fronts, the forces of Islam defended their positions and inflicted losses and casualties upon the Zionist, aggressive forces of Iraq.

On the Abadan fronts, the heroic forces of the gendarmerie opened fire on the enemy positions and units on the other side of the Arvand Rud, silenced the fire of the Iraqi forces and destroyed three foxholes, slit trenches and one observation post.

[Communique No 11 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Central Headquarters of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps]

[Text] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. "There is neither might nor strength except through God, the almighty and the greatest." [Koranic verse] We hear and respond to your summons, O Aba 'Abdullah al-Husayn:

The intrepid combatants and devout warriors of the army of Islam have continued their relentless battle against the criminal enemy. Relying on the eternal strength of Almighty God, they are guarding and watching over the sacrosanct Islamic revolution to force the Zionist ruling regime in Iraq and its filthy collaborators and masters to surrender to the will of God, now manifested in the mighty sinews of the blasphemy-cleansing combatants of the Islamic army, and so that with their selflessness and entire being, they can defend the honor and Islamic dignity of the Islamic and martyr-nurturing nation.

During the third phase of the Moharram operations, the combatants of Islam have penetrated up to 10 km inside Iraqi territory and have consolidated their positions in that region. By opening fire on enemy positions east of the Tigris, they are inflicting heavy losses on the defeated enemy in order to push back enemy artillery fire from the border regions of the Islamic homeland and to retrieve the just rights of the Islamic nation of Iran and to force the ruling regime in Iraq to accept the equitable conditions of the Islamic Republic of Iran following the mopping up of 550 sq km of the territory of the Islamic revolution and another 300 sq km of Iraqi soil and in the course of killing and capturing thousands of enemy servicemen and destroying and capturing hundreds of tanks, APC's and vehicles.

With the entry of the brave combatants and the blasphemy-cleansing warriors of the Islamic army, a large part of the important, strategic areas of Iraqi territory came under the control of Islam's combatants and large areas east of the Tigris are now within reach of the artillery fire of our forces which may now be given in detail for the information of the revolutionary and martyr-nurturing Islamic nation:

1. The liberation of the (Sharqani), Abu Ghorab and Zubaydah posts in Iraq;
2. The liberation and full control of the Zubaydah region in Iraq;
3. The gaining of access to Iraq's oilfields in the At-Tib, Zubaydah, (Sharqani) and (Bazargan) regions with oil installations and several pumping stations and refineries;
4. The gaining of access to some 50 Iraqi oil wells;
5. The achievement of full deployment around the Iraqi town of At-Tib;
6. Dominating and bringing under fire the At-Tib-(Sharqani)-(Sabtah) axis and the At-Tib-'Ali al-Gharbi axis;
7. The extremely important Baghdad-Al-Basra supply highway, which is one of the primary economic and supply axes of the enemy, between 'Ali al-Gharbi and the vicinity of Al-'Amarah is already covered by the fire of Islam's combatants and all enemy traffic is observed by the Islamic combatants.

VELAYATI HOLDS PRESS CONFERENCE 9 NOVEMBER

GF091708 Tehran IRNA in English 1550 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 9 IRNA -- The Islamic Republic of Iran will continue fighting the aggressor Iraqi regime until all her terms for ending the war are met, proclaimed Foreign Minister 'Ali Akbar Velayati here this morning.

Velayati who was responding to questions put forth by foreign and domestic reporters in a press conference at the Foreign Ministry building, said one of Iran's terms for ending the war was the payment by Iraq of war reparations for the damages it has inflicted on our country, the exact amount of which, has not been evaluated yet.

Speaking on Iran-Canada relations, the foreign minister said only after the formal apologies by the Canadian Government for its measure at the time when the U.S. den of espionage was held by the students, will the Canadian Embassy be allowed to open here. He said that was the least Iran could ask the Canadians to fulfill, because their act (referring to the Canadian Embassy's hiding six American spies and later helping them flee Iran), was the precise violation of the Islamic Republic's sovereignty.

Asked by Western reporters why Iran called U.S.-supported countries in the Persian Gulf region "mercenary", the foreign minister said Iran never called all the regional countries mercenaries, but it only called those countries which acted to obtain U.S. goals in the region, instead of working to satisfy their nations' wishes.

The foreign minister said one mercenary regime was that of Jordan's King Husayn who was reported by even the U.S. President that he was on the CIA payroll.

Speaking on the non-aligned countries' recent decision on changing the Baghdad summit venue to New Delhi, Velayati said it was one turning point in the Non-aligned Movement, and that the Iraqi regime did not deserve to be a member of the movement for it had violated all principles of the movement, and had become dependent on the superpowers.

How could someone who did not wince at killing his own ministers, added Velayati, be the head of a Non-aligned Movement session?

He said Iran worked to disclose the nature of Saddam's regime and will work in the future in realising the goals of the movement.

When asked on relations with France, the foreign minister said it all stemmed from the hostile stands of the French Government vis-a-vis the Islamic revolution of Iran.

Under the name of democracy, Velayati added, the French Government has given asylum to the opposers of the Islamic Republic, the majority of whom are criminals, he noted.

He said those criminals were all the likes of Bani-Sadr and Rajavi (the U.S.-backed MKO [Mojahedin-e Khalq Organization] leader) who have admitted to their roles in catastrophes such as the bombing of the IRP [Islamic Republican Party] -- headquarters on June 28th of last year, which led to the martyrdom of a group of the best children of this land, he said.

He stressed that the French Government would never have granted asylum to a terrorist group whose acts were carried out in Europe, as it extradited the members of the German Baader-Meinhoff gang to German officials after it arrested them, he went on.

Keeping all this in mind, Velayati emphasised that the present state of relations were solely because of the French Goverment's actions, which indicate her political goals behind giving refuge to the enemies of the Islamic Republic.

He then declared that Iran had no need of having relations with France and that the bilateral relations will become normalised only when the Franch Government ends its hostility towards Iran.

When asked on relations with the Soviet Union, Velayati said, Iran's relations with other countries were directly dependent on those countries' stands towards Iran, as the U.S. acts in the last quarter century indicate the U.S.'s evident enmity towards the Islamic revolution, he went on.

He said the U.S. was directly involved in the 1953 coup in Iran and imposed on the Iranian deprived nation a criminal regime and that now the U.S. has a direct hand in all the plots which are underway in the region against us at present.

He said the cutting off of the U.S. hands and its instruments in the region, did not mean that Iran aimed at replacing it with another power.

He then mentioned that Iran was the first country which condemned the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan in 1979, and that Iran denounced all Eastern and Western domination.

Speaking on the upcoming trip of the Yugslav foreign minister to Iran, Velayati said it was for the expansion and the strengthening of bilateral relations since Yugoslavia was one of the founders of the Non-aligned Movement.

The final question asked from the foreign minister was why Iran did not leave the U.N. when it called it "an instrument in the hands of the superpowers", and in response he said the way to counter such a phenomenon, was not leaving the United Nations, rather, he added, was staying in it and correcting it, for leaving and quitting was the last alternative.

He said Iran believed the U.N. was a circle in which one had to be present and had to work to improve it.

All world countries know that an unjust thing by the name of "veto" exists in the U.N. which give rise to all oppressions therein, Velayati added.

He said even the U.N. secretary-general complained of the U.N.'s incompetence.

Dr Velayati concluded the press conference by saying that how could the U.N. not be under the superpowers' influence when the U.N. peacekeeping forces in Lebanon, remained silent in the face of the recent Zionist regime's aggressions against southern Lebanon?

COMMENTARY ADDRESSES GCC SUMMIT IN MANAMA

GF092002 Tehran International Service in Arabic 1730 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] The heads of the Gulf Cooperation Council meet in Manama today to adopt political stands and to implement economic and security plans. The council also is supposed to discuss the aggressive Saddamist war against the Islamic Republic and adopt new stands on [words indistinct].

Press reports say council members fear the expansion of the war to other areas of the Gulf. These circles separate the Gulf parties into various trends. The first trend is concerned only with preventing the fire from expanding to its oil wells and the battle fire from engulfing other Gulf regions. The other trend is concerned only with supporting the existing regime in Baghdad with various means and methods, starting with financial aid and ending with media support. The third trend sees better that this war should end and that stability should return to the region [words indistinct].

After reviewing these important trends in the stands of the Gulf states, an important question arises: What trend will prevail during the meeting of the conference that opened today in Manama? [passage indistinct]

The Islamic Republic announced from the very beginning that it does not want to undermine the dignity of any Gulf state and that the war which took place and is still continuing was not initiated by the Islamic Republic. If the Baghdad regime did not carry out its oppressive aggression, the war could not have taken place or lasted so long.

We said and we still say that we are peaceful to those who are peaceful to us and we are at war with those who declare war against us. We are peaceful to all small and big countries if they abide by the laws of peace and do not aid the oppressive aggressors -- peaceful to whoever does not extend his hand to the enemy or supply it with money, arms or weapons.

We are at war with whoever is tempted to undermine our dignity and rights -- at war with the aggressors who raise the sword of their aggression against us and against our great human principles. This has been our stand since the very beginning. The region's states know this. The war is not in its first day. After 2 years and 2 months of war, the Islamic Republic has proved that it resists and insists on resisting whoever aggresses against the land, the dignity and the shrines. It has proved to all Gulf states that it does not attack anyone and that it does not want [words indistinct].

Yet, if some people still believe they can confront the Islamic Republic of Iran with their generous aid to the ruling regime in Baghdad, they must change their belief [words indistinct] It is not at all in their interests to alienate the Islamic Republic which puts itself at the disposal of the Muslim and the oppressed.

They must refrain and convince others that the real threat to the region is Saddam and his aggressive regime.

As for the Islamic Republic of Iran, it is there where mercy, grace and true Islamic brotherhood exist. It is Saddam alone who wants to extend the war area through his repetitive requests to the region's states to offer aid and join in the conflict. Saddam alone wants evil for the region. Colonialism wanted him to be a gendarme of the resources of the states that overlook the Gulf's shores.

Saddam attacked the Islamic Republic and attacked the oil installations in Kuwait to push Kuwait -- this small country -- into war with the Islamic Republic of Iran. Saddam wants the war to expand and include the entire region and the entire world. He wants our Islamic world to live in a sea of blood. This is Saddam.

As for the Islamic Republic, it has proved to the entire world that it does not want more than its legitimate rights and that it is friendly to all peoples, a protector of the Islamic peoples and a defender of the oppressed peoples. It does not want war except to deter the aggressors. It does not want to harm anyone no matter what his nationality or religion. This is our word to those who are meeting in Manama so that some of them be guided by it.

MAJLIS CONSIDERS MINISTERIAL APPOINTMENTS

GF090900 [Editorial Report] Tehran Domestic Service in Persian at 0430 GMT on 9 November begins live coverage of the open session of the Majlis.

The agenda is read following the recitation of a Koranic verse. Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani then introduces the new ministers, Messrs Rafiqdust, Khatami and Izeh'i, giving lengthy biographical sketches of each. He said he had been clearly associated with them for the past 20 years and hopes that they will prove their merit.

At 0630 GMT, an unidentified deputy is heard carrying on a tirade against the proposed minister for Islamic guidance, Khatami, mentioning his association with Bani-Sadr.

Reception remains poor as the deputies vote for the motion and Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani takes the rostrum at 0730 GMT. He presents a synopsis of the speeches made for and against the ministers-designate and says: "Although Mr Khatami has not received the desired number of votes, he will continue to be our dear friend and associate."

Deputy Navab asks permission to speak and says there are many others qualified to hold ministerial posts but have not been given the chance simply because the people do not know about them.

Deputy Majid Ansari says the confidence motion can only be passed if there are at least 50 percent votes in favor. Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani dismisses the objection and says the choice was made after much deliberation by the respected president and prime minister.

Minister-designate Khatami comes to the podium at 0750 GMT and thanks all members who gave their opinions of him and says that he wants to elucidate a few points in this regard. First, a minister is not "a superhuman being" or one who conforms to an ideal image.

Another deputy who is not named speaks on the former's association with the KEYHAN newspaper and his services in transforming the paper from a counterrevolutionary organ into a true mouthpiece of the revolution. A spirited discussion ensues on the pros and cons of the choice of minister-designate Khatami.

The final votes are cast at 0830 GMT and Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani announces the results: Rafiqdust has 173 votes in favor and 11 against with some abstentions, Khatami has 121 votes in favor and 27 against; Izeh'i has 126 votes in favor with 7 against.

After applause subsides, Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani declares the Majlis adjourned and announces the next session for Thursday at 0800.

[Text] Tehran, Nov 7 (IRNA) -- Foreign Ministry undersecretary in charge of cultural affairs said Saturday that the Indian authorities assured him of giving punishment to those who provoked and caused the clashes among the Iranian students in educational institutions of that country.

Javad Mansuri who was back from a trip to India, said the 86 Iranian students who were jailed in Bangalore south India, were innocent. He said they did nothing but to defend their basic rights and deserved no punishment. He said the Indian authorities agreed to release those who were arrested with no reason.

Iran expected India, he added, not to harm the bilateral relations just because of certain media reports in that country and biased propaganda against Iran. The Iranian Embassy in New Delhi, he added, will pursue the matter.

He said in the talks with his Indian counterparts, it was agreed that joint committees be formed at the level of foreign ministers to develop bilateral relations in political, economic and cultural fields.

He said a raise in the number of Iranian students in Indian universities was not possible due to the limited seats in Indian colleges.

On the expansion of Iran-Indian cultural relations, Mansuri said the Iranian culture houses in Bombay and New Delhi could be useful for that purpose along with the efforts of the Islamic Guidance Ministry. Also discussed with Indian officials, he added, were the upcoming Non-aligned Movement conference in New Delhi next year, better tourist relations, better facilities for [word indistinct] and other travelling to India, and an increase in the visits of the officials of the two countries.

OFFICIAL RECEIVES TURKISH, BANGLADESH ENVOYS

LD091128 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Text] The Turkish and Bangladesh ambassadors today met separately with Deputy Foreign Minister Ahmad 'Azizi. During the meetings, the deputy foreign minister outlined the Islamic Republic's views on the Iraqi imposed war and on latest developments at the fronts. Having expressed Iran's sincere wish to maintain peaceful relations with all Islamic states, he stressed that on the basis of our Islamic belief and constitution, continuation of this policy is conditional and depends on lack of hostility by these governments toward the Islamic Republic and on the absence of support for the aggressor.

'Azizi then added: Continuation of our operations is aimed at repelling aggression, crushing the aggressor and, ultimately, realizing just conditions to end the war in the interest of the two nations and peoples. As we already have stated on a number of occasions, we want genuine peace. We have no expansionist designs. Nevertheless, we respond to force with force. If the Iraqi regime fails to take advantage of the opportunities we provide and also fails to submit to our just terms; if it continues to bomb our towns and kill our innocent compatriots, then there is no doubt that heavier blows inevitably will be dealt to Iraq.

CLANDESTINE: TUDEH PARTY'S KIANURI FLEES TO GDR

GF071852 (Clandestine) Free Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1500 GMT 7 Nov 82

[Text] Nureddin Kianuri, former general secretary of the Iranian Tudeh Party, has escaped to the GDR. There have been no reports available on the details of his escape from Iran. However, rumors say that he escaped with the help and cooperation of one of the regime's influential mullahs.

Our correspondent adds: Ehsan Tabari also has been arrested in Rasht. He is a member of the Tudeh Party's Political Bureau and one of the Soviet's fifth column agents in Iran. Tabari, who holds the title of the theoretician of the Tudeh Party of Iran, which is affiliated with Moscow, is one of those people who played an active role together with Kianuri in bringing Khomeyni to power in Iran.

According to our correspondent, following the escape of Vladimir Kuzichkin, the Soviet diplomat, from Iran to London, the names of the leaders of leftist groups affiliated with the Soviet Union have been passed to Western intelligence officials who, in turn, passed these names and other information to the so-called Islamic regime.

According to the same report by our correspondent in Tehran, Khomeyni's regime is currently in possession of the names of 400 Tudeh Party activists who have infiltrated the armed forces, the Foreign Ministry, the Revolution Guards Corps, the police, the gendarmerie and some so-called revolutionary organizations of the regime. The regime gradually is arresting them. Some already have been arrested; others are still being sought. The regime's agents are trying to identify other activists of the Tudeh Party and leftist groups affiliated with Moscow in the government's administrative organizations.

NVOI URGES PURGE IN MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS

TA060548 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 5 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary: "The Dismissal From the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Opportunist Elements That Have Changed Color Is Vital"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: In his recent Friday prayer sermon, Hojjat ol-Eslam Hashemi-Rafsanjani, our homeland's speaker of the Islamic Majlis, while analyzing a series of complex and acute issues of our society also referred to a significant point which is extremely important in reviewing the foreign policy of the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The dear compatriots are aware that recently some of the dregs of the former regime, who have changed color and who were engaged in work and activity in various positions in our country's embassies abroad, allegedly sought refuge in Western countries. Imperialist mass media, also are striving futilely to exploit this matter to mislead public opinion and minds in Western countries.

In his Friday prayer sermon, Rafsanjani rightly pointed out that these elements and these dregs of the former regime were the very SAVAKists and elements who changed color and remained in the embassies since the former era, and who actually were plotting against the Islamic Republic of Iran. The head of the legislative branch announced that the government is determined to fully investigate these unclean elements and remnants of the former regime and persons who have changed color and to cleanse the embassies of the Islamic Republic of Iran abroad from the filth of their presence.

The emphasis of the head of the legislative branch to the effect that the government is determined to dismiss elements opposed to the revolution and the Islamic Republic of Iran, in whatever garb that they may be, from the arena of the country's foreign policy is by itself very promising if it is carried out with consistency, decisiveness and realism.

The fact is that although more than 3 years have passed since our nation's glorious revolution, a correct purge on the basis of revolutionary standards has still not been carried out in government organizations, particularly in the wide network of our homeland's Ministry of Foreign Affairs. At one time, our country's Ministry of Foreign Affairs was run by the Sanjabis, the Bani-Sadrs and the treacherous Qotbzadehs, who were the foes of the Islamic Republic of Iran and who used to move the pawns in this ministry and the embassies in accordance with their own wishes and aims.

It may seem surprising but it is a fact that even up to now there are certain persons who in the past were in the service of SAVAK and the former sinister regime with all their being, but who today are still engaged in work both in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the embassies of the Islamic Republic of Iran abroad.

During the provisional government, and after it during the ascendency of the traitor Bani-Sadr and the corrupt-on-earth Qotbzadeh, some of the foes of the revolution and the imam's line, by pretending to be Muslims and religious and by acquiring beards and beads, succeeded in entrenching themselves in this ministry. Not only abroad but within the country as well, in this self-same Ministry of Foreign Affairs of our country, they transfered a large number of classified government documents abroad and placed them at the disposal of Iran's enemies.

As Rafsanjani noted, these elements who were abroad placed all the classified documents of the Islamic Republic of Iran at the disposal of the intelligence authorities of Western countries in return for receiving bribes and for the sake of serving their Western masters. However, subversive activity of these elements does not end here. In fact, they have implemented and continue to implement all the directives of the leaders of the trends opposed to the imam and the revolution's line abroad. What is of great importance in connection with a purge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the embassies of our Islamic Republic is devoting attention to those hands and the mighty and powerful network that operate in the Islamic government under the mask of pseudo-Islam and CIA-fabricated associations such as the Hojjatiyeh and so forth, and which have imposed and continue to impose unsuitable and opportunistic elements who have changed color, as well as the foes of the imam's genuine line on government organizations, particularly the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. These hands and this subversive network and implementer of the line of the liberals, the counterrevolution and the United States must be identified and disgraced so that every fraudulent person and opportunist,and every foe of the Islamic Republic of Iran, will not be able to entrench himself in this sensitive ministry under the mask of pseudo-Islam.

[Sheykh Ezzedin Hoseyni, spirtual leader of the Kurds, interview with Jacques de Vernisy in Paris -- date not given]

[Excerpts] "A European could not imagine what Khomeyni is now doing in Kordestan and throughout Iran," Sheykh Ezzedin Hoseyni, spiritual leader of the Iranian Kurds, told LE MATIN. He is in Paris "for medical examinations and to meet Iranian and foreign opponents of the Tehran regime."

Since mid-September "the Tehran regime has stepped up its attacks on Kordestan and has been imposing on us a war comparable to the bloodiest conflicts in the world," Hoseyni said. It has launched a very broad offensive in the western part of Kordestan, near the border with Iraq, and has used every means of trying to occupy some of the "liberated regions under our control."

Those attacks "did not spare civilians." Villages were bombed and shelled "by Phantom jets, helicopters and guns." For instance, in a big village near Miandow Ab (between Tabriz and Mahabad), the Tehran forces "massacred 30 people including the mullah." Even now, "the clashes are very fierce" On 20 October, two columns comprising regular soldiers and revolution guards wanted to leave Mahabad to occupy villages held by the resistance fighters (peshmergas). However, the underground fighters attacked them and they were forced to turn back. Some 100 Khomeyni supporters were killed or wounded."

Although the Tehran forces have been able to "make slight progress" in the past few weeks, the sheykh maintained: "Their advance has been halted thanks to the peshmergas' resistance, which improved greatly following the military agreement signed a few days ago between the two main forces in Kordestan: the Kordestan Democratic Party led by Abdorrahman Qasemlu and the Komeleh (Maoist) led by Abdollah Mohtadi. The two parties, which were already cooperating in many spheres, decided to place their troops under joint command in the Piranshah-Sar Dasht region, "and that has already had obvious effects on the morale of the peshmergas and the population and on the battlefields."

[Question] What is the toll of 6 weeks fighting?

"Around 3,000 members of the Tehran forces killed, wounded or taken prisoner, and among our people, 400 killed or wounded, mostly civilian villagers," Hoseyni stated.

"By its very nature the Khomeyni regime, comprising fanatical and reactionary clerics, cannot last very long," the sheykh said. The reason it has survived so long is that there has been no real alternative and the opposition is too divided. It is also because the regime is continuing the war with Iraq. The Kurdish resistance has joined the National Resistance Council, whose founders, Mas'ud Rajavi and Bani-Sadr, have taken refuge in Paris. The sheykh, who is to meet Rajavi "shortly," deplored that council's tendency to be ineffective.

The opposition, the sheykh said, ought to be able to increase its unity behind three objectives: overthrowing Khomeyni, forming a democratic Iranian republic -- whose constitution would guarantee freedom and religious belief for all Iranians -- and, finally, respect for the national rights of all Iran's peoples, including, of course, the Kurds who would be recognized and would obtain a form of autonomy.

Tyre Explosion -- An explosion devastated the Israeli military headquarters in Tyre early on 11 November, killing at least 26 people and wounding many others, Jerusalem radio reported. Noting that the building housed Israeli military and security personnel and also contained some Palestinian detainees, the radio said around 50 Israeli personnel were still trapped under the debris on 12 November. Rescue operations continued while the IDF cordoned off the area and searched for suspects, according to Jerusalem and IDF radios. Jerusalem radio stated that Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon has ordered a commission of inquiry to investigate the explosion. Meanwhile, a self-styled "Armed Struggle Organization" sent a statement to AFP in Beirut claiming responsibility for the blast, Beirut radio reported. The organization warned that further operations will follow.

Israel

The head of the IDF intelligence chief's office, Lt Col Moshe Hevroni, told the commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre that Defense Minister Sharon's aide, Avi Duda'i, must have lied when he testified that throughout 17 September he received no reports of irregular activities in the Sabra and Shatila camps, IDF radio reported.

PLO

Delegation in Moscow -- A PLO delegation met with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrey Gromyko in Moscow on 11 November, TASS reported.

Recognition Issue -- The PLO representative in Saudi Arabia has denied an Egyptian report that the PLO has announced its readiness to accept UN Resolution 242 recognizing Israel in return for the right to participate in peace negotiations, AFP reported. Meanwhile, Palestine National Council Chairman Khalid al-Fahum said the PLO will "entirely reconsider" its attitude toward Israel if and when the latter changes its attitude toward the Palestinians and grants a place for them, according to another AFP report.

Egyptian Invitation -- The Egyptian Government has invited PLO Executive Committee Chairman Yasir 'Arafat to pay an official visit to Egypt, Beirut radio reported, citing the Qatari paper AL-'ARAB.

Reaction to Brezhnev Death

While most Arab countries have already sent condolences to the Soviet Union on the death of Leonid Brezhnev, monitored Israeli and Iranian media have not thus far reported any official condolence messages from Israel or Iran to the Soviet Union. Several condolence messages were sent from Syria, including one from President Hafiz al-Asad, and Syrian authorities have declared an official 7-day mourning period, according to reports by Damascus television and SANA. Other condolences included messages from Iraqi President Saddam Husayn, Saudi King Fahd, Jordanian King Husayn, the amir of Kuwait, and PLO leader Yasir 'Arafat, according to INA, SPA, Amman radio, Kuwait radio and TANJUG.

GCC Summit

The final communique of the GCC Supreme Council meeting in Manama declared that the six GCC leaders have approved the recommendations of their defense ministers, which aim at building the strength of GCC member states and coordinating among them to achieve self-reliance and protect their security. However, no final agreement was announced on the proposed comprehensive security agreement. Instead, the GCC leaders acceded to their interior ministers' request for further discussion and study of the issue, the document stated. The communique, which was read out at the final session of the GCC summit by GCC Secretary General 'Abdallah Ya'qub Bisharah and broadcast live by Manama television, also noted that the GCC leaders consider Iran's thrust into Iraq a threat to the Arab nation. Reaffirming GCC support for Iraq, it called on Iran to respond to peacemaking efforts.

Regarding Gulf economic affairs, the communique said the first stage of the economic integration agreement will come into effect on 1 March 1983. The GCC summit authorized the establishment of a Gulf investment corporation with capital of $2.1 billion, it added. The GCC leaders decided to hold their fourth summit in Qatar in November 1983.

Bahraini Foreign Minister Muhammad ibn Mubarak Al Khalifah subsequently said in a news conference broadcast by Manama television that the GCC countries are prepared to carry out any possible role to resolve the Iran-Iraq war. Noting that the Fes Arab League summit conference adopted a clear resolution on the joint Arab defense agreement, Al Khalifah said an Iranian threat to Baghdad should be discussed by the Arab League. Earlier, INA cited the Kuwaiti daily AL-WATAN as stating that the GCC has decided to form a high-level delegation to try to end the war. If Iran rejects the GCC mediation mission, the GCC countries will call for an Arab summit to authorize implementation of the joint Arab defense pact, AL-WATAN asserted.

Regarding membership of the GCC, Secretary General Bisharah revealed in an interview with the Bahraini daily AKHBAR AL-KHALIJ that the GCC is currently considering the admission of other Gulf countries to the council, WAKH reported.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Situation -- An 11 November Iraqi military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio claimed that Iraqi forces routed an Iranian attack in the Maysan area, killing 887 Iranians and allowing the Iraqis to move forward and occupy new positions. Earlier, Tehran radio said the Iranians had retaken 35 square km of Iranian territory from the Iraqis and had captured further territory in the north of Iraq's Zubaydah oil region.

Jordanian Diplomacy -- The Iran-Iraq war was among the subjects discussed by Jordanian King Husayn and Saudi King Fahd during a brief visit to Saudi Arabia by Husayn, Amman radio reported. Earlier, the Jordanian prime minister conveyed a message from King Husayn to Iraqi President Saddam Husayn in Baghdad, the radio noted.

Iraq

President Saddam Husayn, in a 9 November address to the Cabinet transmitted by INA, warned that a "fifth column" is disseminating rumors inside Iraq aimed at weakening the morale of the people. He went on to criticize "some members of the Revolution Command Council" who have expressed concern about the fate of traitors. Referring to the execution of a government minister who authorized the import of harmful medicine, Saddam Husayn warned that those who occupy high positions should not expect mercy when they make mistakes. He exhorted his ministers to economize in their departmental expenditures. The Iraqi leader also challenged the Iranian rulers to a mutual referendum contest, held under international supervision and free from interference, to see which regime and head of state has the most internal support.

ENVOY CALLS SALANG TUNNEL REPORTS 'PURE FANTASY'

LD102032 Hamburg DPA in German 1747 GMT 10 Nov 82

[Excerpt] Mainz, 10 Nov (DPA) -- Afghan Ambassador in Bonn Paiwand has described reports about a catastrophe with over 1,000 dead in the Salang tunnel north of Kabul as "a product of pure fantasy." In a conversation with the ALLGEMEINE ZEITUNG of Mainz, to be published in the Thursday edition and pre-released to DPA, Paiwand pointed to earlier reports, such as the shooting at the Intercontinental Hotel in Kabul, the destruction of a dam by rebels and the alleged killing of the present prime minister, all of which proved to be untrue.

AFP: TUNNEL DISASTER ATTRIBUTED TO RESISTANCE

BK101718 Hong Kong AFP in English 1706 GMT 10 Nov 82

[By Michel Martin-Roland]

[Text] Islamabad, Nov 10 (AFP) -- The Salang pass tunnel disaster, in which more than 1,000 Soviet soldiers and Afghan civilians may have died, was being attributed today to the Afghan resistance.

In Rawalpindi, the exile Afghan News Agency (ANA) reported the accident was caused by two mines laid by the mujahidin. In Peshawar, a farmer who claims to have witnessed the accident said people in the Salang region were convinced the accident was caused by mujahidin, as were local Afghan officials.

No resistance spokesman here has confirmed this theory, and some have denied it.

A Western diplomatic source estimates that more than 1,000 Afghan civilians and Soviet troops suffocated in the fire in the tunnel, the main pass through the Hindukush mountains linking Kabul with northern Afghanistan and the Soviet Union.

But the farmer put the fatalities at 500 Soviet troops and at least 160 Afghans. He said they died because Soviet guards had blocked the tunnel exists, thinking they were dealing with a resistance attack.

Reports vary as to when the accident occurred. The farmer thinks it was October 30, diplomats say November 2 or 3, and ANA says that mines planted by the mujahidin exploded on Nov. 2 under a military convoy.

According to the farmer, the tunnel reopened four days after the accident.

Informed Afghans here note that the Kabul highway leading to the Soviet frontier has several times been mined by the resistance, and a Salang district resistance leader belonging to the Jami'at-e Eslami Party has sent a message to Peshawar suggesting that a group of unidentified mujahidin mined the tunnel. The action, he said, had been planned for some time.

Western diplomatic sources here have expressed no opinion as to the cause of the accident. They say that according to some reports circulating in Kabul, a tanker truck and the lead vehicle in a Soviet Army convoy collided at full speed, causing a massive pileup. According to other reports, they say, the tanker exploded, causing a fire.

'COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES' HIT; WEAPONS SEIZED

LD091622 Kabul Domestic Service in Pashto 1430 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Text] Officers and troops of the operational and mountain battalions of the Balkh Province sarandoy command and of the revolution defenders have crushed a number of counterrevolutionary elements who for some time have been distrupting the peaceful life of the [name indistinct] village, (Nahr-e Shahi) district, Balkh Province. A number of them have been capture.

A spokesman for the Balkh Province sarandoy command said: Weapons, assorted ammunition and incriminating documents showing their links with counterrevolutionary bands abroad were seized.

According to a report from the Nangarhar Province security force, a band of counterrevolutionary elements -- these enemies of the progress and prosperity of the people -- along with their ringleaders, 'Ali Gol and Saheb, was crushed and assorted weapons were seized.

TRIBAL AFGHANS PROTEST CONSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN

BK101049 Hong Kong AFP in English 1407 GMT 10 Nov 82

[Text] Peshawar, Pakistan, Nov. 10 (AFP) -- Hundreds of Afghans from the Shinwari, Mehmand and Zazi tribes demonstrated in Kabul last Sunday against the Soviet-backed Afghan regime's drive to recruit tribesmen for the Afghan Army, travellers arriving here told rebels today.

According to the rebel-run Afghan Islamic Press (AIP), about 300-400 Shinwari, Mehmand and Zazi tribesmen assembled in downtown Kabul to protest the conscription campaign launched by the regime to beef up its desertion-plagued army, which is fighting tribal resistance to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

"We here never, and we will never be part of the army," they chanted while the Afghan troops watched the protestors, AIP said. It said Afghan soldiers did not take action. The rally dispersed without any violence, Western diplomatic sources said.

The Shinwari tribes staged a similar protest in Paktia Province last month, following which the government "temporarily" stopped drafting tribesmen.

Sunday's reported demonstration contradicted a recent Kabul radio broadcast that the Shinwari tribe had pledged full support to the regime's pro-communist stance, Afghan analysts said.

The demonstrators marched into Kabul's Sar-Chowk and Shoba bazaar areas, where all private transport came to a standstill. Mehmand and Shinwari tribesmen, divided between Pakistan and Afghanistan, run most of the passenger transport service in the two countries.

Shopkeepers in Shoba bazaar also joined the protest and closed down their shops, the agency said. It said Zazis with strong influence in Shoba bazaar were continuing the protest.

Meanwhile, the battalion commander of Afghan troops based in Kabul defected from the army and joined Moslem freedom fighters on November 1, according to a spokesman for the Islamic alliance of Afghan mujahidin.

Commander Mohammed Raza had been secretary cooperating with Moslem rebels for a long time, the spokesman said, adding that the Soviet KGB secret service and the Afghan intelligence "KHAD" had placed him under surveillance and that this prompted his defection. Commander Raza had belonged to the 14th Battalion of the 219 Kabul Regiment.

According to several estimates, the strength of once 90,000-strong Afghan Army has dropped to nearly 25,000 since the communist coup in Afghanistan in December, 1979.

BRIEFS

CSSR LEGAL AGREEMENT -- A protocol on exchanging documents of the friendship and cooperation treaty, an agreement on legal assistance in civil and penal areas and a consular agreement between the DRA and CSSR which was signed in Prague during the visit by Babrak Karmal, general secretary of the PDPA Central Committee and president of the DRA Revolutionary Council, to that country, was concluded and exchanged today between Shah Mohammad Dost, minister of foreign affairs, and Vaclacv Kouba, ambassador and representative extraordinary of the CSSR to Kabul in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The substance of these agreements, after the documents have been exchanged between both sides, will be implemented. [Text] [Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 8 Nov 82 LD]

GANDHI, HIDAYATULLAH COMMENT ON BREZHNEV DEATH

BK111312 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1230 GMT 11 Nov 82

[Text] Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev is dead. Radio Moscow announced that Brezhnev, who was 75, died yesterday morning. He had been in poor health for some years and the end was sudden.

One of the architects of detente and Indo-Soviet friendship, Leonid Ilich Brezhnev was born in a worker's family almost 11 years before the October Revolution. He began his career as an engineer and was associated with the Soviet Communist Party from an early age. When Hitler's Germany attacked the Soviet Union, Brezhnev joined the army and heroically fought the war up to the very end. After the war, Brezhnev was connected with economic reconstruction of his country and helped in the development of industries and in bringing virgin land in Kazakhstan under the plow to boost Soviet agricultural output.

Brezhnev succeeded Khrushchev in 1964 as the general secretary of the party and also held the post of president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR. For 18 long years, he directed Soviet policy, strengthening unity among the socialist countries and pioneering the policy of detente and the concept of peaceful coexistence. The strategic arms limitation treaty, the European security conference and the normalization of relations with the West were some of his monumental achievements. Under his stewardship, the Soviet Union has become one of the foremost military, industrial and economic powers in the world.

Brezhnev had established warm personal relations with successive Indian leaders, including Jawaharlal Nehru, Lal Bahadur Shastri and Mrs Gandhi. He visited India thrice, the latest in January 1981. He was of the opinion that friendship between India and the Soviet Union constituted a strong stabilizing factor in Asia and in the international situation.

Top Soviet leaders had a meeting today, reportedly, to discuss the question of electing a successor to Brezhnev.

Vice President Hidayatullah has said the death of Brezhnev has left us in utter gloom. In a condolence message, he said India has lost a true friend.

In her tribute, the prime minister said in the death of Brezhnev the world has lost an outstanding statesman; the Soviet Union, a great architect; and the people of India, a valued friend. His life was one of unusual dedication. Mrs. Gandhi said the Soviet leader directed the strength and creative spirit of his countrymen toward peace and the task of ensuring a world where nations can live in amity. The prime minister said Indo-Soviet friendship and cooperation grew and achieved maturity during President Brezhnev's time. He showed consistent understanding of our problem and stood by us in our moments of need.

STATES URGED 'TO BE WATCHFUL' OF AKALI EXTREMISTS

BK111636 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 11 Nov 82

[Text] The center has asked the governments of Punjab, Haryana Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan to have proper coordination among themselves and exchange information regarding the Akali extremists.

At a meeting held in New Delhi today to review the overall law and order situation, Home Secretary T.N. Chaturvedi asked these states to be watchful about the activities of the extremists and take appropriate measures to deal with them. However, they should ensure that no genuine person coming to the capital for the ASIAD is put to inconvenience. He told them to take all precautionary measures and to explain to the people the issues involved. The meeting was attended by the lieutenant governor of Delhi, senior officials of the Home Ministry and the chief secretaries of Punjab and Haryana and the inspectors general of police of these four states.

Punjab Chief Minister Darbara Singh met the prime minister in New Delhi today. He told newsmen later that he discussed with Mrs Gandhi the situation in the state and steps being taken to face the threat of the Akali agitation. He said he would welcome a negotiated settlement to bring the crisis to an early end. Darbara Singh also called on the home minister and discussed with him the law and order situation in the state.

The president of the Janvadi Party, Chandrajit Yadev, has urged the Akali leaders to postpone their proposed agitation. Talking to newsmen in New Delhi today, he urged the Akalis to disassociate themselves from the extremists and come to the negotiating table.

Rajiv Gandhi has deployed the proposed agitation by Akalis during the Asian games. He asked his party workers to see that such efforts do not succeed. Addressing a meeting of the Congress-I workers in New Delhi, he said the prestige of the country is involved in holding the games smoothly.

The Punjab government has denied press reports that arrest warrants have been issued against certain prominent Akali leaders to prevent them from going to Delhi to hold demonstrations on the 19th of this month. A spokesman of the state government described these reports as baseless and unfounded.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION CHALLENGED IN SUPREME COURT

BK121413 Hong Kong AFP in English 1400 GMT 12 Nov 82

[Text] Colombo, Nov 12 (AFP) -- The election of President Junius Jayewardene last month, for a second term of six years, has been challenged in the Supreme Court, reports said here today.

The runner-up in the first-ever presidential election Hector Kobbekaduwa, candidate from the Sri Lanka Freedom Party (SLFP), led by former Prime Minister Sirima Bandaranaike yesterday filed a petition in the Supreme Court challenging the election.

(Meanwhile, the Press Trust of India (PTI) reported today in Delhi the SLFP had put together a common front of opposition parties to oppose the referendum next month, which seeks a mandate for the present Parliament to continue in power. A SLFP joint statement today demanded the current state of emergency should be ended before the proclamation for the referendum, which is expected on November 17, PTI added.)

The government decided only last Wednesday to continue the emergency which President Jayawardene declared last month at the end of polling in the presidential election.

In his petition to the Supreme Court Mr Kobbekaduwa accused the trade minister, as an agent of President Jayewardene or with his knowledge, of committing a corrupt practice by making or publishing a false statement about his party.

FOREIGN MINISTRY CONDEMNS U.S.-MOROCCO MANEUVERS

LD111150 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 11 Nov 82

[Text] American imperialism, continuing its warmongering policies and strengthening the military capability of the mercenary and subservient regimes in the region, has started joint maneuvers of U.S. Marines and Moroccan forces on the northern coasts of Morocco. Concerning this issue, the spokesman of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of our country said:

These maneuvers take place in the context of the strategic treaty between the Moroccan regime and American imperialism, and its goal is to pave the way for further American influence in the region. The maneuvers are a link in the chain of the America's war-seeking policies for suppressing the uprising of the oppressed and Muslim people of the region, especially the countries in North Africa, the Persian Gulf and the Sahara. Now -- when as the result of the victories of the fighters of Islam the American mercenary Saddam, has been dragged toward certain downfall -- through such maneuvers America wants to strengthen its position and to give encouragement to its other mercenaries.

He added: The Islamic Republic of Iran condemns these maneuvers which are staged in connection with the suppressive agreement between America and Morocco, according to which American forces are allowed to use Morocco as an operational and command base in cases where American interests are endangered in the Middle East. The Islamic Republic of Iran asks Muslim nations not to allow America to stage such warmongering maneuvers in their country and to oppose them.

Interview on Meeting

LD111728 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 0430 GMT 11 Nov 82

[President Khamene'i interview after 10 November Cabinet session -- recorded]

[Text] [Question] Mr President, in view of the participation of the three new ministers in tonight's Cabinet session, please let us know the reasons for your participation in this Cabinet meeting?

[Answer] In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. From time to time, I attend Cabinet meetings. Naturally, this year I also attended some sessions although I have not attended it for some time. Of course, the presence of the three new ministers was also one reason: to get to know the gentlemen. Although they are among our friends, we also met the gentlemen at work and it was very good.

Of course, tonight, we discussed the sensitive and important issue of the inhabited Kurdish regions; Kurdestan Province and Western Azarbayjan. The governors general of the regions participated in the Cabinet session and they had some [words indistinct] and some problems. They described the needs of the regions' people to the Cabinet members. There is great (?motivation) for work in these regions. Both the members of the Cabinet and all other officials are anxious to work for the Kurdish brothers in these regions because, unfortunately, due to the presence of counterrevolutionaries in this region, only a small part of government services has reached the Kurdish inhabited region. The governors general of the region came to the Cabinet meeting with a great deal of zeal, enthusiasm and motivation and discussed what services can be rendered there and what issues should be dealt with from the economic, cultural and political points of view. It was an important issue. I also had some experiences and information and it was necessary for me to take part in the session. Thank God, it was a good session and some good decisions were made.

[Question] Please let us know if you have any details about combatting the counterrevolutionaries in these two regions.

[Answer] Concerning the fighting against the counterrevolutionaries, today we are in the best position compared to the last 3 or 4 years. The counterrevolution has no popular base in the the region and the sovereignty of the government in the region is established. Two or three important axes from which the counterrevolution used to receive military assistance and from where it laid ambushes and attacked the cities have come under government control. That is, some of them have come under government control and some are being mopped up and brought under government control, the most important of which is Piranshahr-Sar Dasht axis where the government forces have reached the final stages and very soon this axis will be mopped up.

With the mopping up of these axes, a large number of villages and some important towns will come under the control of the people themselves, as they have not been under the control of the people so far. They have been under the control of counterrevolutionary parties and groups who, inspired by foreign elements and major world counterrevolutionaries, were working there and were oppressing and pressuring the people and were weakening government sovereignty. In any case, fortunately, our military brothers -- namely both the Islamic Revolution Guard Corps and the Armed Forces -- and the gendarmerie are busy doing fundamental things. We hope that these moves will be carried out successfully and that the people of this region will be released from the heavy load of the counterrevolutionaries, which they have had to endure the past 3 or 4 years. If this is done, then the government will be able to implement services to the people without any anxiety. Thank God, tonight we had some good discussions on this issue.

[Question] In your view, what has the attitude of world mass media been concerning the fighters of Islam recently?

[Answer] Of course, the victories that have taken place on the battlefields were reported unwillingly, of course, not in complete form. However, as long as world mass media is under the control of Zionism and under the domination and influence of the Americans, we should not expect what takes place in Iran to be fully reported in the world. The few famous news agencies of the world are not very happy with us. They are not very fond of our revolution; they are under the influence of the Zionists and Americans. This is a fact which we witness. Of course, at times, they report certain things but they are not reported correctly.

In the region, also, the countries around us have not reported the issues in a just way, as one expects an information agency to do. We also are not interested in such propaganda. We are doing our own work. We have fixed our gaze upon a just fact and we are moving toward that target. We hope God will assist us. Now, whether this propaganda accords with our desire, it will have no effect upon our work.

[Question] Thank you very much.

GF101758 Tehran IRNA in English 1627 GMT 10 Nov 82

The new head of the Majlis oil committee, deputy from Bakhtaran, Seyyed Zedeh, stressed importance of oil on world economy and said that in absence of oil capitalist economies would not be able to function. IRNA CITES OFFICIAL'S REMARKS IN DAMASCUS

LD101128 Tehran IRNA in English 0934 GMT 10 Nov 82

[Text] Damascus, Nov. 10 IRNA -- Political Undersecretary at the Iranian Foreign Ministry Hoseyn Shaykh ol-Eslam said here Tuesday that at present 10 Iraqi cities were within the range of fire of Iranian forces but Imam Khomeyni had not allowed shooting of a single bullet towards them while Iranian cities were under continuous fire of Iraqi artillery.

Speaking at a press conference at the end of his tour to Syria, Shaykh ol-Eslam said that the weapons, of over one billion dollars, had been seized from Iraq during the Moharram operation (started on Nov. 1), which would be used against the Zionist regime.

Asked how Iran would overthrow the present Iraq regime while it had announced that it would not occupy Iraqi territory, the Foreign Ministry official noted that according to the Islamic Republic's Constitution, Iran was not allowed to interfere in other state's internal affairs. But, he added, the Islamic revolution was not confined to the Iranians and that the overthrow of Saddam's regime was a task of Iraqi people as well as a duty of every Muslim.

He said that with the execution of four ministers and two military commanders, Saddam Husayn had transferred his sanity from warfronts to inside Iraq which was an indication of his imminent downfall. [sentence as received]

Referring to the numerous Iraqi POWs in Iran, Shaykh ol-Eslam stressed that they were mostly dispatched to battlefronts by force and since their objective was to fight with the Zionist enemy and not the Islamic Republic, they would surrender voluntarily. Whoever assisted Saddam Husayn in the war, would share the same fate, he remarked.

Shaykh ol-Eslam said the allegations by the U.S. and the Zionist regime against the Islami Republic were false and futile, adding that after the victory of the revolution Iran's relations with the Zionist regime and the flow of oil to that country were cut off and the Zionist embassy in Tehran was turned to the embassy of Palestine.

As for future relations between Iran and Lebanon, the political undersecretary at the Iranian Foreign Ministry reiterated that the Islamic Republic attached special importance to Lebanon and had declared that the Zionist regime should evacuate all Arab occupied lands. He stressed that there was only one place for the Zionists and that was "hell."

He said his tour to Syria had been very fruitful, describing existing ties between the two countries as being excellent. The talks were focused on the matters to confront the U.S. conspiracies which were taking shape at a wide range in the region, he added.

Shaykh ol-Eslam stressed that the Islamic Republic believed that the present tension was a prelude for the overt U.S. presence in the region thus advising all the states not to take part in the U.S. plots. Saddam, he added, had also the objective to assist the U.S. to preserve the tension in this part of the world.

The Islamic Republic, Shaykh ol-Eslam noted, was willing to have good relations with all its neighbouring countries provided that they would realise the legitimacy of the Islamic Republic and avoid helping Saddam.

[Communique No 1,117 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. The Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran, those self-sacrificing warriors of the path of truth and justice with the power of the Islamic faith, are delivering repeated and fatal blows to the Saddamist warmongers.

In continuation of the Moharram operations, the justice-seeking Islamic combatants are fully consolidating their newly-won positions, are in full control of the enemy forces and are smashing their scattered resistance. Our forces' artillery fire in this region has disrupted all movements and activities of the Saddamist forces and our forces bravely have defended their own positions.

In the western operational sector, our forces returned enemy fire and inflicted some losses and damage. Our forces' heavy weapon fire destroyed one machinegun with its crew and one ammunition depot of the aggressors. Several of Saddam's troops were killed or wounded.

The Islamic forces' engineering units in this region pursue their task of discovering and defusing various types of mines planted by the enemy.

Our forces stationed on the banks of the Arvand Rud yesterday opened fire on enemy positions on the other side of the river, destroying several Iraqi trenches and observation posts. Movement by the Iraqi forces along the Al-Faw-Basra highway also was halted.

The filthy Saddamist criminals yesterday opened heavy artillery fire on residential districts in Abadan. Ten houses were demolished; there was severe damage. This crime was committed at a time when the enemy's residential areas are within firing range of the Islamic combatants, yet they refuse to pound them.

[Communique No 1,118 of the Joint Staff of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran]

[Text] In His exalted name. At 1031 today, another invading Iraqi aircraft was downed in the Moharram operational zone by the fire of air defense units of the Air Force of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran. This brings the total number of Iraqi aircraft downed during the Moharram operations to 13.

Following fruitless and repeated offensives launched by Saddam's defeated forces on 9 and 10 November in the Moharram operational zone and repulsed by our forces, the victorious valiant fighters of Islam yesterday continued their triumphant Moharram operations and took over new positions in [word indistinct] region. Our forces captured hill 175, inflicting heavy and effective blows and casualties on the enemy. Exchanges of fire continued during the last 24 hours in the Abadan region between the Gendarmerie valiants and the mercenary Iraqi Ba'thists. Our combatants directed their fire across the Arvand Rud on the Iraqi positions, destroying five enemy trenches and bunkers and silencing the aggressors' fire. Our forces also halted Iraqi movement on the Basra-Al-Faw road.

Sporadic battles and exchanges of fire continued yesterday on most of the western fronts. These exchanges were more intense on the Meymak front. The able and powerful combatants of Islam, directing their fire on the enemy positions and units in those fronts, inflicted casualties and losses on the forces of Saddam and succeeded in capturing three bunkers and one mortar, destroying their occupants.

At 2000 on 9 November, Iraqi mercenaries stationed in the Sumar region were on the verge of launching an offensive to advance but were countered bravely by the combatants of Islam. The Iraqis suffered heavy losses and casualties and were stopped where they had been stationed.

The cities of Abadan and Khorramshahr yesterday were fired on by the criminal Saddam forces. In Abadan, a few houses were damaged and two civilians were injured. In Khorramshahr, in addition to some damage, a few civilians were severely injured.

Saddam's mercenary invading aircraft, violating the airspace in the country's south and western border regions, were repulsed by our air defense units and the air force's fighter aircraft and the Iraqi aggressor aircraft were driven off.

LAND 'LIBERATED,' PUMPING STATIONS CAPTURED

LD111858 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 11 Nov 82

[Text] Following the third phase of the victorious Moharram operation, the conquerors of Islam brought under their full control in the course of a series of coordinated operations yesterday morning 35 sq km of the occupied (Dashtahiyeh), strategic height No 175 and another oil pumping station, situated to the south of the Moharram operation zone, of the falling Saddamist regime.

According to frontline reports by correspondents of the Islamic Republic News Agency, the strong combatants of the army of Islam -- with the Blessings of the holy month of her holiness Zaynab, peace be upon her -- attacked the defeated enemy on the most southern axis of the Moharram operational zone in yesterday morning's battle and by chasing and pursuing the enemy forces, the combatants of the army of Islam managed to liberate 35 of the occupied (Dashtahiyeh) from the 25-month long occupation by Saddam's aggressors.

MINISTER OUTLINES TRANSPORTATION PROJECTS

GF011754 Tehran IRNA in English 1615 GMT 1 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 1, IRNA -- In an interview with the weekly magazine SORUSH, Roads and Transportation Minister Mohammad Nezhad-Hoseyniyan outlined the activities of the ministry after the Islamic revolution and its future projects.

In the interview which was published in the last two issues of the magazine, he said that during the three years after the revolution, the ministry had switched its attention to the more deprived regions, for example in Kohkiluyeh va Boyer Ahmad Province there were only some 100 kms of asphalt roads. However, he added, although the ministry's progress in these regions was gradual, it had already achieved 20 times more compared to all the years prior to the revolution.

One problem in the way of road construction work in the deprived regions was that the executive groups and their engineers were not willing to spend their time in such places, rather they were more interested in other regions where they could be more comfortable, he said.

The minister gave the following figures indicating the activities of the Roads and Transportation Ministry in road construction after the Islamic revolution:

From March 21, 1979 through March 20, 1981, more than 460 kms of freeways were under construction, 220 kms of which were completed. The ministry can build 70 to 80 kms of freeways annually.

During the same period, more than 5,700 kms of main roads were under construction, 1,830 of which were completed.

During the same period, some 20,000 kms of rural roads were under construction, about 10,000 of which were completed.

During the same period, some 12,000 by-roads were under construction, 3,400 kms of which were completed.

All of the above figures, he added, were much higher than the activities during the last three years of the regime of the shah.

Nezhad-Hoseynian said that the government was not considering employing foreign contractors for its road construction requirements. This, he said, was primarily because there were still groups of Iranians who were currently unemployed in this field. Therefore, he added, plans would centre on activating Iranians who are capable of doing road construction work and then if there were still some work left to be done foreign contractors could be employed.

Concerning the ministry's machinery and equipment, he said that currently talks were continuing with the Japanese to acquire the needed technology in order to build machinery in Iran. He said the talks were part of a ten year plan to build, not assemble, road construction machinery in the country with the cooperation of the Heavy Industries Ministry within the next ten years. For now however, he said, a group, known as the self-sufficiency Jihad, has been established in the ministry to coordinate production of needed spare parts. So far some 300 parts had been reproduced by the committed workers, he said.

Speaking about the country's present and future port facilities, Nezhad-Hoseynian said that during the next few years the total number of piers in the country would reach 71.

One of the most important projects in this field, he added, was the Martyr Rajai'e Port in Bandar 'Abbas, southern Iran in Hormozgan Province. He said that the port will have an annual capacity of 16 million tons with 15 piers, 12 of which are now temporarily in operation. The port is being built with an estimated cost of 57 billion rials (about 650 million dollars), and he said that the construction was coming along very good. He said that 50 percent of the project had so far been completed.

Concerning other port construction plans, the minister said that plans for 14 small ports were prepared and three of them had been given to foreign contractors, who are due to begin construction. Two other ports will be built by Iranian contractors.

On railroad activities, Nezhad-Hoseynian said that the railroad from Bandar 'Abbas to Bafq (in Yazd Province) was at the top of the ministry's priority list. It will be a vital source of transportation, linking south-central Iran to the north, through Yazd, Kerman, Esfahan, and Tehran. The railroad has been divided into 15 sections, nine of which are currently under construction. Three of the remaining six sections are to be constructed by the railroad company temporarily and the other three are undergoing route changes. He said that the changes were necessary since it would require a seven kms tunnel which was difficult to build and manage.

In the air transportation field, the minister said that although much effort was being done to service the aircraft by Iranians, but, he said, foreigners in Iran in the past had not properly transferred their technical know-how to them. Therefore he said there were many problems in this respect but expressed hope that some of them could be eliminated in the future when the aeronautics scientific and technical school opens this year.

[Text] According to our correspondent in Paris, the Mojahedin-e Khalq Organization [MKO] in a statement issued today has outlined recent clashes between MKO and Kurdish fighters and the guards of the regime.

According to this statement, the Kurdish peshmarga and MKO members in a number of operations carried out in the Sar Dasht region last week destroyed the revolution guards' command headquarters in the area by using RPG-7's, bombs and submachineguns. The attacks destroyed all facilities and installations of the headquarters and 20 guards were killed while dozens of others were wounded.

The statement continues: Three guards of the regime were killed in Sanandaj in clashes with Kurdish peshmarga on 11 October.

MKO's statement adds: In recent months, over 50 prisoners have escaped from jails in the western parts of the country. In one case, three mojahed girls managed to escape from Kermanshah's Dizelabad Prison with the aid of two jailers who had joined the resistance forces and the Kurdish strugglers. However, two of the girls and the two guards were arrested and shot on the spot. In a mass escape from the same jail on 15 August, 35 mojaheds and 5 guards who helped them fled. Other escapes were from jails in Iranshahr, Maragheh and Zanjan. Most of the escapes were planned according to instructions from outside the prisons.

Lebanon

Al-Jumayyil Remarks, PLO Comment -- Before leaving Saudi Arabia and returning to Lebanon, President Amin al-Jumayyil expressed profound gratitude for the Saudi Kingdom's "special" care for Lebanon and asserted that Lebanon must be saved from "the game of balanced conflicts in the region" in order to rebuild itself, SPA reported. In a commentary on Al-Jumayyil's visit to Saudi Arabia, Baghdad Voice of PLO radio said the PLO is uncertain whether any of the Saudi aid that will be offered to Al-Jumayyil's government to reconstruct Lebanon will be used to rebuild Palestinian camps shattered in the Israeli invasion. Contending that the Palestinian combatants in Lebanon are not "foreign forces" because they are neither occupation forces nor invaders but are in Lebanon to protect Palestinian civilians living there, the radio expressed apprehension that a Palestinian withdrawal from northern Lebanon and Al-Biqa' would jeopardize the security of Palestinian civilians living in those areas. The Palestinian military presence is an issue that can be solved between the Lebanese Government and the PLO immediately after an Israeli withdrawal, toward which all efforts should now be directed, the radio added.

Israeli Alternative to Security Agreement -- Senior Israeli defense officials cited by the Tel Aviv daily HA'ARETZ said that if the Lebanese Government continues to turn down the security and normalization arrangements proposed by Israel, the latter will have to withdraw unilaterally into its proposed security zone and extend the enclave ruled by Maj Sa'd Haddad's forces up to the Al-Awwali River, north of Sidon. However, the sources said there is no chance that this will occur because there is an optimistic atmosphere regarding the success of the talks with Lebanon.

Ash-Shuf Situation -- An IDF convoy moved inland from Ad-Damur into the Ash-Shuf hills, AFP reported citing eyewitnesses. Meanwhile, Lebanese radios continued to differ sharply in their interpretation of the Ash-Shuf violence. Following the clandestine Radio Free Lebanon's report that Druze gunmen killed two Christians in an ambush in Sirjbal, the clandestine Voice of Arab Lebanon radio said the deaths occurred when local inhabitants confronted Phalangist attempts to establish a center in the village.

Israeli-Egyptian Relations

After the death of 'Aliza Begin, Egyptian leaders sent Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin "very warm" condolence messages which the Israelis regard as an important gesture indicating Egypt's desire to maintain normal relations with Israel, Jerusalem radio reported. According to another report by the radio, the United States has asked Egypt to return its ambassador to Israel before Egyptian President Husni Mubarak's impending visit to the United States and also to permit the resumption of the autonomy talks, thus creating a good atmosphere for the peace process.

Egypt

The judicial authorities have decided to release 162 persons detained on charges of belonging to extremist religious organizations, according to MENA reports on 14 and 15 November.

Iran-Iraq War

Military Situation -- The Iranians launched two new offensives, one late on 15 November in the Mandali region and the other early the next morning in the Maysan sector, according to an Iraqi military spokesman's statements broadcast by Baghdad Voice of the Masses radio on 16 November. The spokesman claimed that Iraqi forces foiled both attacks, capturing Iranian personnel and equipment. The Iraqis also announced that their planes had launched new strikes at enemy targets inside Iran and denied Iranian claims to have shot down two Iraqi planes, according to INA reports.

Confirming the new offensives, IRNA said the Iranians killed or captured some 500 Iraqis and occupied strategic heights 13 km inside Iraq's Maysan area southwest of the Abu Gharib outpost.

Saddam Husayn Comments -- At a military awards ceremony in Baghdad, Iraqi President Saddam Husayn stressed the importance of training in preparing the Iraqi Army for a long war, INA revealed. The president added that a long war requires additional army formations, particularly since the war has become a defensive one for Iraq.

Iran

During operations on 14-15 November, government troops secured 97 km of the Sar Dasht-Piranshahr border road from the "counterrevolutionaries" in Kordestan and captured four command centers and one radio station belonging to the Kurdish Democratic Party, Tehran radio reported. Iran's prosecutor general told IRNA that terrorism has been virtually eliminated both in Tehran and in the provincial cities.

Moscow Talks

General Secretary of the CPSU Central Committee Yuriy Andropov met with DRA President Babrak Karmal in Moscow on 15 November, TASS reported. They discussed the international situation as well as bilateral relations and expressed "deep satisfaction" with existing relations, TASS added. Andropov also met with Pakistani President Mohammad Ziaul Haq, Karachi radio reported. Citing a TASS report, the radio said the two leaders briefly discussed Afghanistan.

Gulf Affairs

Oman-PDRY Agreement -- The text of the Oman-PDRY agreement, broadcast by Salalah radio, states that the two countries agreed to establish normal relations based on mutual respect, to solve their differences by peaceful means, to find a durable solution to the border issue, to not allow any foreign forces to use their territories for aggression or provocation against the other country and to stop all media campaigns. They also agreed in principle to establish diplomatic relations. Both sides agreed to ratify the agreement on 15 November, the document said.

Olszowski Visits Kuwait -- In a news conference in Kuwait following his meeting with the Kuwaiti amir and other Kuwaiti officials, Polish Foreign Minister Stefan Olszowski praised Kuwait's domestic and foreign policies and said that he was very impressed with the positive ideas expressed during the meetings. Olszowski affirmed Poland's support for Arab causes, particularly the Palestinian cause, KUNA added. Kuwait and Poland signed an educational cooperation agreement, another KUNA report noted.

KARMAL: WE INVITE OUR NEIGHBORS TO PEACE

LD142200 Kabul Domestic Service in Dari 1600 GMT 12 Nov 82

[Babrak Karmal speech to the international conference on socioeconomic development and threat of war on 12 November in Kabul -- recorded]

[Excerpts] Dear comrades, friends and esteemed guests: We have come together, with our hearts full of love and kindness, to think about the destiny and future of mankind. However, we are filled with profound sorrow. One of the best men of our century, the true continuer of the path of Lenin, the fighter and hero of the path of peace and security of the masses, the kind and indefatigable servant of the path of humanity's prosperity, L.I. Brezhnev is no longer among us. The great name of L.I. Brezhnev will remain alive and eternal in the hearts of the workers and of all progressive and peace-loving forces of the world.

The death of L.I. Brezhnev is a great loss for progressive mankind and for the world peace movement. The people of Afghanistan have lost one of their best and dearest friends in L.I. Brezhnev. The grateful people of Afghanistan will never forget the dear memory of L.I. Brezhnev who played an important role in strengthening and expanding the great fraternal friendship between the people of Afghanistan and the Soviet Union. Leonid Ilich consistently and personally did not spare any supervision or effort in helping the people of Afghanistan. The dear memory of our beloved Leonid Ilich, this eternal torch, will live forever.

Let us once again express the profound sorrow and condolence of the people, party and Government of Afghanistan and myself to the CPSU, the people and the Government of the Soviet Union, and to the family of that dear friend of the Afghan people. To honor the noble memory of L.I. Brezhnev, I ask everyone to stand and observe 1 minute of silence.

We are fully aware that as a result of the adventurous policies of the warmongering imperialist circles, especially the adventurous Reagan administration, the world is heading toward tension and destructive adventures.

A ruthless undeclared war by imperialism, Chinese hegemonism and reaction in the region has been waged against our people. Counterrevolutionary bands and professional mercenaries sent from outside with U.S., Chinese, Egyptian, Pakistani and other weapons, are destroying schools, hospitals, bridges, mosques, electrical lines and means of transportation. They ruthlessly kill our children, women and old people and, according to themselves, are defeating our revolution. However, our people believe every day in the truth and inevitable victory of our revolution and are standing in its defense.

Right now, tens of thousands of our people, especially the peasants, arms in hand, are defending their land and their lives against the aggressions of the bandits. Today, we need peace more than ever. The enemies of our revolution, using as a pretext the lawful and fraternal assistance of the Soviet Union, have waged a ruthless and bloody war against us. On the other hand, to justify their crimes they have intensified their propaganda against us, raising an unprecedented hue and cry reminiscent of the worst period of the cold war.

Right now, the official press of imperialist and reactionary countries carry progaganda full of slander and lies about the truths and realities of our society. The aim is to create grudges and hatred against our awakened people and revolution. Every 24 hours, the enemy radios carry more than 95 hours of broadcasts in our country's languages. The Voice of America, BBC and Deutsche Welle, Radio Israel and the worthless Radio Pakistan all pursue one objective -- to distort the truth, legitmacy and credibility of our revolution.

In our country, despite the continuation of the undeclared war of imperialism, an economic situation exists that is able to resist all the destruction of this ruthless war.

We have managed to prevent famine, intolerable price increases of essential commodities, stagnation of transportation and a significant decrease in social services. Right now, we are in the process of implementing huge economic activities, of which the following can be mentioned: completion of the process of land and water reform acceleration of the (?construction) of Salma electricity and irrigation dam in Herst Province, continuation of the work of Aynak copper mine, the construction of a huge silo in Mazar-e Sharif, electricity transmission project from the borders of the Soviet Union to Kabul, construction of small and large irrigation systems, creation of new and modern state transportation enterprises and technical workshops, construction of the huge friendship bridge over the Amu River between the Soviet Union and Afghanistan, installation of the Shamshad communication and television receiving system, creation of various kinds of peasant cooperatives and [word indistinct], construction of more than 800 schools and others.

One of the main objectives of the undeclared war against our country is the creation of obstacles in the path of development plans for the workers' prosperity and, as a result, to discredit our revolution as not able to solve the important problems. So far, 1,713 schools and tens of hospitals have been destroyed by the counterrevolution. Hundreds of bridges, hundreds of large electrical transmission poles, tens of libraries and public buildings have been destroyed by counterrevolutionary elements. So far, thousands of teachers, doctors, specialists and noble clergymen have been martyred by the terrorist bands. Counterrevolutionaries, just like bandits, create obstacles in transportation and are disrupting the people's daily life.

Our country's peasants have been forced to form armed revolution defense groups all over the country to defend their land, work and families. Our people are tired of the war and the plundering activity of counterrevolutionaries. Today, more than ever, for our people the struggle for peace means the sturggle for life, security and progress. Our people know from their daily experiences that peace is a valuable [word indistinct], which can be achieved only by unity of action, resolute struggle and by using noble principles. For our people, peace means struggle and struggle means peace.

The PDPA and the DRA Government, relying on the will of the people and honestly serving their interests, reflect their wishes and desires, and have always proposed specific plans for international and national peace based on practical realities acceptable for all [words indistinct].

We long ago announced to all our compatriots that we want peace and we want to put an end to the painful situation arising from the undeclared war of imperialism. To this end, we have not spared proper actions including the announcement of general amnesty, even for those engaged in hostile armed activities against their revolutionary government.

We have tried several times to convince our neighbors, especially Pakistan and Iran, that their unlawful intervention, instigations and aggressions against our country are neither in the interests of the people of the region nor in the interest of peace in the world. We clearly and punctually have put forward specific proposals for the solution of the problems of the current situation in our region. However, no answer has been given to this our honest will. We believe the initiative of [word indistinct] for maintaining peace in the region is in our hands.

You, militants of the path of peace, very well know the propaganda of imperialism and other enemy forces against our revolution and country. They (?distort) the legitimate and unavoidable [as heard] internationalist assistance of the Soviet Union to our country. We once again with loud voice announce from this international dais, that the limited contingents of the Soviet Union that came to the aid of our people in the most difficult moments of our history, at the invitation of the lawful and [words indistinct] authorities of our party and government to repel the planned external aggression against revolution, are not a source of danger to our neighbors. However, they have prevented Afghanistan from becoming a base of imperialist (?aggression against) the people of our region. We owe our independence, national sovereignty and territorial integrity against the adventurous plans of U.S. imperialism to the heroic people of the land of the Great October Socialist Revolution.

We once again stress that, based on our specific proposals dated 14 May 1980 and 24 August 1981 that when credible international guarantees are given for an end to aggression and intervention from Pakistan and Iran against our country, the limited military contingents of the Soviet Union will return to their peaceful country, and we are prepared to arrange the schedule for their return.

It is obvious that, from our point of view, an end to the [word indistinct] present situation in the region has an unbreakable relation with the end of aggression from the territories of Pakistan and Iran against our country. I should add that we have more than 2,400 km of [words indistinct] borders, that is, mountains, with Pakistan which makes [words indistinct] for the aggressions of foreigners against our country.

We hope that our southern and western neighbors carefully will listen to the loud call for peace which rises from our country in this conference. We once again [words indistinct] are calling for solutions to the problems of our people. We invite our neighbors to peace. You representatives of peace should also call on them for an end to aggression, hostilities and interventions in our country.

NO CLEAR WINNER SEEN IN NAGALAND ELECTIONS

BK131609 Delhi Domestic Service in English 1530 GMT 13 Nov 82

[Text] In Nagaland, no party has emerged with an absolute majority in the election to the 60 member state assembly. With 59 results officially declared so far, the ruling Naga National Democratic Party [NNDP] has secured 24 seats. The Congress-I which contested for the first time in all the constituencies, has bagged 23 seats. A dozen independents have been elected this time. Only one result is yet to be announced from the Wakching constituency, where the counting has not been taken up following some discrepancy in the ballot papers in one of the polling booths.

Our special correspondent Prabhakar Misra reports from Kohima that the large number of independent candidates who have been elected will hold the key in the formation of the new ministry. He says the return of such a large number of independents is nothing unusual. In the assembly elections of 1974 and 1977 also several independents were elected, but they joined oneparty or the other later. There are 20 new faces among the winners.

Meanwhile, both the NNDP and the Congress-I have claimed that they can form the ministry with the support of independents.

[Text] In His exalted name. We inform the dear compatriots about the latest developments on the battlefronts of the imposed war.

Sporadic fighting and exchanges of fire continued on all the country's western fronts throughout yesterday.

The exchange of fire continued yesterday in the Arvand Rud area between the powerful forces of Islam and the enemy. As a result, our forces' fire set on fire and destroyed more than eight foxholes and trenches of the blasphemous forces of Saddam; several enemy personnel were killed or wounded.

Abadan and Khorramshahr again yesterday came under fire from the artillery and other heavy weapons of the criminal mercenaries of Saddam, which in addition to killing or wounding several of our dear compatriots, destroyed four houses and stores.

IRNA: COUNTERREVOLUTIONARIES COMPLETELY PURGED

GF151758 Tehran IRNA in English 1650 GMT 15 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 15, IRNA -- The Islamic combatants inflicted another crushing defeat on the American mercenaries in western Iran this morning when they completely purged the Piranshahr-Sar Dasht axis, in the border region of East Azarbayjan Province, of counterrevolutionary armed elements.

In an announcement issued tonight, the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps (IRGC) reported that all of the 97 km border road was liberated thus linking the territories of the Islamic Republic of Iran for the first time since the victory of the Islamic revolution.

It said that the final purging operations of the axis began last night and continued until it was achieved in the early hours of this morning.

Other results of the operation, named after the commander of the Kordestan branch of the IRGC Naser Kazemi, who was martyred recently, are as follows:

- The capture of the command centres of the outlawed Kurdish Democratic Party (KDP) in the Alwatan, Hang Adab, Wavan, and Mirabad and also the capture of the KDP radio station.

- The destruction of the base of the Monafiquin [hypocrites] (MKO) terrorist group in Chaku and blocking their supply route from Iraq.

CHIEF JUSTICE QUESTIONED ON POLITICAL PRISONERS

LD122358 Tehran IRNA in English 2027 GMT 12 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 12 IRNA -- Chief Justice Ayatollah Musavi-Ardabili held a press conference here Thursday, in the course of which he replied to a number of questions put forth by Iranian and foreign reporters.

At the beginning of the press interview, the ayatollah stated that the philosophy behind the Islamic revolution in Iran was that the Iranian nation had been fed up with the former regime's tyrannies, discriminations and unjustices. Consequently, said the chief justice, they launched a movement to get rid of these discriminations and to establish justice, ethics and virtue.

Nonetheless, Ayatollah Ardabili continued his remarks, there is a feeling that the world has not understood the Iranian revolution as it is. In other words, pointed out the chief justice, the true face of the Islamic revolution is still unknown to some of the countries of the world.

"They speak on our behalf and bring allegations against us which have no basis and source," said the chief justice, further adding that their only source may be counterrevolutionaries and fugitives (attached to the former regime).

In conclusion of his introductory speech, the chief justice expressed the hope that the situation would gradually improve so that "they would know us better".

The press interview commenced with a question put forth by a foreign reporter on trial of counterrevolutionaries, in reply to which the chief justice stated that the trials were held in keeping with the existing rules and criteria.

The accused according to Ayatollah Ardabili has the right to defend himself and have a lawyer, further saying that the court is relatively open to the public and that after the punishment is determined, the verdict will be carried out.

Asked about the number of "political prisoners" in Iran, the chief justice said the Islamic Republic did not hold political prisoners. He further added that it was better to ask whether the Islamic Republic imprisoned or punished a person who did not commit any offenses. Further commenting on the death penalty said he, it should be said that all the efforts of judicial officials was in the direction not to sentence to death any person unless he had been found guilty for a crime punishable with death.

Ayatollah Musavi-Ardabili also said that the judicial department of the army was delegated to conduct military tribunals according to specific regulations and principles.

The chief justice responding to another question said that he was not presented as candidate in the upcoming election for the experts assembly, but if the people themselves nominated him as candidate he would accept.

Talking about the return of Iranians from other countries, Ayatollah Musavi-Ardabili said that if these people had not committed any crimes they could return to their country and be sure that they would enjoy security.

The chief justice said that the judicial organisations had been Islamised as approved of by the Majlis.

Elaborating on the difference between the Western and Islamic judicial systems, he said that the Islamic judicial system was a combination of codified and non-codified systems Some part is based on non-codified system, that is, on common law and culture, he said. Previously, Iran's judicial laws were codified but Islam was a combination of these two systems.

OFFICIAL SAYS TERRORISM 'ALMOST ROOTED OUT'

GF151802 Tehran IRNA in English 1640 GMT 15 NOV 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov. 15, IRNA -- The prosecutor general of the Islamic revolution, Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Tabrizi said today that terrorism had been almost rooted out in provincial cities and in Tehran, further saying except for a few cases since Sept. 23, counterrevolutionaries had not committed any significant crimes.

Speaking in a press conference attended by domestic and foreign reporters, the prosecutor general added that this indicated that these groups were scattered.

Talking about the bomb explosion at Tehran's downtown Naser-Khosrow Street (on Oct. 1st in which over 80 innocent people were martyred and more than 700 others injured), Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Tabrizi said that as documents showed, they were almost sure that it was carried out by Mojahedin-e Khalq (MKO) aimed at damaging the country's communication system, which they failed. It is to be mentioned that the communication building is located near the scene of the explosion.

He further stated that over 1.5 million dollars of smuggled foreign exchange had been discovered and seized by revolutionary courts since March 21, 1982. The revolutionary court of the armed forces, added he, has also seized a greater amount.

The prosecutor general then praised the campaign of the court against prohibitions from sins and those by the anti-narcotics court adding that their activities were very successful.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Musavi-Tabrizi also confirmed his nomination for the elections of the experts assembly (to be held on Dec. 10. The elected members will appoint a council of leadership).

ESFAHAN GUARDS BREAK UP FEDA'IYAN-E KHALQ GROUP

LD131806 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1630 GMT 13 Nov 82

[Excerpts] The Central News Unit reports a statement from the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, announcing that following the round-the-clock efforts of the Esfahan Islamic revolution guards, with the cooperation of the 36 million members of the intelligence organization, a deadly blow was dealt to the Feda'iyan-e Khalq guerrillas, the minority branch. Also in this operation, several corrupt safe houses and team houses were discovered and taken by the brothers of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, who discovered and confiscated a quantity of arms and ammunition, printing and [word indistinct] facilities, including several printing and copying machines, photocopiers, typewriters, a large number of books on Marxism, organizational documents, foreign and internal publications by the minority branch and several cars and motorcycles. With this blow, all conspiracies of this group in factories, including the Esfahan steel mill, were foiled.

ESFAHAN FRIDAY IMAM ON MARTYRS' FUNERAL

GF151830 Esfahan Domestic Service in Persian 1530 GMT 15 Nov 82

[Ayatollah Taheri, Esfahan Friday imam, message issued 15 November in Esfahan -- recorded]

[Excerpts] Greetings to the (?holy saint) lord of the ages, may my soul be sacrificed for him. Greetings to his dear deputy, the great leader of the revolution, the protector of the oppressed and the commander in chief of the armed forces, the imam of umma', may my soul be sacrificed for him.

The issue about which I need to inform the families of martyrs deals with the ceremonies scheduled for tomorrow. There will be around 300 martyrs according to my information. The golestan-e shohada [martyrs' cemetery] currently has room for only 100 martyrs. Therefore 200 martyrs have no place in golestan-e shohada. However, there is a plan to expand the golestan which has been discussed in numerous sessions chaired by us and participated in by revolution organizations. It already has gone into effect. Houses bordering the golestan and a shrine behind it have been purchased and houses are being built for the people of these houses. When these purchased houses are removed, the land will be used by golestan-e shohada.

I ask you, since you have shown such sacrifices and willingly sent your dear ones to the fronts where they lovingly drank the elixir of martyrdom for their holy goals and Islamic aims, thus achieving the presence of God, not to do anything to cause their holy spirits to become unhappy with us. So please let there be no argument about any burial. Let no one say anything about the place of burial. There is no difference. I tell you right now and you will witness this in the very near future. There will be an extension to the golestan-e shohada and the location does not matter. We cannot create land and the current land according to the report cannot hold more than 100 martyrs. So please sacrifice in this instance as well, show your patience and poise and do what will please the souls of your martyrs.

IRNA REFUTES FORMER EMPLOYEE'S STATEMENT

GF131727 Tehran IRNA in English 1635 GMT 13 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 13, IRNA -- A former employee at IRNA's telex-repair and transmission office has reportedly been given asylum in Britain. Daud Parvisian who was charged with misappropriation of IRNA's funds before his escape from the country, was well-known among his colleagues for his bankrupt political views on the events in Iran, before and after the Islamic revolution, and he was characterised by them as an overambitious and materialistic person.

Parvisian was an engineer and unqualified to make statements on the accurate news writing and reporting procedure at IRNA. The allegations attributed to him clearly indicate this lack of knowledge. A simple comparison of IRNA's accurate news concerning the Iraqi imposed war, for example is proof of IRNA's consistent line of factual reporting.

This fact is even admitted by the foreign news organizations every once in a while. In addition, allegations that IRNA deliberately prevented the reporting of a terrorist attack on its building a few months ago is another lie since the incident was covered by IRNA and reported in Tehran's dailies, despite the fact that it was not a significant event.

Five months ago he went on a mission to Japan, and if he was so desperate to leave the Islamic Republic as mentioned by the imperialist mass media reports, he could have easily made his escape through Japan.

His strong material tendencies have led him to join hands with the colonialists and terrorists outside the country, although the propaganda mileages Western media will exploit from this fugitive is meagre.

Moreover the important point in this whole event is that the terrorists outside Iran have become so weak politically, that they now have to rely on such insignificant and weak persons such as Parvizian to swell their banks. [as received]

NVOI COMMENTARY VIEWS BREZHNEV'S DEATH, LIFE

TA121654 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 11 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary]

[Text] Attention, dear compatriots: As the world press and mass media have reported, Mr Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist Party and chairman of the USSR Supreme Soviet, passed away unexpectedly on Wednesday, 10 November at 0900 Tehran time.

Mr Brezhnev who was born in a worker's family is one of the great international figures, who devoted his entire life to promoting world-encompassing, theoretical socialism, consolidating the link of solidarity of nations, maintaining peace and constructive international cooperation, unstinting support for progressive and national movements and struggle against imperialism's aggressive plots. Mr Brezhnev's biography is full of untiring and creative work, originality and decisiveness, sincerity and good intentions. Whether at the front of work, the front of war against fascism, or during the post-war era, he exerted his utmost power to revive the country's economy, to improve further the living standard of the Soviet people and to aid all liberated and subjugated nations.

Our nation through experience and during the peak of its glorious revolution clearly observed how the late Brezhnev, by warning America not to interfere in our homeland's internal affairs, decisively and consistently supported our nation's glorious revolution against the plots of world-devouring America.

Brezhnev was the faithful son of the Soviet people, sincere supporter of the world's toilers, true backer of peace and irreconcilable foe of war and imperialist aggression. The memory of this great figure will live forever in the minds and hearts of nations and all the world's toilers.

Lebanon

U.S.-Israeli-Lebanese Contacts -- After a 17 November meeting in Jerusalem between U.S. Assistant Secretary for Near Eastern Affairs Morris Draper and Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhaq Shamir, sources close to the talks disclosed that problems concerning the delegations and agenda for the proposed Israeli-Lebanese talks have not yet been resolved, Jerusalem radio reported. Earlier, the radio revealed that Israel and Lebanon have recently resumed direct contacts; Israel's Foreign Ministry Director General David Kimche met secretly in Beirut with one of President Amin al-Jumayyil's close advisers.

Israeli Withdrawal Conditions -- Israel and Lebanon must sign a written agreement on security arrangements between the two countries, Israeli Defense Minister Ari'el Sharon told the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee in remarks reported by Jerusalem radio. Under Israel's proposed arrangements, the first stage will be the withdrawal from Lebanon of all the 7,000 "terrorists," along with their offices, Sharon said. In the second stage, the Syrians will withdraw their forces from the Lebanese mountains to the Al-Biqa' Valley and be replaced by a multinational force. Only then will the IDF withdraw to a line 45 km from Israel's northern border, Sharon emphasized, and this will not take place before Israeli prisoners and bodies of Israeli dead are returned. The IDF will then hold the 45-km line until the security arrangements with Lebanon are signed. These arrangements will provide for a Lebanese Army presence in the south, a ban on the deployment of artillery in the area, and joint supervision by the Lebanese Army and the IDF, Sharon stated.

While Sharon described the second stage as the evacuation of foreign forces, he reportedly did not mention a Syrian evacuation of the Al-Biqa' Valley. In another development concerning Israel's attitude toward the Syrian presence, Israeli Deputy Foreign Minister Yehuda Ben-Me'ir announced in New York that Israel is now ready for a disengagement of forces with Syria before talks begin with the Lebanese Government, Jerusalem radio reported. Such a disengagement would permit the Lebanese Army to enter the zone between the IDF and the Syrians, he said.

Al-Wazzan on Syrians, Palestinians -- The Syrian and Palestinian presence in Al-Biqa' and the north is not in itself a problem because contacts with these parties make the Lebanese Government confident that a Syrian and Palestinian withdrawal will occur at the "appropriate time" and that nobody will give Israel a pretext to continue its occupation, Prime Minister Shafiq al-Wazzan stated in remarks reported by Beirut radio. During their recent official talks, the Saudi and Lebanese leaders held identical views on the question of withdrawals and on the Syrian and Palestinian presence, Al-Wazzan affirmed.

Security Situation -- After an Israeli force was ambushed by RPG fire south of Beirut, the Israelis returned fire and killed one "terrorist," the IDF spokesman announced in a statement reported by IDF radio. The IDF unit sustained no casualties. Later in the day, Israeli forces entered the Ash-Shuf town of 'Alayh and imposed a curfew in an attempt to halt renewed fighting between Phalangist and Druze militias, Jerusalem radio reported. ITIM said the fighting stopped following IDF contacts with both sides.

Israel on Tyre Disaster -- Following the collection of all available evidence on the explosion at Israel's military building in Tyre, the Israelis have concluded that no bomb exploded in or beside the building and that the disaster was caused by a gas leak, Jerusalem radio reported.

West Bank

Israel's Acting West Bank Civilian Administration Chief Col Yig'al Karmon has told Israeli governors in the area that West Bank notables sympathetic to Jordan should be "neutralized to the maximum and brought to great dependence on the civilian administration," the Tel Aviv daily HA'ARETZ reported. However, Jerusalem radio subsequently asserted that these directives are invalid since they were not approved by other appropriate authorities, including Defense Minister Sharon.

PLO

Damascus Meeting -- The Palestinian Central Council will meet in Damascus on 19 November, Aden Voice of Palestine radio reported. The radio added that this meeting will be important because of the current situation in Palestinian affairs.

PNC Meeting Postponed -- The Palestine National Council (PNC) meeting has been postponed for a short time in order to allow all PNC members to attend, Baghdad Voice of PLO stated. It added that some Palestinians are being prevented from leaving Israel to attend the meeting.

Inter-Arab Affairs

Jordan's King Husayn, the head of the Arab League delegation currently in France, met with French President Francois Mitterrand to explain the Fes summit's peace plan, AFP reported. King Husayn described the meeting as "very encouraging and useful" and said that there were more points of agreement than disagreement between the French and Arab positions, AFP added. On the issue of mutual recognition between the Arab states and Israel, a spokesman for President Mitterrand said the French side had stressed the necessity for mutual recognition, a goal which King Husayn said he believes can be reached once all parties definitely embark on the path for a just and lasting peace in the Middle East, AFP added.

King Husayn discussed the outcome of his meeting with the French president in separate meetings with the other delegates of the seven-member committee, Amman radio reported. During his meeting with the Syrian foreign minister, he discussed Syrian-Jordanian relations as well as the committee's mission, the radio revealed.

Iran-Iraq War

Iraqi forces completely defeated Iranian offensives in both the Mandali and Maysan areas; following fierce clashes, almost 4,000 Iranians were killed in both theaters, a military communique broadcast by Baghdad radio reported. The communique added that the Iraqi Air Force suffered no losses in any of the combat missions flown in either area. A military communique broadcast by Tehran radio claimed that Iranian forces control the heights in the Mandali area and that one group of Iranian troops entered the town of Mandali, dealt "heavy blows" and returned to their new strategic positions. Some 650 Iraqis were killed or wounded in the other offensive launched by Iran, Tehran radio reported.

Afghanistan

Western diplomatic sources in Islamabad cited by AFP spoke of a "dramatic increase" in resistance activity in Kabul last week with bombs killing more than 20 people in 3 restaurants and a rising number of shootings. The report also said some of the bodies removed from the Salang Pass tunnel disaster were riddled with bullets. This follows earlier resistance claims that mujahidin had mined the tunnel, AFP noted.

AFP ON KABUL EXPLOSIONS, SALANG TUNNEL VICTIMS

BK161501 Hong Kong AFP in English 1448 GMT 16 Nov 82

[Text] Islamabad, Nov. 16 (AFP) -- More than 20 persons were reportedly killed in bomb explosions in three restaurants in the center of Kabul last week in what Western diplomatic sources here said was a "dramatic increase of resistance activity" in the Afghan capital.

Shooting throughout much of the city has occurred every night for the past week, the sources said, as assassinations of persons favorable to the Soviet-backed Kabul regime have risen. Heavy artillery exchanges have been reported in the Deh-Zab suburb near the airport.

The sources said that near Paghman, some 20 kms (12 miles)north of Kabul, mujahedin Islamic resistance fighters have stepped up their pressure on Soviet-Afghan forward positions established after last month's Soviet aerial bombardments.

In three months of fighting, they added, resistance forces shot down five Soviet helicopters and over the past few days Soviet authorities have sent MiG jets to bomb suspected rebel positions.

One Western diplomatic source, citing reports from doctors in Kabul, yesterday confirmed that some of the bodies removed from the Salang Pass tunnel, where hundreds of Soviet troops and Afghan civilians were said to have perished on October 30, were riddled with bullets. Diplomats have theorized that Soviet troops may have opened fire on the Afghans inside the tunnel believing them to be members of the resistance. But they continue to attribute the catastrophe, in which 400 Soviet soldiers and up to 800 Afghan civilians may have died, to suffocation after the Soviet authorities reportedly sealed off both ends of the tunnel following a collision between the lead vehicle in a Soviet convoy and an oil tanker.

A spokesman for the Afghan Islamic fundamentalist party, Hezbi Islami, last Wednesday claimed that mines placed in the tunnel by mujahedin fighters had exploded beneath the convoy.

Meanwhile diplomatic sources here said bombs went off 45-minutes apart during the afternoon of November 11 in three restaurants in the Share-Nau commercial district of Kabul frequented by police, soldiers and officials sympathetic to the regime of Babrak Karmal.

The most reliable estimates, sources said, put the number of dead at more than 20, although rumors attributed to resistance circles spoke of 60 to 80 fatalities.

Reports from witnesses, cited by Western diplomats here, said two military ambulances took away 15 corpses from the nightclub "Club 9," apparently the scene of the most deadly explosion.

Other accounts, diplomats said, suggested that the bombs had been planted by partisans of the Khalq faction of the Afghan Communist Party. The party is dominated by the Parchan group of President Karmal.

A second bomb was reportedly discovered in one of the restaurants but was defused by the Afghan Army.

Three days prior to the explosions, sources added, six members of the secret police were killed in Kabul by a group of mujahedin fighters, while the day before a former government official, Ahmad Nur Daliay, and his son were shot dead in broad daylight on Karte Parwan Street in the northwestern part of the capital. The assassin escaped after reportedly shooting three policemen who tried to arrest him.

They said that in all 10,000 Afghans had applied for permission to perform haj but only 4,206 had been allowed. They said that they had to take shelter in Pakistan due to the anti-Islam policies of the Kabul regime and the atrocities being committed on the innocent Afghan people.

DIVISIONS AMONG RESISTANCE GROUPS REPORTED

PM041643 Paris LE MONDE in French 4 Nov 82 p 7

[Jean-Pierre Pellerin report]

[Text] It was 0500 hours. Dozens of aircraft and helicopters took off punctually at dawn from Bagram Airport (60 km north of Kabul) to bomb and machinegun the Panjsher Valley, around 10 minutes flying time away. That had happened every day for 1 month.

In the neighboring moutains, at Kuh-e Safi, from which it is possible to see the base's military installations with the naked eye, the Muslim resistance fighters replied punctually like an echo. Light and sometimes heavy weapons were fired near several villages. However, the Soviet forces and the government soldiers had no reason to worry. For, although the battle was raging over Kuh-e Safi, it was, in fact, only between rival Muslim gorups.

Hounded from the mountains a year ago after very fierce fighting in which dozens of people were killed (possibly more than 200), Gulbuddin Hikmatyar's fundamentalist Hezb-e Eslami (Islamic Party) is back. Its objective is to recapture the villages over which it lost control to other fundamentalist movements in the region: the Jami'at-e Eslami (Islamic Soci-ty), the Harakat-e Enqelabi Eslami (Islamic Revolutionary Movement), and Yunis Khalis' Hezb-e Eslami, all temporarily united to face the aggressor. This battle to win back or defend an important strategic zone is mixed up with obscure problems of irrigation and water distribution, causing opposition among villages.

Even at the height of the Soviet offensive in September against the Panjsher Valley, 3 days' march away, the Muslim fighters continued to clash. Hence, it became difficult for weapons convoys to cross the Kuh-e Safi, which is also a major route for the mojahidin coming from Pakistan on their way to northern Afghanistan.

Some caravans remained blocked for several days. Moreover, some had some of their munitions seized as ransom. For instance, there was a small Jami'at-e Eslami caravan whose destination was the (Andarap) Valley, a region militarily attached to the Panjsher, and whose escort nearly had their weapons confiscated on the pretext that they might fall into enemy hands and were then forced to fight the Hezb-e Eslami. A full-scale attack by that party on the village where they had taken refuge subsequently forced them to flee, abandoning most of their load, namely 14 antitank mines.

Neither the Soviets nor the Afghan Government forces intervened throughout the fighting. The fighting sometimes took place less than 20 km as the crow flies from the Bagram base and sometimes even on open ground. The communist troops are clearly not interested in Kuh-e Safi.

The villages live fairly comfortably. Few dwellings have been destroyed and that contrasts, for instance, with the entrance to the (Boulakheil) Valley, a day's march away, where, owing to the bombings, the first villages you cross are now heaps of ruins.

Similarly, on the other side of the (Chamali) Plain -- it is enclosed between the two mountains -- on a level with the Bagram base, the resistance fighters' activity is obvious. By 0530 hours, the Soviet MiG-21's, MiG-27's and helicopters had started to pound the mojahidin positions. The bombings lasted several hours and were repeated during the week.

The Kuh-e Safi resistance fighters, however, seemed more concerned with their war against the Hezbe-e Eslami than with fighting the communist adversary. "That party went so far as to strike the women in one village; even the Soviets had not gone that far," a local Jami'at-e Eslami member said, thus suggesting that Hikmatyar's Muslim supporters are worse than the atheist Red Army soldiers.

Moreover, the mojahidin could talk endlessly about the brutal acts committed by the Hezb-e Eslami, particularly against prisoners. However, such brutal acts are not limited to that party. "One day we beat the inhabitants of that place because they had shelterd Hezbe-e Eslami people," a Jami'at-e Eslami member said, pointing to a village on the Kuh-e Safi road.

In Kuh-e Safi itself, almost 3 years after the Soviet invasion, the resistance doesn't seem to have made progress either as regards efficiency or, moreover, solidarity. And the reason the regional party leaders loudly maintain they are united in battle is because the Hezb-e Eslami's presence makes it necessary for them to do so.

Indeed, the local resistance leaders, like Major (Aref) of the Jami'at-e Eslami, or Major (Soltan) of the Hezb-e Eslami -- Khalis dissident faction -- seem more concerned to rule their villages and to mobilize for Badal, or, Afghan vendetta, affairs, than to organize attacks on the Soviets.

On the other hand, inter-mojahidin battles can mobilize hundreds of fighters who do not stint on munitions for the occasion.

That obstinacy in struggling at all costs against the Hezb-e Eslami's return to the region is a practical contradiction of the alliance concluded in Perhawar by the fundamentalist movements, among which Gulbuddin Hikmatyar's party has a prominent place. In the field, especially, in the regions approached on the Panjsher road -- the regions of Paktia, Nangarhar, Kabul, Japisa and Parwan -- relations still seem to be fairly tense between the Hezb-e Eslami and the other movements united in the alliance.

For instance, a convoy from (Harakat) could well stop in a village held by the Jami'at-e Eslami, Khalis' Hezbe-e Eslami or a so-called moderate party. It will even be offered the chance to rest in the mosque. However, it could not venture into a place held by Hikmatyar's supporters.

The Hezb-e Eslami is the bete noire of the Afghan resistance, especially since a circular signed by its leader recently was distributed, ordering that party's military chiefs not to help other parties in case of Soviet attack in the regions where the party is in minority.

It was also the Hezb-e Eslami's sectarianism which, according to various sources, prompted a section of the forces of (Sama), a small party which claims to be nationalist, democratic and secular and has its main presence in urban areas, in (Kouhdaman) (Kabul Province) and in Nimruz (southern Afghanistan), to make the destruction of Hikmatyar's supporters an absolute priority, even taking precedence over the struggle against the Soviets. (Sama) underground fighters operating around Kabul, near Kalahan, apparently are even receiving weapons from the government forces to do that.

Faced with that storm of protest against it, the Hezbe-Eslami seems to be losing influence. [apparent line drop] That party won back the villages from which it had been ousted. And, according to inhabitants in the region, it "won" a village. In addition, young mojahidin from several other places who had taken up arms against it were forced to flee in fear of reprisals.

On the (Chamali) Plain between Kabul and the Salang Pass, famous in the region [apparent line drop] from the mountains shamed the local resistance leaders, here, the two Jami'at-e Eslami leaders we met were not local potentates, concerned about their privileges, but real warriors who draw prestige and authority from their worth in battle.

One of them, Major (Sher), who is one of the most famous leaders in the region, is only 25 years old. His men, some of whom are much older, seem to feel almost veneration for him.

Here, guerrilla warfare takes on special forms because of the much more pastoral nature of the land. Walls and drystone barriers separate the fields and many villages everywhere. The interweaving paths and rivers, the dispersed rural houses, the virtually complete absence of roads mean that the region is difficult for the Soviets to control. Moreover, the latter rarely venture into it.

That September morning, in the village of B...the inhabitants brought back the bodies of a woman and a little girl, fatally wounded by a Soviet soldier because they had taken a forbidden path a few hours previously. "The villagers," a peasant said, "do not want to use the routes imposed by the Soviets because they search them and steal all their valuables. They prefer to take the other path. Then the communists shoot at them."

Two French doctors from International Medical Aid, who were passing through the village made every effort to save the little girl, in vain. In addition to the child's father, a dozen people watched her death throes in the farmyard with impassive faces....

In the (Chamali) region, guerrilla warfare is now part of the daily work. It has become part of everyday life. After an operation, the resistance fighter returns to his farm and his family. He hangs his Kalashnikov rifle and his bullet belt on the wall and then helps his parents with their work. For his part, the local doctor -- in fact it is often an inadequately trained nurse -- goes from village to village seeing to the wounded.

The tearooms are open everywhere as are the stores, which are reasonably supplied with many different consumer products

In the street, tailors and barbers are at work. An average of four times a day, in the morning, at noon and in early and late afternoon, the sky is filled with aircraft and helicopters leaving for bombing missions or returning to Bagram. At night, the arms convoys which cross the (Chamali) region pass alongside the base to avoid too long a detour. However, they make that detour when they approach a village held by the Hezb-e-Eslami, which has a presence in that region too. The problem posed by that party still exists in the (Chamali) region also.

ZIAUL HAQ RETURNS FROM USSR, DESCRIBES TALKS

BK161808 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 16 Nov 82

[Text] President Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq has described his talks in Moscow with the Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Yuriy Andropov as very productive and useful. He was talking to newsmen at the Islamabad airport tonight on his return home after attending the state funeral of the late Soviet President Brezhnev.

The president said his exchange of views with Andropov would serve a very useful purpose. He told the questioner that while discussing Afghanistan, he impressed the fact that the political solution of the problem was not only important for Pakistan but for the Soviet Union as well. He also impressed upon the new Soviet leader the preliminary success achieved at the indirect talks held in Geneva on Afghanistan and the efforts that were going under the United Nations' auspices.

In reply to a question, he said both sides expressed the desire to have a further exchange of views and to compare notes at the appropriate level in the future. Gen Mohammad Ziaul Haq said he had an unscheduled meeting with the Soviet Communist Party general secretary. Pakistan, he said, was one of the few leaders who had met Andropov. [sentence as heard] It gave him an opportunity to have direct talks with the new leadership of the Soviet Union and to know their points of view. He hoped the new Soviet leadership would bring at least some [word indistinct].

The president said basically his vist to Moscow was to pay homage to the departed great leader of the Soviet Union, Brezhnev. However, he had the opportunity to meet a number of world leaders who had also come to attend the funeral of Brezhnev.

He said besides the U.S. Vice President Bush and the U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, he had a meeting with the foreign minister of China, Huang Hua. He also met the Turkish prime minister, Bulent Ulusu, and had an exchange of views with him on the Iran-Iraq war and the Organization of Islamic Conference. He said he also met the PLO chief Yasir 'Arafat and had firsthand information from him about the recent happenings in Lebanon and what was suffered by our Palestinian brothers. He said other leaders whom he met were the President of the FRG Carstens and Foreign Minister Genscher, Vice President of Indonesia Dr Adam Malik and Deputy Martial Law Administrator of Bangladesh Admiral Mahboob. He described his meetings with these heads of state and government as a useful experience.

Answering a question, the president said like many other friends of Pakistan, the United States was very happy and appreciative of the efforts of Pakistan to improve relations with its eastern neighbor, India. He said this was expressed by the U.S. Vice President George Bush during his meeting with him in Moscow. It was a very cordial and friendly meeting and held in a frank and forthright manner.

INDIAN DELEGATION ADVOCATES TRADE EXPANSION

GF161550 Karachi DAWN in English 13 Nov 82 p 10

[Text] Nov 12: The Indian traders have recently purchased ten million square yards of textile from Pakistan. Mr Virendera Punj, leader of the Indian traders delegation, said here on Friday that given the right kind of political and commercial conditions, scope existed for enlarging, to a very great extent, trade between Pakistan and India.

The Indian traders delegation has been in Pakistan for about 10 days and during this period has held talks with their Pakistani counterparts in many cities, including Lahore. The Indian team is now due to arrive tonight in Karachi at the last stage of its tour.

The Indian team leader appeared confident that the two countries could develop trade to their mutual advantage, if there was more communication and interaction among traders of the two countries.

As one of the tangible results of the present contacts between the Indian and Pakistani traders, the two sides decided to establish a joint committee which will meet once in three months to review trade between the two countries and seek to identify further areas of mutual cooperation and trade. Mr Punj said that low grade coal, soda ash, cement and textile were among host of commodities, which can be purchased from Pakistan. However, he emphasized that the items he mentioned by no means exhausted other possibilities.

The Indian team has also suggested that trade centers should be established in a number of cities by the two countries, which should help provide information about potential trade and joint venture avenues. He also suggested that Pakistan and India could possibly join hands in areas where they enjoy monopoly, while trading with third country. Such a course could be profitably adopted in Basmati rice export, Mr Punj said. It was very important that the existing information gap on trade affairs should be overcome to increase flow of two-way trade, he said.

The Indian team is expected to submit, on its return home, its report on its talks and conclusions to the Indian Government and hoped that Pakistani chambers would report and recommend to their government. Mr Punj said that the Indian team was of the view that the present facilities for overland trade, visits to each other countries by traders and trade information are required to be made easy and expanded to promote trade.

Mr Punj believed that there could be mutually beneficial transfer of technology between Pakistan and India and avenues for joint ventures and third country tendering could be seriously explored to the mutual advantage.

He did not agree with the contention that Indian trade and industry would overwhelm Pakistan's growing trade and industry, if there was larger flow of trade between the two countries. He said it was important for Pakistani traders to go out and seek trade in India, which offered a large market for Pakistani products. He pointed out that India was a country of 650 million and thus a potential good market for any country, willing to go for aggressive trade of its products. He said the Indian official goods list offered about 40,000 items for trade and did not discriminate against any country.

Mr Punj also contested the claim that India was willing only in buying Pakistan's raw material. He said that in fact, a lot of finished Pakistani goods can find market in India, but that had to be explored and captured by Pakistani traders. In this context, he pointed out, C.I.F. price counted a lot in promoting sale of one's products. They have to be competitive.

Mr Krishna D. Sharma, the Indian ambassador, who was present at the press conference, along with other members of the Punjab, Haryana and Delhi Chamber of Commerce and Industry, also expressed deep admiration for the reception accorded to the Indian team in Pakistan and hoped that it would lead to expansion of trade relations between the two countries.

Our forces made the Ba'thist infidels of the Zionist regime ruling over the Muslim nation of Iraq understand that we will do whatever is necessary at any time to restore our just rights. The combatants of the army of Islam, comprising the heroes of the Armed Forces of the Islamic Republic of Iran and the selfless personnel of the Guards Corps and the mobilization of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, in a coordinated operation entered the town of Mandali in Iraq, dealt heavy blows to the disintegrating and rotten corpse of the enemy and returned to their new strategic positions. FRIDAY PRAYERS LEADER COMMENTS ON WAR 12 NOV

[Text] Tehran, Nov 12, IRNA -- Hojjat ol-Eslam Emami-Kashani said today that the foreign media including both Eastern and Western oppressors were now propagating that the Islamic Republic had entered Iraqi territory and was seeking domination.

Speaking as the leader of Tehran's Friday prayers at Tehran University, Hojjat ol-Eslam Emami-Kashani said that Iran is only defending itself further saying that this was part of Iran's defence strategy.

Hoj. Kashani added that the Iranian city of Naftshahr was still under Iraqi occupation and innocent people were still being killed by the enemy's artillery shells and bombs and cities were also still being destroyed. He then questioned, "Do we have the right to stop from the Islamic point of view?"

Therefore, said the prayers leader, the whole of Iranian nation including the youth and elderly according to the sublime teachings of Islam should move to cut the hands of global oppressors with the help of God. "This is the Islamic duty", he said.

The Friday prayers leader then prayed to God for the downfall of the Zionist-inspired regime of Iraq and the liberation of its nation from Saddam's tyranny.

Discoursing on the military and spiritual power of the Islamic defenders, he said that no country's forces in the world possessed such a powerful combination and that it was an honour.

Talking about people's presence at the battlefields, Hojjat ol-Eslam Emami-Kashani said that the U.S. was frightened of the Islamic combatants recent victories. The U.S. announced the holding of provocative military maneuvers in Morocco.

Somalia, Sudan, Egypt, (?Oman), the most reactionary regimes in N. Africa and the Mideast have also conducted joint military maneuvers with the (?U.S.), he said.

He then urged regional countries to pay attention to the daily 300 million dollars revenue of the Persian Gulf oil exporting countries and to use it for the benefit of their people instead of bolstering the capitalist systems.

The leader of prayers continued that the (?U.S.) for a while succeeded in implementing such a policy in Iran during the shah's reign and took away a great portion of our wealth through that traitor. The agents of the U.S. and the shah spent great amounts of money for their pleasure both inside and out of the country, and after causing as much destruction as they could they fled. Presently the situation is the same in Saudi Arabia, he said.

The world oppressor through such crimes in Iran made the people miserable. Nevertheless, he continued, "our nation, under a righteous leadership, expelled them and, God willing, the [word indistinct] Islamic umma' will eventually rise and save all the Islamic lands from foreign [word indistinct] exploiters aligned with global oppression."

The leader of prayers then referred to the victories of the Islamic combatants in Kurdestan in identifying counterrevolutionaries.

Hojjat ol-Elsam Emami-Kashani added that however the enemies of the Islamic Republic gathered in Paris [word indistinct] in another way. He then said that Paris had become the theatre of a group of criminals such as Bani-Sadr, Mas'ud Rajavi (MKO leader), Ezzedin Hoseyni (a fugitive Kurdish leader), Reza Pahlavi and a group of thieves.

Of course he continued they could not do anything but talk nonsense. He mentioned an example a recent interview of [word indistinct] in which he said that the Kurds were being killed in Kurdestan while today, the prayers leader said, everyone whether Kurd, or Turk, Arab or Farbdor of any race was fighting against falsehood under the banner of [word indistinct]. They all prayed at congregational prayers, he said adding that, those who were executed in the Islamic Republic were neither Kurd, nor Muslim, nor Iranian but were agents of the U.S. Those who fled Iran and propagated against the Islamic Republic did not gain any success.

He concluded by saying that the Islamic ideology and its policies was clear to [word indistinct] seeking people.

COMMANDERS CITE SUCCESSES AGAINST 'SABOTEURS'

LD161318 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 16 Nov 82

[Excerpts] Ground Forces Commander Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi was received this morning by Imam Khomeyni. He briefed him on the victorious operations launched by the Islamic combatants in the southern sectors, particularly the western sector and the Hamzen Headquarters. The ground forces commander also submitted to Imam Khomeyni, commander in chief, a message from himself and Mohsen Reza'i, commander of the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps. The text of the message:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. As you are aware, simultaneously with the confrontation against the Saddamite infidels in the southern and western sectors -- resulting in daily inpressive victories for the Islamic army with the help of God Admighty and frightening the palace-dwellers in both West and East, a confrontation which is forcing the helpless Saddam to resort to genuflection before the so-called Islamic government leaders, who themselves are an instrument in the hands of super-criminals in the West and East -- we wish to point out that the mighty Islamic combatants have succeeded in inflicting crushing blows to their domestic saboteurs in the Kurdish-inhabited regions in Kurdestan and West Azarbayjan, thus dispatching the desperate leaders of the dependent splinter groups to join their confidents in Paris.

During these recent operations, supervised by Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada, and the joint operation headquarters of the armed forces and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, in the northwest sector, our combatants have managed to clear Sar Dasht-Piranshahr road, a road the counterrevolutionaries claimed to be invincible as to control. The road was cleared of counterrevolution despite its impassable condition, the existence of forests and its distance. Our combatants therefore have succeeded in applying further pressure on the U.S. throat and suffocating these democratic and Komeleh splinter minigroups with the help of the people, particulary the Sunni clergymen. More details of the operations will be made available to your eminence personally.

Addressing the commanders of the ground forces and the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps, Imam Khomeyni replied:

In the name of God, the compassionate, the merciful. Congratulate all Islamic combatants, particularly the combatants fighting the enemies of Islam in the Hamzeh Seyyed ash-Shohada theater, on my behalf. Islam and the committed Muslims are watching your impressive victories. You will never be forgotten by any of us; you are the dear sons of this nation. Your victory has rendered the nation proud. I do hope that this victory will hold until its final conclusion. I pray to God for the health and happiness of all combatants. I will not forget you in my prayers.

The colonel, in his message, also stressed identification and punishment of outlawed ringleaders, while adding that those who were beguiled by the counterrevolutionaries and asked for forgiveness, should be so that they would be perhaps guided to the right path of Islam. [sentence as received]

Colonel Sayyad-Shirazi then reminded the Islamic defenders to treat the oppressed and deprived people of Kurdestan and West Azarbaijan, warmly.

The commander also asked that people be allowed to participate in preserving the security of the region. Hashemi-Rafsanjani Comment

LD132358 Tehran IRNA in English 2002 GMT 13 Nov 82

[Text] Tehran, Nov 13, IRNA -- "A nation which has created a revolution and freed itself from domination of the U.S. and which has created a turning point for the Nonaligned Movement, does [words indistinct] countries [words indistinct] Yugoslavia [words indistinct] unfairly between a country which has been subjected to aggression (Iran) and an aggressor like the Iraqi regime," Rafsanjani said.

Majlis Speaker Hashemi-Rafsanjani told the Yugoslav foreign minsiter in a meeting today that the people of Iran found it difficult to accept that Yugoslavia was not considering justice. Said he, "We want you to confront the oppressor."

While praising the struggle for justice of the Yugoslavian people under the leadership of the late Marshal Tito, Rafsanjani said that the Islamic Republic considered the Non-aligned Movement organisation to be a determinant element in today's world and emphasised that the organisation should be purged of such elements like Jordan and Saudi Arabia which were propagating the policies of the U.S. He said that as long as such dependent countries and satellite countries existed in the Non-Aligned Movement, it was natural (?that) the people of the world would not accept the true non-aligned status of the organisation.

The only way to strengthen the position of the Non-aligned Movement is through the close cooperation of its members and by helping to solve each others problems. [Word indistinct] that there would no longer be a need for the big powers.

"If a sincere and serious relationship is established between the basic and important members of the non-aligned, away from common diplomatic language, certainly we (the non-aligned) would be a true force facing the two eastern and western [word indistinct]" Rafsanjani said.

The speaker of the Majlis said that the non-aligned should act firmly in order for it to have a continuous presence in the international scene.

"It requires an active centre so that it can express the viewpoints of the non-aligned concerning the daily developments in the world, and this movement needs a joint news media so that it can reflect its views, and an economic centre in order to show its economic presence anywhere necessary and to prove the real strength of the non-aligned to the people. We should act more seriously than in the past with new initiatives. And in this case we would be even stronger than the United Nations".

Then the Yugoslav Foreign Minister Lazar Mojsov asked the speaker to express his views on the war between Iran and Iraq, and Rafsanjani said that if Yugoslavia was interested in seeing an end to the war, it should come out and announce the aggressor and call for its withdrawal of troops from the Islamic Republic.

He said that with the present status on the peace delegations the war would not come to an end. It would either end in the defeat of Iraq, or would continue even longer. "Of course if we became disappointed with the mediators we will act more seriously and would end the war ourselves," he added.

The representative of Imam Khomeyni in the Supreme Defence Council then pointed out Iraqi's many acts of destruction during its more than two years of occupation of Iranian territory, and said that if one looked at the figures of destruction caused by the Iraqi aggression, it would be soon learned that the Islamic Republic was the one which was subjected to Iraqi aggression.

He said that if the lovers of peace really wanted peace, they should make a correct judgement on the war.

In concluding comments, the visiting foreign minister said that Yugoslavia would follow the events of the region with great interest. [Words indistinct] that he sincerely hoped that the war would come to an end as soon as possible so that the foreign forces would not have the chance to create dissention. He also conveyed the greetings of the Yugoslav president to Imam Khomeyni.

Mojsov Departure for Moscow

LD141340 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 14 Nov 82

[Text] According to a report by the Central News Unit, the Yugoslav foreign minister, after a 3-day stay in our country and meetings with officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran, left Tehran this afternoon. At Mehrabad Airport, he was seen off by Foreign Affairs Minister Velayati and several other officials.

Before leaving Tehran, the Yugoslav federal secretary for foreign affairs in an interview referred to his visit to Iran as fruitful: During this visit, made at the formal invitation of Mr Velayati, talks were held with officials of the Islamic Republic of Iran on expanding bilateral relations, on international issues and on the conference of the nonaligned countries in New Delhi. Emphasizing the need to expand bilateral relations, he concluded: Now we will use all the abilities needed for cooperation in all fields, including political, economic and cultural fields. I hope these talks will continue in the future.

SHARI'ATMADARI'S SON-IN-LAW SENTENCED

GF161127 (Clandestine) Seda-ye Iran Radio in Persian 1930 GMT 15 Nov 82

[Text] It was announced in Tehran today that Ahmad 'Abbasi, Ayatollah Shari'atmadari's son-in-law, whose file was considered incomplete at the time of Qotbzadeh's execution, has been sentenced to 10 years under house arrest by the army revolution tribunal. Hamad 'Abbasi was accused of providing financial aid to Qotbzadeh's group. 'Abdorreza Hejazi, who also was arrested as an accomplice of Khomeyni's former foreign minister and had been called a pseudoclergyman by the officials of the regime from the start, was given a 7-month sentence and defrocked.

Therefore, the infamous file of the plot against the Islamic Republic and the leaders of the regime is closed. Even though a number of political and religious leaders called for the trial of Ayatollah Shari'atmadari with a great deal of uproar after the arrest of Qotbzadeh and his allies, it seems that the issue is now closed, since after Qotbzadeh's remarks about Ayatollah Shari'atmadari, and especially following his television interview and a plea for clemency for his son-in-law brought about by mental and physical pressure caused by the threat of the death of his son-in-law and other relatives, this old and ill source of emulation no longer looks like a source of danger for the regime.

CLANDESTINE VIEWS MESHKINI'S 'DOUBLE TALK'

GF161652 (Clandestine) Voice of Iran in Persian 0330 GMT 16 Nov 82

[Text] Mullah Meshkini, Qom's professional mourner who is also Mullah Montazeri's bodyguard and double, has said that the road to Jerusalem will open to Iran soon. Meshkini, who is an opponent of Tehran's Tudehis and periodically attacks Moscow on orders of Montazeri also said: You can see that Islam is not the opium of the society.

Political experts believe this double talk by Meshkini, Montazeri's assistant, is because following the selection of a number of executioners to replace Khomeyni, Montazeri had always attacked the hostage issue and believed that the United States must not be angered. According to our correspondent, should Montazeri move to Tehran, Meshkini will become more powerful in Qom and achieve his long-term ambition of becoming the head of the clerical council.

NVOI COMMENTARIES EXAMINE AFGHAN SITUATION

Afghan Backing Urged

TA081649 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 6 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary: "One Should Take the Side of Revolutionary Afghanistan"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: The U.S. imperialists actively are continuing to implement their conspiracies against the revolution of the meek of democratic Afghanistan. This time it was the turn of William Smith, U.S. attorney general, who during his trip to Pakistan visited one of the camps of the fugitive Afghan counterrevolutionaries. These Afghan counterrevolutionary murdering bands operate in the same manner as elements of the counterrevolution in our own homeland. The only difference is that, in our homeland, they plot against the revolution and the imam's popular and anti-imperialist line, and in Afghanistan, they commit sabotage and murder, under the mask of the so-called guardians of Islam and Islamic mojahidin, against a government that safeguards the interests of the working people of this land.

At the camps of the Afghan counterrevolutionary bands in Pakistan and in strategic bases and areas in which more than 80 counterrevolutionary bands have been stationed, training is given in the use of various weapons, including U.S. chemical weapons. After receiving training, these mercenaries are sent into Afghan territory to set fire to residential areas, mosques, schools and hospitals and to massacre unarmed people. All these crimes and killings are directed by the United States. In accordance with a statement by the U.S. President in March 1981, the U.S. Government openly and frankly acknowledged its participation in an undeclared war against Afghanistan, and reiterated that in the future too it intended to provide the Afghan counterrevolutionary bands with weapons.

Now, Mr Smith, the U.S. attorney general, has promised these murdering and fugitive bands in the name of President Reagan, that in the future as well they will be able to utilize U.S. aid which presently is well over $200 million.

In the United States itself as well, the multifarious Afghan counterrevolutionary mini-groups operate under the supervision and support of official U.S. authorities and also have formed an organization by the so-called name of the Committee of Solidarity whose task is to coordinate the activity of the Afghan counterrevolutionaries abroad and to supply them with funds and weapons. The heads and ringleaders of these criminal bands are received with great fanfare in Washington. At the beginning of this year, a delegation consisting of U.S. senators met with the leaders of the Afghan counterrevolutionary organizations in Peshawar.

The United States is trying to render an international aspect to the undeclared war against Afghanistan. For this reason, in Washington they are pulling Pakistan, which has been transformed into the Pentagon's new base, into this affair. Egyptian experts train the Afghan counterrevolutionary mercenaries and Saudi Arabia provides them with funds. The faces of the so-called Israeli Zionist advisers also can be seen in this unholy alliance of the enemies of the Afghan revolution.

Now, the question posed is: What should be the stand of our Islamic Republic to all this? Should our homeland be on the side of regimes dependent on America and Israel or the side of the brother and Muslim nation of revolutionary Afghanistan?

Some time ago, Babrak Karmal, head of the Afghan Government, declared: Our country consistently desires the consolidation and development of mutually beneficial relations, friendship and cooperation with brother Muslim countries in the joint struggle for peace, disarmament, human rights and the progress of mankind. The Afghan Government repeatedly has proposed to the Islamic Republic of Iran that talks be held for the purpose of preparing a draft agreement on the expansion of friendly relations and all-out mutually beneficial cooperation between the two countries, including broad commercial, economic, transport and cultural relations. The acceptance of this proposal signifies taking a step toward implementing the goals of the glorious revolutions of the Iranian and Afghan nations.

Ministry Approach Assailed

TA111525 (Clandestine) National Voice of Iran in Persian to Iran 1730 GMT 9 Nov 82

[Unattributed commentary: "(?Some) Wrong Tendencies in Our Homeland's Foreign Policy"]

[Text] Dear compatriots: Some time ago, the minister of foreign affairs of the Islamic Republic of Iran signed a document with 'Abd as-Salam Jallud, prime minister [as heard] and member of the Revolutionary Command Council of Libya. One of the issues mentioned in ths document is the Afghan problem. While putting forward such issues as respect for the rights of nations, cutting off the hands of imperialism from the region and creating a climate of peace and good will -- which are endorsed by all those who desire peace, calm and the independence and freedom of peoples -- certain specific points regarding a settlement of problems pertaining to Afghanistan and the cessation of the plots of imperialism and reaction have been considered in this document by the two sides, which has the support of all true revolutionary forces.

If the proposal of trilateral talks with the participation of the Governments of Iran, Pakistan and Afghanistan -- mentioned in this document -- is transformed from the proposal stage to the practical and implementation stage, it will create favorable ground for solving outstanding problems and for creating good will.

Basically, the issues affirmed in the above-mentioned document for a long time have been in the current agenda of the struggles of the Iranian people and the people of revolutionary Afghanistan, and their achievement is tantamount to the fulfillment of the revolutionary aims of the people of both countries.

We are aware that the U.S. imperialists are striving to expose to danger the security of the region and the independence of Iran's neighboring countries so that by this they would be able to impose their will on the people of these countries and violate their legitimate rights. For this reason, focusing attention on cutting off the hands of imperialism from the region and establishing peace and good will among the peoples of this region are of great importance.

As we pointed out, the other issue in this document is the problem of the withdrawal of a limited contingent of Soviet military forces from Afghanistan. Some time ago, referring to this problem, Babrak Karmal said this limited military contingent came to the country at the request of the Afghan Government. Babrak Karmal added: As long as full and guaranteed assurance is not obtained on noninterference of all kinds by the imperialists and foreign countries in the internal affairs of this country, the limited contingent of Soviet military forces also will be present in this country upon the request of the Afghan Government. In view of this fact, it is evident that the cessation of the interference of the imperialists and other countries from abroad in the internal affairs of Afghanistan automatically will remove the causes that led the Afghan Government to request the presence of a limited contingent of Soviet military forces.

The signing of the aforementioned document by the Iranian foreign minister and 'Abd as-Salam Jallud caused the satisfaction of the true revolutionary forces and all patriots because it was expected that Iran as soon as possible would reassess its attitude toward our neighboring country, Afghanistan, and would resolve outstanding problems between the two countries through negotiations. However, at a special press conference in which the [word indistinct] and contents of that same document were mentioned, our homeland's Ministry of Foreign Affairs remained silent about the basic point: the very provocations, plots and subversive plans of U.S. imperialism.

This is evidence of a wrong trend in foreign policy and of incorrect stands adopted by officials of our homeland's Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Such a shift in our homeland's foreign policy -- the fate of which was at one time in the hands of the Qotbzadehs -- cannot but cause the concern of the people and the true revolutionary forces. It is appropriate that officials of our homeland's Ministry of Foreign Affairs put an end to those shifts detrimental to the real interests of the revolution of our homelands' people.

In Principle 152 of our country's Constitution, it is stipulated that the foreign policy of the Islamic Republic of Iran is based on rejecting any sort of domination and [word indistinct], maintaining the all-out independence and territorial integrity of the country, defending the rights of all Muslims, nonalignment in the face of hegemonic powers, and mutual peaceful relations with nonbelligerent governments. Doesn't this principle suffice to terminate forever any sort of discord and wrong tendencies and unprincipled standpoints which regretfully now prevail in our homeland's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and to direct the activities of this ministry to be coordinated and unified with the real interests of the people and the masses and toward the imam's popular and anti-imperialist lines?

GF151814 Zahedan Domestic Service in Persian 1330 GMT 15 Nov 82

[Text] According to a Central News Unit report from Zahedan, Afghan brothers residing in Zahedan yesterday afternoon staged a protest march against the merciless aggression of the Soviet despotic regime.

After they passed Azadi and Imam Khomeyni Avenues, the marchers moved toward the 17 Shahrivar Stadium in Zahedan, where they assembled. One of the Afghan brothers spoke on the ruthless usurpation of the Soviet despotic regime of the homes of the Afghan people. You, the Afghan nation who has the same God, the same prophet and the same holy book should unite and all your Islamic groups should merge to achieve final victory and with the solidarity that emerges, you can resist the real enemy.

At the end of these ceremonies, an 8-point resolution was adopted. In a section of this resolution, the Afghan brothers demanded the withdrawal of the Soviet usurpers from Afghanistan and pledged their unflinching support to the leadership of the imam of the nation, the dear Khomeyni.

Lebanon

Saudi Backing -- President Amin al-Jumayyil told the Cabinet that Saudi Arabia has expressed support for Lebanon in all matters, particularly the withdrawal of Israeli and all non-Lebanese forces from Lebanon, Beirut radio reported. According to Voice of Lebanon radio, Saudi King Fahd has accepted an invitation from Al-Jumayyil to visit Lebanon at the earliest opportunity.

Security Situation -- Christian and Druze militia continued to exchange sniper fire in 'Alayh despite the Israeli curfew on the town, Jerusalem radio reported. The Beirut-Damascus highway and local roads in the Ash-Shuf hills were closed to traffic and the Israelis sent reinforcements into the region, according to Jerusalem and Voice of Lebanon radios. The clandestine radio Free Lebanon later reported that the Israelis have arrested nine Druze for their part in the 8 November attack on a Christian funeral procession at Kafr Nabrakh.

Haddad Testimony -- "Free Lebanon" Commander Maj Sa'd Haddad told the Israeli commission of inquiry into the Beirut massacre that his soldiers were not in Beirut at the time of the massacre and that former Lebanese Prime Minister Sa'ib Salam falsely accused Haddad's militia of the killings after being told by Saudi Arabia to cover up the true perpetrators, IDF radio reported. Haddad said his men wear the same uniform as the Phalangists, because it comes from "the same restaurant."

Syria

Talks With Congressmen, Al-Jumayyil -- Syria has submitted several inquiries to the U.S. administration about President Ronald Reagan's peace plan and has also submitted other inquiries about the results of the Arab seven-member delegation's visit to Washington, President Hafiz al-Asad informed a visiting U.S. congressional delegation in remarks reported by Damascus radio. Syria wants peace "but we must first guarantee the availability of its elements," Al-Asad continued. The Syrian leader stressed that Israel's withdrawal from Arab territories occupied in 1967 and the rights of the Palestinian people are not negotiable issues. Asserting that peace is possible only if "compatibility" exists between the antagonists, Al-Asad told the congressmen that the continuation of U.S. aid to Israel prevents such compatibility and encourages Israel to continue its "aggression" and defiance of U.S. public opinion.

President al-Asad subsequently discussed bilateral issues in a telephone conversation with Lebanese President al-Jumayyil, SANA reported. According to Beirut radio, Al-Asad expressed gratification for Al-Jumayyil's current political moves.

Talas on Syrian Strength -- Defense Minister Gen Mustafa Talas declared that Syria is now stronger than at any time before in terms of weapons and will to fight the enemy, Radio Monte Carlo reported.

PLO

Addressing graduates of a PLO military course in Syria, PLO Deputy Military Commander Khalil al-Wazir said on 16 November that the Palestinians' battle with Israel is continuing and that no Palestinian militant will recognize Israel as long as it tries to usurp Palestinian rights, KUNA reported. Al-Wazir asserted that military operations against Israeli troops in Lebanon are the answer to those who claim that the Palestinian Revolution will never give up armed struggle, he vowed.

Inter-Arab Affairs

Addressing a news conference in Paris, Jordan's King Husayn reiterated that a comprehensive Middle East peace cannot be achieved unless the Palestinians are given a "leading role" in the peace negotiations, KUNA reported. The monarch added that he favors "some form of mutual recognition" between Israel and the Palestinians. However, Amman radio noted that King Husayn also condemned Israel's expansionist tendency during the news conference and asserted that Israel is hampering efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement. KUNA stated that King Husayn will head the seven-member Arab League delegation to Moscow and Beijing in early December.

Israel

Prime Minister Menahem Begin told an Egyptian special envoy that he wants to meet President Husni Mubarak after the end of his mourning period for 'Aliza Begin, MA'ARIV reported.

Iraq

The formation of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq was announced in Tehran by the council's spokesman, Tehran radio reported. The spokesman said the council's goals include continuing the crusade against the Iraqi regime, forming an Islamic government in Iraq and supporting Iran as the base of the global Islamic revolution. The group considers itself the sole vehicle for liberating the Iraqi people and says that its future form and leadership in Iraq will be determined only by the Muslim people of Iraq.

Iran

Government forces liberated 15 km of the Sar Dasht-Mahasad road and completely cleared 15 villages of "counterrevolutionaries," Tehran radio claimed. The clandestine Free Voice of Iran radio contradicted earlier Tehran radio reports that the Kurdish Democratic Party's radio station was destroyed. The government forces destroyed one transformer, not the transmitter; while the radio cannot be heard throughout the country, it continues to broadcast and can be heard in the border areas, the Free Voice of Iran added.

POLICE CRACK 'MAJOR' PAKISTANI SPY RING

BK171729 Hong Kong AFP in English 1719 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] New Delhi, Nov. 17 (AFP) -- The special branch of Delhi police has cracked a major Pakistan spy ring operating in the Defence Ministry here, Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency reported tonight.

Three junior government officials, whose names were still kept secret, were arrested last week. Their houses were searched by the special branch.

The three have been remanded to police custody for further questioning and also charged with offences under the Official Secrets Act

The police managed to track down the spies following a tape recording statement by an "unidentified" informer.

According to the INDIAN EXPRESS this morning, the arrested, working in the sensitive research and development office of the ministry, had been regularly handing over highly classified information to the Pakistani Embassy.

The material which had been passed on to the Pakistanis was classified documents on the army, electronic data processing and minutes of top-secret defense meeting.

According to the paper, the spies were caught red-handed by the police last Saturday as they were in the act of taking back defence papers from their Pakistani contact, Nawab Mohammed, who works as a clerk in the embassy's visa section.

Mr. Mohammed was questioned by the police but later released and handed over to the Pakistan's naval attache here, the paper said.

After intensed interrogation the arrested reportedly broke down and confessed. They said they had been handing over documents to the Pakistanis for the last four years.

Their original contact was Capt. Masood who had since left the country, the paper said. Mr. Masood passed on his contacts to his successor.

Meanwhile, confirming the report, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said there appeared to be some errors in regard to details given in the paper.

The government was investigating the matter, he said without elaborating.

MOSCOW TALKS SHOULD HELP IMPROVE ATMOSPHERE

BK171202 Karachi Domestic Service in English 1700 GMT 16 Nov 82

[Commentary by Nasir Haider]

[Text] In his chat with pressmen before his departure for Moscow to attend the late Soviet President Brezhnev's funeral, President Ziaul Haq had hinted that he might avail of the opportunity to broach the subject of Afghanistan with the new leadership of the Kremlin while he was in Moscow. The opportunity presented itself readily enough when Yuriy Andropov, the new secretary general of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, invited the president for private talks almost immediately after the funeral rites had been performed and the guests returned to their residences on Monday afternoon.

President Ziaul Haq was one of the very few -- about three or four -- important visitors to Moscow on this occasion to be so honored. The official account of the meeting released soon after named Afghanistan as a principal topic discussed, though the Pakistan president was also believed to have briefed the Soviet leader on his recent trips to China and other countries as well as his talks with Mrs Gandhi during his stopover at New Delhi on his way to Bangkok earlier this month.

Mrs Gandhi is also reported to have met Andropov the same afternoon. Foreign Minister Sahabzada Yaqub Khan accompanied the Pakistan president at the meeting in the Kremlin at which Soviet Foreign Minister Andrey Gromyko was also present. This clearly raises the significance of the meeting from a mere courtesy call to a serious official discussion at the policy level -- the more so in the light of the fact that Gromyko has already had more than one occasion of meeting Sahabzada Yaqub Khan at Geneva and New York. These meetings were also concerned with the question of Afghanistan.

Pakistan for herself has stressed for a political solution by negotiations all along. She has also striven to hold her relationship with her superpower neighbor at an even keel. She has not allowed the contrary stances -- the country's hold on Afghanistan -- to interfere with normal diplomatic intercourse between the two countries in the bilateral relations.

With the new leadership in the saddle in Moscow, it is but natural that the steps taken should (?rise) for a modification of this attitude which has soured the atmosphere in the region.

President Zia's talks with Andropov should eminently help this process and provide to the new leader of the Kremlin with the most up to date briefing on the situation on Russia's southern border which has attracted utmost attention from the rest of the world and on which the prospects for peace in this region so largely hang.

The officials' account of the talks between the two leaders have emphasized the cordiality that prevailed at the meeting as well as the fact that the discussion on Afghanistan was held at the level of principles which should govern the peaceful resolution of the tangle. This is it as it should be.

NAWA-I-WAQT APPEALS TO ZIA FOR NEW GOVERNMENT

GF121626 Karachi NAWA-I-WAQT in Urdu 1 Nov 82 p 3

[Editorial: "An Appeal to the President and His Esteemed Colleagues"]

[Excerpts] The most important issue as far as the masters of the country's administration is concerned is that of peace and security. However, from the national point of view, what is of utmost and fundamental importance is the need to assess where we stand and where we are headed, that is, the need to understand the trend of the current state of affairs.

Whatever the government's opinion in this regard, there are certain events which are becoming the focus of the people's attention as well as apprehension and anxiety, and it will be to the advantage of those at the helm of affairs if they elucidate their stand with free and unbiased minds, as it will be to the benefit of the common man.

Heading the list is the problem of what is to be envisaged as the future form of government, that is, in what way will people be made to participate in the country's government. The government has been promising to explain this for the last 3 yars but basically this is a problem which should have been tackled first of all. Although the work of updating the lists of candidates has begun, the issue of whether there will be any elections at all is still clouded. The president does assure foreign correspondents that elections will be held but when our own people try to obtain definite information on the matter, they do not get any positive reply. In the same atmosphere of evasion it is reiterated from time to time that elections will be held and at the same time a roundtable conference has been called to strengthen the demand for the elections. It is also being said that a campaign will be started for the elections.

As far as the country's lawyers are concerned, this campaign has already begun and has reached a point where the lawyers wear black bands and even boycott sessions. The intelligentsia, which does not favor internal agitation in view of the external threats to the country, is also compelled to listen to the circles talking of agitation and protest and cannot reject such talk when it does not receive a satisfactory answer to the question of where we are going. They are obliged to maintain silence which strengthens the position of the elements demanding protests and agitation. These elements will now exploit the recent arrest of the Red Shirt leader Khan Abdul Ghaffar Khan to their own advantage.

Foreign trips are an important and effective means of promoting the country's interests but these are effective only in proportion to the stability of the conditions at home.

The means of dissemination at the disposal of the government are multifarious but unless the people accept the official point of view and profess the same themselves, the repeated declaration of the official stance does not have any effect as was seen in the time of Ayub Khan and Bhutto. On the contrary, it promotes boredom. Therefore, an appeal to the President and his esteemed colleagues does not seem out of place so they will pay as much attention to creating goodwill and trust within the country as to "goodwill trips" abroad, and they will endeavor to probe the feelings and aspirations of the people and strive to change their way of thinking and acting.

LD171320 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] The Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq was formed in Tehran today and announced its existence. Please pay attention to a report we have just received.

During special ceremonies today, attended by representatives of struggling clergy and Muslim revolutionaries from Iraq at Tehran's Esteqlal Hotel, with several correspondents of the mass media and foreign and domestic news agencies persent, the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq announced its formation.

At the ceremonies, the council's inaugural statement first was distributed among those present in Persian, Arabic and English.

Hojjat ol-Eslam Seyyed Muhammad (Bakr al-Hakim) then described to reporters the aim of the formation of the council. Presenting himself as the council's spokesman, he then answered questions from reporters regarding the aims, planning and modus operandi of the council.

Hojjat ol-Eslam (Hakim) said:

This council has been formed at a time when the blessed memory of the martyr Ayatollah Sadr and his struggling sister [executed 3 years ago] is shining and more than 5,000 combatants of the Iraqi Islamic revolution have been martyred by the Zionist regime of that country; when at the moment over 100,000 are in prison and a large number of Iraqi Muslims have been deported from that country because they believe in Islamic regulations; and when 100,000 people have been killed for no purpose in an unwanted war.

He said the council's aims are: to follow up and continue the crusade against imperialism and the 'Aflaqist, criminal regime of Baghdad based on Islamic ideology until victory; to free the Muslim people of Iraq from all kinds of dependence, domination and exploitation, based on a just Islamic government under the leadership of the clerical rule; to pursue the Islamic principle of neither East nor West in political issues; to crusade against world colonialist powers and their mercenaries; to maintain independence from all forms of military, political and cultural dependence on East and West, or their spheres of influence; to believe in the Islamic Republic of Iran as a base for the global Islamic revolution and to support its ideological stands in confrontation against world blasphemy.

The Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution of Iraq's plans and responsibilities are:

1. To determine the political, military and propaganda direction of the Islamic revolution in Iraq.

2. To make decisions suitable to conditions at each stage of the Islamic revolution, until victory.

3. To motivate political forces in a unified direction, by creating coordination and cooperation among them.

The council also considers itself the sole vehicle for self-sacrifice, struggle, accepting responsibilities and serving the liberation of the Muslim people of Iraq and the Islamic revolution in Iraq. Its future form and leadership in Iraq, after the overthrow of the satan, will be determined only by the Muslim offspring and the oppressed people of Iraq, although we believe that on the basis of its principles and the sacrifices the movement has made for them, the Iraqi people will choose only an Islamic regime and an Islamic leadership.

In conclusion, all Muslim umma' of Iraq and all genuine and benevolent forces are invited to cooperate in shouldering the burden of historic responsibilities at this destiny-shaping time and to endeavor seriously to topple the criminal satanic regime of Iraq, a regime that has imposed subservience, tragedies and countless destruction upon the Iraqi people. It is up to everybody to beware of imperialist plots and conspiracies trying to replace other suspicious pawns for this regime.

LD171324 Tehran Domestic Service in Persian 1030 GMT 17 Nov 82

[Text] The Cabinet this morning held a session chaired by Prime Minister Mir Hoseyn-Musavi. While studying the latest reports from the battlefronts and political and social developments in the region, discussions were held on the domestic issues of the country and certain decisions were made in this session. According to the Central News Unit, after today's Cabinet session, Prime Minister Mir Hoseyn-Musavi said in an interview: In today's session, after studying the latest reports from the battlefronts, reports were presented to the Cabinet by the brothers who had gone to Esfahan to take part in the funeral of the martyrs from that self-sacrificing and heroic city. This report was greeted with the Cabinet's appreciation for the martyr-nurturing spirit of the people of Esfahan.

Musavi added: The spirit prevailing in that champion city at the moment is similar to the attitude of the nation on 11 February and the days immediately after the victory of the Islamic revolution. Certainly, the entire nation enjoys the same spirit. We are proud to be serving such self-sacrificing people.

The prime minister added: The honor achieved by Esfahan in the self-sacrifice is truly unique throughout the country. He added: In today's session, Morteza Nabavi also presented a report to the Cabinet concerning his trip to the city and its industrial complexes. Discussions about the reconstruction of the war zones followed.

At the end of this session, during which a number of bills and resolutions were approved, a report was presented to the Cabinet on the activities of the Ministry of Culture and Higher Education, the decision of that ministry to reopen universities and the difficulties it has encountered in this connection. In view of the importance of the matter, the general feeling of the Cabinet was that the universities should be reopened as soon as possible so that, God willing, they may train the necessary specialized manpower.

Concerning the results of the visit of Yugoslavia's foreign secretary, the prime minister said: Yugoslavia is one of the founding members of the Nonaligned Movement. Naturally, these meetings will not only result in the expansion of our relations with Yugoslavia, but also with the Nonaligned Movement which is among the relatively healthy international organizations. He added: During this visit, the positions of the Islamic Republic of Iran concerning various issues were clarified and it was emphasized that if the Nonaligned Movement wants to portray itself in the world as an active force, it should renounce its inactive posture so that it can have a stronger position concerning the big powers and the arrogance of the East and West. Musavi added: We also emphasized that if the Nonaligned Movement doesn't adopt an indifferent attitude toward the issues confronting the world, if it tries to adopt a positive stand on issues on the basis of the principles of the Nonaligned Movement and if it emphasizes quality more than quantity, it will be successful.

Referring to the increase in commercial and economic exchanges between Iran and Yugoslavia after the victory of the Islamic revolution and the visit of the Yugoslav foreign secretary to Iran, the prime minister said: Such visits can further strengthen and expand the exchanges between the two countries based on the interests of our nation.
